THE FAMILY

GREYDANUS

A genealogy, translated from the Dutch

IR. M. R. IDEMA GREIDANUS

English edition by

SAMUEL JAMES GREYDANUS

THE HAGUE 1936 · 2026

Contents

How to read this book 3
Where the ancestors lived 4
The Family 5
Preface 6
Brief Explanations and Annotations 10
List of Books, Periodicals, Serial Works, Illustrations, Plates and Prints 18 Survey and Contents 22
Chapter I 23
Chapter II 27
Chapter III 32
Descriptions of the Inhabitants of "De Greyde" at Franeker 59
Chapter IV 81
Chapter V 211
First Generation 213
Second Generation 215
Third Generation 230
Fourth Generation 294
Fifth Generation 386
Sixth Generation 455
Seventh Generation 549
Eighth Generation 627
Ninth Generation 729
Tenth Generation 845
Eleventh Generation 893
Overview and Contents of the Genealogy 898
List of the Genealogical Diagrams and of the Tables 930 List of the Illustrations 932
Portraits 960
List of the Handmarks and the Master's Marks 972
List of the Families of Which Illustrations and 973
Index of the First Names of the Male Members of the Family "Greydanus" 974
Index of the First Names of the Female Members of the Family "Greydanus" 986
Index of the Occupations, Positions and Some Functions of the Members of... 995
Index of Places Mentioned in the Genealogy Where Adult Members of the... 1009
Index of the Alliances of the Family "Greydanus" 1029
Index of the Names of the Families Not Related to the Family "Greydanus" 1048 Postscript 1066

How to read this book

This is an English edition of Het Geslacht Greydanus, the genealogy of the Greydanus family published by Ir. M. R. Idema Greidanus in 1936. The text is a translation of the whole book; nothing has been shortened or rewritten. The few things added for this edition are described below.

The numbering

Every descendant of the progenitor Tjaerd Jans receives a number, N° 1 to 979, generation by generation. The genealogy (Chapter V onwards) gives one entry per number, in order, so a number is the quickest way to find anyone. Wives and husbands who married into the family carry no number of their own and are described within their spouse's entry. A handful of children born while the book was being printed were added at the end with numbers such as 961[a].

Reading an entry

Each entry opens with the person's number and name, then the line of descent: the number and first name of the father or mother, then the grandparent, and so on back to N° 1. A Roman numeral such as 67[II] means the line runs through that ancestor's second marriage. Every step is a link.

Below it, for this edition, a summary line gives birth, death, parents and marriages, taken from the entry itself, and small portraits of the person and their spouse where the book has them. The book prints its portraits on seven fold-out sheets at the back; these are kept there in full, and each small portrait links to its place on the sheets.

Family groups are introduced by a heading such as "Children of Cornelis Ymteszoon Greijdanus (N° 353) and Klaaske Seeklesdochter Idserda", followed by the marriage and the numbers of the father's line.

Conventions

The author marks asides with slashes, /like this/; here they are printed in parentheses. Names are never translated and keep the spellings of the sources: Greydanus, Greidanus and Greijdanus are all the same family, and patronymics such as Ymteszoon (son of Ymte) and Jansdochter (daughter of Jan) are part of the name. Dates keep the Dutch order, day–month–year. Old offices, coins and measures keep their Dutch name with a short explanation in brackets.

Abbreviations: b. born · bapt. baptised · m. or × married · d. or † died · bur. buried · N° number · Ds. minister of the Reformed Church · Dr. doctor · Mr. master of laws · Ir. engineer · car.gl., ggl. Carolus and golden guilders · st. stuiver.

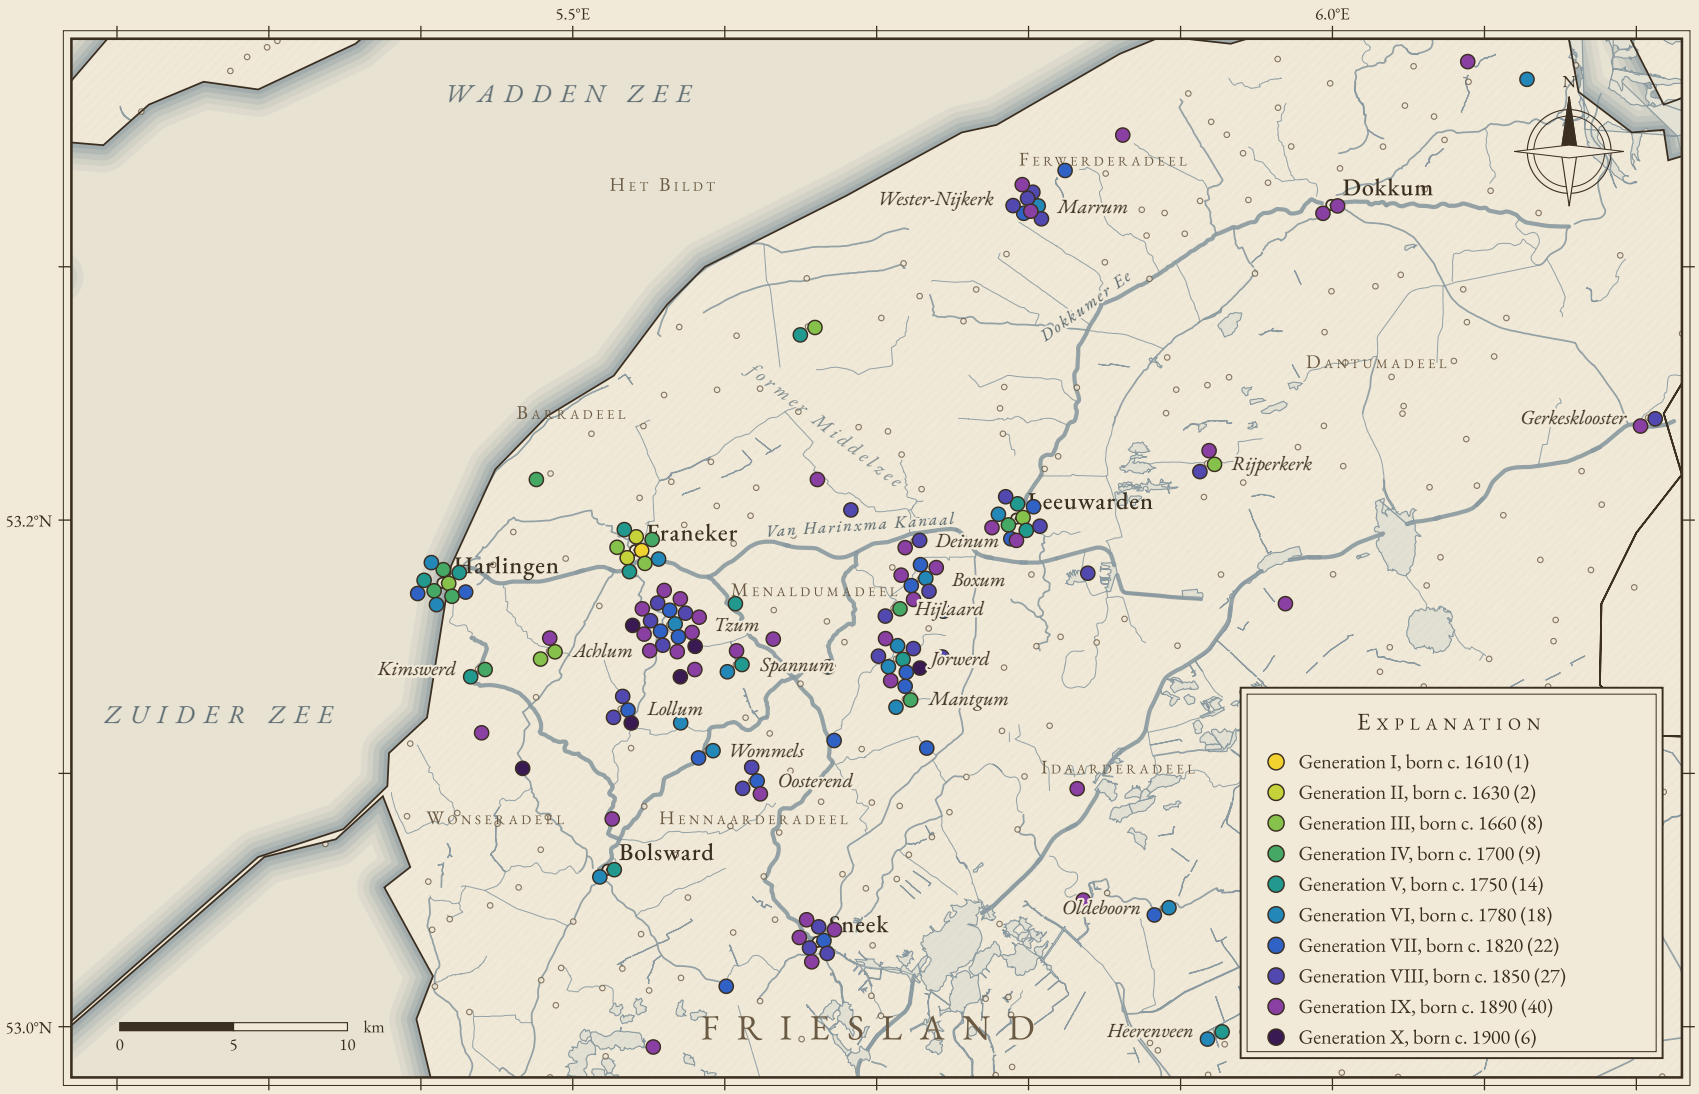
Birth, marriage and death notices from newspapers are set as small framed notices. Documents that the book reproduces as facsimiles appear as photographs; on the website their transcription can be opened beneath them.

Page numbers and notes

The small numbers in the margin are the page numbers of the 1936 book. The author's cross-references ("see page 559") refer to those, and are links here. Footnotes are printed at the end of the original page they belong to. Notes in grey square brackets come from the transcription of the scanned copy and describe that copy, not the book.

Where the ancestors lived

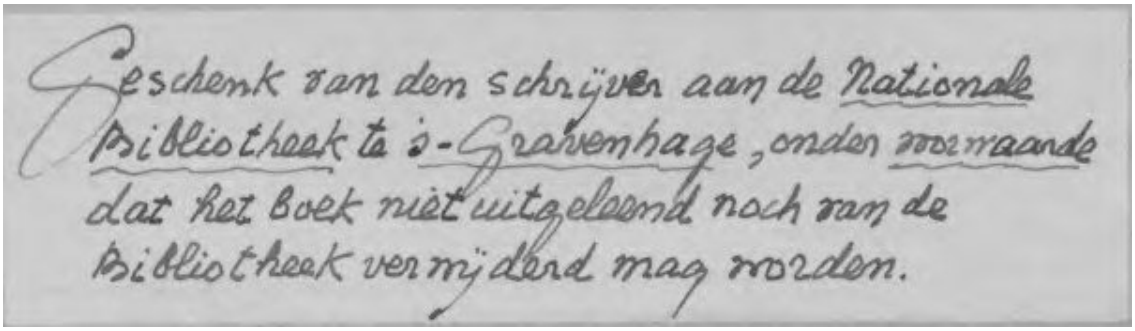
Greydanus ancestors in the Netherlands



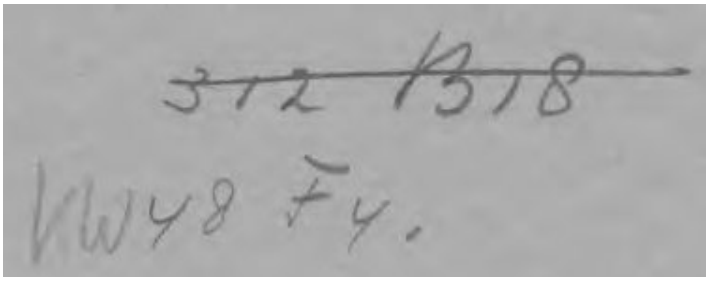
Each mark is one member of the family in the 1936 book who had children, placed where last recorded as living or, failing that, where born; the generations are those of the book.
52 more lived elsewhere in the Netherlands and 12 abroad, among them Paterson, New Jersey and Manhattan, Montana. Waterways and villages © OpenStreetMap contributors.

THE FAMILY

GREYDANUS



[handwritten donation label pasted on the inside front cover; no printed caption]



[shelfmarks written in pencil below the label; no printed caption]

[the same donation label appears a second time at the very bottom edge of the scan, showing only the first two lines: "Gift from the author to the Nationale / Bibliotheek in 's-Gravenhage, on condition"]

THE GREYDANUS FAMILY

GREIJDANUS, GREIDANUS, PLUYM GREIDANUS, IDEMA GREIDANUS, VAN WIMERSMA GREIDANUS

[handwritten accession number "422441." at the top left of the page]

HET GESLACHT GREYDANUS

GREIJDANUS, GREIDANUS, PLUYM GREIDANUS, IDEMA GREIDANUS, VAN WIMERSMA GREIDANUS

Ir. M. R. IDEMA GREIDANUS

[otherwise blank verso of the title page, carrying only an oval library stamp]

[stamp: NATIONALE BIBLIOTHEEK, around a crowned coat of arms with lion supporters]

TO MY "DEAREST" (WIFE) AND MY BELOVED CHILDREN.

[the rest of the page shows only mirrored show-through from the reverse of the leaf; no text is printed on this side apart from the heading and the quotation below.]

> This one must know, that no family is so noble that within it no scum of malicious people has been born.
> Christianus Schotanus.
> (De Geschiedenissen Kerckelyck ende Wereldtlyck van Friesland, 1658, page 2 left column).

BY

PREFACE.

The former Professor of Zoology, Comparative Anatomy and Physiology at Groningen, Prof. J. F. van Bemmelen, the first scholar in our country to concern himself with bio-genealogical family research, says in a contribution in the Vakblad voor Biologie[1]: that until a short time ago family research could be considered in part "an innocent, though somewhat vain, hobby of people with much free time".

The last part of this saying may indeed be applied to me, since the ability to dispose of my time has mainly been the reason for taking up the study of the family "Greydanus" in particular, and of genealogy in general.

As regards the expression "somewhat vain hobby", I believe that it has been chosen quite aptly. If one looks, for instance, into printed genealogies, one is often struck by an extolling of persons and matters at which an outsider shrugs his shoulders. One often notices an endeavour to push the number of generations as high as possible, because this is thought so distinguished. "Ugly facts" are glossed over, and — to put it mildly — "embellishments" are added, so that, as the end of the song, the scientific side of the matter is nowhere to be found.

One reads, among other things, in a printed genealogy which in professional circles was cited as an example of a good genealogy, that the one member of the family was "a distinguished man" and the other "a very distinguished man". The nature of an occupation is inflated in all sorts of ways; if in earlier times a carter appears, then it is explained that a carter of those days was something quite different from a carter of today; if a merchant comes on the scene, then it is argued that one must certainly not think of a small trader — a shopkeeper — but of a trader on a large scale — a wholesaler.

When one considers that it is after all nothing strange that in a family a "black sheep" should once appear, for which I need only refer to the motto I have chosen on the first page, then it is indeed peculiar that in general, in the printed genealogies of old families, so seldom are branches met with that have fallen into decline, although even one such "black sheep" can call such a branch into being. If a "high gentleman" marries his housekeeper or his maidservant — and it is moreover still a question whether such an act already stamps someone as a "black sheep" — then there is a good chance that he and his descendants will come down in the world.

A "splendid embellishment" came to light some years ago. In a well-known serial work on Netherlands genealogies, namely, a genealogy had been included of which it was conclusively shown in a professional periodical that the occupations given for persons of the family treated had simply been invented. A midshipman[2] turned out to be: a shoemaker buried at public expense, a lieutenant of cavalry: a soldier buried at public expense, and a Mr. advocate: a tailor and undertaker's bearer, so that in a following part of the work the editors had to request that the included genealogy . . . . be struck out.

Quite recently a "criminal falsification" was reported in a genealogical journal. In order, namely, to connect a family to a noble family of the same name, recourse had been taken to: cutting and tearing out of an old marriage register a deed that did not fit the framework, writing into it a fabricated marriage, and erasing in an entry in an old baptismal register.

Satisfaction of vanity has played no part with me in the publication of this genealogy. In the first place the family "Greydanus" does not lend itself to that, and moreover it seems to me illogical and narrow-minded to pride oneself on the family to which one belongs according to the ordinary notions. What family one belongs to lies outside any merit of the person himself, and everyone is a child, in equal part, of his father as well as of his mother, so one forms part, even if not to the same degree, of every family that one meets among one's ancestors, each time on the paternal as well as on the maternal side. That is to say, one belongs, besides to the family of one's father and of one's mother, also — though for other, smaller portions — to the family of his grandmother on his father's side, of his grandmother on his mother's side, etc., while there is no sense in raising the family bearing the father's name above all other families. Going back into the past, the number of ancestors increases by powers of 2. If one works it out, one arrives at the conclusion that every person a thousand years ago had millions of ancestors. Among these the same persons then occur, which is likewise the case if one draws up the ancestors of various people of the present day back that far into the past. Of a very great number of Dutch families d'Ablaing van Giessenburg once demonstrated that they were related to Charlemagne, but if the genealogists had only kept a record of it as well — which, however, they failed to do — he could just as easily have proved that the same number of Dutch families is blood-related to a valet of that monarch.

---

[1] / No. 2 of the 8th volume of October 1926.

[2] / This was formerly an aspirant officer.

With this I have arrived at a point that calls for some discussion. This point is the value of a genealogy such as this. Scientifically this value is very slight. Value is possessed only by the tables of Ancestors or Ascendants, called Kwartierstaten by the Dutch and Ahnentafeln by the Germans, and the tables of Descendants, to which the Germans have given the name Nachkommentafeln. Tables of Ancestors give all persons from whom one descends, thus: both parents, the 4 grandparents, the 8 great-grandparents, the 16 great-great-grandparents, etc. Tables of Descendants contain all descendants of a couple, in which the descendants of daughters are not each time omitted; if one has, then, a son and a daughter, the children are included both from the son's marriage and from that of the daughter, etc. From the tables of Ancestors of a person one can see from which ancestors he has received his hereditary characteristics, and from tables of Descendants of a couple, to which descendants his characteristics have passed. If a genealogy is to have scientific value — that is, for instance, for the science of heredity — then for the persons there must be stated: mental characteristics, physical constitutions, causes of death, etc., or, for example, portraits must be reproduced, because from these mental characteristics can more or less be deduced and physical constitutions can appear.

This genealogy, however, comprises only the persons with a common pair of ancestors and with the name "Greydanus", as well as the spouses of those persons with their parents. In addition, data are provided on families related to the "Greydanus" family. The children with their descendants of female members are mentioned only up to about 1811 — the establishment of the Civil Registry. For the oldest part, therefore, what has been treated is, as a well-known genealogist so pithily puts it: the "nests" of the family. But up to about 1811 that mention has been made, on account of the great extent of the "Greydanus" family, as a result of which I have in any case had my hands full with tracing what is now offered. How slight the real value of this genealogy is on that account may appear from a consideration of the ancestors and of the descendants of a "Greydanus". Of such a person one finds both parents, and of each preceding generation only 4 persons; thus of, for instance, the generation which numbers 64 ancestors, nothing is found of more than 4, that is a $^1/_{16}$ part. As regards the descendants, one finds before about 1811 all descendants and after that date only the children of a son.

I have not been able to get as far as stating mental characteristics, physical constitutions, causes of death, etc., but all the old portraits which I have been able to obtain — alas, very few — have been included.

The motives which nevertheless have brought me to bring this genealogy to light follow here. In the first place, the data have cost so much trouble and time to trace that it would be a pity not to record them. Before 1811 the "Greydanus" family was seated almost entirely in Friesland, and there the notarial protocols are now lacking[1] — the Frisian notaries gave the parties concerned the deeds themselves and kept no copy of them, but only a note — and most of the burial registers have been lost, so that the finding of old genealogical data in Friesland is made very difficult. In the second place the family "Greydanus" has, as stated above, attained such an extent, and further extension is still at hand, that the number of persons who will take an interest in this genealogy is considerable. These people, however, can only learn which persons, with a common ancestor and with the surname "Greydanus", have existed and exist at this moment. And finally, if in drawing up some genealogy or other one comes across a "Greydanus", then with the help of this genealogy one has his data at once; if such genealogies were available for all families, the work of the scholarly genealogists would consist merely of arranging the data at hand.

---

[1] Only one protocol has come to light, namely that of the notary Nicolaus Judoci Cleuting (1554—1571).

Since, as has already been said, vanity has not held sway with me, nothing else is served up in this genealogy than an enumeration of the facts found in chronological order, without any commentary. As far as possible particulars of the period have been mentioned, whereby in a certain respect a piece of history is formed. Here, therefore, "genealogy" is not the auxiliary science of "history", as is the rule, but "history" is conversely a supplement to "genealogy". May this to some extent make up for the scholarly genealogical value lost in the work.

Now something further about the coming into being of this genealogy.

Of the family a few data were available. Furthermore two members of the family: Messrs. G. J. J. Greidanus, Collector of direct taxes at Leiden, and Dr. S. Greidanus, physician and court physician at Baarn, had tried, each separately, to draw up a limited genealogy. How incomplete and defective this was may already appear from the fact that the genealogies of the two did not join up with each other, and that of the largest branch of the family almost nothing was given. Nevertheless, the genealogy drawn up by Mr. G. J. J. Greidanus, which came into my hands through the co-operation of his son Dr. H. Th. van Wimersma Greidanus, physician at Utrecht, has undeniably been the foundation on which I have been able to begin my investigations.

The completion of this genealogy has required years of research and work; I have had it preceded by a: "Concise History and abridged Genealogy", which was placed in the Monthly of the Genealogical-heraldic Society "De Nederlandsche Leeuw" (see the numbers 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 of the XLVIIIth year of 1930 and number 1—2 of the XLIXth year of 1931).

Various persons, such as: archivists, ministers, private individuals, have supplied me with information, for which I here thank them once again, but particular thanks I owe to Mr. J. Wierda at Leeuwarden, who has worked for me with devotion and untiring zeal, chiefly at the State and at the Municipal Archives at Leeuwarden, and to the late Mr. D. G. van Epen, Director of the Central Bureau for Genealogy and Heraldry at 's-Gravenhage, for a valuable preliminary investigation. Notwithstanding this I have had to rely largely on my own resources.

The translation from the Hebrew and for the greater part the extensive translations from the Latin have been provided to me by Prof. Dr. S. Greijdanus at Kampen, to whom in this place thanks are once more expressed for the great kindness with which he has been of service to me.

Finally I wish to bring forward here that in my work numerous errors, incompletenesses and shortcomings will occur. Especially the last generations, which in general have been treated less fully than the first, will be attended by various errors. That these are precisely the last generations may sound strange, but is explained by the fact that data before 1842 are relatively easy to obtain, since one can draw them oneself from the public archives. For data after that year, however, one must rely on information from the persons themselves or their family, in which all kinds of mistakes may creep in, or one must turn to the no less fallible Civil Registry and to the Keepers of the Mortgage Registry and the Cadastre, which, when much data is needed, is virtually impracticable, too costly and too time-consuming.

That many errors may arise has become apparent to me from my aforementioned "Beknopte Geschiedenis en verkorte Genealogie". In the extensive offprint of it I have nevertheless discovered up to now the following irregularities:

page 13. IVbis. Ds. Ausonius Greydanus was called as Minister not on 1 but on 2 October 1723;

page 16. VI. Ds. Ausonius Greidanus m. 1°: Groote Kerk Harlingen 4 May 1788;

page 17. 1. Saakje Greidanus. "Jeltje Sybrens Feitsma" should be "Jeltje Sybrens Teitsma";

page 18. 5. Magdalena Hermanna Greidanus. Mr. Halbe Binnerts was born not on 26 September but on 26 October 1842;

page 20. 6th line from the top "Groenendaal" should be "Groenendal".

3. Maria Joanna Ursina Greidanus does not marry at Amsterdam but at Rotterdam, and the surname of her mother-in-law is not Geerlings, but Geerligs;

4. Tjarda Greidanus. She studied at Amsterdam not medicine, but law.

page 21. With Gerardina Jacoba Johanna Greidanus "Scheuman" should be "Scheumann" and "Petographische" — "Petrographische"; page 22. IXbis. Tjardus Greidanus — "and later with Pierson & Co, both bankers at Amsterdam, with which latter" should be "later named Pierson & Co, bankers at Amsterdam, with which";

page 23. IXter. Herman Theodorus Greidanus. "Catherine Elisabeth Constance Alida Esther Jaeger, b. Leiden 13 September" should be "Catharina Elisabeth Constance Alida Esther Jaeger, b. Leiden 12 September";

page 31. 1. Johannes Greydanus. In his case it can probably be dropped that in 1746 he was "chercher" (customs searcher) at Oostmahorn. Presumably he died young, and it was not he who in 1746 was "chercher" at Oostmahorn, but his brother Jacob (Jacobus) Greydanus, included on page 32 under IV;

page 36/37. Sybe (Siebe) Greidanus. What is stated with his 4th child Jelle Greidanus must be struck out;

page 39. VIIbis. Ymte Greijdanus. Trijntje Sytzes Elo was born not at Cubaard but at Waaxens, and was a daughter not of "Klaaske Sytzes", but of "Klaaske Formers Schultetus";

VIII. Cornelis Greydanus. Klaaske Idserda was born not on 22 August of the year 1840, but of the year 1841;

under 2. Roukje Greydanus was born not on 12 February, but on 12 December 1869;

page 40. IX. Ymte Greijdanus. "Ocke Brouwer" should be "Oeke Brouwer";

page 51. VII. Taco (Tako) Greidanus. Cornelia Petronella Leensma was born not on 24 January 1813, but on 24 June 1812;

Johannes Blooker was born not on 25 July 1850, but on 25 February 1850, and was a son not of "Geertje Schart", but of "Geertje Schuit";

VIII. Dr. Sytze Greidanus probably took his doctorate three times: 20 June 1866 at Leiden cum laude as doctor of medicine on the aforementioned dissertation, — 23 October 1866 at Leiden magna cum laude as doctor of obstetrics, presumably on "Theses" — and thereafter as doctor of surgery, probably on "Theses" and in 1867 or 1868 at the University of Groningen, which doctorate, however, does not appear in the list of doctorates at the back of the "Album Studiosorum Academiae Groninganae" printed in 1915 and, according to information obtained from the University, is not known there. At Baarn he was elected Member of the Town Council on 19 November 1902 and Alderman on 5 November 1909, which office he held until his death;

"De dagen van Olim" should be "De dagen van olim";

page 52. 2nd line from the top "Jetske (Itia) Kuipers" should be: "Ietske (Itia) Kuipers";

page 54. 3rd and 4th line from the top: Anna Maurer was born not on 26 July 1827, but on 25 July 1825;

under 5. Diedrich Christian Schröder was born not on 28 May 1864, but on 28 November 1864;

page 70. "Groenendaal" should be "Groenendal".

page 71. After "Feitsma" to strike out 17;

page 73. To be deleted: "Schart, 51" and to be added: under "Schroeder or Schröder": "Schuit 51 — Schultetus, 39" and under "Tasma": "Teitsma, 17";

page 75. "Alstedio" should be "Alstedius".

In the passages from printed and written documents reproduced in this work, I have in general corrected the errors that struck me.

In texts, those names and words to which I wished to draw attention have been printed in italics, so that this does not mean that in the original documents those names and words likewise appear printed in italics, underlined or written widely (spaced); numbers given in words have often been replaced by figures. In sale proclamations, for the phrase used at the beginning "requests announcement and consent to the purchase" there has mostly been substituted "buys", and for the measure of area "pondematen" (land measure) — "P.M.". If there were no particular circumstances which made the express addition to a house of such items as: garden, trees and plantation, yard etc. desirable, the letters c.a. have often been used. The clause recurring in almost every sale proclamation: "with all its rights of action, servitudes and entitlements as of old" has generally been omitted. When the monetary value was expressed both in goudguldens as well as in caroliguldens, the latter manner of indicating money was chosen. Repetitions recurring again and again have sometimes been omitted.

For the spelling of "Greydanus", with: "ey", "ei" or "eij", I have applied the one under which the person concerned himself appears, or the manner in which he himself writes his surname. The same has been done with the spelling of the Frisian first names, for which reason the index gives the correct spelling of these with mention of the misspellings. It should also be noted here that little value is to be attached to the manner in which something was written in former times, since no fixed spelling then existed.

Among the people living in the countryside in Friesland, the custom has remained in vogue to this day of adding to their full name the genitive of their father's first name[1]. With the members of the family "Greydanus" and their alliances I have placed after that genitive the word son or daughter as well, with the intention of bringing out clearly that that first name does not belong to the actual name.

In various respects the genealogy will not have been brought up to date to the very last moment; at a certain point[2] I had, now here, now there, to refrain from obtaining information anew, in order at last to be able to bring to an end a work whose extent I only realized when I had already been occupied with it for a considerable time.

Only a modest place has been granted to heraldry, because this lay in the nature of the work itself; the coats of arms included should be regarded rather as an embellishment of the book than as the result of a meticulous study. In connection with this view — thus for aesthetic reasons — the system of dots and lines by which the colours are indicated in heraldry has been omitted in the small depictions of arms included in the text. This could be done without objection, since the colours are mentioned in the accompanying descriptions of the arms.

The hand-marks printed in this work of persons who as a rule could not write have not been made from photographic reproductions, but are figures composed of firm lines which approximate the original hand-marks, and thus do not coincide with them completely.

Statements of corrections, additions, expansions and remarks — however slight they may seem — will be welcome to me.

's-Gravenhage, September 1933.

---

[1] Further particulars about this follow on pages 16/17.

[2] In general the genealogy does not go further than the summer of 1933.

BRIEF EXPLANATIONS AND ANNOTATIONS.

Signs formerly used.

¯ this sign placed above a word means that the word has been abbreviated, e.g. peñgen = penningen; sōa = somma; Joāes = Johannes;

⁚ this sign, which is found in old Reformed marriage registers of Franeker, indicates that the marriage banns have been published three times [1].

It may also be noted here that the former punctuation differs somewhat from that of today; nevertheless, in this work the old punctuation has not been done justice.

Former spellings.

ae = aa

g means us, e.g. Greydang = Greydanus;

the letter j was in Old Frisian as a rule rendered as i; but also frequently, especially as the initial letter of a word or name, as y, e.g. Sjoerdt, Sioerdt, Syoerdt; Jelle, Yelle;

in order to distinguish the u from the n, a slanting stroke or a little arc was often placed above the u, just as is still done in German script;

in former times the u was also sometimes written as v, e.g. Ulbe and Vlbe, — and the w, in its value as a double u, as u, e.g. Ube and Wbe;

in Old Frisian the u and the w (double u) often stood in the place where in present-day language o and oe are written, e.g. Ubbe and Obbe; Urdum, Wrdum and Oerdum.

Chronology.

In chronology the so-called Old Style is the Julian, and the New Style the Gregorian calendar. The Gregorian calendar was ordered by Pope Gregorius XIII by Apostolic bull of 24 February 1581, by letting the day of Saint Franciscus, that is the 4th of October, of the year 1582, be followed, instead of by the 5th, by the 15th of October. In Friesland the New Style — the improved Julian calendar — was not introduced until the Resolution of the Deputy States dated 12 October 1700, and the introduction was fixed at 1 January 1701, for which 12 January 1701 had to be written (the difference of 10 days in 1582 had thus risen by 1701 to 11 days).

Indications of time formerly used.

7^{bris} or 7^{ber} = September;

8^{bris} or 8^{ber} = October;

9^{bris} or 9^{ber} = November;

x^{bris} or x^{ber} = December;

Lichtmisse, Lichtmis, Vrouw Lichtmisse (Candlemas) = 2 February;

Sint Petri, St. Petri = 22 February [2];

Sint Jacobi, St. Jacobi, St. Jacob = 1 May [2] or 25 July;

Sint Jan, St. Jan, St. Jansdagh, St. Johannisdagh = 24 June;

Sint Lamberti, Sint Lambertus, St. Lamberti, St. Lammerts, Lamberti-dagh = 17 September; Allerheiligen, Alderheiligen (All Saints) = 1 November [3].

Most frequently occurring old monetary units.

1 Caroligulden (for which the signs ℔ and £ were used) = 20 stuivers; 1 stuiver = 16 penningen;

[1] Besides three dots placed one below the other, three other signs placed one below the other were also used.

[2] The indications of time Sint Petri and Sint Jacobi occur among other things in the leasing of lands in Friesland. When in this province, according to old custom, a zathe (farmhouse and yard) and lands are leased, the lease of the land begins at St. Petri and that of the house at St. Jacobi. In connection with the aforementioned introduction of the New Style of the calendar in Friesland on 1 January 1701, which date had to be set eleven days later, thus on 12 January, the lease was, for the sake of fairness, moved 11 days, so that Sint Petri became 5 March and Sint Jacobi 12 May.

[3] The indication of time Allerheiligen occurs among other things in the hiring of male and female servants in Friesland. In the same way as indicated in note 2, in 1701 Allerheiligen became 11 days later, thus 12 November, which date is then called Old Allerheiligen.

1 Friesche goudgulden (Frisian gold gulden) = 1.4 Caroligulden, and thus counts 28 stuivers. In Friesland this coin was called a floreen in connection with a certain land tax — the floreen tax or floreen rent (see under floreencohieren);

1 Ducaat (ducat) = 5 gulden and 5 stuivers;

1 (gold) Ducaton = 15 guldens;

1 (silver) Ducaton = 63 stuivers.

Old Frisian Measures.

The old measure of area, which has still not fallen into disuse, is the Friesche Pondemaat or P.M., which is approximately equal to $36^{3}/_{4}$ Are;

1 Pondemaat = 12 einsen;

1 einse (ounce) = 20 penningen (peinjes);

1 penning (peinje) = 12 (square) roeden;

1 (square) roede = 12 (square) feet;

V.R. etc. = Vriesche Roede (Frisian rod) etc.;

1 Lopen stal = 200 square roeden = 30.62 Are;

1 mad, mansmede, mansmet (this was the area which a man could be reckoned to mow in a day) = 360 square roeden = $1^{1}/_{2}$ pondemaat;

1 morgen = 600 square roeden;

1 Lopen (as a measure of capacity) = 0.833 H.L.

Former way of indicating a quantity.

"derde half", "zevendehalf", means: $2^{1}(_{2}, 6^{1})_{2}$.

Old Frisian Administrative Registers.

aanbreng (return of landed property) — the register of the aanbreng of 1511 is the oldest known cohier of a land tax. Together with other documents relating to that tax, it was published in 1879 by the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden;

authorisatieboeken (registers of authorisation) contain the appointment of guardians and curators;

beneficiaalboeken (registers of benefices) are in general the register, drawn up in 1543 by order of the Stadholder, of the rents and the lands belonging to Churches, parsonages and other ecclesiastical persons and institutions;

burgerboeken (registers of citizens) were kept in the towns and maintained in support of the citizens' right of citizenship.

> The right of citizenship reaches back into the grey past. The fourth estate of the citizens arose alongside the existing 3 estates of nobility, freemen (or eigenerfden, freeholders) and lesser folk (or servants), when the merchants and craftsmen in the towns, favoured with many privileges by the Emperors themselves, had joined together in Guilds and withdrew from the administration and authority of the rural courts by forming a community of their own, which was governed by its own inhabitants according to its own statutes and to privileges attached to that place (W. Eekhof, Geschiedk. beschrijving van Leeuwarden. Part I, page 35). The body of citizens is also called "the Common Community"; the heads of the households had a voice in the general interests of the Town, and it was therefore of great importance for anyone who was or became an inhabitant of the town to be received, through obtaining the right of citizenship, into the recognised and qualified group of citizens.
> Since citizens are found only in the towns, the right of citizenship is governed almost entirely by the town law, which was laid down independently for each town.
> The Leeuwarden town law laid down that children whose parents were citizens later received the right of citizenship without further formalities, namely if they were born when their father already possessed the right of citizenship; if they had been born before that time, they had to follow the ordinary course which strangers had to take.
> That the right of citizenship was continued for children of citizens seems to have been the general rule in all the Frisian towns.
> The candidate citizen only entered upon his rights after he had taken the oath to be a faithful citizen and to obey the laws of the town.
> In Sneek the candidate citizen had to swear upon the Town Book, after "the town's bylaws" (the municipal ordinances) had been read out to him. Before taking the oath he was allowed 14 days to consider; if he refused he had to leave the town.
> In Bolsward and Leeuwarden and, I believe, also at Franeker, the stranger was first allowed to live in the town for a year and then he was given the choice of becoming a citizen or of departing.

> Only people of good repute were accepted as burghers: in Stavoren the candidate-burgher even had to prove this in writing. "Criminal folk, marauders, robbers, perjurers or those living in fornication, pipers or other musicians, banished or outlawed folk or other dishonourable folk" apparently were not eligible.
> At Workum too a distinction was made between "inwonerschap" (residency) and "burgerschap" (burghership); the former referred to a temporary residence, such as that of guild apprentices, servants or journeymen from elsewhere, and cost a small fee, for instance 24 stuivers. The burghership, confirmed by oath, had at first to be paid for there with 12 guilders, and since 1696 with 6 guilders 12 stuivers.
> At Sneek and at Bolsward a difference was made as regards the amount to be paid, according to whether one was a born Frisian or "een Duytsche", under which name all foreigners were evidently comprised. At Sneek the Frisian could suffice with half a klinckert gulden, the Duytsche had to pay a whole klinckert gulden there; at Bolsward this amounted to 15 and 29 "Flaemschen" respectively.
> At Leeuwarden and at Stavoren the difference in nationality appears not to have been taken into account, for at Leeuwarden only an amount of "ses olde schilden" (six old shields) is mentioned for "an ordinary craftsman who is well able to afford it", and apparently the rest was left to the "consideration and moderation" of the Council. In the Franeker Burgerboek there are indeed instances in which nothing was paid for the burghership, namely when it was offered by the Town Government out of gratitude.
> The duties and the rights of the burghership (which will not have differed much in the various Frisian towns) are described by Mr. A. S. Miedema in his dissertation on "Sneek en het Sneeker Stadrecht (publ. J. F. van Druten, Sneek, 1895)" for the town of Sneek as follows: A burgher was obliged: to defend the town in time of danger; for that purpose to keep an equipment in readiness and to take his turn on watch; he was not allowed to seek conflict with other towns or countries; he had to support the judge in the exercise of his office and for that purpose to inform him of offences; > and finally he had to pay his "schot en lot" (taxation). In return he was entitled: to perform legal acts and to make declarations before the court, and he was eligible for town offices; but, what was of the greatest importance to him, he was allowed to "practise his craft and carry on his trade" as soon as he had paid his "borghergelt" (burgher money). In all this he had the advantage over the non-burgher, who therefore counted for little in the town.

> For genealogical studies the Burgerboeken are important, because they often mention the place of birth or the former place of residence of the persons who acquired the burghership. Moreover, from the absence of persons in the Burgerboek one may draw the conclusion that they were born in the town concerned and not elsewhere;

collateraalregisters (collateral registers) are the registers concerning the former succession duty, which had to be paid only in the case of inheritance otherwise than from parents to children, hence only in the ascending and in the collateral lines;

consignatieboeken (registers of moneys deposited with the court) are the books in which were recorded the moneys placed in the keeping of the Court and their distribution, among other things in the case of insolvent estates;

floreencohieren (land-tax registers) are the registers concerning a certain former land tax, the floreen tax or rent, which was levied both in the towns and in the countryside, though in an entirely different manner. Those liable to pay the floreen rent were called floreenplichtigen (floreen-liable persons); hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers) contain the mortgage deeds, that is to say the deeds by which money was provided and accepted under the security of a mortgage (on immovable and movable property), and furthermore also all other bonds or acknowledgments of debt in which the right of mortgage was lacking. The registration of these acknowledgments of debt, in many forms, took place with the object of being able to make use of them in law; personeelcohieren (registers of the tax on wealth) are the tax registers according to wealth;

proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales). In these books were recorded the requests for "bode en consent" (notice and consent) on the purchase of fixed property and rents. According to the Landsordonnantie (provincial ordinance) the purchaser had to see to it that, within the year after the purchase had been concluded, it was proclaimed three times before the Church and the Court under which the property was situated, after which the consent to the purchase, unless protest had been lodged against it, was given by the Court. In these registers usually the brief content of the deed of sale — which was sometimes also entered in a Protocolboek (Register of deeds of sale) — is mentioned, together with the three dates of proclamation and often also the consent. Mostly these books also contain the announcements of decretal and executorial sales, and frequently marriage proclamations and deeds of marriage solemnization; for according to the Landsordonnantie marriages had to be proclaimed and solemnized in the Church or by the Court;

protocolboeken (registers of deeds of sale) are generally registers of deeds of sale, of which usually the short content was entered in the proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales); recesboeken (court rolls) contain chiefly the court roll, with a note of what took place at the sitting. In the Recesboeken, as well as in the Sententieboeken (registers of sentences), both the penal and the civil cases are recorded, and all sorts of deeds occur which were executed before a commissioner from the Court;

reëelcohieren are tax registers based on the rental value of built and unbuilt properties;

register of 1744 of the Frisian Families.

> This register had its origin in a resolution of the States of 13 March of the said year. In it the provincial government considered, among other things, that, on account of the daily increasing decline in navigation and commerce and the resulting lack of trade and unemployment, which decline was mainly ascribed to too heavy taxation of the import and export of merchandise, it was thought desirable to make a trial of the abolition of all harbour dues and to open up commerce free and unburdened. The loss of income thereby to be suffered, amounting to some hundreds of thousands of guilders, would be made good by an assessment and taxes on the households. In connection with this intention, the question had to be put to all heads of households, great and small, more or less well-to-do (the impecunious and even those receiving poor relief included), what they would voluntarily offer to pay the Province yearly, if they and their household members were relieved of the impositions known under the name of "havenpagten" (harbour dues), such as on brandy, sweet wines, the increase on wines, foreign beers, harbour dues in kind, cloths, tobacco, sweetmeats, coffee, tea and salt. This offer had to be entered in a Register, with mention of 1° the persons who, although offering nothing, were nevertheless in a probable condition to be able to contribute something, 2° the families who were found to be wholly without means, distinguishing however between the families who received their maintenance from "the poor relief" and those without means who ate their own bread.
> The grietenij and town governments had to make haste, for the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States) required that before 18 April 1744, thus after barely a month, the Register should have been received at the Landschapshuis, on pain of 25 cargls.
> In the Register the "offered amounts" are called "offered capitals", expressed in caroliguldens; speciecohieren are tax registers concerning the 5 speciën (specified items): chimneys, cows, rieren (barren cows), pondematen of sown land and horses;

stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) are the registers of the owners and users (meijers, tenants) in the countryside of the lands and/or houses entitled to a vote, which were called: places, hornlegers, stellen, ploeggangen or houses paying dues.

> It appears that in Friesland there formerly existed a popular government, in which every free and independent person could cast a free vote. In course of time this privilege became attached to the possession of particular lands and/or houses, called places, hornlegers, stellen, ploeggangen or houses paying dues, which always retained the same right and were all carefully recorded. This careful recording first took place in 1640, then in 1698, and thereafter the stemcohieren were revised every ten years. The stemcohieren of 1640 and 1698 have been printed in 6 folio volumes, without title or name of the printer; those of 1640 and 1728 were published in 1730 in 3 large 4to volumes at Leeuwarden by Tobias van Dessel.

The owners of those so-called voting places were called: the eigenerfden or eigengeërfden (freeholders). They had the right, provided they were members or adherents of the Reformed religion, to vote at the election of the Volmachten (deputies) to the Landsdag, that is the delegates to the Assembly of the States of Friesland, of the Grietmannen (district magistrates), Mederechters (assessor judges), Grietenij secretaries, Kerkvoogden (church wardens), Schoolmasters, Dorprechters (village judges), Receivers of the Florenen, Dijkgraven (dike wardens), Dike deputies, Dike receivers and of the Reformed Ministers. In the countryside, therefore, the Reformed church councils had no say in the calling of ministers.

He was held to be the possessor of a vote who was recorded for it in the stemcohier, unless someone could show the contrary on good grounds. The vote was definitely attached to the immovable property, so a woman could vote just as well as a man, and even a minor child by means of its guardians.

Meanwhile the land entitled to a vote alone was not sufficient to give anyone the right to vote. Thus a hornleger having a vote was deprived of its vote when the house standing on it was pulled down or burnt. This lasted until the house had been rebuilt; in the meantime one said that the vote was asleep. The house built on a hornleger had to be habitable and the ground on which it stood had to have a size of 10 to 20 P.M.. The house and the ground required for the vote had to be the property of one and the same owner. The owner of a place having a vote was not allowed to sell the place on condition of retaining the right of voting for himself. Yet in order to be able to vote one did not need to possess the immovable property entirely in ownership; a $^1/_4$ part of the ownership could suffice, in which case, however, one could cast only $^1/_4$ of a vote.

The administration of and the usufruct of public property gave no right to vote; thus ministers, schoolmasters, church and poor wardens, hospices and orphanages, grietenijen or towns were not allowed to vote on account of goods belonging to their church, parsonage, poorhouse or orphanage, grietenij or town.

Excluded from the franchise were those of the Roman persuasion — so-called papists — Roman Catholic guardians over Reformed children and Reformed guardians over Roman Catholic children. Mennonites or Baptists were allowed to vote, except in the calling of Reformed ministers; weesboeken (orphans' registers). In these books are usually recorded the accounts and justifications of the curators concerning the administration of the orphans' property entrusted to their care. These accounts were rendered, approved and closed before a member of the Court or the Grietman (district magistrate), in the presence of relatives of the orphans. Sometimes the Weesboeken, when the Court kept no separate Authorisatieboeken (registers of guardian appointments), also contain the appointments of the guardians or curators over the orphans. Occasionally one also finds in the Weesboeken estate inventories and estate divisions. The dividing line between Weesboeken, Weesrekeningboeken (orphans' account books), estate divisions and inventory books cannot always be sharply drawn.

Former offices and occupational names.

bijzitter, bijsitter (assessor) — co-judge in a grietenij (for which see under grietman).

The Courts of the Grietenijen in Friesland were composed of the Grietman and two or more co-judges, usually called Bijzitters. The Bijzitter was designated by the Grietman from a list of three, chosen by those entitled to vote in the villages of the Grietenij. The Bijzitters had to appear on the court days together with the Grietman, or in his absence alone, hear the parties, settle matters amicably if possible, and, if that was not feasible, give a just and fair judgment on all disputes brought before the Court. All judicial work had to be performed by the Bijzitters, such as the hearing of witnesses, the attending to all judicial acts in cases of death, boelgoederen (sales of estate goods), inventories, authorisations, etc. In general the office of Bijzitter consisted in: keeping a watchful eye on the welfare of the inhabitants, promoting to the best of one's ability the good government and administration of the Grietenij, preventing disorder, opposing the oppression of the good by the wicked, pursuing and upholding the country's laws, resolutions and placards, protecting the innocent and punishing the malicious. The office of Bijzitter was a very distinguished one, but not profitable; as a rule the most distinguished Huislieden (husbandmen) or the principal inhabitants of the villages were chosen as Bijzitter.

cherger, chercher — tax officer.

dorprechter (village judge) — detailed information concerning this office will be found on pages 315 and 316.

gleybacker — potter or tile-maker.

grietman — the highest judicial and civil-administrative magistrate in a grietenij, appointed by the Stadholder, a grietenij being a union of villages with their appurtenances in Friesland formed in the course of history.

A grietenij (grietenie) was thus the same as what elsewhere was called a province, ambtmanschap, bailiwick, drostambt, etc. Friesland was divided into: 3 parts or regions — goën or gouwen — namely Oostergo (the North-Eastern part), Westergo (the Western part) and Zevenwouden (the South-Eastern and Southern part) and numbered: 11 towns and 30 grietenijen (it is said that the expression “op zijn elf en dertigst”, that is “slowly, at one's leisure”, is derived from the slow manner in which the States of Friesland, consisting of the deputies of the eleven towns and the thirty grietenijen, deliberated). The eleven towns were: Leeuwarden, Bolsward, Franeker, Sneek, Dokkum, Harlingen, Stavoren, Sloten, Workum, Ylst and Hindelopen, and the 30 grietenijen: 11 in Oostergo, namely: Leeuwarderadeel, Ferwerderadeel, Oost-Dongeradeel, West-Dongeradeel, Collumerlandt, Achtcarspelen, Dantumadeel, Tietjerksteradeel, Smallingerlandt, Idaarderadeel and Rauwerderhem, — 9 in Westergo, namely: Menaldumadeel, Franekeradeel, Barradeel, Baarderadeel, Hennaarderadeel, Wonseradeel, Wymbritseradeel, Hemelumer Oldephaert en Noordwolde, and 't Bildt, — and 10 in Zevenwouden, namely: Utingeradeel, Aengwirden, Doniawerstal, Haskerlandt, Schoterlandt, Lemsterlandt, Gaasterlandt, Opsterlandt, Oost-Stellingwerf and West-Stellingwerf.

huisman — countryman, farmer.

opsigter Landschaps Turf en Brandthout (overseer of the Province's peat and firewood) — see note 1 on page 311.

procureur-postulant — a person, usually not academically trained, who had the competence to bring an action before the Nedergerecht (lower court) on behalf of a private individual and to defend it further in writing before that Court. Before the Hof van Friesland only a university-trained advocate could appear.

schroor — tailor.

sleef/f/maker — ladle maker.

solliciteur — paymaster with the army or the navy (in general an attorney).

stadsmajoor — head of the municipal police, to be compared with the office of dorprechter (village judge) (see there) in the Grietenij.

turfmeeter — detailed information concerning this office is to be found on pages 410 to 412.

Old names of family relationships.

moeye, moei, mui, meuy — usually aunt, sometimes stepmother.

snaer — daughter-in-law, or sister-in-law.

stypvader — stepfather.

susterlingh — cousin, second cousin.

swaeger — son-in-law, or brother-in-law.

Old legal terms.

arrestant — he who, by virtue of a warrant or judgment, attaches or causes to be attached a person or a person's goods.

arresteerde — person upon whom or upon whose goods the attachment (see under arrestant) is laid.

de rato caveerende — in so far as necessary, acting on behalf of and standing surety for another, usually a wife or a ward.

heir „ab intestato" and heir „ex testamento" — heir without and heir by virtue of a will.

impetrant — plaintiff before the court, petitioner.

intendit — claim.

interlocutoire uitspraak — interlocutory decision, an intermediate judgment on a subsidiary matter in a lawsuit.

requirant — plaintiff.

requireerde — defendant.

Majority.

From the earliest times until 1809 the age of majority was 25 years. For one year, that is until 1810, the age of 23 appears to have been designated for this by virtue of the Code „Napoleon" as adapted for the Kingdom of Holland. Thereupon followed, on the annexation by France, the age of 21 of the „Code Napoléon" for majority, which managed to hold its own until the year 1838, when the age of 23 came up again. This lasted until 1 December 1905, the moment at which the age of 23 was in its turn displaced by the 21 years of the former Code Napoléon.

Old Academic titles.

A. L. M. = Artium Liberalium Magister = Master of the Liberal Arts.

J. U. D. = Juris Utriusque Doctor = Doctor of Both Laws (the Canon or Church Law and the Roman Law).

J. U. L. = Juris Utriusque Licentiatus = a lower degree in Law than J. U. D.

Some explanations concerning the Reformed Ministers and the education required for that, in former Friesland.

In order to become a Reformed Minister in Friesland in former times, one had in general to have enjoyed an Academic training and to have passed with favourable result a single or peremptory examination. This examination was conducted by, usually two, members of the Classis with which one had registered.

The ordinary training which one had received before that was this, that one had gone through the Latin or Trivial school — we should nowadays call this a school of advanced primary education — and the Academy. At the Trivial school instruction in Latin was the principal dish; Greek and modern languages were not taught there at all, mathematics was taught there a little. The Theological training at the Academy consisted chiefly in instruction in the original languages (Greek and Hebrew) and in Dogmatics (scientific doctrine of the faith). Logic (the theory of thought), Rhetoric and Theologia practica were subsidiary subjects; concerning the order of the disciplinae (branches of learning) to be studied and the lectures to be attended no regulations had been brought into being. By the holding of declamationes and disputations, in which all wrangling and quarrelling over words had to be avoided, one measured and increased one's progress. Examinations were taken only by those who wished to obtain the title of Doctor or that of Master of the Liberal Arts. The alumni (students who were trained at the expense of the State) did indeed have to submit to an examination yearly, but this was done merely to investigate whether the support received from the Province — pensie — was being applied to the intended purpose. Binding provisions concerning the duration of the Academic studies did not exist either; it may be assumed that a four-year course of study was normal.

On registering for the Ecclesiastical examination, certificates had to be submitted from the Kerkeraad (church council), concerning a 2-year membership of the Church, and from the Professors, concerning the profitable attendance of their lectures. Both the certificates of the Kerkeraad and those of the Professors had moreover to vouch for the irreproachable conduct of life of the students. One single "testimonium academicum" — for the languages as well as for theology and sometimes for philosophy — signed by the decanus (the oldest Professor), could suffice.

Those who passed the Ecclesiastical examination received a "testimonium admissionis" and the title: "Sacrosancti Ministerii Candidatus" — Candidate of the Holy Ministry (H.D.).

The Candidates of the H.D. were under the supervision and discipline of the Classis and were not allowed to preach without its consent, nor to enter upon another state of life. They were also expressly forbidden by Synodal resolution to accept any political office, trade or anything of the kind.

When a vacancy for a minister had arisen in the countryside, the Grietman (district magistrate) summoned, after six weeks if no widow or children had been left behind, and after one year (the year of grace, annus gratiae) if that was indeed the case, the eigengeërfden (freeholders) (floreenplichtigen, those liable for floreen tax) for the election of a new minister. Six days beforehand the Dorprechter (village judge) made known to the freeholders the day on which the voting, which took place in the Church, was to be held, by "house announcement", and this day itself was ushered in by three times "bell-clapping".

The installation of the new minister usually took place on a Sunday by two ministers designated from and by the Classis, of whom the younger delivered the installation sermon and also read out the customary formulary of installation, while the elder performed the consecration by the solemn laying on of hands.

List of a few words, expressions and abbreviations occurring repeatedly (the meaning of which has sometimes already been stated in the place concerned).

aem wijn — an aem (cask measure) of wine, four ankers of wine.

alumnus — pupil or student free of charge, who enjoys free education and maintenance from the public purse.

bode (in the expression "bode en consent") — was a proclamation or public announcement formerly customary in Friesland, intended to offer everyone the opportunity to raise objections against the sale of any immovable property. By the "consent" was understood the approval of the sale by the Authority of the place where the property was situated. When three proclamations had taken place without verspiering (that is, hindrance) or opposition, the property was placed by the Authority in the possession of the buyer. If the verspiering was made by a niaarnemer (see there) and his rights were recognized, then the permission to take over the property was given to the niaarnemer.

c.a. — cum annexis = with its appurtenances.

clockslagh — see under "klockslagh".

consent (in the expression "bode en consent") — see under "bode".

cum sociis — with his people, with his following.

cum uxore (the plural is cum uxoribus) — with his wife.

dorso — reverse side.

D.V. — Deo volente — if it please God.

espel — district.

ga/a/rdenier — grower of vegetables gealimenteerde — person who is maintained or relieved by charity.

gravamen — objection.

hoc tempore — pro tempore — for the present.

instrument — documentary evidence.

jurisdictie — jurisdiction, area of jurisdiction.

klockslagh — the territory belonging to the jurisdictie (see there) of the town or lying outside the built-up centre of the village and reckoned as belonging to it.

kooltjer — grower of cabbages.

mandelich, mandeling, te mande — in common.

meijer — tenant, lessee.

momber — guardian.

naastleger — adjoining owner or occupant.

niaren, niaarnemer, niaer — to take by right of pre-emption, — person who takes by pre-emption —, pre-emption; niaer- or naestkoop was a right formerly existing in Friesland, to step into another man's purchase and to exclude the first buyer, whereby one had however to pay the same price as the first buyer.

The right of niaer could, according to the Landsordonnantie of Friesland, only be applied in two cases, namely 1° in the case of blood relationship ('t niaer ratione sanguinis) and 2° in the case of adjoining occupancy or neighbourhood ('t niaer ratione vicinitatis proximitatis).

nomine — in the name of.

obiit — he or she has died.

p — per.

P.D. — pro Deo, free of charge.

pensie, schoolpensie — annual monetary allowance for study at a Latin school or at a university.

pro tempore — see hoc tempore.

provenier, proevenier — person who for a certain sum has bought lodging and care in an institution.

provenhuis, proevenhuis — institution for proveniers (proeveniers).

q.l.t. — capacity.

recensie — the obligatory annual renewal of the enrolment of the students (at the Franeker Academy), costing only 1 stuiver, later a schelling, so that the Rector could know who were subject to the forum academicum (the area of the Academic Jurisdiction, which was withdrawn from the ordinary jurisdiction of the Nedergerecht) and entitled to exemption from taxes. This "recensie" could take place "publicly" or "privately"; this difference seems to have had its cause in whether one was housed in the "Beurs" or "privately".

recto — the front side of a page.

"rendant" and "rendeerde" — are expressions which are used in the rendering of "account and reckoning", mostly concerning the administration by curators of the goods of the pupils entrusted to their care. The person who renders account is called "rendant"; the persons to whom account is rendered are called "rendeerden".

repudieeren — to renounce an inheritance.

reversael — a written counter-obligation, often a deed of purchase of which the purchase price has not yet been fully paid.

s. or z. — the late, deceased.

sate, saete, sathe, zathe — farmstead (house and yard only) in Friesland state — a substantial farmstead in Friesland

[a brace joins the two preceding lines to the words:] usually synonymous.

stins — castle in Friesland.

uts. — ut supra = as above.

uytbuyr, uytbuyrt — outlying neighbourhood of a town.

V.D.M. — verbi divini minister = minister of the Divine Word — minister.

verso — reverse, other side, of a page.

verspieringe — obstruction.

v.s. — voorsegd/e/, voorzegd(e), voornoemd/e/ (aforesaid).

w. — the late.

z. or s. — the late, deceased.

zathe — see under sate.

z. j. — without year.

Diagrams.

In genealogical schemes, in the case of single marriages, the wife is usually placed to the right (for the viewer) of the husband. I have, however, preferred in those cases to place the wife generally on the left side of the husband, because a woman is customarily accustomed to stand on that side (for the viewer) of the man.

In these schemes the following abbreviations have been used:

b. = born.

bapt. = baptized (without further specification, in the Dutch Reformed Church).

m. = married.

huw. procl. = marriage proclamations.

ondertr. = betrothed.

† = deceased.

z.v. = son of.

d.v. = daughter of.

As stated in the heading, these are only brief explanations and elucidations. They are given only to convey some understanding of the matters dealt with. They can least of all lay claim to completeness in themselves. With regard to many old matters, e.g. the Frisian floreens and votes, although various studies have appeared concerning them, some reservation must moreover be made, for it seems that a generally accepted explanation of them has not yet been reached.

Below follows a concise list of literature, in chronological order, concerning these brief explanations and elucidations:

Ulrik en Zacharias Huber. De Heedendaegsche Rechtsgeleertheijt, soo elders, als in Frieslandt gebruikelijk. 3rd edition, Amsterdam, Balthazar Lakeman, 1729;

Dr. Dominicus Hamerster. Naukeurige en Duidelijke verklaring over de Statuten, Ordonnantiën, Reglementen en Costumen van Rechte in Frieslandt. Leeuwarden, Tobias van Dessel, 1741;

Foeke Sjoerds. Algemene Beschryvinge van Oud en Nieuw Friesland. Leeuwarden, Pieter Koumans. 2 Volumes, 1765—1767;

Konst der Procureurs volgens de practyk In de Proventie van Friesland, Voor de Neder-Geregten. Waar in geleert word het gene door de Procureurs en Pleitbezorgers In agt dient genomen te worden. En Door welkers gebruik een yder ligtelyk kan zien of zyne zaken door de Procureurs wel of kwalyk behandelt worden Konnende strekken tot een byvoegzel op de Konst der Notarien. Second edition, much improved. Te Leeuwarden, Gedrukt by Abraham Ferwerda, 1767;

T. G. F. Baron thoe Schwartzenberg en Hohenlansberg. Groot Placaat- en Charterboek van Vriesland. 5 Volumes, 1768—1793.;

W. A. Bachiene. Kerkelijke Geographie der Vereenigde Nederlanden. "Het Derde Hoofdstuk van de Frieslandsche Synode" in the third Part. Amsterdam, bij Dirk onder de Linden en Zoon, 1770;

Compendium der Kerkelijke Wetten van Vriesland, geëxtraheert uit 's Lands en Sijnodale Resolutien etc. Second Edition. Wholly improved, supplemented up to the year 1771, and provided with a complete Index. As also the Church Orders of the Reformed Netherlands Churches, made in the National Synods; besides those adopted by the Provinces of Gelderland, Holland, Zeeland and Utrecht and determined in special Assemblies, etc. Leeuwarden, H. A. de Chalmot, 1771;

Tegenwoordige Staat der Vereenigde Nederlanden. The 4th Volume of the Province of Friesland. Amsterdam, Leiden, Dordrecht, Harlingen, 1787;

H. W. C. A. Visser en H. Amersfoordt. Archief voor Vaderlandsche, en inzonderheid Vriesche Geschiedenis, Oudheid- en Taalkunde. Second Part. Leeuwarden, H. C. Schetsberg, 1827;

Prof. J. Verdam. Middelnederlandsch Handwoordenboek. 's-Gravenhage, Martinus Nijhoff (1911);

Mr. L. J. van Apeldoorn. De Kerkelijke Goederen in Friesland. Leeuwarden, Meyer & Schaafsma, 2 Volumes, 1915;

Mr. J. L. Berns. De archieven van het Hof Provinciaal en van de Gerechten der Grietenijen, Steden, Districten, Eilanden en Hoogeschool van Friesland. Leeuwarden, Meyer & Schaafsma, 1919;

Dr. S. Cuperus. Kerkelijk leven der Hervormden in Friesland tijdens de Republiek. Meyer & Schaafsma. 2 Volumes, Leeuwarden 1916 and Leeuwarden/Groningen 1920;

Robert Fruin. Geschiedenis der Staatsinstellingen in Nederland tot den val der Republiek. Published by Dr. H. T. Colenbrander. 's-Gravenhage, Martinus Nijhoff, 1922.

LIST OF BOOKS, PERIODICALS, SERIAL WORKS, ILLUSTRATIONS, PLATES AND PRINTS

Books, Periodicals and Serial Works.

Besides the works already listed with the short explanations and notes, reference is also made to the books and periodicals set out below, arranged in chronological order, which are sometimes also mentioned in full at the place cited:

Books.

Doct. Pierius Winsemius. Chronique ofte Historische geschiedenisse van Vrieslant Beginnende vanden jaere nae des werelts scheppinghe 3635 ende loopende tot den jaere nae de gheboorte Christi 1622. Franeker, Ian Lamrinck, 1622;

C. S. (Prof. Christianus Schotanus). Beschryvinge van de Heerlyckheydt van Frieslandt tusschen 't Flie end de Lauwers met nieuwe Caerten van t Landschap in 't algemeen, soo oud als nieuw end De drie Gedeelten in 't besonder als mede De Grietenien end Steden. (Franeker), Johannus Wellens, (1664);

Prof. Christianus Schotanus. Georgii Pasoris Manvale Novi Testamenti, auctum vocibus quæ occurrunt in versionibus antiquis Græcis veteris Testamenti. Amstelodami, Ex Officina Elzeviriana, A⁰ MDCLXIV. (there also exist printings of it of 1654 and 1672);

Tobias Gutberleth. Poëmata pleraque posthuma. Leowardia, L. Dronrijp, 1667;

H. L. Benthem. Holländischer Kirch- und Schulen-Staat. Franckfurt und Leipzig, Nicolaus Förster, M.DC.XCVIII;

Cohieren der Stemmen in de Provintie van Frieslandt van de jaaren 1640 en 1698. Without title, name of printer or publisher, and year (± 1700); 2 volumes Ooster-goo, 2 volumes Wester-goo and 2 volumes De Seven-wouden;

Tobias Gutberleth. Verhaal van de Stad Leeuwarden etc., all confirmed with original documentary evidence and described by Simon Abbes Gabbema. Franeker, Hendrik Amama en Arent Jelmers, 1701;

Abraham Ferwerda. Algemeene Naam-lyst van Boeken met de prijzen, of de Boek-negotie Benevens de Kennisse en Waarde Derzelver Gemakkelijk gemaakt. Met prijzen uit Catalogen van 1709 tot 1771. Beginnende van de Uitvinding der Druk-konst tot deeze tyd. Leeuwarden, A. Ferwerda en G. Tresling, without year; 24 parts.

Maendelijke uittreksels, of de Boekzael der geleerde werrelt. July 1715—Dec. 1811. 195 parts. Amsterdam, G. Onder de Linden (and D. and Erven D. Onder de Linden & Zoon); Boekzaal der geleerde wereld, of tijdschrift voor letterkundigen. Jan. 1812—June 1816, Amsterdam, De Erven D. Onder de Linden & Zoon; and Boekzaal der geleerde wereld en tijdschrift voor de Protestantsche Kerken in het Koningrijk der Nederlanden. July 1816—Dec. 1863. Amsterdam, De Erven D. Onder de Linden & Zn. All designated as "Boekzaal der Geleerde Wereld";

Dr. Bern. Schotanus à Sterringa. Uitbeelding der Heerlijkheit Friesland; zoo in 't algemeen, als in haare XXX bijzondere Grietenijen, met aangrenzingen en vermeerderingen: nevens d'afteekening van Oud-Friesland, in VII landkaarten door Menso Alting en de vertalinge der oude naamen; published by François Halma, 1718, (Leeuwarden);

Cohieren der Stemmen in de Provintie van Frieslandt, van de jaaren 1640 en 1728. Leeuwarden, Tobias van Dessel, 1730; 1 volume Oostergo, 1 volume Westergo and 1 volume De Zeven-wolden;

Recueil Van de Besognes Der Heeren Commissarien, uyt het College der Ed. Mog. Heeren Gedeputeerde Staten van Frieslandt, Rapporten, Resolutien, En Opgevolgde bestedingen, gedane rekeningen, Sampt wydere documenten, bewysen en oude stukken, Rakende de Slattingen van de Trek-vaarten, Lopende van Leeuwarden Na Sneek, En van Leeuwarden Naa Harlingen, done in de Jaaren 1731 en 1732. Leeuwarden, Tobias van Dessel, MDCCXXXIV;

Friesland, en deszelfs gantsche geleegentheid vertoont in een geografisch woordenboek, van alle grietenyen, steden, eylanden, dorpen enz. Leeuwarden, Tobias van Dessel, 1736;

(Prof. E. L. Vriemoet). Series Professorvm et Lectorvm Academiæ Frisicæ, qvæ est Franeqveræ. Accedvnt fasti Rectoralis; Et Syllabus Eorum, qui Senatui Acad. fuerunt Ab Actis; ut & Bibliothecariorvm. Apud Nicolavm Vdink, MDCCXLV (Franeker). This book is nothing other than a forerunner of the book by Prof. Vriemoet mentioned hereafter;

Ds. Martinus Laurman. Naamlijst der Eerw: Heeren Predikanten, Dewelke zedert den tydt der Reformatie tot in den jare 1751 den H. Dienst des Euangeliums, zo binnen de Stad Leeuwarden als ten platte Landen in de Dorpen, behorende onder het Resort van de Eerw: Classis van Leeuwarden, hebben waargenomen. Leeuwarden, Pieter Koumans, 1751;

Prof. Emonis Lvcii Vriemoet. Athenarvm Frisiacarvm libri dvo. qvorvm alter, praeter historiam Academiae, qvae est Franeqverae, elogia sereniss. & ampl. ephororvm, alter, CL Professorvm, cvm serie Secretariorvm, Bibliothecariorvm, nec non Inspectorvm Oeconomiae Pvblicae, a natalibvs eivs ad praesens aevvm vsqve, complectitvr. Leovardiae Gulielmus Coulon, MDCCLVIII (Title issue: Leovardiae, H. Æ. de Chalmot 1763);

Ausonius Greydanus. Naamlijst der Predikanten, die zedert de Herforming gedient hebben in de Classis van Franeker: .... en Aanmerkingen Over de Naamlijsten van andere Classen. Leeuwarden, Pieter Koumans, 1761;

J. N. Paquot. Mémoires pour servir à l'histoire littéraire des dix-sept provinces des Pays-Bas, de la Principauté de Liège, et de quelques contrées voisines. Louvain, de l'Imprimerie Académique; Tome premier, M.DCC.LXV, Tome second M.DCC.LXVIII, Tome troisième M.DCC.LXX (besides this edition in 3 folio volumes there exists of this work yet another edition in 18 parts in octavo);

Egbert Buys. Nieuw en volkomen Woordenboek van Konsten en Weetenschappen; Bevattende alle De Takken der Nuttige Kennis, met naaukeurige beschrijvingen, zoo van de onderscheidene machines, werktuigen, gereedschappen, figuuren ,en ontwerpen, dienende om dezelve op te helderen; enz. Amsterdam, S. J. Baalde. 10 Volumes MDCCLXIX—MDCCLXXVIII;

D. P. Z/ylstra/. Korte Historie en Beschrijving van Franeker, Beginnende met den jaare 1192 en eindigende in het jaar 1785. Franeker, D. v. d. Sluis en D. Romar, 1785. A sequel to this appeared in 1790: Gebeurtenissen van Franeker, sedert den 14 May 1787 tot den 20 Dec. 1789;

E. Napjus. Geschiedkundige Kronijk en Beschrijving van de Stad Sneek. Second, enlarged and improved edition, Sneek, F. W. v. B. Smallenburg, 1826;

F. W. van Breest Smallenburg. Algemeen Aardrijks- en Geschiedkundig Woordenboek van de Provincie Friesland. Sneek, Wed. F. W. v. B. Smallenburg (1833);

H. W. Steenstra. Oudheidkundige Aanteekeningen van de Dorpen en Kloosters der Grietenij Franekeradeel, tevens bevattende een Naamlijst van de Hervormde Predikanten dier Dorpen, sedert de Hervorming tot nu toe. Franeker, G. Ypma, 1836;

G. van Sandwijk. Kronijkmalige en Geschiedkundige Beschrijving van Purmerende en omliggende Dorpen, Meren, enz. At Purmerende, by D. Broedelet & Co., 1839;

W. Eekhoff. Geschiedkundige Beschrijving van Leeuwarden, de Hoofdstad van Friesland; vermeldende den oorsprong, den aanwas en de uitbreiding van deze stad en van hare openbare gebouwen, gestichten, inrigtingen enz., van den vroegsten tijd tot den jare 1846. Two Volumes, Leeuwarden, W. Eekhoff, 1846;

Jr. Mr. M. de Haan Hettema and Mr. A. van Halmael, Jr. Stamboek van den Frieschen vroegeren en lateren Adel, uit oude en echte Bescheiden en Aanteekeningen, en met bijvoeging van de Wapens der onderscheidene Geslachten, opgemaakt. Two Volumes, Leeuwarden, D. Meindersma, Wz., 1846. This book is referred to as "Het Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel";

J. L. Terwen. Het Koningrijk der Nederlanden, in eene reeks van gezigten zijner belangrijke plaatsen, steden, kerken, kasteelen en andere gebouwen. G. B. van Goor at Gouda, 2 or 3 volumes, 1858—62;

J. Oomkens J.zoon. Bouwstoffen tot eene geschiedenis van de Boekdrukkunst en den Boekhandel in de Stad en Provincie Groningen. First edition, not for sale, 1854. Second enlarged edition, published by the Boekverkoopers-Collegie at Groningen, 1864;

Mr. A. Telting. Register van het Archief van Franeker, in Chronologische orde opgemaakt. After his death published, by order of the Town Council, by Mr. I. Telting. Franeker, T. Telenga, 1867. This Register is referred to as the "Telting-Register" and the Archive to which it relates as the "Telting-Archief". This archive is kept in various cabinets in the Town Hall at Franeker. It does not, however, contain all the documents and papers still present at Franeker, since elsewhere in the Town Hall all sorts of books and papers are still stored, for instance, to mention something, the Burgerboek of Franeker;

Dr. A. M. Ledeboer. De Boekdrukkers, Boekverkoopers en Uitgevers in Noord-Nederland, sedert de uitvinding van de boekdrukkunst tot den aanvang der negentiende eeuw. Deventer, A. ter Gunne, 1872 (not for sale);

W. Eekhoff. De Stedelijke Kunstverzameling van Leeuwarden, met een vervolg op den Catalogus van de Stedelijke Bibliotheek van 1870, alsmede een oversigt van de Geschiedenis der Kunst in Friesland. Leeuwarden, at the Municipal Printing Office of H. Bokma, 1875;

Guilielmus du Rieu. Album Studiosorum Academiae Lugduno Batavae MDLXXV—MDCCCLXXV Accedunt nomina Curatorum et Professorum per eadem secula. Hagae Comitum apud Martinum Nijhoff MDCCCLXXV;

Dr. A. M. Ledeboer. Alfabetische Lijst der Boekdrukkers, Boekverkoopers en Uitgevers in Noord-Nederland, sedert de uitvinding van de boekdrukkunst tot den aanvang der negentiende eeuw. Utrecht, J. L. Beijers, 1876;

P. H. Witkamp. Aardrijkskundig Woordenboek van Nederland. Amsterdam, Scheltema & Holkema and C. L. Brinkman. (1877);

Mr. W. B. S. Boeles. Frieslands Hoogeschool en het Rijks Athenaeum te Franeker. Leeuwarden, H. Kuipers, Volume I 1878 and Volume II 1879;

Dr. D. Bierens de Haan. Bibliographie Néerlandaise historique-scientifique des ouvrages importants, dont les auteurs sont nés aux 16e, 17e et 18e siècles, sur les sciences mathématiques et physiques avec leurs applications. Rome, Imprimerie des Sciences mathématiques et physiques, 1883.;

S. Koopmans. Het Notariaat in Friesland vóór 1811. Leeuwarden, A. Meijer; Firm H. Kuipers and J. G. Wester, 1883;

J. B. Rietstap. Armorial général, précédé d'un dictionnaire des termes du blason. Deuxième Edition refondue et augmentée. Gouda, G. B. van Goor Zonen, deux tomes (1884—1887);

Mr. A. J. Andreæ, Oudheidkundige Plaatsbeschrijving van de Gemeente Kollumerland en Nieuw Kruisland. Kollum, T. Slagter, 1885;

G. H. van Borssum Waalkes. Friesche Klokke-opschriften met andere van elders vergeleken, en met aanteekeningen, vertaling, registers en platen voorzien. Leeuwarden, A. Meijer, Firm H. Kuipers and J. G. Wester, 1885;

Johan Winkler. De Nederlandsche Geslachtsnamen in oorsprong, geschiedenis en beteekenis. Haarlem, H. D. Tjeenk Willink (± 1885);

Album Studiosorum Academiae Rheno-Traiectinae MDCXXXVI—MDCCCLXXXVI. Accedunt nomina Curatorum et Professorum per eadem secula. Ultraiecti apud J. L. Beijers et J. van Boekhoven MDCCCLXXXVI;

Ds. T. A. Romein. Naamlijst der Predikanten, sedert de Hervorming tot nu toe, in de Hervormde Gemeenten van Friesland, Leeuwarden, A. Meijer, Firm H. Kuipers and J. G. Wester, 1886. Aanvullingen en Verbeteringen van deze Naamlijst by Dr. S. D. van Veen, Leeuwarden, Meijer en Schaafsma, 1892. This Naamlijst is referred to as "de naamlijst van Ds. Romein";

J. F. van Someren. Beschrijvende Catalogus van gegraveerde Portretten van Nederlanders. Vervolg op Frederik Mullers Catalogus van 7000 Portretten van Nederlanders. Amsterdam, Frederik Muller & C^ie. First Volume 1888, Second Volume 1890 and Third Volume 1891;

A. A. Vorsterman van Oyen. De oude Kerkregisters in ons land. 's-Gravenhage, Genealogisch en Heraldisch Archief, 1892;

Friesch Woordenboek, edited by Waling Dijkstra and Dr. F. Buitenrust Hettema, together with Lijst van Friesche Eigennamen, edited by Johan Winkler. Leeuwarden, Meijer & Schaafsma, Friesche Naamlijst 1898, Vol. I 1900, Vol. II 1903 and Vol. III 1911 (issued bound in two volumes);

J. L. Berns. Oude Kerkelijke Archieven in Friesland (reprinted from the annual reports of the State Archivist in Friesland for 1896 and 1898). 's-Gravenhage 1899;

Prof. Dr. J. P. N. Land. De Wijsbegeerte in de Nederlanden. Translated from the English and edited by Mr. C. van Vollenhoven, with a biographical notice of the author by Prof. Dr. C. B. Spruyt. 's-Gravenhage, Martinus Nijhoff, 1899;

Johan Winkler. Studiën in Nederlandsche Namenkunde. Haarlem, H. D. Tjeenk Willink & Zoon, 1900;

Rolland. Planches de l'Armorial général. Armoiries des familles contenues dans l'Armorial général de J. B. Rietstap. 6 Volumes. Parijs 1903—1914 and 's-Gravenhage, Martinus Nijhoff, 1915—1925;

J. L. Berns. Oude Archieven van den Burgerlijken Stand in Friesland (reprinted from the annual report of the State Archivist in Friesland for 1903). 's-Gravenhage, 1904;

Geïllustreerde Gids voor Franeker en Omstreken, published in consultation with "Franeker's Belang", Association for the promotion of tourism etc. Franeker, Westerbaan's Boekhandel, 1906;

J. W. te Winkel. Album Academicum van het Athenaeum Illustre en van de Universiteit van Amsterdam. Amsterdam, R. W. P. de Vries, 1913;

Dr. Jakobus Reimers. Das Adlerwappen bei den Friesen. Oldenburg. Printed and published by Gerhard Stalling, 1914;

Album Studiosorum Academiae Groninganae, published by the Historisch Genootschap at Groningen. Groningen, J. B. Wolters' U. M., 1915.

F. L. Hartong. Register der Protocollen van Notarissen in Nederland, compiled by order of the Broederschap der Notarissen in Nederland, from ± 1550 to the present. Published by the Broederschap der Notarissen in Nederland and printed by Nijgh & Van Ditmar at Rotterdam, 1916;

Nanne Ottema. Friesche Majolica. Published by the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde, 1920;

Dr. J. E. Kroon. Album Studiosorum Academiæ Lugduno-Batavæ MDCCCLXXV—MCMXXV. A. W. Sijthoff's Uitgeversmaatschappij, Leiden (1925);

W. Norman Brown. Johns Hopkins Half-century Directory. A Catalogue of the Trustees, Faculty, Holders of Honorary Degrees, and Students, Graduates and Non-graduates 1876—1926. Published by The Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, 1926;

A. Hallema. Het Klaarkampster Weeshuis te Franeker van 1597 tot 1897, a contribution to the history of the care of orphans in Friesland. Leiden, A. W. Sijthoff's Uitgeversmaatschappij N.V., (± 1929);

Dr. M. D. Ozinga. De Protestantsche Kerkenbouw in Nederland van Hervorming tot Franschen tijd. H. J. Paris, Amsterdam, MCMXXIX;

Elias Voet Jr. Merken van Friesche Goud- en Zilversmeden. Preceded by: R. Visscher; De Leeuwarder Goud- en Zilversmeden uit de XVI^e, XVII^e en XVIII^e eeuw. s'-Gravenhage, Martinus Nijhoff, 1932.

Periodicals and Serial Works.

"De Vrije Fries", periodical, published by the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde, at Leeuwarden. Volumes I up to and including XXXI for the years 1839 up to and including 1932.

Monthly of the Genealogisch-heraldisch Genootschap "De Nederlandsche Leeuw" at 's-Gravenhage (since January 1933 Monthly of the Koninklijk Genealogisch-heraldisch Genootschap at 's-Gravenhage, and since May 1933 "De Nederlandsche Leeuw", Monthly of the Koninklijk Nederlandsch Genootschap voor Geslacht- en Wapenkunde there). Volumes I up to and including LI for the years 1883 up to and including 1933;

"De Friesche Adelaar". Pages devoted to genealogy and heraldry. Eight numbers, published at Leeuwarden in the years 1887 up to and including 1891;

"Sljucht en Rjucht, Frysk Wykbled". Publisher W. A. Eisma Cs, Lyouwert. 35 volumes for the years 1897 up to and including 1933;

"Nederland's Patriciaat". Volumes 1 up to and including 18 for the years 1910 up to and including 1929 published by the Centraal Bureau voor Genealogie en Heraldiek at 's-Gravenhage, and volumes 19 and 20 for the years 1930 up to and including 1932, published by the Stichting Nederland's Patriciaat there.

Illustrations, plates and prints.

Plans of Franeker.

An extensive plan with a key is found in:

the book by Doct. Pierius Winsemius mentioned above; this plan is by Petrus Bast 1598;

"Toonneel der Steden van de Vereenighde Nederlanden, Met hare Beschrijvingen, Uitgegeven by Joan Blaev" (1649) (the so-called Stedenboek van Blaeu);

the work by Prof. Christianus Schotanus of 1664 mentioned above.

Views of Franeker.

A very rare print by Petrus Bast of 1598, a copy of which is in my possession, gives a view of the north side of Franeker, with various persons in the foreground.

A view of the north side of Franeker is found in "Description de tovts les Pays-Bas .... par Messire Loys Gvicciardin", Arnhem, Jean Jeansz. 1613 and in the later oblong quarto editions of Guicciardini, as well as in Jan Francois Le Petit, Nederlantsche Repvblycke, Arnhem, for the son of the Author, 1615. This little print has been reproduced in the "Geïllustreerde Gids voor Franeker en Omstreken" of 1906 mentioned above.

A small view of the north side of Franeker occurs in D. Meisner. Sciographia Cosmica. Dass ist Ne/u/wes Emblematisches Büchlei/n/, darinnen in acht Centurijs die Vornembste(n) Stätt, Vestung, Schlösser etc. der ganzen Welt .... mit schönen Lateinischen vnd Teutsche(n) Versiculn ad Vivum abgebildet werden. Nürnberg bey Paulo Fürsten Balth. Caijmoysee: Erben, 1638—1642.

Above the ground plan mentioned above in the work of Prof. Christianus Schotanus of 1664 there is a view of the north side of Franeker. This view has been reproduced in the first Volume of the aforementioned work of Mr. W. B. S. Boeles.

A small print of the Academy buildings at Franeker is to be found on fol. 759 of the aforementioned book of Doct. Pierius Winsemius of 1622. This little print has been reproduced in the first Volume of the already mentioned work of Mr. W. B. S. Boeles. An illustration of the University building at Franeker in 1783 appears at page 520 of the 2nd Volume on the Province of Friesland of the aforementioned "Tegenwoordige Staat der Vereenigde Nederlanden".

The funeral print, consisting of 25 adjoining sheets with a printed legend, showing the "Mournful funeral pomp at the funeral procession and burial of the lifeless body of Willem Frederik van Nassau", who was interred on 27[1] December 1664 O.S., 6 January 1665 N.S. in the Jacobijner Kerk at Leeuwarden. Publishers: Sixtus Regneri Aruntsma, Allardus Stellingwerf and Sachæus Sibema, 1666 (Leeuwarden). The draughtsman of the print is F. Carré, the engravers are M. Noé and C. Appeus, and the writer of the lettering is P. Langweer. Of this print only 3 copies are known to date, one of which is present in the Koninklijke Bibliotheek at 's-Gravenhage, while the two other copies, provided with a printed legend, are kept in 's Rijks Prentenkabinet at Amsterdam. The print is described under number 2199 in Frederik Muller, De Nederlandsche geschiedenis in platen. Beredeneerde beschrijving van Nederlandsche historieplaten, zinneprenten en historische kaarten, 1863—1882, — and under number 2305 in the "Atlas van Stolk", Katalogus der Historie-, Spot- en Zinneprenten betrekkelijk de geschiedenis van Nederland, collected by A. van Stolk Cz., arranged and described by G. van Rijn and C. van Ommeren, 1895—1931.

---

[1] See note 1 on page 169.

SURVEY AND CONTENTS

Of the family “Greydanus” the following will be treated in succession:

	p.
the general history in Chapter I	15
the family coat of arms in Chapter II	19
the descent of the first “Greydanus”: Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus Tyaerdszoon and of his stepbrother Benedictus Tyaerdszoon in Chapter III	22
the first “Greydanus” in Chapter IV	72
the complete genealogy in Chapter V	182

This Chapter V is divided into:

introduction	182
first generation (N^{o} 1)	184
second generation (N^{os} 2 up to and including 4)	185
third generation (N^{os} 5 up to and including 13)	201
fourth generation (N^{os} 14 up to and including 53)	258
fifth generation (N^{os} 54 up to and including 97)	346
sixth generation (N^{os} 98 up to and including 167)	417
seventh generation (N^{os} 168 up to and including 263)	511
eighth generation (N^{os} 264 up to and including 428)	591
ninth generation (N^{os} 429 up to and including 682)	694
tenth generation (N^{os} 683 up to and including 947)	809
and eleventh generation /N^{os} 948 up to and including 979[1]	860

At the end follow:

a survey and contents of the genealogy	866
a list of the genealogical schemes and of the tables	899
a statement of the illustrations (excluding the depictions of coats of arms and the portraits)	900
the portraits	903
a list of the house marks and the master's marks	913 a list of the families of which depictions and/or descriptions of the family coat of arms are found	914 various indexes, namely:
an index of the given names of the male members of the family	916
an index of the given names of the female members of the family	920
an index of the professions, positions and some functions of the members of the family	924
an index of places mentioned in the genealogy where adult members of the family have lived or are still established	935
an index of the alliances of the family	955 and an index of the names of the families not related to the family	961
and a “Postscript”	975

[1] It should be noted that among these 979 numbers there occur 54 persons who do not bear the family name “Greydanus” but another one, because they are not descended from a male but from a female member of the family “Greydanus”, and that 3 members have remained unnumbered, because their date of birth was unknown (see the Recapitulation on page 898, at the end of the Survey and the Contents of the Genealogy).

CHAPTER I

GENERAL HISTORY OF THE FAMILY

The family “Greydanus” is a thoroughly Protestant Frisian family, originating from Franeker and dating from the beginning of the 17th century. Originally the name was written as “Greydanus”, which ought not to be “Greijdanus”, for, as will appear further on, the name is derived from a Frisian word, and the ij does not exist in Frisian. Gradually, however, the more modern spelling “Greidanus” was adopted, except by a few branches of the family, which were mainly settled in the countryside of Friesland and which up to the present day, tenacious as the Frisians are (though in this case in fact quite rightly), have continued to write “Greydanus”, even if unfortunately mostly with the dots on the y.

The first “Greydanus” was: Johannes Theotardi (Jan Tyaerds), who as the son of Tyaerd Jans and Jantien Jans first saw the light of day at Franeker in 1630 or 1631. His exact date of birth cannot be dug up from the Franeker Reformed baptismal entries, since a list of these in the Lidmatenboek (register of church members) kept by the minister only begins on 1 January 1649 and the Reformed baptismal registers themselves only start on 5 January 1650.

This Tyaerd Jans practised at Franeker the trade of “gortmaecker” (groats miller) or “gortmolenaer” (groats miller), and lived there from 1636 to 1646 in a house with a groats mill on “de Greyde”.

“De Greyde” at Franeker was then the name of the street to the south of a part[1] of the canal — in those days people spoke of “'t Diept” —, which is now called “het Noord”, while at that time the street to the north of the canal bore the name of Noordermolenstraat. First the Noordermolenstraat came to be designated as “het Noord”, and gradually the name “de Greyde” seems to have fallen into disuse and both streets along the canal were christened “het Noord”, so that one now has: “het Noord” south side and “het Noord” north side. On the town plans of Franeker, in the “Stedenboek” of Blaeu and in the 2nd edition of the “Beschrijvinge van de heerlijckheidt van Friesland tusschen 't Vlie en de Lauwers” by Christianus Schotanus, which illustrations are from about 1650, one does however find the street name “de Greyde” indicated.

The father of Johannes Theotardi thus lived from 1636 to 1646 on “de Greyde”. Johannes Theotardi was not continuously with his father during this period, in which he was from 5 or 6 to 15 or 16 years old, for when, after the death of his mother, his father remarried and he thus acquired a stepmother, he was taken into the house for some years by his father's mother, who however also resided on “de Greyde”, a few houses away from Tyaerd Jans.

Johannes Theotardi at first called himself, apparently after the street in which he lived in his youth, Jan or Joan Greyde of Franeker, and had chosen the motto “HIERNAE BETER” (“better hereafter”). On his arrival on 18 June 1647 at the Franeker University[2] the Rector Arnoldus Verhel, Professor of Philosophy, entered him in the Album Studiosorum, in which everything was drawn up in Latin, as: “Johannes Greidanŭs, Franeqŭerensis frisiŭs”. Since then he appears, with the exception of a very few occasions, generally under this name.

“Greydanus” is thus nothing other than the Latinized form of “Greyde”, which is the Frisian word for grassland, meadow or pasture, in contrast to arable land[1]. Even today this word is also used in Dutch; thus one cannot nowadays open a Leeuwarder Courant — the principal daily paper of Friesland — without finding in it announcements of sales of “greidland”, “greidplaatsen”, “greide”, and now and then one also comes across the word “greidboer” in it. In accordance with this, Johan Winkler (see page 555 of his “De Nederlandsche geslachtsnamen in oorsprong, geschiedenis en beteekenis”, Haarlem no year, and page 135 of his “Lijst van Friesche Eigennamen” at the back of the Frisian Dictionary of Waling Dijkstra) calls the surname “Greydanus” one of a general geographical nature, and indeed in Latinized form[2]. “Greydanus” thus corresponds to the surnames “Heidanus” (from heide, heath) and “Geesteranus” (from geest, i.e. high sandy ground, in contrast to low peat and polder soils), with this understanding, however, that it is not directly derived from “greyde”, the Frisian word for grassland or pasture, but from the former street name “de Greyde” at Franeker. The Latinizing of the surname was, especially in the 16th and 17th centuries, a general custom among the learned; the Grecizing of the surname also occurs. Winkler says about this on page 550 of his handbook just mentioned: “And this custom, in use among all the lettered and learned of Christian Europe, not only held its ground in the 16th and 17th centuries, but, with the high flight which the study of the ancient letters took especially in those centuries, assumed great proportions, and was very generally applied. And not least was this the case in the Netherlands, in those centuries precisely the cradle of so many of its own and the dwelling place of so many foreign scholars”.

[1] From the Nauwe Steeg to the Sjaerdemastraat.

[2] The University at Franeker was founded, some ten years after that of Leiden, on 15 July 1585, by the Stadtholder of Friesland and the Deputy States of this province, in response to a request from the Frisian Reformed ministers to establish a “seminarium”. It was in its time a well-known university, where many foreigners also studied, and has been the nursery of numerous famous men and of professors for Leiden. In 1811 it was “suppressed” by Napoleon (in the Imperial decree of 22 October 1811, concerning the organisation of higher education, the Franeker Academy was not mentioned, so that it was tacitly abolished) and in 1815 replaced by an Athenaeum, also called illustrious school, as opposed to the trivial school, by which the Latin school was designated. An Athenaeum had no right to confer a degree.

Johannes Greydanus, who later became Professor of Philosophy at the University of Franeker and at the same time — surely a rare combination — as Doctor of Medicine practised medicine, was thus the first “Greydanus”, and became the progenitor of an exceedingly numerous family.

His mother Jantien Jans presumably died fairly soon after his birth, whereupon his father Tyaerd Jans remarried with Griettie Benedictus. From this second marriage was born, among others, a son Benedictus Tyaerds (Bindixt Tyeerds), from whom a relatively not large family descended. This family, thus descending from a son of the second marriage of the father of the first "Greydanus", nevertheless already made use of that family name in the third generation, which was in fact not incorrect. In the beginning, however, they continued to call themselves by their father's names, the so-called patronymics. Perhaps at first they did not dare to appropriate the family name of the Professor, who lived in so much higher a station, because they were really descended not from the first "Greydanus" himself, but from his father. Moreover, these family members were less learned and lettered, and they therefore adhered all the more easily to the old praiseworthy custom of giving the children as a byname the genitive of the father's first name. This usage, testifying to becoming filial reverence for the father, held its ground for a very long time, especially among the Frisians. Among those countrymen this ancient and worthy usage was even so deeply rooted that, when they voluntarily adopted fixed surnames, or when at the beginning of the last century they had to make use of fixed proper names, they nevertheless still often inserted their father's first name in the genitive between their own first name and their own surname. And this usage has remained in vogue in Friesland to this day. Still in the 18th century it prevailed there generally. In the last century it died out somewhat in the towns; at present it is mainly restricted to the countryside, where a considerable part of the "Greydanus" family and its relatives have resided and among which these patronymic middle names will be found, but there too it is diminishing. Although these interpolated father's names, such as Jelle Ymtes Greijdanus, Tjerkje Aukes Greijdanus, are not legal names and the persons who are so called in daily life ought to appear in the registers of the Civil Registry merely as Jelle Greijdanus and Tjerkje Greijdanus, the Frisians attach so much value to these patronymic middle names that they entirely take the place of the actual surnames, and many a person is known in the circle of his daily surroundings only by his first name and his father's name. In earlier centuries, up to the beginning of 1800, this usage occurred considerably more often, since most Frisians of the lower classes had no surnames at that time, or else neglected them. In this work these patronymic middle names will be included.

[1] The original meaning of the word "greyde" was topsoil, that is to say, the soil in which something grows. A form of the word modified by vowel change is "groede" or "groed", green outland, grassed accretion, salt marsh, which designation still lives on in the name of the North Holland polder "Waard en Groet", of the North Holland village "Groet", and of the Zeeland municipality "Groede".

[2] Surnames of a geographical nature in Latinized form are for example also: Acronius (from the Frisian village Akkrum), Hempenius (from the Frisian village Hempens), Roldanus (from the Drenthe village Rolde), Schotanus (from the Frisian villages Oude- and Nieuweschoot), Snecanus (from the town of Sneek), Tilanus (from the town of Tiel) and Winsemius (from the Frisian village Winsum).

Benedictus Tyaerds, who thus had with his stepbrother Prof. Johannes Greydanus the common father Tyaerd Jans, has never been found with the surname "Greydanus". This name only appears with his grandchildren. With one of his daughters — Trijntie Benedictus — on the other hand, a fact occurs that could indicate that she did indeed have that surname, but did not use it. This fact consists in the circumstance that a son of this Trijntie Benedictus from her marriage with one Nijs Adolphs, namely Benedictus Nijsses, who became a book printer and bookseller at Groningen, bore the surname "Greydanus". Since this son cannot have derived the surname "Greydanus" from other relatives, nor have come by it in any other way, it must be assumed that he took it over from his mother, knowing that she belonged to the same family as that of Prof. Johannes Greydanus. All the more so because in those days such a course of action was nothing unusual; if one went, among other things, to study at a University, then it was decidedly the custom to have oneself enrolled with a surname, whereby, if one did not possess one, one adopted a surname, borrowed for instance from one's family, for which of course the mother came first into consideration. The adoption of a surname often went strangely; if, to mention something, a farmer had rented or acquired in ownership a state bearing a noble name, then it often happened that he began to bear the noble name of the state. This has occurred in an alliance of the "Greydanus" family and will be reported in the appropriate place. On the other hand, the loss or the nonuse of the surname also occurs.

The Groningen book printer and bookseller Benedictus (Nijsses) Greydanus referred to above was thus actually a "pseudo-Greydanus". His little branch, which has become extinct, will be indicated in the genealogy.

The further history of the family is, in rough outline, as follows:

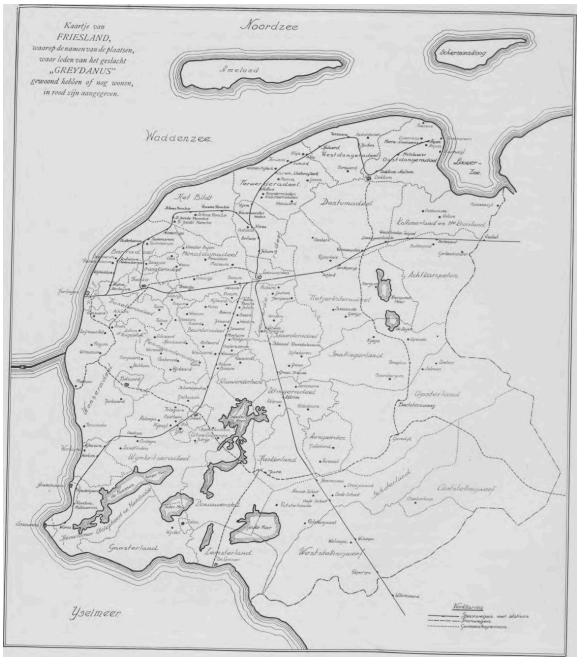
Johannes Greydanus had the 3 sons:

Tjardus, Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitzum;

Sixtus, Conrector at the Latin Schools at Franeker;

and Petrus, Dutch Reformed minister at Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp.

The branch of Tjardus was, because he married twice, immediately split into two. The members of the eldest shoot went to live in the countryside of Friesland, where they were mainly occupied in agriculture and cattle breeding; at present this shoot has only female descendants left, so it will soon be extinct. The other, still flourishing shoot disappeared entirely from Friesland at the end of the 18th century and has mainly produced ministers and civil servants. From it sprang, at the beginning of the 19th century, the families "Idema Greidanus" and "Pluym Greidanus", of which "Pluym" was later omitted, and still later "Van Wimersma Greidanus".



Small map of FRIESLAND, on which the names of the places where members of the family "GREYDANUS" have lived or still live are indicated in red.

[legend at lower right of the map:] Explanation — Railways with stations / Tramways / Municipal boundaries.

The branch of the Conrector Sixtus Greydanus soon died out, while the Rijperkerk minister Petrus Greydanus gave existence to hundreds and hundreds of descendants, who as it were flooded the whole North-West of Friesland, in the beginning as schoolmasters and subsequently mainly as farmers, small tradesmen and skippers. A few families of the Rijperkerk branch emigrated at the end of the last century to the United States of North America and to California, where they still exist, but the branch has now attained its greatest extent in the North-West of Friesland. There it has in this time acquired such a size, that there are various "Greydanussen" belonging to it who are married to a "Greidanus" or "Greijdanus" (for the one family stubbornly calls itself "Greidanus" and the other "Greijdanus"), without being able to state in what way they are related to each other. Of late this branch too is bidding farewell to the "heitelân"[1], evidently because no means of subsistence can be found there. Because virtually no more emigrants are admitted by the United States of North America, people have ended up in the three largest cities of our country: Amsterdam, Rotterdam and 's-Gravenhage, and in Hilversum and Bussum. In this part of the family too a group of "pseudo-Greydanussen" occurs. The first person of this group, who will be included in the genealogy and has died out, took the name from the husband of a father's sister.

The descendants of the stepbrother, Benedictus Tyaerds (Bindixt Tyeerds), of Johannes Greydanus, moved after some generations from Franeker to Leeuwarden and to Harlingen, and thus, in contrast with the oldest shoot of the branch of Tjardus Greydanus and with the Rijperkerk part of the family, did not linger in the countryside, but in the towns of Friesland. The Leeuwarden stem is at present still there, and moreover established in other places in the Netherlands, in the United States of North America and in Netherlands East Indies. The descendants of Benedictus Tyaerds have, as has already been mentioned, comparatively never excelled in numbers; in the beginning they were very simple people, but in the course of time their social standing rose.

Attached hereto is a small map of Friesland, on which the names of the towns and villages where members of the family "Greydanus" have lived or still live are indicated in red[2].

In the opening the family is called a thoroughly Protestant family. There have, namely, belonged to it various Reformed ministers and several schoolmasters, who in the time in which they lived were closely connected with the Reformed Church, since they held in that Church the office of sexton, organist and precentor, and for instance kept the Contraboek of the baptismal and marriage entries and of the church members. Numbers of its members, both in the towns and in the countryside, were church warden, deacon or elder in the said church, and in general the country folk were a particularly devout sort of people.

It is, however, not likely, on account of the great extent to which the family has gradually come, that all members, without exception, will remain Protestant. Already now a few have gone over to the Catholic religion.

The family "Greydanus" has so to speak remained completely a stranger to men of war, for of the more than nine hundred members which it has produced up to now, only a couple have formed part of the military estate.

[1] The Frisian word for fatherland.

[2] These places of residence are in accordance with the index of places of residence included on page 935; St. Anna Parochie relates to pseudo-Greydanussen.

„Greydanus"

CHAPTER II

THE FAMILY COAT OF ARMS

The heraldic description of the coat of arms of the family "Greydanus" is:

party per pale: 1. the Frisian eagle[1]

2. twice divided per fess: a. fleur-de-lis.

b. mill wheel.

c. six-pointed star.

Crest: the fleur-de-lis of the shield.

The oldest dating of the coat of arms that has come to light so far is 1689 on a small silver mustard pot, on the front of which are engraved the arms "Greydanus" and "Steenkist", and on the underside of the foot the said year with some initials, namely: TG ✻ ES 1689[2]

The little pot, which is at present in the possession of Mr. T. Greidanus at Amsterdam (n^{o} 455 of the genealogy)[3] and of which some illustrations follow hereafter, must therefore originally have been the property of the minister at Achlum and Hitsum Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (no. 5 of the genealogy) and his (second) wife Eelckien Steenkist.

Then follows the coat of arms, carved in a stone slab covering the grave in the Dutch Reformed Church at Achlum of the just-mentioned minister Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, died 19 March 1712.

This coat of arms, of which an illustration is given hereafter (the whole slab, which is at present covered by a wooden floor, is illustrated at page 206), however shows a form differing from the one described above. In the first place the left half of the shield is not divided twice but only once, whereby the six-pointed star has been dropped. The two other figures, thus the fleur-de-lis and the mill wheel, have been retained. In the second place the fleur-de-lis is placed not above but below the mill wheel, to which a peculiar heraldic form unknown to me has been given. This peculiarly formed figure must nevertheless be meant to represent a mill wheel, namely the so-called cogwheel of a horse mill or hand mill, as might for instance appear from the illustration of such a mill, on plate CLXXVIII in Part VII of the "Nieuw en Volkomen Woordenboek van Konsten en Weetenschappen" by Egbert Buys (Amsterdam, MDCCLXXV). This illustration in Part VII of Buys' Dictionary, in which Part the following occurs on page 468, has been reproduced hereafter:

> "The Horse or Hand Mill is one which is worked by horses or by hand. A the long beam or lever for moving it, may be double, threefold or fourfold, so that it allows several men or horses to turn several mills at the same time. B is the cogwheel, which is placed horizontally, with pegs that are fastened not on its flat surface but on the outside, in the circumference of the sections. The pinion or lantern-gear cap is marked C; the prop or support D; the iron axle E, and the drum in which the millstones are enclosed, F."

The father of the first "Greydanus" was a groats miller at "de Greyde" at Franeker. Presumably he had a mill similar to the horse or hand mill described here, so that the figure in the coat of arms on the gravestone could be directly derived from the milling business of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus' grandfather Tyaerd Jans.

Since in the other known sources for the coat of arms "Greydanus" the left half of the Silver mustard pot of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (N^{o} 5 of the genealogy) and his (second) wife Eelckien Steenkist (the illustrations of the pot are at approximately actual size).

---

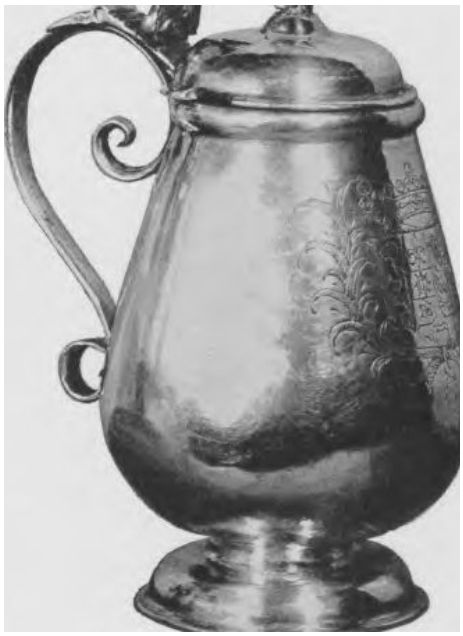
[1] The so-called Frisian eagle consists of the half of a black double eagle (eagle with two heads) in a golden field, and is placed, issuing from the dividing line, in the right half (for the beholder the left half) of the shield. Almost all Frisian families bear that eagle in this manner; the other half of the shield they then fill with their actual emblems. Much has been written about the origin and meaning of the Frisian eagle, but no conclusive explanation of it has yet been reached. An important book on this subject is the work of Dr. Jakobus Reimers "Das Adlerwappen bei den Friesen", Oldenburg, 1914.

[2] Near these initials are placed the 3 silversmith's marks, namely the year letter R, which was the letter for the year 1689; the assay mark of the town of Bolsward: the arms of that town, which mark was very blunt at about that time; and the master's mark of the Bolsward gold- and silversmith Jan Jans Olthoff. This master's mark was an O with a J through it; it occurs on page 241 sub 324 of the book by Elias Voet Jr. on the marks of Frisian gold- and silversmiths. Jan Jans Olthoff, who was still living in 1701, was a brother of Maycke Jans Olthoff, the grandmother of Aafke Olthoff, the first wife of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (see the draft fragment-genealogy "Olthoff" at page 211).

[3] Copies of the mustard pot are in the possession of Dr. H. Th. van Wimersma Greidanus at Utrecht (No. 457 of the genealogy) and of myself.

Coat of arms (1689) "Greydanus" on the pot (enlarged).

*Underside of the foot, with the inscription "TG*ES 1689" and the 3 marks, of the pot.*



View of the pot.

Coat of arms (1772—1775) of Maria Bosscha—Greidanus (N° 62 of the genealogy), on the armorial board of the Regents of the General Orphanage at Harlingen.

Coat of arms (1712) on the gravestone of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (N° 5 of the genealogy), in the Church at Achlum.

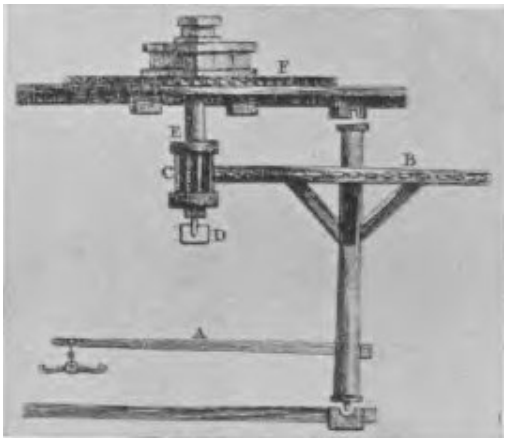


Illustration of a "Paerden- of Handmolen", from the Dictionary of Egbert Buys.

Seal (± 1790) with the "Greydanus" coat of arms.

Seal with the initials K Y G.

Silver sealing-wax seals, evidently belonging to Ymte Jacobs Greydanus (N° 67 of the genealogy) (actual size).

half is always twice divided with 3 figures in it, I think the arms on the gravestone of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus in the Achlum Church must be regarded as arms of a deviating form. The reason for the deviation, however, I cannot guess.

Furthermore, the arms in the form described at the beginning occur on a silver wax seal belonging to me from the end of the 18th century, which seal evidently came from the schoolmaster and dorprechter (village judge) at Jorwerd: Ymte Jacobs Greijdanus, who lived from 1754 to 1827 (n° 67 of the genealogy). At any rate this hand seal is on a chain, from which a second hand seal also hangs with the intertwined letters K Y G, presumably the initials of K/C/ornelis Ymtes Greidanus, a son of the said Jorwerd schoolmaster and dorprechter, and farmer (on the chain and also on the stamp with the initials ears of corn occur as motifs), first at Hijlaard, afterwards at Jorwerd (n° 132 of the genealogy). The stamps engraved on the seals are shown alongside[1].

Moreover a coat of arms "Greydanus", in the normal form, is also found on:

1° a painted armorial board, measuring 2½ M. by 2 M., of the Regents of the Algemeen Weeshuis at Harlingen, which board hangs in the Orphanage in the Regents' room[2]. On this board there are namely the arms of the Lady Regents:

Maria Bosscha-Greidanus 1772—1775 (n° 62 of the genealogy), and Petronella Houtsma-Greidanus 1796—1799 (n° 102 of the genealogy);

Of the arms of Maria Bosscha—Greidanus painted on the armorial board an illustration is included alongside.

2° a letter dated 27 January 1817 from notary J. P. J. Greydanus at Heerenveen (n° 115 of the genealogy) in the archive of the former Justice of the Peace Court of Heerenveen (present in the State Archive of Friesland). On this letter the arms appear impressed in red wax;

3° my "ex libris" (see "Het Nederlandsche Ex-Libris", Part III, Ex-Libris, executed after thirty woodcuts and drawings by George Rueter, W. J. Rozendaal and J. Franken Pzn. with a preface by Johan Schwencke. A. A. M. Stols, Maastricht 1928).

The colours of the arms — the Frisian eagle is always, as has been stated, black on gold — have indeed been lost, but can nevertheless still be indicated with fairly great certainty, namely: the fleur-de-lis gold on blue, the mill wheel black on silver and the six-pointed star gold on blue. In this way the colours are also indicated on the armorial board mentioned under 1°; only on this the middle part of the divided field consists of a gold round figure or shell on red. To this deviation, however, no importance should be attached, for which reference is made to the short communication: "Wapenoogst te Harlingen" in columns 421 and 422 of the XXVIIth volume of 1919 of the Monthly mentioned in note 4 on the previous page. That the figure is not a shell or anything else, but a mill wheel, appears clearly from the arms engraved on the mustard pot and on the wax seal, and is in pleasing agreement with the already mentioned fact that the father of the first "Greydanus", thus of the man who will have adopted the arms, was a miller. Yet there exist still more misconceptions concerning this figure. Thus it also occurs as a "heart", for instance on a seal impressed in red wax of the notary Dirk Greydanus at Makkum (n° 189 of the genealogy), which seal is found on a document from the notarial repertory over the years 1824—1826, present in the Archive of the Court at Sneek (in the State Archive of Friesland).

An illustration of the arms in the highly probable colours given above has been placed at the beginning of this chapter; according to this illustration and the foregoing the complete heraldic description of the arms of the family "Greydanus" is then as follows:

[1] The chain with the two signets was sent in to the Exhibition of Frisian silverwork held at Leeuwarden from 15 August to 15 September 1927. In the Catalogue of that Exhibition it is mentioned under no. 601, where in the description of the arms "cogwheel" has erroneously been put instead of "mill wheel".

[2] See my short communication "Nieuwe wapenoogst te Harlingen" in columns 182 and 183 of Part XLVI (A°. 1928) of the Monthly of the Genealogical-heraldic Society "De Nederlandsche Leeuw".

party per pale: 1. the Frisian eagle
2. twice per fess: a. blue, with a golden lily.
b. silver, with a black mill wheel.
c. blue, with a six-pointed golden star.
Crest: the lily of the shield.
Torse and mantling: gold and blue.

Besides the objects already mentioned that relate to the family, there has also been a large gold signet ring with the coat of arms, which ring must have belonged to the progenitor's son Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus. This ring was found around 1750 in the ruins of the Sjaerdemaslot at Franeker, near which "de Greyde" was situated, where Prof. Greydanus had lived, and it was handed over to his grandson, the Pietersbierum minister Ds. Ausonius Greydanus[1] (n° 18 of the genealogy). After that the ring appears to have passed out of the family, for, according to oral tradition, it was found again at an antique dealer's in Franeker by the Harlingen Rector Petrus Greydanus (n° 107 of the genealogy). From the Harlingen Rector the ring passed to his grandson P. Greijdanus Goslings at Amsterdam (see page 559), who wore it, but who no longer possessed it for a considerable time before his death on 13 December 1897, on which date he was found drowned in the Haarlemmervaart in the former municipality of Sloten (N.H.). All possible efforts made some years ago to trace the ring have been in vain, so that the supposition readily suggests itself that the ring came into strange hands and was melted down during the time of the mobilization, on account of the high value of gold then prevailing.

[1] See note  at the bottom left on page 480 of E. L. Vriemoet "Athenarum Frisiacarum", Leeuwarden 1758.

Diagram concerning the descent of the first "Greydanus": Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus Tyaerdszoon and of his stepbrother Benedictus Tyaerdszoon. Belongs with page 22. Children of Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus [at the trimmed right edge of the sheet a word printed after "† Franeker" in the entry of Wyp/c/ke Wijbes is cut off] - Engel Johannes — d. at Franeker. - ⚭ II Frans Fransen d'Oude — First at Wynaldum, later at Pietersbierum. - ⚭ I Benedycx Seerps — at Wynaldum. - Griettie Benedictus — 2nd wife of Tyaerd Jans - ⚭ Wybe Dirxen — 2nd husband of Griettie Benedictus. Gortmaecker (groats miller). - ⚭ Tyaerd Jans (see below) - Jan Foppes — Farmer at Tjummarum. d. Tjummarum just before 21 November 1654. - ⚭ I Anne Jelledr. — dau. of Jelle Claesz. d. about 1646. - Jantien Jans — 1st wife of Tyaerd Jans. d. between 3 February 1630 and about the year 1643. - ⚭ Tyaerd Jans (see below) - ⚭ II Rixtie Jacobsdr. - Jan Buwes — Citizen and Gortmaecker at Franeker, m. before 8 May 1613. d. Franeker between 20 May 1633 and 11 May 1636. - ⚭ II Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. — d. Franeker between 27 January and 20 March 1652. - Tyaerd Jans — Gortmaecker at Franeker. Born about 1610. d. Franeker just before 3 February 1646. - ⚭ Jantien Jans — 1st wife of Tyaerd Jans. d. between 3 February 1630 and about the year 1643. (see above) - Johannes Theotardi (Joan Greyde) of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus — Born between 3 February 1630 and 3 February 1631. - ⚭ Griettie Benedictus — 2nd wife of Tyaerd Jans (see above) - ? Benedictus Tyaerds — Stepbrother of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus. - Tyaerdtie Tyaerds — Baptized at Wijnaldum, but not born there, 27 March 1646. d. 1 January 1647. - Claes Jansen — First baker, later Bolsward skipper at Franeker. - Imke Jans - ⚭ Hidde Johans - Trijntie Jans - ⚭ Sybe Rinnerts — shoemaker. - ⚭ I Wybe Andries. — son of Andries Jans and Fock Wijbedr. d. before 8 May 1613. - Wyp/c/ke Wijbes — d. Franeker ± 26 March 1647.

CHAPTER III

THE DESCENT OF THE FIRST GREYDANUS: PROF. DR. JOHANNES GREYDANUS TYAERDSZOON, AND OF HIS STEPBROTHER BENEDICTUS TYAERDSZOON

As has been stated in the Chapter on the General History of the family, the first "Greydanus" was: Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus, son of the groats miller at Franeker Tjaerd Jans, who married twice; first to Jantien Jans, from which marriage Jan (Johannes) was born, and later to Griettie Benedictus, from which marriage Benedictus was born.

The genealogical data concerning these persons could not be obtained from the Franeker Baptismal and Marriage Registers, because these do not go back far enough, but had to be dug up from other archival documents.

In the first place the parents of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus had to be found.

This was achieved in the following manner.

In the Judicial Archive of Franeker [1] there occurs, on pp. 227—231 of the 8th Boelgoedboek (register of estate auctions) of that town for the years 1651 and 1652, the sale on 30 March 1652 by the children and heirs, of the household goods left by the late Trijntie Jan Buwes Wede, that is to say Trijntie the widow of Jan Buwes.

After an enumeration of all the goods sold publicly, with the names of the buyers and the prices, there follows a so-called statement of "Resten" (outstanding sums), in which for each buyer the total amount for which he has bought is recorded. In this statement, in which the family of the person whose goods were auctioned was always entered first and generally in another hand, the nearest relatives at the top, one finds as the fourth buyer entered: "JOAES (this was the abbreviation of Johannes) GREIJDANǴ THE GRANDCHILD", that is to say the grandchild of the person whose household goods were sold, namely of the late Trijntie the widow of Jan Buwes. A reproduction of the page on which this statement is entered in the Boelgoedboek is placed overleaf.

From this entry in the Franeker Boelgoedboek it thus emerges that Johannes Greydanus was a grandson of Trijntie the widow of Jan Buwes, which Trijntie and Jan Buwes had then died before the day on which the sale took place, that was 30 March 1652.

Below follows a complete copy of the entry, in so far as it is of importance to us:

"Payable on the first St John's day 1652:
On the 30th of March 1652 in the afternoon the children and heirs of the late Trijntie Jan Búwes, widow, offer the following goods, left by her, for sale on the general and customary auction conditions and payable on the next coming St John's day.
Hidde Johans cow-milker — 2 plates . . . .— 2—12
. . . . . .
Sijbe Rinnerts shoemaker — 2 chairs . . . .— 6— 8
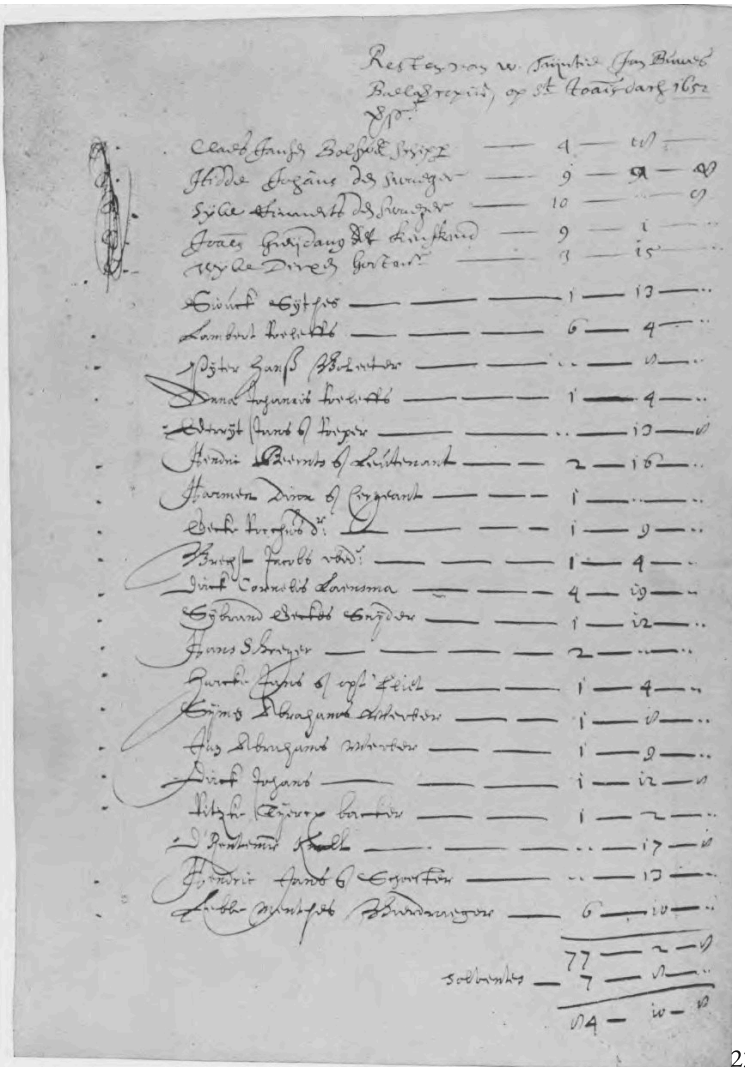
. . . . . .

[1] Unless otherwise stated, the documents cited are in the State Archive of Friesland at Leeuwarden.



23

Hidde Johans afsd.[1]	some books	— 2—12
Sijbe Rinnerts afsd.	a testament[3]	—15—..
Hidde Johans afsd.	a lantern etc	—10— 8
Hidde Johans afsd.	2 little bowls with a small dish[2]	— 9—..
Sijbe Rinnerts afsd.	3 pans	—12—..
Hidde Johans afsd.	4 pewter spoons etc	1—..—..
Sijbe Rinnerts afsd.	a Spanish blanket	—17—..
Hidde Johans afsd.	an unlined blanket	3—17— 8
Sijbe Rinnerts afsd.	a bed with the bolster	7— 5—..
Johannes Greijdanus	a sheet	2— 6—..
Hidde Johans afsd.	a red woman's bodice	1— 2—..
Wijbe Dircxs Gortmäer (groats miller)	a pair of women's stockings[4] with a cap	2—..—..
Claes Janss Bolsw. Schipper	a smooth over-bodice	1— 5—..
Hidde Johans afsd.	a pair of smooth sleeves	2— 5—..
Claes Janss Bolsw. Schipper	a red woman's shift-skirt	3— 2— 8
Johannes Greijdanus	a black cloth hooded cloak[5]	6—15—..
Wijbe Dircxs afsd.	a brass[6] fire-pan.	1—15—..
Claes Janss Bolsw. Schipper	a covered footstool[7]	— 8—..
Sijbe Rinnerts afsd.	a box	— 5—..

Resten (outstanding balances) of the estate sale of the late Trijntie Jan Búwes on St. John's day 1652 aforesaid.

Claes Jansen Bolswder Schipper	4—18—..[8]
Hidde Johâns the swaeger	9— 9— 8
Sijbe Rinnerts the swaeger	10—..— 8
Joaës Greijdang het kinskind (the grandchild).	9— 1—..

Wijbe Dirxen Gortm[r]	3—15—..”

In the statement of the “Resten” I have copied only the names of the buyers entered at the top in a hand different from that of the others, thus evidently the family of Trijntie Wed. Jan Buwes, and only for those persons has what they bought been given beforehand.

Thus in the first place appears the Bolsward skipper Claes Janss., who, as will appear further on, is indeed a son of Trijntie Jan Buwes Wed[e], and thus a brother of Prof. Greydanus' father Tyaerd Janss..

Then follow the two “swaegers”, that is to say sons-in-law: the “koemelcker” (dairyman) Hidde Johans and the “schoenmaecker” (shoemaker) Sijbe Rinnerts, after that comes the grandchild Johannes Greijdanus himself, and finally appears the “gortmaecker” (groats miller) Wijbe Dirxs., of whom one will see later that he is the second husband of Griettie Benedictus, who first, as second wife, was married to Tyaerd Jans.

---

[1] Means “voors” = aforewritten.

[2] 2 little bowls with a saucer.

[3] part of a bible (probably the New Testament).

[4] stockings.

[5] huik, hooded cloak.

[6] of yellow copper.

[7] footstool.

[8] On adding up the 3 amounts for which he bought, one arrives at a combined sum of only 4 Caroli guldens, 15 stuivers and 8 penningen (1 Caroli gulden counted 20 stuivers and 1 stuiver 16 penningen), so that the recorder seems to have made a mistake somewhere with this buyer.

That Trijntie, the Widow of Jan Buwes, was called Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. may be deduced from, for instance, the following documents:

> 1° Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franeker[1]. Proclamation of 3/10/24 February 1632 concerning the purchase by JAN BUWEZ. AND TRIJNCKE TYAERDTSDR., SPOUSES, of a house cum annexis on the Greijde, having Aucke Heinema to the East and Dirck Brouver to the West, charged with 14 st. annual ground rent, bought from Ysbrandt Buwes cum socius;
>
> 2° Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franeker[1]. Deed of 20 May 1633, registered 7 July 1634, in which JAN BUWES GORTMAECKER (groats miller) AND TRIJN TIAERDTS DR., SPOUSES, CITIZENS OF FRANEKER, declare that they owe 100 g.gl.[2] to Wijbe Ruyrdtsz. Berwardt and Mary Waatse dr., fellow citizens, to be repaid in a year from the date hereof at 6% interest;
>
> 3° Protocolboek (Register of deeds of sale) of Franeker[1]. Deed of 27 January 1652, registered 27 February 1652, in which TRIJNTIE TYAERDS DR., WIDOW OF THE LATE JAN BOUWES AT FRANEKER, with the assistance and consent of Claas Jansen, baker, my son, and Sijbe Rinnerts, shoemaker, my son-in-law, sells to Hidde Johans and Imke Jans, spouses, at Franeker, my son-in-law and daughter, a certain house and barn with appurtenances together with an alley to the West, situated on the Greijde, having Adam Uldricks c.s. to the East and the house occupied by Sijts Heijns to the West, for the sum of 575 g.gl. with a silver Ducaton.

With this last deed it is at the same time established that the Trijntie Tyaerds dr., Widow of Jan Bouwes, named therein is really the same person as the Trijntie Jan Buwes Wed[e] of the entry in the register of estate auctions, of whom Johannes Greydanus was the grandchild, because in both documents her sons-in-law are named: Hidde Johans and the shoemaker Sijbe Rinnerts, and moreover in the deed Claas Jansen is mentioned as her son, who in the statement of the “Remainders” of the estate auction is indeed not named as such, but who, by the way in which he is placed in that statement as number 1 before the sons-in-law, cannot be anything other than a son.

Further it appears from the deed of 27 January 1652 that Claes Jansen, before he was a skipper of Bolsward, had been a baker, and that the daughter of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., Widow of Jan Buwes, which daughter was married to Hidde Johans, was called Imke Jans.

We have thus established that Johannes Greijdanus was a grandchild of the couple Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr..

Now follows the demonstration that Jan Buwes had a son Tyaerd — thus Tyaerds Janszoon —, who then was the father of Johannes Greijdanus, and this with the help of the 1st Franeker register of estate auctions[1] for the years 1635—1637, in which on pages 181—186 occurs the sale of the household goods of the late Jan Bouwes (or “Jan Buwes on the Greide”, as he is called in a statement attached in the register of estate auctions concerning a settlement of his debts, which he had incurred among other things at other estate auctions).

Both in the statement of all buyers and in that of the “Remainders”, “TYAERD JANSEN THE SON” is named, that is, THE SON OF THE PERSON WHOSE HOUSEHOLD GOODS WERE SOLD, namely OF THE LATE JAN BUWES OR BOUWES. This son Tyaerd Jans also bought at the sale for by far the largest amount.

In so far as it is of importance, here follows a complete copy of the sale:

“On St. Lammerts day 1636	Estate auction of the late Jan Bouwes[3] on the 11th of May before noon.
.....
TIJAARD JANSEN THE SON	Junk[4].	0— 5—..
.....
Tijaard Jansen	1 saddle	1—..—..
.....
Tijaard Jansen	stone	0— 4—..
.....

[1] Present in the Judicial Archive of Franeker.

[2] gold gulden.

[3] This heading does not stand above the deed, but follows from the Index and is stated at the top of each following page of the deed.

[4] junk.

Tijaard Jansen sails . . . . . 0— 5— 8
v. s.
Tijaard Jansen forks . . . . . 0—12—..
Jetze Jacobs 1 hook
the brother-in-law and 1 axe . . . . . 0—13—..
Tijaard Jansen 1 steelyard[1] .
and weights . . . . . 0—15— 8
Tijaard Jansen 1 tiem[2] rope. . . . . 0—12—..
Venditrix 1 balance beam[3] . . . . . 2—15—..
Tijss Lüttiens 2 trivets. . . . . 0—16—..
the brother-in-law
Tijaard Jansen 1 adze[4] and saw . . . 1— 8—..
Jetze Jacobs chairs . . . . . 2—..—..
v. s.
Tijaard Jansen 1 sled . . . . . 1—..—..
idem 1 wagon . . . . . 5—..—..
Done before noon
Continued in the afternoon

Tijaard Jansen fork. . . . . 0— 2— 4
v. s.
Tijaard Jansen 1 bucket . . . . . 0—11—..
Tijaard Jansen 1 cupboard . . . . . 0—11—..
idem 2 footstools[5] . . . . . 1— 8—..
Tijaard Jansen spoons . . . . . 0— 7— 8
Tijaard Jansen . 1 uts[6] (= settle bench)[7] . 3—15—..
Tijss Lüttiens . . . . .junk. . . . . 0— 4—..
v. s.
Transcribed[8]
Outstanding balances of the late Jan Boûwes auction Lamberti day 1636
due.
Venditrix . . . . . 2—15—..
TIJAARD JANS THE SON. . . . . 17—16—12
Jetze Jacobs the brother-in-law . . . . . 2—13—..
Tijs Lüttiens the brother-in-law . . . . . 1—..—..”

In this transcript “venditrix” (the seller) has also been included, entered at the top in the statement of the “Resten”. No one else can be meant by this than Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., the widow of Jan Buwes, which widow after her husband's death had a part of the household goods left behind sold. Furthermore 2 “swaagers”, i.e. brothers-in-law, appear: Jetze Jacobs and Tijs Lüttiens.

In the statement attached in the Boelgoedboek (auction register) of the settlement of the debts of Jan Buwes, already mentioned on the preceding page, the following is further mentioned:

> “Still owes for tax in the name of[9] the child since the 1st of > March 1631 until the last of February, due . . . 65—10—..”, which entry evidently relates to a daughter Wijpk Wijbes from an earlier marriage of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr.. This marriage with Wijbe Andries, son of Andries Jansz and Fock Wijbedr., comes to light from the following inventory dated 8 May 1613 in the Franeker Boedelinventarissen (estate inventories) (B.B. 5), and from an entry dated 26 March 1647 in the Franeker Boelgoedboek, concerning the sale by “Trijntje Jan Buwes Weduwe” of the goods left by “the late Wijpk Wijbes, her deceased daughter”, in which entry is also mentioned: “Hidde Joannis the brother-in-law”:

[1] weighing device.

[2] In Frisian the “tiem” is the beam with which hay is stacked into a haycock.

[3] evenaar = needle of a balance or the balance itself.

[4] Probably an adze.

[5] footstools.

[6] ut supra = as above.

[7] Perhaps a sitting bench.

[8] Probably means transcribed or copied.

[9] Abbreviation of nomine = in the name of.

“Inventory of goods left by Fock Wijbedr., widow of Andries Jansz., for the benefit of Jan Andries her son, as well as Wypck Wijbe dr., the orphan child of her son Wijbe Andries, lawfully begotten with Trijn Tyaerdtsdr.; the goods having been declared by the aforesaid Jan Andries, together with the aforesaid Trijn, in the presence of Jan Buwes, her present lawful husband.
In ready (money) there was present — 31—10— 4
Oblië (interest) — 9—16—..
41— 6— 4
Under “Outstanding debts” appear:
Juv Johannes Cuyper is owed for house rent — VIIIII ggl. 1 oord and for the household — VI ggl.
Eetske Simon Cornelis is owed — XXX st.
Welmoed Lyuwes is owed — XVI st.
Ryuerdt Ryuerdts z baker is owed — VIII st.
Jan Andries is owed, has expended for the funeral — XXXXIIII st.
Tyeets Watzes is owed — XI st.
Taackle Backer is owed — VI st. 1 duit
Jan Buwes is owed for having the grave laid — XIIII st.
28— 8—10
there remains — 12—17—10.”
Under the heading obli[c] mention is made of a bond of 100 ggl. charged to Claas Bauckesz together with his wife, of which Jan Andries, as appears above, has received the interest, now due, 1[c] ggl.[1]

From this estate inventory it thus appears that Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. had remarried Jan Buwes before 8 May 1613. Her first husband Wijbe Andries must have been born about the year 1573, as appears from a deed dated 27 April 1598, stilo antiquo, entered on 26 April 1604 in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register), which reads in essence as follows:

> "Fock Wijbedr., surviving widow of the late Andries Jansz, burgher within Franeker, Wijbe Andriesz, aged 25, and Jan Andries, aged about 21 years, declare that they owe 200 g.gl. to Sicke Sijtse and Mary Pietersdr., spouses, living at Midlum, on account of moneys paid over for the payment of a certain house within Franeker in the Kerckstrate, having Luytien Pietersz. Metselaer to the N. and the house of Miss Amelia van Grombach to the S.; bought from Evert van Hattüm, to which end I shall also employ the aforesaid moneys (special security: the aforesaid house). /witnesses: Hermannus Doman, Notary Public, and Tiesse Hebbez. (Tiessema)[2] burgher and merchant within Franeker (signed) Wybe Andries [handwritten mark] / mark; (signed) Jan Andries mark [handwritten mark]".

It is thus now established that JOHANNES GREIJDANUS WAS A GRANDCHILD OF THE COUPLE JAN BUWES AND TRIJNTIE TYAERDTSDR., WHICH COUPLE HAD A SON TYAERD JANS.

The still missing link, that Tyaerd Jans, thus named after his grandfather on his mother's side, had a son Johannes — the later Prof. Johannes Greydanus — is supplied by the two following documents:

1° the entry in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianships) of Franeker[3] reproduced herewith, reading:

> "Having heard, before the Burgomaster Folckert Jennes as Commissioner appointed thereto > by the Court of the city of Franeker, > the request made to him by JOHANNE THEOTARDI, > SON OF THE LATE TIJAERD JANS GORTMAECKER BY THE LATE[4] / JANTIEN > JANS DR, HIS FORMER WIFE, LAWFULLY MARRIED, aged in his 16th > year, Petitioner on the one part, against Jan Foppes at > Tzŭmmarŭm, his grandfather[5], and Claes Jansz baker > here, his uncle, respectively Respondents on the other part, that they > undertake the guardianship over him, the Petitioner, at least > until the settlement which he has to make with his STEPMOTHER > GRIETTIE BENEDICTŬS, having heard > also the consent and agreement given by the Respondents, > the said Commissioner has awarded[6] the requested guardianship > to the Respondents, who have solemnly declared > and promised that they will and shall > conduct themselves therein and discharge[7] / it as is proper. Done the 3rd of > February 1646."

[1] 100 ggl.

[2] The family name is an addition to the deed.

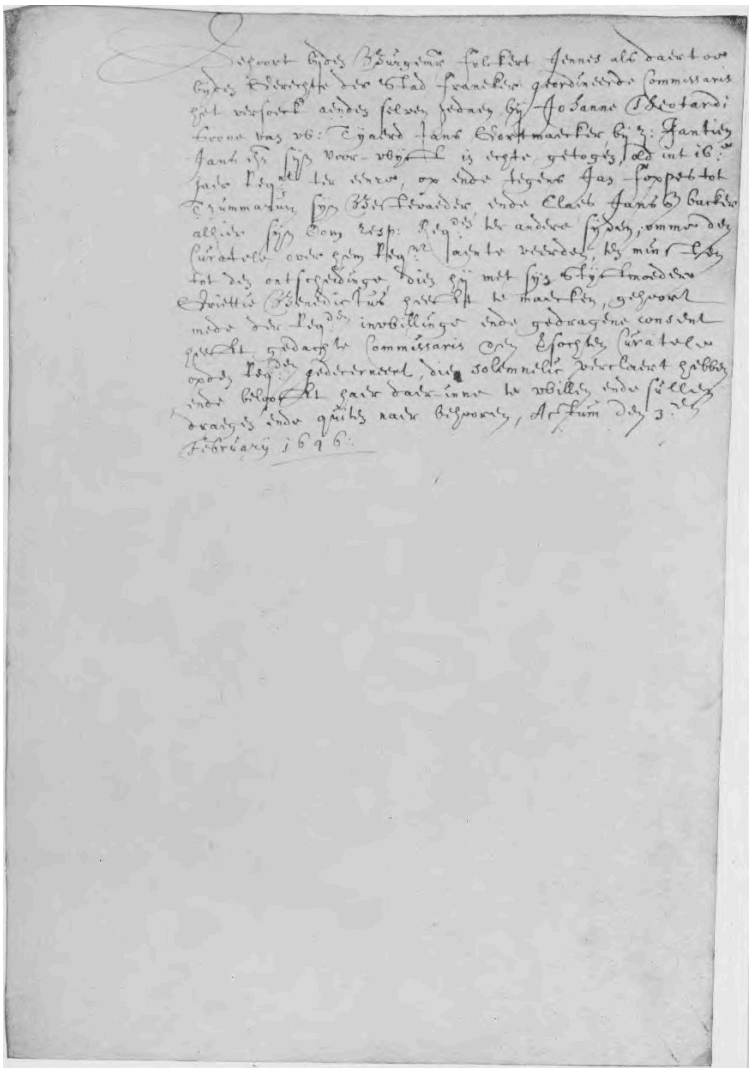
[3] In the Judicial Archive of Franeker.

[4] late.

[5] Grandfather.

[6] awarded.

[7] to discharge = to do one's duty.



Page, — on which it is recorded that on 3 February 1646 "Johanne Theotardi" was a "son of the late Jantien Jansdr." and "the late Tijaerd Jans Gortmaecker", who remarried Griettie Benedictus —, from the Autho-risatieboek van Franeker (slightly reduced).

2° the document numbered 285 (2 pieces) occurring in the portfolio of Boedelinventarissen 1640—1649 (estate inventories) of Franeker[1], of the following content:

"Provisional statement of the goods left by the late TIJAERD JANS GORTMAECKER (groats miller), possessed by him at the time in common[2] with GRIETTIE BENEDICTŬS, 2nd April 1646:
℔
The house taken over by the widow for seven hundred and thirty-five gold guilders[3] f 1029—..—..
The groats mill with the equipment sold for 160— 2—..
The movables sold, according to the Register, provisionally taken at 542— 5— 8
Cash money 8—16—..
Debts owing to the estate 8—16—12 Jan Foppes, co-Curator, owes by bond of 21 April 1636:
in kind 600 goldguilders f 840—..—..
With one year's interest falling due next May, to 48— 8—..
Geertie Rommerts owes for room rent falling due 1 May, five goldguilders f 7—..—..
2644— 8— 4
From this the debts payable amount in all to 867—13—12
Remains to the credit of the parties 1776—14— 8
The Curators are due, for the benefit of the CHILD OF THE FIRST MARRIAGE, of MATERNAL goods 650 goldguilders ff in Caroli guilders f 910—..—..
Griettie Benedictŭs is due for contribution 525 goldguilders f 735—..—..
f 1645—..—.. 1645—..—..
Remains as surplus 131—14— 8
Of which the widow shall first receive and enjoy the half for herself and further three eighth parts for her three children, and Jan Foppes with his associate in his capacity the remaining eighth part.

Provisional statement of the late Tijaard Jans's auction sale, registered in the XXII Boel-Boeck (auction register) fol. 220 and following.
The auction sale yielded in all the sum of 587— 5— 8
Deducted from this p. ča[4] costs, attendance fees, salaries and expen/ses/ for the S[ris5] honourable Commissioner, Secretary, crier, drummer, court messenger etc. with purchase mo/ney/ 47— 7— 4 appearance concerning the settlement of accounts 2—10—..
Inventory up to 2 April in account[5] 49—17— 4
Remains 537— 8— 4
Griettie the Widow 167—13—..
JOAES TETARDI DE Z. 1—..—..
Frans Fransen at P. Bier[6] 19—15—12
Aert Jan Foppes z. 4— 2—..
Jacob Feickes 92— 5—..
Jetze Jacobs Koemelcker. 13—16—12
Claes Jansen Backer 8— 2—..
Sijbe Rinnerts Schoenm[r] 30—12—..
Owed in Aittie Sijbrens's auction goods 3—17— 8

341— 4—..	and the Division, to 28—18—..
196— 4— 4	167— 6— 4″
From this still to be deducted all costs to be incurred for the Inventory

[1] In Rechterlijk Archief (judicial archive) Franeker.

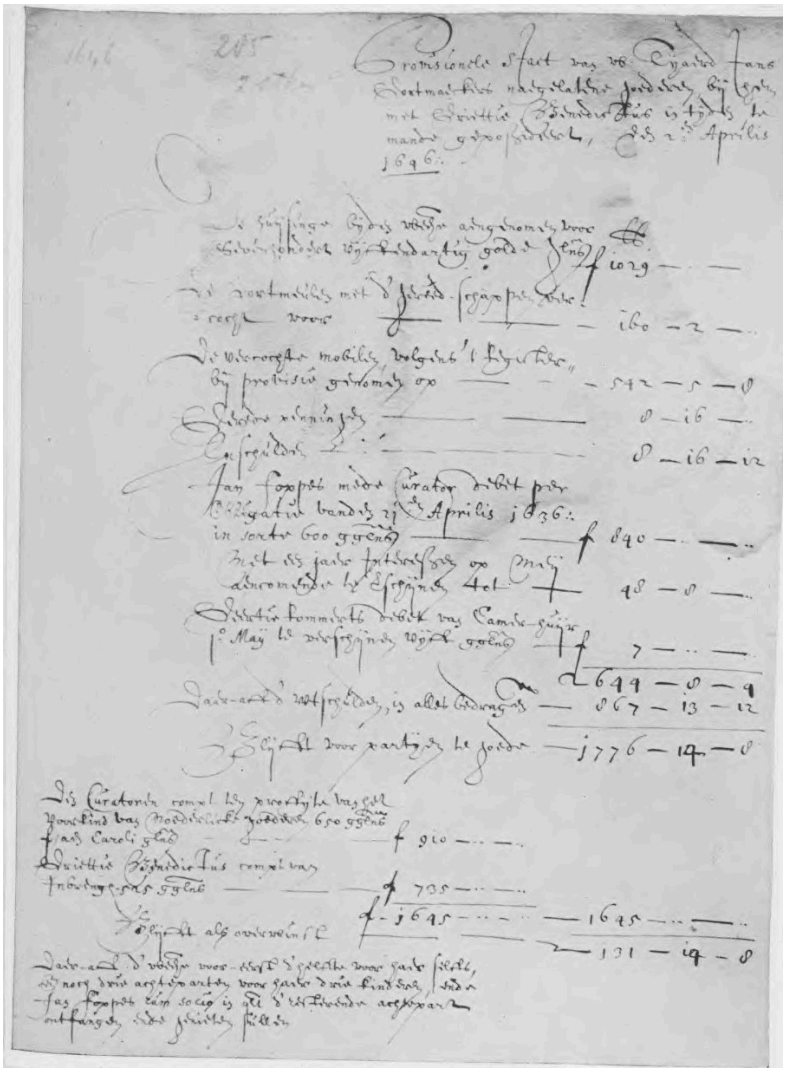
[2] jointly.

[3] goldguilder = 1.4 Caroli gulden.

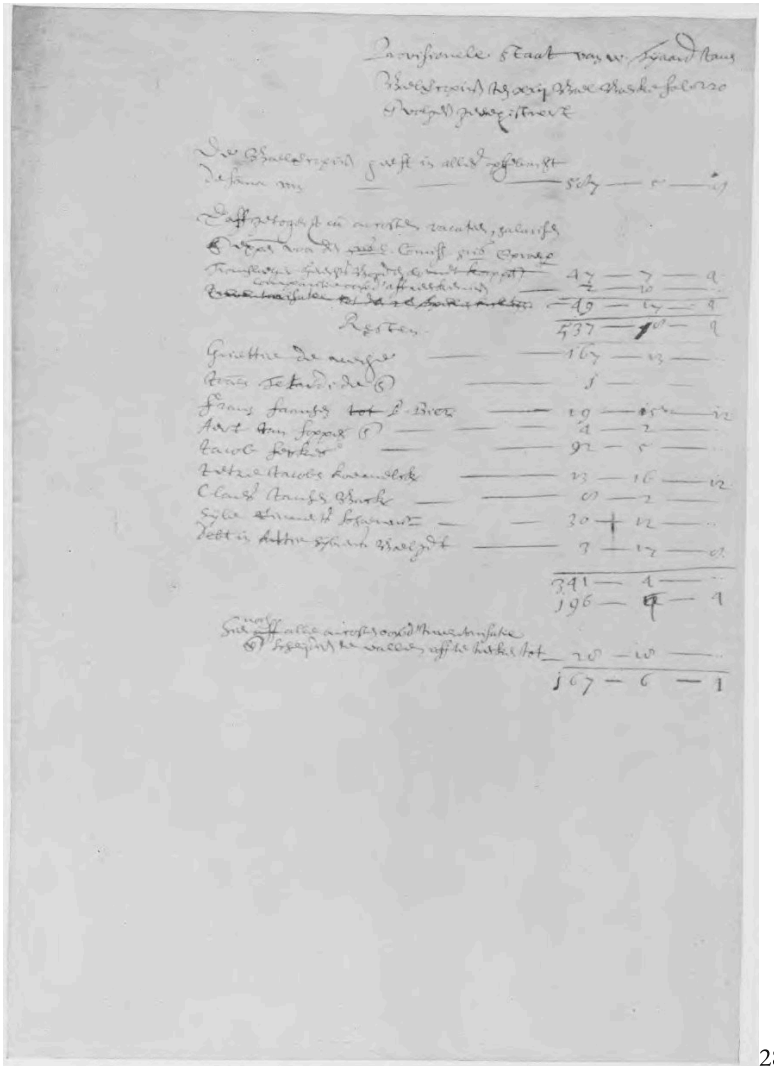
[4] Means “per causa”.

[5] The word S[ris] and this line are crossed out in the deed.

[6] Pietersbierum.



“Provisional statement of the goods left by the late Tijaerd Jans Gortmaecker, possessed by him together with Griettie Benedictüs in their time in common, 2 April 1646”, being one of the documents, numbered 285, from the portfolio of Boedelinventarissen 1640—1649 (estate inventories) of Franeker; the other document is reproduced overleaf (slightly reduced).



28

From both documents, of which a reproduction is included, it thus follows that TYAERD JANS HAD A SON "JOHANNES THEOTARDI". That this Tyaerd Jans is the same as the Tyaerd Jans who was a son of the couple Jan Buwes × Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr, and therefore that this "JOHANNES THEOTARDI" IS THE SAME PERSON AS JOHANNES GREYDANUS, appears from the first document, because in it "Claes Jansz. backer" is named as the uncle of Johannes Theotardi, while it has already been found on page 24 that precisely "Claes Jansen backer" (later a Bolsward skipper) was a son of the said couple. The second document too, which by its mentions of Jan Foppes as Curator and of a child of a former marriage of Tyaerd Jans, married to Griettie Benedictus — thus of Griettie Benedictus as stepmother of that child — is in complete agreement with the first, points to this, for the reason that in the second document the known persons appear: Jetze Jacobs (see page 25), Claes Jansen Backer and Sijbe Rinnerts Schoenm^{r}.

Furthermore, the following emerges from these documents:

1° the mother of Johannes Greydanus, namely Jantien Jans;

2° the grandfather — grandsire — of Johannes Greydanus, namely Jan Foppes at Tjummarum. This is then the grandfather on the mother's side, and thus the father of Jantien Jans, since the grandfather on the father's side is Jan Buwes;

3° the second wife of Tyaerd Jans, namely Grietie Benedictus, and thus the stepmother of Johannes Greydanus;

4° the occupation "gortmaecker" (groats miller) of the father of Johannes Greydanus, namely of Tyaerd Jans;

5° the date, before and apparently just before 3 February 1646, of the death of the father of Johannes Greydanus, namely of Tyaerd Jans;

6° the year of birth of Johannes Greydanus; on 3 February 1646 he was namely "in his 16th year", thus aged 15, so that he must have been born between 3 February 1630 and 3 February 1631;

7° the period of death of Jantien Jans, the mother of Johannes Greydanus, between 3 February 1630 and about the year 1643;

8° that the father of Johannes Greydanus, Tyaerd Jans, had by his marriage with his second wife Griettie Benedictus, the stepmother of Johannes Greydanus, three children who were still living on 2 April 1646.

Since according to 6° above Johannes Greydanus was born between 3 February 1630 and 3 February 1631, his father Tyaerd Jans will have first seen the light of day about 1610. Tyaerd Jans died at the beginning of 1646, so that he will have reached an age of only 30 to 40 years, which will also have been the age attained by his first wife Jantien Jans, since she died before him.

That no mistake is possible concerning Tyaerd Jans as the father of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus, rests further on the following archival records:

a. the deed of appointment of guardians concerning the children of the late Prof. Johannes Greydanus, which deed is found in the archive of the Franeker Academy[1]. Below follows a complete copy of the deed:

> "Monday 16 November 1668.
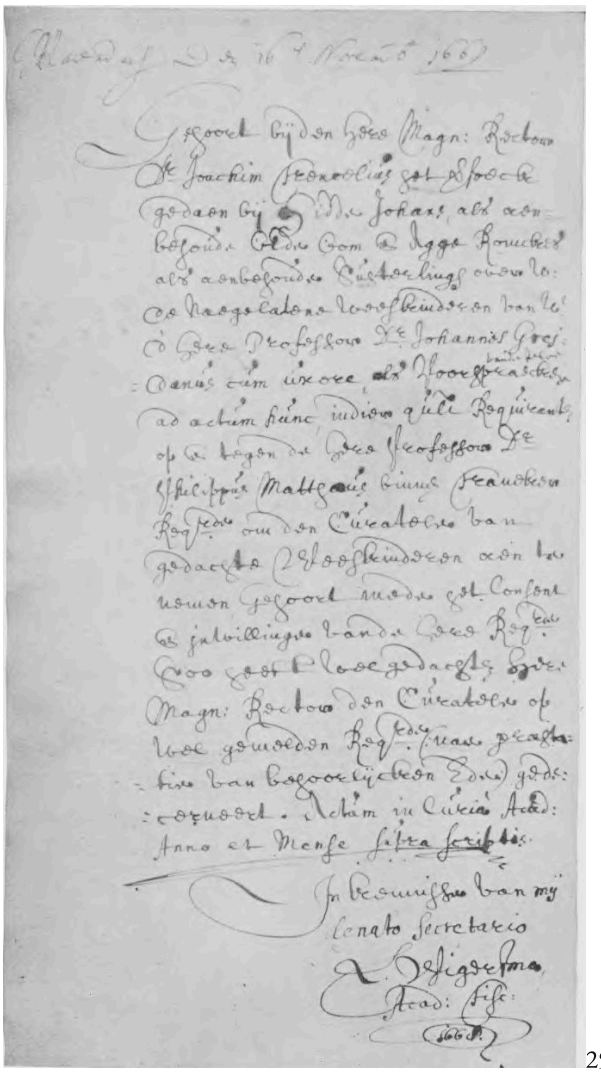
> Heard by the Magnificent Rector > Dr. Joachim Frenceliús the request > made by Hidde Johans, as > related by marriage[2] great-uncle and Agge Romckes > as related by marriage[2] cousin[3] over the > orphaned children left by the late > Sir Professor Dr. Johannes Grei> danús and his wife[4], as spokesmen for the same > for this act, in which capacity petitioners

[1] See "Litium Academicarum Rotula".

[2] related by marriage.

[3] cousin, second cousin.

[4] and wife.



29

against Professor Dr Philippús Matthæús in Franeker, respondent, to accept the guardianship of the said orphan children. Having also heard the consent and agreement of the respondent, the said Magnificent Rector has awarded the guardianship to the said respondent /after taking the proper oath/. Done in the Academy court, in the year and month written above.
In witness whereof, the Secretary being deceased, (signed) L. Wigersma Academy Fiscal 1668"

According to this deed of appointment of guardians, of which a reproduction is added, Hidde Johans was therefore an uncle by marriage of the grandparents' generation of the children of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, and thus an uncle by marriage of Prof. Johannes Greydanus himself. Now Hidde Johannes was, according to page 24, married to Imke Jans, a daughter of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., of which couple Tyaerd Jans was a son. Imke Jans was consequently an aunt, and her husband Hidde Johans an uncle by marriage, of Johannes, the son of Tyaerd Jans. Everything fits perfectly here.

b. an account occurring in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Barradeel[1], belonging to an inventory dated 21 November 1654:

> "Inventory of the goods and of the debts receivable and payable found in the house of the deceased Jan Foppes, who during his life lived at Tiummarum, and such as these were possessed in community with Rixtie Jacobs, the widow left by the said Jan Foppes, up to his death and vacated by his death, made at the request of the deceased's children and heirs, namely Foppe and Aert Jansen, lawfully begotten by Anne Jelles, his first wife, and also at the request of the aforesaid surviving widow, for herself and as mother and legal guardian of her two minor children procreated in wedlock with the said Jan Foppes, upon the declaration of the co-requirant and of the co-heir the aforesaid Aert Jansen, who, in order to declare everything faithfully, have taken the proper oath thereto", which account, dated 19 April 1655, reads as follows:
>
> "Account, proof and statement of the receipts and expenditure had and made by Foppe and Aert Jans, brothers, since the death of their father Jan Foppes, concerning the goods of his house of death, up to the date of the division (submitted before the Grietman (district magistrate) of Barradeel, > in this matter commissary ratione officii, by Foppe and Aert Jans, the respective heirs being present, as also the widow of the late Jan Foppes, assisted by her father and Jelte Scheltes, cloth merchant at Mindersga)."

First, various sums are entered as receipts for:

> 30 lopen (a dry measure) of white oats, sold to Tiepcke Rinties[2], merchant at Franeker, after deduction of ½ lopen of beans consumed by Jan Foppes during his life.
> 33 lopen of summer grain, " " Jan Tiercx > 30½ lopen of wheat, " " Laes and Aebe Pijtters at Harlingen > 23½ lopen of winter grain, " " Gerloff Fransen brewer at Franeker
> 15 lopen of wheat, " " Poulus Cornelis[3] merchant at Franeker

Then follows "the land which he held in tenancy from Arnoldus Hachtingius for half the crop."

Then come various items for arrears of taxes, owed among others to Hessel Gerrijts (Harda), receiver at Minderscha /the father-in-law of Johannes Benedictus (Greydanus), N° 11 of the genealogy/, as well as for arrears of rent of 't Riesterlandt, and an item of Wilco Taeckes (Jelgersma?) Apothecary.

Next the following are entered as debts.

	Jan Tiaerts cloth merchant is owed according to specification	16— 5— 0
	Foppe Jans baker	28— 6— 6
	Jan Tiaerdts is further owed according to deed	97—16— 0
	Jelte Scheltes cloth merchant at Mindersga	10—..—..
This sum has been paid by Mr Hottinga in reduction of the appraised house, of 19 April 1665	JOANNES HEYDANUS[4] is owed for visits and services	13—10—..

[1] In the Judicial Archive.

[2] surname: Abbema.

[3] Surname: Bogarda.

[4] This must be "Greydanus" (see page 31).

> [marginal note at left, joined by a brace to the following entry:] This sum was paid by Mr. Hottinga to Dr. Heijdanus[1] on 19 April 1655, in reduction of the half house acquired by His Honour according to the valuation
>
> DR. GREYDANUS is due, as the remainder of the MOTHER'S GOODS, 50 cargl. according to the account thereof . . . . . 50—.—..
> DR. GREIJDANUS claims 50 g.gl. principal with 9 years' interest, on account of having received less of the MATERNAL GOODS than others have enjoyed.
> Aert Jans is owed, on account of maternal goods which were held by the father Jan Foppes, 600 cargl. principal . . . . . 600—..—..
> The same is owed for money lent, 30 cargl. . 30—..—..
> Lucy Hansen is owed principal 100 ggl. . . . . 140—..—..
> The heirs of Tialle Hanses are owed principal 100 gl.g . 140—..—..
> 1 year's interest at 5½ per cent . . . . . 7—14—..
> Dirck Lijckles must have 25 ggl. . . . . 35—..—..
> 2 years' interest at 5½ per cent . . . . . 5— 4—..
> The widow is owed for goods brought in . . . . 30—..—..
> The children of the first marriage claim ¼ of a certain 550 ggl., which had devolved upon their father and grandfather respectively through the death of their co-heirs and which, through the second marriage, now had to fall again to the three of them alone, coming to 137½ ggl. in caroli gl. . . . . 192—10— 0
> The widow of Jan Foppes claims half of the household goods within the middle wall.
> For this there has been awarded to her out of the common estate, through the intervention of the Commissaris and Secretaris, the sum of 165 ggl. in clear money, but to be received on the due date of the sold household goods . . . . . 165 ggl. —..—..
>
> [marginal note at left:] These 50 ggl. were paid over by Mr. Hottinga to the widow in reduction of the house as above, on this 30 April 1655
>
> Further it was claimed that the 2 children ought to be given their share and duly provided with linen and woollen goods, in the manner in which the other heirs have enjoyed; for this there has been awarded to them, or to their mother on their behalf, 50 ggl. without any deduction . . . . . 50 ggl.
> These matters were settled on 30 April 1655.
> Foppe Jansen further claims the sum which his father received on his behalf from Arian Rommerts. . . . . 22 cargl. 6——12
> The gentleman is further due for rent 114 ggl. 8 st. . . . . 160 cargl. —..—..
>
> Profitable estate. First the household goods, which after deduction of charges yielded, subject to calculation, 1073 g.gl. 7 strs. 8 penn., from which, the outstanding debt of the house of the deceased amounting to 69 g.gl. 6 .. being further deducted, there remains net g.gl.
> To be paid in the year 1656 at May 1004— 3—8
> The land at willich 5 pond., being 5-4-6-5, amounts in g.gl. to . . . . . 964—24— 8 > there must be deducted for strijckgelt (bidder's premium). . . . . 17— 6— 0 > 947—18— 8
>
> For the house and barn on the farm of Mr. Hottinga[2] there is brought into the estate half the sum of the valuation made by the Commissaris of the Court on 26 March 1650, amounting to . . . . . 847— 1—12
> For the Court 64-0-0, comes to 32 ℔ 22—24— 0
> The armevoogden (overseers of the poor) are in arrears in their capacity with respect to greater expenditure than receipts of the late Jan Foppes, the sum of 78 gl. 13 st. . . . . 56— 5— 0

For costs incurred over the valuation of the house with appurtenances in the year 1650, amounting for 33 ℔ 2 st. 8 penn. . . . . 23—18— 8
Foppe and Aert Jansen owe 30 ggl. 14 st., which they received from Joannes Jansen for a cow . . . . . 30—14— 0
2932— 1— 4

As appears from the heading of the inventory and from the account belonging to it, there died therefore before 21 November 1654 Jan Foppes, farmer at Tjummarum, married first to Anne Jelledr. and afterwards to Rixtie Jacobsdr., which last-named was left by him with 2 minor children. From the entry occurring in the account:

"The children of the first marriage claim ¼ of a certain 550 ggl., which through the death of their co-heir respectively had been inherited by their father and grandfather and by the second marriage now had to fall again to the three of them alone"

[1] This must be "Greijdanus" (see page 31).

[2] Jr. Dominicus van Hottinga, Grietman (district magistrate) of Barradeel (see page 68).

it follows that Jan Foppes had three children by his first marriage with Anne Jelledr. Two of these three children are the two sons Foppe and Aert mentioned in the inventory and in the account. The third child must have been a married daughter, not named in the account, who, like her husband, had already died at the time of Jan Foppes' death, because, according to the account, at the division of the estate her son Dr. Joannes Heydanus or Dr. Greydanus appears on her behalf, who is entitled or claims to be entitled to various sums "OF MATERNAL PROPERTY". THIS DR. JOANNES HEYDANUS AND DR. GREYDANUS MUST BE ONE AND THE SAME PERSON, since these names are mixed up in the account, as appears from the entry concerning the sum of 50 Caroli guldens due to him. For in the entry itself he is called Dr. Greydanus, and in the note placed beside it in the margin, according to which that sum was paid to him on 19 April 1655 by Mr. Hottinga, Dr. Heydanus.

The unnamed daughter of Jan Foppes, farmer at Tjummarum, and Anne Jelledr., who was no longer living on 21 November 1654, thus had a son Dr. Joannes Heydanus or Dr. Greydanus by a marriage with a man who had likewise already passed away by that date. This is in complete agreement with the facts reported on page 28, that the mother of Johannes Greydanus was Jantien Jans, daughter of Jan Foppes at Tjummarum, and that both Jantien and her husband Tyaerd Jans died before 21 November 1654. From this the conclusion may again be drawn that the Dr. Joannes Heydanus or Dr. Greydanus occurring in the account is our Johannes Greydanus, who on 15 July 1654 at Franeker took his degree as doctor of medicine among other things and from then on practised medicine, so that it was very obvious that he treated his grandfather as a physician before the latter's death shortly before 21 November 1654, and charged 13 Caroli guldens and 10 stuivers "for visits and services".

We can now extend our body of facts as follows:

1° the maternal grandfather of Johannes Greydanus, namely Jan Foppes at Tjummarum, was a farmer and armevoogd (overseer of the poor);

2° the maternal grandmother of Johannes Greydanus was Anne Jelledr., who apparently died about 1646, because on 19 April 1655 Johannes Greydanus states that he is entitled to 50 Caroli gulden of maternal property with "9 years' interest";

3° the mother of Johannes Greydanus, namely Jantien Jans, had 2 brothers Foppe Jans and Aert Jans, of whom the latter is named as the 4th person in the "Provisional statement of the sale of goods of the late Tijaard Jans" on page 27;

4° the maternal grandfather of Johannes Greydanus, Jan Foppes at Tjummarum, remarried with Rixtie Jacobsdr. and died, apparently at Tjummarum, shortly before 21 November 1654.

Finally, here follows a copy of a document from the Franeker Court Records, Portfolio I 13[1], belonging to a Sentence of 29 October 1647 occurring in the oldest Franeker Civil Sentence Book, according to which both parties: Trijntie Tiaerdsdr., widow of the late Jan Buwes, in this matter supported as far as necessary by her children born of her late husband in wedlock, and Griettie Benedictus, widow of the late Tiaerd Jans, Gortmaecker (groats miller) at Franeker, had to appear before a Commissioner of the Court, who was to try to reconcile the parties if possible, in which he presumably also succeeded, since no further mention is made of the matter in the subsequent Sentences and in the Court Records. Moreover, as appears from the court document, the parties were in the end no longer so far apart.

[1] / In the Franeker Court Records.

"1647. To serve as a libel (statement of claim) before the honourable Court of the town of Franeker, in the name and on behalf of TRIJNTIE TYAERDSDR, WIDOW OF THE LATE JAN BUWES, where necessary strengthened by her children begotten in wedlock by her said late husband, PLAINTIFF, against GRIJTTIE BENEDICTUSDR, WIDOW OF THE LATE TYAARD JANSEN GORTMAECKER (groats miller), DEFENDANT.
So the Plaintiff says, under all serviceable and proper presentations and protestations of law,
That the Defendant, by way of division, has taken over all the goods found and inventoried in the estate of the said late Tyaard Jansen, and has undertaken to pay the debts,
That the Plaintiff is entitled out of that same estate to the sum of 200 Caroliguldens, as the remainder of a larger sum on account of the groats mill and the equipment belonging to it, as also of the house with appurtenances,
All in accordance with the statement made by the Defendant herself in the Inventory, under the debts owing, and annexed here under Lit. A.
Of which the Plaintiff has lately received from the Defendant's stepfather fifty goudguldens in money, together with about fifty Caroliguldens in purchased estate goods.

And since the Defendant remains in default of paying the remainder, and, having been summoned about it, has opposed and demanded a libel, The Plaintiff has been compelled to resort to legal means.
Concluding therefore, the Plaintiff contends, (Latin) from what has been said, from what is to be said, and from what is to be supplied by the judge ex officio, to the end that the Defendant shall be condemned to pay to the Plaintiff the sum of 200 Caroliguldens, less whatever the Defendant shall be able to prove to have paid thereof, and that with damages and interest suffered and still to be suffered until full payment, (Latin) with costs, saving right.
Served on 10 September 1647.
(Latin) Invoking the office of the Judge
(signed) Petrus Rudolphi
1647.

To serve, in the name and on behalf of Gryettie Benedictus as Defendant in the manner in which she is sued, of an answer to the libel submitted by and on behalf of Trijntie Tyaerds dr. in her capacity as Plaintiff.
So the Defendant says, under serviceable means of presentations and protestations, that which follows:
that indeed the goods of the estate, such and as she the Defendant possessed them together with the late Tyard Jansen her deceased husband, have been taken over by her for herself and for her children begotten in wedlock by the said Tyardt Jansen, in respect of which she had to pay to the Plaintiff, as likewise creditrix of the same and mother of her deceased husband, according to the Plaintiff's own statement 200 cargl.
of which the Plaintiff has already, in April 1646, received the sum of 50 ggl., each gulden making 28 stuivers, and thus 70 cargl.
further received by the Plaintiff in estate goods 13 g. 16 st. 12 p.; 8 g. 2 st., 30 gl. 12 st., 3 g. 17 st. 8 penn., together 56 gl. 8 st. 4 penn.
besides this, the Defendant has a claim on the Plaintiff for a silver woman's undergirdle, which the Plaintiff borrowed from her for her daughter and her late husband's sister, and the same is still at present worn by the Plaintiff's daughter, being worth 20 carlgl.
further THE PLAINTIFF, AS ADMINISTRATRIX OF THE AFFAIRS OF HER SON, THE DEFENDANT'S LATE HUSBAND, declared at the settlement that Meyle Claesz., merchant, was entitled to 42 cargl. in which HER SON, the DEFENDANT'S DECEASED HUSBAND, would be in arrears. And since the said Meyle Claessen was found, for two years and after the settlement, to be entitled to 42 ggl., amounting to 58 £ 16 str., the Defendant thus finds that, through the Plaintiff's statement, she falls short therein by the sum of 16 cargl. 16 stv.
All of which the Defendant, if she wished to extort her claim to the very last quarter, would have to settle with the Plaintiff and set off in deduction; and that being done, and whatever is found, the Defendant offers to pay the residue thereof.
THE DEFENDANT maintains, for herself and for HER CHILDREN BEGOTTEN BY THE PLAINTIFF'S SON, that she may suffice with such an offer and is not held to anything further.
Concluding therefore, the Plaintiff contends, (Latin) from what has been said, from what is to be said, and from what is to be supplied by the office of the judges, for inadmissibility, and in the alternative for absolution with costs. (Latin) Invoking the office of the judges Served on 24 September 1647.
(signed) Ruardus Harconis 1647.

Replying, the Plaintiff adheres to her reasons and allegations in the libel.
1. Accepting the Defendant's plain confession, namely that she the Defendant has taken over the goods found in the estate and has undertaken to pay the debts;
2. As also that she the Defendant, in respect of those, had to pay to the Plaintiff 200 cargls;
3. So that the Plaintiff cannot make the soundness of her claim any clearer.
4. Therewith then letting the 1.2 articles of the libel pass, the Plaintiff says upon the 3rd that it agrees well enough with the Plaintiff's 4th article of the libel.
5. But in the 4th of the answer the Defendant is somewhat mistaken, and that in the last item of 3—17—8 penn., for that is only 20 stuivers.
6. the Plaintiff having received in the estate sale, according to the entry in the Inventory, in all 53—10 st.
7. And those same 53—10 st. taken together with the aforesaid 50 gold, or 70 cargl., the Defendant has therefore to bring 123—10 st. into deduction.

8. Which she may also allow and has offered in the libel, that the Defendant may deduct:
9. But as regards the under-belt, of which the Defendant makes mention in the 5th article of the answer, that belongs to the Plaintiff by a double title.
10. For firstly the late TYAARD JANSEN presented it TO THE PLAINTIFF, HIS MOTHER, for the reason that she, THE PLAINTIFF, HAD MAINTAINED HER SON'S CHILD FOR SOME YEARS
11. And since the Defendant was afterwards not well satisfied about this, the under-belt was granted to the Plaintiff, on condition that she should not claim the interest on the 200 guldens which had then fallen due.

Concerning the 6th, 7th, 8th and remaining articles the Plaintiff has no knowledge, and the debt of Meijle Clasen was declared by the Defendant herself in the Inventory at 56—10 stv.
So that the Defendant has no claim to assert beyond the aforesaid sum of 123—10 st., much less anything to bring in for deduction:
The offer being therefore null and of no value, and she will have to be condemned in the Plaintiff's claim, further with all respect to the judge.
Rejecting therewith whatever is harmful, accepting what is profitable, the Plaintiff persists by way of reply. Served the 1st of October 1647.
(Latin) The office of the Judge having been invoked
(signed) Petrus Rudolphi
1647.
By way of rejoinder, the Defendant says that she insists on the grounds and reasons taken in her Answer.
And that these are herewith held to be repeated, in order to avoid saying things over again:

> The Defendant firmly trusts that THE PLAINTIFF, IN HER CAPACITY AS HER MOTHER-IN-LAW AND AS GRANDMOTHER OF HER CHILDREN, will not dare solemnly to deny such grounds as have been alleged by her respectively.
> And so will not dare to maintain what is advanced in the 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and following articles of the reply.
> Against which the Defendant in her capacity will surely be able to prove otherwise? should that be necessary
> She persists therewith by way of rejoinder.
> Extract from the Inventory dated 3 February 1646, that Trijntie Tiaerds is due 200—..—.."

According to the statements of the persons themselves, Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., widow of Jan Buwes, thus had a son Tyaerd Jans, who was a "gortmaecker" (groats miller) and had a "gortmeulen" (groats mill), and who was married to Griettie Benedictus; Griettie Benedictus is accordingly called the daughter-in-law of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr..

This Griettie Benedictus speaks of her children born of her marriage with Tyaerd Jansen and, besides these, of yet another child of the son of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., which child was "maintained" for some years by Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr..

About September 1647 there were therefore still children living from the marriage of Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus, while by the child "maintained" for some years by Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. no one else can be meant than Johannes Greydanus, sprung from the first marriage of Tyaerd Jans with Jantien Jans, who thus was evidently taken into the house of his grandmother Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. for some years after the death of his mother.

With this the descent of Prof. Johannes Greydanus has been fully established. For a survey of it, see the extensive scheme placed at the beginning of this chapter, in which the stepbrother of Prof. Greydanus and his nearest relatives have also been included.

It has not been possible to substantiate with direct evidence that Prof. Johannes Greydanus had a stepbrother Benedictus Tyaerds, but from the following this appears, in my opinion, with a probability bordering on certainty.

In the foregoing it has been shown that Prof. Johannes Greydanus had a stepmother Griettie Benedictus.

According to what was stated under 8° on page 28, there were on 2 April 1646 still living 3 children of Griettie Benedictus from her marriage with Johannes Greydanus' father Tyaerd Jans.

On that date Johannes Greydanus consequently had 3 stepbrothers and stepsisters, and around September 1647 still at least two, because at that moment mention is made of Griettie Benedictus' children (see preceding page).

Griettie Benedictus must have been a daughter of Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, at Wijnaldum (Wijnaem), which Engel Johannes remarried Frans Fransen d'Oude, who first lived in the said place and later at Pietersbierum.

That Griettie Benedictus was indeed born at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum) is proved by the registration before the Franeker Court of the marriage with her fourth husband (as will appear further on, Griettie Benedictus remarried 1° Wijbe Dircxen, 2° Pier Pijters and 3° Gerryt Sijdses), reading:

> "15 January 1659, Gerrijt Sijdses wagon-maker born here and GRIETTJE BENEDICTUS, last widow of the late Pier Pijters boat-maker, FROM WIJNAEM."

Here one must really think of Wijnaem as the place of birth and not as the place of residence, because in the registration of the marriage in the Church Marriage Register of Franeker the place of residence, both of bridegroom and of bride, is given as "op de Dijck", that is to say "op de Dijck", a street in Franeker.

That the couple Benedictus Seerps × Engel Johannes had children, and that Engel Johannes remarried Frans Fransen (d'Oude), is derived from a deed of appointment of guardians dated 12 September 1617 in the Recesboek (register of court decrees) of Barradeel[1]. According to this appointment of guardians, namely, Pieter Seerps and Gerben Riencx, uncles of the children, were appointed curators over the THREE MINOR CHILDREN OF THE LATE BENEDICTUS SEERPS AND ENGEL JOAES. Apparently the occasion for the appointment of guardians was the second marriage entered into by the widow Engel Joaes with Frans Fransen (d'Oude), for in the deed occurs the phrase: "in order to make with her and her present husband Frans Fransz. a separation and division concerning the said children's father's goods".

The couple Engel Johannes × Frans Fransen d'Oude at first resided at Wijnaldum, as appears from the following baptismal entries in the Church Register of that place:

> "Benedix[2], a child of Frans Fransen baptized, born at Wijnaem (± 1620)[3], died shortly afterwards."
> "Antie, a daughter of Frans Fransen, whom her mother Engel herself held at baptism 19 October in the year 1623; Antie Fransen has died."
> "Frans, a son of the aforesaid Frans Fransen, whom his mother Engel herself held at baptism. Anno 1625 on 27 January[4]."

Around 1 May 1631 the said couple left Wijnaldum for Pietersbierum, as appears from the entry below among the Lists of Members (the membership entry itself is of the year 1617) in the Wijnaldum Church Register:

> "Engel Johannis (at that time wife of Frans Fransen) has departed for Pyttersbierum Anno 1631 on 1 May; from Pyttersbierum to Franeker and died there."

So from about 1 May 1631 onwards Frans Fransen d'Oude lived at Pietersbierum.

That Griettie Benedictus now was a stepdaughter of this Frans Fransen d'Oude and thus was one of the three minor children of the couple Benedictus Seerps × Engel Joaes referred to above, has not been possible to find directly. One might indeed already conclude from the "Provisional statement of the late Tijaard Jans' sale of goods" included on page 27, that Griettie Benedictus stood in some relation or other to this Frans Fransen. For in that statement, after "Griettie the widow" and "Joaes Tetardi her son" there follows: "Frans Fransen at P. Bier", which person would then have to be the stepfather (Frans Fransen d'Oude at Pietersbierum) of Griettie Benedictus, the widow of Tyaerd Jans.

[1] In the Judicial Archive.

[2] Thus named after the deceased husband (Benedix Seerps) of the mother: Engel Johannes.

[3] This year is not expressly stated in the Church Register, but is otherwise not incorrect.

[4] This baptized child was Frans Fransen de Jonge, who married Rinske Taeckes (Elgersma).

This indication finds further support in the following, which might even be regarded more or less as a proof.

In the Wijnaldum church book one finds among the baptized:

> "TYAERDTIE TYAERDS, A LITTLE DAUGHTER OF TYAERD .... BEING THE SWAGER (in-law) OF OLD FRANS FRANSEN AT PIETERSBIERUM, was baptized in 1646 on Good Friday, 27 March, but WAS BORN OUTSIDE WYNAEM. Tiaerdtie, still being small, died between Old and New Year's night of that same year 1646 going into 1647."

With this baptismal entry the supposed family relationship would be entirely accounted for.

The father "Tyaerd ...." would be Tyaerd Jans at Franeker, whose name the minister at Wijnaldum recorded incompletely in the church book because he did not know it at the time of the entry, since Tjaerd Jans did not live in his village but at Franeker and had already died there. Tjaerd Jans was a son-in-law — as we have seen on page 23, "swager" also means son-in-law — of Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, who married for the 2nd time to Frans Fransen d'Oude at Pietersbierum, so that one could also say that Tyaerd Jans was a son-in-law of that Frans Fransen d'Oude.

The little daughter Tyaerdtie Tyaerds of Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus was born after the death (before 3 February 1646) of her father (see page 28), which is why the mother may have named her precisely after him. In connection with this death, Griettie Benedictus did not have her little daughter baptized at Franeker, but in the church at Wynaldum, because her mother Engel Johannes lived nearby, at Pietersbierum. Perhaps, too, Griettie Benedictus went after her husband's death to her mother at Pietersbierum to await the birth of her little daughter there, and Frans Fransen had the child presented for baptism at Wijnaldum immediately after the birth.

In any case the wordings: "LITTLE DAUGHTER OF TYAERD ....", "THE SWAGER OF OLD FRANS FRANSEN AT PIETERSBIERUM" and "BORN OUTSIDE WIJNAEM", as well as the dates, fit so well that in my opinion THERE SEEMS TO BE LITTLE OBJECTION TO REGARDING GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS, the 2nd WIFE OF THE FRANEKER GORTMAECKER (groats miller) TYAERD JANS, AS A DAUGHTER OF BENEDICTUS SEERPS AND ENGEL JOHANNES AT WIJNALDUM AND AS A STEPDAUGHTER OF FRANS FRANSEN D'OUDE AT PIETERSBIERUM.

A further confirmation of this may be found:

1° in the fact that, according to the above note in the Wynaldum church book, Griettie Benedictus' mother Engel Johannes moved to Franeker — presumably after the death of her husband Frans Fransen d'Oude, who was last encountered in 1652 — and died there, while Griettie Benedictus, as we shall see later, departed this life in that same town around September 1667;

2° in the mention in the Franeker court records of 1647 (see page 32) that Griettie Benedictus had a "stypvader" (stepfather), by which no one other than Frans Fransen d'Oude can have been meant.

On 2 April 1646 Johannes Greydanus had three, and around September 1647 at least two step-brothers and -sisters, children of his father Tyaerd Jans and his stepmother Griettie Benedictus.

One of these children we already know, for that is Tyaerdtie Tyaerds, baptized 27 March 1646 at Wynaldum, who however died as early as 31 December 1646/1 January 1647, so that around September 1647 only two can still have been alive.

One of these two children must then have been Benedictus Tyaerds, so named after his mother's father Benedictus Seerps at Wijnaldum.

The hypothesis that Prof. Johannes Greydanus had a stepbrother Benedictus Tyaerds rests on the two following propositions, which will be dealt with successively:

I. THE DESCENDANTS OF BENEDICTUS TYAERDS GRADUALLY CALL THEMSELVES BY THE FAMILY NAME "GREYDANUS";

II. BENEDICTUS TYAERDS IS A GRANDSON OF THE COUPLE BENEDICTUS SEERPS AND ENGEL JOHANNES, THUS OF THE PARENTS OF GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS, THE STEPMOTHER OF PROF. JOHANNES GREYDANUS.

I. (see the schedule on the opposite page). In the marriage register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker the following entry occurs:

"On the 14th (April 1661)
Benedictus Tiaards on the pitercelistraat
and Antie Johannesdr. on the Dijck Married here on the 1st of May",

which marriage is entered as follows in the register of marriage notices at the Court of Franeker:

(Latin) Given by the Commissioner [these two words are printed at the left of the quotation, beside a large brace]
"XIII April 1661
(Latin) Before the president Dr. H. Schotano à Sterringa
BENEDIXTUS TIJEERDS BORN AT FRANEKER AND RESIDING THERE and Antie Johannis born at Ackerwoude and residing within the aforesaid town, their marriage banns are consented to by the Court here."

In the Franeker baptismal register of the Reformed congregation one finds, after the date of the above-mentioned marriage, the following baptismal entries of children of Benedictus Tiaards ·

"(1662) On the 12th (of January)
Benedictus Tiaards has a child baptized
named Trijntie."
"On the 1st of January A° 1665
Benedictus Tiaards has a child baptized,
named Tiaard"
"(1666) On the 13th (of May) Benedictus Tiards has a child baptized named Johannes."
"(1669) On the 11th (of August)
Benedictus Tiaards has a child baptized named Griettie."

and

> "(Anno 1674) on the 15th ditto (March) > Bindix Tjeerds has a child baptized
> named Jan."

That these children baptized by Benedictus Tjaards are indeed children of the Benedictus Tjaards who married Antie Johannesdr. at Franeker on 1 May 1661, rests on the following facts:

1° about this time only one Benedictus Tjaards could be found at Franeker;

2° the date 12 January 1662 of the baptismal entry of the first child of Benedictus Tjaards is in good agreement with the date 1 May 1661 of the marriage with Antie Johannesdr.;

3° Antie Johannesdr. fits well as the mother of the baptized children, since the first child

Diagram belonging to the proposition that Benedictus Tyaerds is a stepbrother of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, because the descendants of Benedictus Tyaerds gradually came to call themselves by the surname "Greydanus". Belongs with page 36. - Tyaerd Jans - ⚭ I Jantien Jans - Johannes Theotardi (Joan Greyde) or Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus - ⚭ II Griettie Benedictus - Benedictus Tyaerds or Benedixtus Tyeerds - ⚭ Antie Johannesdr. — Married Franeker 1 May 1661. - Trijntie Benedictus — Bapt. Franeker 12 January 1662. - ⚭ I Geert Fransen - ⚭ II Nijs Adolphs — Married Franeker 21 October 1694. - Benedictus Greidanus — Bapt. Franeker 6 March 1703. "Benedictus Greidanus of Franeker" marries at Groningen 27 October 1729 Pietertjen Jacobs Westbroek, from which marriage are baptized successively at Groningen: Matthies, Trijntje, Pietertjen, Nijsz, Hillegien and Nijs. - Tiaard or Tjeerd Benedictus — Bapt. Franeker 1 January 1665. On 31 October 1692 "Tiaerd Benedictus, fustian worker, born at Franequer" becomes a citizen of Leeuwarden. - ⚭ Lysbet Cornelis — Married Franeker 26 December 1687. - Trijntje Tjeerds — Bapt. Franeker 15 November 1688. - Cornelis Tjeerds — Bapt. Leeuwarden 17 November 1689. On 9 January 1733 there was buried at Leeuwarden "a child of Cornelis Gordanus on the Nieuwe Buiren". In the death certificate of his son Taeke on 1 June 1819 he is called "Cornelis Greidanus". - ⚭ I Geijske Jelles — daughter of Jelle Marcus and Trijntie Pieters. Married Leeuwarden 14 May 1716. Buried at Leeuwarden 10 February 1734: "the wife of Cornelis Tjeerts on the Nieuwe-Buiren". - Jeltje Cornelis — Bapt. Leeuwarden 5 February 1719. - Tjeerd Cornelis — Bapt. Leeuwarden 21 December 1721. - Lysbet Cornelis — Bapt. Leeuwarden 26 November 1724. - Trijntje Cornelis — Bapt. Leeuwarden 3 April 1730. - Jan Cornelis — Bapt. Leeuwarden 31 August 1732. - ⚭ II Wickjen Cornelis — daughter of Cornelis Sakes and Rinske Jurriens Brinck, widow of Isaac Jelles, from which last marriage were born successively: Jelle, Cornelis, the twins Christina and Hiltje, and Pyter. m. Leeuwarden 15 August 1734. - Tjertje Cornels — Bapt. Leeuwarden 9 February 1735. - Tjeerd Cornelis — Bapt. Leeuwarden 8 September 1737. - Taeke Cornelis Greidanus — Born Leeuwarden, where bapt. 5 June 1740. At Leeuwarden he is called: in the entry of his marriage on 20 January 1765: "Taecke Gurdanus", in the baptismal entry of his daughter Cornelia on 11 October 1765: "Taecke Cornelis Greidanus" and in his death certificate on 1 June 1819: "Taeke Greidanus". He further occurs: in 1803 in the Leeuwarder Burgerboek (citizens' register) as "Teeke Gordanus", and as "Taeke Gredanus" as witness at the registration of the birth on 28 June 1813 of a grandson. - ⚭ Gertie Baukes Assué — daughter of Bauke Johannes and Sydske Julius. - Cornelia Greydanus — b. Leeuwarden 27 September 1765. - Sydske Taeckes — Bapt. Leeuwarden 4 November 1767. - Wickjen Greidanus — Bapt. Leeuwarden 6 June 1770. - Johanna Greidanus — b. Leeuwarden 12 December 1772. - Gertie Greidanus — Bapt. Leeuwarden 27 September 1775. - Tjemkje Taeckes — b. Leeuwarden 23 September 1778. - Sytse Greidanus (Greydanus) — b. Leeuwarden 15 November 1781. - Benedictus Tjeerds — Bapt. Leeuwarden 27 January 1692. - Johannes Benedictus — Bapt. Franeker 13 May 1666. First a wagon-maker's journeyman at Franeker, then Master Wagon-maker at Pingjum and finally citizen and Master Wagon-maker at Harlingen. - ⚭ I Trijntje Hessels Harda — daughter of Hessel Gerrits Harda and Aaltie Jans. Married Franeker 16 October 1692. - Aeltie Johannesdr. Greydanus — Marries, according to the marriage entry at Harlingen on 10/17/24 April 1718, Tjerk Claesen de Vries. This couple lives first at Harlingen, later at Delft, in which places they have several children baptized, among others: at Delft on 13 May 1731 a son Benedictus, at whose entry the mother is recorded as: "Aaltie Johannes Grijdanes" and at Delft on 13 March 1738 a daughter Anna, at whose baptismal entry the mother is mentioned as: "Aaltje Gredanis". - ⚭ II Trijntie Hanses Meertsma — daughter of Hans Broers Meertsma and Sydske Cornelis Oerdum. Marriage proclamation Franeker 12/18/24 February 1695. - Antje Johannes - Hans Johannes — Bapt. Harlingen 29 January 1699. - Benedictus Johannes — Bapt. Harlingen 2 April 1702. - Corneljs Johannes — Bapt. Harlingen 8 February 1705. - Sydske Johannes — Bapt. Harlingen 19 April 1711. - Froukjen Johannes — Bapt. Harlingen 3 June 1714. - Griettie Benedictus — Bapt. Franeker 11 August 1669. - Jan Benedictus — Bapt. Franeker 15 March 1674.

Trijntje may have been named after her mother, who is unknown to us, and the third child is named after her father Johannes.

The supposition that this Benedictus Tiaards was a son of the Franeker gortmaker (groats miller) Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus fits well with what has been found.

In the first place, the last child of Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus, Tjaerdtie Tyaerdts, was baptized at Wynaldum 27 March 1646, while Prof. Johannes Greydanus was born in 1630 or 1631, from which it follows that Benedictus Tyaards must have been born between 1630 and 1645, which agrees well with his marriage in 1661.

In the second place, the civil marriage registration of Benedictus Tyaards and Antie Johannesdr. states that Benedictus Tyaards was "born and living at Franeker".

And finally, the names of the children of the couple Benedictus Tyaards × Antie Johannesdr. can be fully explained: the second child, Tjaard, is named after the gortmaker Tyaerd Jans and the fourth, Griettie, after his wife Griettie Benedictus.

From the marriage Benedictus Tyaards × Antie Johannesdr. there were thus born, among others: Trijntie Benedictus, baptized at Franeker 12 January 1662; Tiaard Benedictus, baptized there 1 January 1665, and Johannes Benedictus, baptized there 13 May 1666.

Trijntie Benedictus married at Franeker 21 October 1694, as widow of Geert Fransen, Nijs Adolphs, from which marriage there was baptized at Franeker, among others, Benedictus on 6 March 1703. The entries in the Reformed church registers relating to this read:

"1694 On the 7th of October Nijs Adolphs sworn 12: turf-carrier and Trijntje Bendix
12 widow of the late Geert Fransen, both by the Molensteegh within Franeker
On the 21st of the same married here"
"(1703) On the 6th of the same (March) Nijs Adolfs' child named Benedix."

That this Trijntie Benedictus is the Trijntie Benedictus who was a daughter of Benedictus Tiaards and Antie Johannesdr. seems probable, because, as appears from the baptismal entries of the other children of Trijntie Benedictus given below, the 3rd child of her 1st and the 2nd child of her 2nd marriage were named Antje, thus after Trijntie Benedictus' mother Antie Johannesdr., and the 3rd child of her 2nd marriage was named Grijttje, thus after Trijntie Benedictus' grandmother Griettie Benedictus.

The baptismal entries of the other children of Trijntie Benedictus are:

concerning her 1st marriage with Geert Fransen, who was a son of Frans Geerts and Meins Tjeerdts:

"(Anno 1683)
On the 5th of the same (March) Geert Fransen, dopjes-weaver, has a child baptized named Meins."
"(1684)
On the 24th of the same (April)
Geert Fransen has a child baptized named Meynske."
"(1688)
On the 6th of the same (March) Geert Fransen has a child baptized named Antje."

concerning her 2nd marriage with Nijs Adolphs, whose father presumably was Adolph Nijsses and whose mother is unknown:

"(1695) On this date (3 November) Nijs Adolfs has a child baptized named Sijtske."
"1698. On 4 January 1698 Nijs Adolfs has a child baptized named Antje."
"1700. On 26 November Nijs Adolfs has a child baptized named Grijttje on 28 October 1732 the baptismal certificate was taken out."

The Benedix baptized at Franeker on 6 March 1703, son of Nijs Adolfs and Trijntie Benedictus, is now, of the descendants of Prof. Johannes Greydanus' stepbrother Benedictus Tiaards, presumably the first person who comes forward with the surname "Greydanus". He would thus have derived this name from his mother Trijntie Benedictus, a daughter of the said stepbrother, which practice, as has been reported on page 17, was nothing unusual at that time.

In the Register of proclamations and marriages of the city of Groningen one finds, namely:

"Saturday 8 October 1729
BENEDICTUS GREIDANUS OF FRANEKER ps. and Pietertjen Jacobs Westbroek of Groningen pro qua Pieter Pieters Westbroek as uncle.
On 27 October 1729 by Ds. Albarthoma N.K.", which Benedictus Greidanus, who was a printer and bookseller at Groningen, would then be the Benedix baptized at Franeker on 6 March 1703, son of Nijs Adolfs and Trijntie Benedictus.

In the first place the date of the marriage — 27 October 1729 — fits well with the date of the baptism — 6 March 1703 —, and in the second place the names of the children of Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertjen Jacobs Westbroek, who was a daughter of Jacob Pieters Westbroek and Hillichjen Jans Tooren, seem to confirm our supposition.

The baptismal entries of these children with the Dutch Reformed congregation at Groningen indeed read as follows:

"Friday 4 (August) 1730 M.K.[1] Matthies son of Benedictus Greidanus and Piertjen Wesbroek in Pelserstraat."
"Wednesday 17 (September) 1732 A.K.
Trijntje dau. of Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertje Jacobs on the Reitemakersrijge[2]."
"Friday 1 (January) 1734 A.K.
Pietertjen dau. of Benedictus Greydanus and Pietertjen Greydanus on the Zuiderdiep."
"Friday 17 (December) 1734 M.K.
Nijsz son of Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertjen Oostland
on the Zuiderdiep."
"Sunday (the) 1 (March) 1739 A.K.
Hillegien dau. of Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertien Westbroek in O. Jatstraat."

and:

> "Wednesday (the) 5 (January) 1746 A.K.
> Nijs son of Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertien Wesbroek
> in O. Jatstraat."

from which one may conclude that:

of the first child the origin of the name is unknown;

the second child is named after Benedictus Greidanus' mother: Trijntie Benedictus;

the third child bears the name of its mother;

the fourth child is named after Benedictus Greidanus' father: Nijs Adolphs;

the fifth child is named after Pietertjen Westbroek's mother: Hillichjen Jans Tooren and the sixth child is again named after Nijs Adolphs.

[1] M. K. means Martinikerk, A. K.: A Kerk (the church by the A) and N. K. Nieuwe Kerk, also called Noorder Kerk.

[2] rijge means quay.

From this it follows again that Benedictus Greidanus had a predilection for the name "Nijs", which one might regard as an indication that his father was indeed Nijs Adolphs at Franeker. Yet for this Benedictus Greidanus another Benedictus might also come into consideration, namely the son Benedictus, mentioned hereafter, who was baptised at Leeuwarden 27 January 1692 as son of Tiaard Benedictus and Lysbet Cornelis [1]. This, however, is hardly plausible, 1st because the date of baptism — 27 January 1692 — is rather early in comparison with the date of marriage — 27 October 1729 —, 2nd because the Groningen marriage entry says "Benedictus Greidanus from Franeker" and not "from Leeuwarden", and 3rd because neither the name Tiaard nor the name Lysbet occurs among the children of Benedictus Greidanus.

The question whether Benedictus Greidanus at Groningen was a son either of Nijs Adolphs or of Tiaard Benedictus would have been solved at once if the father's name "Nijsses" or "tiaards" had been mentioned along with the surname, but Benedictus Greidanus has never been found with such an addition.

The conclusion therefore remains, THAT A SON OF A DAUGHTER OF PROF. JOHANNES GREYDANUS' STEPBROTHER COMES INTO THE LIMELIGHT WITH THE SURNAME "GREIDANUS".

Tiaard Benedictus, the first son of Benedictus Tiaards and Antie Johannesdr., baptised at Franeker 1 January 1665, married there 26 December 1687 Lysbet Cornelis, on the ground of the following entry occurring in the marriage register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker:

"12: (1687) The 11th of the same (December) 12 Tjeerd Benedictus mason's journeyman
and Lijsbet Cornelis, both within Franeker
On the 26th of the same married here."

In the Franeker baptismal register of the Reformed one finds:

> "/1688/. The 15th of the same (November)
> Tjeerd Bindixt has a child baptised, > named Trijntje."

This book contains no further baptismal entries of children of Tiaard Benedictus.

In the Burgerboek (register of citizens) of the town of Leeuwarden, running from 1640 to 1782, there occurs however on folio 334:

> "The 31st of the same (October 1692) > Tiaerdt Benedictus fustian-worker, born at Franequer, as above (has been admitted as a burgher of this town after he had taken the oath according to the Formulary registered above, into the hands of the honourable Police, and had paid the due fee)", and in the Leeuwarden baptismal register of the Reformed the two entries below appear:

> "/Baptised:/ The 17th of the same (November 1689)
> Cornelis a son of > Tierd benedictus."

and:

> "/Baptised:/ The 27th of the same (January 1692) > Benedictus a son
> of Tierd Benedictus
> by the Brol."

Now the supposition is that the Tiaard Benedictus who on 31 October 1692 became a burgher of Leeuwarden as fustian-worker and who there had a son Cornelis baptised on 17 November 1689, as well as a son Benedictus on 27 January 1692, is the Tiaard Benedictus who married Lysbet Cornelis at Franeker.

[1] It may further be noted here that the Groningen Benedictus Greidanus cannot be identified with the Benedictus Johannes (Greidanus) to be mentioned on page 43, baptised at Harlingen 2 April 1702 (No. 49 of the genealogy), because the latter comes to light at Harlingen, where he for instance marries Lijsbet Wijbes on 17 March 1726.

In the first place the dates of the baptismal entries fit well; the first child, after all, is baptized 15 November 1688, the second 17 November 1689 and the third 27 January 1692. In the second place the baptismal names fit without fault; the first child Trijntje will have been named after the unknown mother of Lysbet Cornelis, while the first son is named after the father of Lysbet Cornelis and the second after the father of Tieerd Benedictus.

Moreover, the following also argues for the correctness of the supposition.

N^{o} 1404 of the Telting Register of the Franeker Municipal Archives relates to the assessment for the year 1689 of the wealth of the inhabitants of Franeker for the levying of the hundredth penning. In that cohier one finds among the inhabitants who were assessed at an amount of 2 strs per week to be paid, in the city district "Noord":

> "Benedictis Tieerts, Tieerd Benedixt".

In the cohiers following the year 1689, of 31 July 1690, 17 June 1691, 25 May 1692 and May 1693, Benedictus Tieerts appears again, but the place of Tieerd Benedixt, on the other hand, has been taken by one Hans Jeppes. This therefore fits splendidly with the supposition; the father Benedictus Tieerds continued to live at Franeker after 1689, but his son Tieerd Benedixt left that year for Leeuwarden, where he had his 2nd child baptized on 17 November and where he became a burgher as a bombazine weaver on 31 October 1692.

A son of the couple Tyeerd Benedictus × Lysbet Cornelis would therefore have been Cornelis Tjeerds, baptized at Leeuwarden 17 November 1689.

It is apparently this Cornelis Tjeerds who is mentioned at Leeuwarden as "Gordanus" — a miswriting of "Greidanus" — in the following entry in the Burial Register of that city:

> "Oldehoof and Galilaeer Church
> (Buried on) the 9th ditto (January 1733)
> A child of CORNELIS GORDANUS on the NIEUWE > BUIREN."

That by this "Cornelis Gordanus" our Cornelis Tjeerds is meant, is made plausible by the following.

First of all, Cornelis Tjeerds married twice at Leeuwarden, as appears from the two following entries in the Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Church:

> "Cornelis Tjeerts soldier in the company of major Meyers > and Geijske Jellen in this city; their marriage banns were > published for the first time on 26 April 1716 and on 3 May the > second time and on 10 May the 3rd time, and on the 14th ditto they were > confirmed in their marriage in the Galijleer Church"

and:

> "Cornelis Tjeerds soldier under the Guard, and Wickjen > Cornelis both in this city; their marriage banns were > published for the first time on 1 August 1734 and > on the 8th ditto the second time and on the 15th ditto the third time > and they were confirmed on the same date in the afternoon in the Galileer Church."

The first wife Geijske Jelles was a daughter of Jelle Marcus and Trijntje Pieters [1]; the second wife Wickjen Cornelis was a daughter of Cornelis Sakes and Rinske Jurriens Brinck [2].

Reformed Baptismal Register Leeuwarden: Baptized the 7th November 1694, Geijske a daughter of Jelle Marcus; and Reformed Marriage Register Leeuwarden: Married 15 November 1685: Jelle Marcus Master Tailor and Trijntie Pieters, both living at Leeuwarden, which marriage was proclaimed 1, 8 and 15 November 1685.

Reformed Baptismal Register Leeuwarden: Baptized the 11th December 1701, Wickien a daughter of Cornelis Sakes; and Reformed Marriage Register Leeuwarden: Married 9 February 1690: Cornelis Saeckes, soldier under the company of Capt. Aernt Heidenrijck Sloet, and Rinske Juriens Brinck, which marriage was proclaimed 12 and 19 January and 9 February 1690.

[1] See:

[2] See:

The first wife was buried at Leeuwarden 10 February 1734. Her burial entry reads:

> "10 dito (February 1734)
> Oldehoof and Galilaeer Church
> The wife of CORNELIS TJEERTS on the NIEUWE-BUIREN."

The place of residence "Nieuwe-Buiren" of Cornelis Tjeerds thus agrees with the place of residence of "Cornelis Gordanus", given in the entry of 9 January 1733 in the Burial Register.

The second wife was the widow of Isack Jelles, leather dresser, whom she married at Leeuwarden 27 February 1724 and from which marriage the following were baptized there: Jelle 30 July 1724, Cornelis 29 December 1726, the twins Christina and Hiltje 8 December 1728 and Pyter 10 April 1730.

The children of Cornelis Tjeerds are:

from the first marriage:

Jeltje;

Tjeerd;

Lysbet;

Trijntje;

and Jan;

from the second marriage:

Tjertje;

Tjeerd

and Taeke [1].

The names of these children do not contradict the view that Cornelis Tjeerds would be a son of Tjeerd Benedictus and Lysbet Cornelis, for, while the first daughter is named after Geijske Jelles, we already find the first name of Lysbet Cornelis again with the second daughter.

Finally, a further argument for the proposition that Cornelis Tjeerds, "Cornelis Gordanus" and Cornelis Greidanus are one and the same person is supplied by the death certificate of the last child Taeke of Cornelis Tjeerds, which certificate contains the following:

"N^{o} 173. In the year One thousand eight hundred and nineteen, on the third day of the month of June, there appeared before us, Burgomaster, Officer of the Civil Registry of the municipality of Leeuwarden, Province

[1] The baptismal entries in the Reformed Baptismal Register at Leeuwarden read:

"Baptized 5 February 1719 Jeltje a daughter of Cornelis Tjeerts"
"Baptized 21 Desemb. 1721 Tjeert a son of Cornelis Tjeerts"
"Baptized 26 November 1724 Lijsbet a daughter of Cornelis Tjeerds"
"Baptized 30 April 1730
Trijntje — { Father Cornelis Tjeerds { Mother Geiske Jellis"
"Baptized 31 August 1732
Jan — { Father Cornelis Tjeerds { Mother Geesje Jelles"
"(Baptized) 9 February 1735:
Tjertje — { father Cornelis Tjeerds { mother Wikjen Cornelis"
"(Baptized:) 8 September 1737
Tjeerd — { father Cornelis Tjeerds { mother Wikje Cornelis"
"(Baptized:) 5 June 1740
Taeke — { father Cornelis Tjeerds
{ mother Wikje Cornelis"

> Vriesland, there appeared Sytse Greidanus and Jacobus Smeding, the first-mentioned son and the second-named acquaintance of the deceased, who declared to us that TAEKE GREIDANUS, seventy-nine years of age, turfmeeter (peat measurer), born and residing at Leeuwarden, widower of Geertje Assue, and son of CORNELIS GREIDANUS and WIKJE (the family name of the mother being unknown) died on the first day of the month of June in the afternoon at five o'clock, in the house no. ninety-five, Letter F, and the declarants have signed this Act together with us, after it had been read out to them > * (signed) S. Greidanus. J. O. Smeding. R. Buijsing"*

In this deed, then, everything fits: the age of Taeke Cornelisz. Greidanus with his baptismal entry, his native town Leeuwarden and the name of his mother "Wikje".

Besides the fact that Taeke Cornelisz. is designated in his death certificate with the family name "Greidanus", he also appears with this surname in the baptismal entry of his daughter Cornelia, while in his marriage entry he is recorded with the miswriting "Gurdanus" for Greidanus. Moreover, he has also been found with the miswritings "Gordanus", in the year 1803 in the Leeuwarder Burgerboek, and "Gredanus" at the registration of the birth on 28 June 1813 of a grandson, at which he acted as witness.

Below follow the aforementioned baptismal and marriage entries in the Reformed church registers of Leeuwarden:

> "On the 11th October 1765 there was baptized by Ds. W: Winterswijk > in the Westerkerk GREIDANUS| [1]
> Cornelia .... whose father is TAECKE CORNELIS| > * and mother* Gertie Baukes" > "TAECKE GURDANUS and Gertie Baukes both here, > had their marriage banns proclaimed the first time > on the 6th January 1765, the second time on the 13th, the > third time on the 20th ditto, and that same evening they were > joined in marriage in the Jacobinerkerk by Ds. Corn. Blom."

BOTH THE DESCENDANTS OF THIS TAEKE CORNELISZ. GREIDANUS AND THOSE OF THE GRONINGEN BOOK PRINTER AND BOOKSELLER BENEDICTUS GREIDANUS ARE, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ON RECORD WITH THE FAMILY NAME "GREIDANUS".

Johannes Benedictus, the second son of Benedictus Tiaards and Antie Johannesdr., baptized at Franeker on 13 May 1666, married twice; on 16 October 1692 at Franeker to Trijntje Hessels (Harda,) daughter of Hessel Gerrits (Harda) and Aaltie Jans, and, according to the Franeker proclamations of 12, 18 and 24 February 1695, to Trijntje Hanses Meertsma, daughter of Hans Broers Meertsma and Sydske Cornelis Oerdum.

The relevant marriage entries in the marriage register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker 1680—1732 read as follows:

"(1692 the 2nd October)
12: Johannes Bindix wagon-maker's journeyman
12 and Trijntje Hessels spinster: both in the Noorder Molenstraat within Franeker.
Married here on the 16th ditto".
"(1695)
12: The 24th ditto (Febr:)
18 Johannes Benedix Master wagon-maker at Pinjum
and Trijntje Hanses spinster on the Noorder Bleek here.
Certificate taken out on the 10th March."

From these marriages the following children were born: from the first Aeltie, and from the second: Antje, Hans, Benedictus, Corneljs, Sydske and Froukjen.

The baptismal entries of the last-named five children have been found in the Reformed baptismal register of Harlingen and follow here:

[1] "Greidanus" has, as is indicated here, been added with a small stroke, apparently by the same hand that wrote the rest of the text.

Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation of Harlingen 1697—1735:

"(On 29 January 1699)
Johannes Benedictus the father and Trijntie Hanses the mother, the child
Hans baptized."
"(1702) On 2 April
Johannes Benedictus the father and Trijntie Hanses the mother, the child
Benedictus baptized."
"On the 8th ditto (February 1705)
Johannes Benedictus the father, Trijntie Hanses the mother, and the child Corneljs baptized."
"(1711) On 19 April
Johannes Benedictus the father and Trijntie Hansen the mother and the child Sijdske baptized."
"(1714) on 3 June
Johannes Benedictus the father and Trijntje Johannes the mother and the child Froukjen baptized."

The baptismal entries of the first two children Aeltie and Antje could be found neither at Franeker nor at Harlingen; apparently these children were born at Pingjum, where Johannes Benedictus was established as a wagon maker before he came to Harlingen, but there those baptismal entries cannot come to light, since the Reformed baptismal registers preserved for Pingjum only begin on 17 February 1704.

The existence of these children has however come to light from other documents, namely of Aeltie from the following deed in the proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales) of Barradeel:

> "28 January/11/25 February 1728. Pieter Ceijmpes[1], citizen and master shipwright residing at Harlingen, buys a certain small piece of arable land, measuring by name and fathom 3 pondemaat, situated by the Oudedijck under the village of Sexbierum, near the place of the merchant Jan Symons Olyslaeger, having the heirs of the late Lady Widow de Vries to the East and North; the Honourable Mr. Grietman (district magistrate) Haersolte to the West, the aforesaid Oude Dijk to the South, being at present used in lease by one Jacob Alberts, who at St. Peter 1728 still has 2 years' lease due to him at 21 Carolus guilders a year, charged with 1 floreen 7 stuiver in the general assessment, likewise with 3 Carolus guilders perpetual rent to the Honourable Grietman Burmania; thus bought and obtained from Johannes Benedix, citizen and master wagon maker at Harlingen, as authorized agent of his daughter Aeltie Johannis, wife of Tjerk Claesen potter at Delft, for the sum of 85 gold guilders 21 stuiver per pondemaat and thus in all 257 gold guilders 7 stuiver."

Antje comes to light from the Harlingen Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments), in which on 5 November 1746 was recorded the appointment of Sijmon Sloterdijk, Receiver of the Convoys and Licences within Harlingen, as curator over the hereafter-named Grietje Cornelis de Leeuw "pursuant to the testamentary disposition of 30 September 1727 of her grandparents, the late Johannes Benedictus, master wagon maker, and Trijntje Hanses, in their time spouses within Harlingen, whereby they institute as their co-heir: their grandchild Grietje Cornelis de Leeuw, surviving daughter of Cornelis Sijmons de Leeuw and Antje Johannes.

In the names of the children of Benedictus Johannes one finds a confirmation that he is a son of Benedictus Tiaards and Antie Johannes, for, while his first daughter Aeltie is named after Aeltie Jans, the mother of his first wife, and his first son Hans after the father of his second wife, his second daughter Antje is then named after his mother and his second son Benedictus after his father (his third son Cornelis is named after the latter's great-grandfather Cornelis Oerdum and his third daughter Sydske after her grandmother Sydske Cornelis Oerdum).

From the aforementioned deed of Barradeel it appears beyond doubt that Benedictus Johannes had a daughter Aeltie Johannes, who on 28 January 1728 was married to "Tjerk Claesen Pottebacker tot Delft", which marriage is found with the entry below in the Marriage Register of the Great Church of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Harlingen, 1697—1735:

[1] Surname "de Jong".

"(1718) Tierck Clasen and Aeltie Johannes, both in Harlingen, their banns were proclaimed on 10 : 17 and 24 April and then they were also married."

And now this Aeltie Johannes appears at Delft with the surname "Greydanus", namely with the miswritings "Grijdanes" and "Gredanis" thereof, as appears from the following two entries in the Baptismal Register of the Nieuwe Kerk of the City of Delft, begun Anno 1711, ended ultimo 1742:

1731

"May		children	fathers	mothers	Witnesses.
	13	benedicktŭs	tierck Klasen de Vries	Aaltie Johannes GRIJDANES	„

"Year 1738 (March)	day	Children	Fathers	Mothers	Witnesses
	13 —	Anna	Tjerk de Vries	Aaltje GREDANIS	Kaatje van der haar"

A reproduction of both pages of the Baptismal Register on which these entries were made is appended herewith.

Starting from BENEDICTUS TIAARDS at Franeker, we have thus, among his descendants who can be named with fairly great certainty, along three different paths and at just about the same time, come upon a "Greidanus", namely:

IN 1729 at Groningen WITH HIS GRANDSON BENEDICTUS GREIDANUS, being a son of his daughter;

IN 1733 at Leeuwarden WITH HIS GRANDSON CORNELIS GORDANUS, which name is to be understood as a miswriting of CORNELIS GREIDANUS; and IN 1731 and 1738 at Delft with his GRANDDAUGHTER AELTIE GRIJDANES (GREDANIS), which name is likewise to be regarded as a miswriting of AELTIE GREIDANUS.

II. In the Protocolboek (Register of title deeds) of Franeker, kept in the Judicial Archive, the following deed, dated 20 January 1683, was recorded on 9 February 1683:

> "Benedictus Tieerts and Antie Johannes, married couple, citizens of Franeker, for ourselves and as authorized agents of Benedictus and Douwe Anskes, at Doccum and Sneecq respectively; as well as of Frans Pijters Stalman living in Worcum, guaranteeing ratification thereof under pledge of our goods, acknowledge, each for a quarter share and together for the whole, to have sold, ceded and conveyed in hereditary ownership, doing so by these presents, to Harmen Cornelis, sworn grain measurer, and Antie Wendels, married couple, for the one half, and Magdaleentie Wendels widow of the late Pijter Cornelis, in his lifetime carrier, likewise in Franeker, for the other lawful half and thus to both together for the whole, a certain piece of about eight and a half pondemaat of pasture land lying outside the northwest of Franeker at Oerdum, but as large and small, good and bad > as it is, having Lady Helena van Louinga, widow of the late Lord Dr. Henricus van Starringa to the south and west and the Sexbierumervaert to the east and north as neighbours, charged with two and a half floreen in the general assessment for taxation; likewise with one year's lease to the Vroedsman Pijtter Poppes, which lease the buyers shall enjoy[1], as well as with a right of way, path and cattle drive across it and with the joint maintenance of the zeth and barten[2] on the aforesaid Sexbierumervaert in proportion to the floreen, while enjoying a free way, path and cattle drive across the said zeth and barten[2], together with the lands lying across the canal according to old custom" etc..

In the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) present in the Judicial Archive one finds recorded, on 26 January /2/9 February 1683, concerning this sale, that Benedictus Tieerts cum sociis had sold to Harmen Cornelis cum socijs for 1000 cargl. with 6 rijxdaelders and "another 2 silver ducatons to Frans Pijters as a gratuity" (which purchase sum is also mentioned in the deed from the Protocolboek given above only in part) about [1] gauderen = to have the enjoyment or use of something, thus here to enjoy.

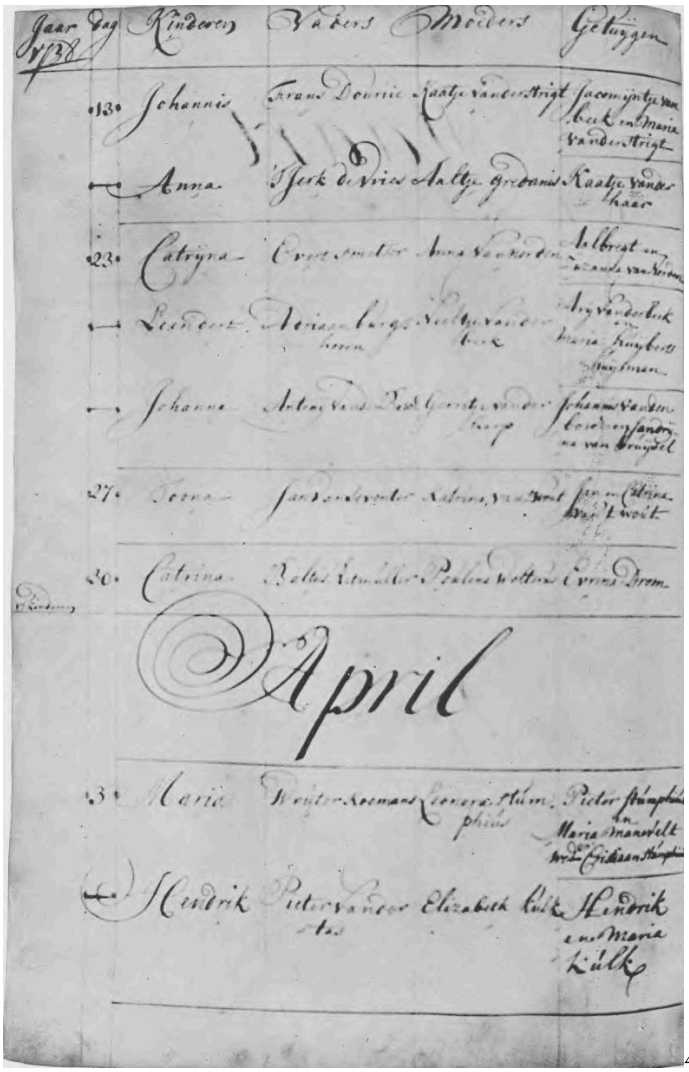
[2] zeth ende barten = abutment and movable auxiliary bridge of planks.

	kind	vaders	moeders	getuigen
april 24	Elisabet	poulus hoton burgh	Jacoba de hoods	Elisabet vande hoek
29	pietro	gillis de Jong	willemina Bekkers	Christoffel van Dijke en maria de Jong
	maria	pietro de vrieght	Catharina hoppestein	maria Eysdonk
mrij 1	maryn	willem van broeckele	Johanna bisdaft	willem van baerdewijck en maryken dispas
3	madlena	anton wyndels	alida de vos	[illegible] en madlena jacobs
6	Johannes	[illegible] vander aerden	haatie van der Jaeck	Johannes vander Jaeck en margrieta middelham
	antonetta	andries vanderlinge	carolus simons berg	klara van Stralen
	Catrina	Jan van der tarth	maria fisbroo man	machiel fiolet man en Catrina vander taarling
	Carina	Stoffel heyse	Faustus Cosso de vye	andries vanes. en Catrina Cosso ant. en maria Cosso wijf
13	Johanna	adriaan otgroos	[illegible] maria de berg	willem van stuyt en Cornelia de groot
	Sebastyn	Jacobus van d graaff	gherbrandt gaver burgh	Jan van Elsabet van der graaff
	willemina	Jan Blaesbalg groen	Syrus willems noordewint	maria willems noordewint
	Conscribatus	boeck blasen et alios	aalbie Johannes gryp dames
16	Limbergt	Simon verburg	anna vlock	Jan verburg en Elisabet verburg
	Josina	[illegible]	Elisabet vall man	pieter taalman en Catrina grombrand
20	Elisabeth	Jacob hollant	aagje van willigen	Jan [illegible]low en anna vander maas
22	Catrina	Daniel verdrist	Josina tria	Jan van nutt en katryna vanhasse
	Sophia	[illegible]	Catrina van wilsen	thomas vandewijver Sophia vanderbeeck
	victor	gerrit hogenberg	willemina van steenwegen	Jannetje rijckes



44) (much reduced).

Diagram, belonging to the proposition that Benedictus Tyaerds is a stepbrother of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, because Benedictus Tyaerds is a grandson of Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, of whom Prof. Johannes Greydanus' stepmother Griettie Benedictus was a daughter. Belongs to page 45. - Seerp Benedictus - ⚭ Arien Pieters or Arian Peters - Benedictus Seerps — m. ± 1605 † before 31 August 1617. - ⚭ I Engel Johannes — First at Wijnaem, leaves 1 May 1631 for Pietersbierum, and later from there to Franeker. † at Franeker. - Syouck Benedix — b. between 1606 and 1616 m. ± 1635. The couple in 1635 at Sexbierum, afterwards at Oosterlittens, in 1644 at Jorwerd and in 1649 at Rauwerd † Rauwerd before 21 March 1664. - ⚭ I Anscke Douwes — † Rauwerd before 21 March 1664. - ⚭ II Rinck Gerryts - Aech Anskes — b. 1637/1638 † before 11 May 1670. - ⚭ Marten Heerkes - Siouck Martens - Benedictus Anskes — bapt. Jorwerd 1644, 1670—1702 Mr. Smid (master smith) at Dokkum. - Sara Anskes — bapt. Jorwerd 14 March 1647. - Douwe Anskes — bapt. Jorwerd 1648 1670 at Goinga 1683 at Sneek. - Gerben Anskes — b. ± 1650. - Arian Bendixdr. — b. between 1606 and 1616 m. ± 1633. - ⚭ Joannes Sinnes (see below) - Sinne Joannes — b. ± 1634. - ⚭ Grietje Hendriks — of Harlingen m. Workum 3 Aug. 1661. - Arian Sinnes — b. ± 1662. - Griettie Benedictus — b. between 1606 and 1616. - ⚭ II Tyaerd Jans - ⚭ I Jantien Jans - Prof. Johannes Greydanus - Benedictus Tyaerds (Tjeerds) — at Franeker. - ⚭ Antie Johannesdr. - Sinne - Joannes Sinnes — at Workum. † before 4 November 1636. - ⚭ Arian Bendixdr. (see above) - Auck Sinnes - ⚭ Pier Ewerts — Vroetsman (town councillor) at Workum. - Sjouck Sinnes - ⚭ Bintie (Bincke) Beerns - Frans - Frans Fransen d'Oude — m. ± August 1617. At Pietersbierum. - ⚭ II Engel Johannes (see above) - Benedix Fransen - Antie Fransen - Frans Fransen de Jonge — bapt. Wijnaem 27 January 1625. At Pietersbierum. † before 14 March 1655. - ⚭ Rinske Taeckesdr. (Elgersma) — dau. of Taecke Aebes (Elgersma) and Jildu Jelledr. Allema, owners of "Elgersma"-State at Boer. - Jildu Fransen - Rinse Fransen - Geert Fransendr. - ⚭ I Johannes Daniëls - Frans Joannis — m. Franeker 15 March 1657; first at Pietersbierum, later at Hitsum. - ⚭ II Gatske Simons - ⚭ I Hidde Jetzes - ⚭ II Doecke Reiners eight and a half pondemaat (land measure) of greydland (pasture land) at Oerdum, having Helena van Louinga to the South and West and the Sexbierumervaart to the East as neighbours.

According to these deeds, then, in January 1683 our married couple Benedictus Tieerts × Antie Johannes were joint owners of 8½ pondematen of pasture land at Oerdum, situated to the Northwest of Franeker, each for an equal, namely a ¼ part, together with:

Benedictus Anskes at Dokkum

Douwe Anskes at Sneek

and Frans Pijters Stalman at Workum.

Because each was owner of an equal part, one easily comes to suppose that this pasture land at Oerdum belonged to a common family property, so that the couple Benedictus Tieerts × Antie Johannes at Franeker, Benedictus Anskes at Dokkum, Douwe Anskes at Sneek, and Frans Pijters, Stalman at Workum, would be relatives of one another. This kinship strikes the eye at once, through the same first name "Benedictus" of two, and the same patronymic "Anskes" of likewise two of the owners.

Now the kinship between 3 of the owners, namely: Benedictus Tieerts, Benedictus Anskes and Douwe Anskes can more or less, and their entitlement, for an equal part, to the possession of the land at Oerdum can to some extent be demonstrated, — yet this can only happen if our suppositions are applied, namely that Benedictus Tyaerds (Tieerts) is a son of Griettie Benedictus, and that Griettie Benedictus is a daughter of Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, who remarried with Frans Fransen d'Oude.

If, then, on the ground of the fact that the owners of the land at Oerdum each held an equal part of it, and that the names of three of them show a certain agreement, one assumes a probable family kinship, then it also follows from this that the suppositions by which that family kinship alone can be demonstrated are probable, and that, among other things, Benedictus Tyaerds was therefore a son of Griettie Benedictus. It is already established that Griettie Benedictus was the stepmother of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus, so that consequently her son Benedictus Tjaerds was Johannes Greydanus' stepbrother.

The family kinship, illustrated by the accompanying diagram, rests on this, that Benedictus Anskes and Douwe Anskes were children of Anske Douwes and Syouck Benedictus, who would then be a sister of our Griettie Benedictus.

Benedictus Anskes and Douwe Anskes were baptized respectively in 1644 and 1648 at Jorwerd, where their parents had settled with a certificate from Oosterlittens[1] and from where the family departed in 1649 to Rauwerd (Raard).

The proof of this is furnished by the entries dated 21 March 1664 and dated 11 May 1670 in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) present in the Judicial Archive of Rauwerderhem.

> According to the entry dated 21 March 1664, Ate Eelckes (uncle of the children) and Sanne Wijbis (neighbour) are appointed curators over the minor orphans of the late ANSCKE DOUWES, who in his time lived at Rauwert, by the late SJOUCK BENEDIX, namely AECH (± 26 yrs.), BENEDIX (19 yrs), DOUVE (16 yrs), GERBEN (14 yrs), and over three more minor orphans of the aforesaid ANSCKE begotten in wedlock by Rinck Gerryts, while, according to the entry dated 11 May 1670, BENEDICTUS ANSKES AT DOCKUM and DOUWE ANSCKES AT GOYINGA — THAT IS THEREFORE NEAR SNEEK — are appointed curators over SIOUCK, surviving orphan child of Marten Heerkes and the late AEGH ANSCKES, who, according to the first entry, WAS A SISTER OF BENEDICTUS AND DOUWE ANSKES.

Since of the co-owners in 1683 of the land "at Oerdum", BENEDICTUS ANSKES lived at Dokkum, and DOUWE ANSKES at Sneek, we may take it as proved that those co-owners were BROTHERS, and had as mother SJOUCK BENEDIX.

---

[1] From the old Church Book of Jorwerd it appears that Anske Douwes and Siouk Benedix his wife were registered on 3 November 1644 as members of the Dutch Reformed Congregation, coming with a certificate from Oosterlittens. In the old Church Book of Sexbierum one finds mentioned in a list of members dated 22 November 1635: "Ansche Douwes and Siouck, his wife".

Our Griettie Benedictus is supposed to be a daughter of Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, who remarried with Frans Fransen d'Oude. Sjouck Benedictus would therefore also have to be a daughter of the couple Benedictus Seerps × Engel Johannes. The deed dated 12 September 1617 mentioned on p. 34 relates to three under-age children of Benedycx Seerps and Engel Joaes. That third child has now come to light from the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of WORKUM, namely from the deed dated 4 November 1636, by which Pier Ewerts[1] (uncle by marriage on the father's side) and FRANS FRANSEN AT PIETERSBIERUM (uncle on the mother's side) are appointed guardians over Sinne (2 years), child of THE LATE JOANNES SINNES AND ARIAN BENDIXDR., which appointment took place at the request of Bintie Beerns (uncle by marriage of the child)[1].

In this deed, then, "Frans Fransen at Pietersbierum" is called: "uncle on the mother's side" of the little son of Arian Bendixdr.. For this Frans Fransen no one else can be considered than Frans Fransen d'Oude, who at that time lived at Pietersbierum, the 2nd husband of Engel Johannes. Frans Fransen d'Oude was therefore the stepfather of Arian Bendixdr., and now it is customary in Friesland that grown children who have left the parental home address their stepfather or stepmother as uncle and aunt. In this sense Joannes Sinnes and Arian Bendixdr. most probably called Frans Fransen their uncle, and this designation will presumably have been adopted for their under-age child. All this seems very acceptable, because then Arian Bendixdr. is named after Arian Pieters, her father's mother.

As the three CHILDREN OF BENEDICTUS (BENEDIX) SEERPS AND ENGEL JOHANNES still under age on 12 September 1617 THERE ARE THEREFORE INDICATED: SJOUCK BENEDIX, ARIAN BENDIXDR. and GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS. The data available to us appear to agree well with this.

Of these three sisters Sjouck Benedix will presumably have been the eldest, because her children are named first in the deed of 9 February 1683 (Benedictus Tieerts and Antie Johannes come first, since they act as agents for the others). In age Arian Bendixdr. will have followed Sjouck Benedix, since Arian is the name of the grandmother (see p. 59). Griettie Benedictus will therefore presumably have been among the youngest.

Of Sjouck Benedix the eldest child, Aech, was born about 1637/38[2], so that Sjouck Benedix will have married Anske Douwes about 1635.

Arian Bendixdr. we found at Workum on 4 November 1636 as widow of Joannes Sinnes, with a child of 2 years, so that she will have married about 1633.

Over the stepchild (the later Prof. Greydanus) of Griettie Benedictus guardians were not appointed until 3 February 1646[3].

According to the list of members of the Dutch Reformed Congregation of Wijnaldum, dated 31 August 1617, Engel Johannis was then already the wife of Frans Fransen. The appointment of guardians over the children of the earlier marriage of Engel Johannisdr. on 12 September 1617[4] is connected with this marriage, so that this marriage will have been contracted shortly before these dates.

[1] Pier Ewerts, Vroetsman (town councillor) of Workum, was married to Auck Sinnes, who, like Siouck Sinnes /married to Bintie (Bincke) Beerns/, was a sister of Joannes Sinnes. This appears in part from the Workum Inventory dated 26 April 1682, drawn up at the house of the deceased widow of the late Vroetsman Pyer Ewerts: Auck Sinnes, whose heirs were: Taabe Aages as father on behalf of his son Bincke begotten in marriage with Jets Binckes (a daughter of Bintie Beerns and Siouck Sinnes); the Burgomaster Carst Johans Allinga guardian over Arrien Sinnedr (a daughter of Joannes Sinnes' son: Sinne Joannes, married at Workum 3 August 1661 to Grietje Hendriks of Harlingen); Tyettie Jacobs and Dr. Jacobus Hempenius Town Rentmeester (treasurer) on behalf of the children of Hindrick Jacobs (married to a daughter of Bintie Beerns and Siouck Sinnes); and finally Jacob Murcks (married to Jantien Binckes, daughter of Bintie Beerns and Siouck Siouck Sinnes) as father on behalf of his son Murck begotten in marriage with Jantien Binckes.

[2] For according to p. 45 Aech was about 26 years old on 21 March 1664.

[3] See p. 26.

[4] See p. 34.

Benedictus Seerps, who thus probably died already in 1616 or earlier, and whose daughter Syouck still brought a child into the world around 1650, while in 1603 he is already mentioned as being of age, though not as married[1], will therefore hardly have married Engel Johannes later than the year 1605. The three young children (girls) whom he left behind at his death will thus have been born in the years 1606—1616, which agrees well with the dates of their marriages.

With this, THE PROBABLE FAMILY RELATIONSHIP OF THREE OF THE FOUR CO-OWNERS IN 1683 OF THE LAND AT OERDUM HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED, NAMELY OF BENEDICTUS ANSKES, DOUWE ANSKES AND BENEDICTUS TYAERDS, OF WHOM THE TWO FIRST NAMED WERE BROTHERS AND COUSINS OF THE LAST NAMED (the mother Sjouck Benedix of Benedictus and Douwe Anskes, and the mother Griettie Benedictus of Benedictus Tyaerds, were sisters). Furthermore it does not seem strange that TWO BROTHERS AND A CHILD OF THEIR MOTHER'S SISTER SHOULD OWN AN EQUALLY LARGE SHARE OF A PIECE OF LAND.

Of the fourth co-owner Frans Pijters, in 1683 stalman (stable-keeper) at Workum, it has not been possible to trace the relationship with the others[2]. Nor has it been possible to find in what way Frans Pijters became entitled to a ¼ share in the possession of the land in question.

This entitlement will, as regards Benedictus Anskes, Douwe Anskes and Benedictus Tyaerds, have run by way of their common grandmother Engel Johannes. The 8½ pondematen of pasture land sold in 1683, namely “tot Oerdum”, were, according to the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franeker present in the Judicial Archive, dated 19/26 February and 11 March 1664, more fully described in the Franeker Protocolboek belonging to the same Archive, dated 3 February 1664 (p. 336), sold by Trijntje Seerpsdr., widow of the late Cornelis Jacobs at Urdum, her son Claes Cornelis and her two brothers-in-law Eme Sydses and Frans Hanses, all of full age, to Frans Johannes, huisman (farmer) at Hitsum, as curator over Rinse Fransen, surviving orphan child of the late Frans Fransen de Jonge and Rinske Taeckedr. (Elgersma), in their lifetime married couple. That the land “tot Oerdum” sold in 1664 and in 1683 is really the same appears from the descriptions given at the sale in those years. The description in 1683 read: about 8½ pondematen of pasture land, “having lady Helena van Louinga, widow of Dr. Henricus van Starringa, to the South and West and the Sexbierumervaart to the East and North”, and in 1664 “having the Sexbierumervaart to the East and North, the seller's lands to the West”. The “seller's lands to the West” mentioned in this last description were now “the seller's” properties “tot Oerdum”, which, according to various deeds likewise of 3 February 1664, entered in the Franeker Protocolboek respectively on 5 February, 11 and 25 March, and 13 May 1664, were sold to Dr. Hen-“Arien Pietersdr, widow of Seerp Benedicxz., residing at Wynaem, for myself and, under mortgage of my goods and with renunciation of the benefitium senatus consulti velleiani et benefitio discussionis, after having been informed, giving surety for ratification for my children begotten by the same Seerp Benedix, assisted by Benedix Seerps my eldest son, owing two and a half hundred g.gl. to Jacob Sipckez. Banghe and Fed Tiaertsdr., married couple and citizens within Harlingen, etc. Harlingen 7 November 1603 (entered 28 March 1604). Below stood: Rein Wpkes (Burgomaster), Bonne Jacobs (Goldsmith) and Pieter van Buyten (Notary), all at Harlingen”. /The Latin clause in this deed meant that the debtor renounced the special rights belonging to her as a married woman under Roman Law; the one concerning surety, which right had been instituted by the burgomaster of Rome, named: Velleianus, and the other, also called the right of exception, likewise connected with the surety/.

He was a son of Pijter Fransen and Aeff Broers at Workum, which Pijter Fransen had from an earlier marriage a daughter Antie Pijters, married to Hinne Hylckes at Workum, son of Hylcke Buwes. Frans Pijters and Bauck Gercxdr. both died at Workum in 1692; they had as children Pijter and Antie, baptized at Workum respectively on 2 October 1659 and 30 December 1664.

[1] In the following deed, also cited on p. 59, in the Hypotheekboek of Barradeel:

[2] Frans Pijters, who besides being stalman (carter) was also a citizen of Workum, must have married before 18 March 1654 Bauck Gercxdr., daughter of Gercx Synes (Sinnes), citizen and skipper, among others of the ship “de Liefde”, at Workum, and Jel Reins.

ricus Schotanus, reigning Burgomaster of Franeker /the Dr. Henricus van Starringa mentioned at the sale in 1683, whose full name was: Dr. Henricus Schotanus à Starringa[1] and Juffr. Helena van Loouninga, husband and wife.

The purchaser in 1664 was thus Rinse Fransen, then still a minor and therefore assisted by a curator[2], “orphan child of Frans Fransen de Jonge and Rinske Taekedr (Elgersma).” This Frans Frans de Jonge was now a son of Frans Fransen d'Oude and Engel Johannes, as appears from the entry in the Wijnaldum church book: “Frans, son of Frans Fransen and Engel Johannes, baptized at Wijnaem 27 January 1625”. From Rinse Fransen the land at Oerdum which he had bought in 1664 thus passed before 1683, each for a ¼ share, to Benedictus Anskes, Douwe Anskes and Benedictus Tyaerds, who were — see the diagram — children of Sjouck Benedictus and Griettie Benedictus, two of the three stepsisters of his father Frans Fransen de Jonge. How the transfer of this landed property at Oerdum from Rinse Fransen to Benedictus Anskes, Douwe Anskes and Benedictus Tyaerds took place cannot be reported, any more than can the transfer to the Workum Stalman (carrier) Frans Pijters. It may be noted here in addition that the sister of Rinse Fransen shown on the diagram, Jildu Fransen, married Steffen Annis, from which marriage the children Beytske, Anne, Taecke and Pytter were born at Achlum.

Now that the descent of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus and of his stepbrother Benedictus Tyaerds has been established, there follow here, explained by the accompanying diagram, the collected data and particulars concerning their ancestors and concerning those relatives of theirs which it has been possible to trace.

The father of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus and of his stepbrother Benedictus Tyaerds was Tyaerd Jans, of whom not much has been found. The first mention at Franeker of a Tiaerd Jans is in the "Register van de schattinghe over de Floreenrenthe in den Klokslach ende Wtbuyren van Franeker" (Register of the assessment of the floreen rent in the Klokslach and the outlying districts of Franeker), which is in the municipal archive of Franeker but is not included in the Telting Register, for the year 1 March 1634/1635, in which stands:

> "Tiaerd Jansz in Martena Schuyr XIII fl. XIX st.
> * (is reckoned at XIIII fl., reservatus 5 st. in fine)".*

It is however questionable whether our Tyaerd Jans is meant by this.

On the other hand, in the various descriptions of the citizenry of that town present in the municipal archive of Franeker, for the town quarter: "1e half Noorderkwartier", "1e half Noord" or "1e Noorder-Quartier", which included among other parts "de Greyde", a Tyaerd Jans is found who must have been the father of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus and of Benedictus Tyaerds.

In the accompanying table these descriptions of the inhabitants of the said town quarter, as far as roughly "de Greyde" is concerned, have been included, also for a year in which Tyaerd Jans is not yet mentioned in it, as well as for two years in which he had already died.

In this table Tyaerd Jans thus appears in 1636, 1640 and 1642. According to the description of 1636, he was in possession of one fire bucket and of a speets (pike). In the list of 1642 Tyaerd Jans was later replaced by his widow — that was Griettie Benedictus —

[1] He is mentioned on pages 58 and 200 in the judicial marriage registrations of Griettie Benedictus × Gerrit Sijdses and of Benedictus Tyaerds × Antie Johannes respectively.

[2] According to the Authorisatieboek (book of authorisations) of Barradeel, on 14 March 1655 Frans Joannis of Pyttersbierum was made curator over the under-age orphan child left by the late Frans Fransen de Jonge and Rinske Teekes (Elgersma), in their time husband and wife at Pyttersbierum. The curator Frans Joannes of Pyttersbierum was a son of Joannes Daniëls, married to Geert Fransen, a sister of Frans Fransen d'Oude, and remarried to Doecke Reyners. Rinse Fransen's curator was thus a son of a sister of his grandfather.

Descriptions of the Inhabitants of "De Greyde" at Franeker.

N° 752 of the Telting-Register Hooftgelt (poll tax) for the year 1624 1e Half Noorder Quartier.	N° 844 of the Telting-Register Description of the Citizenry for the year 1636 1e Half Noord.	N° 872 of the Telting-Register Description of the Citizenry for the year 1640 1e Half Noord.	N° 889 of the Telting-Register Kohier (register) of the Municipal Levy dated 24 June 1642 1e Noorder-Quartier.	N° 959 of the Telting-Register Kohier of the Municipal Levy dated 27 March 1648 1e Noorder-Quartier.	N° 1007 of the Telting-Register Kohier of the Municipal Levy dated 6 August 1651 1e Noorder-Quartier.
Atte Heijns and wife and 3 children, of whom 2 minors	Atte Heins (Halberd, Free roth (squad))	Atte Heijns
Hoijte Jacobs and wife	Jan Beerns Musketeer	Tiallingh Sibouts	Tyallingh Sibolts Weaver (Gerrit Douwes)
Jan Peters Walta and wife and a growing daughter	Jan Pieters Walta Wid.	Sijbrand Eeckes (Pike)
	Meinert Meinerts (no weapon)	Jell Cornelis	Jacob Douwes (Sijbren Eijckes)	Idz. Alberts	Idz Alberts Book printer (Jan Wellens)
	Corneliske Jans Spinster
Peter Cornelis Rijckaert and 3 children, of whom 1 minor	Pieter Cornelis Rijckert (Mennonite)	Jan Pyters (Mennonite)	Jan Pijters (idem and Jan Dircx)	Jan Dirxen and Jan Pijters
Prof. A. Ammema with his 7, of whom 3 minors	Pieter Pieters the son		the Faendrich (ensign) Jan ter Borghorst (Jan Sickes Intema)	Theodorus Inthiema c.s.	Jan Sickes and Jan Abrams (Doecke Hendricx)
Willem Roeleffs and wife.	Dr. Wybinga.	Prof. Schotanus in Heinema Huis
Claes Buwes a musketeer Rotmr (squad leader) and wife and 5 milk cows	Tiaerdt Jans (1 bucket with pike)	Tyaerd Jans	Tyaard Jans (the Widow and Rutger Gortmr (groats miller))	Tyaard Jans Widow c.s.	Wijbe Dirxen /Johannes Fivelandt, Corn. Pieters,
Jacob Holtsager and wife and 3 children	Sibren soldier	Jacques Verkarre

N° 752 of the Telting-Register Hooftgelt (poll tax) for the year 1624 1e Half Noorder Quartier.	N° 844 of the Telting-Register Description of the Citizenry for the year 1636 1e Half Noord.	N° 872 of the Telting-Register Description of the Citizenry for the year 1640 1e Half Noord.	N° 889 of the Telting-Register Kohier (register) of the Municipal Levy dated 24 June 1642 1e Noorder-Quartier.	N° 959 of the Telting-Register Kohier of the Municipal Levy dated 27 March 1648 1e Noorder-Quartier.	N° 1007 of the Telting-Register Kohier of the Municipal Levy dated 6 August 1651 1e Noorder-Quartier.
Lena Joost Marcusdr. and her 3 sisters	Neeltie Jochems Widow (Mennonite)	Douwe Isaacx (Halberd)	Pijter Claessen Rope maker (Widow and Jacob Turfmr (peat measurer))		Tyetze Sickes Weaver (Tieerd Johaens)
Tijs Peters and wife	Douwe Isackx (Musketeer)	Pytter Annes (Pike)		Pijter Annes Closke	Joute Joutes c.s. (Beernt Beerns)
Peter Annes Kloske and wife with 6 or 7 small children	Pieter Annis Kloske (Musketeer)	Neeltie Jochems Widow	Pijter Annes	Pijter Claessen Widow and Jacob Turfmr
		Wlbe Sijbrens
Adam Uldrix and wife and 6 small children	Adam Uldrickx (Mennonite)	Adam Ulricx (Mennonite)	Adam Ulrix	Adam Ulryx	Adam Ulrix and Bote Abrams
Neeltie Joachims Widow and 2 small children	Feicke Cornelis (Mennonite)	Lysbet Pieters Ens			(Haring Jurjans)
					Hidde Johâns Wagenmr (wagon maker) (Rixt Jans)
Jan Lamberts and wife and maid and 4 minor children	Jan Buwes Widow 1 bucket (Mennonite)	Antie Sybes	Ryeurd Saeckles /Sytz Hankes (or Saeckes) c.s./	Sydts Harckes c.s.	Egbert Geerts (Hans Jan Brouwer)
Heyn Cornelis with his son	Hein Cornelis halberd	Heyn Cornelis	Meynert Meynerts	Meijnert Meijnerts	(Jasper Pieter, Gerryt Jansen)
		Dirck Dircx			Jan Iisbrandts, labourer
		Andries Jans			(Geert Feder, Sybolt Tiallings)
	Pieter Isbrandts Musketeer	Pieter Ysbrandts	Pyter Iisbrandts (Ryeurd Saeckles/	Ryeurd Saeckles	Ryeurd Saeckles Cow milker (Jacob Pieters)
	Thijs Lourens Pike	Jetze Jacobs	Jetze Jacobs	Jetse Jacobs Widow
	Willem Hendrickx Ruur	Willem Hendricx	(Widow; Willem Hendrix Woudman)	Willem Hendryckx Woudman	Willem Hendrix Woudman (Willem Gerrijts)
	Roth (squad) Johannes Piers Tania musketeer with 2 buckets and fire equipment	Johannes Piers (Tania)	Hendrick Fransen (Jan Feijtes c.s.)

The names placed between strokes beneath the names concern later changes.

Belongs with page 48.

Diagram concerning the ancestors, with their relatives, of Prof. Johannes Greydanus and his stepbrother Benedictus Tyaerds. Belongs with page 48. [several children in the second row hang from very long horizontal bars that overlap with the horizontal fold creases of the sheet; the filiations of Wypck Wybes, Buwe Jansen and Jantien Jans are given as read] - Jan Foppes — Farmer at Tjummarum. In 1646, with Claes Jansen, guardian of the later Prof. Greydanus. † Tjummarum 1654, aged ± 60 to 70 years. - ⚭ I Anne Jelledr. — dau. of Jelle Claesz. - Foppe Jans — probably baker. Was still living Nov. 1654. - Aert Jans — Was still living Nov. 1654. - ⚭ II Rixtie Jacobsdr. - Jantien Jans (see below) - Buwe - Claes Buwes — At Franeker on "de Greyde" in the 4th house from the Nauwe Steegh, citizen and butcher. † Franeker in 1630. - ⚭ I Jetz Joannisdr. — Was still living 27 February 1618. - ⚭ II Auck Jelderts (Gielderts) — Was still living 24 Dec. 1630. - Ysbrandt Buwes — Was still living 24 December 1630. - Jan Buwes — Citizen and gortmaecker (groats miller) in the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh on "de Greyde" at Franeker. m. before 8 May 1613. † Franeker in 1630. - ⚭ II Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. — Citizen of Franeker. † Franeker in 1652, aged ± 70 to 80 years. - ⚭ I Wybe Andries — b. ± 1573, son of Andries Jansz. and Fock Wijbedr.. † before 8 May 1613. - Wypck Wybes — † Franeker in 1647. - ⚭ Tijs (Luttiens) Lourens — † before 25 January 1649. - Buwe Jansen — ? - Tyaerd Jans — Gortmaecker. b. ± 1610. Lived from 1636 until his death in 1646 in the 4th house from the Nauwe Steegh on "de Greyde" at Franeker. Reached an age of ± 30 to 40 years. - ⚭ I Jantien Jans — † between 1630 and 1648, aged ± 30 to 40 years. - Prof. Johannes Greydanus - ⚭ II Griettie Benedictus — Native of Wynaem (Wijnaldum). † Franeker in 1667, older than 50 years. - Benedictus Tyaerds - ⚭ I Wijbe Dircxen — remarried: First farmer at Herbayum, thereafter citizen and gortmaecker in the 4th house from the Nauwe Steegh on "de Greyde" at Franeker. - ⚭ II Pyr Pijters van Vijfhuysen — June 1656 at Franeker. Boat builder at Franeker, widower of Antie Remmelts Lamminga and before that of Auck Sijbrens. - ⚭ III Gerryt Sydses — 2 February 1659 at Franeker. Wagon maker at Franeker. - Claes Jansen (de Kleyne) — Until ± 1652 baker, thereafter Bolsward skipper at Franeker. In 1646, with Jan Foppes, guardian of the later Prof. Greydanus. † between 1656 and 1659. - ⚭ I Bauck Iskes (Eeskes or Eetsens) Jelgersma — Probably sister of the Franeker timber merchant and Burgomaster Take Iskes (Eeskes or Eetsens) Jelgersma. In 1661, with Prof. Greydanus and Trijntie Jans, owner of the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh on "de Greyde" at Franeker. - Tieerd Claeses — Bapt. Franeker 8 October 1656. Brewer's journeyman at Franeker. - ⚭ Geeltje Bottes - ⚭ II Lou Jans — Mr. Baker at Franeker, son of Jan Eelckes, baker, and Pyttje Louws. - Imke Jans — born ± 1617. - ⚭ I Jetze Jacobs — Already married in 1636. Lived in 1640 and 1642 on "de Greyde" at Franeker. † before 1647. - Antie Jetzes — b. ± 1637. - ⚭ II Hidde Johans — Already married in 1647. Wagon maker and dairyman at Franeker, where he also lived on "de Greyde". In 1668, together with Agge Romckes, requested the appointment of guardians over the children left by Prof. Greydanus. Perhaps †

Franeker in 1674. - Johannes Hiddes — ? Was still living in 1674. - Tryntie Jans — In 1661, with Prof. Greydanus and Bauck Iskes, owner of the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh on "de Greyde" at Franeker. - ⚭ I Sybe Rinnerts — Native of Sexbierum, shoemaker and citizen at Franeker. Already married in 1652. - ⚭ II Tyaerd Johannes — Possibly native of Menaem. 1656—1663 shopkeeper and citizen in the Noordermolenstraat at Franeker - Aaff Buwes — Was still living 24 December 1630. - Barber Buwes — † before 28 Nov. 1630. - ⚭ I Vincent (Cent, Zent) Botis (Bottes) — Were still living 19 October 1613 at Pietersbierum. - ⚭ II Trijntie Foppedr. - Feick Buwes — † before 28 Nov. 1630. - ⚭ Buwe Roeleffsz. — Was still living 24 Dec. 1630. - Heer Benedicx Seerps — 30 Dec. 1543 possessor of the lands and rents belonging to the parsonage of Kimswerd. Landlord of various parcels of fennen (pastures) at Kimswerd and co-owner of fennen at Kornwerd. - Seerp Benedicxz. — Owner of land, first at Kimswerd and near Harlingen, thereafter at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum). † Wijnaem (Wijnaldum) before 7 Nov. 1603. - ⚭ Arian Pieters — Was still living 7 Nov. 1603 at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum). - Benedictus Seerps — at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum). † before 12 Sept. 1617. - ⚭ I Engel Johannes — † at Franeker. - Griettie Benedictus (see above) - Sjouck Benedictus — † at Rauwerd. - ⚭ I Anske Douwes — Successively established at: Sexbierum, Oosterlittens, Jorwerd and Rauwerd, where he died. - ⚭ II Rink Gerrijts - Arian Benedictus - ⚭ Joannes Sinnes — Citizen and tile maker at Workum. - ⚭ II Frans Fransen d'Oude — Married in 1617. First at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum) and in 1631 moved to Pietersbierum, where he was a farmer and "co-Deputy of the Vijffdelen embankment outside the dike". - Pieter Seerps — at Wynaem (Wijnaldum) m. before 23 December 1625. - ⚭ I Jell Abbes — b. ± 1605. † Wijnaem 2 July 1653 and "buried the following Tuesday, 5 July, in the afternoon at 4 o'clock at Wijnaem on the north side of the tower". See note 2 page 59 and page 217. - Seerp Pieters - ⚭ Griet Clasesdr. (van Sexbierum) — m. 20 July 1633. - Douwe Pieters - Ariaen Pieters - Hil Pieters - Aebe Pieters — Bapt. Wijnaem ± 1627. - Benedix Pieters — Bapt. Wijnaem 23 Dec. 1632. - ⚭ II Alberts Olpherts — son of Olphert Dirx and Taetske Sicke dr., remarried: 1° marriage procl. Wijnaldum 9 April 1654 Aeltie Aenesdr.. 2° Sijke Douwes. - .... Seerps — ? - ⚭ Gerben Riencx - Tiete Benedicxz — 20 March 1596 at Stiens. - Iedt Benedicx dr. — 20 March 1596 at Wins. - ⚭ Jan Jansz.

and "Rutger gortmr", presumably the person who operated the groats mill after the death of Tyaerd Jans. In the description of 1648 the widow of Tyaerd Jans is still mentioned, but in the return of 1651 her place is taken by Wybe Dirxen, the second husband of Griettie Benedictus. From the statement it appears that the house of Tyaerd Jans was in 1624 inhabited by Claes Buwes. This Claes Buwes was an uncle of Tyaerd Jans, namely a brother of Tyaerd Jans' father Jan Buwes; the family relationship follows from the testament dated 28 November 1630 of Claes Buwes and from the inventory drawn up in his house of mourning on 24 December following.

This testament of "Claes Bouves zoen, burgher within Franeker" is to be found in the portfolio of testaments included in the Judicial Archive of Franeker. According to this testament, Claes Buwes, who was married but left no children, bequeathed: "first to the poor within this town the sum of 25 ggl., and then: "to my lawful and dear wife Auck Jeldertsdr. 300 ggl. together with my kevijen[1] , and that in addition to the moneys and goods brought to me by her; all this likewise apart from the half of the household goods and furnishings, which I also bequeath to her." Further he appointed: as "universal heirs Isbrandt and Jan his brothers and Aaff, his sister, as also the children of Barber and Feyck, his deceased sisters, in their parents' place, to be divided and distributed according to degrees after his death." As witnesses there appeared herewith: "the persons and neighbours named hereafter: Jan Pijters Walta, Ewardt Sijbrensz, glazier, Adam Wuldrickxzoen, linen weaver, Dyerck Classen, chest-maker, Hyndrick Lyuvesz, linen weaver, Hoeyte Jacobsz, baker, Dyerck Wulckesz together with Augustinum Heinema, proc. postulant within Franeker", of which persons one finds those printed in capitals again as inhabitants of "de Greyde", near the house of Claes Buwes, in the description of the burghers of Franeker in 1624.

The said inventory, occurring in the portfolio with the Franeker estate inventories, begins as follows (see the reproduction printed hereafter):

"Inventory made on the 24th of December 1630 by Hieronimūs
Willems z, Burgomaster within Franeker, as Commiss/ione/r appointed thereto by the Court, and by me
Kempo Dūinterp, Notary Public and first Clerk of the Secretariat, of all such goods, claims and rights, together with debts receivable and payable, as have been found in the house of mourning of the deceased Claes Buwes z.
Ysbrant and Jan, Būwes' sons, together with Wincent Botis and Būwe Roeleffsz. as curators over the children of the two sisters of the deceased Claes Buwes, to whom they belong pro indiviso.
And the same goods have been declared by Auck Gielderts dr [2] in the p/rese/nce of the aforesaid IJsbrandt and Jan together with Būwe, under due oath concerning the estate, in manner following:
Firstly a house and barn with their appurtenances, in which the deceased Claes Buwesz died, standing on d' Greide, with the burdens, profits and rights belonging thereto."

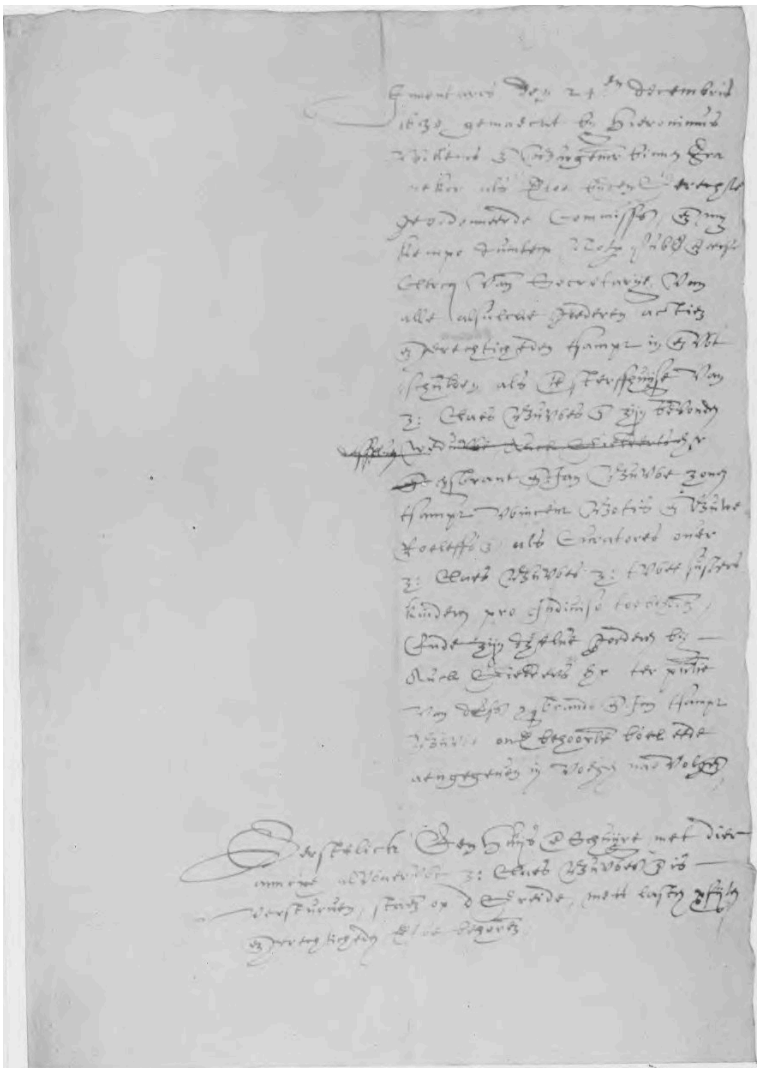
From these documents it appears in the first place that Claes Buwes did indeed live on "de Greyde" [3] and that at his death about December 1630 he had a brother Jan Buwes. This brother is then supposed to be the father of Tyaerd Jans, because Tyaerd Jans' father

[1] kevijen = a particular kind of cupboards.

[2] As appears from a deletion in this document and according to the above testament, this Auck Gielderstdr. (Jeldertsdr.) is the widow of Claes Buwesz.

[3] Claes Buwes bought the house on de Greyde at the beginning of 1618, when he was apparently married to a first wife Jetz Joannisdr., according to the proclamation occurring in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) dated 6/13/27 February 1618, reading: "Claes Buwesz. and Jetz Joannisdr., married couple, burghers within Franeker, buy a house, barn and hay-barn, together with the empty plot between house and barn, standing and situated here within Franeker on de Greijde, having Aucke Heijnema to the east and Jan Schellinghwou to the west, charged with 14 st. to Haringh and Petronella Roorda, and with the like 14 st. to the heirs of Jr Bothnya as annual ground rents, acquired by purchase from Jantie Nannesz. for 450 ggl.. Freerck Taeckez. and Trijn Nannedr., as also Schelte Jans living at Achlum as husband of Griet Jans, together with Atie Jansdr., lawful wife of Sijbren Sijbrensz., as children of the seller /namely Griet and Atie Jan/tie/s/, request the niaer (right of redemption by kinship) (Latin) by reason of blood;



Beginning of the Inventory, — of the 24th December 1630 of the late Claes Buwes on d'Greide —, from the portfolio of the Franeker Boedelinventarissen (Franeker estate inventories) (see page 49) (slightly reduced).

Jan Buwes was still alive in December 1630[1] and Tyaerd Jans had a brother named Claes[2].[3] It further follows that Claes Buwes was a burgher of Franeker and was married, and that, besides a brother Jan, he also had a brother IJsbrandt and three sisters Aaff, Barbar and Feick, of whom the last two, who had already died at the time of his death, had as husbands respectively Vincent Botis and Buwe Roeleffs. From appendices to the will, about the execution of which the family later became involved in a dispute, it further appears that Vincent Botis lived at Pietersbierum and that the goods bought by him at the public sale of Claes Buwes' estate were taken over by Buwe Jansz., possibly the eldest brother of Tyaerd Jans.

Claes Buwes' occupation was probably butcher, on the strength of the description in the list of inhabitants of 1624 "Claes Buwes and wife and 5 milk cattle" and of the following entry taken from the Franeker Recesboek (register of court proceedings):

> "24 October 1623: Wytze Jacobsz. as collector of the cattle excise and as agent of his masters, arrestant, protests as to the effect of the arrest which Claes Buwes had made, in order that the slaughtered horned beast belonging to dr. Sixtus Amama and hanging at the house of the said arrestant at the Balck should not be cut down nor be delivered to the said dr. Amama before and until the arrestant in his capacity, together with the excise and his costs incurred, shall have been satisfied."

At the division of Claes Buwes' estate, the house on "de Greyde", named "first of all" in the will, "from which the late Claes Buwesz. died", was apparently not allotted to his brother Jan Buwes, but to IJsbrandt Buwes and one or more of the other heirs, for, according to the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales), pursuant to the proclamations of 3/17/24 February 1632, Ysbrandt Buwes cum socius sells to "Jan Buwez. and Trijncke Tyaerdtsdr." a house cum annexis on "de Greijde", having Aucke Heinema to the East and Dirck Brouwer to the West, charged with 14 st. yearly ground rent. This must, as one can see from the description of the Burgherry of Franeker of 1640 and from note 3 on page 49, be the house of Claes Buwes, while the buyers "Jan Buwez. and Trijncke Tyaerdtsdr." must be identified with the parents of our Tyaerd Jans, who from 1636 at the latest himself lived in the house as groats miller and of which he was at his death also the owner, as appears from the statement of his estate included on page 27.

The probable course of events concerning the house of Claes Buwes on "de Greijde" is therefore that Claes Buwes bought it in 1618, that at the death of Claes Buwes at the end of 1630, who died childless, the property passed to his brother Ysbrandt Buwes and other heirs, and that these owners sold it at the beginning of 1632 to Claes Buwes' other brother Jan Buwes, married to Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr.. From

Jan Buwes, who died just before 11 May 1636, since on that date his remaining household goods were sold publicly at a boelgoed (public estate sale) (see page 24)

[the chart is printed without a title, directly following the words "De familie van deze eerste vrouw van Claes Buwes laat zich hiermede als volgt reconstrueeren:" in the continued footnote] - .... - ⚭ Joannis.... - Jetz Joannis - ⚭ Claes Buwes — at Franeker - Aesge Joannis — at Jeslum - ....Joannis — at Leeuwarden - ⚭ Joannis.... (see below) - Thet Joannis — b. ± 1608 - Rintze Joannis — b. ± 1619 - ..... - ⚭ Joannis.... - .... Joannis (see above) - Eete Joannis — at Ritsmazijl

[1] According to page 24, the "Boelgoet of the late Jan Bouwes" took place on 11 May 1636.

[2] The Claes Jansz. baker, later Bolsward skipper, named on page 28.

[3] On page 63 one finds in the entry of 28 April 1631 in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) a proof of the correctness of this supposition. In that entry it is stated, namely, that on 28 April 1631 the Jan Buwesz. who was married to Trijn Tiardtsdr. had a deceased brother Claes Buwes. And Tyaerd Jans was a son of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr..

and whose widow, according to the list of inhabitants of 1636, lived a few houses further along "de Greyde", the property passed to his son Tyaerd Jans.

After the death of Tyaerd Jans the house came into the possession of his 2nd wife Griettie Benedictus, who remarried Wybe Dircxen and sold it in 1652. All this appears from the following deeds:

> The deed of 4 May 1643, registered in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) on 8 May following, by which Tyeerd Jansen Gortmaecker (groats miller) and Griet Benedictus, husband and wife at Franeker, declare that they owe to Lieuwe Jansen and Aeffke Pijckesdochter, likewise husband and wife, at Hitzum, the sum of 100 gold guldens of 28 stuivers each, undertaking therewith to repay this amount within a year from the date with six and a half like gold guldens, and thereby giving as mortgage "specifically our house and groats mill, at present inhabited and used by us." This deed was cancelled on 12 June 1652 on account of discharge of the debt.
>
> The deed of 8 June 1648, registered in the Franeker Hypotheekboek on 1 November following, by which Griet Benedicti dr., wife of Wybe Dircx at Herbayum, assisted by her husband, acknowledges that she owes to Aucke Claesen, burgher and merchant within Franeker, the sum of 100 gold guldens of 28 stuivers each, undertaking to repay this amount on 1 May 1649 with 6 like guldens for one year's interest, and thereby specially pledging her house standing on de Greijde within Franeker, having Aucke Heijnama to the East and Dirk brouwer to the West. This deed was cancelled on 5 May 1651, the date on which the debt was paid off.
>
> The deed of 30 April 1651, registered in the Franeker Hypotheekboek on 5 May following, by which Griet Benedicti dr., wife of Wijbe Dircx within Franeker, together with Wijbe Dircx declare that they owe to Aucke Claesen, burgher and merchant there, the sum of 200 caroli guldens at an interest of 6%, giving as security I Griet "specially my house cum annexis standing on d'Greide within Franeker, having Aucke Heinema to the East and Dirck Brouwer to the West, leaving to the creditor thereon the right of retention or true ownership until full satisfaction sub clausula constituti in forma."
>
> The deed of 6 April 1652, registered in the Franeker Hypotheekboek on 6 August 1652[1] according to which Griet Benedictusdr., lawful wife of Wijbe Dirxen burgher and Gortmaecker within Franeker, with the advice and consent of the same sells to Eepo Romckes and Griet Martensdr., likewise husband and wife, at present residing at Waar within the clockslagh (bell-ringing jurisdiction) of the aforesaid town, a certain house and barn, together with a garden between the two and a free alley to the west of the house, at present inhabited by the seller herself, excepting the groats mill with its rights and the equipment belonging thereto, as also the projecting signboard, standing here on de Greijde on the southern side of the Diept, having Augustinus Heinema to the East, Tzyetske Sickes cum socio to the West and the house and garden inhabited by Roeleff Pijters Zantvoerder to the South, for the sum of 550 gold guldens of 28 stuivers each.

The deed of 30 April 1651, as well as that of 6 April 1652, were signed by Griettie Benedictus with her signature, respectively: Griet Benedix and Griet Benedicks; Wybe Dircxen signed the first-mentioned deed with the handmark: [printed handmark symbol] and the last-mentioned with the handmark: [printed handmark symbol]

In 1628 there stood on "de Greijde" at Franeker, between the Nauwe, Kleijne or Enge Steegh and the Syaerdemastraat, 12 houses, which number will probably have remained so for some time. On the map of Franeker in the Stedenboek of Blaeu of 1649 one counts 13 or 14 houses there. Now the house inhabited by Tyaerd Jans was the fourth from the Nauwe Steegh.

That there were 12 houses on "de Greijde" in 1628 rests on the data of N° 776 of the Telting-Register.

There one finds — see the sketch on the following page —:

that the maintenance of the "stone bridge alongside the Kleine ofte Nauve Steegh to the North" is chargeable to, among others:

"on the South: to the west of the same alley six houses", that is therefore the houses numbered in the sketch: I, II, III, IV, V and VI; and that the maintenance of the "stone bridge extending from the entrance of the Noorderpoort southwards into Syaerdemastraat" is chargeable to, among others:

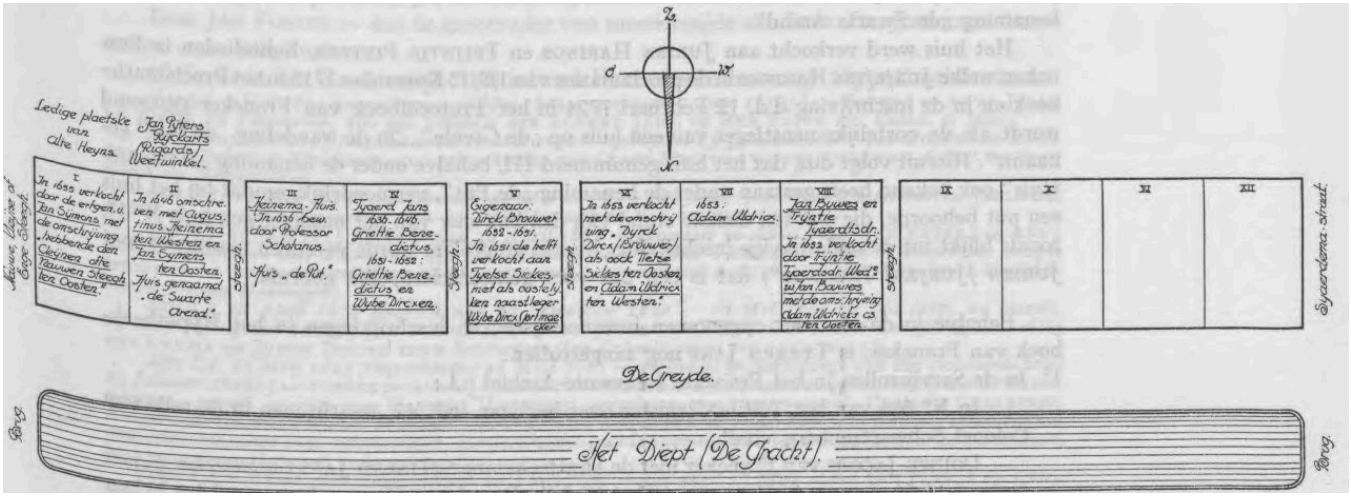
"on the South-east six houses", that is therefore the houses numbered in the sketch XII, XI, X, IX, VIII and VII.

In all therefore 12 houses.

From the following it appears that the house inhabited by Tyaerd Jans was the fourth from the Nauwe Steegh.

[1] The deed was registered on 9 April 1652 in the Protocolboek of Franeker.

According to the proclamations dated 3/10/24 February 1632 mentioned on page 24 and the deeds mentioned on page 51, registered in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) on 1 November 1648, 5 May 1651 and 6 August 1652, the owner of the property situated to the East of the house of Tyaerd



1, by which the heirs of Jan Sijmons, in his lifetime Provenier (holder of a provision in an almshouse) of the town of Franeker, sold to Andries Lamberts and Aeltie Rintiedr., spouses and shopkeepers within Franeker, a house and a rear yard with appurtenances, on "de Greijde" to the South of the Diepte, "having the Cleynen ofte Nauwe Steegh to the East, Alte Heijns's empty plot to the South and the heirs of the late Jan Pijtersz. Walta to the West" (in which description therefore no account was taken of the sale in 1646 to Jan Dircx). This deed further shows that the Atte Heyns included in the list of Franeker inhabitants in the returns of 1624, 1636 and 1640 no longer lived on "de Greyde", but in the first house from there in the Nauwe Steegh.

That the house numbered II was called "de Swarte Arend" follows from the entry of 15 January 1705 in the Franeker Protocolboek, according to which the heirs of the vroedsman (town councillor)

---

[1] Corresponds with the proclamations dated 29 June/6/13 July 1655 in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales).

Hessel Hendriks and his wife Aeltie Hendriks sold the house on "de Greyde", to which belonged an alley on the west side and which "with its rear end extended as far as Jan Rigards' (Ryckarts') Weefwinkel". For in that registration that house, which from its situation with respect to Jan Rigards' (Rijckarts') Weefwinkel can be none other than house N° II, is designated by the name "de Swarte Arend".

The house was sold to Jurien Harings and Trijntie Pieters, spouses at Franeker, which Jur/r/ien Harings is named in the proclamations of 1/8/15 November 1715 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) and in the registration of 12 February 1724 in the Protocolboek of Franeker as the eastern adjoining neighbour of a house on "de Greide", "commonly called "de Put"". From this it follows that the house numbered III was known, besides under the name "Heinema-Huis", also under the name "de Put", presumably because there belonged to the house a well which also served the occupant of the adjoining house N° II, as appears from the registration in question, in which mention is made of "a joint well with Jurien (Jurjen) Harings", that is a well for common use.

Besides in the lists of inhabitants and the registrations in the Hypotheekboek of Franeker included above, Tyaerd Jans has further been found:

1° In the Servijsrollen (billeting rolls) in the Franeker Municipal Archives, namely:

In N° 884 of the Telting-Register for the year 1641/42, where in the roll of Colonel Schwartzenberg one finds:

Douwe Jacobs of Franeker with the marginal note: "Tiaerd Jans Gortmaecker (groats miller) ½ year (paid 6-16-8), the remainder A. Heinema (paid 6-16-8)". The soldier Douwe Jacobs will thus have been billeted for ½ year with Tyaerd Jans and for ½ year with his neighbour Aucke (Augustinus) Heinema.

2° In the Franeker Boelgoedboeken (auction registers), namely:

11 May 1636 at the sale (the auction of goods) at the house of his father Jan Bouwes (see pages 24 and 25);

10 February 1642 at the sale (the auction of goods) at the house of Dirck Ennes, at which sale "Tiaerd Jansz. Gordtmaker" bought "a child's little cap" for "—10—" (10 stuivers). Tyaerd Jans will have bought this "child's little cap" for one of his little children from the marriage with Griettie Benedictus, namely either the child whose name is unknown, or Benedictus Tyaerds; the third child Tyaerdtie Tyaerds it cannot have been, for she was only baptized 27 March 1646;

22 November 1653 at the 45th auction, presumably at the house of the Bank van Leening (pawn bank), concerning Carst Hansen, at which sale "Tyeerd Jansz Gortmaecker" bought "a crimson coat" for "27—10—";

22 May 1644 at the sale (the auction of goods) at the house of the late Jan Sippes and his widow Griet Bouwes, at which sale "Tyeerd Jans Gortm^r" bought "a Latin Bible and other books" for "2—11—". This purchase will have been made by Tyaerd Jans in connection with the scholarly direction in which his son Johannes Theotardi (the later Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus), who was then 13 or 14 years old, was being educated.

3° In the Franeker estate inventories (see his own inventory on page 27);

4° In the Franeker Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship authorisations) (see the registration therein concerning the request of his son Johannes Theotardi on page 26).

Tyaerd Jans could not write, in contrast with his 2nd wife Griettie Benedictus, and signed the mortgage deed of 4 May 1643 mentioned on page 51 as follows: "Tyeerd Jans' own handmark set by himself [handmark: an X-shape flanked by two short vertical strokes]", which handmark did not differ much from the handmark, likewise included on pages 62, 70 and 184: [handmark: a six-pointed star-shaped mark] of his father Jan Buwes.

The first wife (for what follows see page 31) of Tyaerd Jans was Jantien Jans, daughter of Jan Foppes at Tjummarum and Anne Jelledr.. Jan Foppes remarried Rixtie Jacobsdr.. From the first marriage Jan Foppes had, besides Jantien Jans, two more sons: Foppe Jans and Aert Jans, while he left 2 children from the second marriage.

This Jan Foppes — thus the maternal grandfather of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus — has been found:

1° In the Hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers) present in the Judicial Archive of Barradeel:

deed d.d. 3 May 1610 (entered 31 May 1615 — cancelled 1 June 1618) Jan Foppe z and Anna Jelle dr spouses at Tiemarum, owing 200 ggl. to Albert Janz. and Bee Foppe dr. spouses at Boer; deed d.d. 3 May 1615 (entered 10 May 1616 — cancelled 25 January 1626) Jan Foppes and Anna Jelle dr spouses at Tiemarum, owing 200 ggl. to Claes Melis and Geyts Anske dr, spouses at Oentzeirck in Trijnwolden; deed d.d. 10 May 1615 (entered 22 May 1615 — cancelled) Jan Foppe z and Antie Jelle dr. spouses in the village of Tiemarum, owing 200 ggl. to the honourable Cornelis Claesz.;
deed d.d. 10 May 1615 (entered 30 April 1621 — cancelled 30 April 1628) Jan Foppe z and Anna Jelle dr. spouses at Tiemarum owing 450 g.gl. to Watse Tiaerdtsen at Witmarsum, to be repaid within 1 year with 31 like g.gl. and 14 strs interest, for which there also stands as surety: Feddrick Foppe z. burgher within Harlingen; deed d.d. 28 April 1618 (entered 27 September 1620 — 20 March 1622 paid but for 100 cargl., 29 May 1630 paid in full) Jan Foppes z. and Anna Jelle dr., spouses at Tiemarum owing 500 ggl. to Lyuwe and Dirck Douwe znen brothers at Cohooll, at an interest of 7%; deed d.d. 23 Meij 1623 (entered 28 Meij 1623 — cancelled upon presentation of the annulled deed 25 January 1626) Jan Foppes and Anne Jelle dr. spouses at Tiemarum owing 100 ggl. to Sybrant Aggesz., authorized curator over Harmen Harmensz orphan child left by the late Harmen Gerleffsz. burgher and merchant within Franeker, at interest pro rata, under express mortgage specially of "our house and vacating, together with the profitable lease of farm and lands at Tiemarum, at present inhabited and used by us";
deed d.d. 7 March 1626 (entered 28 April 1626 — cancelled 13 May 1642) Jan Foppes and Anna Jelle dr. spouses residing in the village of Tyummarum owing 500 g.gl. to Douve Hille z and Cornelis Cornelisz., residing at Ste Jacobi Parochie and at Peterbirum respectively, together and as authorized curators and guardians over Andryes Douvisz, orphan child left by the late Douve Andryes and Syu Jans dr, in their time spouses in the village of Donium, setting as express mortgage and pledge specially our house, vacating, together with the profitable lease of the farm and lands at Tyummarum at present inhabited and used by us.
deed d.d. 9 Maj 1628 (entered 5 April 1639). Jan Foppe z and Anna Jelle dr. spouses at Tzumarum owing 250 g.gl. to Wijbren Lyckles z as curator ad divisionem over Rixt Evert dr. young spinster, in that capacity heir of Evert Albertsz and Trijn Saecke dr., in their time spouses at Tzumarum, pledging specially "our house and vacating together with the profitable lease of farm and lands at present inhabited and used by us".
deed d.d. 28 May 1637 (entered 5 April 1639). Jan Foppesz. residing at Tzumarum owing 50 ggl. to Nanne Cornelisz. at an interest of 6%; deed d.d. 8 June 1654/entered 9 August 1654/ Jan Foppesz. farmer at Tiummarum as husband and guardian of Rixt Jacobs dr. his lawful wife owing 250 cargl. to the honourable Lolle Pyeters[1] burgomaster within Franeker and Wobbeltie Reijns, spouses; deed d.d. 15 Mrt 1657 (entered 18 Augs 1658) Opke Eelckes residing at Sexbierum owing 100 ggl. to Ricxt Jacobs, widow of Jan Foppes, at present residing at Minnersga;

2° In the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) present in the Judicial Archive of Barradeel:

d.d. 17/24 May 1615/3 July 1616. Jan Foppe z. and Anna Jelle dr., spouses at Thiemarum, buy for 795 ggl. from Hessel Martensz. and Renck Broersdr., spouses in the aforesaid village 6 P.M. of arable land, as the same lie free of buildings in two parcels in the aforesaid village, the one parcel, about three and a half P.M., having the buyers to the East and partly to the North; Harmen Cornelis to the South and Doctor Dirck Lyuwes to the West; the other parcel about two and a half P.M., the aforesaid Harmen Cornelis as tenant adjoining all round, together burdened with 1 ½ floreen rent;
d.d. 17/24 May 1615/2 Apr. 1617. Anne Jelle dr., residing at Tiemarum, in this matter assisted by Jan Foppes, her lawful husband, sells to Cornelus Jellesz., at Minderschae $^{1}/_{5}$ part of about 6 P.M. of land in 2 separate p/ar/cels, the one about 3 P.M. situated in the village of Oosterbierum, Atke Heijns to the East, Aede Olferts as tenant to the South, Hans Annes to the West and the old Dijck to the North; and the other p/ar/cel, likewise about 3 P.M. in the village of Tiemarum; the Landschap's lands to the East and South, the Kappellewech to the West, and the old Dijck to the North, free of buildings, all in such manner and as the proclamant (Cornelus Jellesz.) inherited a like $^{1}/_{5}$ from his late father and it was left to him.

This last proclamation gives cause to suppose that Cornelus Jellesz. at Minderscha was a brother of Anne Jelledr., and that the Proclamatieboek might also be able to provide information about what became of the other $^{3}/_{5}$ portions of land. The latter was confirmed, since it was found in the Proclamatieboek of Barradeel that Cornelus Jellesz. at Minderscha had also bought these portions, successively from Neeltie Jelledr., at St. Jacobs Kerck op der Bildt, assisted by Jan Huyberts, her lawful husband; from Geert Jelledr. at Oosterbierum, assisted by Jan Dircksz., her husband, and from Tiedt Jelledr. at Minderschae, assisted by Mouris Jacobs, her husband, from each of them the $^{1}/_{5}$ part for 200 g.gl..

[1] Family name "Garskamp".

With this, then, the presumed brother and sisters of Anne Jelledr. are known; according to the court records of Barradeel, Cornelus Jellesz. was 45 years old in the year 1617, so that he must have been born about the year 1572. In connection with this, the year of birth of Anne Jelledr. would be set at ± 1570/1580. This agrees fairly well with the fact that she was already married on 3 May 1610 (see the aforementioned mortgage deed of that date).

> dated 11/25 Nov. 1618/27 January 1619. Cornelis Jelles at Minderschae, for himself and herein also guaranteeing on behalf of Anne Nanne dr. his lawful wife, sells to Hein Doeckes[1] at Tiemarum approximately 3 P.M. of arable land under the jurisdiction of Tiemarum, situated at the Oudedijck, charged with 1 floreen and 1 oort, having Jan Foppes as cloister tenant on the east and on the south, the Cappellelaan on the west and the aforesaid Oude Dijck on the north.

The 3 P.M. of land sold according to this proclamation concerns one of the parcels mentioned above, which Anne Jelledr. sold to her presumed brother.

From the proclamation it appears that Cornelis Jelles was married to Anne Nannedr. and that Jan Foppes was tenant of the Clooster- or 's Landschapslanden (monastery or provincial lands) at Tjummarum. Those Clooster- or 's Landschapslanden were 78 P.M. in size, which follows from the sale bills of sold monastery properties present at the State Archives at Leeuwarden, according to which in 1644 there was sold at Tjommarum 78 P.M. for 141. — (tenant Jan Foppes). All this is in agreement with the printed Stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1640, according to which Jan Poppes, (which will have to be Jan Foppes) was tenant of farm N^{o} 18 at Tzummarum, belonging in ownership to the States of Friesland.

Now that Jan Foppes has come to light as a monastery tenant, attention is drawn to the fact that, according to the Beneficiaalboek (register of church benefices) of 1543, there lived at that time at Tzummarum a Heer Foppe Vicarius, who, as appears from the court records of Barradeel of 1598, was married and left children. Mention is made of Jan Pieters Munckehuys, the stepfather of Cornelis Foppes' orphan children; this Cornelis was one of the children of Heer Foppe. In 1594 Jell Jarichs dr. at Franeker litigates as a blood relation of the late Heer Foppe (Vicarius) at Tyemarum against Jan Pieters Munchuys at Lidlum (married to Sibbel Wybedr.) and Wijbe Cornelis at Tyemarum. Possibly there is a family connection between the monastery tenant at Tjummarum, Jan Foppes, and the Vicarius there, Heer Foppe. If this should be so, Prof. Johannes Greydanus would be related to the married Roman Catholic clergy not only through his stepmother Grietie Benedictus (see note 1 on page 59), but also through his grandfather on his mother's side.

In the oldest Recesboek (court minute book) of Barradeel there has been found, dated 18 January 1609, the name of the father of Cornelis Jelles at Minnertsga, and thus also the name of the father of Anne Jelledr., the wife of Jan Foppes and the grandmother of Prof. Johannes Greydanus. He was called: Jelle Claesz.. Alongside this there has been added a diagram concerning the descent of Prof. Johannes Greijdanus' mother.

> dated 23 Jan. /6/13 Febr. 1650. Sale by decree of a certain piece of terp land, called the oosterterp, divided off from the Westerterp, measuring according to the measurement by Gerrijt Jacobs 1 P.M., 9 einsen, 4 penn., 9 roeden, 6 voeten, lying at Tiomār., presently used by Jan Foppes as tenant, belonging to the widow, together with the children and heirs of the late Dr. Johannes Clingbijl etc.
> buyer: Doecke Heins[1].
>
> dated 23 Jan. /6/13 Febr. 1650. Sale by decree of a piece of the poortvenne, measuring according to the measurement 5 P.M., 5 einsen, 2 penn., 5 roeden, 3 voeten, belonging to the aforesaid widow and heirs, having Griet Ottes on the east, the remainder of the poortfenne on the south, the Capellewech (onto which it has its exit) on the west, Doecke Heins[1] on the north, charged with 1 floreen 24 st. 8 penn., lying at Tiomār.
> Buyer: Jan Foppes for 890 g.gl.
>
> dated 22/29 Jan./22 Febr. 1651. Sale by decree of a certain fine house, barn, (Latin) with all appurtenances, inhabited by Jan Foppes, standing at Tiummarum, with the half of 16 to 17 P.M. of land used by the same Jan Foppes in 3 parcels, belonging to the widow and children of the late secretary Clingbijl, of which the first parcel is called the achterste gewint; the 2nd parcel on which the Hoornleeger stands,

[1] Family name “Sinaeda (Sineda)”.

Diagram concerning the descent of Prof. JOHANNES GREYDANUS' mother: JANTIEN JANS. order of the children unknown. Belongs with p. 55. - Jelle Claesz. - Cornelus Jellesz. — b. ± 1572. - ⚭ I Anne Nannedr. — in 1617 at Minderschae (Minnertsga). - ⚭ II Sijtske Eelckedr. - Anne Jelledr. — † about 1646. - ⚭ I Jan Foppes — in 1617/1618 Clooster Meijer (monastery tenant) at Tiemarum (Tjummarum), perhaps descended from Heer Foppe, Vicarius in 1543 at Tzummarum, who was married and left children. † Tjummarum, just before 21 Nov. 1654. - ⚭ II Rixtie Jacobs — Was still living 18 Aug. 1658 at Minnertsga. - Foppe Jans — probably a baker - ⚭ Rinske Pieters — Were still living March 1664 at Tzummarum. - Aert Jans — Was still living Nov. 1654, probably also at Tzummarum. - Jantien Jans - ⚭ Tyaerd Jans - Prof. Johannes Greydanus - Neeltie Jelledr. - ⚭ Jan Huyberts — in 1617 at St. Jacobs Kerck op der Bilt (St. Jacobi Parochie). - Geert Jelledr. - ⚭ Jan Dircksz. — in 1617 at Oosterbierum. - Tiedt Jelledr. - ⚭ Mouris Jacobs — in 1617 at Minderschae (Minnertsga).

> called the front gewint; the 3rd parcel is a mound, called Capelleterp, situated on the Capelleweg, these 3 parcels thus making about 17 P.M., of which the other half, as also of the house, belongs to the gentleman Jr. Dominicus van Hottinga; there is also sold the right of 1 stem (namely in the village of Tiummarum ½ stem on account of the 2 first parcels and ½ stem in the convent Lidlum on account of cappelleterp), charged in the whole with five and a half Floreen.
> At the burning candle no one appeared.

3°. In the Recesboek (register of court proceedings) present in the Judicial Archive of Barradeel:

> deed dated 13 June 1621. Jan Foppis at Tiemarum, for himself and his wife, undertakes to pay Cornelis Claesz. at Minderschae the sum of 28 gold guilders on account of two years' interest on 200 like gold guilders, the remainder thereof having fallen due last 1 May, and that within the coming month on penalty of condemnation with costs. In due form.

> deed dated 11 July 1621. The court of Barradeel cond/emn/s Jan Foppes at Tiemarum, for himself and his wife as def/endan/t, to pay Cornelis Claessen at Minderschae as plaintiff, in conformity with a certain judicial deed of undertaking passed by the def/endan/t to the plaintiff on the 13th of June last, the sum of 28 gold guilders on account of two years' interest on 200 like gold guilders, the remainder thereof having fallen due last 1 May, and that with the costs at the court's assessment.

These two deeds therefore relate to the debt dated 10 May 1615, mentioned on page 54

4°. In the Inventarisatieboek (register of inventories) of Frankeradeel present in the Judicial Archive:

27 November 1624. Among the inventory of the late Douve Andrisz. and Taets Jellesdr., spouses at Dongjum, the following is found:

> "Bond, held against Jan Foppes cum sociis at > Tzummarum, dated 17 May 1621, for the use > in lieu of the interest of seven pondemaat of land, to the sum > and remainder of a larger sum of 500 *f*ggl."

Furthermore Jan Foppes also occurs in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Franeker and in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Barradeel, the relevant entries of which have already been reproduced on page 26, and pages 29 and 30 respectively.

Since we have already found Jan Foppes in 1610 as married to Anne Jelledr. (see page 54) and he died in 1654, he must have reached the age of about 60 to 70 years, an age which Anne Jelledr. probably will not have attained, because she died before him.

The second wife of Tyaerd Jans and the mother of Benedictus Tyaerds was Griettie Benedictus, daughter of Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, at Wijnaldum (Wijnaem). Engel Johannes, who from her marriage with Benedictus Seerps had, besides Griettie, also the daughters Syouck and Arian, remarried about 1617 to Frans Fransen d'Oude. The couple Frans Fransen d'Oude × Engel Johannes first lived at Wynaldum and moved in 1631 to Pietersbierum.

We first encounter Griettie Benedictusdr., namely as the wife of the Franeker gortmaecker (groats miller) Tyeerd Jans, in the mortgage deed of 4 May 1643 mentioned on page 51, registered 8 May following.

She is further mentioned:

3 February 1646 as "stepmother Griettie Benedictus" of Joannes Theotardi (the later Prof. Greydanus) in the Franeker Authorisatieboek (see page 26); and 27 March 1648 in the list of inhabitants of Franeker as "Tyaard Jans Wed".

2 April 1646 in the "Provisional statement of the goods left by the late Tijaerd Jans, Gortmaecker, possessed by him in common with Griettie Benedictus during his lifetime" (see page 27).

As appears from a later alteration in the list of inhabitants of 24 June 1642, after the death of her husband at the beginning of 1646 the gortmaecker Rutger lived with her, who will thus have been the person who kept the groats mill on "de Greyde" in operation.

On 8 June 1648 she had remarried Wybe Dircx at Herbayum, which follows from the mortgage deed mentioned on page 51, registered 1 November following. Wybe Dircx was presumably the widower of Trijn Hommes, on the ground of the entry in the Authorisatieboek present in the Judicial Archive of Frankeradeel:

> "4 May 1648. Having heard the request of Dirck (aged 17 yrs.), Tyte (aged 12 yrs.) children of Wybe Dirks at Harbayum, begotten in wedlock by the late Trijn Hommes, there are appointed as curators for the division: Rintse Hommes at Achlum and Syds Hommes at Tyom, their uncles."

He was probably the tenant of a piece of church land at Herbayum, because in the Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1640 the farm N^{o} 8 at Herbayum is listed with as owner: "De Kercke van Herbayum" and as user: "Wybe Dirx".

Wybe Dirx and Griettie Benedictus stayed only briefly at Herbayum, for according to the register of members of the Reformed congregation at Franeker, kept by the minister, there were admitted on 28 October 1649 with attestation from elsewhere: "Wibe Dircksen, en Grietje Benedict sijn wijf" (see the reproduction alongside of the page with this entry from the register of members).

At Franeker they settled at first on "de Greyde" in the groats miller's house of Tyaerd Jans, whose business was taken up by Wybe Dirkcsen, who acquired the citizenship of Franeker.

This appears: from the mortgage deed dated 30 April 1651, registered 5 May following (see page 51), in which Griet Benedicti dr., wife of Wybe Dircx, within Franeker, gives as security for a debt "in particular my house with appurtenances standing on d'Greide within Franeker"; from the list of inhabitants of Franeker dated 6 August 1651, in which "Wybe Dirxen" is entered; and from the deed dated 6 April 1652, registered in the Franeker mortgage book on 6 August following (see page 51), according to which Griet Benedictusdr., lawful wife of Wybe Dircxen, citizen and Gortmaecker (groats miller) within Franeker, sells the house inhabited by her on "de Greide", with the exception of the groats mill and the tools belonging to it.

After the sale on 6 April 1652 of the house on "de Greide", where Wybe Dircxen apparently continued the groats-making business with the unsold groats mill, the couple moved within Franeker, presumably to Godsacker, and Wybe Dircxen must have died soon afterwards, on the basis of the entry in the marriage register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker:

"(1656) The 22nd of June Pier Pijters at 5 huisen
and Griettie Benedictus widow of Wijbe Dirckzen at the gods acker."

The third husband of Griettie Benedictus was therefore Pier Pijters of Vijf Huizen [1], a so-called Uytbuyrt — outer hamlet — of Franeker, where he was a "schuytmaecker" (boat builder) together with his brothers Lieuwe and Sibren Pijters, as appears from both of the entries below:

XXIst Boelgoedboek (register of public sales) of Franeker (27 March 1643—5 Dec. 1644), present in the Judicial Archive:

"Woman The 20th of October 1643 before noon Candlemas 1644 Geert Wygers widow of the late to fall due. Lieuwe Pieters in his lifetime boat builder at 5 Huysen offers by public call to sell the hereafter specified boat builder's tools and household goods on the usual sale conditions and to fall due at the coming Candlemas etc.", with at the end:
"Arrears from the late Lieuwe Pyters' public sale fallen due at Candlemas 1644

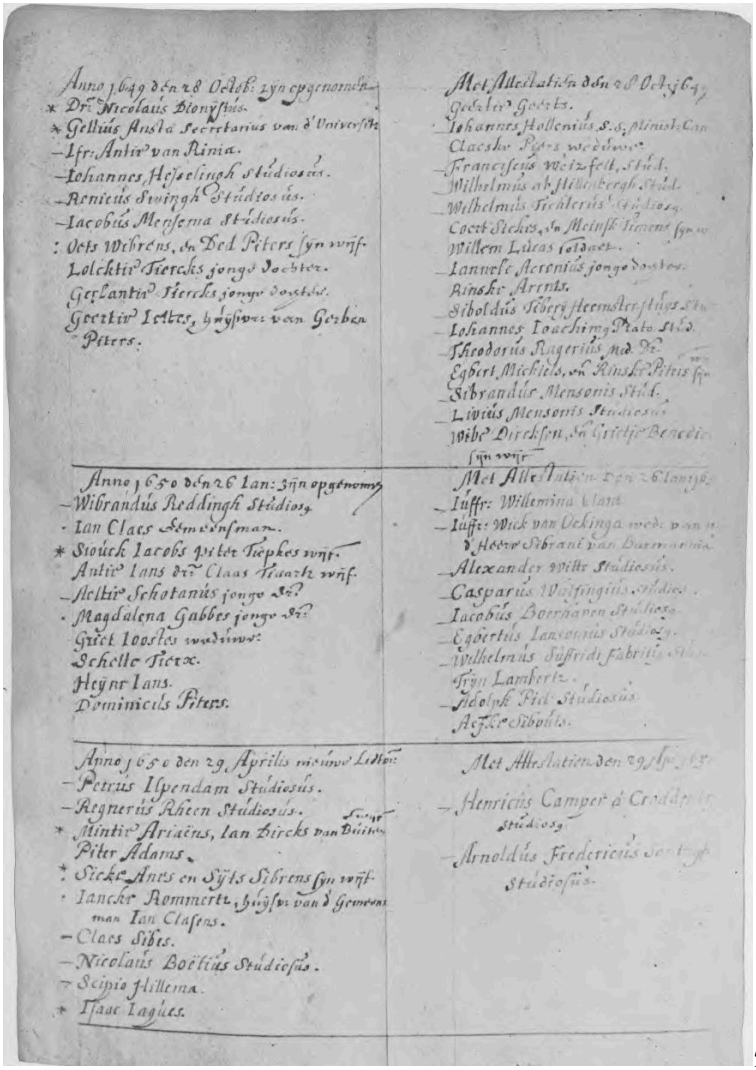
[1] / Pier Pijters had presumably already been married earlier to Antie Remmelts Lamminga, on the basis of the following entry in the church marriage register of Franeker: 3 July 1653: Pier Pijters (at 5huisen) with Antie Remmelts Lamminga (residing in the nieuwen Dijckstrate). Apparently a son of Pier Pijters from a still earlier marriage is: Sibren, on the basis of the deletion referred to in note 1 of page 58; this marriage with Auck Sijbrens comes to light from a sale dated 28 June 1649 (5 April 1650) in the Franeker protocol book. In any case Pier Pijters must have had a daughter Antie, since in the Civil Sentences of Franeker dated 28 November 1656 one encounters the name of Pier Pijters Mr. boat builder at Vijfhuyssen under the jurisdiction of Franeker as father over Antie his daughter (perhaps a child from his marriage with Antie Remmelts Lamminga).



58

PIER PYTERS boat builder the brother 37— 6—.
Syts " the sister at Harlinghen 5—15—.
SIBREN " boatman the brother 3—13—.
Sibren, son of Pier the boat builder, at Harlingen [1] 15— 4—84
Martien widow of Jetze Pieters the sister-in-law [2] 10—. —.
at Harlingen."

Register of Marriage Notices at the Court 1658—1665 of Franeker:

> "Before the President H. Schotanus à > Sterringa, 15 January 1659.
> (Latin) each one has paid and received his own. GERRIJT SIJDSES wagon maker, born here, and GRIETTJE BENEDICTUS lastly widow of the late PIER PIJTERS boat buil/de/r, from Wijnaem: consent as above."

According to this last entry, the third husband of GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS also died soon.

Already in 1659 GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS had exchanged her dwelling at Franeker, which in 1656 was at Godsacker, for one "op de Dijck", as appears from the following entry in the Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker concerning her fourth marriage with the wagon maker GERRIJT SIJDSES:

"6 In the year 1659, 16 January 1659
4 GERRIET SIJDZES wagon maker
and GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS widow of PIER PIJTERS both on de Dijck married here on 2 February."

The wagon maker GERRIJT SYDSES is mentioned between 1639 and 1651 in various lists of inhabitants of Franeker in the Oosterkwartier, for instance in the list of 6 August 1651, in which one finds under "2^{e} Ooster Quartier": "GERRIJT SIJDSES wagon maker", which name was later replaced by: Douwe Bockes.

After her marriage entry with GERRIJT SYDSES, GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS has still been found in the Franeker Inventories, namely in the inventory of 30 May 1660 of HARMENTJE JOANS TER BRÂKE, wife of PIER DIRCXZ. CANTOR, on "de Greyde" at Franeker, in which inventory GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS appears as debtor, on account of ground rent to an amount of 1 cargl. and 8 strs.. As appears from the following entries in the Consignatieboek (register of deposits) of the Franeker Judicial Archive, she died about 1667, in which year she will have been older than 50, since she is called a minor in 1617 (she was probably born between 1606 and 1616):

> "27 September 1667. The receiver JORRIJT AGGES BRUNIA has deposited in the hands of the Commissaris of the Court in Franeker (H. Kiestra) the moneys proceeding from the sale of the goods of the late GRIETIE BENEDICXT amounting to 109 cargl. 19 strs. 12 penn., there remaining, after deduction of the consignment as well as other charges incurred hereon, a net sum of 106 cargl. 3 st. 12 penn."
>
> "1 October 1667. Out of the above consignment moneys the creditors of the estate of GRIET BENEDIXCT, finding the burdensome state far higher than the profitable state, have, in order to avoid further trouble and costs, agreed as follows, namely:
>
> That Jacob Emens — instead of 71 ℔ 17 st. shall have 55—2—0
> Frans Sydtzes — " " " 46 ℔ 15 st. " " 35—0—0 > L.Wiigersma widow of Hette Lieuwes — " " " 2 ℔ 10 st. " " 8—0—0 > Abbe Willems baker — " " " 16 ℔ 10 st. " " 10—0—0 > Schelte Pijters — " " " 27 ℔ " " 20—0—0
>
> Which items having thus been satisfied and paid to us by the aforesaid commissaris, we thank his honour for good payment, with the promise that at all times we shall warrant to the aforesaid commissaris that the said payment shall hold good, and in case of any further claim at law to intervene on his behalf, and if need be, should anyone afterwards be found to have a prior claim, to refund the moneys received by each of us.
>
> (signed) Frans Sidses. (signed) Schelte Pitters.
> (signed) Aebbe Willems. (signed) Jacob Eemes."
> (signed) Livius Wigersma.

As has been mentioned, the parents of GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS — the mother of Benedictus Tyaerds and the stepmother of Prof. Greydanus —: Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, who in 1617 remarried Frans Fransen d'Oude.

---

[1] This line has been struck through with the note: s/ol/v/i/t à J. G.

[2] sister-in-law.

Concerning Benedictus Seerps the deed of appointment of guardians over his 3 under-age children: Syouck, Arian and Griettie, dated 12 September 1617, mentioned on page 34, is already known.

Besides in this deed, Benedictus Seerps has also been found in a deed in the Hypotheekboek belonging to the Judicial Archive of Barradeel, from which his parents Seerp Benedicxz. and Arien Pietersdr. come to light. The general content of this deed, already cited in note 1 of page 47, dated 7 November 1603, is as follows:

> "Arien Pietersdr., widow of Seerp Benedicxz, living at Wynaem, for myself and under mortgage of my goods and with renunciation of the benefit of the senatus consultum Velleianum and of the benefit of discussion, after instruction undertaking to warrant for my children begotten by the same Seerp Benedix, assisted by Benedix Seerps my eldest son, acknowledge that I owe two and a half hundred ggl. to Jacob Sipckez Banghe and Fed Tiaartsdr., spouses, citizens within Herlingen . . . . etc. I undertake to repay the said monies faithfully on All Saints' Day in the year 1604 next coming, with seven like gold guilders per hundred as interest, under special mortgage of certain 5 P.M. (pondemaat) of land, situated at Kimsert, called Auckema Terp, together with a further 2 P.M. of land situated to the North of Herlingen, called Jellemalandt, the old dike to the East, Douwe Pieters to the North and Epcke Thomasz. with associates to the West.
> Herlingen 7 November 1603 (entered 28 March 1604).
> below stood: Rein Wpkes (Burgomaster), Bonne Jacobsz (goldsmith) and Pieter van Buyten (notary), all at Harlingen."

From this content it therefore follows that Benedictus Seerps was the eldest son of Seerp Benedicxz. and Arien Pieters, and that Seerp Benedicxz., who had already died by 7 November 1603, owned land at Kimswerd and to the North of Harlingen. The possession of land at Kimswerd agrees with a deed dated 29 August 1578, occurring in the oldest Weesboek (orphans' register) still present in the Judicial Archive of the Grietenij Franekeradeel, from which it follows that the couple Seerp Benedicxz × Arien Pieters lived at Kimswerd on the said date. The deed, the oldest document[1] that has been able to be dug up out of the dust of the archives concerning the genealogy "Greydanus", reads roughly as follows:[1] 29 August 1578.

"There appeared at the Secretary's office of Ffraneckeradeel Aryan Petersdr., stating herself to be over twenty-five years of age, being assisted by Serp Benedictus her lawful husband, living within the village of Kimswert, and they declared how Ben Janz, living at Achlum, and Piter Janz, bachelor, had about eight years ago been appointed and installed by the court of Ffraneckeradeel as guardians or curators over her, Aryan, and her late brother, and that the same had accordingly in the meantime administered her goods with all diligence and faithfulness, as good faithful guardians are bound to do, and that they have now rendered to her and her aforesaid lawful husband good and proper account, balance and proof of the administration held over the goods of her, the deponent, for which she has hereby thanked her said guardians and acquitted them for ever. Both deponents promising, each one in particular, for themselves, their heirs and successors, never at any time to make any further claim, action or demand, nor to have such made by any interposed persons, directly or indirectly, for any further account as aforesaid, nor for the balance and payment thereof in the former manner, since the said guardians have paid her in all things and in full, thus passing to them this as a full, final and absolute quittance of the whole administration held by them of her and her late brother's goods, or which they should otherwise in any way have had, requesting to that end that this quittance be entered in the weesboek and confirmed with my, the secretary's, handwriting, as has been done at the request of both the aforesaid deponents.
Done at Franeker the 29th of August 1578
(signed) H. Baerdt (signed) Serp Bendx".

That Seerp Benedicxz also owned land at Wijnaldum (Wijnaem) may be inferred from a "purchase of certain 2 P.M. of land at Wijnaldum in de Kagen, at the request of the joint children and heirs of Seerp Benedicti and Ariaen Pietersdr., in their lifetime spouses at Wynaldum, sold by decree to Pieter Seerpz [2]/ for 222 ggl."[2] proclaimed on 2 April 1606 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel.

[signature mark "5" printed at the foot of the page, left of the page number]

[1] There has indeed also been found in the Beneficiaalboek of Friesland, with the date 30 Dec. 1543, a "Heer Benedicx Seerpsz at that time Possessor of the lands and revenues belonging to the parsonage at Kymswerdt", which pastor could have had as a child our Seerp Benedicxz at Kimswert, and which "Heer Benedicx" is further found in the "Registers van den Aanbreng" published by the Friesch Genootschap, in Volume III on page 389 in the year 1546 as co-owner of 9 P.M. of pasture at Cornwairt (Kornwerd) and on page 463 as landlord of various parcels of pasture at Kimswert.

[2] Presumably a 2nd son — brother of Benedictus Seerps — of Seerp Benedicxz and Arian Pieters, and thus

Seerp Benedicxz must therefore have been a farmer, in 1578 at Kimswerd and later at Wijnaldum, where he presumably died before 7 November 1603. From a proclamation dated 20 March 1596 occurring in the Reces- en Proclamatieboeken (registers of court records and property sales) of Wonseradeel, in which Seerp Benedicxc at Wijnaem, Tiete Benedicx at Stiens and Jan Jansz at Wins, as husband and guardian of Iedt Benedicxdr, his wife, sold for 552 ggl. 7 st. 8 pondemaat of land at Cornvart in the buyers' farmstead, on which Sijbren Doeckez now lives, the buyers' grass adjoining grass and round about themselves the nearest, to Sijbren, Hette and Siurdt, sons of Doecke, Mints and Jelcke, daughters of Doecke, heirs of the late Doecke Hoijtez. and Hys Sybrensdr., — it appears that Seerp Benedicx already lived at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum) on 20 March 1596 and then had a brother Tiete Benedicx at Stiens and a sister Iedt Benedicxdr., married to Jan Jansz., at Wins (presumably Wyns under Oosterend). Moreover, this proclamation could confirm the fact that Seerp Benedicx, Tiete Benedicx and Iedt Benedicxdr. were children of Benedicx Seerpsz. at Kimswerd, because the last-named was co-owner of 9 pondemaat of pasture likewise at Kornwerd.

The couple Frans Fransen d'Oude × Engel Johannes first lived at Wijnaldum, but moved about 1 May 1631 to Pietersbierum.

Besides in the documents already mentioned: the appointment of guardians dated 12 September 1617 in the Recesboek of Barradeel (see page 34), the Wijnaldum church register (see page 35), the deed dated 4 November 1636 in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship authorizations) of Workum (see page 46) and the "Provisional account of the sale of the estate of the late Tijaard Jans" dated 2 April 1646 (see page 27), Frans Fransen d'Oude has also been found, with or without his wife Engel Johannes, in the following deeds in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) belonging to the Judicial Archive of Barradeel:

> 1 May 1636 (registered 16 March 1648, cancelled 24 May 1650). We, Fransen[?] Fransen and Engel Johannisdr., married couple, at Pijtersb/ierum/, acknowledge a debt of 1100 ggl. to Frans Simonsen, citizen of Harlingen, at an interest of 7%. (signed) Frans Fransz. (signed) Engen Yenes? (signed) G. P. Piphroen.
>
> 15 November 1647 (registered 7 November 1649). Frans Fransen farmer living at Pitersbierum, owing 300 cargl. to Tyberius Templar and Magdalena Oliviers, married couple at Harlingen, at 6% interest. (signed) Frans Fransen;
>
> 19 March 1648 (registered 28 April 1649). Frans Fransen farmer living at Pijtersbierum, owing 185 cargl. to Jochum Diercx, citizen and merchant in Harlingen, reckoned at 14 stuivers per hundred per month. (signed) Frans Fransen, (signed) Epei Kistra;
>
> 21 March 1648 (registered 6 May 1648, struck out 24 May 1650) Frans Fransen and Engel Johannisdr. married couple at Pytersbierum, owing 475 cargl. to Frans Simens and Lijsbet Tieerdtsdr., married couple in Harlingen, to be repaid within 2 to 3 months with 12 stuivers per hundred. (signed) Frans Fransen; (signed) Engel Johans; (signed) Tär Fincensius;
>
> 25 May 1650 (registered 31 May 1650) Frans Fransen also Deputy of the Vijffdelen Dicagie (Five Parts dyke authority) cedes to Frans Sijmens, citizen and merchant in Harlingen, 1700 goldguilders which are due to me by virtue of the purchase of my farmstead and lands situated at Pijtersbierum from Miss Fokel van Botnia as usufructuary and Jr. Ritske van Eijsinga, Grietman (district magistrate) over Collumerlandt, heir of Jr. Julius van Eijsinga, to be collected each year on the first of May 1651 and the following May days, 300 goldguilders each time; since the said Frans Sijmens has allowed me the aforesaid 1700 goldguilders to be credited in payment, after deduction of the rebate of the interest, in certain bonds passed by me and my wife Engel Johannes to the aforesaid Frans Sijmens, dated 1 May 1636 for 1100 ggl. and dated 21 March 1648 for 475 cargl. (signed) Frans Fransen; (signed) Engel Joanns (signed) G/ellius/ Vetzentius, Postulant in Harlingen;
>
> 29 April 1652 (registered 5 May 1652) Frans Fransen living in the village of Pyttersbierum and also Deputy of the outer-dyke dyke authority, cedes and assigns to Pijtter Hotses, citizen of Franeker, on account of my salary due to me in the former capacity, in such wise that from the hands of the Receiver Taco Lauta in Harlingen, out of and for the profit of his own warrant now coming due at St. Jacobi, and to receive for me the sum then standing to credit of 74 cargl., which I, as transferor and assignor, in the year 1651 became indebted at his house over the election of the Deputyship with the plenipotentiaries of the outer-dyke dyke authority. (signed) Frans Fransen, (signed) A. Wigersma, Advocate, Franeker;
>
> 15 June 1652 (registered 15 June 1652). Frans Fransen at Pietersbyrum, also Deputy of the Vijf Delen Dijckagie, has transferred to Junius Alema, Secretary of Barradeel, 196 cargl. which are due to me in the aforesaid capacity for salary and attendances according to the dyke ordinance for this current year, for arrears to the same Secretary, as well as, besides, the expenses at the house of Pijter Hotses at Franeker assigned to the aforesaid Secretary.

Frans Fransen d'Oude was thus at Pietersbierum: a farmer and "also Deputy of the Vijffdelen outer-dyke dyke authority"; he was there, considering the registration date of the last deed, still alive on 15 June 1652.

The father of the Franeker gortmaecker (groats miller) Tyaerd Jans was Jan Buwes, who before 8 May 1613 married Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. /see pages 25/26/.

On 14 December 1615 a "Jan Buwes" was admitted as a citizen of Franeker, but whether this was Tyaerd Jans' father is not known.

Dated 21 December 1618, however, one finds in the portfolio of documents concerning sales held (Judicial Archive of Franeker J. J. 2), that Jan Buwes and Trijn Tyaerdts dr, spouses, offer for sale a new house, barn and alley, with everything that is fixed to the ground and nailed down, standing on de Greide between the houses of Joachim Wldrix and Anne Gerryts as adjoining neighbours, on the land of the heirs of Lady Vokel van Bothnya, to be paid with 400 g.gl. down and 100 g.gl. a year, and 1 g.gl. to be paid into the poor-box, all in free money, with eight days for deliberation.
Marten Feikes has bid 950 g.gl., striking thereon —6—f
Next subscriber J. J. Wringer 650 ggl. 7 strs, J. Wldrix 556 ggl.
Subscription: Jan Jans Wringer has bid 1326 ggl. 8 st., striking thereon 10 f, done on the 21 December 1618.

According to what follows, this house on "de Greide", offered for sale in 1618, was presumably the 8th counting from the Nauwe Steegh — in any case one of the middle dwellings between that alley and the Sjaerdemastraat, so that this house of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. was only a few properties away from the groats miller's house of their son Tyaerd Jans, which was the 4th.

This 8th house, however, remained in the possession of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., and, as will be dealt with in the next chapter, was even until 1698 the property of the "Greydanus" family, so that in 1618 the sale cannot have been awarded[1].

From 1632 to 1651 the owner of the 5th house on "de Greyde" (see the sketch on page 52) was Dirck Brouwer. According to the deed of 12 October 1651, registered in the Franeker Protocolboek (register of deeds) on 12 November 1652, half of this house, in which the buyers were already living, was now sold to Tyetse Sickes and Eelck Claesedr., with "a free alley to the west". That this is really the 5th house follows from the description contained in the deed, that of the house "the other half belongs to the heirs of Dyrck Dircx Brouwer" and that the eastern adjoining neighbour is "Wijbe Dircx Gortmaecker", who, according to the Franeker list of inhabitants of 6 August 1651, in precisely that year was living, with his wife Griettie Benedictus, in the 4th house[2]. As western adjoining neighbour the deed gives "Joute Joutes".

Further, in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) there occurs the proclamation of 20/28 Jan./4 February 1653, by which is sold a house and shed on "de Greyde", having the heirs of Dirck Dircksens — by which the same is meant as "the heirs of Dyrck Dircx Brouwer" — as well as Tietse Sickes to the East, and Adam Uldricx to the West. This house sold in 1652 was thus the 6th, so that in the 7th was established "Adam Uldricx", who, according to the deed of 27 January 1652 mentioned on page 24, registered in the Franeker Protocolboek on 27 February following, was the eastern adjoining neighbour of the house "together with the alley to the West", situated on "de Greyde", which was then sold by Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., widow of the late Jan Bouwes at Franeker, to her son-in-law Hidde Johans and her daughter Imke Jans.

According to this reasoning, the 8th house on "de Greyde" counting from the Nauwe Steegh would have been Jan Buwes' house.
This agrees entirely with the Franeker list of inhabitants of 6 August 1651.

[1] This may also appear from the proclamation registered in the Franeker Proclamatieboek on 17/24 Nov./1 Dec. 1620, in which the seller Tyerck Gerryts and others has apparently succeeded the above-mentioned Anne Gerryts as owner of the 9th house: "Hendrick Anez of Ytens buys a house, garden and shed on de Greide, having Jan Buvis to the E. and the heirs of Epe Juckema to the S.; Neeltgen Peters to the W., charged to the heirs of Lady Hoxwier with 20 st. annual ground rent, acquired by purchase from Tyerck Gerryts and others.

[2] Conversely, on page 51, in the deed of 6 April 1652, Tzyetske Sickes and others is named as the western adjoining neighbour of the 4th house on "de Greyde" sold by Griet Benedictusdr., lawful wife of Wijbe Dirxen, citizen and gortmaecker in Franeker.

In that list one finds, namely, if one takes as a starting point that, as has been shown above, Wijbe Dircxen lived in the 4th house:

Tyetze Sickes Weever	in the 5th house
Joute Joutes	" " 6th "
Adam Ulrix and Bote Abrams	" " 7th "
and Hidde Johans Wagenmr	" " 8th ".

Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. were thus owners of the 8th house on "de Greyde", in which they also lived, on the grounds of the following documents:

1°. No 806 of the Telting-Register, concerning the Mennonite cedullen (lists) for 1631—1633, in which under the Noorder-Quartier — and indeed apparently "de Greyde" — there occur in succession:
Adam Uldrix
Jan Bouwes,

from which it also follows that Jan Buwes, like his neighbour Adam Uldrix — the occupant of the 7th house on "de Greyde" —, was a Mennonite;

2°. the document present in the municipal archive of Franeker: "Register of the assessment of the Floreen rent within the klockslagh (jurisdiction) and the outlying districts of Franeker" for the year 1 March 1634/1635, in which is stated:

Jan Buwes on de Greyde VII fl.;

3°. the statement attached in the Franeker Boelgoedboek (register of public auctions of goods), at the sale (the boelgoed) at the house of the late Jan Bouwes, mentioned on pages 24 and 25, in which is found "Jan Buwes on de Greide";

4°. the list of inhabitants of Franeker for the year 1636 (Telting Archief, N° 844), in which on "de Greyde", after Adam Uldrickx (Mennonite) and Feicke Cornelis (Mennonite), is recorded: "Jan Buwes Wedue 1 emmer (bucket) (Mennonite)".

Like her husband, Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. was thus a Mennonite;

5°. the Franeker Boelgoedboek, according to which at the sale (the boelgoed) of 26 April 1644 at the house of Jantien Claesedr., widow of Jacob Jansen, there was bought by Trijntie Bouwes on d'Greide:

> a remainder of wooden table boards with 2 dish cloths for .—3—4 > a small copper pot 1—9—.
> a plank .—7—.

The occupation of Jan Buwes is already known from the mortgage deed of 20 May 1633 included on page 24, in which mention is made of "Jan Buwes Gortmaecker (groats miller)". Both Jan Buwes and his son Tyaerd Jans thus practised the same trade at Franeker of gortmaecker or groats miller.

This occupation is also mentioned in the following deed of 8 October 1633, entered in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) on 12 June 1635, from which deed it also appears that Jan Buwes was a Burgher of Franeker.

> "Jan Buves, burgher and gortmaker in this town, for himself and warranting ratification under pledge of his goods for his lawful wife Trijn Tyaards, owes 100 cargl. to Claes Heyxan and Frouck Andriesdr., spouses, fellow burghers, to be repaid within the next 3 months with merchant's interest according to the ordinance, for which I pledge as special mortgage my house in which I live[1].
> Claes Heyxan and Frouck Andriesdr. cede the acknowledgement of debt to Lijsbeth Wybesdr., maidservant of Otte Claesen."[1]

The deeds of 20 May 1633 and of 8 October 1633 were signed by Jan Buwes with his mark ✕ and by Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. with her signature.

Besides in the documents named above, Jan Buwes, whether with or without Trijntie Tyaerdts dr., has also been found in:

---

[1] This must be the 8th house from the Nauwe Steeg on "de Greyde" at Franeker.

the Contumacieboek (register of defaults) belonging to the Judicial Archive of Franeker[1], in which one finds:

> 2 May 1623. Jan Buwes attaching party, and in that capacity as plaintiff in default at the suit of Saeckle Ruyrdts, since he did not pursue his action in the matter of attachment, protesting on that ground and on the grounds of attachment made by Secretary Kingma and this day effectively put into force, not to pay over any money of house rent, wishing to move out of the house;
> 25 April 1634. Jan Buwes in default by continuation, at the suit of Arien Heins for payment of 48 cargl. for goods obtained, remainder of a larger sum, to be set out further in the statement of claim;
> 3 October 1634 Jan Buves in default, first by default, at the suit of Sibout Sibouts for payment of 39 dalers for the purchase of a horse and moreover a free ride with horse and wagon.

the Franeker Servysrollen (billeting rolls):

of Capt. van Ahr for 1632 (N° 807 Telting-Register):

> Melcher Francken (with Jan Buwes, from F. Heinsius received f. 1—13—.)
> Herman Brinckman Corp. (with Jan Buwes, from Burgom. F. Heinsius at f. 1—13—.)

of Capt. Jhr. Philips van Boshuisen, year 1633/34 (N° 826 Telting-Register).

*Jan Martens of Leeuwarden; paid 10.—.—. (Jan Watzes baker 20 strs ,*Jan Buwes 9 ℔).

the Franeker Hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers):

28 April 1631 (registered 21 July 1635) Jan Buwesz. burger in Franeker, also on behalf of Trijn Tiaerdtsdr. my lawful wife, owing 50 cargl. to Dirck Claeses, servant of Miss Johanna van Botnia, widow of Bonne van Haitsma; advanced by Dirck as creditor to the late Claes Buves my brother of blessed m/emory/ in May 1625 and devolved upon me as co-heir of my brother, by which registration it is confirmed that our Jan Buwes was a brother of Claes Buwes (see page 50). This deed was signed by Jan Buwes with his stated hand-mark and by Trijntie Tiaerdtsdr. with her signature.

> 2 November 1635 (registered 14 October 1637). Trijnke Tyaardtsdr. surviving widow of Jan Buwesz burgeress in Franeker, owing to Hans Douwesz Stapert former burgomaster of this town, the sum of sixty caroli guilders on account of money lent and goods obtained, now reckoned and settled together with one another: I therefore promise and undertake, for myself and my heirs, to pay and satisfy the aforesaid LX £ with proper interest reckoned at seven per hundred per year, faithfully to the aforesaid Stapert, his heirs or assigns, on 1 May next or thereafter at the pleasure and demand of the holder of this deed, always with proper interest as aforesaid, under express mortgage of all my goods, both movable and immovable, present and future, none excepted, declaring that I possess the same in the name of the holder of this deed and may not alienate or encumber them to his detriment in any manner. Done at Franeker.
> * (signed) Trijn Tyartsdr. (signed) J. Menaldum, Nots Publ.*

For completeness it may still be mentioned that it further appears from an appendix belonging to the will of Claes Buwes d.d. 28 November 1630 mentioned on page 49, that on 16 Dec. 1631 a claim was made to the boelpenningen (proceeds of an estate sale), in so far as they fell to Jan Buwes, by Pyter Alberts and Pyter Rintzes, whose claim, however, was denied by Jan Buwes, "having long since satisfied and paid the attaching parties". Further, from the statement of settlement of debts mentioned on pages 24 and 25, which Jan Buwes had at his death in other boelgoeden (estate sales), that these were debts in the boelgoeden of: Jan Jacques Gerbin, Pyter Hotzesz., Jantien Jan Dirx Wed[e], Cornelis Hotzes, Gercke Tiallings bee-sale, Wopke Johannes sheep-sale, Tyaard Tyaardsz Gruwel, Jacob Nannesz. and Tialling Feddrix Andla hay-sale, all together 112 cargl. and 18 strs of debt; with costs 116 cargl. and 10 strs.

> In reduction of this debt Jan Buwesz. had already paid 50 cargl. on 6 May 1634. As stated on page 25, he was however moreover still indebted, "for taxation in the name (nomine) of Filij (daughter) fallen due from 1 March 1631 until the last of February 1632" . . . . . 65—10—.
> to which then had still to be added for "costs, damages and interest fallen due respectively since All Saints 1634 and Candlemas 1632, by moderation fixed up to All Saints 1636 inclusive". . . . . 31—17—.
> * So that the total debt amounted to . . . . . 163—17—.*

According to the deed mentioned above, registered in the Franeker Hypotheekboek on 21 July 1635, Jan Buwes was still alive on that date. On 11 May 1636 the estate of the late Jan Buwes was publicly sold at Franeker by boelgoed (see page 24).

Jan Buwes will therefore have died just before 11 May 1636.

His wife Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. must have died between 27 January and 30 March 1652.

---

[1] contumacie = insubordination against the law (default).

For on the first-mentioned date she sold to her son-in-law Hidde Johans her house on "de Greyde" (see page 24), and on the last-mentioned date the goods she had left behind were publicly auctioned at Franeker by her children and heirs (see pages 22 and 23).

The first husband of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr.: Wijbe Andries, was already 25 years old in 1598 (see page 26). At that time he did not yet appear to be married to her, but the marriage will have taken place fairly soon afterwards. As the year of marriage I should like to assume, in broad outline, 1600. Since Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. passed away in 1652, she will thus have reached the age of 70 to 80 years.

From the statement of the auction at Franeker on 11 May 1636 at the house of the late Jan Buwes, included on pages 24 and 25, it has appeared that he then had 2 zwagers (brothers-in-law), that is, sons-in-law, namely:

Jetze Jacobs
and Tijs Luttiens,

and from the deed of sale dated 27 January 1652 mentioned on page 24, entered in the Franeker Protocolboek (register of deeds) on 27 February 1652, as well as from the sale at Franeker on 30 March 1652 of the household effects of the widow of the late Jan Buwes: Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., that, besides Tjaerd Jans, Claes Jansen was also a son of the couple Jan Buwes×Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., and that at that time the zwagers, that is, sons-in-law of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. were:

Hidde Johans
and Sybe Rinnerts.

As is stated in the deed dated 27 January 1652 of the Franeker Protocolboek just mentioned, Hidde Johans was married to Imke Jans, the daughter of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr.. Now Imke Jans was first married to Jetze Jacobs, as appears from the proclamation occurring in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) dated 25 January 1/8 February 1639, > by which Jetse Jacobs and Impck Jansdr., a married couple, buy a certain transverse house with appurtenances, standing here on the Greijde, having Neeltie Pijters to the east and the widow of Inte Aleffs to the west, charged with 24 stuivers annual ground rent, bought from Wijpck Wybes, widow of Tijs Lourens, for the sum of 162 goudguldens.

The Tijs Lourens mentioned in this proclamation will have to be identified with Tijs Luttiens, to whom therefore the daughter from the first marriage of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. and Wybe Andries: Wijpck Wybes (see page 25) was married, and who accordingly had already died by 25 January 1639.

That Imke Jans was indeed first married to Jetse Jacobs and afterwards to Hidde Johans, and that from her first marriage a daughter Antie Jetses was born, may further be concluded from the deed given below, dated 9 February 1652, entered on 18 May 1653 in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register):

> "Hidde Johaens and Impke Jansdr., a married couple, burghers and cow-keepers within Franeker, sell to Jelle Jans, burgher and likewise cow-keeper within the said town, a certain leasehold of 9 pondematen of both pasture and arable land, also belonging under the Ziaerdema prebend, situated to the north of the said town, paying annually in rent the sum of 30 goudguldens etc. . . . . having the lands used by Pyter Heijnsen to the south, the Doniumerfvaert to the east and the lands respectively belonging in ownership to Burgomaster Agge Eijdtzes and the Clerk Petrus Heixan to the west, for 935 goudguldens, together with 1 gold and 1 silver ducaton for the seller's wife and her stepdaughter Antie Jetses."

The Autorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Franeker moreover gives, dated 17 May 1661, the appointment of Hidde Johans as guardian over his stepdaughter Antie Jetses, who was then about 24 years old, and who must therefore have been born about the year 1637.

The eldest daughter Imke Jans of the couple Jan Buwes × Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. was thus married: on 11 May 1636 to Jetse Jacobs and on 27 January 1652 to Hidde Johans, while the youngest daughter Trijntie Jans was on the last-mentioned date married to Sybe Rinnerts.

Claes Jansen will, considering the order in which he is named in the documents cited, have been older than both his sisters.

According to the deed of purchase of 27 January 1652 he was a baker, and, according to the sale (the boelgoed (estate sale)) of 30 March 1652, a Bolsward skipper, in which capacity he is also mentioned under 2e Wester Quartier in the Franeker list of inhabitants of 6 August 1651 (No 1007 Telting-Register).

In the "Provisional statement" d.d. 2 April 1646 of the sale (the boelgoed) at the house of his late brother Tyaerd Jans (see page 27) he likewise appears as a baker.

In No 997 of the Telting-Register he is found in 1649 and 1650 as a member of the Backersgilde (bakers' guild) under the designation Claes Jansen de Kleyne, to distinguish him from the member, the baker Claes Jansen de Groote; in the year 1652 he was "out of the town" and in the list of 1657 he is missing.

Claes Jansen was married to Bauck Iskes (Eeskes or Eetsens), who presumably bore the family name Jelgersma, and who was a sister of the Franeker timber merchant and Burgomaster Take Iskens (Eeskes or Eetsens) Jelgersma. This marriage is derived: from the Franeker register of church members, according to which on 21 July 1644 "Bauck Iskes, wife of Claes Jansen" became a member, and from the following entry in the Franeker Dutch Reformed marriage register:

> "8 Febr. 1659. Lou Jans, master baker, and Bauck Eeskes, widow of Claes Jansen, both on the Schilbanck. 7 Augs 1659 attestation issued."

That Bauck Iskes was really the wife of Claes Jansen de Kleyne and not of Claes Jansen de Groote[1], follows from a deed of purchase to be mentioned later, d.d. 20 Nov. 1661 (see page 100), in which Bauck Iskes and Prof. Greydanus, who was therefore her nephew, are named as co-owners of the 8th house on "de Greyde" (the Jan Buwes house).

A child of Claes Jansen and Bauck Iskes is very probably Tierd Claeses, who was baptized at Franeker on 9 October 1656 as a child of Claes Jansen Backer. Claes Jansen would then have died between 9 October 1656 and 7 August 1659 (possibly already in 1656 or 1657, in view of the list of the Franeker Backersgilde).

Tieerd Claeses was by occupation a brewer's journeyman and married to Geeltje Bottes.

All this rests on the following entries in the Franeker Reformed baptismal register:

> "24 April 1684 Geeltje Bottes, wife of Tjeerd Clases, being an adult person"
> "1 April 1683. Bauckjen, child of Tjeerd Claases"
> "29 January 1685. Bauckjen, child of Tjeerd Claases"
> "9 March 1687. Claes, child of Tjeerd Clases."
> "27 April 1697. Bauckje, child of Tjeerdt Classen"
> "11 Martius 1703 Trijntje, child of Tjeerd Clases, brewer's journeyman."

[a brace to the right of the four middle lines joins them to the following note] Bauckje/n/ is thus named after the grandmother Bauck Iskes

Concerning the 2nd husband of Bauck Iskes, the baker Lou Jans, a few further particulars follow here, taken respectively from the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) and the Franeker Protocolboek (register of deeds):

> 22 Sept. 1655 (registered 29 Sept. 1656) Lou and Feyck Jans, son and daughter, sister and brother, together carrying on the baker's trade and citizens of Franeker, owe Jurian Jansen, merchant and citizen-lieutenant of the aforesaid town, 265 cargl. (at 20 stuivers each) and that on account of rye delivered, thankfully received by us after the death of our late parents, to be repaid with six like guilders of interest per year, and pledging "especially our inhabited house and our movables and household goods, together with the baker's equipment";
>
> 3 February 1657 (registered 21 May 1658) Louv Jansz, baker, bachelor, and Jelle Jansz, glovemaker, citizens of Franeker, each for one half and thus together immediate and mediate heirs of the late Jan Eelckes Backer and Pyttje Louws, in their time spouses and citizens of the aforesaid town, sell a certain house, bake-ovens etc. on the western corner of (the) Oostermolenstraet at Fraan-acker near the Dongjumer Pijp, in two separate dwellings, having Pybe Pybes to the East, and the widow of the late Claes Tjaerds to the North as nearest neighbours.

Wijpck Wijbes, the daughter of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. from her first marriage with Wijbe Andries (see page 25), was married to Tijs Lourens or Tijs Luttiens, whom we have taken to be one and the same person, and who died before 25 January 1639. As widow of Tijs Lourens she sold, according to the proclamation of 25 January, 1/8 February 1639, a house on "de Greyde" in Franeker to Jetse Jacobs and Imke Jansdr., a daughter of Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. from her second marriage with Jan Buwes.

[1] The wife of Claes Jansen de Groote was Hiltje Lieuwes (see page 119).

This property sold on "de Greyde" must have been the 3rd house counting from the Sjaerdemastraat, for, according to the proclamation dated 10/17/24 November 1643 in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales), Jetse Jacobs cum uxore sold this parcel, which then had as eastern neighbour Jan Pijters and as western neighbour Willem Hendrix, to the married couple Ruyrd Saeckles and Antie Wijgersdr., and this western neighbour Willem Hendrix (his full name was Willem Hendrix Woudman) lived in the 2nd house counting from the Sjaerdemastraat, because he was established next to the house on the corner of "de Greyde" and the Sjaerdemastraat. This corner house was bought in 1650 by Pyter Bockes, the father-in-law of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, and one other person from the creditors of the late Johannes Piers Tania (see page 99).

De Greyde.

All of this agrees with the Franeker lists of inhabitants of "de Greyde" given at page 48.

Let us consider the list for the year 1636; in it the last inhabitant named is Johannes Piers Tania, who therefore lived on the corner of the Sjaerdemastraat. Then we find next to him — thus in the 2nd house — Willem Hendrickx, and again next to him — thus in the 3rd house — Thys Lourens, the husband of Wijpck Wijbes. According to this list of 1636 Thijs Lourens was speets (pikeman) just like Tyaerd Jans.

In the list of 1640 Jetse Jacobs is mentioned as the occupant of that 3rd house, which agrees with the sale in 1639 of the 3rd house by Wijpck Wijbes, widow of Thijs Lourens, to Jetse Jacobs and Imke Jansdr.

In the lists of 1648 and 1651 Ruyrd Saeckles appears as the occupant of that 3rd house, which is in accordance with its sale in 1643 by Jetse Jacobs cum uxore to Ruyrd Saeckles, married to Antie Wijgers.

---

[1] In this house there probably also lived about

If we assume that there were 12 houses on "de Greyde", then the 3rd house counting from the Sjaerdemastraat is the 9th house counting from the Nauwe Steegh, so in that case there must still have been 1 more property between the 3rd house from the Sjaerdemastraat and the 8th house from the Nauwe Steeg — the Jan Buwes house. It may be, however, that more than 1 house stood in between, since in the list for 1636 more than 1 person is named between Jan Buwes Wedue and Thijs Lourens. In any case there can only have been a few properties in between.

Herewith now follows a new diagram of the occupancy of "de Greyde", in order to show how it was precisely there that so many ancestors of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, with their relatives, lived, one more reason for him to name himself after that Greyde.

The eldest daughter Imke (Impck) Jans of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. we have found married: 11 May 1636 to Jetze Jacobs and 27 January 1652 to Hidde Johans. Jetse Jacobs and Impck Jansdr. bought, according to the Franeker proclamation dated 25 January 1/8 February 1639, the 3rd house from the Sjaerdemastraat on "de Greyde", which house they sold again, according to the Franeker proclamations dated 10/17/24 November 1643. According to the lists of inhabitants of Franeker, Jetse Jacobs lived in 1640 and on 24 June 1642 on "de Greyde", and he had already died by 27 March 1648, since on the list of that date there is mentioned: "Jetse Jacobs Wede". On that last-mentioned date, however, Imke Jans must already have remarried to Hidde Johans, because at the public auction held on 26 March 1647 by Trijntje, Jan Buwes' widow, of the goods of her deceased daughter Wijpck Wybes, Hidde Johans is already named as "the brother-in-law" (see page 26).

According to N°. 968 of the Telting-Register, Hidde Johans was already living on “de Greyde” in 1649, for in that year “Hidde Joaiz op de Greyde” paid the Franeker inhabitants' tax for a period of 3 years. In the deed dated 13 November 1649, entered in the Franeker Protocolboek (register of deeds) on 14 March 1651, he is mentioned as adjoining neighbour of the property sold by that deed, with the occupation of “koemelcker” (dairy farmer). On the Franeker list of inhabitants of 6 August 1651 he also appears on “de Greyde” and apparently as occupant of the Jan Buwes house, but then as “wagenmaecker” (wheelwright). At the public auction of the goods of the late Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. on 30 March 1652 his occupation is again given as “koemelcker” — and from the description “the brother-in-law” it is certain that we are dealing here with the husband of Imke Jans — as was likewise the case in the mortgage deed dated 9 February 1652 mentioned on page 64. From this mortgage deed it also appears: the possession by Hidde Johans and Imke Jans of a certain afkoop (redemption charge) of 9 P.M. of land on the north side of Franeker, belonging under the Ziaerdema prebend, and the existence of a daughter Antie Jetses from the first marriage of Imke Jans to Jetse Jacobs. Presumably Hidde Johans lived around 1664—1670 at Schalsum (near Franeker). According to the Franeker estate inventories, a Hidde Johans, labourer outside the Oost of Franeker on the Caatsveld, died in 1674, and his son Johannes Hiddes reported his extremely meagre estate to the Court for inventory. In any case our Hidde Johannes was still living on 16 November 1668, when as great-uncle by marriage he, together with Agge Romckes, requested the appointment of guardians over the children left by Prof. Greydanus (see page 28).

The youngest daughter of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. was married on 27 January 1652 to Sybe Rinnerts, shoemaker.

Her name, Trijntie Jansdr., appears from the following deed dated 20 July 1645, which was registered on 9 March 1653 in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register):

> “Sybe Rinnerts citizen and shoemaker and Trijntie Jansdr., spouses at Franeker, declare that they owe 150 cargl. to Johannes Wijbes baker and Griettie Drieses, spouses within the aforesaid town”, for which they pledge as special security a certain sixth part of 5 P.M. of land at Wynaem, at present used by Lolcke Hendricz.”

The shoemaker Sybe Rinnerts, native of Sexbierum, became a burgher of Franeker on 27 June 1646.

Presumably Trijntie Jansdr. remarried Tyaerdt Johannes, because Trijntie Jans, assisted by her husband Tyaerdt Johannes, is named — together with Prof. Johannes Greydanus, as well as Bauck Iskes, the wife of Claes Jansen and later remarried to Lou Jans — as the third co-owner of the 8th house on “de Greyde” (the Jan Buwes house) in the deed of purchase of 20 November 1661, already cited on page 65 and described on page 100.

Besides in this deed of 20 November 1661, the couple Tyaerd Johannes × Trijntie Jans has also been found in the following:

Franeker Protocolboek (register of deeds). 18 January 1656 (recorded 30 January 1657). Tyaerd Johâns and Trijntie Jansdr. spouses, shopkeepers within Franeker, buy a certain front part of a house, consisting of a lower and an upper room, shop and hearth on the Noordermoolenstraat for 402 ggl. /this purchase also appears in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) d.d. 16/23/30 January 1657/;

Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register). 19 July 1658 (recorded 12 Aug^{s} 1658). Tieerd Johans and Trijntie Jansdr. spouses, burghers within Franeker, owing 500 cargls to Tieerd Hijlckes merchant and Tettie Fongersdr. spouses, burghers within Harlingen, pledging as security especially “our household goods, furnishings, shop and shop wares”;

Franeker Proclamatieboek. 6 January/13 February/13 March 1663. Judicial sale, at the request of Mr. Johannes Meyer, as authorized curator over Wilhelmus Duiringh, and to the detriment of Tieerd Johannes cum uxore, burghers here, of the house etc. on the Noordermolenstraet; at present inhabited by the aforesaid Tieerd, having to the East and to the West the captain Hendrik Beerns.”

Tyaerd Johannes was thus about 1656—1663 a shopkeeper on the Noordermolenstraat at Franeker. He was a burgher of that town, which he may have become on 16 June 1656, when there was admitted as burgher: “Tjaerd Johans (b. of Menaem)”.

With the aid of the above-described and not very clearly arranged collection of data and of still other earlier particulars, there now follows a concise, connected history of the ancestors of Prof. Greydanus and Benedictus Tyaerds with their relatives, reconstructed as well and as probably as possible.

The father of Prof. Greydanus and of his half-brother Benedictus Tyaerds was Tyaerd Jans, who married twice, first to Jantien Jans and then to Griettie Benedictus.

From the marriage with Jantien Jans was born: the later Prof. Greydanus, and from that with Griettie Benedictus: Benedictus Tyaerds.

Tjaerd Jans was from 1636 until his death in 1646 gortmaecker (groats miller) or groats miller on “de Greyde” at Franeker, where he owned a dwelling house — the 4th house from the Nauwe Steegh — with a separate groats mill. He was enrolled with the pikemen, and his house belonged to those where a fire bucket was deposited. I should say that Tyaerd Jans showed himself to be as befits a careful head of a family, for at public estate sales he bought all kinds of household necessities such as forks, spoons, a bucket, a bench, a cupboard, a crimson skirt, for one of his little children a child's cap, and for his 13- or 14-year-old son, the later Prof. Greydanus, a Latin bible and other books. He presumably could not write, for he signed with the hand mark: ✕. He also borrowed money, pledging as security his dwelling house and groats mill, both of which, however, were still in his possession at his death.

His first wife Jantien Jans was a daughter of Anne Jelledr., whose family is given in the scheme belonging to page 55, and of Jan Foppes, who remarried Rixtie Jacobsdr.. Jan Foppes, who was a farmer, Kloostermeijer (tenant of monastery lands) and armevoogd (poor-relief warden) at Tjummarum, had there land of his own (a piece of "de Poortfenne") and land rented from the family of the Barradeel Secretary Dr. Johannes Clingbijl and from the Lord J[r] Dominicus van Hottinga[1]; of the farmhouse standing on these rented lands one half was his property and the other belonged to the said Heer van Hottinga (see also pp. 29 and 30). During his fatal illness in November 1654 he was still medically treated by his grandson Dr. Johannes Greydanus, who had just been promoted doctor of philosophy and of medicine at Franeker in June before, and who in 1646 had asked the Franeker Magistracy to appoint, among others, also his grandfather Jan Foppes as his curator, at least for as long as the division of goods to be made with his stepmother Griettie Benedictus would last. Although Jan Foppes repeatedly borrowed money, in 1650 he still bought land for 890 g.gl., and at his death the "profitable estate" of his inheritance nevertheless still showed a favourable balance of more than 2900 goudgulden (gold gulden).

[1] He was Grietman (district magistrate) of Barradeel.

Jantien Jans, who had two full brothers besides: Foppe Jans, probably a baker and married to Rinske Pieters[1], and Aert Jans, died between 1630 and 1643, in which latter year Tjaerd Jans was already married to his second wife Griettie Benedictus, by whom on 3 February 1646 he already had three children, among whom was Benedictus Tyaerds.

Griettie Benedictus was a native of Wijnaem (Wijnaldum) and a daughter of the couple Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes there. Engel Johannes remarried in 1617 to Frans Fransen d'Oude, first settled at Wynaem (Wijnaldum), and in 1631 removed to Pietersbierum, where he was a farmer and "co-Deputy for the diking of the Vijffdelen outside the dike". Frans Fransen d'Oude borrowed money time and again, often considerable sums, even up to 1100 goudgulden. He seemed to fall more and more into financial difficulties, for he gave up: first, in satisfaction of a debt that had risen to 1700 goudgulden, a sum of 300 goudgulden, which was paid out to him yearly on 1 May on account of the redemption of the sate (farmstead) and lands occupied by him at Pietersbierum, by Juffr. Fokel van Botnia and by the Grietman (district magistrate) of Collumerlandt Jr. Ritske van Eijsinga, and finally even his salary with attendance fees as Dijksgedeputeerde (dike deputy) for the year 1652 amounting to 196 caroligulden, in satisfaction of an overdue obligation of payment.

The parents of Benedictus Seerps, thus the grandparents of Griettie Benedictus, were Seerp Benedicxz, owner of land, first at Kimswerd and later at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum), and Arien Pieters, of which couple a document dated 1578 has been found, the oldest which relates to the genealogy "Greydanus", at least if one does not include: a document of the year 1543 in the Beneficiaalboek van Friesland, concerning the possible father of Seerp Benedicxz, namely: Heer Benedicx Seerpsz, Possessor of the lands and rents belonging to the parsonage of Kimswerd, and, according to the "Registers van den Aanbreng", also landlord of various parcels of fennen (pastures) there and co-owner of fennen at Kornwerd. The document of 1578 occurs in the weesboek (orphans' register) of Franekeradeel and concerns the complete discharge by Aryan Peters, wife of Seerp Benedictus at Kimswerd, of the curators appointed over her and her deceased brother, Ben Janz at Achlum and Piter Janz.

Griettie Benedictus remarried first to Wijbe Dircxen, then to Pijr (Pier) Pijters, boat builder at Franeker, and finally to Gerrijt Sydses, wagon maker in that town. Having thus been married four times, she died in 1667 in needy circumstances at Franeker, where her mother Engel Johannes, after the death of Frans Fransen d'Oude, had also come to live and had died.

Griettie Benedictus' second husband, Wijbe Dircxen, probably widower of Trijn Hommes, was first a farmer at Herbayum and later gortmaecker (groats miller) and burgher at Franeker. The couple Wijbe Dircxen × Griettie Benedictus lived at Franeker on "de Greyde" in the 4[th] house from the Nauwe Steegh, left by Tyaerd Jans to Griettie Benedictus, where Wijbe Dircxen operated the adjoining groats mill, after this appears at first, following the death of Tyaerd Jans, to have been done by the gortmaecker (groats miller) Rutger.

[1] See proclamation d.d. 22 Febr./14/28 March 1660 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel.

Griettie Benedictus repeatedly borrowed money, with her dwelling house and appurtenances as security. In 1652 she sold her house on "de Greyde", excluding the groats mill, for 550 goudgulden, and thereafter lived at Franeker on Godsacker and on "de Dijck". Wijbe Dircxen signed with the handmark: [handmark symbol] or [handmark symbol]; his said wife, however, was able to write.

Two full sisters of Griettie Benedictus were: Sjouck Benedictus (married to Anske Douwes, who remarried Rink Gerrijts) and Arian Benedictus (married to Joannes Sinnes). Anske Douwes and Sjouck Benedictus lived successively at Sexbierum, Oosterlittens, Jorwerd and Rauwerd, in which last place both died. The couple Joannes Sinnes × Arian Benedictus had Workum as their place of residence, where Joannes Sinnes was a citizen and practised the trade of tile baker.

The house on "de Greyde" at Franeker, later the property of Tyaerd Jans, had been purchased in 1632 by his father Jan Buwes, namely from the latter's brother Ysbrandt Buwes and from the other family members, to whom it had been allotted in 1630 at the division of the estate of Jan and Ysbrandt Buwes' brother: Claes Buwes, who was a citizen of Franeker and probably a butcher and who had died there childless, but leaving behind his wife Auck Jelderts (Gielderts). Besides this house on "de Greyde", Claes Buwes also left some capital, for by will he bequeathed 300 goudgulden to his wife and 25 to the poor of the town of Franeker.

The parents of Tyaerd Jans were: Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr.. Both were Mennonite, while Tyaerd Jans with the other family members will indeed have professed the Reformed religion. Jan Buwes lived at Franeker on “de Greyde”, right next to his son Tyaerd Jans, in the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh, which house was offered for sale by him in 1618 as “new”. Like Tyaerd Jans he was a gortmaecker there. Since Jan Buwes died in 1636 and Tyaerd Jans was first found on “de Greyde” in precisely that year, there is the possibility that Jan Buwes and his son used the same groats mill on “de Greyde”.

Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., who were citizens of Franeker, appear once or twice as debtors in the Franeker Hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers). Jan Buwes signed with the handmark [handmark symbol] and his wife with her signature. Before Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. married Jan Buwes, she had as husband Wybe Andries, from which marriage a daughter Wijpck Wijbes was born, who married Thys Lourens (or Luttiens) and died at Franeker about 1647. After the death of her husband in 1636 Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. continued to live on “de Greyde” until 1652, when she wished to sell her house — for as we shall see later the sale evidently did not go through — to her son-in-law Hidde Johans, married to her daughter Imke Jans, and in which year she too was called to a better life. Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., who had for some years taken into her house the son (the later Prof. Greydanus) from the first marriage of Tyaerd Jans, probably in connection with the latter's second marriage, appears not to have been on all too good a footing with the wife from that second marriage: Griettie Benedictus. At any rate she brought a lawsuit against Griettie Benedictus in 1647, because the latter was said to have been negligent in the payment of about 75 caroligulden, which were still lacking from a sum of originally 200 caroligulden due to her from the estate of Tyaerd Jans. At the hearing of this suit Griettie Benedictus claimed among other things (see pages 32 and 33) that she still had to get back from Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. a silver woman's under-girdle, which Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. had borrowed for her daughter. Against this Trijntie Tyaerdts maintained that her son Tyaerd Jans had “presented” her with that under-girdle, because she, as stated above, had for some years “maintained” his son — the later Prof.

Greydanus — for some years had “maintained”. The matter appears finally to have been settled amicably, after Griettie Benedictus, who at that time, just after the death of her husband Tyaerd Jans, will not have been too well off with her young children, had further declared that she firmly trusted that Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., as her mother-in-law and as the grandmother of her children, would acquiesce in the matter.

Besides Tyaerd Jans, other children of Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., arranged according to their probable age, were: Claes Jansen, Imke Jans and Trijntie Jans. Claes Jansen was thus a brother, and Imke and Trijntie Jans were sisters of Tyaerd Jans.

Claes Jansen was initially a baker at Franeker, where at that time another Claes Jansen also practised this same trade. To distinguish the two, Tyaerd Jans' brother was called: Claes Jansen de Kleyne (or Claes Jans Buwes) and the other baker: Claes Jansen de Groote.

On the membership lists of the Franeker Bakers' Guild Claes Jansen de Kleyne appears in 1649 and 1650, in 1652 he was out of the town and in 1657 his name is lacking; around 1652 he had in fact become a Bolsward skipper. He was married to Bauck Iskes (Eeskes or Eetsens), who presumably bore the family name Jelgersma and was a sister of the Franeker timber merchant and Burgomaster Take Iskes (Eeskes or Eetsens) Jelgersma; a son Tieerd of his was baptized at Franeker 9 October 1656. This son Tieerd Claeses was a brewer's journeyman at Franeker, married Geeltje Bottes and had baptized at Franeker: Bauckj/en/ 1 April 1683, 29 January 1685 and 27 April 1697, Claes 9 March 1687 and Trijntje 11 March 1703.

In 1646 the later Prof. Greydanus requested the Magistrate of Franeker to appoint the said Claes Jansen — his uncle — and, as mentioned above, his grandfather Jan Foppes, as his curators, at least for as long as the separation of goods to be made with his stepmother Griettie Benedictus should last.

Claes Jansen died between 1656 and 1659, in which last-mentioned year his widow Bauck Iskes (Eeskes or Eetsens) remarried Lou Jans, likewise Mr. baker at Franeker and son of Jan Eelckes, baker, and Pyttje Louws.

The eldest sister of Tyaerd Jans was Imke Jans, married: 1° in 1636 to Jetze Jacobs, who from 1639 to 1643 lived on “de Greyde” at Franeker, and 2° in 1647 to Hidde Johans. Hidde Johans was first a wagon maker and later a dairyman at Franeker, and lived there likewise on “de Greyde”. In 1668 Agge Romckes and Hidde Johans, as great-uncle by marriage of the children left by Prof. Greydanus, requested that guardians be appointed over them. Presumably Hidde Johans died at Franeker in 1674 as a labourer, leaving a son Johannes Hiddes, who then reported his extremely meagre estate to the Court for inventory.

Tyaerd Jans' youngest sister Trijntie Jans was in 1652 married to Sybe Rinnerts and afterwards to Tyaerd Johannes. Sybe Rinnerts, born at Sexbierum, became a burgher of Franeker in 1646, where he was a shoemaker. Tyaerd Johannes was a burgher of Franeker, as which he was possibly admitted in 1656, as being born at Menaem; from 1656 to 1663 he was a shopkeeper on the Noordermolenstraat at Franeker, in which street he acquired in 1656 for 402 goudgulden the ownership of a shop-house, which however was sold judicially in 1663.

1. Heinema protests against the clause concerning the fencing in the deed of sale: — The claimants of the right of pre-emption have withdrawn their request, so that the consent has passed to the first buyers.” This then agrees with the entries in the Leeuwarden Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of 12 February 1623 and in the Leeuwarden Weesboek (orphans' register) of 2 November 1626, in which among others Claes Buvez at Franeker appears as curator and uncle by marriage over Thet and Rintze Joannis. These children were assisted by Eete Joannis at Ritsmazijl (great-uncle on the father's side) and Aesge Joannis at Jeslum (uncle on the mother's side). The family of this first wife of Claes Buwes can thus be reconstructed as follows: ↩

2. the curator and uncle named in the deed of 12 September 1617 (see page 34) of the three underage children of the late Benedicx Seerps and Engel Joaes. Pieter Seerps was married to Jell Abbes, which couple lived at Wynaem (Wijnaldum) (see also page 217) and with their children have been included in the diagram belonging with page 48. ↩

Chapter IV

THE FIRST "GREYDANUS"

The first "Greydanus" was the son Johannes Theotardi (Jan Tyaerds) of the Franeker gortmaecker (groats miller) Tyaerd Jans, who lived on "de Greyde", and of Jantien Jans.

We find Johannes Theotardi mentioned on 3 February 1646 in his request to the Franeker Magistrate, reproduced on page 26, to appoint his grandfather Jan Foppes at Tjummarum and his uncle Claes Jansz., backer at Franeker, as his curators.

In this request Johannes Theotardi says that he is "in his 16th year", so that he must have been born between 3 February 1630 and 3 February 1631. Although his father is only found on "de Greyde" at Franeker in 1636, his parents must nevertheless have lived at Franeker earlier already, since, as will appear further on, he first saw the light of day at Franeker.

"Joaēs Tetardi de z." also appears in the "Provisional statement of the goods left by the late Tijaerd Jans, gortmaecker" dated the 2nd of April 1646 (see page 27).

Johannes Theotardi at first called himself Jan or Joan Greyde, but when he came to the Franeker Academy on 18 June 1647, he was entered by the Rector Arnoldus Verhel — which had to be done in Latin — as Johannes Greidanus.

The name Jan Greyde has been found in a poem printed in 1651 in 4^{o} by "Jan Greyde van Franeker" /present in the library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden[1] on the marriage of Johannes Joris Sola and Haeske Hendricks Duynterp dated 31 March 1651 [2].

Here follows the "Address" (see the reproduction opposite of the last page of the poem) at the end of this marriage poem, in which the bride Haeske Hendricks Duynterp is represented by a little hare which, pursued by a hunter — the bridegroom —, flees onto a dune, surrounded by a terp:

> "See here, o worthy pair, the most sweet hunt,
> Which at the beginning was not without rough squalls,
> See here, o sweet pair, that which my mind
> Had now endeavoured to write in praise of your union.
> Yet although in this verse you do not hear from me
> Your worthiness exalted, do not be troubled by that.
> Although I do not set forth the praise of your virtues loftily
> As is nowadays customary throughout in wedding poems, > Let that be no wonder: for by my praising I can > Assign you no greater praise or greater honour
> Than every person who knows your virtues,
> And that not without reason, sends to you from all sides.
> The most that I can do is to wish you
> That you may far surpass the people of the world in happiness;
> I also wish, worthy Bride, that the Bridegroom
> May welcome you on the bed as kindly as he can."

[1] See Second Supplement Catalogue anno 1871, Library Friesch Genootschap, page 82.

[2] According to the Franeker Church Marriage Register: there were proclaimed on 16 March 1651 and married on 31 March following: Johannes Joris Solla in d'Nieuwe Hoffstraat and Haske Hendrix Duinterp on d'Noorder Muellenstraat; there was proclaimed on 1 June 1664: Cornelis Wijnnerts (according to the Judicial Marriage Register Everts), Mr. weaver of dopjes from Nijhoff and Haeske Hendrix Duinteerp, widow of the late Johannes Jores Solla, across from the Cornmarck. Haeske Hendricks Duynterp was a daughter of Hendrik Sipkes Duynterp, in 1648 Burgher-Lieutenant in the Noorder Kwartier at Franeker, and Cathalina Adolphs (also called Adams), who remarried Jan Pyters Rijckart, weaver at Franeker and living there behind the 2nd house from the Nauwe Steegh (see the sketch on page 52). Johannes Joris Solla (Zolla), in 1657 alderman and in 1658 inspector of the Linen and Dopjes Weavers' Guild at Franeker, was a son of Joris Johannes Solla, tower watchman and, builder and overseer of the "wooden bridge lying next to the Kerkstraat in the N. Hoff" in the said town. From the marriage of Johannes Joris Solla and Haeske Hendricks Duynterp there was baptized at Franeker, among others, on 22 Sept. 1658 Joris, presumably the later Ds. Georgius van Duinterp, from 1682 to 1714 Dutch Reformed minister at Jutrijp-Hommerts, who would then have taken over his mother's surname.

Siet daer een grote vreught: Het Haesje is verkregen;
Dus gaet de Jager nu, veel blyde teyckens plegen.
Hy neemt het inden arm, en toont veel vriendlijckheyt:
Het Haesje vreest oock niet, maer hem gestaeg verbeyt.
Hy doet het Haesjes wil, na sijn geheel vermogen:
Nu coomt hy met haer aen, door blijdschap opgetogen:
Laet hem dan vrolijck zijn, 't is vry niet sonder reen;
Dat veel hadden begeert, verkrijght hy nu alleen.
En schoon daer yemant was, die hem dit woud' misgonnē,
Die sal hem dit geluck doch niet beletten konnen.
Het Haesje is voor hem, en hy oock weer voor haer.
Dies yeder wensch haer toe, geluck en geen gevaer.

AEN-SPRAECK.

Siet hier ô waerde paer, het oversoete jagen,
't Welck was in het begin niet sonder stuere vlagen,
Siet hier ô soete paer, het geen nu mijn gedacht,
Tot u verbindings loff te schryven hadd' getracht
Doch schoon ghy in dit vers, van my niet coomt te horen
U waerdicheyt verheft, wilt u daer aen niet storen.
Schoon ick u deughdens prijs niet hooglijck stel ter toon
Als men in't Bruyt-lofs-dicht, nu door-gaens is gewoon.
Laet dat geen wonder zijn: Ick kan doch door mijn pryscn
U ganssch geen meerder loff, oft groter eer toewysen,
Als wel een yeder mensch, die uwe deughden kent,
En dat niet sonder reen, uw'allenthalff toe-sendt.
Het meeste dat ick kan, dat is u toe te wensschen,
Dat ghy ver in 't geluck, verwint des werelds menschen:
Ick wensch oock waerde Bruyt, dat u de Bruydegom, Soo vriendlijck als hy kan, op 't bed heet welle-com.

t' Samen gestelt door

JAN GREYDE van Franeker,
Ken-woordt, Hier nae bet e

't RACKOUWS

CATECHISMVS

met sijn Onder-soeck,

In 't Latijn beschreven / van den Hoogh-geleerden Man /

JOAN-HENRICO ALSTEDIO;

Ende nu vertaelt door

JOAN GREYDE.

Item F. SOCINI, Hooft-summe der Christelycke religie / met de wederleggynghe van dien /

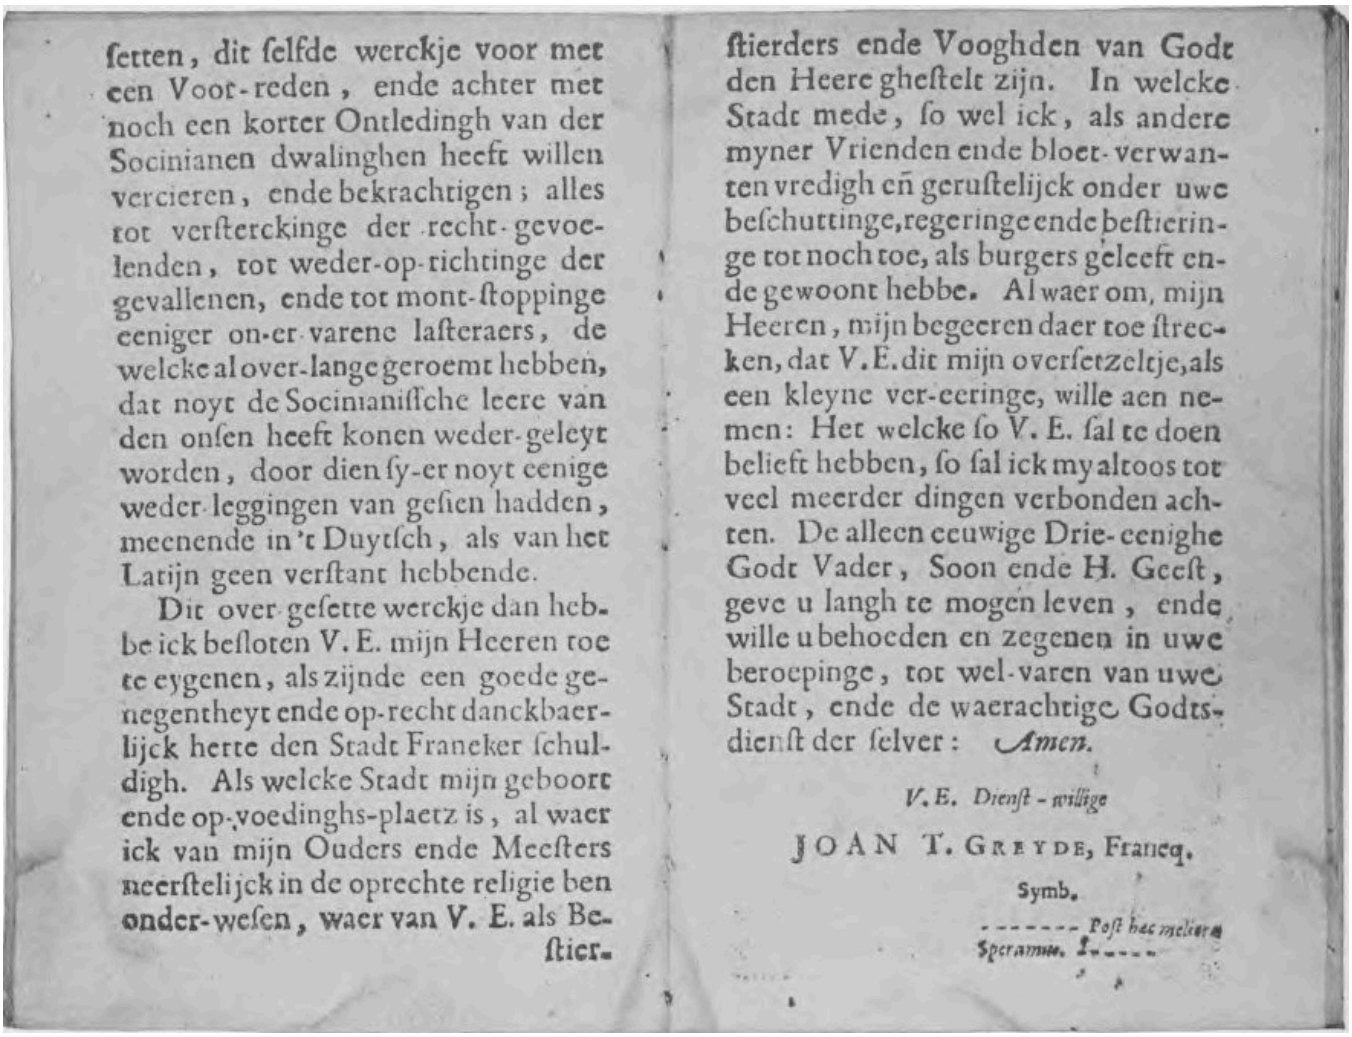
Door

CHRIST. SCHOTANUM.

GODT BEWAERT IN NOOT.

Gedruckt tot Franeker /

By Ids Albertsz. Boeckdrucker / woonende op de Cooren-merckt / Anno 1652.



ſetten, dit ſelfde werckje voor met een Voor-reden, ende achter met noch een korter Ontledingh van der Socinianen dwalinghen heeft willen vercieren, ende bekrachtigen; alles tot verſterckinge der recht-gevoelenden, tot weder-op-richtinge der gevallenen, ende tot mont-ſtoppinge eeniger on-er-varene laſteraers, de welcke al over-lange geroemt hebben, dat noyt de Socinianiſſche leere van den onſen heeft konen weder-geleyt worden, door dien ſy-er noyt eenige weder-leggingen van geſien hadden, meenende in 't Duytſch, als van het Latijn geen verſtant hebbende.

Dit over-geſette werckje dan hebbe ick beſloten V. E. mijn Heeren toe te eygenen, als zijnde een goede genegentheyt ende op-recht danckbaerlijck herte den Stadt Franeker ſchuldigh. Als welcke Stadt mijn geboort ende op-voedinghs-plaetz is, al waer ick van mijn Ouders ende Meeſters neerſtelijck in de oprechte religie ben onder-weſen, waer van V. E. als Beſtierſtierders ende Vooghden van Godt den Heere gheſtelt zijn. In welcke Stadt mede, ſo wel ick, als andere myner Vrienden ende bloet-verwanten vredigh en̄ geruſtelijck onder uwe beſchuttinge, regeringe ende beſtieringe tot noch toe, als burgers geleeft ende gewoont hebbe. Al waer om, mijn Heeren, mijn begeeren daer toe ſtrecken, dat V. E. dit mijn overſetzeltje, als een kleyne ver-eeringe, wille aen nemen: Het welcke ſo V. E. ſal te doen belieft hebben, ſo ſal ick my altoos tot veel meerder dingen verbonden achten. De alleen eeuwige Drie-eenighe Godt Vader, Soon ende H. Geeſt, geve u langh te mogen leven, ende wille u behoeden en zegenen in uwe beroepinge, tot wel-varen van uwe Stadt, ende de waerachtige Godts-dienſt der ſelver: Amen.

V. E. Dienſt-willige

JOAN T. GREYDE, Franeq.

Symb.

------- Poſt hac meliora Speramus. ------

73

Beneath the poem stands:

> "Composed by
> JAN GREYDE VAN FRANEKER
> MOTTO, BETTER HEREAFTER."

Moreover the name "Joan Greyde" occurs in a little book preserved in the said library[1], entitled:

> "'t Rackouws
> Catechismvs[2]
> with its Examination, > written in Latin/ by the > highly learned man/
> Joan-Henrico Alstedio;
> And now translated by
> JOAN GREYDE.
> Likewise F. Socini, Chief Summary of the > Christian religion /with the refutation > thereof/
> By > Christ. Schotanum.
> Printed at Franeker.
> By Ids Albertsz. Bookprinter/ living > on the Coorn-merckt/ Anno 1652."

A reproduction of this title page is included herewith.

In this little book, published in 8°, there is the following preface by Joan Greyde:

> "To the honourable, wise and > provident > Gentlemen > Bvrgomasters > of the City of Franeker,
> Jan Claeszen,
> Boudewijn J. Wellens > former Volmacht (delegate) at the Landsdag (provincial diet).
> Horatius à Meynsma > formerly Gedeputeerde Staat (deputy of the States) of Friesland and Monster > Commissaris (muster commissioner), but now Volmacht at the Landsdag.
> Agge Eytzes, formerly Volmacht at the Landsdag,

Folckert Jensma, recently Volmacht at the Landsdag Take Iskens.[3]
As also to,
Jacobus de Gemmenich, J. V. L. and Secretary of the town of Franeker.
Honourable, provident
Gentlemen: My Lords:
That it is more than all too true, what our only Saviour and Redeemer, the true God and man Jesus Christ, set forth orally to the multitudes by a parable, openly explained to the Disciples, and for our benefit caused to be written down by the Evangelist Matthew; namely that when the great Sower, the Son of Man, sows the good seed of his word in the field of the world, his enemy the Devil then continually and with great diligence sows the evil seed of his lies (when the Master of the house, the Son of Man, Jesus Christ, as if sleeping, permits it) in the midst of the great field of the world among the good seed of the elect true believers; from which, among the good seed of the children of the Kingdom, there also grows up the weed of the children of the evil one, who through perverseness either of doctrine or of life are estranged from the true Church, from salvation, and from God;
That this is true, I say, appears not only from the old and the new ecclesiastical histories or books of events, but also from the sad present-day experience. For what heresies, schisms, and false doctrines have, alas, also come to light, when the good seed of the restoration of the Evangelical doctrine began to spring up;
What hindrances, and, had it been possible, oppressions, has the true Church had to endure from all sides, yes, even from its own midst? What offences must both its strong and its weak members still daily receive from those who work unrighteousness? What persuasions and assaults upon the conscience are inflicted upon her by those who, forsaking the word of God, put forward their own reason and passions? In particular, what diligence is applied nowadays by those to whom the name of Socinians befits better than that of Christians, which name they nevertheless wrongly claim for themselves, in order to draw the orthodox believers to their contrived abominations /which one could better compare with the Turkish than with the Christian doctrine/, by some show of reason, and by evasions conflicting with Scripture regarding clear passages of Scripture.
Their teachings have now long since been refuted by the learned writings of many learned men, and are still daily everywhere, in the Academies and high schools, by the Professors of Theology, and in the churches by the highly learned ministers, invalidated and destroyed; but the written refutations of the learned men are not and have not been written in the Dutch, but in the Latin language; and what is publicly delivered in the churches by the ministers for the destruction of this error is either not heard by all, whether through carelessness in listening, or through contempt for and neglect of the sermons, or, through weak memory, is not wholly remembered; wherefore Christianus Schotanus, Professor of Sacred Theology in our very famous and praiseworthy Academy of Franeker, thought it not inadvisable that there should be published in Dutch, for the convenience of the common man, who is daily assailed with the printed and scattered booklets of the enemies, a refuting handbook. And he pointed the printer, in the Theologia Polemica of the very renowned and in learning excellent man Joh. Henricus Alstedius, [1] to an Examination of the Racovian or Socinian Catechism, in which their whole error is briefly set forth and refuted, together with what they bring forward as proof of it, and likewise the proofs of the true doctrine are cleansed and freed from their harmful evasions conflicting with Scripture. Their opinion being therein faithfully copied out by the Author in their own words from their Catechism printed at Rackouw in the year 1609.
But since all of it had been written by the Author in the Latin language, he had me requested through the printer to translate the same into our Dutch language, with the promise of showing me his faithful help therein, if that should be needed, which he 74 indeed also carried out.
Having then taken this in hand, I endeavoured with all diligence to translate that same examination into pure Dutch, without mixing any foreign words into it: but, being disappointed in this intention, I have here and there had to let some remain, since these are more customary in the daily speech of our people than is the Dutch word which they would signify: For this reason I have also more than once retained some Greek and Latin words, yet explained them, as far as seemed possible to me, in our own language, so that anyone might use that translation, or, if he knew a better one, that one of his own, yet so that the omission of those Greek and Latin words would not be impracticable. This then having been thus done according to my judgement, I had it delivered again to the Professor through the printer: who, as a witness of my faithfulness in the translating, was willing to adorn and confirm this same little work at the front with a Preface, and at the back with a still shorter Analysis of the errors of the Socinians; all for the strengthening of those who are right-minded, for the raising up again of the fallen, and for the stopping of the mouths of some inexperienced slanderers, who have long boasted that the Socinian doctrine could never be refuted by our people, because they had never seen any refutations of it, meaning in Dutch, having no understanding of Latin.
This translated little work I have therefore resolved to dedicate to Your Honours, my Lords, as owing a good affection and an uprightly thankful heart to the City of Franeker. As this City is my place of birth and upbringing, where I was diligently instructed by my Parents and Teachers in the upright religion, of which Your Honours are appointed by God the Lord as Governors and Guardians. In which City also, both I, as well as others of my Friends and blood relations, have up to now lived and dwelt as citizens peacefully and quietly under your protection, rule and government. Wherefore, my Lords, my desire tends to this, that Your Honours will accept this little translation of mine as a small token of honour: which, > if it shall have pleased Your Honours to do, I shall always count myself bound to much greater things. May the only eternal Triune God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, grant you long life, and preserve and bless you in your calling, for the welfare of your City, and of the true worship of God therein: Amen

> Your Honours' willing servant
> JOAN T. GREYDE, FRANEQ.
> SYMB.
> .... POSTHAC MELIORA > SPERAMUS .... ”

[1] See Catalogue anno 1862, Library of the Friesch Genootschap, page 240.

[2] Doctrine of the Socinians.

[3] In 1652 Franeker thus had 6 Burgomasters. The Burgomaster Jan Claeszen, who died at Franeker on 8 October 1677, was a baker — which is why he was called Jan Claeszen de Backer — and probably a grandson of Ysbrandt Buwes, a brother of Prof. Greidanus' grandfather Jan Buwes. By the Burgomaster Take Iskens is meant Take Iskens Jelgersma, probably a brother of Bauck Iskens, the wife of Prof. Greydanus' uncle Claes Jansen de Kleyne. A grandson of the Burgomaster Take Iskens Jelgersma was: Take Iskens Jelgersma, likewise Burgomaster at Franeker, in the years 1703, 1706 and 1733, and died there on 26 July 1733.

[1] This sentence must be read in such a way that Professor Schotanus pointed out to the printer (Ids Alberts on the Coorn-merckt at Franeker) the work “Theologiâ Polemicâ” by Joh. Henricus Alstedius. According to the “Realenzyklopädie für protest. Theologie und Kirche, begründet von J. J. Herzog, herausgegeben von D. Albert Hauck, Professor in Leipzig” and “C. G. Jöcher's Allgemeines Gelehrtenlexicon”, Joh. Heinrich Alsted/ius/ was a Reformed theologian, who was born in 1588 at Ballersbach in the County of Nassau near Herborn, taught Philosophy and Philology at the University of Herborn from 1608, became Professor of Philosophy in 1610 and in 1619 also of Theology. In 1629 he moved in that capacity to the newly founded Reformed University at Weissenburg in Zevenbergen, where he died in 1638. He represented the Nassau Church at the National Synod of Dordrecht. Alstedius must have had a very prolific pen; among the works from his hand are mentioned, among others, two Encyclopaedias, of which one, on Theology, is divided into 7 sections, namely 1. theologia naturalis; 2. catechetica; 3. didactica; 4. polemica; 5. theologia casuum; 6. theologia prophetica (homiletics) and 7. theologia maralis. Against his theologia polemica, worked out in 1630, the Jena scholar Himmelius wrote an “Anti Alstedius s. examen theol. polem. J. H. Alstedii”. And of this part “de theologia polemica” the refutation of the Socinian Catechism will have been a section.

A reproduction of the last two pages of this preface is included herewith.

Since the symbol “POSTHAC MELIORA SPERAMUS”, couched in Latin, which was used by the writer “Joan T. Greyde, Franeq.”, means in Dutch “Na dezen hopen wij beter dingen” (After this we hope for better things), thus briefly expressed “hiernae beter”, and is therefore exactly the same as the “motto” “HIERNAE BETER” employed by the author of the wedding poem “Jan Greyde van Franeker”, it can be nothing else but that the translator of 't Rackouws Catechismus met sijn Ondersoeck, written in Latin by Joan Henricus Alstedius, “Joan T. Greyde, Franeq.”, and the author of the Dutch wedding poem: “Jan Greyde van Franeker”, must be one and the same person. Furthermore, the writer of the preface in 't Rackouws Catechismus signs himself “Joan T. Greyde, Franeq”, that is to say Joan the son of T (Tyaerd), which leads to the conclusion that in “Joan T. Greyde, Franeq.” and in “Jan Greyde van Franeker” we shall have to do with our Johannes Theotardi, that is, Johannes Greydanus.

From the foregoing it further follows that Johannes Greydanus must have been born at Franeker; for beneath the wedding poem stands: “Jan Greyde van Franeker”, and the translator of 't Rackouws Catechismus calls himself “Joan T. Greyde, Franeq.”, who moreover says in his preface (see the words which I have had printed in italics) that the city of Franeker is his birthplace, that he was brought up there, and that both he and his friends and relations lived and dwelt there quietly and peacefully.

All this agrees with the enrolment of Johannes Greydanus as a student at the Franeker University and with the data from some books.

The complete enrolment as a student (see the reproduction hereafter of the page of the Album der Franeker Academie on which the entry occurs) indeed reads:

“A^{o} 1647

Jŭniŭs

18 11.[1] Johannes Greidanŭs Franeqŭerensis frisiŭs lingŭarum et Philos Stŭd:”, while in the works of Vriemoet and Paquot, to be mentioned hereafter, one finds the following:

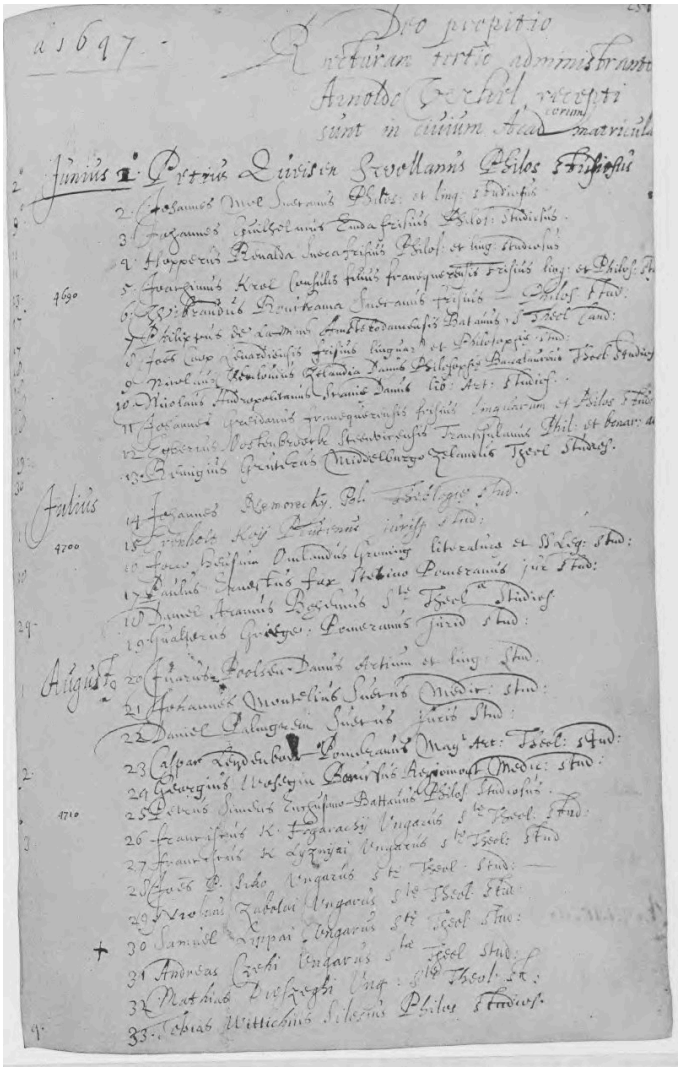
in Vriemoet: that the Professor of Philosophy Johannes Greidanus was a son of Tjaard, which rests on the fact that some years before the publication of his book in 1758, a signet ring of Johannes Greidanus had been found in the ruins near the Sjaerdemaslot at Franeker, on which stood J. T. G. Vriemoet further says that the name Greidanus is possibly derived from a certain part of the town of Franeker, called "de Greide", and that, according to the already quoted entry in the Album of the Academy, Johannes Greidanus was a Frisian from Franeker; and in Paquot: that Jan van de Greide or Greidanus was a son of Tiard van de Greide and was born at Franeker about 1633.

[1] The 11th student enrolled by the Rector Arnoldus Verhel, and since the founding of the Academy the 4696th enrolled student.



Page from the Album der Franeker Academie, with the entry as a student dated 18 Jūniūs 1647 of Johannes Greidanūs (see page 75) (somewhat reduced).

Even much later the name Greide was still met with, namely in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Franeker, in which on 24 October 1665, in an account concerning the orphan children of the late Jancke Thomasdr. and the late Tierck Pyters Molenaer at Franeker, there is entered:

> "PAID TO DOCTOR GREIDE FOR HIS VISITS 0—18—0 > Paid to the apothecary Schotano for medicines 4— 8—0."

On 30 March 1652 Johannes Greydanus appears in the sale, given on pages 22 and 23, of the household goods of his late grandmother Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. by her children. There one finds:

in the list of buyers:

> "JOHANNES GREIJDANUS a bed sheet 2— 6— . .
> . . . . . .
> JOHANNES GREIJDANUS a black cloth > hooded cloak 6—15— . ."

and at the end in the statement of the so-called "Remainders":

> "JOAES GREYDANG the grandchild 9— 1— . ."

Johannes Greydanus thus came to the Franeker University on 18 June 1647 and there took his doctorate — on the same day, 15 June 1654 — in philosophy and in medicine.

From his student years date, besides the already mentioned marriage poem of 31 March 1651 and the already reported translation, published in 1652, of 't Rackouws Catechismus met sijn Ondersoeck, described in Latin by Joan Henricus Alstedius, also a partial preparation of an enlarged edition of a Greek-Latin Dictionary.

The Dictionary in question was the work of Prof. George Pasor, Professor of Greek at the Franeker Academy. Of this Handbook there appeared, with Elsevier at Leiden in 12°, a first edition in 1628, a second in 1634 and a third in 1640, numbering respectively 585, 596 and 598 pages.

After the death of Prof. Pasor on 10 December 1637, Prof. Christianus Schotanus, Professor at the Franeker Academy, saw to a new edition of Pasor's Dictionary, which he enlarged with words occurring in the ancient Greek Versions of the Old Testament. Prof. Schotanus had this new edition prepared by his son Gellius and, after the latter's death, by Johannes Greydanus. The new edition appeared with Elsevier at Amsterdam in 12° in three completely identical printings of 737 pages in 1654, 1664 and 1672[1].

In my possession is a copy of the printings of 1664 and 1672; of the printing of 1664 the title, with my translation into Dutch, runs as follows:

(Latin) "George Pasor's	George Pasor's
Handbook	Handbook
to the New Testament	to the New Testament
enlarged with words that occur	Enlarged with words that occur in the ancient Greek Versions	in the ancient Greek Versions of the Old Testament,	of the Old Testament,

[1] For all the printings see: A. Willems "Les Elzevier; Histoire et Annales typographiques", Paris, La Haye, 1880, on pages 78, 100, 125, 298, 338 and 378.

(Latin) "so that it may be regarded as the fullest Lexicon\ of the Greek language of the middle ages, which\ you might call Alexandrian.\ By the author\ Christiano Schotano, a Frisian,\ Professor of Sacred Letters\ At Amstelodami\ From the Elzevier Press\ A° MDCLXIV"	so that it may be regarded as the most complete dictionary of the Greek Language, from the Middle Ages which one might call the Alexandrian.\ Written by\ Christianus Schotanus, a Frisian\ Professor of Sacred Letters\ Amsterdam\ At Elzevier's\ A° 1664.

In a preface by Prof. Schotanus the following occurs on the unnumbered pages 2, 8 and 9, again with my own translations into Dutch beside them:

(Latin) "While he was engaged in this, he is called away from here by an unexpected death, leaving the unfinished work carried only to the half. Hence the papers lay of no use, which I, the father of the author, thought good to take up, so that, however great or small it might be, yet in any case not useless to the φιλέλλησι, carried through in one and the same manner to the very last word, it might at length see the light. Therefore the excellent and learned young man Johannes Greydanus, student of Philosophy and Medicine, of happy talent, most highly praised for his progress in learning, wove to the very last word that which had been begun and brought thus far . . . . . .	While he (Gellius Schotanus) was engaged in this, he is called away from here by a sudden death, leaving the unfinished work half completed. So that the manuscript lay there without being of any use, which manuscript I, the father of the writer, thought good to take up, so that it, however great or small it might be, but in any case not unimportant for the lovers (of Greek Literature), worked through in one piece to the very last word, might one day see the light. Therefore the excellent and learned young man Johannes Greydanus, student in Philosophy and in Medicine, with happy gifts, highly praised for his progress in learning, has worked out to the last word that work which had once been begun and brought to a certain point . . . . . .
. . . . .
(Latin) I judge, reader, that you will use this our guide, which we now give, with a cheerful countenance. Meanwhile know that you now receive a taste, which we shall supplement with a fuller meal (if God grants life) in a second edition. For my son, and that other young man, translated from their lexicons those words which they could obtain; those interpretations which were lacking we have added, being little concerned about those which they had from elsewhere; except that here and there in passing we corrected a few faulty things. Know that much remains, to which our occupations at that time could not devote their care, being content with a hasty inspection."	I think, reader, that you will use this our guide, which we now give, with a glad countenance. Know meanwhile, that you now receive a sample, which we shall supplement with a fuller meal (if God grants life) in a second edition. For my son, and that other young man, have interpreted from their dictionaries those words which they could obtain, and we have added the interpretations which were lacking, concerning ourselves little about those which we had from elsewhere, except that here and there we have in passing corrected a few errors. Know, that much still remains, to which our occupations at that time did not allow us to give the necessary care, so that we had to be content with a hasty inspection.

From what has been reported concerning Pasor's Handbook, the good understanding which must have existed between Prof. Christianus Schotanus and Johannes Greydanus is evident.

This good understanding could also be inferred from the presence of a poem by Johannes Greydanus in one of the folio volumes written by Prof. Christianus Schotanus. The work in which this poem, together with other verses, is included at the front bears the title: "De Geschiedenissen Kerckelyck ende Wereldtlyck van Friesland Oost ende West; Beginnende van d'eerste Geheuchenis ende vol-trocken tot op het Iaar na Christi geboorte 1583" and was published in 1658 at Franeker by Ian Boudewyns Wellens, over which, however, in some copies there has been pasted: "At Amsterdam, By Joost Pluymer, Bookseller on the Dam, in Seneca. A° 1660." [1] The author's "Dedication" is dated "23sten September 1658" and beneath one of the poems, namely that of Reinerus Neuhusius, stands the date June 1657, so that one may assume with fairly great certainty that the poem by Johannes Greydanus dates from about 1657/1658, thus when he had already taken his degree.

The poem reads as follows:

"On the Frisian Histories
by the Reverend and very Learned Gentleman

[1] Of the book, which still now and then turns up at an auction, I possess a copy with the year 1658 and one with the year 1660.

H. Christianus Schotanus.

Plin. lib. 17. cap. 16.
[1]A great wonder was the Tree, which had the Tiburtine meadows bedecked with splendour; whose fruits, of differing kinds,
of many sorts,
glorified the trunk: Here it was that one saw the glow of the purple cherry, and elsewhere
the apricots;
the azure cluster of grapes weighs down its pliant tendril: the blush of pomegranates crowns him;
the sweet-juiced fig, and the berry adorn him: the nut hides beneath the green foliage. O strange and mighty wonder!
whose well-established grounds
the experienced interpreter of nature's own being has never rightly discovered.
What strange choice wonder, then, appears in Christiaen, whose fruits of letters, noble, go ever further and higher than these fruits that last but an hour, in usefulness and dignity, as true delights of the soul?
Whereas the others concern the sense-work of the earthly body, there Schotanus's fruit lifts the souls upward to Heaven, towards God.
An immeasurable difference: this one of heaven, the other of earth!
The tongues in their variety, like laurels, wave about him:
that which ever adorned the Capitol, or the Areopagus;
wherein Adam praised God;
or that which the Rabbi, or the Syrian, or the brisk Arab, spoke from his nurse's lips: so that what was confounded at the building of Babel is united in him.
Whatever ever exalted a discourse, in measure, in richness of meaning, or in rightly fitted members;
the kernel of God's law; the measuring-line of virtue,
the upright school of morals, for the teaching of Youth;
yes, even of God's being the unfading knowledge is shown forth in him.
Now he feeds Christ's people with the mysteries of the soul;
now he thunders the law, and wakes the consciences from sleep;
then his mouth flows with comfort.
Ah, that my sluggish quill could picture the half of what this fruitful brain, out of year-books and chronicles, came to seek for the example and profit of Church and Land.
That splendour is too bright:
indeed it needs no stranger's praise; it adorns itself well.
The heroic deeds of the Frisians, from most ancient times, all but effaced, their rough manners, their Land, show themselves here alive in this praiseworthy Book. Here he also shows the rewarding of virtue with triumph, and dishonourable dealing with misfortune and shame. And that the passage from high to low estates must be left not to blind chance, but to God.
In short, here is a picture of what you must undertake, and what is to be left undone; here you may mirror your mind freely and without harm.

> O golden fruit of the soul! Who is it that rightly grasps > the wonder of your kernel, the uncommon blossoming > of this long-ennobled stem, on which these fruits grow:
> the letter-rich Schotaân > is the origin of this branch, on which these fruits stand.
> Who expects no fruit of letters from him who springs lettered, > whose trunk is lettered, and all that shoots out of it.
> What glory of the Frisian Fields > shows itself then in Schotaan! Up, free Frisian Heroes, > deck his crown with praise: wreathe his name with eternity's > laurels; and adorn with variety the upright dignity

[1] This capital letter is decorated with a group of little angels, to which decoration no significance should be attached, since it is nothing other than the capital letter H, ornamented with a vignette, of the Franeker printers Wellens, which decorated capital is for instance also found at the beginning of the "Toe-eyginghe" of the "Beschryvinge van de Heerlyckheydt van Frieslandt" by Christianus Schotanus, Johannes Wellens, 1664.

> Of these Histories
> In the midst of Your victory, and let them not miss their reward.
> J. Greydanus
> φ. καὶ φ. [1]"

Besides the fact that Johannes Greydanus wrote a poem on this book by Prof. Christianus Schotanus, he seems in one way or another to have cooperated in the production of the book, since in the Registratieboek (register) of the Betalingsordonnantiën (payment warrants) of the Frisian Rekenkamer (chamber of accounts) the following occurs:

> "25 March 1659. The Lord Professor Christianus Schotanus for the delivery of 140 bound books of the Friesche Chronicque at 16 £, is 2240 £, under deduction of 1000 £ (already paid out), and besides that also an order for the plates and other costs and trouble, these two items amounting together to 2240 £, on condition that the said Professor shall pay out to D^{o} Greidanus for his services rendered towards the advancement of the work, the sum of 200 £, thus an order for . . . . . f 2240.—"

From this Registratieboek it may further be inferred that Johannes Greydanus, before his appointment as Professor at Franeker, must have stood remarkably well "in favour" with the Frisian College of Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States), because the two following entries are registered in the said book:

> "21 July 1659. Joannis Greidanus on account of some pieces and disputations offered, granted together 75 £"
> "14 Jan. 1660. D^{o} Joannes Greidanus presented with 100 £"

The good understanding between Prof. Christianus Schotanus and Johannes Greydanus might be regarded as a confirmation of my supposition that the translator "Joan T. Greyde, Franeq." of "'t Rackouws Catechismus met syn Ondersoeck" by Joan Henricus Alstedius, and Johannes Greydanus are one and the same person. For in the preface of this little book (see above p. 74) Joan T. Greyde writes that Prof. Christianus Schotanus had judged an edition in Dutch of the Rackouw or Socinian Catechism with its refutation to be necessary, for which reason that Professor had pointed out to the Franeker printer Ids Albertsz. as a suitable work for that purpose the part "Theologiâ Polemicâ" of the Encyclopedia from the hand of Joh. Henricus Alstedius, first Professor of Philosophy and of Theology at Herborn, later at the Reformed University founded in 1629 at Weissenburg in Zevenbergen, and had asked that printer, since the said work was written in Latin, to request Joan T. Greyde to make a translation of it with his help. On this point it is possibly also of significance that, as is indicated in the Franeker list of inhabitants of 1640 (see the table included at p. 48), in that year, next to the parents of Johannes Greydanus, who was then 9 or 10 years old, Prof. Schotanus lived in the so-called Heinema-Huis on "de Greyde".

Now as regards the names Greyde and Greydanus, I take it that Johannes Theotardi first called himself Greyde, that in his student days, after the Rector had enrolled him as Greydanus, the Professors designated him by Greydanus, and that about the time of his doctorate in 1654 he adopted the name Greydanus.

It has already been stated that Johannes Greydanus took his doctorate at the Franeker University in philosophy and in medicine on 15 June 1654, thus after a period of study of 7 years.

In the books of the Academy the following is recorded concerning this promotion:

Diarium Actorum	[2] Journal of the Acts.
(Latin) "20 May 1654. On the twentieth of May 1654 there was admitted to the Philosophical and Medical examination D. Johannes Greidanus, of Franeker, and he entertained the Professors and others at more lav-	20 May 1654. On the twentieth of May 1654 there was admitted to the Philosophical and Medical examination the Lord Johannes Greidanus, of Franeker, and he entertained the Lords Professors and others at splendid banquets for two

[1] Ph. and Ph. = Philosopher and Philologist.

[2] My own translation into Dutch.

[the following two blocks are printed side by side, the Latin text in the left column and the Dutch translation in the right column.]

(Latin) ...for two days he entertained them, gloves being distributed to each according to the usual custom, yet only one pair of gloves."

Album studiosorum.

(Latin) "15 June 1654. Johannes Greydanus of Franeq. was promoted, publicly and solemnly, to Master of Arts by the Renowned Doctor A. Verhellio.

On the same day the same man was publicly promoted to Doctor of Medicine by the Renowned Doctor Frencelio."

days, gloves having been handed out according to ancient custom, though to each only one pair[1].

Album of the students.

15 June 1654. Promoted has been Johannes Greydanus of Franeker, publicly and in solemn manner, to Master of the liberal arts. He was promoted by the very Learned Doctor A. Verhel.

On the same day the same man was publicly promoted to Doctor of Medical science by the very Famous Doctor Frencelius.

Both the doctoral diploma concerning philosophy and that concerning medicine have been preserved; the first is in my possession and the second in that of Mr. Tjardus Greidanus at Amsterdam (N^{o} 455 of the genealogy). Furthermore, in the Provincial Library at Leeuwarden there is a printed volume containing poems on the promotion of Johannes Greydanus.

The contents of both doctoral diplomas, written on parchment with the Academy seal hanging from a ribbon in red wax, follow here, with my own Dutch translation beside them:

Doctoral diploma in Philosophy (see the reproduction of it further on)

[the following two blocks are printed side by side, the Latin original in the left column and the Dutch translation in the right column.]

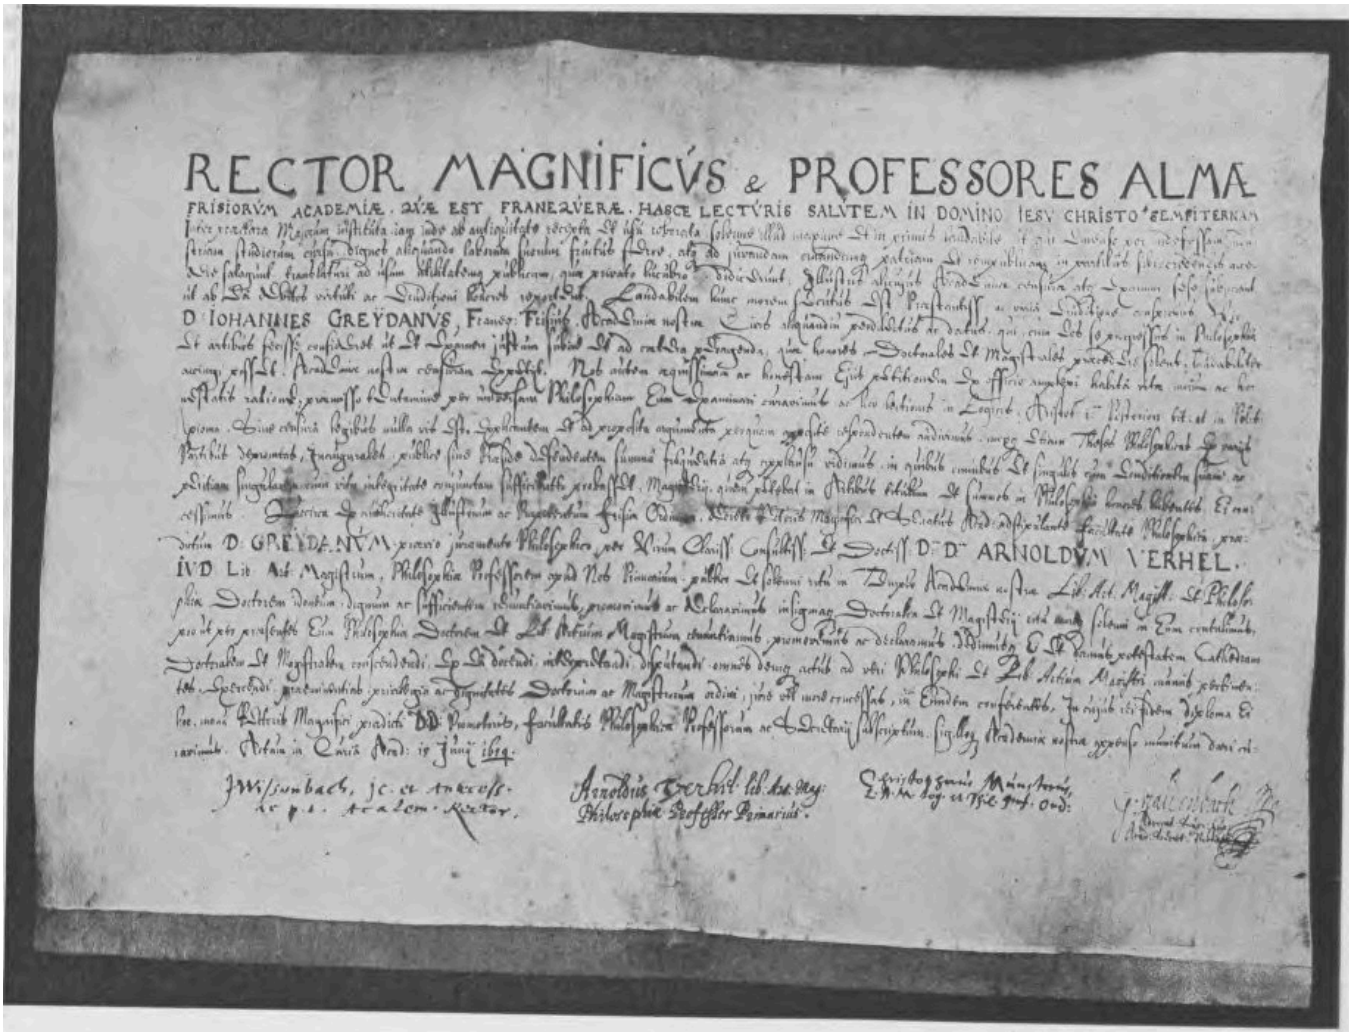
(Latin) "RECTOR MAGNIFICUS & PROFESSORS OF THE BOUNTIFUL Academy of the Frisians which is at Franeker, to those who shall read these letters, everlasting salvation in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Among the excellent institutions of our forefathers, received already from antiquity and strengthened by usage, that ceremony is especially and above all praiseworthy, that those who, having completed the course of their studies by untiring industry, strive at length to bear worthy fruits of their labours, and to come forward to aid and adorn the fatherland and the commonwealth in the tasks to be entrusted to them, about to apply to public use and profit what they have learned in private study by lamplight, submit themselves to the judgement and examination of some illustrious Academy, in order that they may obtain from it the honours due to ability and erudition. This praiseworthy custom has been followed by the most excellent Man, conspicuous for manifold erudition, Mr. IOHANNES GREYDANVS, of Franeq., a Frisian, for some time a most beloved and learned citizen of our Academy, who, since he trusted that he had made such progress in Philosophy and the arts that he could both undergo a proper examination and gird himself in praiseworthy fashion for accomplishing the rest which usually precedes the Doctoral and Magisterial honours, requested the judgement of our Academy. We, however, having in duty embraced His most equitable and honourable petition, and having taken account of His life, morals and integrity, after a preliminary trial had Him examined throughout the whole of Philosophy, and, in place of a lecture, we heard Him expounding in Logic, Aristot: 1^{um} Posterior: tit:, and in Politics the Axiom: Without judgement the laws have no force; and answering most aptly to the arguments proposed; and soon we also saw Him publicly defending, without a chairman, Inaugural Philosophical Theses drawn from various Parts, with the greatest attendance[?] and applause, in all and each of which we approved His erudition. Wherefore, by the authority of the Illustrious and most Powerful [Estates] of Friesland

RECTOR MAGNIFICUS AND PROFESSORS OF THE PROSPERITY-SPREADING ACADEMY of the Frisians at Franeker, to those who shall read these letters, everlasting salvation in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Among the excellent institutions of the ancients, adopted already from olden times and confirmed by usage, that ceremony is indeed greatly and especially praiseworthy, that those who with untiring diligence have completed their Academic studies, and who endeavour once to pluck the worthy fruits of their exertion, and to offer themselves to help the fatherland and the public cause, and to be active in the task which must be entrusted to them, while they will apply to the public use and profit that which they have learned personally and by sitting up at night, submit themselves to the judgement and examination of some renowned Academy, in order that they may obtain from it the titles of honour due to their ability and learning. This laudable custom has been followed by the most excellent Man, distinguished in various branches of learning, Mr. JOHANNES GREYDANUS, of Franeker in Friesland, for some time a much beloved citizen of our Academy and therewith very learned, who, when he trusted that he had made such progress in Philosophy and the arts that he could both undergo a proper examination and gird himself in laudable fashion for the accomplishment of the rest which usually precedes the Doctoral and Magisterial titles of honour, asked for the judgement of our Academy. We, then, have officially accepted His most equitable and seemly request, and, having taken account of His life, morals and integrity, and having let an examination of Philosophy as a whole precede, have had Him examined. And at the lecture in Logicis, Aristot: 1^{nn} Posteriori tit., and in Politics, we have heard Him expound the axiom: "without judgement the laws must have no force whatsoever", and answer most fittingly to the arguments proposed. And soon we have also, philosophical theses, taken from various parts of Philo-

[1] The meaning of this custom is unknown to me. According to the description by Mr. W. B. S. Boeles of the Franeker Academy (Part I, page 371), it was laid down by a Senate resolution of 22 March 1648, among other things, that at private promotions f 1.— had to be paid for the pair of gloves. In the case of Dr. Joh. Greydanus the pair of gloves came into question, because he took his doctorate twice on the same day; therefore it was accepted that by way of exception he could make do with one pair. These gloves seem to have had to be paid for only at private promotions; on the ground of pages 93, 365 and 369 of the aforementioned Boeles I am inclined to assume that the public promotions took place in the Academy church, the private ones in the Senate hall (the Curia Academiae). The private promotions will therefore have been the rule, the public ones (promotions more Majorum or promotions "with the cap") the exception.



RECTOR MAGNIFICVS & PROFESSORES ALMÆ
FRISIORVM ACADEMIÆ. QVÆ EST FRANEQVERÆ. HASCE LECTVRIS SALVTEM IN DOMINO IESV CHRISTO SEMPITERNAM
D IOHANNES GREYDANVS, ARNOLDVM VERHEL.

Doctoral diploma in Philosophy for Johannes Greydanus dated 15 June 1654 (much reduced).

Academy seal hanging from the doctoral diploma (actual size).

(Latin) of the Estates, by decree of the Rector Magnificus and of the Academic Senate, with the concurrence of the Philosophical Faculty, we have proclaimed, promoted and declared the aforesaid Mr. GREYDANUS, after the philosophical oath had first been taken, through the most Renowned, most Judicious and most Learned Gentleman, Mr. Arnoldvm Verhel, Doctor of both Laws, Master of the Liberal Arts, our Primary Professor of Philosophy, publicly and by solemn rite in the Church of our Academy, a fit, worthy and sufficient Master of the Liberal Arts and Doctor of Philosophy, and we have conferred upon Him the insignia of the Doctorate and of the Mastership according to solemn rite and custom, just as by these presents we proclaim, promote and declare Him Doctor of Philosophy and Master of the Liberal Arts, and we have given and give Him the power to ascend the Doctoral and Magisterial Chair, to teach from it, to interpret, to dispute, and finally to perform all acts pertaining to the office of a true Philosopher and Master of the Liberal Arts, conferring upon Him the pre-eminences, privileges and dignities granted by right or by custom to the order of Doctors and Masters. In witness whereof we have caused this diploma to be given to Him, signed by the hand of the Rector Magnificus, of the aforesaid Mr. the Promotor, of the Professors of the Philosophical Faculty and of the Secretary, and confirmed by the appended seal of our Academy. Done in the Senate Hall of the Academy, 15 June 1654

J. Wissenbach, jurisconsult and antecessor[1] and for the time being Rector of the Academy.
Arnoldús Verhel, Master of the Liberal Arts, Primary Professor of Philosophy
Christophorús Munsterús
Master of the Liberal Arts, ordinary Professor of Logic and Philosophy:
G. Kaldenbach
Advocate of the Supreme Court.
Secretary and Librarian of the Academy."

sophy, and which served for his promotion, publicly, without the help of the Praeses, in a very numerous assembly and amid applause. In which matters, all together and each separately, we then also acknowledged his learning. Wherefore we, by virtue of the Illustrious authority of the Deputed States of Friesland, according to the resolution of the Rector Magnificus and of the Academic Senate, with the consent of the Philosophical Faculty, have proclaimed, promoted and declared the aforesaid Mr. GREYDANUS, after the previous taking of the oath in Philosophy, through the most Renowned and most Knowledgeable and most Learned Gentleman, Mr. Arnoldus Verhel, Doctor of both laws, Master of the Liberal Arts, first Professor of Philosophy with us, publicly and in solemn manner in the temple of our Academy, Master of the Liberal Arts and a fit and worthy and sufficiently competent Doctor of Philosophy, and have conferred upon Him the doctoral insignia and those of the Mastership in solemn manner and fashion; in accordance wherewith we hereby proclaim, promote and declare Him Doctor of Philosophy and Master of the Liberal Arts. And we have given Him, and give Him, the doctoral and magisterial power to ascend the Chair and from it to teach, to expound, to dispute, in short to perform all acts which belong to the office of the true Philosopher and Master of the Liberal Arts, while we transfer to the Same the excellences, privileges and dignities granted by right or by custom to the rank of doctors and masters. In proof whereof we have caused to be given to Him this diploma, signed by the hand of the Rector Magnificus, the aforesaid Gentleman, Mr. the Promotor, and by those of the Professors of the Philosophical Faculty and of the Secretary, and confirmed by the appending of the seal of our Academy. Done in the Senate Hall of the Academy, 15 June 1654.

J. Wissenbach, jurist and Professor of Law, and for the time of the current year Rector of the Academy.
Arnoldús Verhel, Master of the Liberal Arts, First Professor of Philosophy.
Christophorus Munsterus, Master of the Liberal Arts, ordinary Professor of Logic and Philosophy.
G. Kaldenbach
Advocate at the Supreme Court of Justice
Secretary and Librarian of the Academy.

Doctoral Diploma in Medicine.

"(Latin) THE RECTOR MAGNIFICUS & THE PROFESSORS OF THE FOSTERING ACADEMY OF THE FRISIANS WHICH IS AT FRANEQÚERÆ, TO THOSE WHO SHALL READ THESE LINES, GREETING IN OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST.

That praiseworthy institution is not of recent date, nor born in this latter age, that those who have given themselves wholly to a faculty, an art or a science, the course of their studies being completed, at last, being about to betake themselves to the com-

THE RECTOR MAGNIFICUS AND THE PROFESSORS OF THE PROSPERITY-BESTOWING ACADEMY OF THE FRISIANS AT FRANEKER, TO THOSE WHO SHALL READ THESE LINES, GREETING IN OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST.

Not of recent date, nor arisen only in this century, is the praiseworthy institution that those who had devoted themselves wholly to the faculty, to the art or to the science, after the completion of their academic career, when at last they shall

[1] Antecessor. According to the Realenzyklopädie of Paulus Wissawa the title "antecessor" is (German) "late Latin"; it was the title of a teacher of Law, of whom 8 were appointed under Justinian. Professor Wissenbach evidently intended to revive this state of affairs; the "antecessor" was thus a Professor of Law among the Jurists. In the Woordenboek van de Grieksche en Romeinsche Oudheid by Dr. J. G. Schlimmer and Dr. Z. C. de Boer one finds on page 57 that "Antecessores" in a figurative sense were "pioneers" in some branch of learning, chiefly in Jurisprudence.
According to the "Geslacht der Schotanussen" described by Mr. J. H. Beucker Andreæ in the Friesche Volksalmanakken of 1849 and the following years, Dr. Henricus Schotanus was in 1585 among the seven first Professors at the Franeker University as Juris antecessor, which honourable post he filled alone for 11 years, until in 1596 he obtained Julius van Beijma as a colleague (see Friesche Volksalmanak of 1850, page 90).

[the page has two columns: the Latin text of the diploma at the left, the Dutch translation at the right.]

(Latin) ...devote themselves to the common practice of ordinary life, should submit themselves to the judgement and the examination of some Illustrious Academy, in order to carry off from it the honours due to their diligence and learning. This praiseworthy custom has been followed by the most Accomplished Man, distinguished by manifold learning, Mr. IOHANNES GREIDANUS, a Frisian of Franeq;, for a considerable time a most beloved Citizen of our Academy, who, since he trusted that he had made such progress in the Medical faculty and science that he could both undergo a proper examination and gird himself in praiseworthy manner for the other matters which are wont to precede the Doctoral honours, set forth to Us his wish and desire concerning the obtaining of the highest degree in the aforesaid Medical faculty, and at the same time offered himself for the solemn acts which are required for that degree. We, however, having by virtue of our office embraced His most just and honourable petition, having taken account of his life, morals and uprightness, after a preliminary trial had Him examined in the whole of Medicine, and heard Him treat Aphorism 30 of section 7, "Those in whom, through discharges of the belly, the excrements of the belly are foamy, etc.", and answer exceedingly well and aptly to the subjects proposed, and soon after we also saw Him defend publicly, without a President, an Inaugural Medical Disputation on Intestinal Worms, before a very large gathering and with the greatest applause; and since He had proved in every respect his remarkable learning, knowledge, and integrity of morals and of life to this Academy and to the whole Senate, we held and deemed Him worthy, fit and sufficient, that upon Him the Highest Degree in Medicine should be conferred solemnly and publicly according to custom. Wherefore, by the authority of the Illustrious and most Powerful Estates of Friesland, by decree of the Rector Magnificus and of the whole Academic Senate, with the agreement and consent of the Medical faculty, we have publicly and solemnly in the Academic church proclaimed, promoted and declared the aforesaid Mr. IOHANNES GREYDANUS, after the previous lawful oath, through the most Famous, most Prudent and most Learned Man, Mr. Ioachimus Frencelius, First Professor of Medicine with Us, Doctor of Medicine, fit and worthy, and we have conferred on Him the Doctoral insignia according to solemn rite and custom, just as by these presents we proclaim, promote and declare Him Doctor of Medicine, and we have given Him and give Him the power to teach that science publicly, to interpret, to dispute from it, to consult, to comment, to ascend the Doctoral Chair, likewise to confer honours on one who is worthy, in short to use and enjoy all (should be "omnes") honours, rights and privileges of Doctors, here and in every place. In witness whereof we have caused this Diploma to be given to Him, subscribed by the hand of the Rector Magnificus, of the aforesaid Mr. Promotor, of the Professors of the Medical faculty and of the Secretary, and sealed with the greater Academic seal. Done in the Senate hall of the Academy, 15 June 1654.

J. Wissenbach, jurist and professor of law, and for the current year Rector of the Academy Joachim Frenceliús, Doctor of Philosophy and of Medicine, Professor of this faculty and of Anatomy, Promotor.
Philippus Matthaeus, Doctor of Medicine, professor of the same and also of Botany Arnoldús Verhel, Professor of Philosophy and Assessor of the Medical faculty Bernardus Fullenius, Professor of Mathematics and Assessor of the Medical Faculty.
G. Kaldenbach,

devote themselves to the common practice of ordinary life, submit themselves to the judgement and to the examination of some Illustrious Academy, in order to obtain from it the honours due to their diligence and to their knowledge. This praiseworthy custom has been followed by the very Gifted Man, distinguished by many-sided knowledge, Mr. JOHANNES GREIDANUS, from Franeker in Friesland, for a rather long time a much-beloved Citizen of our Academy, who, when he was confident that he had made sufficient progress in the Medical faculty and science both to be able to undergo the examination and also to be able in praiseworthy manner to gird himself for the other activities which are wont to precede the obtaining of the Doctoral dignities, set forth to Us his wish and desire concerning the obtaining of the highest degree in the aforesaid Medical faculty, and at the same time offered himself for the solemn acts which are required for the obtaining of that degree. We now, having by virtue of our official function approved His request, most just and honourable as it was, have, after taking account of life, morals and uprightness, after the preliminary holding of a tentamen on the whole of Medicine, subjected Him to an examination and had Him treat aphorism n^{o} 30 from the 7th section, "those in whom the excrements of the belly are foamy through substances secreted by that belly, etc.", and heard him answer excellently well and aptly on the subjects put before him; thereafter we also saw Him defend a Medical Disputation, serving for inauguration, on the Intestinal Worms, in public, without the help of the Chairman, before a very large audience and with great applause; and since He had shown in every field an uncommon knowledge, learning and at the same time a spotlessness of morals and of life to this Academy and to the whole Senate, we have held and deemed Him fit and sufficient for bestowing upon Him the highest Degree in Medicine solemnly and publicly according to current usage. It is therefore for that reason that we, by virtue of the Illustrious authority of the Gedeputeerde Staten (deputed states) of Friesland, according to the decision of the Rector Magnificus and of the whole Academic Senate, with the approval and consent of the Medical faculty, have proclaimed the aforesaid Mr. JOHANNES GREYDANUS, after the lawful oath had previously been taken, under the promotorship of the most illustrious and highly learned Mr. Joachimus Frencelius, first Professor of Medicine with Us, in public and solemnly in the Academic Temple, Doctor of Medicine, have promoted Him to that rank and declare Him fit and worthy thereto, and bestow on Him the Doctoral insignia according to solemn usage and custom, just as we hereby also proclaim, promote and declare Him Doctor of Medicine, while we have at the same time given to Him and still give the authority publicly to teach that science, to dispute about it, to consult, to explain, to ascend the Doctoral Chair, to bestow honours on someone who is as worthy of them as He, in short to use and to enjoy all honours, every right and all privileges of a Doctor, both here and in any other place. In proof of this fact we have had this diploma handed to Him, signed by the hand of the Rector Magnificus, of the aforesaid Mr., the Mr. Promotor, of the Professors of the Medical faculty and of the Secretary, and sealed with the great Academic seal. Done in the Senate hall of the Academy 15 June 1654.

J. Wissenbach, Jurist and Prof. of Law, and for the duration of the current year Academic Rector.

[left column]
(Latin) Advocate of the Supreme Court
Secretary and Librarian of the Academy."
[right column]
Joachim Frencelius, Phil. and Med.
Doct., Professor in this faculty and in Anatomy, Promotor.
Philippus Matthaeus, Med. Doct.
Prof. of Medicine and of Botany Arnoldus Verhel Philos. Prof.
and Assessor of the Medical faculty.
Bernardus Fullenius Math.
Prof. and Assessor of the Med. Faculty.
G. Kaldenbach
Advocate at the Supreme Court
Secretary and Librarian of the Academy.

The volume of Promotion Poems bears the following title, with my own translation into Dutch beside it:

[left column]
(Latin) Applause from his own countryman to the most fortunate Inauguration of the most deserving Young Man of rare learning,
D. IOHANNIS GREYDANI, of Franeker in Friesland, dedicated from the heart,

when to Him by the most weighty and most celebrated Philosopher,
D. Arnoldo Verhel, A. L. M.
J. U. D. and first Professor of Philosophy,
in Philosophy,
And by the most renowned and most experienced Physician,
D. Ioachimo Frencelio, L. A. M.
Doctor of Medicine and ordinary Professor of this subject and of Anatomy, in Medicine
the highest Honour and Privileges on both sides, with no common praise, deservedly and by the wish of all, were assigned 15 Jun. M.DC.LIV
At Franeker
Printed by Idzardus Alberti, Printer at the Franeker Academy, 1654.
[right column]
Applause from his own country at the most fortunate inauguration of the highly deserving young man endowed with rare [learning
the Heer IOHANNIS GREYDANUS of Franeker in Friesland, heartily dedicated to him when to him by the most worthy, most renowned Heer Arnoldus Verhel A. L. M.
J. U. D. and first Professor of Philosophy,
in Philosophy
and by the most famous and most experienced physician the Heer Ioachim Frencelius L. A. M.
Doctor of Medicine and ordinary Professor in that subject and in Anatomy,
in Medicine,
on both sides the highest honours and privileges with extraordinary praise and the congratulation of all were assigned on 15 June 1654
At Franeker
Printed by Ids Alberts, printer at the Franeker Academy, 1654.

A reproduction of this title page is given overleaf.

The volume contains the following poems; beside the Latin poems and beside the Frisian poem my own Dutch translation has been placed:

[left column]
(Latin) It pleases me not to borrow anything from the ancient rites of the Bards, nor to celebrate with many words the shining Gown, or to raise the Caps to the upper air with proud praise;
nor does it please me, with pomp, to proclaim with my own boastful praises how your Ring displays itself on every side, with which your left hand gleams at your left.
It shudders also to relate the honours of the gilded Chain, nor does it please, (to say it in one word:) to fashion heraldings of praise for the Degrees which the purple Senate, according to custom, confers upon You.
But I shall report what your Person requires.
For those things are common to the unworthy and the worthy alike, apt to be conferred upon the rich before the poor.
These other things suit none but those distinguished by much Art.
And while you are brought forth upon this stage of Glory and of Art, your living virtue, GREYDANE, kindles my mind with its splendour, and wearies my whole breast, so that I cannot shake off the Aonian Muses, marvelling stupefied within myself that every moment of the time you have spent so bravely, whence it would have been permitted you to enjoy an earlier prosperity.
That you should not seek it sooner, this decision stood against it, which now at last willed your Wishes thus to prevail.
It is more to have deserved Honour and to have gained it late, than to have poured oneself out in headlong course. Soon enough, if well enough. But we have seen all things proceed well enough, and [seen you] hurling mighty forces into battle,

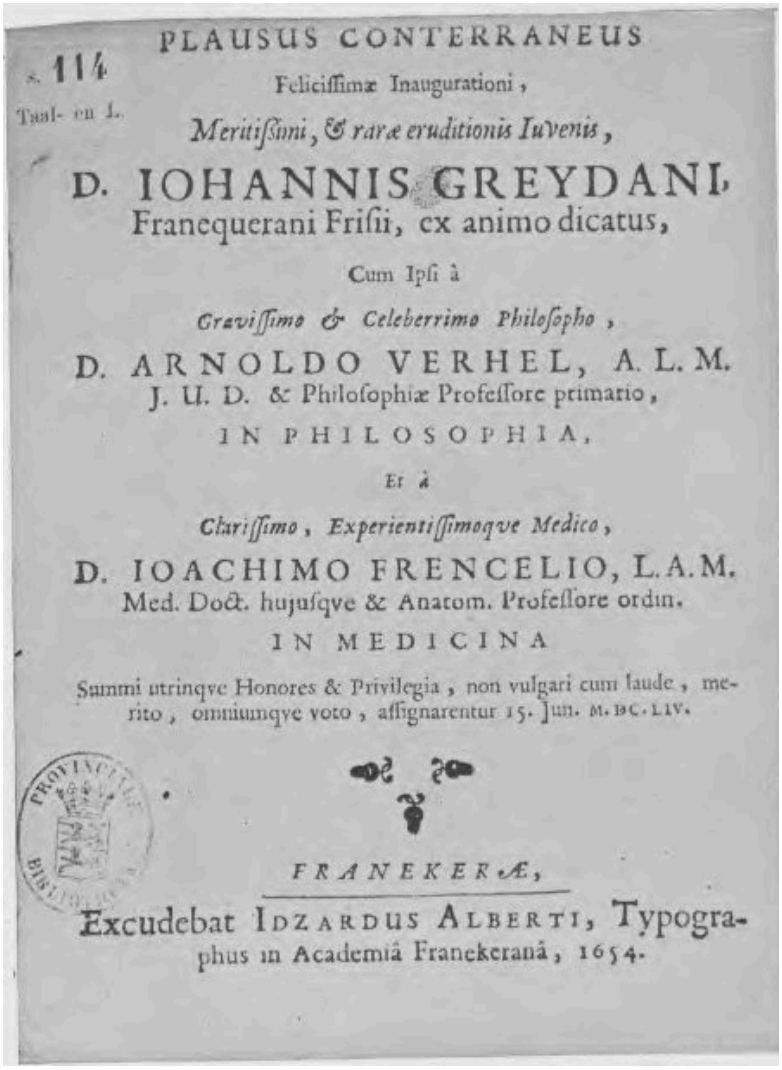
[right column]
[1] It does not please me to borrow anything whatsoever from the ancient usages of the poet-singer and to glorify with many words the doctoral gown that shines and gleams, or to raise the doctors' caps with proud praise to the upper air. It does not please me to expatiate before the public, with high-sounding praise of my own, upon the splendour with which Your ring, which makes Your left hand sparkle at Your left side, displays itself on every side. It displeases me to tell of the honour of the gold chain. Nor do I wish to make a sounding of praise, to say it in one word, about the purple ranks which the Senate, according to custom, causes to come to You. No, I shall only mention that which Your person requires. For those first-named things are common, to the unworthy together with the worthy, and fit to be granted to the rich before the poor; these things, on the contrary, are suited solely to those who distinguish themselves by a great amount of learning or art. And during the time that You have been allowed to appear on this stage of fame and of learning, O GREIDANUS, the living force of virtue of Your soul has kindled my own spirit with its lustre, and it overwhelms my whole breast, so that I am unable to shake off the Aonian Muses, while in bewilderment I marvel within myself that every

[1] In prose.



PLAUSUS CONTERRANEUS

Felicissimæ Inaugurationi,

Meritissimi, & raræ eruditionis Iuvenis,

D. IOHANNIS GREYDANI,

Franequerani Frisii, ex animo dicatus,

Cum Ipsi à

Gravissimo & Celeberrimo Philosopho,

D. ARNOLDO VERHEL, A. L. M.

J. U. D. & Philosophiæ Professore primario,

IN PHILOSOPHIA,

Et à

Clarissimo, Experientissimoque Medico,

D. IOACHIMO FRENCELIO, L.A.M.

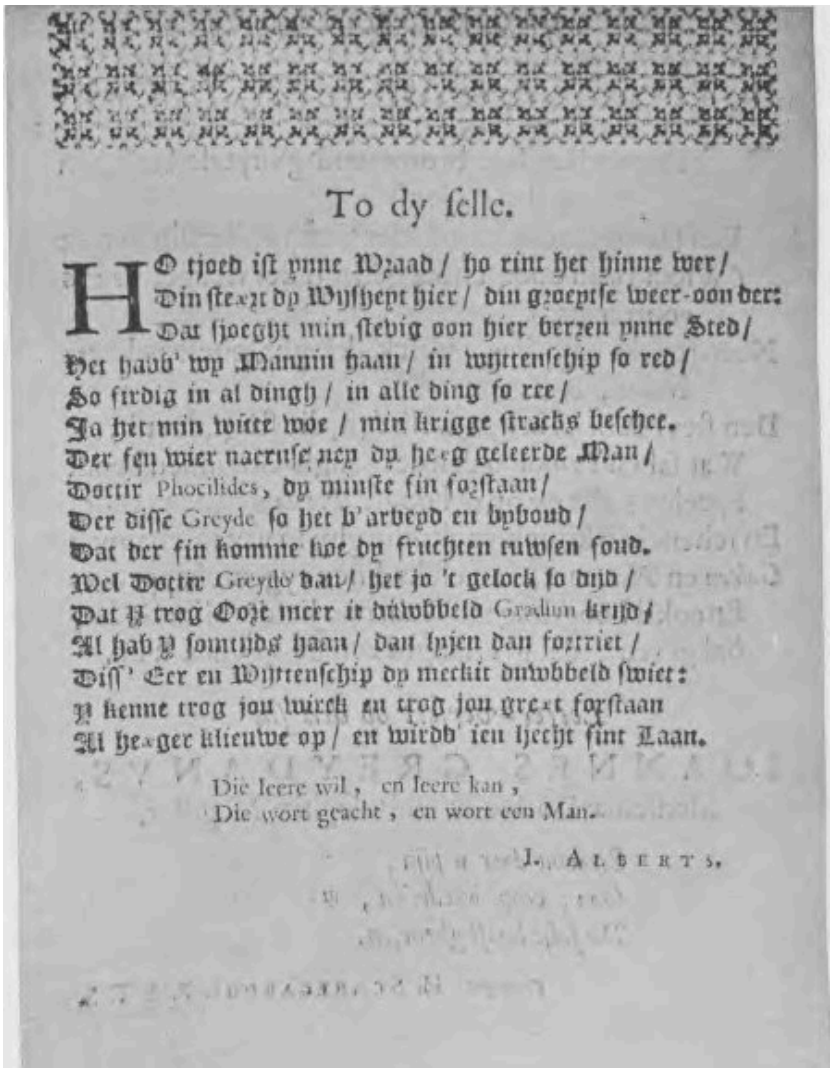
Med. Doct. hujusque & Anatom. Professore ordin.

IN MEDICINA

Summi utrinque Honores & Privilegia, non vulgari cum laude, merito, omniumque voto, assignarentur 15. Jun. M.DC.LIV.

FRANEKERÆ,

Excudebat IDZARDUS ALBERTI, Typographus in Academiâ Franekeranâ, 1654.



To dy ſelle.

HO tjoed iſt ynne Wzaad / ho rint het hinne wer /
Din ſtexzt dy Wyſhept hier / din gzoeptſe weer-oon der:
Dat ſjoeght min ſtevig oon hier berzen ynne Sted /
Het haud' wy Mannin haan / in wyttenſchip ſo red /
So firdig in al dingh / in alle ding ſo ree /
Ja het min witte woe / min krigge ſtrachs beſchee.
Der ſen wier naeruſe nep dy he-g geleerde Man /
Doctir Phocilides, dy minſte ſin foꝛſtaan /
Der diſſe Greyde ſo het b'arbeyd en byboud /
Dat der fin komme koe dy fruchten ruwſen ſoud.
Wel Doctir Greydo dan / het jo 't geloch ſo dyd /
Dat y trog Ooze meer ir dúwbbeld Gradum kryd /
Al hab y ſomtyds haan / dan lyjen dan foꝛtriet / Diſſ' Eer en Wyttenſchip dy meckit dúwbbeld ſwiet:
y kenne trog jou wirck en trog jou gre-t foꝛſtaan
Al he-ger klieuwe op / en wirdb' ien ljecht ſint Laan.

Die leere wil, en leere kan,
Die wort geacht, en wort een Man.

J. ALBERTS.

Title page of and Frisian poem (by I. Alberts) from a Collection of poems on the promotion dated 15 June M.DC.LIV of Iohannis Greydanus to Doctor of Philosophy and to Doctor of Medicine (see page 83) (somewhat reduced).

[the page is set in two parallel columns, the Latin text at the left and the Dutch translation at the right]

(Latin) To which forces avowed enemies too gladly submitted themselves, having this as an outstanding consolation, that thus, GREYDANE, they fell, driven back by the sword of your genius, and rejoicing that contrary destinies were repaid by other turns of destiny. The Victory gained was the greater, the greater the spirits and the strengths that anyone who meets you in the opposing ranks has brought into contact with You.
Thus, even where You are overcome, You stand as Victor, and You take up the green Crown, blessed with everlasting foliage, which the deserved favour of Astræa has woven. Lo! the Goddess of the priests herself bade You hold this, and with pious hands place it upon Your consecrated head!
Duly performed are the sacred rites, which the public Order assisted with vow-uttering voices and with prayers. Will anyone dare, or even desire, to reckon it a fault in me that I attempt to join myself to all others? Public joys have always passed over into general participation; from the common gladness each one takes on for himself one and the same countenance. In the same way all things run together again into one;
thus the public stirrings arise out of the private ones.
Lo! I therefore pray to God, who has blessed You with these gifts of genius, and has granted You to enjoy the use of them, that He may henceforth make Your endeavours prosperous, so that You may be a sweet support to the cast-down sick, and in Your fatherland, FRIEND, a praiseworthy Prophet.

This unpolished piece was, without the favour of Minerva, bestowed upon a Countryman, Fellow-combatant and Housemate, most exceedingly Beloved, by Nicolaus ab Amama
S. F. Jun. Φ Χ Φ.

(Latin) OCTASTICHON TO THE SAME.

Let arms give place to the toga, let the soldier take rest, his war-coat laid aside, and let the Muses, the nurslings of Helicon, be strong anew, and let them grant the rewards of valour to their own nurslings;
and since You, GREIDANE, are second to none of these,
after so much sweat and so much toil accomplished, come hither, hither, to carry off a twofold reward.
We wish unceasingly that You may enjoy it through very many ages and that You may pour out Your benefits over the Frisian Lands.
Written by a friend to a friend
Johannes Verhel.

moment of the time in which You could have tasted enjoyment through Your earlier prosperity has been so bravely spent by You. That You did not set out more quickly was opposed by this maxim, which now at last has willed that Your heart's wishes should be granted thus: "It means more to have fully deserved the ornament and to have obtained it late, than to have flung oneself out into the open with a headlong race. It goes quickly enough, if it goes well." That here, however, everything went well enough, we have seen; we have seen You hurl forth Your vigorous strength in the combats, to which strength even acknowledged enemies have gladly submitted themselves, while they had in a certain sense this as a choice consolation, that they fell down, driven back by the sword of Your genius, O GREIDANUS, and rejoiced that the contrary destinies were made good by other turns of fate. The victory gained was the greater, the greater the souls and the greater the powers that it brought into contact with You, no matter who it is that fights in the opposing ranks. Thus You remain in the field as victor, even there where You are defeated, and You take up the green wreath, blessed with evergreen foliage, which the deserved favour of Astræa has woven. Behold. The goddess of the priests herself bids You hold this wreath fast and place it upon Your consecrated head with pious hands. Duly performed are the ceremonies which the public order supported with vow-uttering voices and prayers. Will anyone, whoever it may be, dare to take it ill of me, or even have the desire for this, that I make an attempt to join myself to all the others? For with public rejoicings it has come to general participation. From the common gladness each one for himself derives one and the same countenance. In the same way everything runs together again; thus the public stirrings arise out of the private ones. Behold, I therefore pray to God, who has blessed You with these gifts of genius and has allowed You to enjoy the use of them, that He may for the future make Your endeavours prosperous, so that You may be a sweet support for the cast-down sick and in Your fatherland, You FRIEND, a praiseworthy prophet.

This artless applause was, without the favour of Minerva, bestowed upon a Countryman, Fellow-combatant and Housemate, most exceedingly Beloved, by

Nicolaus van Amama

S.z^n^ Jun. student of letters and philosophy.

EIGHT-LINE LITTLE POEM TO THE SAME.

[1] May the weapons make way for the garment of peace, let the soldier take his rest after laying aside his war-coat, and let the Muses, the nurslings of the Mount of Song, be of force anew and grant rewards of valour to their own nurslings. And since You, GREIDANUS, need yield to none of these last, You must, after so much sweat and so much drudging labour, step forward hither, to receive a pair of rewards. We hope that You may enjoy them continually during very many ages and that You may pour out Your benefits over the Frisian lands.

Written by friend to friend
Johannes Verhel.[2]

---

[1] In prose.

[2] A son of the above-named Prof. Arnoldus Verhel at Franeker.

The little poem by I. à Geroltsma F.F. reproduced on page 187.

Eidem	To the same.
Piërides resonate lyrâ & Crinitus Apollo Stemma brevi necte, en mox tibi sponsus adest:	[1] Song-goddesses, resound with the lyre, and you curly-locked Apollo, weave a wreath in a short time; behold, soon a bridegroom is present with You, a bridegroom of the Muses. You Muses, cheer him. It is the bridegroom. He has come, he is here, sing, so that the echo calls. M/uses/: we sing.

Eidem	To the same.
Sponsus Musarum, Musæ vos plaudite, Nymphus Venit, adest, canite, ut clamet Echo. M. Canimus.
Hâc nulla lux felicior, Nullus dies acceptior, Venit, cadit, finivimus, Hic quam dies, qûo vivimus.	[2] No day was ever happier No dawn more refreshing Ever came or went or was driven away Than this day, which we are living.
Nam Nymphus acceptabilis Qui maximè est amabilis! Adest; agonis Gloriam Canamus & Victoriam.	For behold the bridegroom so desired For whom everyone's breast trembles Is here; let us sing the Glory Of this contest and its Victory.
Salve, veni det Jupiter Tibi Triumphum jugiter: Salve, precor Sic gaudia Durent tibi per sæcula.	Hail, come, and graciously May Jupiter give You triumph continually Hail, thus may, I pray, the hours of joy Endure for You through the ages.
En Stemmate hôc, quod neximus, E Floribus contexuimus Te cingimus. Victoria. Tibi Magister Gloria.	With this wreath, which we wove And were allowed to weave together out of flowers, We gird You; Victory For You, Master, Glory.
Nunc gratulamur; porriges, Fac, dexteram, qui Doctor es GREYDANE, sis cape annulum, Qui cingat, ornet dactylum.	We congratulate You; You shall hold out to us Your right hand, You who as Doctor may shine GREYDANUS, take then, if You please, this ring So that it may gird and adorn Your finger.
Salve, vale, cantavimus Serva tibi, qûo ornavimus. Hic sit tibi Victoria Post-hac Heer Doctor Gloria.	Hail, we shall sing no further Keep for Yourself the ring bestowed on You May it be for You Victory Hereafter, Sir Doctor, Glory.
Vtcumque H. Schregardus. Ph. & Th. Stud.	However that may be H. Schregardus Stud. in Philos. and Theol. [3]

AGAIN.

Since the joy-rich Host /Patronesses of playing,
By whose sweetly humming sound the woods beget an echo,
Reaches down a honey-sweet stream of the gods' immortal liquid (Whose spring gushes forth from the hoofbeat of the winged horse)
To those whom the fire of learning urges to climb
The steep Parnassi summit, which makes anyone who climbs pant.
What then, Greydan', shall the band of song-goddesses
Play for you? you who run on the highest Parnassi paths,
And pour out cool moisture? you who in the sciences
Galeen and Plato challenge, concerning the properties of every thing,
And also the bow-bearing God with love's blind Goddess, Shall grant that you obtain a spouse after your own heart.

The “Letter-versett” by the aforementioned H. Schregardus, reproduced on page 187.

Tot dy selle.	To the same.
Ho tjoed ist ynne Wraad/ ho rint het binne wer/	[1] How bad it is on the Earth, how it runs to and fro,
Din steært dy Wijsheyt hier/ din groeytse weer-oon der:	Then Wisdom dies here, then she grows there again very [much:
Dat sjoeght min stevig oon hier berren ynne Sted/	One keeps seeing this happen here in the Town
Het habb' wy Mannin haan/ in wijttenschip so red/	What men we have had, so quick in learning,
So firdig in al dingh/ in alle ding so ree/	So able in every thing, in every thing so ready
Ja het min witte woe/ min krigge straks beschee.	Indeed, whatever one wished to know, one got the answer at once.
Der fen wier naernse ney dy heæg geleerde Man/	In no single respect was the highly learned Man
Doctir PHOCILIDES, dy minste fin forstaan/	Doctor PHOCILIDES the least of them in understanding,
Der disse GREYDE so het b'arbeyd en byboud/

[1] In prose.

[2] In freely translated poetry.

[3] Henricus Schregardus, born at Franeker in 1636. He became Med. Dr. and Candidate in Theology; called as Dutch Reformed minister in 1663 at Rinsumageest and in 1683 at Dokkum, † 6 June 1702.

> (Frisian)
> That thereof the fruits could come a thousandfold.
> Well then, Doctor Greyde, fortune has so prospered you
> That, like more others, you received a double Degree,
> Though you have sometimes had, now suffering, now sorrow,
> This Honour and Learning makes it doubly sweet:
> Through your work and through your great understanding you can
> Climb ever higher, and become a light of the Land.
> He who will learn, and can learn,
> Is esteemed, and becomes a Man.
> I. Alberts.
>
> Who has so laboured on and cultivated this GREYDE,
> That thereof the fruits could come: a thousandfold.
> Well then, Doctor Greyde, fortune has so visited you
> That, like others besides, you might receive a double Degree, > Though you have sometimes had, now suffering, then misfortune,
> This Honour and Learning makes it doubly sweet:
> Through your work and through your great understanding you can
> Climb ever higher, and become a light of the Land.
> He who will learn, and can learn,
> Is esteemed, and becomes a Man.
> I. Alberts.

In both diplomas and in the volume of poems it is confirmed that Johannes Greydanus, who thus took his doctorate in philosophy, after the defence of a disputation on theses taken from various parts of philosophy, and in medicine, after the defence of a disputation on the intestinal worms, was a native of Franeker.

The volume of doctoral poems, and in particular the poem in Frisian by I. Alberts, has been discussed in an article: “Nye Rispinge fen Midfrysk” by Dr. G. A. Wumkes, Librarian of the Provincial Library of Friesland, in N^{o} 50 of 17 December 1927 of the weekly “Sljucht en Rjucht”, published at Leeuwarden.

The beginning of the article, which occurs on pages 829 and 830 of this periodical, follows here, with the translation into Dutch beside it.

[the following two texts are printed side by side in two columns, the Frisian text at the left, the Dutch translation at the right.]

> (Frisian)
>
> “New Harvest of > Middle Frisian.
>
> One of the most progressive professors at Franeker in the field of 17th-century philosophy was DR. JOHANNES GREIDANUS, a true innovator. When he did not yet even have the professor's gown about his shoulders, and as a private lecturer gave his pupils instruction in philosophy, he already came into bad repute on account of his new ideas, and the Senate forbade his first disputation: De Idea logicae novo-antiqua (Fran. 1659), because of the heterodox and paradoxical matter that was in it. But the curators of the Academy were on his side, and when a chair fell vacant they nominated him as professor (1660). Not long, however, did he fill his office. On the 4th of July 1668 death put an end to his life.
>
> For this scholar, who died early, the fifteenth day of the summer month was a festive day. What does not often occur in academic life happened then, namely taking the doctorate in two faculties at once. The deserving young man of rare learning was made doctor in philosophy and in medicine with distinction, to the honour of himself and of his native town Frjentsjer. He then defended a Disputatio at theses ex variis philosophiae partibus depromtas and a Disputatio de lumbricis. His fellow students offered him on that occasion, according to old custom, their congratulations in the form of a poem. Such poetry was then usually printed as a little collection of carmina congratulatoria at the back of the Disputatio. Thus the Franeker comrades honoured the new doctor with their poetry, which was thrown together and received the title Plausus Conterraneus, which means Applause of Countrymen. All this was printed by the Academy printer Idzardus Alberti in 1654. It contains Latin poems by Nicolaus Amama, Johannes Verhel, no doubt professors' sons, and by Henricus Schregardus. The last-named also contributed a Dutch poem to the little collection, as did Idzardus Geroltsma.
>
> I shall not enter further into this poetry now, but with inward pleasure I reproduce here the following Frisian poem, which is printed in Gothic type in the Disputationes, as if the printer wished thereby to show his respect for the language of the fatherland. It forms the conclusion of the rare little book.
>
> New Harvest of > Middle Frisian.
>
> One of the most progressive professors at Franeker in the field of 17th-century philosophy was DR. JOHANNES GREIDANUS, a true innovator. When he did not yet even have the professor's gown about his shoulders, and as a private lecturer gave his pupils instruction in philosophy, he already came into bad repute on account of his new ideas, and the Senate forbade his first disputation: “De Idea logicæ novo-antiqua” (Franeker 1659), because of the "heterodox" and "paradoxical" matter that was in it. But the curators of the Academy were on his side, and when a chair fell vacant they nominated him as professor (1660). Not long, however, did he fill his office. On the 4th of July 1668 death put an end to his life.

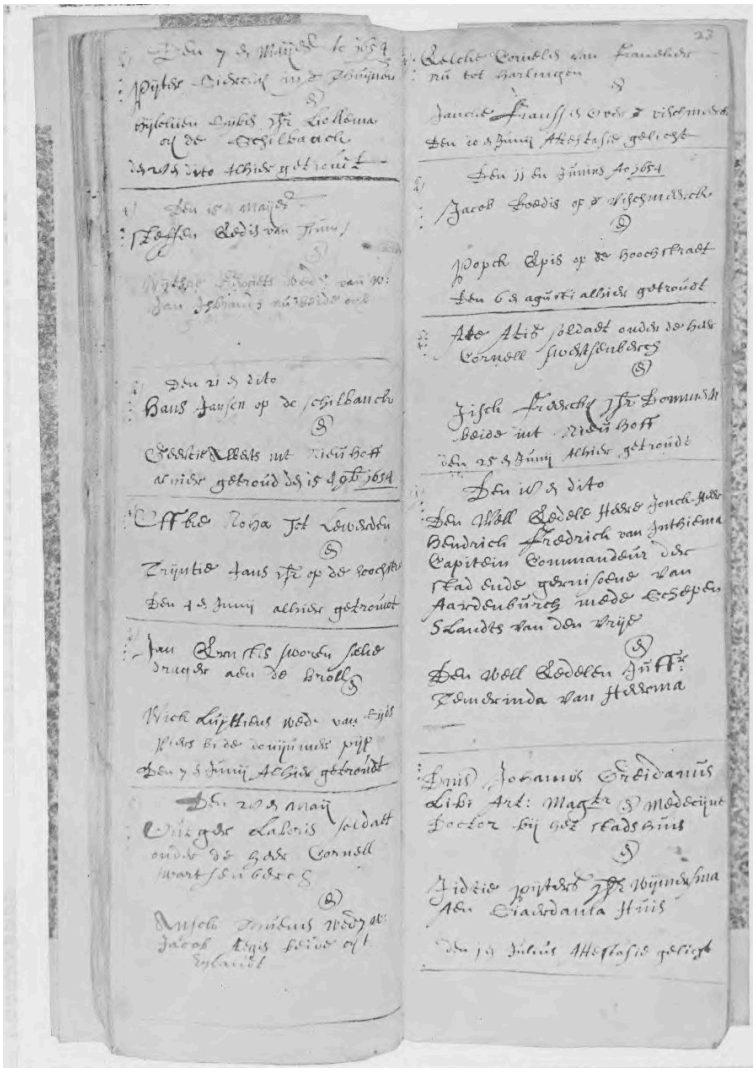
For this scholar, who died early, the fifteenth day of the summer month was a festive day. What does not often occur in academic life happened then, namely taking the doctorate in two faculties at once. The deserving young man of rare learning was promoted to doctor in philosophy and in medicine with distinction, to the honour of himself and of his native town Franeker. He then defended a "Disputatio at theses ex variis philosophiæ partibus depromtas" and a "Disputatio de lumbricis." His fellow students offered him on that occasion, according to old custom, their congratulations in the form of a poem. Such poetry was then usually printed as a little collection: "Carmina congratulatoria" at the back of the "Disputatio". Thus the Franeker comrades honoured the new doctor with their poetry, which was thrown together and received the title: "Plausus Conterraneus", which means: Applause of Countrymen. All this was printed by the Academy printer Idzardus Alberti in 1654. It contains Latin poems by Nicolaus Amama, Johannes Verhel, no doubt professors' sons, and by Henricus Schregardus. The last-named also contributed a Dutch poem to the little collection, as did Idzardus Geroltsma.

I shall not enter further into this poetry now, but with inward pleasure I reproduce here the following Frisian poem, which is printed in Gothic type in the "Disputationes", as if the printer wished thereby to show his respect for the language of the fatherland. It forms the conclusion of the rare little book.

[printer's signature mark "7" at the foot of the page]



Page with the marriage entry dated 18 June 1654 of Dr. Johannis Greidanüs and Jidtie Pietersdr. Wijmersma, from the Trouwboek der Hervormde Gemeente te Franeker (somewhat reduced).

Then comes the Frisian poem, a reproduction of which is to be found facing page 84, by I. Alberts[1].

(Frisian) The sixteen lines of this plain little rhyme have, as I said, given me an inward pleasure when I found them quite by chance. Of course not for their artistic value, for that is not in them, but for their historical and linguistic value.	The sixteen lines of this simple little poem have, as I said, given me an inward pleasure when I found them quite by chance. Of course not for their artistic value, for that is not in them, but for their historical and linguistic value.
(Frisian) This piece of rhyming falls in the period of Gysbert Japiks. The rhymer, Idts Alberts, academy printer at Frjentsjer, was a contemporary of the Bolsward master, who stands out as the great solitary figure above an empty space. One searches and searches whether in the middle of the 17th century there is yet more Frisian than that of Gysbert. And the harvest keeps us waiting, so that every sign of Frisian linguistic life from those years is oh so welcome to us. And it is a hopeful sign.	This piece of rhyming falls in the period of Gijsbert Japiks. The rhymer Ids Alberts, academy printer at Franeker, was a contemporary of the Bolsward master, who stands out as the great solitary figure above an empty space. One searches and searches whether in the middle of the 17th century there is yet more Frisian than that of Gijsbert. And the harvest keeps us waiting, so that every sign of Frisian linguistic life from those years is oh so welcome to us. And it is a hopeful sign. Through inexplicable

Through inexplicable circumstances a great part of the Franeker legacy of books was lost to posterity. To that also belong heaps of dissertationes and disputationes from the 17th century. And it is precisely there that one must look for the expressions of Frisian national life. There a chance remains that gradually more will come to light. Who knows, the hour and moment may yet come when we shall be astonished.	circumstances a great part of the legacy of the Franeker books was lost to posterity. To that also belong many "dissertationes" and "disputationes" from the 17e century. And it is precisely there that one must look for the expressions of Frisian national life. There a chance remains that gradually more will come to light. Who knows, the hour and moment may yet come when we shall be astonished.
(Frisian) This poem also has value from a linguistic point of view. Nowadays it is all dialect study that rules the day in the field of linguistic science. Frisian too gets its turn. And then such a piece of language by someone other than the Bolsward master counts as well. Forms such as berren en ljecht, meckit and heaeger have something to tell us. But this I leave to the specialists. It is enough for me at this moment to have brought this Byfal of Idts Alberts to light and put it on record."	This poem also has value from a linguistic point of view. Nowadays it is all dialect study that rules the day in the field of linguistic science. Frisian too gets its turn. And then such a piece of language by someone other than the Bolsward master counts as well. Forms such as berren en ljecht, meckit and heaeger have something to tell us. But this I leave to the men of the trade. It is enough for me at this moment to have brought this "Bijval" of Idts Alberts to light and put it on record.

Three days after the promotion of Johannes Greydanus — thus 18 June 1654 — his marriage, which had already been alluded to in the last line of the Dutch poem by H. Schregardus, was entered in the Church Marriage Register of Franeker as follows:

"/The 18th of the same month /June, in the year 1654//
⋮[2] Mr. Johannis Greidanŭs Master of the Liberal Arts and Doctor of Medicine, by the Town Hall
and Jidtie Pijtersdr. Wijmersma
At Siaerdama House. on the 1st of July the attestation was taken out."

A reproduction of the page from the Marriage Register on which the marriage was entered is added alongside.

And now there exists in the Library of the Frisian Society for History, Antiquities and Philology at Leeuwarden a printed collection of poems on this marriage, from which it appears that it was solemnized on 2 July 1654. On 1 July 1654 the attestation was therefore taken out at Franeker, and on the following day the marriage was contracted; where, it has not been possible to discover[3].

[1] Presumably the poet I. Alberts of the Frisian verse, as Dr. Wumkes assumed in his article, is the same person as the printer Ids Alberts of the collection of promotion poems. This printer Ids Alberts also printed the translation, made by Johannes Greydanus (Joan Greyde), of 't Rackouws Catechismus, described in Latin by Joan Henricus Alstedius (see pages 73 and 74), a collection of poems on the marriage of Dr. Johannes Greydanus (see page 88) and the wedding song composed by Johannes Greydanus for the marriage of Johannes Joris Sola and Haeske Hendricks Duinterp (see page 72). The book printer Ids Alberts was a printer at Franeker from 1642 to 1656, where, as is stated on the collection of promotion poems, he was at the same time academy printer. Sometimes he appears with the family name "Balck".

[2] The customary sign that the banns have been published three times.

[3] In any case, therefore, the marriage was not solemnized at Franeker, where Dr. Johannes Greydanus and Yttie Pietersdochter Wimersma, as well as their nearest relatives, were established. As places where the marriage might have been contracted, the following could come into consideration: Leeuwarden and Marssum. Leeuwarden, because at the time of the marriage Tyeets Jans, the grandmother on the mother's side of the bride to be mentioned later, was still living there, and Marssum, because it will later appear that the said Tyeets Jans was co-owner there of the "Wimersma-sate", from which Yttie Pietersdochter Wimersma will have derived her family name. Neither at Leeuwarden nor at Marssum, however, has it been possible to find the marriage.

The title of the volume reads:

"Marriage Honour Poem
Entered into
By the highly learned, widely renowned,
and godly young man,
D. IOANNES GREYDANVS
A. L. M. Doctor of Philosophy & of Medicine
and the honourable, godly, virtue-rich, and modest young maiden
YTTIE PIETERS WIMERSMA
Both confirmed in the married state, on 2 July 1654.
At Franeker.
Printed by Ids Alberts, Bookprinter. 1654."

A reproduction of this title page is added alongside.

The volume is composed of the two following poems:

Marriage- Honour- poem.
O Father of the Light, O Creator of the Suns;
Beginning, without end, that never has begun;
Who with a holy spirit renews the dull brain,
And makes the vain heart pure of all passions;
Infinite beginning, whose incomprehensible being
Is to be read in the great book of all things,
Who once, through the word, and also out of nothing at all,
Brought into the light all that the eye sees.
Prepare, my swift pen, the course of my discourse:
Come now with me and step into my chamber:
So that I, with discretion and by a sweet poem,
May write the Doctor's honour, and GREYDAEN's [true duty:
Who never let himself be denied any trouble or labour,
Wherever a hard question or saying was to be ex[pounded:
Who never lived in evil pursuit, nor in hatred,
But like a diligent bee hovers about knowledge:
To him is now given by God's hand a spouse,
A daughter for a wife, a help in his life;

And also the vine itself, full of fruit and sweet joy,
Yes, to him a quiet roadstead, a haven for his youth:
To him as refined gold, which, even when not worn,
Is never by rust, nor by mould, af[fected.
She is a fair jewel that glitters in the night,
She is his rich stone, yet wonderfully soft.
She is like a ship that, having sailed over the sea,
Fills the whole land with all useful wares:
She is a chief jewel, a crown for the man,
Who can honour him both within the house and without.
Since you now, GREIDAEN, have already given your troth To YTTIE WIMERSMA, your bride, delight and [life,
Whose cheerful company and eloquent discretion
Lies at many a suitor's heart to this very hour;
A daughter in whom nature has planted such a [being,
As if it were to be read perfectly in a book;
A maiden, in whose countenance, manners, praise and [virtue,
Everyone who knows you rejoices from the heart.
You too now, worthy bride, may count yourself happy
That so fair a pledge may fall to your share:
A young man well learned, and modestly brought up,
A young man friendly, and of a gentle disposition;
Also such a man, yes, divinely exalted,
Who has embraced the arts, and made them live gloriously:
Who with high renown the thresholds of the gods
Has worthily kissed, and receives a laurel crown;
Who, though he die, be destroyed and buried,
Shall nevertheless have his praise gallop up to the clouds;
And higher than the sky, shall go to the gods,
And shine like the sun, and brighter than the moon.
Now then, you two made one, and newly paired people,
There is hardly anything more to wish for you on earth:
God has so enriched you, a thousand against one,
And your dealings are far more than common:
Therefore now, Doctor GREYDAEN, and exalted bride[groom,
I wish that you in wedlock in peace and joy [may live
With YTTIE WYMERSMA, your bedfellow and [bride,
And that within a year you may see from her a [shoot:
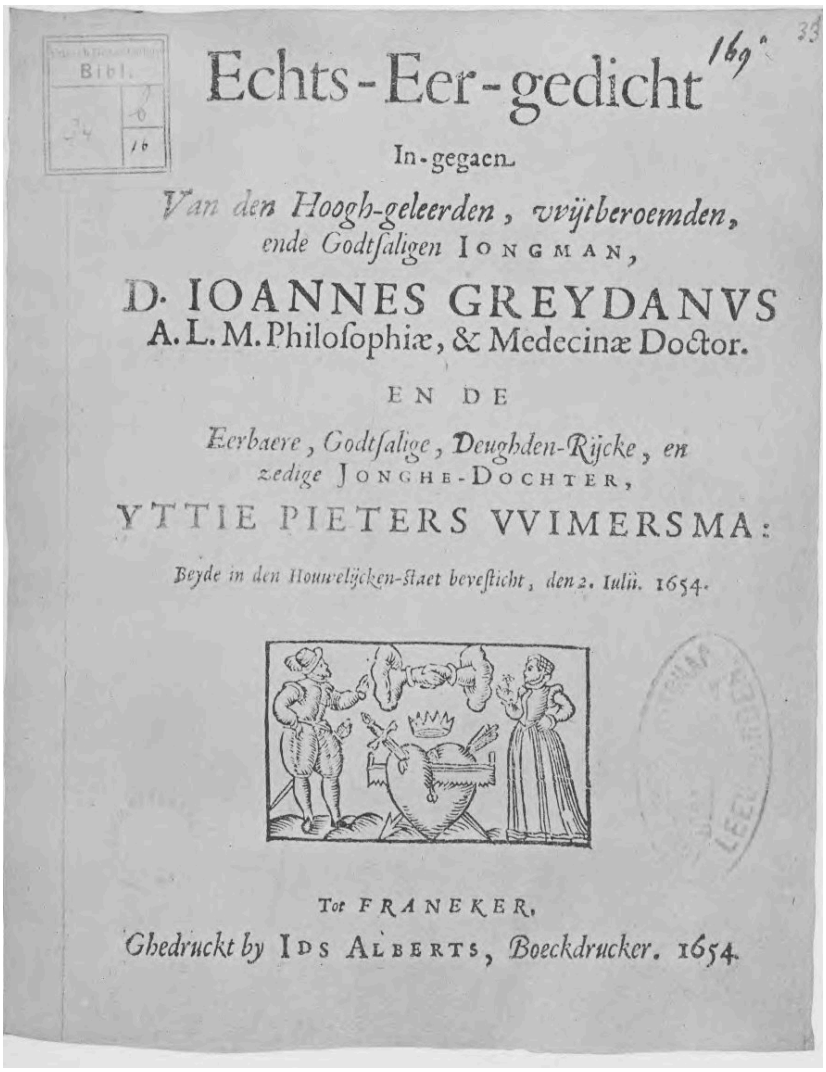
Embrace then, bridegroom, you are now truly born,
Approach your worthy pledge, chosen out of a thousand,
Greet your own flesh, not with a lustful mouth,
But speak, in modesty, and every word a pound;
My heart's sweet wish, given me by God,
For delight and sweet joy in this companionable life:
My comfort, my other self, fastened in my mind
More than my own parents, and than the nearest blood:
Desired bedfellow, chosen above all,
At last be mine: be mine, fallen to my lot,
We are from now on, we two are but one,
What was formerly one's own is now common:
We are by wedded troth, and upon sure grounds,
Bound together for all the days of our life;
So this yoke must be softened by turns,
That our whole desire may be brought to peace.
May God the Lord grant you that, the Prince of eternities,
May He give you much happiness, keep you from adversities,
And may He also guard you from all misfortune,
From all ill fortune, from hardship and affliction.
With this then I wish you a very great blessing,
The fruits of your sweat, so piously obtained:
So that your power, your friendliness and virtue
May flourish in the rest of a constant youth:
That the love and troth bound in your arrows
Might shine like the sun, we would found in you
A divine altar: And make a bond,
To the spite of those who envy it, to the glory of the fatherland.
Done out of love
NICOLAUS WIELSTRA F.SS.T.S.[1]
Sijmb:
Death devours all that she feeds:
But Love remains in the faithful heart.

[1] In 1659 called as Dutch Reformed minister at Terkaple and Akmarijp, † 5 January 1665.



Echts-Eer-gedicht

In-gegaen

Van den Hoogh-geleerden, wijtberoemden, ende Godtſaligen IONGMAN,

D. IOANNES GREYDANVS
A. L. M. Philoſophiæ, & Medecinæ Doctor.

EN DE

Eerbaere, Godtſalige, Deughden-Rijcke, en zedige IONGHE-DOCHTER,

YTTIE PIETERS VVIMERSMA:

Beyde in den Houwelijcken-ſtaet beveſticht, den 2. Iulii. 1654.

Bibl.

Tot FRANEKER,
Ghedruckt by IDS ALBERTS, Boeckdrucker. 1654.

Title page of a Volume of poems on the marriage dated 2. July. 1654 of Dr. Ioannes Greydanvs A. L. M. and Yttie Pieters Wimersma (actual size).

To the Same.
While Parnassus' garden bloomed with full buds,
And while Hippocrene flowed with swift veins,
Which gave a sweet echo through the clattering of the stream,
And the rebounding water splashed upon herb, flower and tree:
It was, when I cast my beam of light upon the court, that sweet object,
And with pleasure drew the image of it back to myself;
That I saw the winged God, the Archer, the battling hero,
Who stokes the fire of Love, hasten swiftly Towards him whose hand takes delight in the harp, whose head in the laurel wreaths,
And before whom the Muse-Goddesses then dance,
Because the sun of joy had that day shone upon them:
Since their foster-child had richly repaid them:
And he poured out these words. You Laurel-God, you King, Harp-player, Guardian of Letters, Prince, Ruler of this dwelling, Governor of all this manless host. The Goddess,
My Mother, the Smith's wife, kindler of the fire of love,
Sends me hither thus armed, and asks that you at once Reveal to me the Lord, to whom your glittering court
Now ever offers and shows all honour, so that my golden arrow
May carve through his fiery heart, and kindle the flame of love the greater.
When now my arrow had covered its bound and its target
And the heart, which smarts from smoke and fume, to rouse it to burning.
So wound him (I pray), give him to me, that I may bring him to my Mother,
Or to her who is pierced by an arrow of equal weight,
So that her right hand may tie these snares together
Which, thus loosed, oppress and afflict the heart of both.
I thank you for your gift. May He who shoots the flickering lightning,

> The supreme God of the Gods, grant that you enjoy thanks,
> Grant that your whole host may flourish in joy and gladness;
> Farewell, bearded God, may your court (I pray) increase.
> See here, dear Mother, I have DOCTOR GREIDANUM firmly > Bound; go, take you the thread, the unbreakable bast,
> And tie the marriage-knot with WYMERSMA, yet late,
> That he may remain to her a Husband, and she to him a Spouse.
> You Goddess of Fruit: you God who presses the blood of the berries:
> And also you Goddess of Love, nourish these two according to their wishes.
> (Latin) However that may be
> H. SCHREGARDUS SS.T.S.[1]

Ydtie (Yttie) Pieters Wimersma was the daughter of Pyter Bockes and Lysbet Sickes, as appears from the four following pieces of evidence:

1° Civil Sentences of the Court of Friesland.

> 20 December 1661. N° 49. Suit conducted between Antie Roeleffs, widow of the late Jelle jelles, living within Leuwarden, heir under the will of the aforesaid late Jelle Jelles, in that capacity appellant, against Pieter Bockes at Franequer, who through the death of his late wife has resumed the proceedings which he, as husband and guardian over her, had likewise as Impetrant maintained in the name and on behalf of Johannes Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine and Philosophy there, husband and guardian over Itie Pieters, the daughter of him, the Impetrant, as universal heir of the late Lijsbeth Sickis, her mother, heirs under the fideicommissum of the late Eeck Sickedr., widow of the late Fonger Jellis, and as legatees of the late Jelle Jelles, in that capacity appellee, originally Impetrant, on the other side[2];

2° Deed of sale of 19 December 1665, registered 9 February 1666 in the Franeker Protocolboek (Register of Deeds of Sale) N° 3 (1659—1667), by which: Pyter Bockes, carrier and burgher within Franeker, sells a certain lawful half of a certain house and barn, together with the stabling with the empty plot on the east side, standing here on the Greyde, having among other things the public street to the west and north, that is on the corner of the Greyde and the Sjaerdemastraat, to: Johannes Greidanus L. A. Dr. et Philosoph. Professor in the University within Franeker. At the end of this deed of sale stands: "Done on the 19th of December 1665; furthermore the buyer's wife Ytie Wijmersma also consents to all this, and in verification she has signed this with her own hand", and before that: "All this thus sold and conveyed for the sum of three hundred Car. guilders with one ducat at five guilders for the seller's eldest child's child, as a makeweight". The children of Johannes Greydanus and Ytie Wijmersma were: Tjardus, born 19 January 1656, Sixtus, born 28 November 1657, Elisabeth, born 21 July 1660 and Petrus, born 20 September 1665, so that the grandfather's ducat went to Tjardus, who at that time, but for exactly one month, was 10 years old;

[1] See note 3 on page 85.

[2] Children of the couple Fonger Jelles × Eeck Sickedr. were: Jelle Fongers, of whom Jelle Jelles was a son, and Sicke Fongers, of whom Lysbeth Sickes was a daughter. The husband of Antie Roeleffs and the wife of Pieter Bockes were thus first cousins of each other. See the diagram at page 103.

3° the sale mentioned under 2°, proclaimed on 26 January, 2 and 7 February 1666 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franeker (N° 5: 1661—1682), in which: "Joannis Greidanus Med. Dr. et Philsoph. Professor at the University here in Franeker cum uxore" had obtained the half of the said house "by purchase from their respective father-in-law Pyter Bockes", burgher and carrier at Franeker;

4° the documents (see portfolio Court documents Franeker I N° 16: 1659—1665), concerning a lawsuit brought against Pyter Bockes at the end of 1665 by the occupant of the other half of the house referred to under 2° and 3°: "Jan Hessels Schouwenburgh, sergeant of the Ooster Quartyer and innkeeper", who claimed that they had owned the house and appurtenances jointly for some years, but that he wished to have that joint ownership terminated, because that suited him better and because the joint possession had given and would continue to give occasion to "many a quarrel and discord", for which reason he wanted the house with its appurtenances either to be divided into two parts by impartial persons or to be allotted in its entirety to one of them, to which, however, Pyter Bockes was unwilling to cooperate. In an answer by the legal counsel of Pyter Bockes, which answer was submitted to the court on 25 December 1665, there occurs the statement that the plaintiff is mistaken, for the defendant "possesses no house jointly with him" and of the said house his daughter's husband Dr. Johannes Greydanus is entitled throughout to the just half, who bought it from him for 300 car. gulden in ready money, to be produced if need be, in case of denial, with the rejoinder."

According to the documents cited, Pyter Bockes is therefore, without doubt, the father and Lysbet Sickes the mother of Yttie Pieters Wimersma. Pyter Bockes has never been found bearing the name "Wimersma", and, as will appear further on, Lysbet Sickes was presumably a "Rinia". Nor could the name "Wimersma" be found among the ancestors and relatives of Pyter Bockes and Lysbet Sickes. It is true that in that period the now extinct surname "Wimersma", which must be derived from the man's Christian name Wimer (Wymer), was encountered elsewhere as well, as is set out hereafter, but no relationship whatever between Yttie Pieters Wimersma and those other Wimersmas has been able to be demonstrated:

On 26 January 1655 the following was enrolled as a student of Philosophy at the University of Groningen: Johannes Wimersma of Groningen (see column 72 of the Album Studiosorum Academiae Groninganae, Groningen 1915);

On 4 June 1662, according to the Register of Members of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Leeuwarden, the following were admitted as members with a certificate from elsewhere: Elsien Roeloffs Wijmersma and Johannes Wijmersma;

At Groningen the following marriage proclamation was entered on 3 December 1681: "Saturday 3 Dec. 1681. Johan van Wijmersma in person, Catharina Hiddingh for whom the schultes Meuwes Meuwesen as cousin, with the charge to have the banns published also at Anlo. certificate issued hereof." In the State Archives at Groningen there is preserved the marriage contract relating to this marriage, dated 20 December 1681. According to this contract, the witnesses on the bridegroom's side were: Ellichjen van Laan wed. Hoecksum, Jeijten Anckeringa, Peter Huisinga and dr. Rudolphus Gramsbergen. The contract was signed by the witnesses at Schipborg in the parish of Anlo, presumably the residence of the bride. The bridegroom lived, as appears from a note on the contract (by way of address), in the Folkingestraat at Groningen. According to notes in the possession of the Hiddingh family, this Johan van Wimersma was a son of Jan van Wimersma and Hielke Tinga, and this Catharina Hiddingh a daughter of the lieutenant Egbert Hiddingh and Maria Sluyter.

In the handbooks on Dutch names by Johan Winkler: De Nederlandsche Geslachtsnamen, in oorsprong, geschiedenis en beteekenis, Haarlem n. d., — Studiën in Nederlandsche Namenkunde, Haarlem 1900 — and the Friesche Naamlijst, Leeuwarden 1898, belonging to the Friesch Woordenboek of Waling Dijkstra, the name "Wimersma" does not occur. In the said list, however, on pages 442 and 443, there is found the surname "Wymertsma", derived from the man's Christian name Wymert, and the place name "de Wymertsma-sate" at Lioessens, with which agrees the name of the land-user at Lioessens Wilcke Wijmertsma, which one finds on page 149 of Part I of the Register van den aanbreng van 1511 en verdere stukken tot de Floreenbelasting betrekkelijk, published by the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden. There also existed in 1599 a "Wyemersma-zate" at Oudkerk, for which reference is made to a proclamation of 29 January of that year in the proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales) of Dantumadeel.

Further on it will also appear that the wife of Prof. Greydanus derived her surname (Van) Wymersma from a sathe (farmstead) at Marssum, called the "Wymersma-sathe", which for one half[1] was the property of her maternal grandmother Tziets Jan Lammerts, widow of Sicco Fongers, which widow died at Leeuwarden in 1661, leaving the said half sathe to her 7 children then still living. One of those children was Yttie Pieters' mother Lysbet Sickes, who was thus entitled to the possession of the $^{1}/_{7}$ part of the half "Wymersma-sathe" at Marssum, and from whom this possession passed to her only child Yttie Pieters.

Yttie Pieters Wimersma's father, Pyter Bockes, was born at Miedum near Leeuwarden, which is derived from the following entry in the Burgerboek (burgher register) of Franeker, present in the municipal archive there:

"Pyter Bockes, born at Miedum near Leeuwarden, admitted as burgher of Franeker on 1 July 1635", with which agrees the entry in N^{o} 818 of the Telting-Register: "Names of the persons who were admitted as Burghers of this Town in 1635": "Pyter Bockes solvit 4—4—..".

Since no other Pyter Bockes could be found at Franeker in this period and the wife of Pyter Bockes, as we shall see later, also came from the neighbourhood of Leeuwarden — namely Marssum — these entries must relate to our Pyter Bockes.

Pyter Bockes was a son of Bocke Bockes, farmer at Miedum, and Bauck Sydses.

A brother of his was Syds Bockes, who in 1635 lived married at Rinsumageest and had 4 children, of whom, presumably the eldest, Trijntie Sydses, was married to Aege Romckes, who on 16 November 1668, as "cousin by marriage", together with Hidde Johans requested the Rector Magnificus of the Franeker University to appoint a curator over the children left by Prof. Johannes Greydanus (see pages 28 and 29). Hidde Johans was, as we have seen, a great-uncle by marriage of those children, while, according to the accompanying schema of the family of Pyter (Pieter) Bockes/, Aege Romckes is to be regarded as a cousin by marriage of Prof. Greydanus himself, thus as a second cousin by marriage (susterlingh) of his children.

On the basis of the contents of the weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Leeuwarderadeel, it can be established that the aforesaid Bocke Bockes (Bottes) of Miedum, married to Bauck Sydses, had previously been married on 13 April 1584 to Trijn Symens, widow of Hessel Douwes. Trijn Symens had, as appears from documents other than the said weesboeken, one child from her former marriage, Hessel Hessels, and on 10 January 1592, when she had died, three children from the marriage with Bocke Bockes, namely Symon, b. ± 1586, Bocke, b. ± 1587 and Geerdt, b. ± 1590.

In the Civiele Sententieboeken (civil judgement registers) of Leeuwarderadeel mention is found of a lawsuit conducted between Douwe Rinckes s. against Bocke Bocke s on 2 June 1593, and thereafter on 23 January 1602 between Trijn Claesdr., widow of the late Eelingh Pyers s. at Tirns against Bocke Bocke z. In both cases it concerned an interlocutory ruling. A definitive sentence with regard to Bocke Bocke z was given on 4 February 1609. He then litigated against Raphael Mathijs and Baucke Alberts in their capacity as heirs of the late Bote Tiete z., arguing:

> "that he had paid the moneys comprised in the deed of acceptance to Pieter Reijners z. on behalf of Botte Tiette z in the following parts, namely 49 ggl. in money, likewise ½ last of summer grain for 27½ ggl., and had further delivered to the same 75 lopen of oats, each lopen at 20 strs, in which he had again

[1] The other half was apparently the property of her half-brother Lambert Jans at Visvliet (see on pages 112 and 113 the Civ. Sent. Court of Friesland 1626: 15 July n^{o}. 21).

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the family of Pieter Bockes, the father-in-law of Prof. Johannes Greydanus. Belongs with page 91. - Bocke Bockes — B. Farmer at Miedum. † before 13 February 1612. - ⚭ I Trijn Symens — m. before 13 April 1582 to Bocke Bockes. † before 10 Jan. 1592. - ⚭ A Hessel Douwes - Hessel Hessels -

Symon Bockes — b. Miedum ± 1586. Signed with the house mark: [handmerk symbol] - Bocke Bockes de Jonge — b. Miedum ± 1587. At Jorwerd. Was still living 25 Febr. 1645. Signed with the house mark: [handmerk symbol] - ⚭ I Bauck Jans - Bocke Bockes — b. ± 1618. - Pieter Bockes — b. ± 1621. - Trijntie Bockes — b. ± 1625. - ⚭ II Wopk Foppes — m. before 1639. - Geerdt Bockes — b. Miedum ± 1590. - ⚭ II Bauck Sydses — Was still living at Miedum 9 Sept. 1635. - Syds Bockes - ⚭ ..... — 1635 at Rinsumageest. - Trijntie Sydses — † before 25 January 1682. - ⚭ I Aege Romckes — Merchant, Skipper and Armefoegd[?] (poor-relief warden) at Dronrijp. Was still living 11 February 1679. On 16 Nov. 1668, as "adopted second cousin", requested the appointment of a curator over the children of PROF. JOHANNES GREYDANUS. † before 25 January 1682. - No children. - ⚭ II Edttie Doeckes — from Menaem. M. Leeuwarden 17 Aug. 1645 - Bocke Sydses — at Blessum † before 25 January 1682. - ⚭ Trijntie Wybes - Syds Bockes - A/e/ttie Sydses — at Hoogebeintum 25 January 1682 - Sytse Sydses — at Doccum. † before 25 January 1682. - ⚭ Trijntie Jans — Was still living 25 January 1682. - Tietske Sytses - Jan Sytses - Pieter Bockes — B. at Miedum. Signed with the house mark: [handmerk symbol]. At Franeker. - ⚭ Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia) - Yttie Pieters (van) Wymersma - ⚭ Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus - Tjardus Greydanus - Sixtus Greydanus - Elisabeth Greydanus - Petrus Greydanus - .... Bockes > received from the aforesaid Pieter a stallion foal[1] for 24 daalders, so that through the delivery of the oats he had paid 39 Carolus guldens, together with a further 23 goudguldens paid to the late Botte Tiettez himself; from all of which it appears that the petitioner had paid to Pieter Reynersz., as attorney of the late Botte Tiettez, and also to Botte himself, more than the contents of the judgment, so that he, the petitioner, was wrongfully troubled with the execution. . . . . so that he, the petitioner, protesting, wished to reserve his own right of action against Pieter Reijnersz, in order to be able to recover from him whatever should be found to have been paid without being due, with claim of costs."

> The opposing party (the respondents) argued against this that the alleged payment to Pieter Reijnersz., as the petitioner says was made, in no way concerned him, since that same Pieter did not show any special power of attorney which he should have had in order to receive the monies mentioned in the judgment: that likewise nothing appeared of any receipt by which the payment would have been made, so that the alleged payment and dealings between the petitioner and Pieter in no way concerned the respondent; . . . . that the petitioner or Pieter should show receipts or other sufficient proofs that Botte himself had given order that the aforesaid Pieter might make any payment to anyone in that regard, or, in default thereof, that the petitioner's request should be denied.
> The court, deciding the case, denied the petitioner, ordering that the execution shall proceed, without prejudice to the petitioner's right concerning that payment made to Pieter Reijnersz, and to that same Pieter his defences to the contrary.

According to a note in the margin, an appeal was lodged against this judgment.

On 27 May 1610 one finds an interlocutory decision, namely between Poppe Douwez at Tirns and Bocke Bockez at Miedum; the case is thereby referred to commissioners.

A final sentence then follows again on 30 May 1612. The suit is now between > Pope Janss on behalf of his wife Trijn Claesdr. and also as having the right of the heirs of the late Elingh Pyerss, plaintiff in the action and defendant in the counterclaim — and Bocke Bockes at Miedum, defendant in the action and plaintiff in the counterclaim. The plaintiff stated that it was true that there was due to him from the plaintiff 14½ daalders, being the half of 29 daalders for the purchase of a brown blaze-faced mare bought and received by the defendant, in satisfaction whereof the defendant remained in default. The defendant in the action and plaintiff in the counterclaim said, by way of claim in the counterclaim, that there was due to him from the late Elingh Pieterss. 18½ goudguldens for the purchase of a bull; and since the plaintiff in the action represented the estate of that Elingh, the plaintiff in the counterclaim demanded payment of the aforesaid sum of 18½ goudguldens; the plaintiff in the action and defendant in the counterclaim said that he owed to the plaintiff in the counterclaim in his capacity no monies or pennies, and thus denied the plaintiff's statements: The court condemns the defendant in the action to pay to the plaintiff the sum of 14½ daalders with the damages and interest, declares the plaintiff inadmissible in his claim and condemns the defendant in the action and plaintiff in the counterclaim in the costs of the proceedings of both instances, at the court's assessment.

In the Hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers) of Leeuwarderadeel V. 4 (1608—1612) the married couple Bocke Bockes and Bauck Sytsedr. appear in the deeds below, dated 1 June 1600 (registered 7 January 1612) and dated 12 March 1603 (registered 21 August 1611):

> "Copy
> "Bocke Bockez and Bauck Sijtsedr, spouses living at Miedum, we together and each of us separately in solidum and for the whole, hereby make known and acknowledge for ourselves and our heirs that we are duly bound and indebted to the honourable Dirck Claess., merchant in Leeuwerden, or his heirs and descendants, in the sum of two hundred goudguldens, the gulden estimated at XXVIII stuivers, and that on account of money advanced by him to us and counted out to our satisfaction; wherefore we, renouncing the exception of money not counted out, thank and acquit him hereby of due payment, and accordingly together and each of us separately in solidum and one for the whole undertake, promise and pledge[2] , for ourselves and our heirs, to restore, satisfy and honestly pay to the aforesaid Dirck Claesz and his heirs or assigns the same two hundred goudguldens of the aforenamed coin, with fourteen like goudguldens for one year's interest thereof, on the first of May sixteen hundred and one; for which, together with the costs, damages and interest arising in any way through default, we mortgage and bind generally all our present and future movable and immovable goods, actions and rights, none excepted, which we declare ourselves to possess in his name, submitting the same together with our persons in the first instance to this Court of Friesland, as well as to other courts, without deceit. In witness whereof this my, Bocke's, name for myself and at the request of my wife, who cannot write, and at our joint and several request the signature, notarial mark of Dominici Lollij, notary public, with the names of Reijner Syeurdts and Pieter Janss., knitter, citizens of Leeuwerden, set hereunder, the VII June sixteen hundred. Beneath the original written on paper stood Bocke Bockes, Pieter Jansen and Reijner Syuverts and D. Lollius, Not. Publ., with some flourishes and strokes, and on the back thereof stood as follows: The interest fallen due has been settled up to May in the year 1602. The interest fallen due has been settled up to May 1603. On the 15 December of the year 1607 I have settled the interest fallen due up to the coming May 1604 and still lower. Thereon in all so much has been paid by Bocke Bockes and his wife to Dirck Claess. that, all having been deducted, the aforesaid Bocke and his wife remain indebted to the aforenamed Dirck Claes in the sum of one hundred and ten goudguldens, whereof the interest shall begin on the first of May next coming; the foregoing deed remaining in all respects in force until the full payment, together with the mortgage mentioned therein. In witness whereof the hands of them both and the hand of Douwe Nijenhuys, notary, at their request, on the Vth of April sixteen hundred and eleven; and beneath stood Bocke Bockes, Dirck Claeszo. and D. Nijenhuijs with some strokes.
> The instrument standing above and on the other leaf preceding, registered here in order to enjoy the effect of the ordinance, having been collated against its original, has been found to agree therewith by us, the undersigned assessor and secretary of Leeuwarderadeel, the VII January 1612, at one o'clock in the afternoon

——(signed) Jetze Hiddes[3] 1612 (signed) D. de Blocq.

[1] voel = foal.

[2] onthieten (Frisian word) = to promise.

[3] Surname: Pettertilla.

On 1 May 1616 the widow of Bocke Bockes presented the original of this, cancelled and cut through, declaring that its contents had been paid, whereupon this has been struck out."

"Copy.

There appeared before me, Phlps van Tongeren, public Notary admitted by the Court of Friesland, in their own persons and in the presence of the witnesses named below, Bocke Bockez and Bauck Sydses dochter, married couple, living at Miedum, who declared and acknowledged that they duly owed to Peeter Riencxszoen, burgher in Leeuwerden, and Trijn Andries dochter, married couple, the sum of ninety-four Carolus guldens and ten stuivers, the gulden being reckoned at twenty stuivers each, by reason of a like sum which, according to their own declaration and acknowledgement, had been counted out to them from the first to the last penning and advanced to them upon interest; wherefore, as the comparants were well satisfied with the counting out of the above-mentioned sum, so that for greater abundance they renounced, abandoned and left the exception of money not counted out, they therefore undertook and promised, together and each of them in solidum and each of them for the whole, honourably to satisfy and pay the aforesaid sum of ninety-four Carolus guldens and ten stuivers with the respective interest, which shall take its course and run from the date hereof, into the hands of the aforesaid married couple, their heirs, or those having action and transfer from them, upon his or their demand; and for that, together with the costs, damages and further interest which through non-payment, after being summoned thereto, they may incur, have and suffer, and which may run on until full payment, the comparants have mortgaged and given as security all their joint and each one's separate movable and immovable goods, none excepted, present and future, actions and rights, constituting themselves to possess the same goods, both in general and in particular and in respect hereof, in the name of the aforesaid creditors, and to submit the same together with their persons under the Court of Friesland and all other honourable courts where this shall be put to execution, in order to obtain therefrom, and from such part thereof as they may choose, the aforesaid principal sum and the stipulated interest together with costs, damages and further interest; to that end the comparants renounced, together and each separately, (Latin) the new constitution concerning two or more parties owing or promising. And should it be understood that the one of them is surety for the other, the benefit of discussion. And she, Bavck Sydtses, specially and expressly also (Latin) the senatorial decree Velleianum and the authentica "si qua mulier", as having been fully instructed thereof by me, the Notary, and further generally all other exceptions, privileges, benefits and legal indulgences, however and in whatever manner these might serve them for the invalidation of this. Promising, as persons of honour in place of an oath, that they will not avail themselves thereof nor of anything prejudicial to this, nor let themselves be helped thereby, and that they will not have their heirs avail themselves thereof. Which, having been accepted by the aforesaid creditor for himself and his wife, and he having requested (Latin) a public instrument, Bocke, one of the comparants, has signed this below with his hand and name for himself and his wife, who cannot write. And the debtors have together and each separately requested Jan Janszoon and Govert van Tongeren also to sign this as witnesses, and likewise me, the aforenamed Notary, to sign and confirm this also with my hand and seal. Done on the twelfth day of the month of March in the year XVI[c] and three. S.v. About four o'clock in the afternoon. The original, written on paper, was signed: Bocke Bockez, Jan Janss. Govert van Tongeren, and a large seal impressed in red wax through a diamond-shaped piece of paper. Below stood Phlps van Tongeren, with some flourishes.

The above-mentioned Instrument registered here in accordance with the ordinance.

against its original.

Having been collated, this has been found to agree therewith.

The 21 August 1611

(signed) K. van Donia. (signed) D. de Blocq"

1611

Concerning the settlement of the estate of Bocke Bockes, one finds on page 85 of the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Leeuwarderadeel an entry dated 13 February 1612, which reads in the main as follows:

"Isbrandt Gerrijtss, burgher and butcher in Leeuwarden, and Jan Reijnerss. cabinetmaker, as curators for the settlement for and over the youngest orphan children of the late Bocke Bockes, begotten in marriage by Bauck Sijtsedr., And Bauck Sijtsedr., surviving widow of the late Bocke Bockes, on the one side, And Sijmon Bockes and Bocke Bockez, children of the former marriage of the aforesaid late Bocke, and I, Symon, so far as necessary giving warranty de rato in the name of Bocke Bockes the Younger, my brother, on the other side, do hereby make known and acknowledge, through the mediation of Albert Claess. at Goutum, Roeliff Thoniss. at Miedum and Wibrant Romerts as amicable arbitrators and reconcilers concerning the division and separation of the goods left by death by the late Bocke Bockis, our respective father and husband, and devolved upon us in the aforesaid capacity, that we have agreed and come to terms with one another in the following manner, namely, that we, Symon and Bocke Bockes the Younger aforesaid, have ceded, transferred and conveyed to the aforesaid curators, for the benefit of the youngest children, and to Bauck Sijtsedr. our stepmother, our action and right which in any way belongs to us in and to the goods of the late Bockes Bockes our father and may have come to us through his death, both of dwelling, the vacating of lands, livestock, household furniture and otherwise, likewise the debts due, standing to be levied and received for the benefit of the estate, provided that she shall in return bear and carry the debts and burdens with which the estate is in any way encumbered, and shall moreover satisfy and pay us, at the latest between St. Jacobi's day and All Saints next coming in this present year 1612, the sum of 135 Carolus gulden of 20 stuivers each and the interest of the above-mentioned sum falling due since May 1612; which we, the aforesaid curators, and Bauck Sijtsedr., accepting, etc. . . . . with pledge of their goods. In witness of the truth we have together and each separately requested Joannes Alberti, public notary in Leeuwerden, that he has signed this below for greater security. Today the XIII February A°. 1612

[hand mark] Isbrandt Gerrijtss.'s own placed hand mark, Jan Reijnerszo.

Symon [printed hand mark, crossed lines] Bockes' mark; Bauck Sidses Bocke [printed hand mark, crossed lines] Bockes' mark; Roelef Tenys, Albert Claesz.
Wybrandt Rommardts and J. Alberti, with some flourishes."

Thus we see from this that both sons Symon and Bocke of Bocke Bockes used the same characteristic hand mark as Pieter Bockes, whose hand mark is given on page 99. One may therefore regard this more or less as proof that Pieter Bockes is indeed also a son of Bocke Bockes.

Concerning Bocke Bockes' Widow: Bauck Sydses one finds in the Civil Sentence Books of Leeuwarderadeel on 23 September 1613 two interlocutory sentences. The one concerns a claim brought by Hesse Hessels, the other one brought by Roeliff Thonisz. and Pope Syeurdts s. as church wardens of Miedum. The first case was definitively settled by sentence of 25 June 1614, when the Widow, who however appealed, was condemned to pay 200 ggl. remainder of a larger sum, less 75 ggl. paid thereon. The second was decided by judgment of 13 April 1616, in which the Widow of Bocke Bockes again had to come off worst. The considerations of this judgment contain a few more particulars, and read as follows:

> "the plaintiffs alleged it to be true that they, with the consent of the community of the aforesaid village (Miedum), had given the defendant notice to quit such parcel of land, about 3 pondemaat in size, called a patron's lot, as she had held in lease in the past year, and notwithstanding which the defendant had opposed the notice given her; the defendant alleged that she denied that the plaintiffs, calling themselves church wardens of Miedum, had been charged by the community of the aforesaid village with these proceedings, considering that all rate-paying houses of the aforesaid village were using patron's or church lands of that same village, and that some years ago the community of the aforesaid village had divided the patron's or church lands thereof among themselves and accordingly used and kept them with their farms, so that the one could no more be given notice to quit the patron's or church lands than the other, she the defendant trusting that the community would not seek to deprive her, the defendant, of the use of the lands any more than another; considering that she the defendant, as well as others, bore all the village charges and burdens, and therefore also ought to enjoy the profits and rights thereof equally with others; wherefore she the defendant was as much entitled as another to the use of the lands given notice, and had paid the rent thereof in conformity with others and offered to continue to pay it, so that this practice ought not to be used against her, the defendant, being a widow burdened with seven children[1] ."

The Court however declared that the notice to quit the parcel of land had rightly been given, and condemned the defendant to relax (release) the land.

In the same Register — the other volumes have not been searched — the name of Baeuck Bocke Wed^{e}: occurs once more: namely on 24 December 1617, as defendant summoned by Albert Claes in his capacity. In the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Baarderadeel, however, the said Widow has been found, as Bauck Sijdses and with her place of residence Miedum, much later, namely on 9 September 1635 (see below).

From the foregoing we may reach the conclusion, concerning the paternal grandparents of Prof. Johannes Greydanus' wife, that Bocke Bockes was a farmer at Miedum, because he delivered "summer corn" and oats, bought a "stallion foal", sold a bull and a "brown blaze-faced mare", and because in the settlement of his estate there is mention of the vacating of lands and of livestock. His Widow Bauck Sydses leased lands from the Church at Miedum. The financial condition both of Bocke Bockes, who was bad at his payments, and of Bauck Sydses was not rosy.

The son Bocke Bockes the Younger of the couple just named was settled at Jorwerd. In the Church Book of Jorwerd we find in the year 1639 this son and his wife Wopk Foppes among the members. Before 9 September 1635 he was however married to Bauck Jans, as appears from the following Inventory, occurring in the Weesboek of Baarderadeel, N 5, 1634—1643:

> "Inventory and description of goods, made and found at Jorwert in the house of Bocke Bockes, having belonged jointly to him and Bauck Jans, his deceased wife, by us, Ate Ates Co-judge and Gossuinus Atsma, Secretary over Baerderadeel, at the request of the aforesaid Bocke and by the declaration and statement of the same, duly sworn thereto, in the presence and hearing also of Wopck Foppedr. the said Bocke Bockes' present wife, as follows:
> In the first place three children, by name
> Bocke Bockes, aged 17 years
> Piettie Bockes, aged 14 years
> Trijntie Bockes, aged 10 years.

[1] These were apparently: Hessel Hessels (the child of Trijn Symens by a former marriage), her stepchildren: Symon Bockes, Bocke Bockes and Geerdt Bockes and her children: Sijds Bockes, Pieter Bockes and .... ? Bockes.

> Documents.
> Obl^{te} (bond) on Pijter Martens at Beers for 200 ggl. dated 18 April 1635
> Bauck Sijdses, the stepmother of Bocke Bockes, owes by division three hundred ggl. with one year's interest fallen due May 1635.
> Promissory note of Juffr. Anna van Hottinga for one hundred dalers dated 16 December 1634.
> Obl^{ie} on Sijds Bockes with his wife at Rinsummageest dated 27 May 1620 for one hundred ggl. with five years' interest. 30 ggl.
> Seerp, merchant at Jorwert, owes by promissory note 100 ggl. 107-4-0.
> Pijter Lyuws with his wife, now living at Cubaerd, owe by Obl^{te} 300 ggl., with two years' interest fallen due May 1635, 36 ggl.
> Obl^{te} on Bauck Sijdsedr. at Miedum for two hundred ggl. dated 4 May 1633, with one year's interest fallen due at May 1635 (together) 212 ggl.
> The lease charter of the farm.
> Obl^{te} on Cornelis Doeckes at Britzum for one hundred gg^{s} with one year's interest 106 ggl.
> Obl^{te} on Douwe Luywes with his wife at Lions, to the sum of one hundred ggl. with two years' interest, together 112 ggl.
> Obl^{te} on Reijloff Haables for two hundred ggl., on which there remain six gg. of interest fallen due May 1635 206 ggl.
> Obl^{te} on Tied Syurds, widow of Jan Hayes at Beers, on which there remain 100 ggl.
> Obl^{te} on Take Lourens with his wife at Oosterwierum dated 12 May 1634 with one year's interest, for three hundred ggl.: 318 gg.
> Obl^{te} on Claes Hessels with his wife at Schillaard to the sum of four hundred gg^{n} with two years' interest fallen due May 1635 448 gg.
> Obl^{te} on Juffr. Anna van Hottinga for one hundred gg. dated 15 March 1635. 100 ggl.
> Contract between Bocke Bockes with his wife and the late Jan Jansen.
> Testament of the said Jan Jansen.
> Hans Hoijtes owes by Obl^{te} four hundred gg^{s} with one year's interest fallen due May 1635 424 gg.
> Reiner Dircks at Beers owes 19—22—0

> Owed to a butcher at Leuwarden 25— 0—0
> Jay Sicke's widow owes 5—21—0 > four gold guilders premium 4— 0—0 > one Lyuwe daler 1—12—0 > one Rosenobel 7— 4—0
>
> one portugues piece, one Rijder, one Rosenobel, one golden engel, one unvalued gg^{s}, 2 prinse dalers, 1 Lyuwedaler, 1 Rijcksdal:, 1 staets daeler, 1 daler of 30 st., a half and a whole cluyt, further Bocke has about 7 ℔ in money [joined by a brace to the note printed at the right:] Of these coins set apart Bocke Bockes declared that they belonged to the children > Debts payable:
> The Cooper is due 5 ℔ 3—16—0
> Pijter Siercks is due 100— 0—0
> Done 9 September 1635 (w.g.) Aete Aetes (w.g.) Gossuinus Atsma."

Bocke Bockes (the Younger) was, according to an entry in the Recesboek (register of court decrees) of Baarderadeel dated 24 January 1642, Kerkvoogd (church warden). In the same book, on page 73 and dated 25 February 1645, Bocke Bockes and Anske Douwes, both inhabitants of the village of Jorwert, declare that Wijbe (aged in his 23rd year), son of the late Jan Harmens, also in accordance with the wish of his mother Aeltie Wybes, is capable of administering his own goods and that therefore the said Wijbe will to that end request (Latin) exemption from minority. There seems to have been no family relationship between these inhabitants; both Bocke Bockes and Anske Douwes appear here merely as notable inhabitants of Jorwerd.

Of Aege (Agge) Romckes, who was married to a daughter of Pieter Bockes' brother Syds Bockes, much information has been collected, because, as has been mentioned, he was one of the persons who requested the appointment of a curator over the children of Prof. Johannes Greydanus. These data follow here:

In the list of members of Dronrijp drawn up in the year 1658 one finds Agge Romckes' wife Trijntie Sydses under the designation: "Trijntje Agges Romkes wyff"

On 12 August 1664 Agge Romckes of Dronrijp was, upon the confession of his faith, incorporated into that congregation by Baptism in the Dutch Reformed Church there.

He repeatedly bought and sold land and houses. As buyer he appears, either alone or with his wife or other persons, in:

> Reces-Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Menaldumadeel: 27 Nov. 1649/11 Dec. 1649/15 January 1650. Agge Romckes, living in the village of Dronrijp, buys a certain house, yard etc. on the Nyeve buiren near the Hoornbrugge in the said village, having Wopke Jansen's house and yard to the East, Harcke Hommes' yard to the South, a certain alley to the West, the Heerevaert to the North, acquired by purchase from Rieme Romckesdr. in the said village for 850 ggl.;

> Reces-Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Menaldumadeel: 24 Nov./8/22 Dec. 1663. Aege Rompckes and Trijntie Sydses, spouses at Dronrijp, buy a certain house, shed and small yard etc. in the said village near the Hornbrugge, having Eelckien Everts Atsma to the North and the house of the heirs of Jelle Jenties to the South, on condition that the fence to the South is to be maintained at the charge of the buyers and the fence to the North at the charge of the said Eelckien Everts, while the fence to the East is at the charge of Eme Fransen, purchased from Jeppe Freerx and Weentien Hijlckes, spouses at Sweins, for the sum of 425 ggl. with a gold ducaton, according to the deed of sale dated 17 May 1663;
> Reces-Proclamatieboek of Menaldumadeel: 28 Nov. 1665/12 Dec. 1665/16 Jan. 1666. Aege Rompckes and Trijntie Sijdses, spouses at Dronrijp, buy a certain house, shed and yard etc., situated there by the Hornbrugge, having the proclaimants themselves to the East, Pijtter Gerrijts to the South and the common waterway to the North, purchased from Claes Goslickx Eekema and Sijtske Scheltes Valckenburgh, spouses at Franeker, for the sum of 645 ggl. with a gold ducaton and a gold ducat;
> Reces-Proclamatieboek of Menaldumadeel: 19/26 Febr./19 Mrt. 1667. Seerp Pabes (who was married to Ansch Claesses and lived at Dronrijp) and Aege Rompckes cum uxore buy 3½ P.M. of land, situated within the clockslach (bell-district) there, between the Blauhuijs and Dronrijp, purchased from the heirs of the late Tieets Wijtses, for the sum of 135 ggl. 7 st. per P.M.
> Seerp Pabes and Aege Rompckes cum uxore at Dronrijp buy 1 P.M. of land within the clockslach of Dronrijp, having the Heere Eelco van Glinstra to the Southeast and Southwest, the Lane to the Northeast and Northwest, purchased from all the heirs together of the late Tieets Wijtses, for 135 ggl.; > Reces-Proclamatieboek of Menaldumadeel: 8 March 1670. Sioerdt Douwes Gortmaker (groats miller) at Dronrijp, curator over Eelck Fokes, the child of Foke Harckes, Mr. Backer (master baker) and Attie Rienckx, spouses at Dronrijp, sell by decree a house and yard etc. by the Hornbrugge on the corner of the Treckwech, with a free storage place on the West side of the bridge.
> Bid with strijckgelt (bidding premium) by Aege Rompckes in his capacity 275 ggl.;
> Proclamatieboek of Hennaarderadeel: 12 May/19 ditto/9 June 1675. Lolcke Ulbes cum uxore (that was Bauck Lolckes, probably widow of Gerleff Romckes, possibly a brother of Agge Romckes) and Agge Romckes cum uxore, all living at Dronrijp, buy about 1 P.M. of arable land at Welsrijp for 75 ggl.;
> Proclamatieboek of Hennaarderadeel: 17/24 Sept./22 Oct. 1679. Agge Romkes, merchant at Dronrijp, buys about 1 P.M. of arable land at Welsrijp from Lolcke Ulbes for 51 cargl.;

As sellers Agge Romckes and Trijn Sijdses appear in the Reces-Proclamatieboek of Menaldumadeel in the two following deeds:

> 28 Nov./12 Dec. 1665/16 Jan. 1666: Aege Rompckes and Trijn Sijdsesdr., spouses at Dronrijp, sell the house /purchased by proclamation dated 24 Nov./8/22 December 1663 and of which the Eastern adjoining neighbour is now named as: Ime Fransen/ for 512 ggl. to Aucke Martens and Aecht Cornelisdr., spouses;
> 9/23 Oct./6 Nov. 1666: Aege Rompckes and Trijntie Sijdses, spouses at Dronrijp, sell a house and yard etc. /purchased by proclamation dated 28 Nov./12 Dec. 1665/16 Jan. 1666 and now with "the common street to the W."/ for 580 ggl. to Lolle Jeltes at Dronrijp.

Agge Romckes and Trijn Sydses repeatedly lent money to others, as may appear from the following acknowledgements of debt occurring in the Hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers) of Menaldumadeel:

> 23 June 1665 (registered 11 May 1669). Bocke Sijdses and Trijn Wijbes (Bocke Sydses was a brother of Trijn Sijdses), spouses at Blessum, owe 100 ggl. to Age Rompckes and Trijn Sijdses, spouses at Dronrijp, at 4%;
> 7 July 1665 (registered 10 June 1667). Ime Fransen and Tyttie Claesesdr., spouses at Dronrijp, owe 50 ggl. to Aege Rompckes and Trijntie Sydsesdr., spouses in the said village, at 5%;
> 24 June 1667 (registered 11 May 1669). Bocke Sijdses and Trijntie Wijbes (see above), spouses at Blessum, owe 50 ggl. to Age Rompckes and Trijntie Sijdses, spouses at Dronrijp, at 4½%;
> 17 June 1668 (registered 11 May 1669). Bocke Tiettes Schipper and Rixt Gerrijts, spouses at Dronrijp, owe 100 ggl. to Age Rompckes and Trijntien Sydses, spouses there, at 5%;
> 19 May 1676 (registered 2 April 1681). Feer Tierdts, Mr. Smit (master smith) at Dronrijp, owes 50 ggl. to Agge Romckes, merchant, and Trijntien Sydses, spouses there, interest 5%;
> 18 Mrt 1678 (registered 2 April 1681). Feer Tierdts, Mr. Smit at Dronrijp, and Lijsbit Hendrix owe 50 ggl. to Agge Romckes, merchant at Dronrijp, interest 5%.

According to the acknowledgements of debt mentioned above dated 19 May 1676 and 18 Mrt 1678, and according to the proclamation named above dated 17/24 Sept./22 Oct. 1679 in the Proclamatieboek of Hennaarderadeel, Agge Rompckes was a merchant at Dronrijp.

Concerning his trade only the following could be found:

In an orphans' account of 30 April 1672, rendered by Douwe Jelles, farmer and eldest Deacon, at Dronrijp, concerning the two grandchildren of the late Tialle Everts, Mr. Schoenm^{r} (master shoemaker) and Gryttie Jans, spouses at Dronrijp, there occurs among the expenses an entry dated 19 January 1671: “paid to Aege Rompckes at Dronrijp 1—5—12 for candles delivered in the house of the deceased Tialle Ewerts.”

At the same time, or earlier, Agge Romkes seems to have been a skipper, as appears from the following note in the Acts of the Church Council at Dronrijp:

> 2 February 1666. “After calling upon God's Holy Name and after the preceding complaints and reports, the following matters were dealt with: 1^{o} etc.
> 2^{o} concerning the excuses of Agge Romkes, accused of offensive drunkenness, a further investigation was made, and it having been found that on account of his unfitness to steer the ship he had been fined by the Voogden (wardens) in accordance with the contract and the lists of the skippers, it was resolved: that he shall be denied the use of the Lord's Holy Supper, as has been done.”

In 1679 Agge Romckes was administering “armefoeghd” (warden of the poor), since the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Menaldumadeel contains: “11 February 1679 (registered 19 November 1679). Joannis Annes at Menaem and Trijntie Jans owe 50 ggl. to Aegge Romckes and Anne Andries, administering armefoeghden in the village of Dronryp, at 5%.”

It is possible that Agge Romckes died before 26 October 1680, since the Menaldumadeel Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of 26 October/19 November 1680 records (it concerned the sale of a baker's house near the Hoornbrug at Dronrijp) that this house was sold with the right of a free alley to Trijn Aeges, by which Trijn Sijdses, the widow of Agge Romkes, might be meant.

In any case, by 25 January 1682 both Agge Romkes and Trijn Sijdses had exchanged the temporal for the eternal, on the strength of the following Inventory, which is found in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Menaldumadeel:

> “22 May/25 January 1682. Inventory of all the goods, both movable and immovable, claims, credits and rights, none excepted, left behind at the death of Aege Romckes and Trijntie Sydses, in their time husband and wife, and found in the house of the deceased, at the request of Atie (Attie) Sydses, living at Hoogebeintum for herself, and Sybe Thomes at Hillaerd (cousin on the father's side) as authorized curator ad act. divisionis over Sijds Bockes, son left behind by Bocke Sydses, begotten in marriage with Trijntie Wijbes, together with Trijntie Jans, widow of the late Sijtse Sijdses at Doccum, as mother and guardian of her children Tietske and Jan Sytses, procreated in marriage with the aforesaid Sijtse Sydses, each of them in that capacity heir for ⅓ part of the aforementioned Trijntie Sydses, all according to the statement of Aecke Pijtters the maidservant.”
> Furthermore mention is made of bonds, among others chargeable to Sijtse Sijdses for 150 ggl. dated 19 May 1660; to Bocke Sijdses with his wife for 50 ggl. dated 24 June 1677 and for 100 ggl., besides a deed of cession standing on the deed of sale or counterpart of Meijnert Aeles' ship's deed, chargeable to Meijnert Ales, for 100 ggl.
> Among the charges on the estate the following should also be mentioned:
> Aeffcke Buwes and Rintie Rinties are entitled, according to the testamentary disposition of the late Aegge Romckes dated 11 May 1679, to the sum of 1400 — of which 403 ℔ 10 st. 8 p. had been paid, leaving with interest 1008—18—8.
> Petrus Greydanus[1] is entitled by virtue of the aforesaid Testament to the sum of 100 ℔, together with ¼ of a year's interest amounting to 1 ℔ 5 st. 101—5—.
> The children of Nanne Dirx at Arum are entitled for the same reason to 101—5—.
> The Diaconie poor at Dronrijp are entitled each by virtue of the aforesaid Testament to the sum of 25 ℔ or together 50—0—.

[the date at the head of the last quotation is printed as a fraction, “22 May” above “25 January”.]

On the strength of the foregoing we can say that Agge Romckes, married to Trijntie Sijdses, was skipper, merchant and armefoeghd at Dronrijp. He was not without means, as appears from his purchases of land and houses, his lending out of moneys, and the estate of his widow, which inheritance fell to her sister and her two brothers. Agge Romckes died childless and in his will remembered the Diaconie poor of Dronrijp, as well as various children, among them Prof. Johannes Greydanus' youngest son Petrus, to whom a sum of 100 gulden was assigned.

Probably Agge Romckes was married twice more besides his marriage to Trijntie Sijdses. One of those marriages will have been to Edttie Doeckes; at any rate the Leeuwarden marriage registers contain under the date 17 August 1645 the marriage of Agge Romkis of Dronrijp and Edttie Doeckes of Menaem, "after they had produced certificates that their banns had been lawfully proclaimed in the aforesaid villages".

Pyter Bockes, who must have settled at Franeker before 1635, the year in which he was there admitted as a burgher, was in that town a "voerman" (carrier), as is stated for instance in the documents named on pages 89 and 90 under 2° and under 3°; for his occupation there is also sometimes given "wagener" (carter) [1]. Furthermore he is also found with the designation "stalman" (stable-keeper), in connection with the stable which he, as a carter, needed for his horses and vehicles [2].

[1] This was the youngest child of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, who at his father's death was not yet 3 years old and at the drawing up of Agge Romckes' will not yet 14 years old.

Finally he also occurs with the title "schuyrman" (barn-man) [3], by which at that time in Franeker one seems to have indicated the man who had the use of "the" barn, that is the barn of the Sjaerdemaslot [4].

In an inventory of 6 February 1633 [5] we find given as "schuyrman": Cornelis Tjaardts, who, like Pyter Bockes, was a carter [6], and who apparently lived in the barn of the Sjaerdemaslot, since in N° 807 of the Telting-Register on the Servysrolle (billeting roll) of the year 1631/1632, of Jr Philips van Boshuysen it says: "Herman Huls van Arntsen (at Cornelis in Sternzee's Barn, received by Corn. himself)".

Pyter Bockes, who became a citizen of Franeker in 1635, thus appears to have succeeded Cornelis Tjaardts as "schuyrman".

In the description of the citizenry of Franeker of 1636 and 1640 [7] there occurs under "Half West" Pyter Bockes alongside Prof. Winsemius, who was then the occupant of the Sjaerdemaslot.

In the tax registers of the municipal assessment of Franeker of 24 June 1642, of 27 March 1648 and of 6 August 1651 [8] one finds under "1st Wester-Quartier" successively:

"The castle and the barn";

"Jr Herema for the castle; PYTER BOCKES for the barn";

"The castle alone, PYTER BOCKES for the barn".

In 1650 Cornelis Dircx Laensma and Pyter Bockes bought the house on the corner of "de Greyde" and the Sjaerdemastraat (see the following page). Both sold their half: Cornelis Dircxz. Laensma, according to the proclamation of 25 January/1 and 8 February 1656 in the Franeker proclamatieboek (register of property sales), to Ids Hessels Mr. Smith in Harlingen for 300 ggl. and a rijcxedaeler, and Pyter Bockes in 1665 to his son-in-law Prof. Johannes Greydanus for 300 Car. gnls and a Ducaet (see page 89 under 2°, page 90 under 3° and page 99).

From the foregoing one might draw the conclusion that Pyter Bockes, on settling in Franeker, at first lived in the barn of the Sjaerdemaslot, but that later he indeed continued to use that barn for his carting business, while living on the corner of "de Greyde" and the Sjaerdemastraat. Since that barn must have stood in the neighbourhood of the Sjaerdemastraat, it was situated right next to this corner house.

When in 1667 the house standing next to this corner house on "de Greyde" was sold by Willem Hendricx (Woudman) [9], who at the purchase of the corner house in 1650 was the eastern so-called "naastleger" (adjoining neighbour), the property sold was described among other things as "having Pytter Bockes cum socijs to the west as nearest neighbour".

[1] See for example in the Boelgoedboeken (auction registers) of Franeker the sale on 12 June 1641 at the house of: "Joost Poth Churgijn", where "Piter Bockes, Wagener" buys: "2 scales .... —18 — ....".

[2] See Portfolio with Lawsuit Papers Franeker I N°. 16, year 1666, lawsuit between "Dirck Pyters Stalman in de Croon at Leeuwarden and Pyter Bockes Stalman at Franeker".

[3] See for example the Sentence of the Franeker Nedergerecht (lower court) of 27 November 1657 "Pyter Bockes Schuyrman residing here, plaintiff, and Anne Auckens Rispens, innkeeper, within the aforesaid town". In a judgment dated 12 March 1646 in the Sententieboek (book of judgments) of Franekeradeel there appears as plaintiff: "Pijter Bockes Schuerman Carter of the Town of Fraeneker".

[4] The Sjaerdemaslot was a castle rebuilt in the middle of the 15th century by Douwe Sjaerdema within the walls, but entirely surrounded by a moat, on the west side of Franeker, between the Noorderpoort and the Westerpoort. After the Sjaerdema family had died out, the castle had various occupants, among others: Carel van Sternsee, after whom it was also called the "Sternseeslot", and Descartes, who wrote his "Méditations Métaphysiques" there, while in 1725 it was completely demolished. Even today the land where the castle once stood is called the "Sternse Slotland".

[5] See Estate Inventories Franeker B. B. 9, Inventory dated 6 February 1633 of Aefke Simon Nannes: Debts owing of the late widow of Marten Feikes: "Cornelis Tijaardtszn Schuyrman, subject to deduction of cartage fees earned 23—3—..".

[6] See No. 757 of the Telting-Register, year 1626. Among the 10 carters meant here there is one who signs the first time with a hand mark as Cornelis Tyaerdtsz., the second time as Cornelis Tyaerdtsz Schuyrman.

[7] See No. 844 of the Telting-Register.

[8] See Nos. 889, 959 and 1017 of the Telting-Register.

[9] See Proclamatieboek of Franeker 30 January/6 and 20 February 1657.

In the marriage entry of Pyter Bockes' daughter with Dr. Johannes Greydanus (see page 87) there stands after her name: "Aen Siaerdama Huis", by which probably is meant the indication of her dwelling place on the corner of "de Greyde" and the Sjaerdemastraat near the Sjaerdemaslot.

Here follows a complete copy of the purchase and of the sale of the said corner house by Pyter Bockes.

Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franeker.

"25 October/8 November 1650. Cornelis Dircxz Laensma and Pyter Bockes, both burghers of Franeker, with their respective wives, buy a certain house, barn and empty lot with their appurtenances, standing here on the western corner of de Greyde, having Willem Hendricx to the east, Pyter Freercx to the south, and the common street to the west and north, charged with 28 stuivers annual grondpacht (ground rent) and its proper floreen, acquired by purchase from the creditors of the late Johannes Piers Tania."

Protocolboek (Register of deeds of sale) Franeker (1659—1667). (N. N. 3 fol. 401verso).

"Pyter Bockes, voerman (carrier) and burgher of Franeker, do make known and acknowledge, for myself and my heirs, that in a free, firm, lasting and perpetual hereditary sale I have sold and conveyed in true ownership to my lord Johannis Greidanus, L.A. D^{r} et Philosoph. Professor in the university within Franeker aforesaid, a certain rightful half of a certain house and barn together with stabling, with the empty lot to the east, and further everything (: that is to say the rightful half :) that is fixed to the ground and nailed fast therein, standing here on the Greyde, having Dirck Bauckes' house to the east, Freerck Pyters' inhabited house to the south, and the common street next to the west and north, with the useful ownership of the site, charged with twenty-eight stuivers in all of annual grondpacht and its proper floreen, and further with the actions, servitudes, pre-eminences and rights that have belonged thereto of old. All this thus sold and given for the sum of three hundred Carolus guilders with a ducat at five gold guilders for the seller's eldest grandchild[1], as an addition, to be paid in ready money; and since I, the seller, have this day been fully satisfied and contented with regard to the aforesaid money, I therefore place him, the buyer, by the delivery of this deed, in the free ownership and vacant possession of the house, barn, stabling and empty lot with the aforesaid appurtenances, so that he may this very day, upon the passing of this deed, on his own authority take possession of the same, hold it, own it, and do and leave undone with it all that anyone may do with his own and is permitted by law, without needing any further emission or other legal formality thereto. Promising and undertaking, I the seller, to deliver the aforesaid house, barn, stabling and empty lot with their appurtenances entirely free, and to warrant against eviction of the same (:as the law requires), and also that I shall make, or allow to be made, no further claim upon the buyer or his heirs concerning the aforesaid purchase money; all sincerely, in true witness my hand mark, not being able to write otherwise, and at my request the hand of the undersigned notary in Franeker. Done the 19th of December 1665. Afterwards the buyer's wife Ytie Wijmersma also consents to all this; for verification she has signed this with her own hand. Done as above. Below stood. This is Pyter Bockes' [drawn hand mark, two crossed X-like figures] own set mark, Yette Pytters Wijmersma, Jetso Goslings Not. Publ. with flourishes:

Agrees, after collation made, with the principal exhibited deed of sale and the consent passed thereon in due form, this 9th of February 1666.
In witness of us
(signed) Olphardus Hendema (signed) G. Kaldenbach."
1666

From this last entry the hand mark of Pyter Bockes appears, which mark is also found, among other places, in N^{o} 1114 of the Telting Register, for the year 1661, being a "Petition of the carriers, to be allowed to stand unhindered with their wagons at the Harlinger Poort, as of old, in order to take up passengers, which the Harlinger skippers wish to prevent them from doing". The petition is signed by Pyter Bockes with:

This is [drawn hand mark, two crossed X-like figures] Pyter Bockes' set hand mark.

This hand mark, of which Pyter Bockes apparently always made use, is also found in the will of 14 September 1646 of Syouck Dircx Fogelsangh, widow of Jacob Pijbes Doma, in his lifetime merchant at Leeuwarden. Pyter Bockes appears as a witness in this will, which is recorded in the Register (Part I) of the Fideicommissary Testaments recorded before the Court of Friesland, present at the State Archives.

[1] That was the son of Johannes Greydanus and Ytie Wimersma: Tjardus, who was born 19 January 1656 and thus was then, but for one month, 10 years old.

On 20 November 1661 Pyter Bockes bought for 400 ggl. from his son-in-law Prof. Johannes Greydanus and the latter's relatives the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh — the Jan Buwes House — on "de Greyde" (see page 65) [1].

The purchase was proclaimed in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) on 13 and 21 December 1661 and 17 January 1662, and recorded in the Franeker Protocolboek (Register of deeds of sale fol. 137 N. N. 3) on 16 January 1662, which entry reads as follows:

"Johannes Greijdanus Doctor of Medicine and Professor in the University within Franeker, Trijntie Jansdr. lawful wife of Tiaerd Johaens and Bauck Isckesdr. lawful wife of Lou Jans living within the aforesaid Franeker, with the consent and assistance of our respective lawful husbands, we make known and acknowledge for ourselves and our heirs that of our free will, by earnest money, in a firm, standing and everlasting hereditary sale we have sold and conveyed in full ownership, doing so by these presents, to the honourable Pijter Pytter [2] Bockes son, burgher within the aforesaid town, a certain house and shed with the freedom of the alley on the west, with everything therein that is fixed to the ground, by spike and nail, with appurtenances, standing and lying within Franeker on de Greijde, having the heirs of the late old Burgomaster Thonis Andries Kroll on the east, the garden of Professor Mol on the south, Tiaerd Johannis' house on the west and the waterway on the north, charged with XX stuivers yearly ground rent and its proper floreen, and further with actions, servitudes, pre-eminences and rights thereon and belonging thereto; this thus sold and given for the sum of four hundred ggl., the piece at 28 stuivers, to be raised, satisfied and paid by the buyer in free costs and indemnified money in conformity with the articles of sale, in three equal terms, namely on the first of May 1661, 1662 and 1663, each time a third part until full payment, whereof the buyer has this day, under the same date hereof, contented and satisfied us the sellers with sufficient counter-deed; so it is that we, with the delivery hereof, place him in the free full hereditary ownership and in the vacant real and actual possession of the aforesaid sold house and shed with appurtenances, in order to take possession of, hold and use the same on the first of May next coming on his own authority, with a good and rightful title of purchase, and further to do, deal with and let happen all things therewith as everyone may with his own free property and as is permitted by law; therefore we the sellers promise and undertake for ourselves and our heirs to free, warrant and protect the buyer and his heirs in the sold property as related, against all other people's hands, claims and demands as well as hindrance, and also to guarantee against eviction, as by law shall be proper, under pledge of all our present and future movable and immovable goods, none excepted, with submission of our persons to the Court of Friesland and all other courts in the first instance; in witness whereof our usual signatures and at our entreaty and request the hand of Egbertus Lycklama Notary Public within Franeker as witness set hereunder, through long continuation signed the 20th of November 1661, signed Johannus Greijdanus; Lou Jans; Tiaard ⌐ Johaens' set mark; Trijntie Jans; Bauck Iskes; E. Lijclama with flourishes.
Agrees after collation made with the principal exhibited deed of sale whereon consent in due form was passed the XVIth of January 1662
In witness from us
(signed) Cornelis Simens (signed) N. Hindema."
De Weijn

At the beginning of 1663 this 8th house was still the property of Pyter Bockes, as appears from the sale of the house adjoining it on the west, belonging to Tjeerd (Tjaard) Johannes. The proclamation relating to this sale, dated 16/23/30 January 1663, is recorded in the Franeker Proclamatieboek as follows:

> "Rienck Jans Schuytevoerder with his wife, living within Franeker, buys a house, shed and garden with appurtenances on de Greyde within Franeker, having Pieter Bockes on the east, Professor Mol's garden on the south and Catalina Adams, widow of the late Hendrick Siphes, on the west, charged with 20 stuivers yearly ground rent, acquired by purchase from Tieerd Johannes with his partners, living at Itens, for the sum of 200 ggl."

When, however, on 29 April 1667 the 7th house was sold by Aecht Thonis Kroll [3], wife of Hans Jansen Molenaar, according to the entry of 3 April 1668 below in the Franeker Protocolboek, the western neighbour of it, thus the owner of the 8th house, was Professor Greydanus:

> "Johannes Duieringh bookseller and Abbe Jaeckles master carpenter buy a certain good,

[printer's signature mark "8" at the bottom left of the page]

[1] This 8th house had been sold on 27 January 1652 (see page 24) by Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. to her son-in-law Hidde Johans and her daughter Imke Jans. Apparently, then, between 1652 and 1661, through the death of Imke Jans, it passed to her two brothers: Tyaerd Jans, who had died and for whom his son Prof. Johannes Greydanus appeared, and Claes Jansen, who had likewise already died and for whom his wife Bauck Isckes appeared, and to her sister Trijntie Jans.

[2] By mistake "Pijter" has been written twice.

[3] In 1661 this 7th house stood in the name of the "heirs of the late old Burgomaster Thonis Andries Kroll".

> well-situated house, garden, yard and back kitchen etc. on the Greijde, having Riench Schuitevoerder to the East, the house of Professor Greydanus to the West, the Diept to the North and to the South Sytse Jansens' widow; charged with 14 stuivers ground rent to Hessel Heinema, bought from Aecht Thonis Kroll, lawful wife of Hans Jansen Molenaer, living in Franequer.

Between 1663 and 29 April 1667 the 8th house must therefore have passed from Pyter Bockes to his son-in-law Prof. Johannes Greydanus. This is entirely explicable, since Pyter Bockes and his wife Lysbeth Sickes died before the said date, and Ytie Pieters, Prof. Johannes Greydanus' wife, was their only child, as will appear further on (see page 113 sub 1° and page 117).

In 1684 the owner of the 8th house is named as "the late Professor Greidanus' heirs", in the sale of the 9th house occurring in the Franeker proclamatieboek (register of property sales) and in the Franeker protocolboek, by the creditors of the late Jancke Dirx, last widow of Rienck Jansen Schuytevoerder, who, as mentioned above, had bought the house at the beginning of 1663. This sale dated 16 February 1684 is recorded in the Protocolboek on 12 December 1684 as follows:

> "We the undersigned mortgage and preferential creditors of the late Jancke Dircx, widow of the late Tiallingh Sibouts and last wife of the late Rienck Jansen Schuytevoerder on the Greide sell to Dirck Hobbes, carpenter and Doccumer skipper, with his wife, in Franeker, a certain house and yard etc. standing and situated on the Greide, left by the late Jancke Dircx and inhabited by Jan Allerts, having the heirs of the late Professor Greidanus to the East and Pibe Jansen Baenheer to the West, for the sum of 65 guilders."

That we are here really dealing with the same "Greydanus house" follows from the name of the western neighbour, thus of the owner of the 10th house. For that owner, namely, Pibe Jansen Baenheer is given. He bought the said premises from Mons Georgius Duinterp and Japke Douwes Hobbema. Mons Georgius Duinterp — Dutch Reformed minister at Jutrijp and Hommerts — was, according to note 2 on page 72, a grandson of Hendrik Sipkes Duinterp and Cathalina Adolphs (also called Adams). And this Cathalina Adolphs or Adams was now in 1663 the widow and owner of the 10th house.

Finally the 8th house on "de Greyde" at Franeker was sold at the end of 1698 by the "Greydanus" family according to the Franeker proclamation of 25 Nov./2/25 Dec. 1698. This proclamation, completed as far as necessary from the Protocolboek, reads as follows:

> "Sybren Claessen with his wife (Maycke Bouwes) at Franeker buy a certain house and kitchen with appurtenances on the Greyde, having Jan Allerts to the West and Mr. Jan Cornelis to the East, charged with 20 stuivers yearly ground rent and its proper house floreen, as also to the married pro-claimants with 10 years' lease at 16 Carolus guilders yearly, acquired by purchase from Ds. Tiardus Greydanus minister in the village of Achlum with partner (namely Elisabeth Greijdanus, wife of Mr. Joannes Antonides at Sexbierum for the other half) for the sum of 160 Carolus guilders. Adjudication to the proclaimants 15 Dec. 1698."

The proof that this proclamation relates to the 8th house is provided by the mentioned name of the western neighbour Jan Allerts, who in 1684 is given as the occupant of the 9th house.

Herewith there is added, concerning the 8th house on "de Greyde", which was thus at least 80 years in the possession of the "Greydanus" family, a tabular survey, from which one can see the successive owners of the house and of the adjoining properties, and in which is also included what has previously been reported about them.

In the above-mentioned description of the citizenry of Franeker in 1640, Pyter Bockes is mentioned as "Musquetier" (musketeer), while in 1647, according to the "Rolle van het Westerquartier" [1], he was "Rotmeester" (squad commander) of the Musketeers.

In the various Franeker Registers Pyter Bockes is repeatedly encountered; the last time that he himself could be found in them is 23 July 1666, namely in the Civiel Sententieboek (civil judgments register) of Franeker, in which is recorded:

[1] See No. 947 of the Telting-Register.

Survey of the Owners of the 8th House from the Nauwe Steegh, and of the adjoining parcels, on "de Greyde" at Franeker.

S. E.—◯—W. Nauwe Steegh ← N.	6th HOUSE	7th HOUSE	8th HOUSE	9th HOUSE	10th HOUSE on "de Greyde" at Franeker. → Sjaerdemastraat.
21 December 1618 (see page 61).		Joachim Wldrix	Offered for sale by Jan Buwes and Trijn Tyaerdsdr., husband and wife, but not sold.	Anne Gerryts.
17/24 Nov./1 Dec. 1620 (see page 61, note 1).			Jan Buvis.	Sold by Tyerk Gerryts et al. to Hendrik Anez.
27 January/27 February 1652.		Adam Uldricks	Sold by Trijntie Tyaerdsdr., widow of the late Jan Bouwes, to her son-in-law Hidde Johans and her daughter Imke Jans for 575 g.gl.	Occupant: Sijts Heijns.
20 November 1661.		Heirs of the late old Burgomaster Thonis Andries Kroll.	Sold by Prof. Johannes Greydanus, Trijntie Jans and Bauck Iskes, widow of Claes Jansen, to Prof. Greydanus' father-in-law Pyter Bockes for 400 g.gl.	Tiaard Johannis.
16/23/30 January 1663.			Pyter Bockes, the father-in-law of Prof. Greydanus.	Sold by Tieerd Johannes cum socijs to Rienck Jans Schuytevoerder cum uxore for 200 g.gl.	Catalina Adams (Adolfs), widow of the late Hendrik Sipckes (Duynterp).
6/13 March/3 April 1668.	Rienck Schuitevoerder	Sold by Hans Jansen Molenaer, married to Aecht Thonis Kroll, to Johannes Duieringh, bookseller, and Abbe Jaeckles, master carpenter, cum uxoribus for 515 g.gl.	Prof. Greydanus.
23/30 March/20 April 1683.				Tenant: Jan Allerts.	Sold by Monsr. Georgius Duinterp and Japke Douwes Hobbema to Pybe Baenheer.
16 February 1684.			The heirs of the late Professor Greidanus.	Sold by the creditors of the late Jancke Dircx, last wife of the late Rienck Jansen Schuytevoerder, to Dirck Hobbes for 65 g.gl.. Occupant: Jan Allerts.	Pibe Jansen Baenheer.

S. E.—◯—W. Nauwe Steegh ← N.	6th HOUSE	7th HOUSE	8th HOUSE	9th HOUSE	10th HOUSE on "de Greyde" at Franeker. → Sjaerdemastraat.
25 Nov./2/25 Dec. 1698.		Mr. Jan Cornelis	Sold by D[s] Tiardus Greydanus for ½ and Elisabeth Greydanus for ½ to Sybren Claesen, married to Maycke Bouwes, for 160 car.gl.	Jan Allerts.

Belongs with page 101.

Line of descent: Ged[e] appelleert zich op het Hof van Friesland

> "15 Dec. 1665/23 July 1666. Pijter Bockes, citizen of Franeker, against Dirck Pijters, innkeeper in the Kroon at Leeuwarden — who was the defendant —. The Court, assessing the damage from the loss of the horse mentioned in the complaint at 10 caroli guilders, condemns the defendant to pay this sum to the plaintiff, and also condemns the defendant in the costs of the proceedings according to the Court's assessment."

The name Pyter Bockes still occurs in the proclamation of 10/16 February/23 March 1677 in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales), according to which proclamation "the merchants Feicke Sijbrens and Thomas Hiddes buy the hereinafter specified ground rents, issuing from the houses of . . . . . .

"Pyter Bockes for 1 (caroli) guilder; bought from the Lords Overseers of the Poor of the Town of Franeker".

In a "Muster of the town's carters/the town's wagon services/" [printed as a fraction, "stadsvoerlieden" above the line and "(de stads waagenveeren)" below] of 11 April 1667 on the reverse of the "Register of ship and wagon services, tapsters and guild monies 1661—1824", present in the Franeker Municipal Archive, the name Pyter Bockes is no longer given, so that Pyter Bockes will have died between 23 July 1666 and 11 April 1667.

His occupation of "carter" must have consisted in the transport of persons and goods and in the hiring out of horses and vehicles, including sledges.

From the Academic Archive of Franeker[1] it appears that he had hired out a "grey gelding" to Dr. Aemilius Huber and Petrus Brouverus, who, according to Pyter Bockes, had "driven this horse improperly before the sledge", which had had as a consequence "that the horse used by them, through an accident to the left hind foot, was completely and entirely ruined for his use" and that "among other things the sledge had also been damaged".

In the Sentences of the Franeker Lower Court of 24 June/3 December 1652 [printed as a fraction, "24 June" above "3 December"] it is recorded that together with the carter Pyter Freercx he had taken on the town's contracted-out "mud carting".

In 1661 he signed the request of the Franeker carters already mentioned on page 99 above, to be allowed to stand undisturbed with their wagons at the Harlinger Poort, as of old, in order to take up passengers, which the Harlingen skippers wished to prevent them from doing[2].

From the aforementioned lawsuit with the stable keeper Dirck Pyters in de Croon at Leeuwarden it appears that Pyter Bockes had a servant Wiger Jeppes in his employ and that a horse of his had "by chance" been stabled with Dirck Pyters. Dirck Pyters had taken this horse into use when he had suddenly to bring "on public business some servants of Her Highness the Princess" to Groningen, for which four horses were needed, while he himself had only three and could not so quickly obtain a fourth. Dirck Pyters maintained: "that the journey had not been unseemly" and "also had not lasted longer than three days", and that he had "treated" Pyter Bockes' horse "as his own" and had had it sent back "by a skipper without any injury or harm". Pyter Bockes, on the other hand, insisted that his "horse had been ridden until its chest was open and unusable", so that he had had to "nurse" the horse for a long time before the chest was healed.

In the case files, both of the Lower Court and of the Academic Senatus Judicialis at Franeker, the name Pyter Bockes occurs repeatedly.

In the lawsuit with the stable keeper Dirck Pyters at Leeuwarden Pyter Bockes is depicted as "a person always inclined to trouble and discord" and as someone who "seeks to vex another and to drive him to expense, doubtless out of vindictiveness".

In another lawsuit with Captain Reiner Fransz. Ens at Franeker[3], from whom he demanded an exorbitantly high compensation because 10 or 12 sheep of the Captain had strayed into his meadow and had there grazed off the grass for about an hour, it is said that he "comes far too hastily attacking the defendant with a lawsuit, for he ought first to have addressed him verbally and to have had his alleged damage assessed", and he is reproached with "litigiousness without reason and without right".

[1] See "Diarium Actorum" 23/26 January 1650.

[2] See No. 1114 of the Telting Register.

[3] See Portfolio of Case Files Franeker I 16 (year 1659).

At the end of his life, when his wife Lysbeth Sickes had already died, Pyter Bockes seems — I say seems, for it may also not have been so — to have descended the social ladder, for, according to the entry dated 23 May 1665 in the Acta of the Franeker Academic Archive, he was at that time a "dairyman" — which, however, may rest upon a mistake, since in other documents around that date he is still called a voerman (carrier). At that time he stood surety for the 2 students Mons^{r} Nicolaus Beck[1] and Mons^{r} Jacobus Naghtegaal, who had "smashed windows" at Professor Cup's and were his table companions. This last appears from a document belonging to the aforementioned lawsuit with the stableman Pyter Dircx in the Croon at Leeuwarden, in which, concerning the testimonies of Pyter Bockes' servant Wiger Jeppes (see the preceding page) and of the two said students, it is stated:

> "The depositions of Wiger Jeppes, Mons^{r} Nachtegael and Mons^{r} Beckx cannot save the plaintiff in this case, since Wiger Jeppes is the plaintiff's servant and was so at the time when he deposed, and Mons^{r} Nachtegael and Beckx are his table companions; these witnesses also have no knowledge whether the horse's breast had been ridden open before or after the said time, and likewise know nothing of the further interrogatories, according to the informations marked C, so that these witnesses can in no way be reckoned competent."

Only a few times has Pyter Bockes been mentioned together with his wife Lysbeth Sickes. These mentions follow here:

> Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franeker.
> 1 June 1643 (registered 19 February 1647). Focke Gerryts Brouwer and Mary Ruyerdsdr. , spouses at Franeker, declare that they owe to the honourable Pyter Bockes and Lysbet Sickesdr. , likewise spouses within Franeker, 200 ggl., partly on account of grain delivered and partly of cash money advanced, at an interest of 6%.
> Civiel Sententieboek (civil judgment register) of the Hof van Friesland.
> Judgment of 10 March 1651 N^{o} 44 with the names of Pijter Bockes and Lysbet Sickes, as spouses within Franeker, which couple conducted the suit against Dirck Claesen, burgher and merchant at Franeker, also on behalf of his other brothers, children of Mary Ruirdts, begotten in marriage by Claes Eelkes her first husband;
> Verdict of 20 February 1655, Intendit, whereby, on the occasion of a claim brought by Pyter Bockes and Lysbet Sickes, spouses at Franeker, against Focke Gerrits, fellow burgher there, this Focke Gerrits was condemned by default, namely "holding the produced bond of 1 June 1643 as acknowledged, condemns the defendant to pay to the plaintiff one hundred goudgulden and the damages and interest thereof, together with the costs of the Intendit at the Court's taxation and the fines of contumacy to the profit of the Lordship."

The wife of the Franeker voerman Pyter Bockes: Lysbeth Sickes was a daughter of Sicke Fongers and Tyeets Jansdr., as appears from a division of an estate occurring in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Leeuwarden dated 30 June 1635 between the eight children of Sicke Fongers, married to Tyeerts Jansdr. and formerly living at Marssum. In the opening of the deed mention is made that the settlement of the inheritance was necessary, "the more so since the lands at Pingium, which fell to their share in the division with Jelle Jelles (who, as we shall see further on, was a son of Sicke Fongers' brother Jelle Fongers), made before the lord Saekma as Commissioner, have already been sold and also the first instalment, due last May, has already been paid."

For that settlement there appeared then at the Town Hall of Leeuwarden — see the accompanying extensive scheme concerning Prof. Johannes Greydanus' mother-in-law Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia) —: "Tyeets Jansdr., widow of Sicke Fongers, as mother of Jan and Fonger Sickezonen, and further Keimpe (van) Vnia at Oppenwier (or Oppenhuijsen) as husband and guardian of Jacobien Sickes; Roeloff Wijbes Tyeppenboer at Marssum as husband and guardian

[1] In one of the philosophical works written by Prof. Johannes Greydanus there appears at the front a poem by the philosophy student "Johannes Bek Zel." (see page 155).

Diagram concerning Prof. Johannes Greydanus' mother-in-law: Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia). Belongs with p. 103. - Fonger Jelles (Rinia) — † before 10 June 1617. - ⚭ Eeck (Ick) Sickes — beginning of 1580 at Pingjum, 10 June 1617 at Leeuwarden, where she made her will, leaving lands at Pingjum and at Collum ("Hayemazathe"). † ± 1622. - Jelle Fongers (Rinia) — at Collum. † ± 1598. - ⚭ I Bauck Tiebbe dr. (Wijbema) — † Rinsumageest 10 June 1617. - ⚭ II Ds. Nicolaüs Joannis (Waalwijk) — b. ± 1572. Dutch Reformed minister at Ytens 1605 and at Rinsumageest 1606—1627. ± 1616 guardian over Jelle Jelles (Rinia). † Rinsumageest 20 February 1627. - Jelle Jelles (Rinia) — Wagoner on the Groningen route and citizen, at Leeuwarden. Widower of Antie Sipckesdr., widow of Syds Upckes. Marr. procl. Leeuwarden 15/21/28 April 1639. - ⚭ II Antie (Anke) Roeloffs — Was still living 20 Dec. 1661 at Leeuwarden. - ⚭ I Jan Dircx — † before 15 April 1639. - Auckien Jans — at Leeuwarden. In 1698 conducts a lawsuit with Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitsum, concerning the jointly owned "Hayema-zathe" at Collum. - Taets Fongers (Rinia) — (innocent). Was still living 10 June 1617. - Sicke (Sicco) Fongers (Rinia) — Born at Collum, living at Marssum. On 29 Oct. 1619 he is mentioned in the Recesboek of Franeker as "volmacht (delegate) of Marssum". † before 18 Nov. 1631. - ⚭ Tyeets (Tiets, Tziets) Jan-Lammerts — Marr. procl. Leeuwarden, 18 April 1601. According to the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franekeradeel dated 28 June/5/14 July 1632 she sold: over 4 P.M. of land at Herbayum. According to the stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1640 owner of no. 13 ("Wymersma-sathe") at Marssum. At Leeuwarden from before 1641 until her death in 1661. - Jaepke/Jacobien/Sickes/Rinia/ — Marr. procl. Marssum 1 Aug. 1627. † 18 October 1642, in her 42nd year. - ⚭ II (Jhr.) Keimpe Unia — of Beers, son of Jochum Unia, Bijsitter (assessor) of Baarderadeel, and Trijn Epes Adama. In 1626 at Beers, 1628 at Oosterwierum and 1635 at Oppenhuysen. † before 5 Sept. 1661. Buried at Beers. - ⚭ I Trijntie Pieters — dau. of Pieter Annes † 12 Dec. 1611. - (Jkvr.) Ittie Keympes Unia — Marr. procl. Hallum 11/18 Nov./2 Dec. 1660. - ⚭ Faas Hendrix. — 5 Sept. 1661 at Hallum. - Jelle Sickes (Rinia) — b. ± 1608. Was still living 5 Sept. 1608. - Trijntie Sickes (Rinia) — b. ± 1610. m. Marssum 7 Aug. 1629. † before 5 Sept. 1661. - ⚭ Roeloff Wijbes Tyeppenboer — Possibly son of Wibe Romkes Teppenboer and Jelcke Roeloffsdr. at Menaem. At marriage from Wijnaem. Innkeeper at Marssum. † before 5 Sept. 1661. - Jeltie Roeloffs Tyeppenboer — bapt. Marssum 3 March 1633. - ⚭ Jan Hendrix - Rixt Sickes (Rinia) — bapt. Marssum 19 May 1611. † before 5 Sept. 1661. - ⚭ I Johannes Frerycx /Rode/n/huis/ — Marr. procl. Marssum 10 July 1629. Lived at Marssum. † before 16 July 1632. - Johanneske Johannes /Rode/n/huis/. - ⚭ II Wijbe Jans — At marriage from Winsum. Marr. procl. Marssum 4 March 1633. Lived at Welsrijp. - Mary Wybes - Eeck Wybes - Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia) — b. between 12 April and 1 December 1614. Marr. procl. Marssum 14 February 1632. † before 5 Sept. 1661. - ⚭ Pyter Bockes — Wagoner and citizen at Franeker. † between 23 July 1666 and 11 April 1667. - Yttie Pyters (van) Wimersma - ⚭ Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus - among others Ds. Tjardus Greydanus — Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitsum. - Fonger Sickes (Rinia) — bapt. Marssum 14 April 1616. † before ± 1620. - Idtien Sickes (Rinia) — bapt. Marssum 25 October 1618. † between 2 July 1632 and 30 June 1635. - Fonger (Funger) Sickes (Rinia) — bapt. Marssum 18 June 1620. At marriage "Soldier in the guard of His Excellency". Was still living 5 Sept. 1661 and probably still on 25 March 1664. Possibly first pewterer and afterwards Landschaps Itiger (Ykmeester) (provincial gauger of weights and measures) at Leeuwarden. - ⚭ Brechtie Roeloffs — At marriage from Visvliet. Marr. procl. Leeuwarden 8/15/22 January 1643. - Tyetske Fongers (Rinia) — bapt. Leeuw. 22 Nov. 1643. - Antie Fongers (Rinia) — bapt. Leeuw. 27 Dec. 1644. - Sycke Fongers (Rinia) — bapt. Leeuw. 19 Dec. 1645. - Tyetske Fongers (Rinia) — bapt. Leeuw. 10 Mrt. 1649. - Roelof Fongers (Rinia) — bapt. Leeuw. 10 Dec. 1651. - Sybrich Fongers (Rinia) — bapt. Leeuw. 29 March 1654. - Jan Sickes (Rinia) — bapt. Marssum 26 October 1623. Was still living 5 Sept. 1661. - Jan Lamberts d'Oude — bur. Oldehove Leeuwarden 21 June 1574. - ⚭ Anna Edzesdr. — bur. Oldehove Leeuwarden 27 Sept. 1575. - ? Jan Lammerts de Jonge — Bailiff with the Deputated States of Friesland. † before 15 July 1626. - ⚭ I ...?... - ⚭ II Idtie Louws — † 20 April 1626. They bought in 1597 the "Wymersma-sathe" at Marssum (see p. 197). Were still living 26 Febr. 1617. - Tyeets (Tiets, Tziets) Jan-Lammerts (see above) - ⚭ Sicke (Sicco) Fongers (Rinia)

(see above) - ? Elske Jan-Lammerts — Was still living 29 March 1628. - ⚭ ? Jelle Sickes — Pedlar of Grouw. Marr. procl. Leeuwarden 18/25 Nov./2 Dec. 1604. - Lambert Jans — at Visvliet (1626). - ⚭ Jouck/e/ Auckedr. Hotzma — of Warrega. m. Leeuwarden 16 Oct. 1602. - ? Ydtje Jan-Lamberts — b. ± 1548. † 28 Dec. 1621, aged 73 years. - ⚭ Watze Eelckes — son of Eelck Watzes. Citizen at Leeuwarden. Makes his will with his wife 8 Sept. 1600. † 12 Aug. 1629, aged 80 years. - Sydts Watzes - ⚭ Joris Gerritz - Maycke Watze-Eelckesdr. (Gadema) - ⚭ Cent Ypckes — 1622 Burgomaster at Leeuwarden. - Eelco van Glinstra — In 1660 Chairman of the Deputated States of Frieslandt; in that capacity he signed the Resolution, dated 8 June 1660, by which Dr. Johannes Greydanus was appointed Professor of Philosophy at the University of Franeker /see p. 128). - ⚭ Lutske Hectorsdr. van Bouricius — b. 4 May 1623. m. 7 May 1643. - Joannis Glinstra — Ordinary Councillor in the Court of Frieslandt. † 10 October 1678. - ⚭ Jeepkien Rinthjesdr. van Lycklama à Nijeholt — m. Aug. 1642. † 13 May 1692, aged 74 years. In June/July 1662 they bought from Yttie Pieters (van) Wimersma, wife of Prof. Joannes Greydanus, the $^{1}/_{7}$ share, inherited from her mother, of the ½ "Wymersmasathe" at Marssum. - ? Maycke Jan-Lamberts - ⚭ Jucke Jans van Beyma

of Trijntie Sickedr.; Jelle Sickes at Sneeck for himself; Wybe Jans at Welsrijp as husband and guardian of Rixt Sickedr., and Pieter Bockis guardian of Lijsbet Sickis on her behalf and also as heirs of Idtien Sickes their sister, who died after the death of his (meaning her) father, together in that capacity children and heirs of the late Sicke Fongers aforesaid, their father."

First there had to be divided the 1st instalment of the (sold) lands at Pingjum, which fell due last May, after deduction of 589 ggl. (gold guldens) 14 st. (stuivers) 8 penn. (penningen) paid to the Meijer (tenant farmer) according to the valuation made of the buildings; further 900 ggl. received by Jelle Jellis as additional payment in the division of the lands at Collum and Pingium; together with 132 ggl. deducted for strijchgeld (bidding premium); amounting to 784 ggl. 12 st. 10 penn., of which each one's ⅛ part comes to 98 ggl. 1 st. 9 penn., or otherwise 137 cargl. (Carolus guldens) 5 st. 9 penn., the remaining instalments not yet fallen due hereafter to be divided into 8 equal portions and to be received and enjoyed by each of the heirs for his share.

Munimenten[1]. Keimpo Unia and his wife, according to the bond of 24 May 1628, owe the estate of the deceased 700 cargl. in arrears with one year's interest, at 42 cargl., which fell due now last May; — besides 1000 cargl. which, according to the deed of the same date, they are bound to bring in and contribute again, but with deduction therefrom of 361 cargl. 5 st. 12 penn. due to her by virtue of the division of 2 July 1632; there still remains 638 cargl. 14 st. 4 penn., to which surplus is added 108 cargl. for 3 years' interest thereon which fell due last May, so that the debt appears to amount to 1488 cargl. 14 st. 4 penn.; from which, however, 137 cargl. 5 st. 9 penn. for their ⅛ part of the first instalment of the lands mentioned above, and 326 cargl. 16 st. 12 penn. which they have to deduct by assignment from Jelle Sickes; so that the aforesaid married couple here remain owing 1004 cargl. 12 st., which, being again reduced by 10 cargl. due to him (Unia) for the extra expenditure made to Pieter Bockes above the bond of Epe Jansz., as well as 25 cargl. due to him for his fees for the administration, their debt now finally appears to remain 969 cargl. 92 st.; but the same being increased by 50 cargl. 4 st. 4 penn., being ⅛ part of 401 gl. 40 st. charged in account for the common benefit by Unia and Jelle Jellis, — and by 6 gl. 9 st. for their share of the costs incurred in this matter, their debt comes to 1026 cargl. 5 st. 8 penn.

Further, Roeloff Wibes Tyeppenboer and Trijntie Sickes, married couple, owe the estate of the deceased, according to the bond of 26 May 1630, 250 cargl. in arrears; — 140 gl. according to the bond of 28 May 1631; — 64 cargl. according to the deed of 28 February 1631 — 54 cargl. 12 st. according to the deed of 12 August 1631; together amounting to 508 cargl. 12 st. —, after deduction of 361 cargl. 5 st. 12 penn. likewise due to her by virtue of the aforesaid division, the same married couple remain owing 147 gl. 6 st. 4 penn., besides 18 gl. for 3 years interest fallen due at May 1635, with deduction of one year charged in account by Jelle Jellis aforesaid; and there being again deducted therefrom 137 cargl. 5 st. 9 penn. for their share of the first instalment of the lands sold at Pingjum, their debt remains 38 cargl. 11 penn., but increased in the same manner as has been done with regard to Keimpe Unia and his wife, their debt appears finally to amount to 94 cargl. 10 st.

Further there is due to Jelle Sickes by virtue of the aforementioned division of 2 July 1632, in conformity with the other heirs, 361 cargl. 5 st. 12 penn., against which he has been found to have remained owing to Keimpe Unia, according to the closing of the account of the 8th of this month, on account of extra expenditure, 326 cargl. 16 st. 12 penn. and for interest 20 gl., together 346 cargl. 16 st. 12 penn., by which the debt of the aforesaid Unia touched upon above has been reduced by assignment from Jelle, and then, to the remaining 14 gl. 9 st. being added 137 cargl. 5 st. 9 penn. on account of the matter several times mentioned above (1st instalment of the lands sold), it appears that there is still due to him 151 gl. 14 st. 9 penn., but being again reduced by 50 cargl. 4 st. 9 penn. in respect of the ⅛ part of the 401 gl. 14 st. mentioned above, and 6 gl. 9 st. 4 penn. on account of the costs, his claim still remains 95 cargl. 1 st. 1 penn., which must be increased by 44 cargl. 16 st. 5 penn. for interest for the loss of the use of the money since 2 July 1632, together thus amounting to 139 cargl. 17 st. 6 penn.

And, since Rixt Sickes has received nothing, it has been found that there is due to her out of the goods of the estate of the deceased, according to the aforesaid division, 361 cargl. 5 st. 12 p., and for her share of the aforementioned instalment (lands sold) 137 cargl. 5 st. 9 penn., together amounting to 498 cargl. 11 st. 5 penn.; from which, in conformity with Jelle, there being likewise deducted 50 cargl. 4 st. 4 penn., and to the remaining 448 cargl. 7 st. 1 penn. being again added 44 gl. 16 st. 5 penn. likewise for interest, her claim comes to 493 cargl. 3 st. 6 penn., but being finally reduced by 6 gl. 9 st. 4 penn. for the costs incurred in this matter, the same still remains 486 cargl. 14 st. 2 penn.

Since Lijsbet Sickes, by the account closed before Heeren Saeckma on 8 July 1633, has already received what was due to her by virtue of the division of 2 July 1632, there is now assigned to her for this purpose the ⅛ part of the 1st instalment of the lands at Pingium, amounting to 137 cargl. 5 st. 9 penn., from which, in conformity with the others, there being deducted 50 cargl. 4 st. 4 penn. for the ⅛ part of 401 cargl. 14 st. charged in account for the common benefit by Jelle Jellis and Keimpe Unia, her claim would remain 87 gl. 1 st. 5 penn., and being reduced by 6 gl. 9 st. 4 penn., it is found that no more is now due to her than 80 cargl. 12 st. 1 penn.

As regards finally the claim of Idtien, Fonger and Jan Sicke's daughter and sons respectively, since in each one's case these are equal and just as large as has been said with regard to Rixt, it was deemed unnecessary to mention this more particularly; as Idtie Fongers (should be Sickes*) has also been reckoned above for a ⅛ part, and she died while the sale of the aforementioned lands was pending, her share shall be received and enjoyed by the other 7 heirs and their mother, each for a ⅛ part.*

Further, Jelle Jelles is also mentioned as curator over the two youngest children (Fonger and Jan Sickes*).*

The deed was signed on 30 June 1635 by Tzyetke Jans, Keimpe van Wnya, Roelef Wybes Teppenboer, Wybbe Jans, Jelle Jelles, Jelle Sickes, by the already recorded hand-mark of Pyter Bockes [a hatched house-mark is printed here] and by the advocates, notaries and representatives of the vroedschap (town council): Js. Camp, T. Saeckma, A. Tyerx, J. Campen.

---

[1] Documentary evidence.

Concerning the division of the estate of Tyeets Jans' husband, the following deeds are recorded in the Authorisatieboeken (books of authorisation) of the Hof van Friesland (Court of Friesland):

> "By voluntary appearance before Lord Saeckma on 18 November 1631.
> Jelle Sickesz, Rixt Sickedr. and Tzietzke Jans as mother on behalf of Lijsbeth and Jidtke Sickesdren, still minors, assisted by Dr. Campen, their advocate, petitioners against > Jelle Jelles, respondent, to make a request.
> The Court, having heard the request of the petitioners and the consent of the respondent, authorises the same as curator over the original petitioners, in order to make the division and partition of their paternal goods; and in order to administer this curatorship well and faithfully the respondent has taken the required oath in the hands of Lord Saeckma, and the curatorship has accordingly been awarded to him."
>
> "Before Lord Saeckma, by voluntary appearance, on 1 December 1631.
> Jelle Sickes, aged twenty-three years, Rixt Sickedr., aged twenty years, Lijsbeth Sickedr., aged seventeen years, for themselves and also on behalf of Jidtien Sickedr., together with Fonger and Jan Sickes, sons, still being minors, supported by Kempo Unia, their brother-in-law, petitioners against > Joris Gerrijdtsz Camp, Boum^{r} (master builder) of this city, M^{r}. Jacob van Campen, advocate before this Court, Sywck Roordahuijs, public notary, and Jelle Jellesz, together with Tziets Jansdr., widow of Sicke Fungers, respondents, respectively to make a request.
> The Court, having heard the request of the petitioners and the consent of the respondents, authorises the Boum^{r} Joris Gerrijdts as curator over Jidtien Sickedr., Mr. Jacob van Campen over Lijsbeth Sickedr., Sywck Roordahuijs over Rixt Sickedr., Jelle Jelles over Jelle Sickes and Tzietske Jansdr. over Funger and Jan Sickes, sons, in order to make the mutual division and partition of their father's goods, etc."
>
> "Before Lord Saeckma, by voluntary appearance, on 12 April 1632.
> Tzietzke Jansdr., widow of the late Sicke Fungers, as mother on behalf of Funger Sickes, aged twelve, and Jan Sickes, aged ten years, Rixt Sickedr., aged twenty years, Jelle Sickes, aged XXIIII years, Lijsbeth Sickedr., aged seventeen years, with the consent of Pieter Bockes, her husband, who is not present here, and Jidtien Sickedr., aged fourteen years, petitioners, assisted by Dr. Campen > against
> Kempo Unia and Jelle Jelles, respondents[?], to make a request.
> The Court, having heard the request of the petitioners and the consent of the respondents, authorises the same as guardians over Funger Sickes and Jan Sickes, sons, and further as curators over the other petitioners and consequently of their goods; in order to administer this guardianship and the respective curatorship well and faithfully, etc."
>
> "Before Lord Jongema, by voluntary appearance, on 15 June 1632.
> Trijn Sickes, aged twenty-two years, supported by Roeleff Wibes Tyeppenboer, her husband, petitioner, assisted by Dr. Campen, her advocate > against
> Jelle Jelles and Kempo Unia, respondents, to make a request,
> The Court, having heard, etc."

Further one also finds in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Leeuwarden:

> 8 June 1635. 1^{o} a "Closing of the account of the administration which Keijmpe Vnia, living at Oppenhuijsen, as authorised co-curator over the orphan children and heirs of the late Sicke Fongers has had of the goods of the estate, namely receipts 200—0—0, expenditure 147—6—0, received in excess 52—14—0. But since above there have been entered as expenditure 3 × 42 ℔ of interest which the accountant owes to the children by bond, and the said interest is noted on that same bond to his discharge, it has been resolved to increase the said 52 ℔ 14 st. by those three sums, so that now 178—14—0 has been received in excess; which surplus, divided into 8 equal parts, amounts for each to a share of 22—6—12.
>
> The particular expenditure charged to Jelle Sickes amounts to 49—3—8, from which is deducted 22 ℔ 6 st. 12 penn. allotted to him in the closing of the general expenditure; there remains owing from Jelle Sickes to the accountant 326—16—12.
>
> The particular expenditure charged to Rixt Sickesdr. amounts to 25—13—0, from which is deducted 22 ℔ 6 st. 12 p. allotted to her in the general expenditure; there remains owing to the accountant on account of excess expenditure 3—6—4. Done, both in general and in particular, between Keympe Vnia, co-authorised curator over the children and heirs of the late Sicke Fongers, accountant on the one side, and Jelle Sickes, Roeleff Wijbes Tyeppenboer as husband and guardian of Trijn Sickes, Wijbe Jansz. as husband and guardian of Rixt Sickes and Tyets Jans, widow of Sicke Fongers, as mother of Fonger and Jan Sickes, to whom the account was rendered."
>
> 2^{o} a "Closing of the account of the administration which Jelle Jelles, living within Leeuwarden, as authorised co-curator over the orphan children and heirs of the late Sicke Fongers has had of the goods of the estate. Receipts 749—0—0, general expenditure 164 ℔ 12 st. Received in excess 584—8—0, and the said surplus divided into 8 equal parts amounts for each to a share of 73—1—0.
>
> The particular expenditure charged to Jelle Sickes amounts to 206—6—8, reduced by 150 ℔ of the legacy bequeathed to him by his grandmother and received by Jelle Jellis in the division mentioned above; there still remains charged to Jelle Sickes 56—6—8. Set against this his share of the excess receipts, amounting to 73 ℔ 1 st., the accountant now remains owing Jelle Sickes 16—14—8.

> Particular expenditure concerning Trijn Sickedr. amounts to 17—17—0; which, set against her share of the surplus receipts of 73 ℔ 1 st., leaves the Rendant (accounting party) now owing Trijn Sickes 55—4—0.
> Particular expenditure charged to Rixt Sickedr. amounts to 32 ℔ 3 st.; when against this is set what has fallen to her share of the surplus receipts, there is now due to her from the Rendant on account of surplus receipts 40 ℔ 18—0.
> Particular expenditure charged to the three youngest children of the late Sicke Fongers, namely Fonger and Jan Sickesz and Idtien Sickedr., amounts to 177—7—14.
> Particular expenditure concerning Idtien Sickesdr. amounts to 25—0—0, to which added the aforesaid 177 ℔ 7 strs 14 penn., the whole expenditure charged to the three youngest children now amounts to 202 ℔ 7 st. 14 p., which, compared with those children's shares of the surplus receipts, together amounting to 219 ℔ 3 strs, leaves the Rendant in arrears to the aforesaid children on account of surplus receipts 16—15—2.
> Done between Jelle Jellis, likewise authorized co-curator over the children and heirs of the late Sicke Fongers, Rendant on the one part, and Jelle Sickes; Roeloff Wibes Tyeppenboer as husband and guardian over Trijn Sickes; Wibe Jansz as husband and guardian over Rixt Sickes, Tyets Jans, widow of the aforesaid Sicke Fongers as mother of Fonger and Jan Sickes, together with Keimpe Vnia as husband and guardian of Japke Sickes and Pieter Bockes as husband and guardian of Lysbet Sickes, together also heirs of Idtien Sickes, their sister."

This deed too contains Pieter Bockes' well-known hand-mark, only the base of the triangle is missing here, thus:

.

From these deeds the following appears:

1° Sicke Fongers must have lived at Marssum and have died before 18 November 1631; to his estate must have belonged landed properties at Collum and at Pingjum;

2° Children of Sicke Fongers and Tyeets Jansdr., thus brothers and sisters of the mother-in-law of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, were:

1. Jacobien Sickes;
2. Jelle Sickes;
3. Trijntie Sickes;
4. Rixt Sickes;
5. Lysbeth Sickes herself;
6. Idtien Sickes;
7. Fonger Sickes

and 8. Jan Sickes, which persons will be dealt with here one after the other.

1. Jacobien Sickes.

Jacobien Sickes was, as appears from the said deeds, married to Keimpe Unia, who in 1635 lived at Oppenhuysen. This agrees with the entry in the old Trouw- en Lidmatenboek (marriage and members' register) of Marssum, where, as mentioned above, the parents of Jacobien Sickes lived:

> "1 August 1627 of Keympe Vnie at Beers and Jacobien Sickedr. at Marsum, after proclamations, attestation."

According to the additions which Mr. de Haan Hettema made in a copy, interleaved with white paper and kept in the Provincial Library of Friesland at Leeuwarden, of the "Stamboek van den Frieschen vroegeren en lateren adel" by Jhr. Mr. de Haan Hettema and Mr. A. van Halmael Jr., Leeuwarden 1846, "keimpe Unia was married to Japke (Jacobjen) Sickedr. Rinia, spouses at Oosterwierum. Tieske Jansdr. was their mother and mother-in-law 24 May 1628". Moreover one finds recorded there further: "1642. 18 Oct. (Latin) died Saepke (Jaepke will be meant) Sickes Ruynia (wife of Keympe van Wnia) aged 42 years, his 2nd wife. His 1st wife: Trijnke Pietersdr. or of Pytter Annes, (Latin) died 12 December 1611. He was his wife's heir, buried at Beers."

On the strength of these additions, which agree well with what has already been found, Jacobien (Jaepke, Jacobjen) Sickes would thus have belonged to the Rinia (Ruynia) family, for which reason this surname has been added between brackets to her name and to those of her relatives and ancestors on the chart at page 103.

Further it also follows that (Jhr.) Keimpe Unia had a first wife Trijnke Pieters, daughter of Pytter Annes, who died 12 December 1611, that his 2nd wife Jacobien Sickes Rinia died on 18 October 1642, aged 42 years, and that he survived his 2nd wife and was buried at Beers.

(Jhr) Keimpe Oenie (Unia) of Beers and his first wife Trijn Pietersdr. of Burgwerd were married before the Court of Wonseradeel on 28 October 1605, with the consent of the nearest relatives, with the subscription: "Since it was declared by Pieter Annez (presumably the father of Trijn Pieters) that the marriage had taken place with the advice of the parents, and since the aforesaid proclaimants, namely Kempo Vnia and Trijn Pieters, likewise declared that they had been joined to each other with the consent of their parents, and since no one appeared who opposed it, I, the undersigned Commissioner, have confirmed the marriage by authority of the court, according to the ordinance. Done 28 October 1605."

All of this is confirmed by the interlocutory sentence in the Civil Sentence Books of the Court of Friesland, dated 12 December 1626 N^{o} 30 and in the Civil Sentence of the Court of Friesland dated 15 July 1630 N^{o} 20, in which (Jhr) Kempo Unia of Beers is mentioned as heir of Trijntie Pietersdr., his deceased wife, and thus also as co-heir of the late Pieter Annes, her father.

(Jhr) Kempo Unia also appears in the Civil Sentence Books of the Court of Friesland in the Sentence dated 27 October 1641, N^{o} 26, as plaintiff against Jelle Douwes, burgher and beer dealer in Leeuwarden. Unia "requested that Jelle Douwes should be condemned to allow and to suffer that, concerning the monies, preference should be pronounced among the creditors of Jelle Sickes". From the considerations of the judgment the following has been noted:

The defendant (Jelle Douwes) has knowledge *"that the plaintiff (Unia) would be a creditor of* Jelle Sickes, his brother-in-law. Jelle Douwes invokes (appeals to) the instrument made out to Jelle Sickes; he further said that Jelle Sickes' share of the purchase monies of the lands situated at Pingum from the sale, in so far as concerns the 2nd instalment, had been consigned into the hands of the late lord D^{r} Joës Saeckma as Commissioner of the Court, which 2nd instalment of the said purchase monies, containing Jelle Sickes' *share, had been brought by the said lord Saeckma to the honourable lord D^{r} Asswerus van Vierssen, Renlem^{r} of the Domains of the Province of Friesland, out of whose hands the plaintiff (Unia) has drawn the sum of 300 ggl., less a few items; that the plaintiff (Unia) has also received the 3rd or last instalment of* Jelle Sickes' share of the purchase monies of the said lands, amounting to at least the like sum of 300 ggl.

*The Court decided and condemned the defendant (Jelle Douwes) to allow and to suffer that, concerning the monies mentioned in the proceedings, preference should be pronounced among the creditors of* Jelle Sickes and the monies distributed according to that order, and for reasons it sets off the costs of the proceedings."

(Jhr.) Keijmpe Unia must have been a descendant of the noble family of that name dealt with in the aforementioned Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel. Not only may this be assumed on the ground of the connection of names — for the name Keijmpe Unia occurs several times in that genealogy —, but it may also be established on the ground of the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Baarderadeel, in which, under the date of 2 January 1624 [1], Kijmpo Wnia is called the brother of Jan Jochums Wnia of Beers. And this Jan Jochums Wnia was the son of the Bijsitter (assessor) of Baarderadeel mentioned in the said genealogy: Jochum van Unia (see Stamboek Part I page 384 sixth generation and Part II page 267 note 29*a*) and Trijn Epesdr. Adama, whose names are also found in the inscription of one of the bells at Beers A^{o} 1569 (see page 72 of G. H. van Borssum Waalkes, "Friesche Klokke-Opschriften", Leeuwarden 1885).

This Jochum (van) Unia we still find named in the sale dated 19 December 1612/16 January 1613 of Sinnema-saete at Witmarsum, by the heirs of the late Teth Vnya, namely Joachym Vnya, Mederechter (co-judge) of Baarderadeel at Beers, Ju Wnya at Tzietyerck, Jelle Vnia at Dronrijp, Wlck Vnya, married to Ige Meijes (Algra) at Bolswart, Nampck Vnya married to Jan Gerbens at Oosterlittens, Keympe and Tyerck Hesselsz at Weijdum and Jelle Hessels at Beers, Tyerck Lolckes in Holland, Hidde Lolckes at Oosterlittens and Wlck Lolckedr., over whom Dr. Sybrandus Sickema, Secretary in Bolswart, was curator, sold to a co-heir of Teth Vnia, namely Ruyrdt Hesselsz., married to Jints Scheltedr., at Herbaijum.

[1] In an Inventory dated 24 October 1623, of Jan (Jochems) Wnia, on the occasion of the death of his wife Aeff Dircksdr., who had earlier been married to Feike Haenties.

Draft: Fragment Genealogy "Unia", connecting to the Genealogy "Unia" in the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel by: De Haan Hettema and Van Halmael. Belongs with page 108. and brothers of: - Jouw Unia — had children. - Heer Kempo Unia — Parish priest at Beers 1547. - Tjerk van Unia — Hoveling (manorial lord) at Beers. - ⚭ Uilck (Buws?) - Jochem Unia — at Beers. Bijsitter (assessor) of Baarderadeel. † 28 March 1614. - ⚭ Trijn Epesdr. Adama — already m. in 1569 according to the church bell inscription at Beers. † 16 February 1618. - Epe Unia — † 16 May 1618. - Keijmpe Unia — (at Beers and Oppenhuizen) uncle by marriage of PROF. JOHANNES GREYDANUS. - ⚭ I Trijncke Pieter Annesdr. — (of Grons under Burgwerd) m. Wonseradeel 28 Oct. 1605. - ⚭ II Jacobje (Japke) Sickes (Rinia) — dau. of Sicke Fongers (Rinia) and Tyeets Jan Lamberts. M. Marssum. - Ittie Unia — marriage banns Hallum 11/18 Nov./2 Dec. 1660. - ⚭ Faes Hendrix — 1661 at Hallum. - Jan Unia — † Beers 25 April 1621. - ⚭ II Aeff Dirksdr. — † Beers 25 Sept. 1623. - ⚭ I Feicke Haenties - Haentie Feickes — Dorprechter (village judge) at Outkerck. - ⚭ Wobbel Martensdr. - Syts Unia — b. ± 1598. - ⚭ Meije Tjaerdts — at Hieslum. - Feick Unia — b. ± 1600. - ⚭ Broer Tyardtsen — 1624 at Warstiens. - Syuerd Unia — at Britsum. - ⚭ I Id Feickedr. - ⚭ II Jan Wijbrants - Trijncke Unia - Syuerd Unia - Juw Unia — 1613 at Tietjerk. - ⚭ Wijts Hedsdr. Eijsma - Rints Unia — m. in 1622 at Sexbierum; she was then from Rijperkerk. - ⚭ Claas Syurdts — at marriage from Sexbierum. - Alst Unia - ⚭ Evert Annes - Ulck Unia — at Oosterlittens. - ⚭ Haije Wijbes — son of Wijbe Melis. - Tet Haijes - Juw Hayes - Frouck Unia - ⚭ Lolke Hiddes - Tyerck Lolckes — 1613 in Hollant. - Hidde Lolckes — 1613 at Oosterlittens. - ⚭ Hauck Ryeurdtsdr. — at Bolswart. - Wlck Lolckedr. — whose guardian in 1613 was: D^{r} Sybrandus Siccama, Secr. Bolswart. - Taeckien Lolckedr. - ⚭ Dr. Sybrandus Siccama — Secretary at Bolswart. - Teth Unia - ⚭ I Juw Saakles - ⚭ II Epo Andrisz. Aasgema — 1608 at L. Vrouwekerk. - Ansck Unia — m. before 1563. 1608 at Amsterdam. - ⚭ D^{r} Jouke Grevinga (Grevelingen) — Advocate at the Court of Friesland. † before 1608. - Aucke Unia — is mentioned in 1569 in the bell inscription at Beers. - ⚭ II Auck Hobbedr. — Was still living in 1613. - ⚭ I Jelle (Ansta?) — † before 1613. - Uilck Unia — made her will 25 Aug. 1650. - ⚭ Ige Meijes Algra — 1613 at Bolsward. - Meije Algra — † before 1650. - ⚭ ? - Auckje Algra - ⚭ Floris Floris Posthumus - Aucke Algra - Jelle Unia — 1613, 1620 at Dronrijp. - ⚭ Syuw Intedr. - Waepcke Unia - ⚭ Marten Dirks - Inte Unia — at Baijum. - ⚭ Romck Aucke Annesdr. — of Baijum. M. 15 February 1638 before the Court of Hennaarderadeel. She survived her husband, Stemcoh. (register of voting farms) Dronrijp 1640, n^{o} 54. - Lolck Unia — † 3 March 1600. She is mentioned in the church bell inscription of 1569 at Beers. - ⚭ Hessel Ruurts — † 10 June 1627. - Jelle Hessels — 1613 at Beers. - Keijmpe Hessels — 1613 at Weidum. - Tjerck Hessels — 1613 at Weidum. - Ruyrt Hessels — 1613 at Herbayum. - ⚭ Jints Scheltedr. - Lolck Ruurtsdr. — called herself UNIA. - ⚭ Marten Piters Hiddinga — at Witmarsum.

To this has also been added a draft of a fragment-genealogy "Unia", which fragment connects to the genealogy of this family included in the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel.

2. Jelle Sickes.

Of Jelle Sickes, who, according to the foregoing, was born about 1608 and was still living on 30 June 1635, no particulars have become known.

3. Trijntie Sickes.

Trijntie Sickes, born about 1610, was, according to the said deeds, married to Roeloff Wybes Tyeppenboer at Marssum, which is confirmed by the entry in the old Trouw- en Lidmatenboek (marriage and church-members' register) of Marssum:

> "10 July 1629. Roleff Wybesoon (Tieppenboer) from Vynaem and Trijn Syckedr. at Marsum, the same proclaimed; in the year 31 on 7 August these were married."

Roeloff Wybes Tyeppenboer, who in the Hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers) of Menaldumadeel in 1628 [1] and 1629 [2] is named as a bachelor at Menaem and at Wynaem, was apparently a son of Wibe Romkes Teppenboer, whose name and (chiselled-out) coat of arms appear on one of the bells in the Church at Menaldum (see page 94 of the aforementioned booklet by G. H. van Borssum Waalkes). He was an innkeeper at Marssum, which is derived from the Hypotheekboek of Menaldumadeel, in which, in the deed of 30 May 1630 registered on 2 December 1640, one finds the names of Roeloff Wibes Tieppenboer and Trijntie Sickedr., spouses, innkeepers at Marssum.

A daughter of the couple in question was Jeltie Roeloffs Tyeppenboer, whose baptism is recorded in the Marssum baptismal register on 3 March 1633, when "Tietske Sickes, widow, had the child of her daughter Trijne baptized, named Jeltie". Jeltie was thus held at the font by her grandmother on her mother's side: Tyeets Jans, widow of Sicke Fongers.

4. Rixt Sickes.

Rixt Sickes, who was baptized at Marssum as Rixte on 19 May 1611, married twice; first to Johannes Frerycx and later to Wybe Jansen, named in the deed of 30 June 1635.

Both marriage entries are found in the old Trouw- en Lidmatenboek of Marssum:

> "10 July 1629. Johannes Frerycx son and Rycxt Sicke dau., both at Marsum, married after proclamations."
> and "4 March 1633 Wijbe Jansen at Wynsum and Rixte Sicke, widow, at Marsum; after proclamations attestation granted."

Johannes Frerycx was called Johannes Freercksz. Rode/n/huis, which appears from a deed of 16 June 1629 registered on 28 Sept. 1632 in the Hypotheekboek of Menaldumadeel, in which there occur as debtors Johanis Freercksz, at Marssum and Rixtke Sickedr. his wife. Siuck Rodehuis in Liuerden acts as surety for the aforesaid, his brother.

In the Civiele Sententiën (civil judgments) of the Hof van Friesland dated 17 July 1632, N^{o} 72, one finds a lawsuit between Jan Jansz., burgher and merchant in Leuwerden, and Ricxt Sicke Fongersdr., widow of the late Johannes Freerx at Marsum, "if she is of age, herself; if not, to appear lawfully". This concerned the acknowledgement of a bond dated 8 April, to the amount of 185 ℔ on account of goods delivered and moneys advanced. Ricxt was condemned by default to have a curator ad litis (for the lawsuit) authorized for her, failing which the Court would appoint a curator; furthermore she had to pay the costs of the lawsuit, at the Court's assessment, and the fines of the contumacio (default) to the profit of the Lordship of Friesland.

From the foregoing it further appears, then, that the couple Johannes Freercksz. Rode/n/huis × Rixt Sickesdr. lived at Marssum /where Johannes Freercksz Rode/n/huis died before 16 July 1632/ and that the couple Wybe Jans × Rixt Sickesdr. were established at Welsrijp on 30 June 1635.

---

[1] Deed dated 2 May 1628 (registered 5 March 1629).

[2] Deed dated 23 April 1629 (registered 25 April 1629).

6. Idtien Sickes.

Idtien Sickes must have been baptized at Marssum on 25 October 1618, since the following entry in the baptismal register of Marssum must refer to her:

> "On the 25th of October Sicke Fongers had a child baptized and the name has been forgotten."

She must have died between 2 July 1632 and 30 June 1635.

7. Fonger Sickes, who was baptized at Marssum on 18 June 1620, after the baptism of a child of that name had already been entered there on 14 April 1616, married Brechtie Roeloffs of Visvliet, according to the Leeuwarden register of marriage proclamations, in which one finds, under the date of 8/15/22 January 1643, the announcement of the marriage of Fonger Sickes of Marssum, soldier in the guard of His Excellency, with Brechtie Roeloffs at Fisvliet. On 23 January following, attestation was issued. In the year 1644 Fonger Sickes of Marssum became a burgher of Leeuwarden.

Of this couple the following were baptized at Leeuwarden:

Tyetske — 22 November 1643
Antie — 27 December 1644

Sycke — 19 December 1645
Tyetske — 16 March 1649
Roelof — 10 December 1651
and Sybrich — 29 March 1654.

Possibly Fonger Sickes was first Kannegieter (pewterer) and afterwards Lanschaps Ittiger (provincial gauger of measures) at Leeuwarden. At any rate, according to the Resolution Book of the Deputed States of Friesland dated 19 September 1656, Fonger Sickes, Kannegieter within Leeuwarden, was appointed Itiger (Ykmeester) (inspector of measures) of the wagon and corn measures, in which office he was, according to a resolution of 25 March 1664, replaced at his own request, on account of "his infirmity and grievous sickness, with the increase of which he more and more finds himself incapable of continuing to perform the office".

8. Jan Sickes.

Jan Sickes was baptized at Marssum on 26 October 1623.

The mother of Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia): Tyeets Jansdr., widow of Sicke Fongers, we first of all encounter as a landowner.

According to the following proclamation from the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Frankeradeel, she sold in 1632 a little over 4 pondemaat of land at Herbajum:

> "28 June/5/14 July 1632. Mr. Bouritius, Ordinary Councillor in the Court of Friesland, as guardian of Kempo Hillema, buys 4 P.M. 7 eynsen and 7½ pengen of land situated in the village of Haerbayum on the Mienschaer in various parcels, with the charges and encumbrances resting upon it from of old, acquired by purchase from Tietske Jansdr., surviving widow of Sicke Fongers, living at Maersum, for herself and having obtained the right by division and partition from her children, for the sum of 400 goldguilders."

In the printed stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1640 and 1698 she appears in 1640 as owner of holding N^{o} 13 at Marssum, with the designation: "Tziets, Jan Lammerts, widow of Sicco Fongers". From this it follows that she was a daughter of Jan Lammerts and owned land at Marssum, where she lived with her husband Sicke Fongers (Rinia).

It has further been found that the lands of Tyeets Jansdr., widow of Sicke Fongers, were involved in the digging of the tow-canal from Leeuwarden to Harlingen. In the "Recueil van de Besognes der Heeren Commissarien, uyt het Collegie der Ed. Mog. Heeren Gedeputeerde Staten van Frieslandt, Rapporten, Resolutien, en opgevolgde bestedingen, gedane rekeningen, sampt wydere documenten, bewysen en oude stukken, rakende de slattingen van de Trek-vaarten, lopende van Leeuwarden naa Sneek en van Leeuwarden naa Harlingen, done in the years 1731 and 1732" one finds, namely on page LV, concerning the "tauxatie" (valuation) made on 28 July 1645 of the parcels of land, three roeden wide and of the length indicated for each parcel, needed for the digging of the Trekweg from Leeuwarden to Harlingen:

Gout gl.

"N^{o} 32 13 R. 6 v. From the lands of Tjets Sikke Fungers wed:, at 26—14—0 N^{o} 37 9 R 9. v. From the aforesaid Tjets Sikke Fungers' lands, at 24—21—0."

In 1661, when, as we shall see below, Tyeets Jansdr. died at Leeuwarden, her landed property at Marssum passed to her 7 children: Jacobien Sickes, Trijntie Sickes, Jelle Sickes, Rixt Sickes, Lysbeth Sickes, Fonger Sickes and Jan Sickes.

Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia) was thus entitled to a $^{1}/_{7}$ share. As will appear more fully hereafter, she died before her mother, whereupon her property passed to her only child from her marriage with Pyter Bockes: Yttie Pieters (van) Wimersma, the wife of Prof. Johannes Greydanus.

Yttie Pieters (van) Wimersma sold her $^{1}/_{7}$ share of the landed property at Marssum, which had come from her grandmother Tyeets Jansdr., in 1662 to the Heer Joannis Glinstra, Raadt Ordinaris in den Hove van Frieslandt (ordinary councillor in the Court of Friesland) and Jeepkien van Lycklama, spouses at Leeuwarden, for the sum of 132 g.gl. and 7 strs per P.M., while the other 6 branches of children and descendants of Tyeets Jansdr. sold their $^{6}/_{7}$ share in that same year to the same persons at the same price. All this appears from the following proclamations, reproductions of which are given on the reverse side, in the Reces- en Proclamatieboek (register of court sessions and property sales) of Menaldumadeel:

> 17 June/1 and 8 July 1662.
> "The Heer Joannis Glinstra, ordinary councillor in the Court of Friesland, and Jeepkien van Lycklama, spouses, living in Leeuwarden, request notices and consent for the purchase of a seventh part of a certain half farmstead of land situated at Marssum, in all eighty pondematen in size, used by Sierck Annis with his wife as tenants, and that together with the proportionate dwelling with its appurtenances, trees and plantation standing thereon, being pro rata charged with twenty-two floreen in the tax assessment, acquired by purchase by the aforesaid spouses from Ittie Pytters, lawful wife of Dr. Joannes Greidanus, Professor of Philosophy at Franeq., assisted by the same, and that each pondemaat for one hundred and thirty-two gold guilders seven stuivers, to be paid in three instalments and May-days in the years sixty-two, sixty-three and sixty-four, each time a just third part, in free and cost-free money, besides for the seller's three children[1] each one gold ducaton, now further to be paid according to the deed thereof." > 27 May/17 June/8 July 1662.
> "The Heer Joannis Glinstra, ordinary councillor in the Court of Friesland, and Mistress Jeepien van Lycklama, spouses, buy six just seventh parts of a certain half farmstead of land, situated at Marssum, called WYMERSMA-SATE, in all about 80 P.M. in size,[2] charged with 22 floreen in the tax > assessment, but the dwelling, hay-barn, trees and plantations and further tenant's rights included in the purchase, acquired by purchase by the aforementioned spouses from six branches of children and descendants of the late Tyetske Jan Lamers, widow of the late Sicke Fongers; each P.M. for the sum of 132 ggl. 7 str. in free money without cost or loss, to be paid on three May-days of the years 1662, 1663 and 1664, each time the just third part, more fully according to the deed of purchase thereof."

From this last proclamation it comes to light that the land sold at Marssum bore the name of "WYMERSMA-SATE", SO THAT THE WIFE OF PROF. JOHANNES GREYDANUS: YTTIE PIETERS (VAN) WIMERSMA DERIVED HER SURNAME (VAN) WIMERSMA FROM THE NAME OF THE FARMSTEAD OF LAND AT MARSSUM THAT CAME FROM HER GRANDMOTHER ON HER MOTHER'S SIDE — TYEETS JANSDR. —, of which she owned a $^{1}/_{7}$ share of the half.

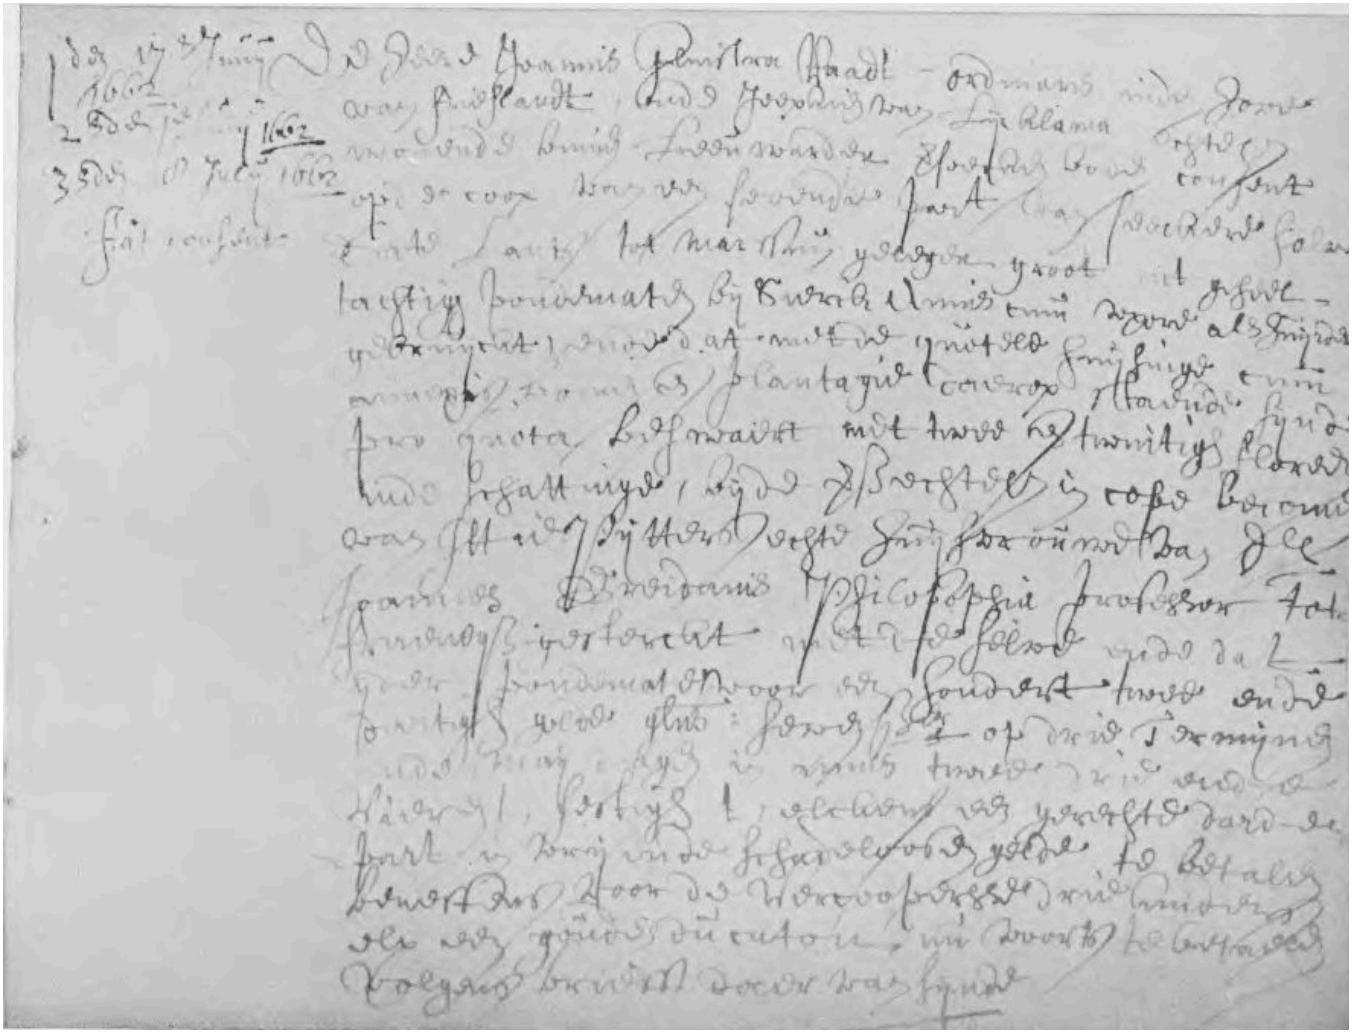
According to the printed Stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1640 and 1698, the "Wymersma-sate" was farm N^{o} 13 at Marssum, described in those cohieren as follows:

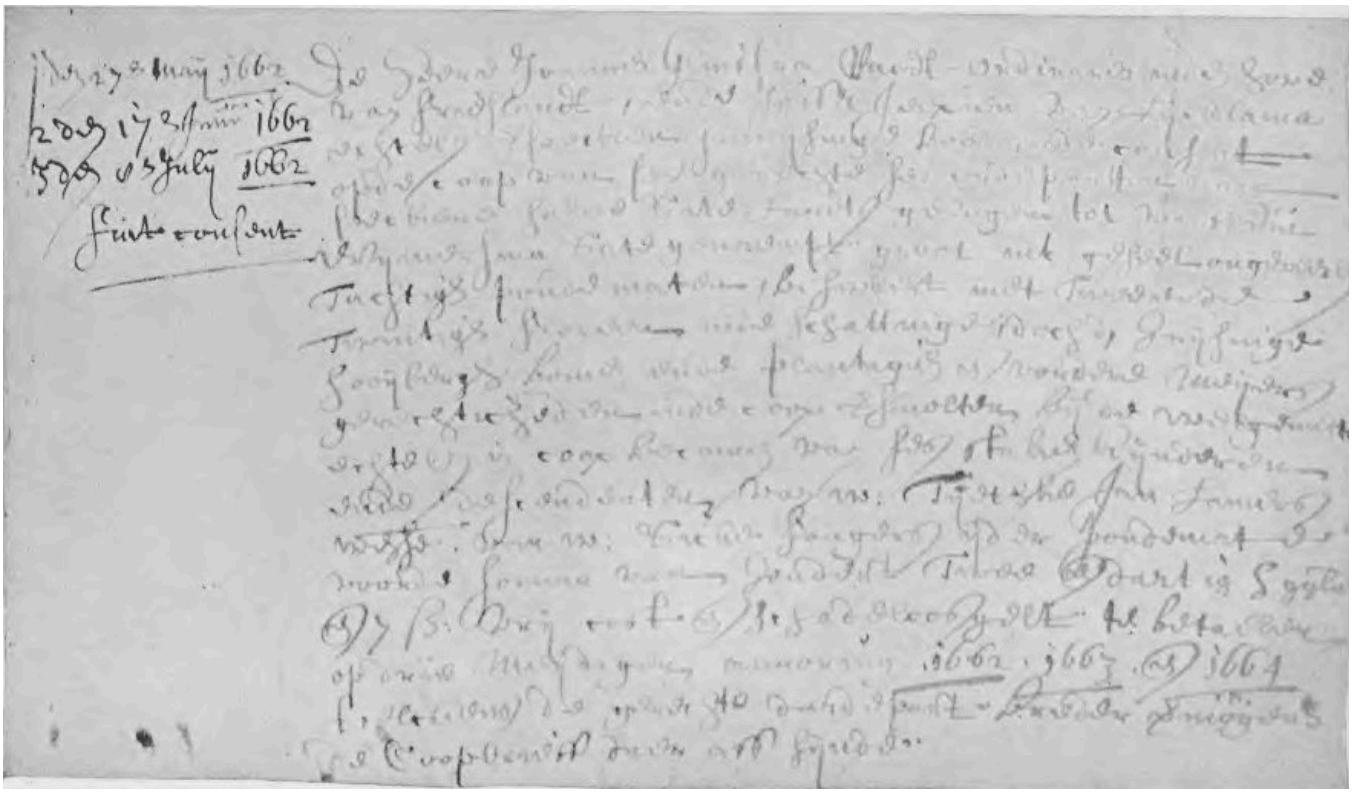
> 1640. Owner: Tiets, Jan Lammerts, widow of Sikke Fongers; Tenant: Jacob Meynerts.
> 1698. Owner: The Heer Valerius van Glinstra[3]: Tenant: Sijmon Rutgers (Fopma) (family name taken over from his mother).

[1] The three children, who each received a gold ducaton, were: Tjardus, born 19 January 1656, Sixtus, born 28 November 1657 and Elisabeth, born 21 July 1660 (Petrus was only born after the purchase, namely 20 September 1665).

[2] This must be understood to mean that the "Wymersma-sate" was a farmstead of 80 P.M. in size, and that Joannis Glinstra in 1662 bought in all the half of it, thus 40 P.M.

[3] A cousin of the couple Joannis Glinstra × Jeepien van Lycklama, who left no descendants.





Above, proclamations dated 17 June/1 and 8 July 1662 and below, proclamations dated 27 May/17 June/8 July 1662, from the Reces- en Proclamatieboek (register of court sessions and property sales) of Menaldumadeel, by which respectively 1/7 of the half "Wymersma-sate" at Marssum is sold by "Ittie Pytters lawful wife of Dr. Joannes Greidanus, Professor of Philosophy at Franeq." and 6/7 of that half sate by "six branches of children and descendants of the late Tyetske Jan Lamers widow of the late Sicke Fongers" (see page 110) (somewhat reduced).

In 1641 Tyeets Jans was already living in Leeuwarden, as appears from the two entries below in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Menaldumadeel:

> [note printed in the left margin beside the following quotation] On 15 September 1655 a receipt from Sicke Jelles was seen concerning this deed, and it was thereby cancelled.
>
> "2 Nov. 1641 (7 January 1644). Tietske Jansdr., widow of Sicke Fongers, living in Liuverden, owes 500 ggl. to Sicke Jelles and Tietske Duckedr., spouses in the aforesaid town, on account of money advanced, at an interest of 7%; giving thereby as special security my half sate of land with appurtenances situated at Marssum, used by Jacob Meijnerts as tenant" (This tenant also appears in the Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1640 under place N^{o} 13 at Marssum).
>
> [note printed in the left margin beside the following quotation] On 5 September 1655 Tesscke Jans produced a receipt, which had been executed by the debtor, reading: of this I have been satisfied.
>
> "15 June 1643 (7 January 1644). Tietske Jansdr., widow of Sicke Fongers, living in Liuwerden, owes 400 ggl. to Sicke Jelles and Tietske Duckedr., spouses in the aforesaid town, on account of money advanced over and above a certain deed of obligation of 500 g.gl. executed by me on 2 November 1641 to the creditors, at an interest of 7% (special security as above)."

According to the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Leeuwarden, Tyeets Jansdr. was placed under curatorship on 17 December 1660 on account of blindness. For at that time the Hopman (captain) Dirck Sioerds Ens became curator of Tietske Jan Lamberts, widow of Sicke Fongers, assisted by her two sons Fonger and Jan, who, as has already appeared in the case of Fonger, will have lived in Leeuwarden.

In the Civiele Sententiën (civil judgments) of the Hof van Friesland there also occurs a judgment of 29 January/19 February 1661, Intendit, in which Tietske Jan Lamberts, widow, being blind and incapacitated, assisted by her curator Dirck Sjoerdts Ens, resuming the proceedings begun by his late brother Renicus Ens in the same capacity, brings a claim against Pieter Bockes, burgher at Franeker, who is condemned by default "to execute to the plaintiff a receipt for the sum of 800 gls on account of 8 years of board money, received by him from the plaintiff in full, and further to proceed with her to a settlement regarding his further claims, all with the damages and interest thereof already had and suffered, and still to have and to suffer until full performance, and condemns the defendant also in the costs of the Intendit at the Court's assessment and in the fines for contumacy."

Tyeets Jans must therefore have been boarding with her son-in-law Pieter Bockes at Franeker for 8 years between 1643 and 1661. She will have died soon after 19 Febr. 1661, as appears from the following, entered on page 339 of the Leeuwarden Inventarisatieboek (inventory register) under the date of 5 September 1661:

> "Inventory and description made by the presiding Burgomaster François de Swart and me, first sworn clerk, at the instance of Jelle, Fonger and Jan Sickes; Ittie Keympes at Hallem, assisted as far as necessary by Faas Hendrix, her husband; Jeltie Roeloffs, assisted by Jan Hendrix her lawful husband; Pieter Bockes at Franeker on behalf of Ittie Pieters his daughter, lawful wife of Professor Greidanus; likewise Wybbe Jans at Weels-Rijp, stat> ing that he has authority from Mary and Eeck Wijbbes, his children begotten in marriage with Rixt Sickes, together with Johanneske Joannes his stepdaughter; — all children and grandchildren of Tietske Jan Lammerts, widow of Sicke Fongers, of all papers and instruments which were found in a small chest in the keeping of the Hopman Dirck Sioerts Ens, the 5th of September 1661.

> Messenger F. Hylkes.
> Will of the late Jan Lammerts and Idtie Louws, spouses, executed before Notary Govert van Tongeren, dated 10 March 1614, endorsed with letter N.
> A codicil of the same spouses, executed before the late Secretary I. Lambartj, dated 26 Febr. 1617, likewise marked with letter N.
> Deed of purchase of a burial place in the church at Marssum, dated the 30th of March 1618.
> Also a similar deed of a burial place in the Galileester Kerk, dated 24 January 1616, with a certain receipt relating thereto.
> Reversael (counter-deed) of the lands at Marssum, dated 15 Febr. 1597, with the receipts for full payment appended behind it.
> Receipt of Elske Jan Lammerts for three hundred cargl., dated 29 March 1628.
> Further, various other papers of no importance, together with the above inventoried documents, were received back by the Hopman Ens and taken away with him in a small chest, after all of them had been inspected and examined in the presence of the parties and the Commissioner."
> At the head of the deed it is further noted: "Paid on 12 September 1661."

Besides from this inventory, still more information about Tyeets Jan Lammerts comes to light from a judgment dated 15 July 1626, N^{o} 21, included in the Civiele Sententiën of the Hof van Friesland of the year 1626, in which moreover a few particulars occur concerning the "WYMERSMA-SATE" mentioned on the preceding page, from which the wife of Prof. Johannes Greydanus derived her surname. In the lawsuit referred to in this judgment, Lambert Jansz., living at Visvliet, was plaintiff, and Tziets Jansdr., widow of the late Sicke Fongers, living at Marssum, for herself and as mother and lawful guardian of her children born in marriage with the aforesaid Sicke, defendant.

The principal parts of the Sentence read as follows:

> "The plaintiff related that on the 15th of October of the year 1602 Jan Lamberts, in his time bailiff of the Honourable Lords Deputy States of Friesland, and Ittien Lousdr., spouses, the late father and stepmother of the plaintiff, had in a marriage contract promised and undertaken to him, the plaintiff, that after their death he, the plaintiff, would stand in the same position and share of inheritance with regard to the goods and estate to be left by them as Tiets Jans, the daughter of the aforesaid spouses and his, the plaintiff's, half-sister; wherein the aforesaid Ittyen Lousdochter expressly consented and agreed, as though he, the plaintiff, were her own son, the aforesaid spouses setting, for the observance and fulfilment thereof, all their goods, none excepted, as security and mortgage; with submission to the aforesaid Court and all courts, justiciable in the first instance, it being well understood that in the same it was likewise stipulated and agreed that he, the plaintiff, in consideration of the aforesaid should have nothing to claim from his mother's share of the inheritance or from the goods left by her, but that this should be merged therein and extinguished; notwithstanding which marriage contract the aforesaid father and stepmother of the plaintiff had placed the aforesaid Tiets with Sycke her husband on a certain FARM CALLED WYMERSMA, SITUATED ON THE MENAMER MIEDEN, 80 P.M. IN SIZE, TOGETHER WITH THE HOUSE STANDING THEREON, on which the aforesaid Sicke and Tziets had lived until now, and she, Tiets, still lives there with her children born in marriage with the aforesaid Sicke, they having paid no more rent than 100 ggl., possibly even less, it having also been granted by the aforesaid father and stepmother of the plaintiff to the aforesaid Sycke and Tiets that they might continue to live there for 100 ggl. yearly rent so long as either of the two, whether Sycke or she Tiets, were alive; and also enjoy the buying-off thereof as often as they might be bought off; now this buying-off, at the time the aforesaid Sycke and Tziets were placed thereon, might well have been worth, as it still is, more than 4000 ggl., for each P.M., thus for the whole farm 160 like guilders in rent; moreover the aforesaid spouses, the plaintiff's father and stepmother, afterwards not only made a testament but also codicils, considerably burdening him, the plaintiff, therein, and handsomely bequeathing and bestowing upon her, Tiets, and hers, as among other things the aforesaid farm, burdened with a fidei-commissum so as to remain in the family, which fidei-commissum, because he, the plaintiff, had no children, nor was there any likelihood of his getting any, while she, Tiets, on the contrary had a houseful, was the more burdensome for him, the plaintiff; besides which there was given and remitted to the aforesaid Tiets whatever she had received more than he, the plaintiff, and which she was accordingly bound to bring in; and in addition 100 ggl. each was made over to the 8 children of the aforesaid Tyets, all of which, and whatever else of the like there may be, to be pointed out more fully should need be in the triplicate, he, the plaintiff, holds to have been done contrary to the words, at least to the sense and meaning, of the aforesaid marriage conditions, and therefore cannot stand, or else ought to be annulled and set aside; since then among the goods of the plaintiff's father and stepmother, who have now both died, there are also certain moneys or outstanding debts, both of moneys advanced and otherwise, in the hands of various persons and amounting to considerable sums, namely in the hands of the other defendants, who reside within Leeuwarden, whereas the co-defendant, the aforesaid Tziets, resides in Menaldumadeel, thus in another jurisdiction, wherefore they are justiciable in the first instance before the Court, before which the aforesaid Tiets also was justiciable in respect of the goods of the plaintiff's father and stepmother which the aforesaid Tiets possesses, as was related above, and which are bound and submitted for the observance of the aforesaid marriage contract; the plaintiff had obtained a commission against all the aforesaid defendants before the aforesaid Lords Commissioners: against the aforesaid Tiets in order to enjoy the effect of the aforesaid marriage contract in full, and against the other defendants in order to give them notice to pay no moneys, at least so far as concerns him, the plaintiff, to the aforesaid Tiets, her children or anyone on her behalf, before the parties should have been settled or further disposed of; since then the parties could not agree, the plaintiff hereby serves his libel, and concluding (Latin) from the things said and to be said, and from what is to be supplied by the Lord Commissioner through his report or otherwise by the most honourable Court, the plaintiff contended that by judgment of this Court it should be declared and pronounced that the aforesaid marriage contract was valid and should take effect, and that the aforesaid testament and codicils, as also the lease contracts, are null, powerless and of no value, or else, as being contrary to the aforesaid marriage contract, cannot stand and ought otherwise to be set aside; accordingly he, the plaintiff, ought to be declared heir for one half, or owner and possessor, of the goods of the aforesaid Jan Lamberts and Itien Lousdr., his, the plaintiff's, father and stepmother, and the defendant Tiets Jansdr. to be condemned in her capacity to let him, the plaintiff, have all the goods of the aforesaid spouses for one half, under a proper inventory confirmed by oath, with all the fruits, profits and emoluments thereof already enjoyed or still to be enjoyed, together with those which the plaintiff might have enjoyed, as also the costs, damages and interest thereof until full restitution, release and payment; further to proceed with him, the plaintiff, to the division and partition of the aforesaid inheritance and goods, > in the doing of which she must again bring in and contribute not only the half of the value of the aforesaid farm or house and the vacating thereof, thus at least the sum of 2000 ggl., together with whatever she may have enjoyed beyond that more than he, the plaintiff; that also the notice given to the co-defendants in the aforesaid manner should be declared valid and of effect, the aforesaid Tiets to suffer and allow it, and to withdraw her opposition to the contrary without costs or damages; and should the plaintiff not be able to obtain the aforesaid conclusion — requesting that judgment first be given upon that, and upon refusal thereof not otherwise — then the plaintiff concludes to the end that the aforesaid defendant Tziets should be condemned to make good the interest in view of the fact that the aforesaid marriage contract had not been fulfilled, with all costs, damages and interest until full performance, contending also (Latin) to all ends that for the aforesaid the goods of the aforesaid father and stepmother of the plaintiff shall be declared to be mortgaged and bound; or to such other end, less or more, (Latin) jointly, severally or alternatively, in every better way and manner, maintaining as the Court should find most proper for the plaintiff, (Latin) saving the right of adding, diminishing and correcting, and in all costs.

>
> The defendant said in answer, firstly, that this case does not concern her children, since they are not heirs of Jan Lamberts and Ityen Lousdr., spouses, but only legatees; proceeding therewith to the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th articles of the libel, the defendant says that the contents of the same may appear from the exhibition of the alleged marriage contract may appear from its production; and since it had not been shown, the defendant protested that she reserved her right to speak upon it later; and as regards articles 6 and 7, the defendant does not believe that the plaintiff had anything to claim on account of his mother's property; against articles 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 it is said that the married couple had let their farm and lands to strangers and received therefrom in yearly rent no more than 100 ggl., and that the defendant with her late husband had satisfied and paid the former tenants for the buildings and the improvements, and that in place of the aforesaid tenants the defendant had taken it over for the same rent as they had received from strangers; concerning which the plaintiff had nothing to sue or to complain about, these being contracts made and entered into by his late father and stepmother during their lifetime, of which, since he holds himself to be heir to one half, he is also bound to carry out those contracts; therefore denying article 10 as also article 14, passing over article 15, and article 16 being irrelevant, since the defendant had not allowed herself to be bought out, which moreover could not happen more than once; of article 17 the defendant has no knowledge, and the plaintiff had been appointed guardian over his father and stepmother, who in the administration of their property were free to act and to contract, so that they are now deceased; articles 18 and 19 wholly irrelevant, since the defendant gives as much as strangers had given, and more; passing over articles 20 and 21, the defendant says to articles 22, 23 and 24 that the plaintiff was not burdened more than the defendant, neither with the fidei-commissum nor with legacies, just as she likewise enjoys no more than he from the testament and the codicil; and as far as articles 25, 26, 27 and 28 are concerned, as long as the plaintiff and the defendant are alive one cannot know whether it will be with or without children, likewise who will die first or last: (Latin) no one is blessed before death; against articles 29 and 30 it serves that the plaintiff has received more than the defendant. (Latin) And who does not know that the right of collation can be taken away by a father's testament. Article 31 the defendant accepted on behalf of her children, and the plaintiff was bound to pay the legacies in proportion to his hereditary share. The defendant does expressly deny the content of articles 32, 33, 34 and 35, namely that the dispositions of the aforesaid married couple could not lawfully take effect, or that the same would be contrary to the wording of the marriage contract, as will be argued more fully after production thereof; the further narrative being not to the point, except only to establish the jurisdiction, since no one other than the defendant had been summoned or had appeared; and the defendant would therefore find good means to raise an (Latin) exceptio declinatoria fori (a plea declining the jurisdiction of the court), of which she would nevertheless not avail herself, being inclined to be out of the trouble with the least possible litigation; and as far as the requested division is concerned, the defendant in her own name has never been unwilling to divide and to share, as she even now offers to do according to the tenor of the testamentary disposition and codicil left by the defendant's parents, without prejudice nevertheless to the legacies and the fidei-commissum; with which offer the defendant, maintaining that she may suffice, concluding, contended and maintained, from what has been said and what is still to be added and to be supplied ex officio by the Court through Your Honour's report, that the plaintiff should be declared, moreover, not admissible in his claim and conclusion, as well in the one part thereof as in the other, at least in the manner and form, or for the present, and that she the defendant should be absolved thereof by order, (Latin) with costs.
>
> The Court declares the plaintiff not admissible in his claim and for reasons compensates the costs of the suit."

With the data yielded by the inventory of 5 September 1661 included above and by the Sententie of 15 July 1626 just mentioned, the following can be established:

1° Of the 7 children of Sicke Fongers (Rinia) and Tyeets Jansdr. on 30 January 1635, on 5 September 1661 only the 3 sons were still living: Jelle Sickes, Fonger Sickes and Jan Sickes, so that before that date the following had died:

Jacobien Sickes (Rinia), married to (Jhr.) Keympe Unia, who apparently had by then also already died, for which reason their daughter (Jkvr.) Ittie Keympes (Unia) at Hallum, who was married to Faas Hendrix, appears for them;

Trijntie Sickes (Rinia), married to Roeloff Wijbes Tyeppenboer, who apparently had likewise died, so that their daughter Jeltie Roeloffs (Tyeppenboer), assisted by her husband Jan Hendrix, acts for them;

Rixt Sickes (Rinia), whose second husband Wybe Jans had also died, and for whom appear: seemingly a daughter from the first marriage, Joanneske Johannes /Rode/n/huis/, and the children from the second marriage: Mary Wybes and Eeck Wybes;

Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia), the wife of the Franeker carrier Pyter Bockes, who is present as representative of his daughter Yttie Pieters (Wimersma), the wife of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, and on this date (5 September 1661) apparently the only child of Pyter Bockes and Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia);

2° Tyeets Jan Lammerts was a daughter of Jan Lammerts, Deurwaarder (bailiff) of the Honourable Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputy States) of Friesland, and Idtie Louws, who on 10 March 1614 had their testament drawn up and on 26 February 1618 an addition to it, so that the wife of Prof. Johannes Greydanus was named after the grandmother, on the mother's side, of her mother. Moreover, named after this grandmother Idtie Louws are: Idtien Sickes (Rinia), the early deceased sister of Prof. Greydanus' mother-in-law, and (Jkvr.) Ittie Keympes (Unia), the daughter of (Jhr.) Keympe Unia and Jacobien Sickes (Rinia).

Idtie Louws was the second wife of Jan Lammerts, who from his first marriage still had a son Lambert Jans, who in 1626 lived at Visvliet and who together with Tyeets Jan Lammerts from the second marriage were the only children whom the Deurwaarder (bailiff) Jan Lammerts left behind.

3° Perhaps a sister of the Deurwaarder Jan (Jans) Lammerts was: Elske Jan Lammerts, who was still alive on 29 March 1628. An Elske Jan Lammerts married, according to the Leeuwarden marriage proclamations dated 18/25 Nov./2 Dec. 1604, Jelle Sickes, Kraemer (pedlar) of Grou.

The parents of Tyeets Jansdr. were thus: the Deurwaarder Jan Lammerts and Idtie Louws. This Jan Lammerts was presumably Jan Lamberts the Younger, and, if one is to believe the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel by de Haan Hettema and Van Halmael, a son of Jan Lamberts the Elder and Anna Edzesdr.. The couple Jan Lamberts the Elder and Anna Edzesdr. is mentioned in this Stamboek in Part II on page 174 in note (2) to the genealogy "Glinstra". According to this note Jan Lamberts d'Oude was buried on 21 June 1574 in Oldehove at Leeuwarden, where also his wife Anna Edzesdr. was laid to rest on 27 September 1575. Furthermore, their children would also have included: Ydtje Jan Lamberts, married to Watze Eelckes, and Maycke Jan Lamberts, married to Juck Jans van Beyma. It must be doubted that, as is also stated in the said Stamboek, Adje Lammerts, the well-known Burgomaster of Leeuwarden, was a son of the said couple. For this see page 120 of the article "Adie Lambertsz. en de zijnen" by Dr. A. L. Heerma van Voss in the thirty-second volume (Anno 1934) of "De Vrije Fries", journal published by the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden (this Adje Lamberts might perhaps be a brother of Jan Lamberts d'Oude, married to Anna Edzesdr.).

According to the genealogy "Glinstra", on page 257 in Part I of the said Stamboek, and the note (2) just quoted, Watze Eelckes, who is said to have been Burgomaster of Leeuwarden, died 12 August 1629, aged 80 years, and his wife Ydtje Jan Lammerts on 28 December 1621, aged 73 years. Among the fideicommissary wills registered with the Hof van Friesland (Court of Friesland) there is one dated 8 September 1600 of Watze Eelckesz. and Ytyen Jan Lambertsdr., spouses, citizens within Leeuwarden, in which mention is made of their children, and in particular of their "eldest daughter Sydts", who was married to Joris Gerrytsz.[1] From the heading of the will it appears that it was submitted for registration by Mr. Elco Glinstra, Deputy State of Friesland, as having authority from his honourable mother Maycke Watze Eelckedr., which agrees with the aforementioned genealogy "Glinstra", according to which Eelco van Glinstra, who married on 7 May 1643 Lutscke Hectorsdr. van Bouricius, born 4 May 1623, was a son of the couple Cent Ypckes × Maycke Watze-Eelckesdr. (Gadema)[2]. This Elco Glinstra signed, on 8 June 1660 as Chairman of the Deputy States of Friesland, the resolution given on pages 127/128, by which Dr. Johannes Greydanus was appointed Professor of Philosophy at the University of Franeker. Another son of the said couple was, according to the genealogy "Glinstra": Johannes van Glinstra, † 10 October 1678 and married in August 1642 to Jeepcke Rinthjesdr. Lijkclama à Nyeholt, † 13 May 1692, aged 74 years. This Joannis Glinstra, who, as is also stated in the Stamboek, was Ordinary Councillor in the Court of Friesland, and Jeepkien van Lycklama, bought, as has been reported on page 110, from Prof. Johannes Greydanus' wife: Yttie Pieters Wimersma the $^1/_7$ part, inherited by her, of the half of the grandparental "Wymersma-sate" at Marssum.

---

[1] Perhaps the same as the Joris Gerrijdtsz Camp mentioned above on page 105, Boum^r (master of works) of the town of Leeuwarden, curator over Jidtien Sickedr..

[2] According to the Stamboek of De Haan Hettema and Van Halmael the family name "Gadema" would have come not from Watze Eelckes, but from his wife, thus from Ydtje Jan-Lamberts.

In the oldest surviving marriage register of Leeuwarden one finds the marriage of Sicke Fongers, born at Collum, and of Tyets Jansdr.; the proclamation is dated 18 April 1601[1].

That Sicke Fongers (Rinia), who was a landowner at Marssum, was born at Collum explains what is stated at the beginning of the division of his estate d.d. 30 June 1635 among his eight children, in which mention is made (see page 104) of the distribution of the first instalment of the lands sold at Pingjum and further of the amount which was "received by Jelle Jellis as additional payment for the division of the lands at Collum and Pingium".

The parents of this Sicke Fongers (Rinia) and his relationship to the frequently mentioned Jelle Jelles may appear from the Register of the Fideicommissary wills recorded at the registry of the Hof van Friesland (Court of Friesland), in which one finds entered a petition addressed to the Hof van Frieslandt on 26 April 1659 by:

> "Pieter Bockes at Franequer, noi^e liberorum[2] and Fonger Sickes, for himself, for and on behalf of the two further degrees of the late Eeck Fongers, their grandmother and respectively great-grandmother, whose surviving will is herewith submitted in the original, and since the Secretary Scheerhagen makes difficulties about registering it on account of its age, while nevertheless the Resolution of the States of the Land enjoins this upon the petitioners as fideicommissary heirs, who have only recently obtained it, the petitioners therefore request Your Honourable Mightinesses' consent thereto."
>
> In the margin stood: the Court considers it good that the will mentioned herein be registered. Done 25 April 1659. (signed). E. S. Glinstra[3] with some flourishes.
>
> Marginal note: 11 Oct. 1688 the Notary Thomas Tarquini exhibited the following two articles and respectively receipts relating to the accompanying will.
>
> Jelle Jelles, citizen and Wagoner in Leuwarden, as heir of the late Eeck Fungers, my grandmother, acknowledge that the children of Sicke Fongers, my late uncle, have paid me out of the purchase money of the sold lands at Pingjum 800 ggl., promised me as an additional payment at the divisions of the Lands made between us before the Lord Saackma as Commissioner.

21 March in the year 1634, with 100 ggl. for the fixing of the price or additional payment and for the option or choice given to them. For which I thank my said uncle's children for good payment, and I declare the said 800 ggl., as having proceeded from the lands at Pingjum, to be held, and after my death to be held, to be of the same nature as the Lands themselves, according to the tenor of my grandmother's will, well known to me as having a copy of it, without wishing in any way to prejudice the Will in my regard by the said receipt. Done the 16th of May 1635 (signed) Jelle Jelles, Gaspar van Campen, Advocate, with their flourishes and ciphers.

Received by me the undersigned Deurwaarder (bailiff) at the Hof van Friesland from the hands of Antie Roelofs the sum of 200 ggl. or 280 cargl., being ¼ part of 800 ggl., according to a certain sentence given before the lower judge on 24 December 1659 and further pronounced before the Court in the case of appeal on 20 December 1661, to the profit of Pieter Bockes in his capacity and to the detriment of the said Antie Roeloffs in her capacity, with 17 st. commission money and 6 st. for a copy of the sentence and 14 st. for the receipt of the money and finally another 1 cargl. 3 st. on account of my bailiff's fees. 16 July 1663. (signed) W. Heems, with flourishes and ciphers.

Then follows the actual will, d.d. 10 June 1617, recorded on 26 April 1659, offered for that purpose by Renicus Ens, Notary Public, the 26th of April 1659.

The testatrix: Eeck Sickedr., widow of the late Fonger Jellesz, in Leeuwarden, appoints thereby as her heirs: Sicke Fongersz and Taets Fongersdr., her son and daughter, and further Jelle Jellez., her grandchild, left behind by her deceased son Jelle Fongers; and further provides:

1° that Sicke Fongersz. and Jelle Jellesz. or their heirs shall after her death let Taets Fongersdr. have all (the testatrix's) household goods, nothing excepted, together with a sum of 80 cargl., provided that in return they enjoy the proceeds of her inherited lands after the testatrix's death;

2° that Sicke Fongersz. shall, after the testatrix's death, out of the mass of goods repay 100 cargl. which he took up on interest from Sicke Ritsckesz. on the testatrix's behalf;

3° that her heirs shall, after the death of Taets Fongersdr., pay out 300 cargl. together with her clothes to the two children of Sicke Fongersz., named Jelle and Rixt, and upon the death of these children to the other children of Sicke Fongers; and that Rixt Sickedr. shall after the death of Taets Fongersdr. have her best hooded cloak and Jelle Sickes a new cloak of good cloth;

4° that neither Jelle Jellesz nor his heirs shall be permitted to sell the lands inherited by him except only to her nearest heirs or blood relations who are then living, and then at an appraised price;

5° that, if Jelle Jelles should die without leaving lawful children, the lands inherited by him shall not be allowed to pass to his mother, nor to his half-brothers and sisters, but only to the nearest blood relations of the Testatrix.

Further the testatrix declares that the own lands received as dowry by Jelle Fongersz., the father of the aforesaid Jelle Jelles, are her lands, and that he received them in the place of his late father's lands received, because he at that time lived on and used the aforesaid lands, in place of which lands the testatrix should again enjoy his late father's lands as her own.

Finally the testatrix also bequeaths 1½ quartier (a measure of grain) of rye to the poor of Collum and Pingjum and some articles of clothing to Mary Adams, widow, in Leeuwarden."

[1] According to page 106 the eldest daughter of the couple — Jaepke — is said to have died 18 Oct. 1642, aged 42 years, by which will be meant in her 42nd year, thus aged 41 years.

[2] "Nomine liberorum" means on behalf of the children, which does not seem to be correct, since Lysbet Sickes had only 1 child on 5 Sept. 1661.

[3] Epeus Sents Glinstra, Secretary of the Hof van Friesland, brother of the aforementioned Elco Sents Glinstra.

This registration brings the following to light:

1° the parents of Sicke Fongers (Rinia) were: Fonger Jelles (Rinia) and Eeck Sickes, who owned lands at Pingjum and at Collum; Eeck Sickes made her will on 10 June 1617 — her husband had then already died — which was registered on 26 April 1659.

2° besides Sicke Fongers, the couple Fonger Jelles × Eeck Sickes had further children: Taets Fongersdr. and Jelle Fongers, who had as his son the Jelle Jelles repeatedly mentioned above. From a Civil Sentence of 14 February 1626, N° 18, occurring in the Register of the Hof van Friesland (Court of Friesland) for the year 1626, it appears that Jelle Fongers was married to Bauck Tiebbedr. and that his sister Taets Fongersdr. was mentally incapacitated. Furthermore it follows from the Sentence that Bauck Tiebbedr.[1], after the death of Jelle Fongers about 1598, remarried Ds. Nicolaus Joannes[2], minister at Rinsumageest, by whom she had 4 children, among others Luw, Joannis and Jacob.

Jelle Jelles, who, according to the registration in the Register of the Fidei-Commissary wills included above, was on 10 May 1635 "citizen and wagoner in Leuwarden", had as his wife Antie (Anke) Roeloffs; on 12 May 1639 the marriage was solemnized at Leeuwarden of Jelle Jelles, carrier, widower, and Anke Roelofs, widow of Jan Dircx.. Jelle Jelles is here called "widower"; presumably he had been married to Antie Sipckedr., widow of Sijds Wpckes, because in the Leeuwarden marriage register one finds: 21/28 May/4 June 1626, Jelle Jellis, carrier to Groningen, and Antie Sipckedr., widow of Sijds Wpckes.

A child of the marriage of Antie Roeloffs with Jan Dircx was: Auckien Jans, on the ground of the two following deeds:

a. Weesboek (orphans' register) of Leeuwarden (in the Municipal Archives) for the year 1643, page 35 verso, division of the estate on the death of Jan Dircksen, the husband of Antie Roelefs. According to this deed there appeared at the Town Hall of Leeuwarden: Wilke Dircks and Folkert Martens as curators ad divisionem over Auckien Jansdr., begotten in marriage by Jan Dircksen and Antie Roelefs, assisted by Cornelio Gellij (Notary Public) on the one side, and the aforesaid Antie, assisted by Jelle Jelles, her present husband, and S. Rodenhuis, her attorney, on the other, in order to draw up the inventory and division of the goods left by the aforesaid Jan Dircksen.

The household goods, among which some silver, together with shop wares and tools, according to valuation, amount to 554 ℔ 12 st. 8 penn. — the ready money or outstanding bonds arising both from a sold reed and otherwise rise to 1800 ℔, thus together 2354 ℔ 12 st. 8 pn.
And over and above that a certain house with appurtenances, standing by the Wirdemer poort within this town and acquired during the marriage.
The parties have agreed together that each shall take half of the estate named above, so that the child's property then consists of half the house and > 1177 ℔ 6 st. 4 penn., provided that it shall bear half of the costs incurred in this matter.

> Done by resumption 6 Nov. 1643 (signed) Anneke Roeleffes, Auckien Yans, Jelle Jelles, Wylcke Dyrcks, F. Martens, S. Rodenhuys, Corn. Gellius, J. Stevens (Presiding Burgomaster) S. Jorritzma (Secretary).

b. Authorisatieboek (register of appointments of guardians) of Leeuwarden (in the Municipal Archives). In it there occurs, under the date of 6 November 1642, the appointment of Jelle Jellis as stepfather to be curator over Auckien Jans, in her 16th year[3], assisted so far as needed by Antie Roelofs, her mother.

Concerning the lands which Fonger Jelles (Rinia) and Eeck Sickes possessed at Pingjum and at Collum, the following can be reported.

Lands at Pingjum.

[1] According to the list of ministers her surname was: "Wijbema".

[2] According to the list of ministers his surname was: "Waelwijk".

[3] At Leeuwarden there was baptized on 8 October 1628: Aucken, dau. of Jan Dircx.

Among those lands must have been the land which, in the printed Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1640[1], is entered as place N° 9 at Pingium in the name of: "Jacob Pijtters, Feddrick Tjercx, at Harlingen, each owner of one half", since, according to the proclamations indicated below in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Wonseradeel, 3 of the 8 heirs mentioned above to the estate of Tyeets Jansdr. sold their $^{3}/_{8}$ share of a farm at Pingjum to that Jacob Pijtters and Feddrick Tierx:

> "9 April 1636 /10/17/24 Oct.; 7/14/21/28 Nov.; 5/12 Dec. 1635/16/23 Jan./6/13 Febr. 1636. Jacob Pijtters and Feddrick Tierx, both merchants and citizens of Harlingen, buy $^{3}/_{8}$ of a certain farmstead with the house and hay barn, situated in the Hemleme neighbourhood under the jurisdiction of Pingum, formerly used by Nanne Meinnerts, in all 40 pondemaat (land measure) 9 einsen 7 penningen in size, free of year-terms, but burdened with 13 floreen (land-tax units) and 1 reaal etc., bought from Keimpe Unia, living at Oppenhuysen as husband and guardian of Jaepcke Sickedr.; Jelle Sickes at Sneeck for himself; Trijn Sickes, assisted by Roeleff Wybes her husband, the pondemaat at 177 ggl."

Lands at Collum.

The land at Collum was apparently place no. 2 at Turpmaklucht in Collumerlant mentioned in the Stemcohieren, of which, according to the Stemcohier of 1640 (see p. 104, 2nd Part, Oostergo, of the printed Stemcohieren of 1640 and 1698), Jelle Jelles zoon was the owner.

Over this land the family of Lysbeth Sickes appears to have litigated at length with the heirs of Jelle Jelles. Thus one finds in the Civil Sentences of the Court of Friesland, in the Sentence dated 20 December 1661, N° 49, mentioned above in the 9th paragraph of p. 115, the lawsuit already described on p. 89, conducted between: "Antie Roeleffs, widow of the late Jelle Jelles[2], living in Leuwarden, heiress ex testamento of the aforesaid late Jelle Jelles, in that capacity appellant, against Pieter Bockes at Franequer, who through the death of his late wife[3] has resumed the proceedings maintained by him as husband and guardian over her, likewise as plaintiff, in the name and on behalf of Johannes Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine and Philosophy there, husband and guardian of Itie Pieters, his, the plaintiff's, daughter, as universal heiress of the late Lijsbeth Sickis, her mother[4], heirs ex fidei-commisso of the late Eeck Sickedr., widow of the late Fonger Jellis, and as legatees of the late Jelle Jelles, in that capacity respondent, original plaintiff, on the other side."

> The Court of Friesland "declares that the appellant is not aggrieved by the judgment of the lower court[5] and condemns her in the costs of the proceedings, to be assessed by the Court."

Since the year 1659 is missing from the Definitive Sentence Books in the Municipal Archives of Leeuwarden, the judgment of the lower court against which the appeal was lodged is not known, but the considerations of the judgment of the Court of Friesland, from which it might appear that the lawsuit does indeed relate to the lands at Collum, read as follows:

> "The appellant said that the respondents had, by judgment of the Court of the City of Leuwarden, been declared fideicommissary heirs of the late Eeck Sickedr., widow of the late Fonger Jellis, with adjudication of the goods and monies, and since the appellant found herself aggrieved thereby, she had appealed. Giving as grounds of grievance that all wills containing a fideicommissum must, according to the Placard of this Province, be registered in the Registry of the Court, which, as regards this alleged will of the late Eeck Sickes, upon which the adjudication of the lands etc. in question rested, was lacking, so that the alleged fideicommissum must necessarily cease, as appears from the Resolution of the States of this Province; while moreover the greater part of the adjudicated lands left by Eeck Sickedr. had, before the date of the alleged will, partly been acquired by purchase by the father of Jelle Jellis, and partly been given by the said Eeck Sickes to her son Jelle Fungers, being the father of Jelle Jellis, as útbirns[6] or as dowry, whereby, since those lands had already passed out of the ownership of the late Eeck Sickes and had been transferred to another, the testatrix, the aforesaid Eets Sickes, could in no way, after the alienation had taken place, burden with a fideicommissum goods held by another as his own; insisting also on these foregoing grounds of grievance, together with the adjudicated toeaecke (additional payment), the appellant concluded and contended that the judgment of the lower court should be annulled and that the Court, giving judgment anew, should declare the respondent, original plaintiff, inadmissible in the claim and conclusion taken by her.
>
> The respondent said that with regard to the 1st article he referred to the Sentence, together with the copies of the will and deed; that the respondent was aggrieved thereby was not believed, contrary to the 2nd article; thus the appeal and the apostles of the 3rd article were left to the charge of the appellant; passing over the 4th article as a mere introduction, as harmless, he added to the 5th and 6th articles that, the fideicommissum having been acknowledged and recognized by the aforesaid deed and by his own will shown in copy, the effect of it required no registration, even though it had been made.

[1] See Stemcohieren of 1640 and 1698, 2nd Part Westergo, p. 206.

[2] Jelle Jelles therefore died before 20 December 1661.

[3] Lijsbeth Sickes died before 5 September 1661 (see p. 113).

[4] From this it follows that Itie Pieters, as has already been stated on p. 101, was at that time the only child of Pieter Bockes and Lijsbeth Sickes.

[5] This judgment was of 24 December 1659, as has already been stated in the 9th paragraph of p. 115.

[6] Is an old Frisian word which means roughly a gift to the child upon the marriage concluded by him.

> (Latin) For laws were given for future, not for past transactions, as once established and approved by the heirs alike, whereby article 7 thus lapsing, articles 8 and 9 were in part irrelevant and also untrue; untrue as never proved, and irrelevant because all this had been taken away by the deed of the testator Jelle Jelles and his aforesaid will, for by Jelle Jelles' will, which the appellant acknowledged, since she derived her title from it, the lands at Collum had moreover been bequeathed, whereby articles 10, 11, 12 and 13 of themselves collapsed, as resting upon untrue foundations, and therefore, concluding, the respondent contended that the appellant should be declared not aggrieved by the judgment of the lower judge."

Furthermore the Civil Sentences of the Court of Friesland dated 1 March 1698 N^{o} 6 mention a suit between Tiardus Greidanus, minister of the Divine Word at Achlum, as co-heir of his late parents (that is Prof. Johannes Greidanus and Yttie Pieters Wimersma) and having obtained the further right by partition — and Auckien Jans at Leuwarden (according to page 116 the daughter of Antie Roeloffs). Auckien Jans is by that judgment "condemned, together with Ds. Tiardus Greidanus, to proceed before Commissioners to the division and partition of the jointly held farmstead of land with its buildings and appurtenances, standing and situated at Collum and at present used by Claas Wijgers with his wife as tenants, and to settle, without cost or damage, her opposition thereto already made or yet to be made, and condemns Auckien Jans in the costs of the suit."

Soon after this judgment the "jointly held farmstead of land with its buildings and appurtenances" at Collum was sold, as appears from an "Announcement of sale", dated 21 May 1698, occurring on page 193 of the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Kollumerland en Nieuw Kruisland. According to this announcement the merchant Freerck Jans and Aeltie Overneij, married couple at Leuwarden, bought:

> "$^{3}/_{4}$ of the farmstead and lands, called Hayema-zate with the buildings, barn and garden, together with the trees and plantation and appurtenances, standing and situated in the village of Collum in Turpmaclucht, held jointly as to the remaining fourth part with Dom. Greidanus, minister at Achlum, at present used by Claas Wiggerts, be it large or small, with the burdens and profits as it lies there and as the seller inherited it from her late mother Antie Roelefs, widow of Jelle Jelles, — besides also 1 P.M. of land lying in the aforesaid farmstead, be it large or small, with the burdens and profits as it was bought by the seller's late mother Antie Roelefs aforesaid according to deed of sale of 13 June 1662 from the commissioners on behalf of the Church of Collum[1]; — all this thus acquired by purchase from Aucktien Jans at Leuwarden for the sum of 2000 cargl."

Although, as appears from a marginal note, this purchase is said not to have gone through, because J^{r} Douwe Feije van Aylva as adjoining owner had made use of his right of pre-emption, nevertheless in the stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1698 (see page 105 of the 2nd Part of Oostergo of the printed Stemcohieren of 1640 and 1698), which was drawn up in October 1698, there is mentioned, under farm N^{o} 2, of which in 1640 Jelle Jelles was the owner (see the preceding page), as owner: "Jr. Douwe Feije van Aijlva, for a fourth part, and Freerk Jansen, as buyer from Aucktjen Jansen, for the remaining three fourth parts", while as meijer (tenant farmer) is given the tenant Claes Wiggerts, already mentioned in the suit with Ds. Tiardus Greidanus (see above). In any case it may therefore be assumed that the family property at Collum must have consisted in the so-called "Hayema-zate".

The fifth child of Sicke Fongers (Rinia) and Tyeets Jansdr., indicated on the chart belonging to page 103, was Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia). According to the deeds cited on page 105 from the Authorisatieboeken (registers of guardianship appointments) of the Court of Friesland, Lysbeth Sickes (Rinia) was 17 years old on 1 December 1631 and 12 April 1632, so that she must have been born between 12 April and 1 December 1614. Her marriage entry in the old Marriage and Members' Register of Marssum reads:

> "14 February 1632: Pieter Bocke soon and Lysbet Sickedr. after proclamations, attestation."

She died before 5 September 1661 (see page 113).

Yttie Pieters Wimersma, the wife of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, must therefore have been born — probably in Miedum, Marssum or Franeker — after 14 February 1632.

[1] This purchase is recorded as follows on page 357 in the proclamatieboek of Kollumerland en Nieuw-Kruisland: "26 May 1663. Antie Roeleffs, widow of Jelle Jelles, living at Leeuwarden, buys 1 P.M. of land in the farmstead and lands used by Hendrick Saepes, burdened with its floreen rent, dikes, as well as sluice, taxation and further charges, together with 2 years' lease belonging to the aforesaid Hendrick Sapes, acquired by purchase from the Committed Delegates and church wardens of the Church at Collum, assisted by J^{r} Feyo van Scheltema, according to consent of the Court, dated 15 Nov. 1661, for the sum of 68 ggl., more fully by virtue of deed of sale dated 13 June 1662".

Somewhat more than a year after their marriage on 2 July 1654, Dr. Johannes Greidanus and his wife Yttie Pieters Wimersma became members of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker, as appears from the following entry, reproduced on the reverse side, in the Lidmatenboek (register of church members) kept by the minister:

"In the year 1655, the 14 July, New Member.
. . . . . .
Dn̄ Iohannes Greidanús and Ydke Piters, his wife
. . . . . ."

The career of Dr. Johannes Greydanus could be divided into a career as a physician and one as a philosopher.

Career of Dr. Johannes Greydanus as a physician.

Dr. Johannes Greydanus must probably have carried on a busy medical practice, because several documents have been found from which that medical practice appears. In chronological order these documents are the following:

1° As has been stated on page 29, in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Barradeel, with an inventory dated 21 November 1654 of the goods found in the house of the deceased, being Prof. Johannes Greydanus' grandfather on his mother's side, Jan Foppes at Tjummarum, an account is found from which it appears (see pages 29 and 30) that Dr. Johannes Greydanus treated his grandfather Jan Foppes as physician before the latter's death and charged 13 Caroli guilders and 10 stuivers "for visits and services".

2° Estate inventories Franeker.

> Inventory dated 12 November 1658 of the late Claes Jansz. de Groote, shopkeeper (as stated on page 65, he was a "baker") at Franeker, m. Hiltje Lieuwesdr.
> Therein one finds under the heading "Death debts"
> "Dr. Joannes Greydanús is due according to specification 12 —..—..
> The Burgomaster Petrus Schotanus (who was an apothecary) according to specification 23 —12—.."

3° Estate inventories Franeker.

Inventory dated 30 May 1660 of the house of the deceased Harmentje Joais ter Braâke, m. Pier Dircxz Cantor distiller (and living on "de Greyde"), under the: "Debts owed, both private
and death debts" one finds:
"Professor Frenzelio [1] / N° I° 18 —..—..
Professor Greydang N° II° 146 [2]—..—..
Burgomaster Petrus Schotang, apothecary, N° III° 72 —..—.."*

4° In the Franeker Judicial Archive, in the Schriftuurrol (roll of pleadings) E3, the following notes occur concerning a lawsuit that appears to have been conducted between Prof. Joh. Greydanus and a man from Hindeloopen, Douwe Pijters Stent, evidently connected with the latter's medical treatment:

refunds the costs	19 February 1664. Douwe Pijters Stent at Hyndeloopen, defendant, against D. Professor Greijdanus with his associate, plaintiff, for the fine for contumacy and in the principal case for payment of 25 % on account of physician's fee.
continuation	7 March 1664. Douwe Pijters Stent defendant against D. Professor with his associate, plaintiff, to deliver a specification.
spec. received.	11 March 1664. As above.
(Latin) to be returned	18 March 1664. As above, to return the specification now received and to answer in the principal case.
Libel requested and received.	25 March 1664. As above, to answer in the principal case.
continuation	1 April 1664. As above, to receive the answer.
continues	22 April 1664. As above.
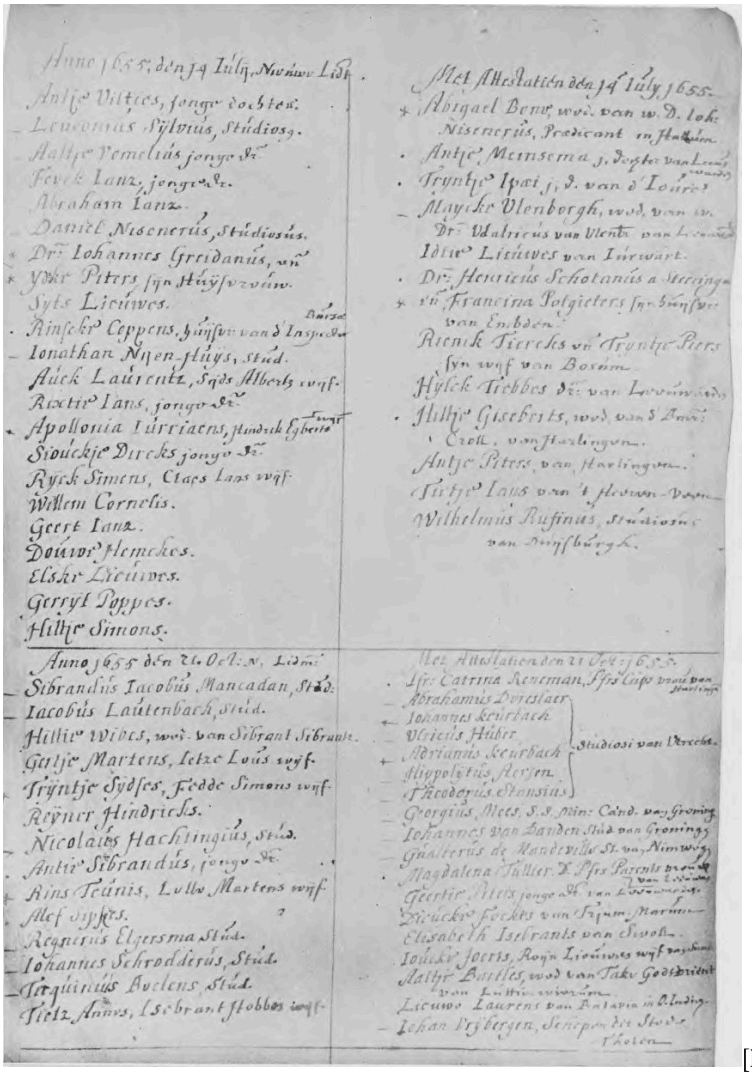
deed executed to pay within nine weeks with costs.	29 April 1664. As above.

[1] Joachim Frencelius, Professor of Medicine at the Franeker University, one of the promotors of Johannes Greydanus. See page 82.

[2] Or 46.



[left-hand column, upper block] In the year 1655, 14 July, New Members. Antje Wiltjes, young dau. _ Leuconius[?] Sylvius, student. _ Aaltje Cornelius, young d[r]. Fevck Lanz, young d[r]. Abraham Lanz. _ Daniel Nisenerus, student. * D[r]: Iohannes Greidanús, and * Ydke Piters, his wife. Syts Lieúwes. . Rinsckje Ceppens, wife of the Inspect[r] [illegible] _ Ionathan Nijenhuijs, stud. Auck Laurentz, Sjds Alberts' wife. Rixtje Lans, young d[r]. . Apollonia Lurriaens, Hindrick Egberts [illegible] wife Siouckje Dircks, young d[r]. Ryck Simens, Claes Lans' wife Willem Cornelis. Geert Lanz. Doúwe Hemckes. Elske Lieúwes. Gerryt Poppes. Hiltje Simons.

[right-hand column, upper block] With certificates, 14 July 1655. * Abigael Bonr[?], widow of the late D. Ioh: Nisenerús, minister in [illegible] . Antje Meinsema, young dau. from Leeuw[?] . Tryntje Ipei, young d. from d' Ioúre[?] _ Mayckr Vlenborgh, widow of the late D[r]: Walricús van Vlentr[?] from L[illegible] Idtie[?] Lieuwes from Lieuwart. . D[r]: Henricús Schotanús a Sterringa * and Francina Potgieters his wife, from Embden. Rienck Tiercks and Tryntje Piers his wife, from Bozum[?] Hylck Tiebbes, dau. from Leeúwaerd[?] . Hiltje Gisebrits, widow of the Am[r][?] Croll, from Harlingen. Antje Pitersz from Harlingen. Tietje Laus from 't Heeren-Veen Wilhelmús Rufinús, student from Duijsbúrgh.

[left-hand column, lower block] In the year 1655, 21 Oct.: New Members: _ Sibrandús Iacobús Mancadan, Stud: _ Iacobús Laútenbach, stud. Hillie[r] Wibes, widow of Sibrant Sibrants. Geeltje Martens, Ietze Loús' wife. * Tryntje Sijdses, Fedde Simons' wife Reyner Hindricks. _ Nicolaús Hachtingiús, stud. _ Antje Sibrandús, young d[r]. + Rins Teúnis, Lolle Martens' wife Alef Sijpkes. _ Regnerús Elgersma, stud. _ Iohannes Schrodderús, Stud. _ Torquiniús Boelens, Stud. Tietz Anns, Isebrant Stobbes' wife

[right-hand column, lower block] With certificates, 21 Oct.: 1655. . Ifr: Catrina Reneman, Pfrs Cúps' wife, from Harlinge[?] _ Abrahamús Dvieslaer[?] _ Iohannes Keúrbach _ Ulricús Húber + Adriannis Keúrbach } students from Utrecht. _ Hippolytús Herjen[?] _ Theodorús Stansiús _ Georgiús Mees, S.S. Min: Cand. from Groning: _ Iohannes van Sanden, stud. from Groning: _ Ghúalterús de Mandeville, st. from Nimweg[?] . Magdalena Tullier, d. Pfrs Parents [illegible] Geertje Piters, young d[r]. from Leeúwaerden[?] Siouckje Feckes from Sijum, Marinu[?] Elisabeth Isebrants from Swoll. Ioúkje Ioeris, Royn Lieúwes' wife, from [illegible] Aaltje Bartles, widow of Takú Godsb[illegible] from Luttinswieren Lieúwe Laúrens from Batavia in the East Indies _ Iohan Wijbergen, Schepen (alderman) of the town of Tholen

Page with the entry "in the year 1655, 14 July, New Members" of "Dr. Iohannes Greidanús and Ydke Piters, his wife", from the Lidmatenboek der Herv. Gemeente te Franeker kept by the minister (see page 119) (somewhat reduced).

> [margin: gecontumaceert ende van dimunitien versteken]
> 11 November 1664. J. G. against Douwe Pijters Stent to have him qualified and to receive a specification of salaries, attendances and expenses etc.
> (The same specification delivered in court and pleaded as to the effect h. factum 11 November 1664).
> 18 November 1664. Jetso Goslings, against Douwe Pyters Stent at Hyndelopen, to serve diminutions upon the specification delivered in court against him on the last court day.

In the Civiel Sententieboek (book of civil judgments) of Franeker no judgment concerning Prof. Greydanus has been found in this suit, but there is one, dated 27 January 1665, concerning Jetso Goslings here (at Franeker), Nots. Publ. against Douwe Pyters Stent at Hyndelopen, with a dictum to the following effect: "The specification, which had been extended to a higher sum, assessed at the sum of 15 caroligulden 9 stuivers, all apart from the costs of execution".

5° Inventories Franeker.

> Appraisal and valuation made on 16 November 1664 of all such goods as were found with Riemcke Gerrits Hoeckma, in her lifetime lawful wife of Jan Hayes, living at Godtsacker.
> In it there occurs, in the "Schaedel staet" (statement of debts):
> "The Professor Greidanus 6—12—0"
> With which agrees an entry in the Franeker Weesboeken (orphans' registers) in an account dated 21 February 1665 concerning the orphaned children of the late Riemcke Gerryts Hoeckma and Jan Haijes. In the "statement of debts, consisting of the following specified items of debts and other costs incurred for the burial of the aforesaid Riemcke" one finds, namely:
> "The Professor Greidanus 6—12—0."

6° Preferentieboek (register of preferential claims) Franeker (U1).

> In an account of 2 December 1664, concerning the abandoned estate left by the late Geertie Aernts, widow of the late Aernt van Diest, Wachtm^{r} (watch master) of this town, the following item of expenditure occurs:
> "The Professor Greidanus shall, instead of 8 ℔ 8 stuivers for salary, receive 5—0—0."
> The apothecary Bavius Schulteti, who was a fellow creditor, signed that account for receipt on behalf of the Professor Greidanus.

7° The account already communicated on page 76 from the Franeker Weesboeken, dated 24 October 1665, concerning the orphaned children of the late Jancke Thomasdr. and the late Tierck Pyters, miller at Franeker, in which one finds:

> "Paid to the Doctor Greide for his visits 0—18—0.
> To the apothecary Schotano for medicines 4— 8—0."

8° Weesboeken Franeker.

> 28 November 1665. Account concerning the orphaned children of Hylcken Heres and the late Tiallingh Symons. Among the "charges of the house of the deceased" occurs, among others, the item:
> "To the Prof. Greidanus 4— 0—0".

9° Insolvent Estates Franeker.

> 1665. The creditors of the late Simcke Sybes, widow of Sybe Lammerts, summoned within Franeker to distribute the consigned monies of the sale of the goods and to reconcile the parties, if feasible.
> Among these creditors occurs: "Prof. Greidanus 4—18—0 > 7 December 1665. In the matter of the above-mentioned estate the claim of Dr. Greidanus of 4—18—0 reduced to 2—2—0."
> With which agrees an account occurring in the Franeker Preferentieboek (U. 1), dated 12 December 1665, concerning the estate of the late Simck Sybes, widow of the late Sybe Lammerts here. In this account is stated:
> "The Professor Greidanus is due for services rendered 4—18—0, shall receive 2—2—0."
> Here too another creditor — the surgeon Mr. Gerryt Agges — signed for receipt on behalf of the Prof. Greidanus.

10° Estate Inventories Franeker.

> Inventory at the house of the deceased, of the late merchant Hein Monses and Tycke (Teetie) Jacobsdochter within Franeker, 16 October 1666.
> /Hein Monses was a baker and lived opposite the Wage. He was married 1° to Rinske Martens and 2° to Teetie (Tietie) Jacobs.
> That he was a baker appears from the extract from the "Broodtboek" (bread book) belonging to this inventory, in which occurs:
> Fol. 126 "the Professor Greidanus { 19—15— 4 > 15—14—14"
> and further on also:
> Fol. 12. "professor Greidanus —:—:—:/.

Under "Debts of the house of the deceased: Hein Monses as well as what still stands open to be paid" one finds:

> "And Cornelis Wellens apothecary is due for medicines . . . . . 19—14—8
> What is due to the Professor Greidanus for his services rendered during the fatal illness, amounting to . . . . . 35—12—0[1]"
> In the Inventory the original accounts written in their own hand by the apothecary Wellens and by Prof. Greidanus have been preserved. Both accounts are included on page 188 and reproduced there.

11° Weesboeken (orphans' registers) Franeker.

> 14 Dec. 1667. Account concerning the orphan child of Eesge Pyters in his lifetime Brewer here (at Franeker) and Geertie Jansdr.
> Among the "unpaid specifications chargeable to the house of the deceased" one finds:
> "The Professor Greydanus . . . . . 5—8—0."

CAREER OF DR. JOHANNES GREYDANUS AS A PHILOSOPHER.

On 15 June 1654 Johannes Greydanus took his doctorate at Franeker as Doctor of philosophy, while from his request which follows here, copied from pages 148 and 149 of Part B of the Acta & Decreta of the Senate of the Franeker Academy, it appears that about January 1658 he had already for some years given the students at Franeker private lessons in Philosophy:

"(13 January 1658).	(Latin) In the same session Johannes Greidanus
The supplicant is	L.A.M: et Med: Doctor presented the following provisionally	request to the Senate granted permission to read public lectures	To the Honourable Mighty Lords the
in Philosophy	Deputy States of Friesland.
and to hold them;
without bringing	My Lords:
any strange	With due submissiveness there makes novelties	known Johannes Greidanüs L.A.M.
therein.	Philosoph: et Med: Doctor, your humble
Done this 7th of	servant, that after having for some years instructed the study-
January 1658	ing youth in Philosophy privately, before noon E. Glinstra	he is by that same youth,
by order of the Lords Dep.:	whom he still instructs, daily
D. Claix.	asked that on this occasion he may also deliver his public lectures and disputations for them (Latin) the procurator does not believe it[2]	to attend and enjoy, to which is added his as it were inborn desire to be allowed to do so; therefore it is that he, the aforesaid, most reverently requested of you that he, in accordance with the privileges of the Philosophical (Latin) There is more in the conclusion	Magisterium, publicly conferred upon him in your than in the premises[3]	praiseworthy Academy, as well as the old commendable custom of this Academy (Latin) it has always been done with	and the present usage of the German the consent of the Senate[4]	and English Academies, whereby public lectures are not (Latin) But he has seen none,	refused to Doctors, that, I say, he visited none[5]	may be granted public lectures and disputations, so that thereby the studying youth, in the philosophical arts, for the service of the fatherland and of the churches, may be advanced and stirred up, which shall be to no one's harm or detriment, but much rather to the common profit of the youth, and consequently of the country and the Academy; whereupon awaiting your kind decision. (Latin) Which done, etc.
	Your Honourable Mightinesses' humble supplicant Johannes Greidanüs"

From the topmost marginal note to this copied request, of which a reproduction is added alongside, it follows that Dr. Johannes Greydanus was "provisionally granted", [1] Corresponds with Franeker Weesboek, E E 2, p. 298.

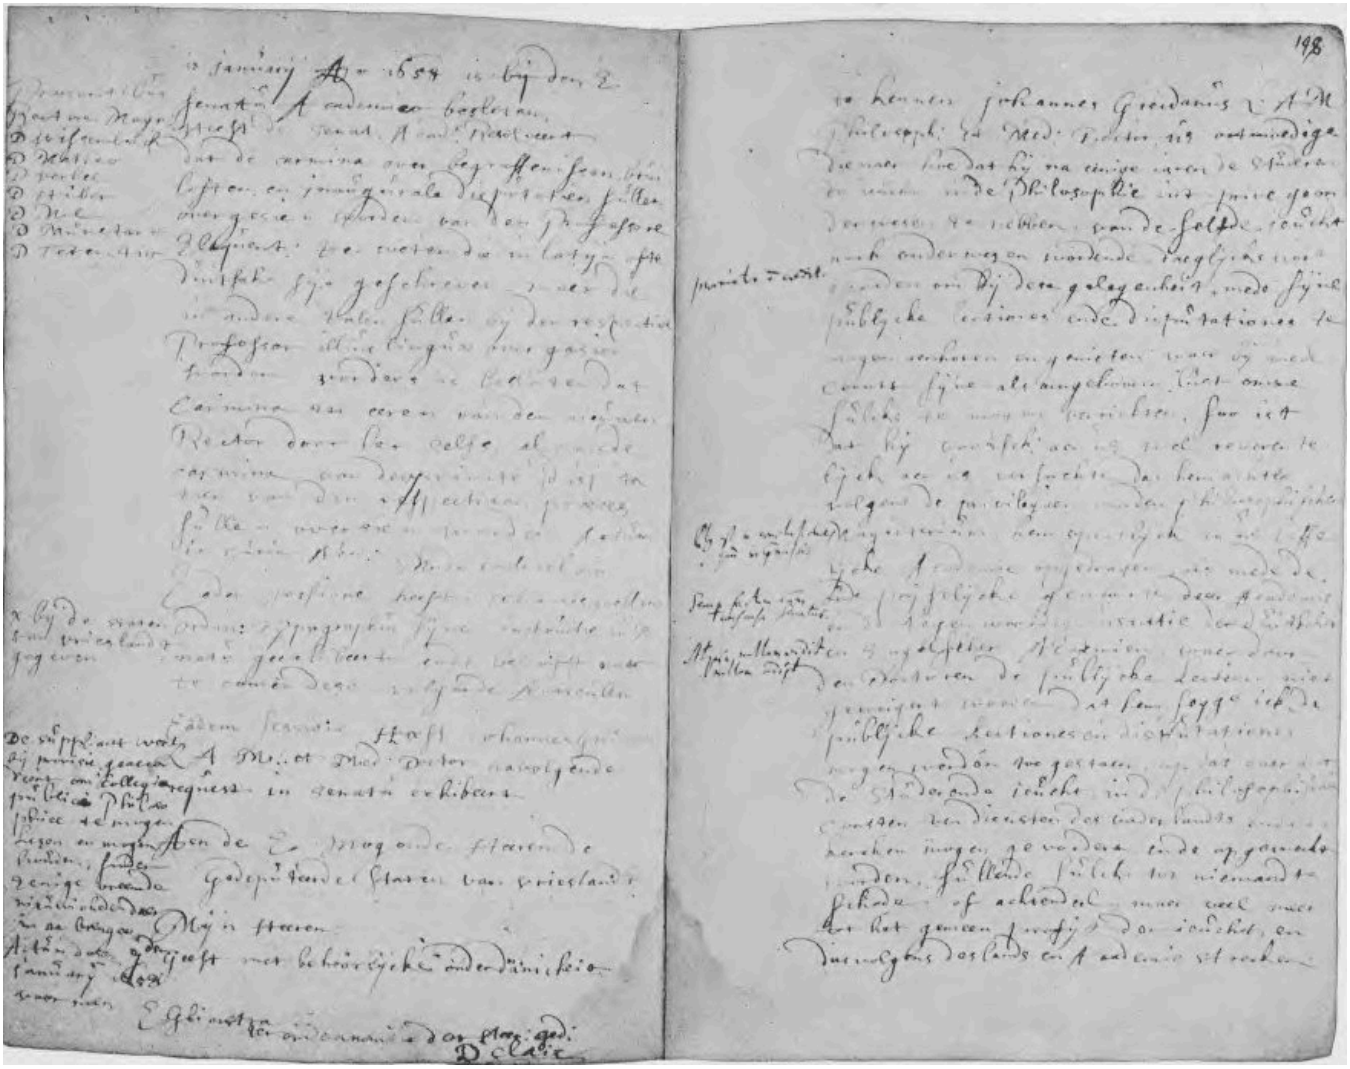
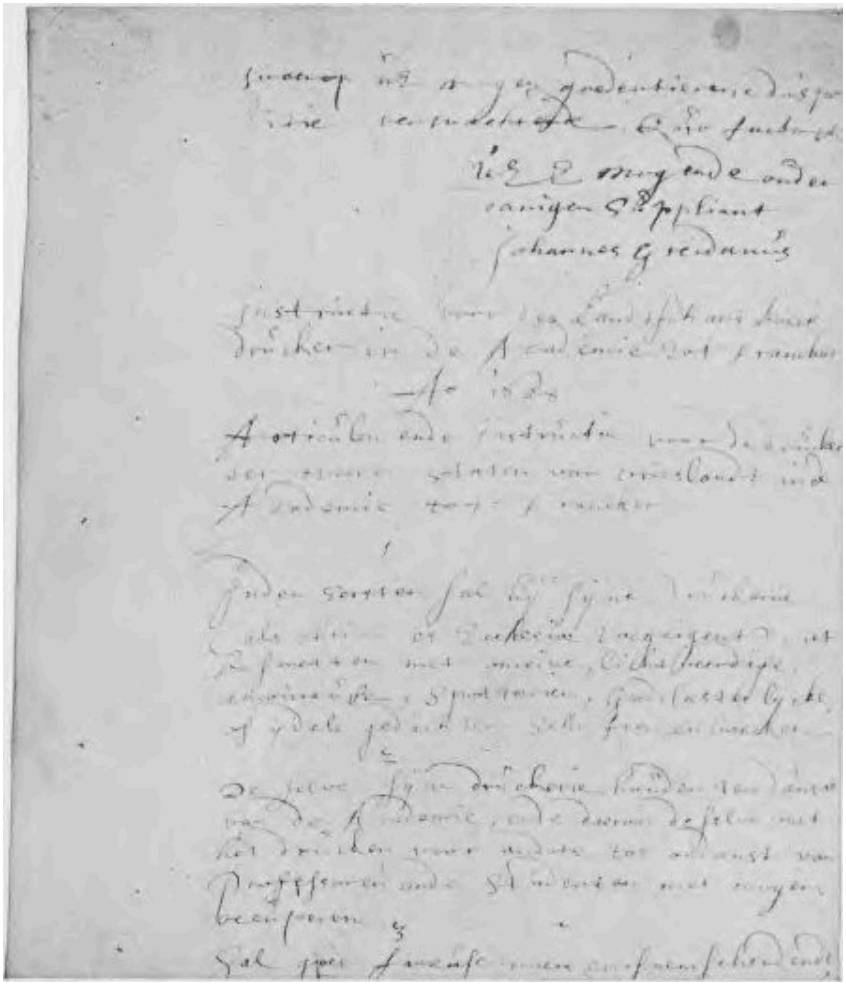
[2] The procurator does not believe it (ō means non).

[3] There is more in the conclusions than in the premises.

[4] It has always been done with the consent of the Senate.

[5] But he has seen none; visited none.





The request of Johannes Greidanus, entered on three different pages of part B of the Acta & Decreta of the Senate of the Franeker Academy, dated 13 January 1658, to be allowed to hold "public lectures and disputations" (greatly reduced).

to give public lectures in Philosophy at the Franeker University, but "without introducing any strange novelties therein", which permission was granted by the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputy States) on 7 January 1658 and signed by E. Glinstra, i.e. the Elco Glinstra mentioned on p. 114.

The copying out and the uppermost marginal note were done by the Secretary of the Senate M. (Meinardus) de Walricheim. The remaining marginal notes, which betray deliberate obstruction by someone who took part in the preparation of the decision, were added in the Acta, probably by Prof. Nicolaus Arnoldus, Professor of Theology.

In the Album Studiosorum one finds, concerning this matter, the following note, beside which a translation into Dutch has been placed by me:

(Latin) "1658. Moreover, in this year the Gedeputeerde Staten granted to Mr. Joh. Greydanus, Doctor of Medicine and Master of Liberal Arts, the right of lecturing publicly on Philosophy and of holding disputations."	1658. Moreover, in this year the Gedeputeerde Staten granted to Mr. Joh. Greydanus, Doctor of Medical Science and Master of Liberal Arts, the right to hold public lectures and disputations in Philosophy.

In the period from his doctorate (1654) to his appointment as private lecturer (1658) we find the following recorded concerning Johannes Greydanus:

1° "Diarium Actorum" 1647—1664.

P. 170:
(Latin) "In the case of D[r] Greidanus, D[s] Nicolaus Arnoldus together with D[r] Verhel have been delegated to Leeuwarden. Done in the Assembly Hall on the 19th of March 1655."	[1] In the case of D[r] Greidanus, D[s] Nicolaus Arnoldus together with D[r] Verhel have been delegated to Leeuwarden. Done in the Assembly Hall on 19 March 1655.
P. 171:
(Latin) "On 12 May 1655 Nicol. Amama confessed before the Senatus Judicialis that D[r] Greydanus had presided over the correction of the almanac, in which Amama himself scourged and slandered the sentence of banishment brought against him by the Senate."	[1] On 12 May 1655 Nicol. Amama acknowledged before the Senatus Judicialis that D[r] Greydanus had had the direction of the correction of the almanac, in which Amama himself scourged and slandered the proposal for banishment submitted against him by the Senate.

Presumably the first entry relates to the fact that Dr. Johannes Greydanus was already at that time proclaiming, in one way or another, new philosophical ideas — derived for instance from Descartes (Cartesius) —, to which the great majority of the Academic Senate at Franeker[2] was at that time fiercely opposed and which it resisted tooth and nail. The said Professors Ds. Nicolaus Arnoldus, Professor of Theology, who, as has been supposed above, was an opponent of Johannes Greydanus, and Dr. Arnoldus Verhel, Professor of Philosophy, who was entirely devoted to the scholastic school, would then have been delegated by the Senate to Leeuwarden, in order to propose there to the Gedeputeerde Staten: to devise measures in order to counteract the spread of these ideas.

The second entry in the "Diarium Actorum" appears to point to this as well, because the Nicolaus Amama[3] mentioned therein was such an adherent of new ideas, — that, when on 19 May 1647, after having been enrolled as a student at the Academy only on 4 June 1645, he wished to take his degree before Prof. Holwarda, the Senate decreed that before sunset he had to hand over the remaining copies of his Theses, — that on 25 May 1648 the two Beadles and the Promotor of the Academy had to seek out and remove the copies of the forbidden disputation, entitled "Inquiry into some select Philosophical Questions", which Amama was to defend before Prof. Holwarda, — and that on 28 November 1650 the Senate forbade Amama to give private instruction in Logic (for all this see the "Diarium Actorum").

From this last entry appears the good understanding between Johannes Greydanus and Nicolaus Amama. As will appear below, Amama had been banished from Franeker by the Senate, which decree of banishment was however revoked through the intervention of others, but was pronounced again when Amama, in an Almanac published by him for the year 1655, "flogged and slandered" the decision taken by the Senate. In all probability it was Amama's intention, in his declaration made before the Senate on 12 May 1655, to make Dr. Greydanus an accomplice in the content of the Almanac published by him, which then presumably happened with the foreknowledge of Dr. Greydanus himself, whose aim it would have been to clear his friend of guilt. For the Senate of the Academy could take direct measures against the student Amama, but stood practically powerless against Dr. Greydanus. The relations between Amama and Dr. Greydanus already come to light from the verse by Amama on Johannes Greydanus' promotion, included on pages 83/84, at the close of which poem the poet states that he has given this unpolished applause, without the favour of Minerva, to a countryman, fellow combatant and housemate.

[1] Translation into Dutch by me.

[2] Probably only Prof. Johannes Phocylides Holwarda, who according to Boeles — see p. 179, 2nd Volume of his "Frieslands Hoogeschool" — was an eclectic philosopher (i.e. a philosopher who chooses the best from all systems), belonged to the minority.

[3] In the Nieuw Biografisch Woordenboek he is portrayed as someone who abandoned the scholastic method of Aristotle and followed the empirical one which had been indicated by Cartesius.

Now the designation "fellow combatant" can refer to nothing else than the joint struggle which they, as genuine "innovators", waged against the then all-powerful scholastic scientific school in the Franeker Academy, with this difference, that Johannes Greydanus was allowed to succeed in remaining standing in that struggle, while it cost Nicolaus Amama his life in a scientific sense.

Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama was a son of Prof. Sixtinus (van or ab) Amama, Professor of Theology at Franeker. After the withholding of his theses and the prohibition of his disputation, whereby his promotion failed, he seems to have chucked it all in and to have had difficulty in regaining his balance. After the Senate had already, on 6 December 1646, sentenced him together with Hilmer Anthonius Telisman and Foppius Oberti, each to the payment of a silver ducaton, on account of a fight which occurred on 20 Nov. 1646[1] "in the evening in the street", it appeared on 26 October 1648[1] that he had purloined some books from the University Library, among them the "Historiam Anatomicam" of Laurentij, about which "grave offence" there was a good deal of ado. On 18 December 1651[1] Juffr. Walricht[2] lodged a complaint against him with the Senate, that he "had put her daughter in the Almanac, at the same time requesting that the same might be burnt", which however was for the present "refused" by the Senate "pending further proof". On 8/9 April 1653 he was, according to the Sententieboek (book of sentences) of the Senatus Judicialis of the Academy (see also N° 1021 of the Telting-Register), banished from the town "on account of crossing over the town moat by night and removing the lock from the town drawbridge". This Sentence gave occasion to a dispute between the Senate and the Franeker Magistrate, whereby the banishment was delayed. According to the entry dated 21 September 1653 in the "Diarium Actorum", the Town Government declared itself willing to remove Amama from the town for 8 days, if the Senate, upon a request submitted by or on behalf of Amama, would revoke its decree of banishment, but objected, if the Senate would not do so, to expelling its Patrician citizens from the town. This request was submitted by Petrus Rudolphi, Nots Publ., on behalf of Amama, whereupon the Senate on 23 November 1653[1] resolved, in view of the request of Nicolaus Amama, in which he asks forgiveness for the offence committed by him, to set him at liberty, under certain conditions, to be drawn up by the Rector Magnificus and communicated to the Senate. At the beginning of 1654, at any rate in the first half of that year, Amama seems to have returned to Franeker and to have taken up his lodging in the house in which Johannes Greydanus also lived, since in his promotion poem of 15 June 1654 he styles the latter his "housemate", which living together will surely have come to an end with the marriage on 18 June following of Johannes Greydanus to Yttie Pieters Wimersma.

Not only on account of the publication, without the Senate's permission, of the above-mentioned Almanac for the year 1655, but also because of having "Calumniën" (slanders) printed in the "afterword" thereof, had "Calumniën" (calumnies) printed, Amama was in 1655 once again banished from Franeker by the Senate.

[1] See the "Diarium Actorum".

[2] Probably Sioerdtie Meijnerts Ætsma, Widow of Dr. Joes Walrich.

Only a year later, according to the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel by De Haan Hettema and Van Halmael, Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama died of the plague. He seems to have been someone endowed with a great intellect, on account of which it evidently came hard to him to submit to the will of the professorial authorities, whose equal he was conscious of being. And as such, his attachment to Dr. Johannes Greydanus is easy to understand.

Here follows further:

the judgement dated 8/9 April 1653 of the Senate, concerning the first banishment of Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama, in the Sententieboek (book of sentences) of the Senatus Judicialis;

the contents of the Request of 1653 by Petrus Rudolphi, occurring in a dossier among the Processtukken (court papers) of the Academy at Franeker;

and the contents of yet another document, relating to the second banishment in 1655 of Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama, from the said dossier.

> "8/9 April 1653. In the case pending undecided before the Academic Senate between the Fiscus of the Academy, plaintiff and complainant, on the one side, against Nicolaum Ammama, defendant and accused, on the other side: the aforesaid Academic Senate, after information taken, having heard the defendant's own confession concerning his ferrying across the town moat at night about eleven o'clock, taking off the lock of the town's drawbridge, carrying it away home with him and keeping it with him until the time when the same was fetched from him by the aforesaid Senate; and further having regard to various previous enormous offences, without hope of improvement, and having considered and weighed everything that ought to be considered in this matter, in the name and on behalf of the Lordship of Friesland: banishes the defendant and accused in perpetuity from this Academy, and consequently orders him to depart from this town and Academy before sunset, further deprives him of all Academic privileges, and orders that to that end the name of the defendant and accused be struck out of the Album Studiosorum[1]. Done in the Academy court this 8 April towards evening, to be pronounced the next day, 9 April, at 7 in the morning.
>
> (signed) G. Kaldenbach.
>
> 1653. Request, written by Petrus Rudolphi, Not. Publ., for Nicolaus ab Ammama φ × φ[?] (Philosopher and Philologist) S. F. (Sixti Filius, son of Sixtus), at present staying outside this town (Franeker); and addressed to the Professors or Senate of the Academy at Franeker.
>
> In it he states that it has pleased Your Honours to banish the Supplicant from the Academy and to deprive him of his privileges, and that on account of a certain act recently perpetrated by the Supplicant, in such wise that the Supplicant readily acknowledges his recklessness and misdeed and laments it most deeply, but seeing that the Supplicant in such a condition of banishment has not and cannot have a settled dwelling place[2], nor knows anything to take in hand, having been brought up in study[3], and must leave his birthplace and all that was dear and precious to him, to his own and his friends' great heartache and grief, especially of his mother, who takes this very much to heart and cannot get over it, and since the matter lies with Your Honours alone, the Supplicant most humbly requests, after the foregoing confession of guilt, that Your Honours may be pleased, for the aforesaid reasons and whatever else Your Honours may be pleased besides to take into consideration, for this once to pardon him out of grace and to grant him safe conduct, and further to receive him again as a member of the Academy, or otherwise so to mitigate Your Honours' disposition as shall seem advisable and most fitting to Your Honours, all under promise that he will hereafter conduct himself modestly and well to Your Honours' satisfaction.
>
> 15 March 1655. Libel in the name and on behalf of Petrus Rudolphi, Procurator Fiscal, by reason of his office plaintiff, against Nicolaum Amama, defendant.
>
> The plaintiff declares it to be true: 1. how the defendant was recently banished from the Academy for certain abuses and deprived of the student privileges; 2. but afterwards, through the intercession of others and upon the defendant's own earnest request, was again received out of grace as a member of the Academy; 3. yet with this restriction, as the defendant expressly promised and signed with his own hand; 4. that the defendant should not be permitted to publish anything or have anything printed, neither under an expressed nor under a concealed name, save with the knowledge and consent of the Honourable Senate of this Academy; 5. besides still other promises of submission and obedience, according to the articles and points thereof; 6. notwithstanding all which, the defendant has recklessly dared, without the knowledge and consent of the Honourable Senate of this Academy, to make and publish an Almanac for this year 1655; 7. and not only that, but has also in the epilogue of that same Almanac, in the Latin tongue, had such calumnies printed as tend to no other end than to the disparagement and disrespect of the Honourable Senate of this Academy; indeed to the mockery and derision of the sentence given by their Honours concerning the defendant's banishment; 8. what is more, the defendant maintains there in the aforesaid epilogue, that that deed: (namely his crime) ought rather to have been rewarded with a prize than with a punishment; 9. with several other slanderous and impertinent statements, openly expressed in the aforesaid Almanac; 10. and seeing that the defendant, contrary to his word, promise and own hand, has abused the grace obtained and makes himself unworthy of it, therefore the Plaintiff, in the aforesaid capacity and in the name of the Academy, has had the Defendant summoned, concluding that the Defendant shall be declared unworthy to enjoy the granted pardon any longer from now on, and consequently shall be banished from this time onward and remain banished, and further that all student privileges be withdrawn from him in the manner customary in cases of banishment, or (that the Defendant) be subjected to some other penalty and to such end as the Honourable Senate shall find fitting from the exposition of the case, with costs, reserving all rights."

[1] This seems not to have taken place, for the name still stands in the Album Studiosorum.

[2] Possibly Nicolaus Amama lodged with his brother Gellius at his mother's, who had been left by her husband in very distressed circumstances.

[3] In September 1655 he applies for the vacant rectorship of the schools at Franeker.

In the aforementioned dossier concerning the banishments of Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama there is also his appeal dated 4 April 1655 to the Court of Friesland, from which it appears that Amama was supported by the Councillor Allard Pieter van Jongestal.

In other ways too it comes to light that the Amamas were protected not only by the town government of Franeker, but also by the Provincial government.

For in the registration books of the Ordinances for payment by the Receiver C. van Beyma /G. folio 52/54/ one finds that on behalf of the extraordinary alumnus Nicolaus Amama, not only in the years 1649 and 1652, but even on 30 July 1655 and even on 6 August 1656, an annual pension due at Jacoby, amounting to 120 £, was paid out to his mother Juffr. Meynu van Adelen, widow.

And in the resolution books of the Deputized States of Friesland the following resolution occurs:

> "28 February 1662. There was read a certain petition presented to this college by Joannes Ammama, convoy master at the office at Mackum, in which he set forth that his youngest brother Nicolaus Ammama and, after his death, his mother had been granted an extraordinary pension, in consideration of the good services rendered to the Land by his father Sixtus Ammama, in his lifetime Professor of the sacred language at Franequer, whereupon he further requested that this college might be pleased to confer the aforesaid pension, having fallen vacant through the death of his said mother, upon his son named Sixtus Amema; upon which, after deliberation, it was resolved and understood that the aforesaid Sixtus Amama shall, in the place of the mother of the said Joannis Ammama, be benefited with the aforesaid pension, as he is hereby so benefited, on condition that he shall be kept at his studies."

That the relation of Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama himself to the Provincial government was in good order may also be inferred from the work written and published by him: "Dissertationem Marinarum Decaden"[1], which work he dedicated to the "Great men of the Realm" and in which he expresses his gratitude for the support which his mother, his brothers Gellius and Johannes, and he himself had received in the course of time.

The life histories of Johannes Greydanus and Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama thus show a striking resemblance. The first-named came to the Franeker University on 18 June 1647 and the other already on 3 June 1645. Greydanus was opposed by the Professors and accused before the Academic Senate, but found such support with the Deputized States that his appointment as Professor was the result of it. Amama's dissertation was suppressed by the Academic Senate and he himself banished from the town, while the Deputized States assisted Amama and his family financially and were well disposed towards him.

Peculiar too is the friendship — which can only have arisen out of complete kinship of spirit — between the two sons of the same town of Franeker, since Johannes Greydanus sprang from the ordinary citizenry, and Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama, the son of a famous Professor, was of noble descent not only on account of his mother, but perhaps also on account of his father (see Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel under "Amama").

2° Register, called "Litium Academicarum Rotula." Acta Sen. Jud. (C. 1).

"There appeared on this day the 21st of March 1657 Hesselus Coumans as advocate on behalf of the Honourable Professor Banck, against Dr. Greidanum, who presented himself in person, concerning certain abusive words which Dr. Greidano had spat out at the Honourable Banck; the Senate, having heard and understood the answer of both parties, have judged that the aforesaid Dr. Greidanus, in reparation of the injured honour of Mr. Banck, in the presence of the Rector Magnificus with one Professor shall make an apology in court, as by Dr.
Greidanus himself was promised in the summons of the beadles. Done in the court on the day as above.
(signed) C. Munsterus
Rector of the Academy at this time."

[1] Mentioned on page 172 of E. L. Vriemoet, "Athenae Frisiacae". From Mr. W. B. S. Boeles, "Frieslands Hoogeschool en het Rijks Athenaeum" (see Part II pages 177, 178 and 218) it further appears that Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama saw to the printing of the work of his teacher Prof. Johannes Phocylides Holwarda: "Friesche sterrekonst, ofte een korte, doch volmaeckte Astronomie. Vyt eygene speculatien uytgewerckt", Harlingen 1652, and that, when Prof. Holwarda requested this of him on his deathbed, he undertook the completion of the latter's book: "Philosophia naturalis, sive physica vetus-nova, ex optimis quibusque autoribus, antiquis pariter & neotericis deducta, propriisque speculationibus et inventis aucta & illustrata", while he gave private instruction to the later Professor of Law Ulricus Huber.

Professor Banck, at whom Dr. Johannes Greydanus had "spat" some abusive words, was Laurentius Banck, a Swede by birth, extraordinary Professor of Law and, according to page 196 of the second part of Mr. W. B. S. Boeles "Frieslands Hoogeschool en het Rijks Athenaeum te Franeker", a friend of Prof. Nic. Arnoldus, who, as we have seen above, thwarted Johannes Greydanus.

Soon after his appointment as Private lecturer in Philosophy, Dr. Johannes Greydanus came into conflict with the Academic Senate, as appears from the following entries in Latin in the "Diarium Actorum" of the Academic Archive, beside which a translation into Dutch has been placed by me:

page 199. "1 July A° 1658. The General Senate forbade the first disputation of the Idea of the New-Ancient Logic of Doctor Greidanus and resolved that all its copies, as being filled with errors and paradoxes, should be brought before the Senate, and admonished him that in future he should desist from novelties of that kind. (signed) M. de Walricheim."	1 July 1658. The General Senate has forbidden the first disputation of Doctor Greidanus, Outline of the nature of the Ancient Logic in a New arrangement, and resolved that all copies of it, as being full of errors and strange assertions, had to be brought to the Senate, and admonished him to desist henceforth from such novelties. (signed) M. de Walricheim.
page 199. "22 July 1658. Since Mr. Greidanus has now once again published a disputation full of novelty, the	22 July 1658. Since Mr. Greidanus has again published a disputation full of novelties, the Senate has resolved to communicate the matter to the most Illustrious Lords Curators, and Senate resolved that the matter should be communicated to the Most Distinguished Lords Curators, and for that purpose the Most Illustrious men Mr. Cup, Rector Magnificus, Mr. Arnoldus, Mr. Verhel have been delegated. (signed) M. de Walricheim."	for this purpose the most Distinguished men Mr. Cup, Rector Magnificus, Mr. Arnoldus, Mr. Verhel have been delegated. (signed) M, de Walricheim.

page 211 "4 February 1660. Since Mr. Doctor Greidanus, though several times admonished in a friendly way in the Senate, nevertheless does not desist from new dogmas and paradoxes, the Senate decreed that the matter should be brought before the States, having delegated to that business the Most Distinguished and Most Experienced Mr. Rector Magnificus Mathaeus and the reverend and most distinguished Lords Professors of the Theological Faculty. (signed) M. Walrichem."	4 February 1660. Since Mr. Doctor Greidanus, although admonished more than once in a friendly manner in the Senate, nevertheless does not relinquish new and strange doctrines, the Senate has resolved that the matter had to be brought before the States, while for this matter the most Famous and Experienced Mr., the Rector Magnificus Mathaeus, and the reverend and most famous Lords Professors of the Theological Faculty have been delegated. (signed) M. Walrichem.
page 213. "Those present: Most Distinguished Mr. Mathaeus Rev: Mr. Arnoldus Rev: Mr. Schotanus Dist: Mr. Wissenbach Dist: Mr. Cup Dist: Mr. Frencelius Dist: Mr. Mol Dist: Mr. Huber Dist: Mr. Münsterus Most Distinguished Mr. de Graw. 14 February (1660). In the General Senate it has been decreed that the States should be summoned by letter in the case of Greidanus, discussed on 1 February in the General Senate, so that the errors and harmful dogmas of Greidanus may be suppressed. (struck through is: that they should fix a time at which both parties may be heard). (signed) M. à Walricheim."	Present: The Famous Mr. Mathaeus The Rev. Mr. Arnoldus The Rev. Mr. Schotanus The Famous Mr. Wissenbach The Famous Mr. Cup The Famous Mr. Frencelius The Famous Mr. Mol The Famous Mr. Huber The Famous Mr. Munsterus The Famous Mr. de Grau 14 February (1660). In the General Senate it has been resolved that the Deputy States must be called together by letter in the matter of Greidanus, discussed on 1 February in the General Senate: in order that the errors and harmful doctrines of Greidanus be suppressed (struck through is: in order that they fix a time at which both parties can be heard). (signed) M. à Walricheim.

Seal of the States of Vrieslandt hanging from the letter of appointment (approximately actual size).

page 214.

"28 Feb. A° 1660.		28 Febr. 1660.
(Latin) All present except D. Verhellius and Schotanus	(Latin) Upon the exposition of the will of the most Noble Lords Curators, made known through the most Renowned Lord Rector Magnificus, namely that the heads of accusation against Greidanus should on this very day be put on paper by the Lords Professors, it seemed good to the most Distinguished Senate that this business should be postponed until the following day. (signed) M. Walricheim."	All present except Mr. Verhel and Mr. Schotanus.	At the exposition of the will of the most Noble Lords Curators, made known through the most Renowned Lord, the Rector Magnificus, that the points of accusation against Greidanus should on this same day be put on paper by the Lords Professors, the most Illustrious Senate found it good that this matter should be postponed until the following day. (signed) M. Walricheim.

Notwithstanding these unpleasantnesses which Dr. Johannes Greydanus, as Privaatdocent (private lecturer), had with the Academic Senate, he was appointed on 10 June 1660, in the place of Christophorus Munsterus who had died on 24 March before, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Franeker. This appointment cannot surprise us, since we know that Johannes Greydanus stood in good favour with the Deputed States of Friesland; for that College had already paid him: on 25 March 1659 the sum of 200 gulden "for his services rendered towards the promotion of" the book of Prof. Christianus Schotanus "De Geschiedenissen Kerckelyck ende Wereldtlyck van Friesland Oost ende West; Beginnende van d'eerste Geheuchenis ende voltrocken tot op het Iaar na Christi geboorte 1583", — on 21 July 1659 "granted" 75 gulden "on account of some pieces and disputations offered", — and on 14 January 1660 "presented with" 100 gulden (see page 79).

Together with Johannes Greydanus the following stood on the list of nominees: Prof. Godhofridus Spinaeus at Steynfurt and Michael Buschius [1], Candidate in Theology and Philosophy.

Concerning this the following is recorded in the Resolutieboek (book of resolutions) of the Deputed States of Friesland:

> "Friday, 25 May 1660, before noon.
> There appeared the Lord Ockinga, Ordinary Councillor in the Court of Friesland and also curator of the Academy at Franeker, and he made known to the College, for himself and on behalf of the other Lords Curators (being absent for reasons of state), that their Honours, after a conference held and with the approval of His Princely Highness as curator primarius and Magnificatissimus, in accordance with the resolution of the Noble Mighty Lords States of the Land and the written instruction of this College, had nominated, for the professorship of philosophy (having become vacant through the death of the late Christophoris Munsterus of blessed memory), the three following persons, so that from among them one might be elected professor by this College:
> 1. Mr. Godhofridus Spinaeus, professor at Steynfurt.
> 2. Mr. Joannes Greidanus, (Latin) master of the liberal arts, doctor of medicine and philosophy, public lecturer in the illustrious Academy of the Frisians.
> 3. Mr. Michael Buschius, (Latin) candidate of theology and philosophy.
> Whereupon, after deliberation, the Lord Ockinga was thanked for his trouble and good care, and further, from among the three nominated persons, there was elected as professor of philosophy in the place of the late Mr. Munsterus, Mr. Joannes Greidanus, on such salary, honours and emoluments as his predecessor enjoyed, of which a commission in due form shall be issued to him."

The appointment bull, written on parchment, from which the seal of Friesland in red wax hangs by a ribbon, is in my possession. The bull, of which a reproduction is added herewith, reads as follows:

> "The States of Friesland. To all those who shall see, hear or read this, Greetings, Whereas through the death of the late Ds. Christophorius Munsterus, in his lifetime Professor of Philosophy in our University at Franeker, the aforesaid professorship has come to be vacant, and we have therefore found it advisable and necessary that, for the convenience of the Students and the advancement of our aforesaid University, another Learned and capable person should again be called to the vacant place, Be it known, that we, out of the three persons put forward by the Lords Curators, have nominated and elected, doing so hereby, the Honourable and Learned Mr. Joannes Greidanius, (Latin) master of the liberal arts, doctor of medicine and philosophy, public lecturer in the illustrious Academy of the Frisians, as Professor of Philosophy in the place of Munsterus: as we place complete trust in his good qualities, capacity, learning, fitness and experience. Therefore giving the aforesaid Greidanius full power, authority and special commission henceforth to lecture and teach publicly in our University, also to instruct and exercise the students in public and private disputations, and further to do everything that the said professorship might require, and that on an Honora*rium or salary of* seven hundred Carolus guldens a year, together with the other emoluments and liberties, in conformity with the Academic Privileges, ordering the Magnificus Rector and the other Professors of our aforesaid University, as well as all others whom this may concern, to acknowledge and respect the aforesaid Joannes Greidanius as Professor of Philosophy. Charging our Commissioners for the Accounts of this Province to allow and pass to our receiver, as expenditure in his accounts, the aforesaid Honorarium or salary of the aforesaid Greidanius (he herewith delivering with the first warrant an authentic copy or Vidimus) at the customary terms, like the other professors, whereby service to the Province and our good intention shall be done. Given at Leeuwaerden under the seal of the States of Frieslandt and the hand of their Secretary, this 8 June 1660.

[1] / Perhaps the same person who became Professor at Franeker in 1665 and signed the Senate resolution of 11 Sept. 1666 (see page 137).

(signed) E. Glinstra [vt]
By the States of Vrieslandt
By report of the Lords Deputed of the aforesaid States.
(signed) A. Vierssen
1660."

On the reverse of the letter of appointment the Secretary of the Academic Senate has further written the following:

[the Latin text and the Dutch translation are printed side by side in two columns, separated by a vertical rule; the left-hand column is given first.]

(Latin) "The presentation of this diploma was made in the Senate.
According to custom he was congratulated by all, XVI June.
In the absence of the Secretary
(signed) U. Huber, at present
Rector of the Academy.
CIↃIↃCLX „

[1] The exhibition of this diploma took place in the Senate. According to custom he was congratulated by all, 16 June.
In the absence of the Secretary
(signed) U. Huber for the present time
Rector of the Academy.
1660.

Concerning this appointment the following is recorded in the Academic Archives:

Acta & Decreta of the Senate, Part A, page 179:

(Latin) "On the XIV day of June CIↃIↃCLX Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine, Master of the Liberal Arts and public lecturer in Philosophy at this Academy, presented in the general meeting of the Senate the documents of his call, by which he proved that he had been called and appointed as successor by the Illustrious Estates of Friesland to the ordinary Professorship of Philosophy in the place of the very Famous Mr. Munsterus of blessed memory. On which account all the Colleagues present congratulated him according to custom. Done as above.
In the absence of the Secretary
(signed) U. Huber, at present
Rector of the Academy.

[1] On the 14th day of June 1660 Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine, Master of the Liberal Arts and Philosophical Lecturer of public lectures at this Academy, showed in the general Senate the documents of his appointment, by which he proved that he had been called by the Illustrious Deputed States of Friesland to ordinary Professor of Philosophy, in the place of the very Famous Mr. Munsterus of blessed memory, and appointed as his successor. On the ground of which all the Colleagues present congratulated him according to custom. Done as above.
In the absence of the Secretary
(signed) U. Huber, for the present time
Rector of the Academy.
Album Studiosorum.
5 July 1660.

(Latin) "Under Rector Ulricus Huber, on the V day of July CIↃIↃCLX, the very famous Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Master of the Liberal Arts and Doctor of Medicine, was introduced by the most distinguished Lords Curators to the ordinary professorship of philosophy in the place of Mr. Munsterus of blessed memory."
Album of the Students
5 July 1660.
Under the Rector Ulricus Huber on 5 July 1660 the very famous Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Master of the Liberal Arts and Doctor of Medicine, was introduced by the illustrious Lords Curators into the ordinary professorship in philosophy in the place of Mr. Munsterus of blessed memory.

Furthermore it appears from the entry reproduced below on page 158 of Part B of the Acta & Decreta of the Senate that, with regard to the installation of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, a Dutch "verse was made which is very suspect of pasquilleuse [2] words and matters against some of the Lords Professors (tending to great disparagement of the Senate and its Members)".

The Senate suspected the student Johannes Fivelandt of having made the verse, for which reason he was "ordered" to "purge" (clear) himself of this by oath. Johannes Fivelandt then swore the oath that he was not the maker, which proved to be correct, since Annius van Echten himself confessed to be the author "of the notorious poem composed in Dutch".

[1] Translations into Dutch by myself.

[2] Possibly "pasquinneuse"; pasquin is the French word for paskwil, lampoon.

The Pedel (beadle) of the Academy Hesselius Coumans, presumably the same person who on 21 March 1657 appeared as advocate of Prof. Banck against Dr. Johannes Greydanus (see page 125), was, on account of his having handed out and circulated the "forbidden songs" against the will and the command of the Rector Magnificus and of the Senate, condemned by the Senate to a fine of one rijksdaalder, to be paid within twice 24 hours.

Line of descent: *streckende tot groote cleinachtinge van den Senatús ende de Leden van dien [2].

"Whereas D. Johannes Fivelandt has made a verse upon the inauguration of D. Greidano which is highly suspect of libellous[1] words and matters concerning some of the Lords Professors* and he denies the same, the Honourable Academic Senate has seen fit and ordered, hereby ordering Johannes Fivelandt to clear himself of this by oath.
Done in the Court, 10 July 1660.
Hereupon D. Fivelandt has taken the oath in the Senate and has thereby cleared himself
(signed) M. de Walricheim."
(Latin) "In the same session Annius van Echten confessed in the Judicial Senate that he was the author of that notorious verse upon the inauguration of D. Greidanus, composed in Dutch.
(signed) M. de Walricheim."
[3] In the same session Annius van Echten confessed in the Juridical Senate that he had been the author of that notorious verse upon the inauguration of Mr. Greydanus, which had been made in Dutch.
(signed) M. de Walricheim.

Line of descent: *binnen tweemaal 24 úiren te betalen

"10 July
The Academic Senate has condemned Hesselum Coumans, Pedel of the Academy, in one rijksdaalder*, inasmuch as he, against the will and command of the Senate and the Rector Magnificus, has distributed and divulged the forbidden carmina [4] on the lectern of D. Greidano. Done in the Court of the Academy.
(signed) M. de Walricheim."

Upon entering office Prof. Johannes Greydanus signed the Senate regulation of 1 August 1659, entered on page 209 of the 1st Volume (1647—1664) of the "Diarium Actorum" of the Academic Archive: "that the new cushions presented and delivered, and still to be delivered, to this Academy on behalf of the Province, shall be kept by each of the Professors in pairs, but that the same cushions, after the death or departure of any member of the senate, shall be restored again to the Academy; further, that each of the Lords Professors and the Secretary shall to that end set their names hereunder."

In June 1663 Prof. Johannes Greidanus was chosen Assessor of the Senate for the Philosophical Faculty and as such took the oath of fidelity to the Rector, as appears from the following entry on page 805 of the Acta & Decreta of the Senate:

(Latin) "On the very Kalends of June 1663.
On the same day there were elected, beside the Rector Magnificus, in accordance with the fundamental law of the Academy, as Assessors in the Judicial Senate of the present year: from the Faculty of Theology the most Reverend Mr. Johannes Valkenier; from the Juridical the most learned Mr. Johannes Jacobus Wissenbach; from the Medical the most experienced Mr. Philippus Matthaeus; from the Philosophical the most acute Mr. Johannes Greidanus, who, having sworn, promised the Rector fidelity and observance in the examining and pronouncing of judgements.
Which I attest
(signed) J. Kroll."
[3] The 1st of June 1663.
On the same day there were chosen, beside the Rector Magnificus, by virtue of the Academic fundamental law, as Assessors in the court of justice for the current year: from the Faculty of Theology the very Reverend Mr. Johannes Valkenier, from the Juridical the very learned Mr. Johannes Jacobus Wissenbach, from the Medical the very Experienced Mr. Philippus Mathaeus, from the Philosophical the very Acute Mr. Johannes Greydanus, who with an oath promised the Rector fidelity and devotion in the examining of disputes and the pronouncing of judgements.
Which I attest.
(signed) J. Kroll.

As Assessor of the Senate Johannes Greydanus signed two entries, not made by himself, dated 18 August 1663 in the Sententieboek (book of judgements) of the Franeker Academy.

In the absence of the Secretary of the Academy he made the two following entries, written in his own hand, reproduced herewith, in the Academic Archive:

In "Litium Academicarum Rotula" (Judicial Archive of the Academy C. 1):

"The ten Ducatons which Mr. Valkenier, consnt, had deposited with the Rector Magn. Dr. Wissenbach, have again been taken up by the consnt in person again withdrawn in the court of the Academy, the court sitting, today the 7 October 1663.
(Latin) In the absence of the Secretary
(signed) Joannes Greydang"

[1] See note 2 on the previous page.

[2] These words have been struck through.

[3] Translation into Dutch by me.

[4] songs.

And in the Sentenlie-boek (register of judgments): (Latin) Present: Rect. M. Verhel, Wissenbach, Matthaeo, Greydano.

> "In the case between Wibrandus Wygersma, acting as advocate of Hessel Claesz., plaintiff and party excepted against, versus Fredericus Arnoldinus as advocate of David Cünow, defendant, declarant and excipient; the Academic Senate, having considered this rejoinder and having weighed that which ought to be considered in this matter, declares in the name and on behalf of the Sovereignty of the Province of Friesland that the defendant, declarant and excipient is not obliged to reduce the submitted declaration, declaring the same obliged to pay to the plaintiff, declarant and party excepted against a silver spoon or the value thereof, and for reasons compensates the costs incurred on both sides, both in the previous proceedings and in this exception, together with all the injuries done on both sides. Done and pronounced in the court of the Academy, the 24 October in the year 1663
>
> (Latin) In the absence of the Secretary
> (signed) Joannes Greydang."

When on 16 February 1664 the Rector Magnificus [1] Arnoldus Verhel, Professor of Philosophy, died and three months of the Academic year still remained, there were designated by lot as Rector Magnificus:

for March: Professor Moll, for April: Professor de Grau, and for the remaining period: Johannes Greydanus, who would also introduce the future Rector.

[1] The arrangement of the Rectorship appears from a Resolution of the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States) of 15 March 1661, by which — on account of a "dispute" among some "Professors in the Academy at Franequer concerning the yearly election to the Rectorship, as though the same were not being conducted according to proper order, from which various jealousies and dissensions among the Professors were to be feared — the gentlemen Aylva, Glinstra, Scheltinga and Geldorp were commissioned to hear, in the presence of the gentlemen Curators, the said Professors jointly who take sides on the aforesaid subject, and, if possible, to reconcile them." Thereupon followed the Resolution of 25 April 1661, by which: "having heard the report of Mr. Aylva and the other gentlemen Commissioners, it was found good and resolved that from now on the Rectorate in the aforesaid Academy shall rotate among the four faculties, it being well understood that the faculty of philosophy shall have two turns in succession, and that upon the decease of Professor Verhel (at present reckoned under the faculty of Medicine) his successor shall likewise be reckoned under the philosophical faculty, and when someone from one of the faculties has been Rector Magnificus, he may not be promoted thereto again before his colleague or colleagues shall likewise have been favoured therewith: but if by the decease or transfer of one of the Professors a new Professor shall again be elected in one of the faculties, he shall not be admitted to the Rectorate when his predecessor has held it before his colleague or colleagues, and in such case the first of the faculty shall in his turn be promoted thereto again, and the first turn for the aforesaid Rectorate shall now begin with the oldest Professor in the Theological faculty and so onwards in the four above-named faculties, beginning with the oldest down to the youngest." According to the Resolution of 27 April 1661, "the order concerning the Rectorship in the Academy at Franeker, resolved upon the day before yesterday" was forwarded to His Princely Highness (the Stadhouder). On 10 February 1664, on account of a certain petition submitted by Prof. Terentius "in which he represents that, notwithstanding that by virtue of a certain resolution of this college taken on 25 April 1661 the rectorate-magnific must fall upon his person next May, nevertheless some of his colleagues sought to interpret the aforesaid resolution otherwise, as though the turn this year did not come to the petitioner but to his colleague, professor Mol, wherefore he requested from this college an interpretation of the aforesaid resolution" — it was decided by the Gedep. Staten that "the aforesaid Rectorate for this year can be conferred upon no one but the person of the petitioner", which decision was further amplified by Resolution of 28 April 1664 in this manner: "that Professor Mol shall have to succeed Professor Terentius in the aforesaid rectorate in the coming year 1665." The filling of the Rectorate has been in accordance with the foregoing. The four faculties were: the theological, the juridical, the medical, and that of the ancient languages and liberal arts (philosophical). Now Rector became: ± June 1661. Nicolaus Arnoldus, Prof. of Theology, thus belonging to the Theological Faculty. " 1662. Johannes Jacobus Wissenbach, Prof. of Law, thus belonging to the Juridical Faculty. " 1663. Arnoldus Verhel, Prof. of Philosophy, who according to the foregoing belonged to the Medical Faculty. " 1664. Johannes Terentius, Prof. of Hebrew, who thus belonged to the Philosophical Faculty. " 1665. Petrus Moll, Prof. of Greek, who thus belonged to the Philosophical Faculty. " 1666. Johannes Valkenier, Prof. of Theology, thus belonging to the Theological Faculty. " 1667. Ulricus Huber, Prof. of Law, thus belonging to the Juridical Faculty. " 1668. Joachimus Frencelius, Prof. of Medicine and Anatomy, thus belonging to the Medical Faculty. " 1669. Abrahamus de Grau, Prof. of Mathematics, thus belonging to the Philosophical Faculty. In 1670 the Philosophical Faculty would then have had its turn again, and that with Johannes Greydanus, who however had already died in 1668.

All this follows from the entry below on page 298 of the 1st Part (1647—1664) of the "Diarium Actorum" of the Franeker Academy:

> "Since God Almighty has been pleased to take Mr. Arnoldus > Verhell, Doctor and Professor of Philosophy and of Law > and Rector of the Academy, out of this world to Himself in His kingdom > on 16 February 1664, the > Honourable Professor Úlricus Húber has, according to old custom, been commissioned by the Senate > to deliver the funeral oration for Mr. Verhell.
> Likewise, with regard to the Rectorate, lots have been drawn > to administer the Academy by presiding officers for the three remaining months.
> The first lot fell to the Honourable Mr. Moll for > March.
> The second, for February[1] to the Honourable Mr. de Grau
> The third to the Honourable Mr. Greidanús, who will also > introduce the coming Rector. Done > 17 February 1664.
> In my presence
> (signed) J. Krol"

Prof. Johannes Greydanus was thereupon Rector Magnificus from 1 May to 3 June 1664, on which date Johannes Terentius became Rector.

During his Rectorate he entered the new students in the Album Studiosorum in his own hand from 6 May 1664 to 3 June[2] following. His entries appear therein on page 385, of which a reproduction is added with page 133, and read as follows:

> (1664) "Majus — Praeside Academiae J. Greydano, Philos. Profess.
> 6. — 1. Cyriciús Hagiús Transisúlan Jur. Stúdios.
> 9. — 2. Johannes Wetegrove Stadensis Jur. Stúdios.
> 10. — 3. Philippús van Westerbúrgh German. Philos. Stúd.
> 4. Fridericús van Westerbúrgh German. Philos. Stúd.
> 5. Matthias Meigener Carinthiús S.S. Theol. Stúd.
> 11. 6840[3] 6. Abrahamús Bechius Fris. ab Oosthem Lit. Phil. Stúd.

12. — 7. Daniel Mogge Zirizaeâ-Zeland Jur. Stúd.
18. — 8. Wilhelmús de Vries, Haga-batavus Med. Stúd.
23. — 9. Stephanus Weszprémi Ung. Theol. & Phil. Stúd.
10. Michaël Szathmâr-Némethi Ung. Th. & Philos. Stúd.
11. Andreas Szathmari, Ungar Theol. & Philos. Stúd.
12. Andreas Sellyei, Ungar. Theol. & Philos. Stud.
13. Michaël Sarfoi, Ungar. Theol. & Philos. Stúd.
24. — 14. Johannes à Munster Zútphan. Gelr. Jur. & Hist. Stúd.

(Latin) Daniel Mogge of Zierikzee in Zeeland, after a public disputation had been held, was declared Doctor of Both Laws by the very learned man Mr. J. Wissenbachius privately: 27 May."

His Rectorate is further attested by the following entry in the Inventory Book of the University:

"Inventory and description of the books and goods left behind by Mons^{r} Georgh Massow, made in the presence of the Honourable
Mr. Præses Magnificús Joh.
Greidanus at the house of Wierdt Wijbes on 6 May 1664."
Then follows the Inventory with the subscription:
"Thus done, witnessed by me (signed) J. Kroll. J. v. Det.
Secretary of the Academy."

Beneath which the following also stood, which I reproduce here for the sake of interest: "These above-registered

[1] / By this April is meant.

[2] / The assumption of the Rectorate took place, as far as possible, on the first of June. See the often-mentioned work of Mr. Boeles, Part I, page 231.

[3] / This number indicates the total number of students who had been enrolled since the founding of the University, so that Prof. Greydanus enrolled No. 6835 up to and including No. 6848.

books and goods of Mons^{r} Massow were sold on 22 June 1664 by order and in the presence of the honourable Rector Magnificus D. Joh. Terentius at the house of the Secretary Dr. J. Kroll, and after the auction had been held, the account of the goods sold having been taken up with the honourable Rector Magnificus, and this, after deduction of the costs incurred for this sale, and the redeemed coat having also been taken out of the Lombard (pawnshop), it was found that there was due to the profit of the creditors on the day of payment, in clear money, one hundred and nine caroligld. and one stuiver, say net money 109 —1—:
(signed) J. Terentius
Acad. p. t. Rector with the year 1664 and some Hebrew letters. (signed) J. Kroll."

Moreover, one finds entries made in his own hand by him as Rector Magnificus in the two following Academic Registers:

Register N^{o} 20. "Rotula immunitatum Academiae (Academicarum) 1660—1772[1]"

In this Register were recorded the taxable goods: wine, beer, rye and wheat, peat, slaughtered cattle, salt, soap and edick (wine vinegar), which, when delivered to Academy citizens, were free of tax.

In it one finds the notes of the Rector Magnificus Prof. J. Greydanus for the month of May 1664 concerning: wine, beer, rye and wheat, slaughtered cattle and soap. A reproduction of the page with the notes relating to the beer delivered, which read as follows, is attached herewith:

"(30) Secretary Kaldenbach one ton (barrel) B.	T.J.S.	Prof. Cŭp 1 ton H. Beer	T.J.S.
(Latin) For the month of May		Mag. Ouernei 1 ton H. Beer	T.J.S.
(Latin) With J. Greydano presiding.		12. Widow of Prof. Parent 1 ton
3. Assistant Jurjen Poock a ½ ton of beer	T.J.S.	H. Beer	T.J.S.
4. Prof. Valckenier one ton H. Beer.	T.J.S.
Pedell (beadle) Petrŭs Poll one ton of Beer	T.J.S.	13. M^{r} Wŭbbena one ton H.B.	T.J.S.
Magist. Fanois one ton of Beer	T.J.S.	Joff. Walrecheim 1 ton H.B.	D.E.
Assistant Andries Hŭlst a ½ ton of beer	T.J.S.	Prof. Schotanus 1 ton H.B.	T.J.S.
Assistant Harmen Mŭnster a ½ ton of beer		17. Prof. Greydanŭs 1 ton H.B.	M.S.
	M.S.	18. Inspect. Fennema 1 ton H.B.	M.S.
		21. M^{r} Steendam 1 ton H. B.	T.J.S.
Also for the Assistants in		24. Oeconomŭs Zingel 1 ton of Beer general a Lŭyd-cedul (bell-ringing note) of a half ton of Holl. beer	T.J.S.		T.J.S.
Also for the Promotor and the Assistants		25. Pedell Jacobŭs 1 ton H.B.	T.J.S.
in general a half ton of beer	J.W.	Typograph Wellens 1 ton Holl. B.

for the oration of Jr. Hŭbert			M.S.
Assistant Douwe Pieters ½ ton of beer		27. Dr Hindama 1 ton H.B.	T.J.S.
at T.J.S.		28. Assistants a half ton of beer
Pastor Fabiŭs ½ ton of beer	T.J.S.	on account of the Promotion of Dr Mogge
Secretary Kaldenbach one ton Holl.		Dr Mogge at his Promotion
Beer Jilling Tinga.		one ton of Holl. beer	M.S.
Willem Fijt, messenger, ½ ton H.B.	J.W.	Prof. Hŭber one ton of Holl. Beer
9. Promotor Brinck one ton			M.S.
H. Beer	M.S.	31. Prof. Frenceliŭs one ton H. Beer
Prof. Moll 1 ton H. Beer	M.S.		J.W.
10. L. Wigersma Fiscael (public prosecutor) 1 ton H. Beer		Secret. Kroll one ton H. Beer
	T.J.S.		T.J.S.
		for the funeral of D. Faetsma, student,
		2 tons of beer M.S."

From the Register it further appears that to Prof. Greydanus himself were delivered: regularly beer, rye and wheat, peat and soap — and each time: usually 1 ton of beer, for a considerable period supplied by the convooimeester (convoy master) Johannes Amama, a brother of the Nicolaus Amama mentioned on page 122 and following (on 14 June, 26 August and 12 October of the year 1668 the delivery stands in the name of "Vidua[3] Greidani"), — 1 loopen (dry measure) of wheat and rye at the O.M. (Oostermolen) or N.M. (Noordermolen), — and always a kyntie (small cask) of soap by the supplier Hein Montzes, the same man in whose inventory the doctor's and apothecary's bills concerning Prof. Greydanus referred to on page 121 were found (on 10 June 1665 the delivery took place "per familŭ P. Boc", probably Prof. Greydanus' father-in-law Pyter Bockes).

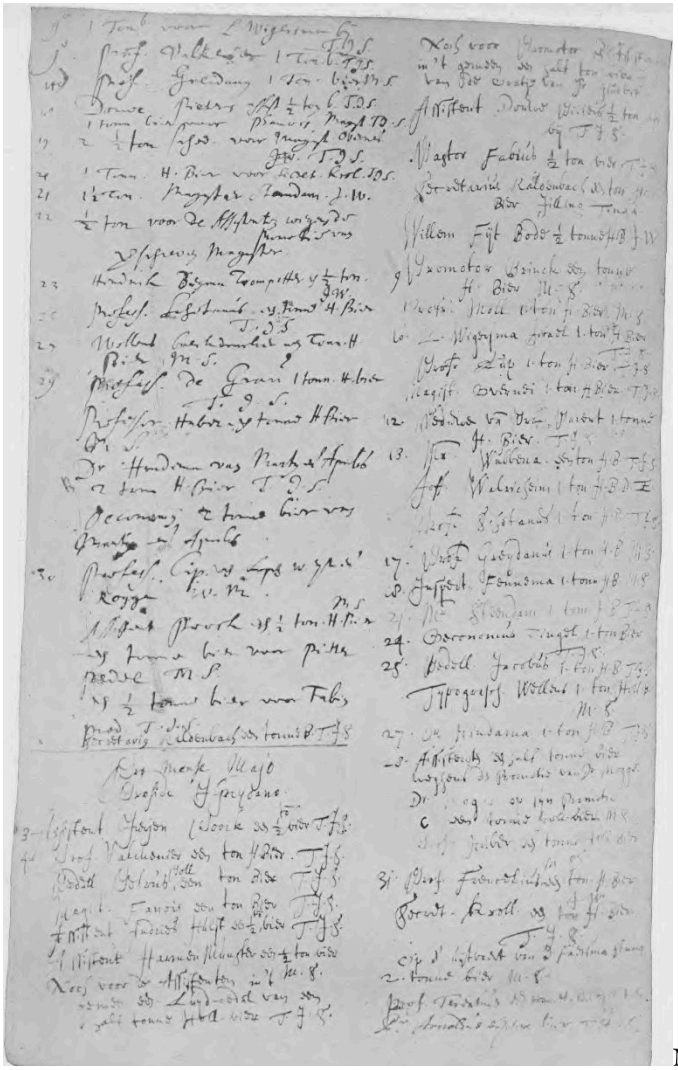
Register N° 23a. "Liber Rationum Quaesturae Academiae 1659—1719.

In this book an account has been entered, beneath which a subscription signed by Prof. Johannes Greydanus as Rector Magnificus reads as follows:

[1] On the spine of the Register it says 1670.

[2] These are the initials of the supplier of the beer.

[3] Widow.



N° 20 “Rotula Immunitatum Academiae (Academicarum) 1660—1772” of the Franeker Academy (somewhat reduced).

Entries made in his own hand in May 1664 by the Rector Magnificus J. Greydanus, Philos. Professor, from the Album Studiosorum of the Franeker Academy (see page 131) (nearly actual size).

> "1664. On this day, the 30th of May, the Lord Quaestor (treasurer) Cup has rendered account and the remainder concerning the yearly quaestura, and it was found that more had been received than paid out, 81 caroliguldens 5 st. 14 penningen, whereas the receipts were 442—18 st—2 penn., so that there is in the purse 81 cargl. 5 st. 14 penn.
> (Latin) Done as above in the Senate chamber of the Academy > (signed) Joannes Greydanus p. t. Acad. Praes. (Latin) In the absence of the Secretary
> (signed) N. Arnoldus."

After the death of Prof. Verhel, Prof. Greydanus became the senior Professor of Philosophy. Since he had "served his professorship now already for a considerable time with good praise", he was appointed on 29 April 1664 in the place of Prof. Verhel, whereby his salary, which, as we have seen on page 128, amounted at his appointment to 700 Caroli guldens a year, was raised to 800 Caroli guldens. As new Professor of Philosophy was appointed: Abraham Steindam, and in addition as extraordinary Professor in that Faculty: Joannes Wubbena.

The two following entries in the Resolutieboek (resolution book) of the year 1664 of the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States) of Friesland relate to this:

> "Thursday, the 28th of April 1664, before noon.
> There appeared before us the Lords Ockenga, Humalda, and Jongestal as Curatores Academiae, and in accordance with their Instruction they have proposed to the College three persons nominated by them, in order that one of them might be chosen by this College as Professor Philosophiae in the vacant place of the late D. Arnoldus Verhel, namely D^{nus} Godofredus Spinaeus, Professor at Steinfort; D^{nus} Joannes Vubbena, L. A. M., Doctor of Philosophy and public lecturer in Philosophy in the Academy at Franiquer, and D^{nus} Abrahamus Steindam, Candidate of the Holy Ministry and L. A. M.; but their Honours requested that, since Professor Greidanus is likewise Professor in Philosophy, and has now for a considerable time served his professorship with good praise, he might be called into the place of the late D^{r} Verhel aforesaid, and that at such salary as the latter enjoyed, and that then subsequently, in the place of D^{r} Greidanus, one of the three aforesaid persons might again be chosen by this College, so as thus to forestall all jealousy; and their Honours were thanked for the trouble they had taken and withdrew, and upon this matter a resolution shall be taken at a later opportunity."

> "Friday, the 29th of April 1664.
> The Lords Gedeputeerde Staten of Friesland, having proceeded to the filling of the vacant Professor's place, have out of the three persons proposed yesterday by the Lords Curators elected, as is hereby elected thereto, D^ns^ Abrahamus Steendam, Candidate of the Holy Ministry and L. A. M., and that at a salary of seven hundred car. £ yearly, and there shall be passed to him a commission in due form as Professor Philosophiae Ordinarius; however, D^r^ Greidanus shall be regarded as senior Professor in the aforesaid faculty, whose salary is likewise hereby raised from seven to eight hundred car. £; and D^ns^ Joannes Wubbena is hereby likewise chosen as Professor Extraordinarius Philosophiae at a salary of four hundred car. £, of which a commission in due form shall likewise be passed to him."

An idea of the salaries in that time may be obtained from a "List of the Taux, at which the respective officers, both political and military, are set, in order to advance for the service of the Country, at May and All Saints 1666, the sum of five hundred thousand Guilders, to the end that the aforesaid Province may in this high need[1] be provided with ready money", printed in 1666 at Sydtse Rinnerts' in Leeuwarden. For it appears that that "taux" (that is, assessment) was set equal to the salary for 1666 of the servants of the province, since, as mentioned above, the salary for this year of Prof. Greydanus amounted to 800, of Prof. Steindam to 700 and of Prof. Wubbena to 400 Caroli guldens, and these persons are found on the list with precisely those amounts. For the moneys advanced, provincial bonds were issued, as may appear from the data given on page 168 concerning the estate of Prof. Greydanus.

The printed list, which was established by the Resolution of the States of Friesland dated March 1666, I found at page 436 of the first part of the manuscript consisting of 3 parts — property of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden — entitled: "Annotations of some noteworthy things etc. by Horatius Vitringa, former Clerk of the Court of Friesland, containing histories of his time, written down in his old age for his children and grandchildren."

At the top of the list stands, with the highest amount, "The Admiral Tierck Hiddes de Vries 3000—0—0". Furthermore one finds on it the following:

[1] Naval wars with England.

> "Academy at Franequer
> The Curators of the Academy at > Franequer, each 300 guilders . . . . . 1200—0—0
> D^us^ Nicolaus Arnoldus Theol. Prof. . . . . 1400—0—0
> D^us^ Johannes Valckenier as above . . . . . 1200—0—0
> D^us^ Christianus Schotanus à > Sterringa. . . . . 500—0—0
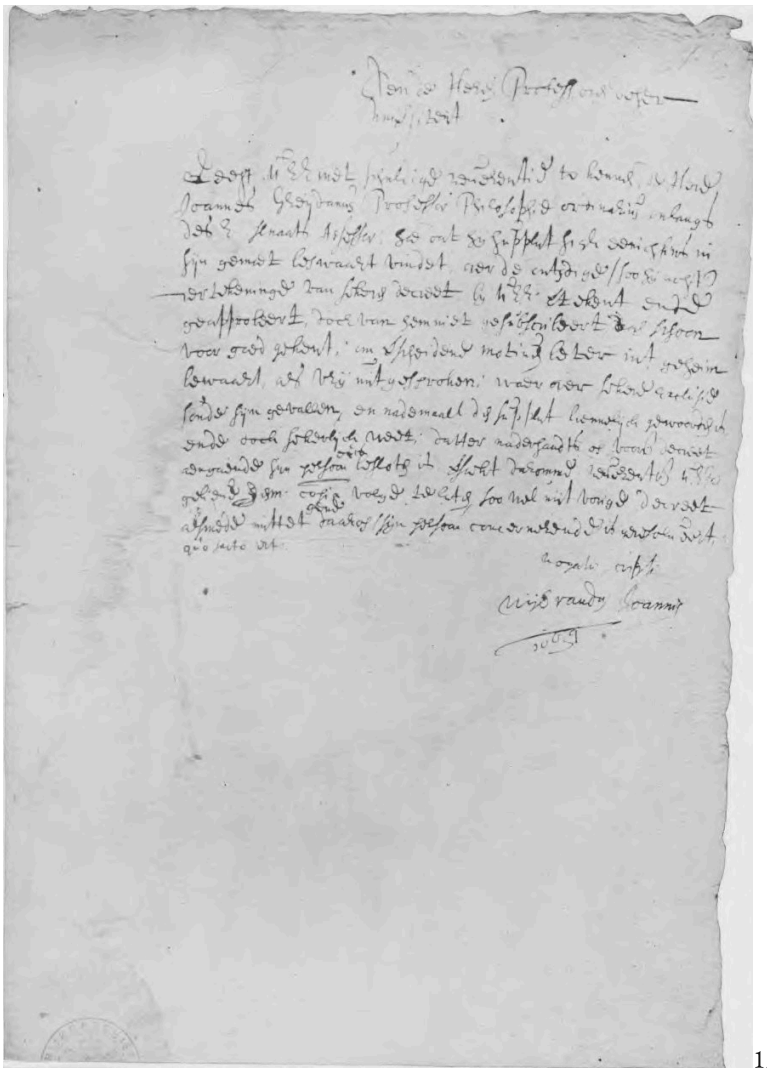
> D^us^ Henricus Huber Juris. Prof. . . . . 1200—0—0
> D^us^ Wilhelmus Cup . . . . . 1000—0—0
> D^us^ Joachimus Frencelius . . . . . 1300—0—0
> D^us^ Philippus Matheus. . . . . 1000—0—0
> D^us^ Petrus Moll . . . . . 800—0—0
> D^us^ Buchius . . . . . 1000—0—0
> D^us^ Johannus Therentius . . . . . 700—0—0
> D^us^ Abrahamus de Grau . . . . . 1000—0—0
> D^us^ Greidanus . . . . . 800—0—0
> D^us^ Abrahamus Steindam . . . . . 700—0—0
> D^us^ Johannes Wubbena. . . . . 400—0—0
> D^us^ Jacobus Crol Academy Secretar . . . . . 400—0—0
> D^us^ Gerardus Kaldenbach Bibliothec. . . . . 250—0—0."

On 16 December 1664 the professors of the Franeker University at that time signed a draft declaration, by which they bound themselves mutually: to conduct themselves in the Senate decently and orderly in word and deed, and not to make known to third parties what had been dealt with in the Senate nor their own opinions. Prof. Greydanus, however, refused to sign this draft declaration; at last he put his name, though as the last of all the professors, under the definitive document dated 31 December 1664, which is included on page 190 of the Acta of the Senate (Part A) Archief Senatus Generalis 1589—1807. This document was later signed by all new professors and follows hereafter.

His initial refusal appears from the following entry on page 192 of the said Acta and from his Request, included hereafter and reproduced alongside, which is found with the number 10 in the Collection "Requesten" of the Franeker Academy Archive.

(Latin) Acta of the Senate:
"After the Rector Magnificus had read out to the Senate a draft drawn up by him, it met with the approval of all and each of those then present. They judged it right that it should also be confirmed by the signature of each one separately. Only the very renowned Mr. Greidanus refused, although he had repeatedly praised the decree itself as just, fair and salutary, and had acknowledged that nothing prejudicial to him was contained in it. Wherefore the Senate kindly asked and admonished him that he too, moved by the example of all, should do the same. He steadfastly refused to do this. But because that decree had been drawn up for the public good, in order that care should be taken for the safety of those who expressed their opinion, while he said openly that he could not keep silent, and asked whether he might therefore be permitted to stay away from the Senate permanently, the Senate resolved that Mr. Greidanus ought to keep away from the Senate, both the general one and that for the administration of justice, so long until he too should subscribe to that decree.
But meanwhile, because Mr. Greidanus is absent through his own fault, he shall by that judgment of the Senate be held also to pay the fines for that absence.
Done in the Senate hall, 31 December 1664.
In my presence
(signed) J. Kroll
31 December
1664."
[1] Acta of the Senate:
After the Rector Magnificus had read out to the Senate a draft drawn up by him, it met with the approval of all and each of those then present. They judged it right that it should also be confirmed by the signature of each one separately. Only the very renowned Mr. Greidanus refused, although he had repeatedly praised the decree itself as just, fair and salutary, and had acknowledged that nothing prejudicial to him was contained in it. Wherefore the Senate kindly asked and admonished him that he too, moved by the example of all, should do the same. He steadfastly refused to do this. But because that decree had been drawn up for the public good, in order that care should be taken for the safety of those who expressed their opinion, while he said openly that he could not keep silent, and asked whether he might therefore be permitted to stay away permanently from the sitting of the Senate, the Senate resolved that Mr. Greidanus ought to keep away from the Senate, both the general one and that for the administration of justice, so long until he too should subscribe to that decree.
But meanwhile, because Mr. Greidanus is absent through his own fault, he shall by that judgment be held also to pay the fines of the Senate for that absence.
Done in the Senate hall, 31 December 1664.
In my presence
(signed) J. Kroll
31 December
1664.

[1] My own translation into Dutch.



135

"To the Gentlemen Professors of this University.
Respectfully informs Your Honours, the gentleman, Joannes Greijdanŭs Professor Philosophie ordinariŭs, recently Assessor of the Honourable Senate, how he, the petitioner, finds himself somewhat troubled in his conscience over the untimely (as he considers it) signing of a certain decree signed and approved by Your Honours, but not subscribed by him, although indeed acknowledged as good, for various reasons better kept secret than freely spoken out, concerning which a certain exclusion would have followed; and since the petitioner has been informed and also knows for certain that afterwards, on the 16th, something was resolved upon the aforesaid decree concerning his person, he therefore respectfully requests that Your Honours may be pleased to let him have a copy, both of the earlier decree and also of that which was resolved thereupon (concerning his person).
Quó facto est[1].
Rogatus scripsi[2].
(signed) Wijbrandus Joannes" 1664."

[the Latin text and its Dutch translation are printed side by side in two columns; the left column is given first, then the right.]

(Latin) "All present except
Mr. Wissenbagh
Mr. Cúp
Mr. Steendam.
It is certain, as even daily experience testifies, that nothing is more to be abhorred than the licence of an unbridled tongue, that most pernicious monster. For like a most virulent plague it not only foully infects the minds of men, but also harms the commonwealth and inflicts most immediate damage upon civil society. Therefore the Academic Senate, moved by pressing reasons and by necessity, in order that civility and decency among the Gentlemen Professors be observed in accordance with the thirty-fourth fundamental law of the Academy, and moreover that each colleague may have his own freedom in voting and that the secrets of the Senate may remain hidden, has with unanimous and concurring votes decreed that if anyone in future shall in the Senate assail his colleague with taunts, insulting jibes and abuse: and likewise shall divulge either the secrets of the Academic Senate or the opinions of the Gentlemen Professors, he shall as unworthy be excluded from the deliberations for a time to be determined at the discretion of the Senate; nevertheless he shall pay the fine for each absence during the exclusion, because he will be absent through his own fault. To which ordinance we ourselves who are present have decreed both to subscribe with our own hands and to offer it for subscription, as being most necessary, to the colleagues who are to be received in future. Done in the Hall of the Academy, 31 December 1664.

(signed) J. Terentiús P. Matthæús
Acad. p.t. Rector P. Moll
N. Arnoldús Ulricús Húber
Joh. Valckenier Abraham de Graú
Christianús Schotanús Abrahamús Steindam
Guilielmús Cúp JoannesGreydanús
Joachim Frenceliús m.p.p.
(signed) J. Kroll
Acad^{æ} Secret."
[3] All present, except
Mr. Wissenbach
Mr. Cup
Mr. Steendam.
It is certain, since even daily experience testifies to it, that nothing is more to be abhorred than the looseness of an unbridled tongue, as a most pernicious monster. For this, like a most poisonous plague, not only horribly infects the minds of men, but also harms the Commonwealth and does most immediate injury to civil society. Therefore the Academic Senate, moved thereto by pressing reasons and by necessity, in order that civil decency among the Gentlemen Professors, according to the Academic constitution art. 34, be observed, and moreover that every Colleague may have his freedom in voting, and that the secrets of the Senate may remain hidden, has with unanimous and concurring votes resolved that, if anyone shall in future in the Senate receive his Colleague with mocking words, words of abuse, stinging words and words of reviling, and likewise shall make known outside either the secrets of the Academic Senate or the opinions of the Gentlemen Professors, that he shall as an unworthy one be excluded from the deliberations for a time, to be determined by decision of the Senate, and shall nevertheless pay the fine for each absence during the exclusion, because he is absent through his own fault; which ordinance we ourselves, who are present, subscribe with our own hand, and which we have resolved to offer for signature, as being in the highest degree necessary, to those Colleagues who may be admitted in the future.
Done in the Senate Hall of the Academy, on the 31st day of December 1664.
(signed) J. Terentius P. Matthaeus Acad. Rector for the present time P. Moll
N. Arnoldus Ulricus Huber
Joh. Valckenier Abraham de Grau
Christianus Schotanus Abrahamus Steindam
Guilielmus Cup JoannesGreydanus
Joachim Frencelius
(signed) J. Kroll
Secretary of the Academy.

A reproduction of the above entry and of its continuation are appended herewith.

For the year 1665 one finds the following notes in the Academic books[4], [1] Which has happened.

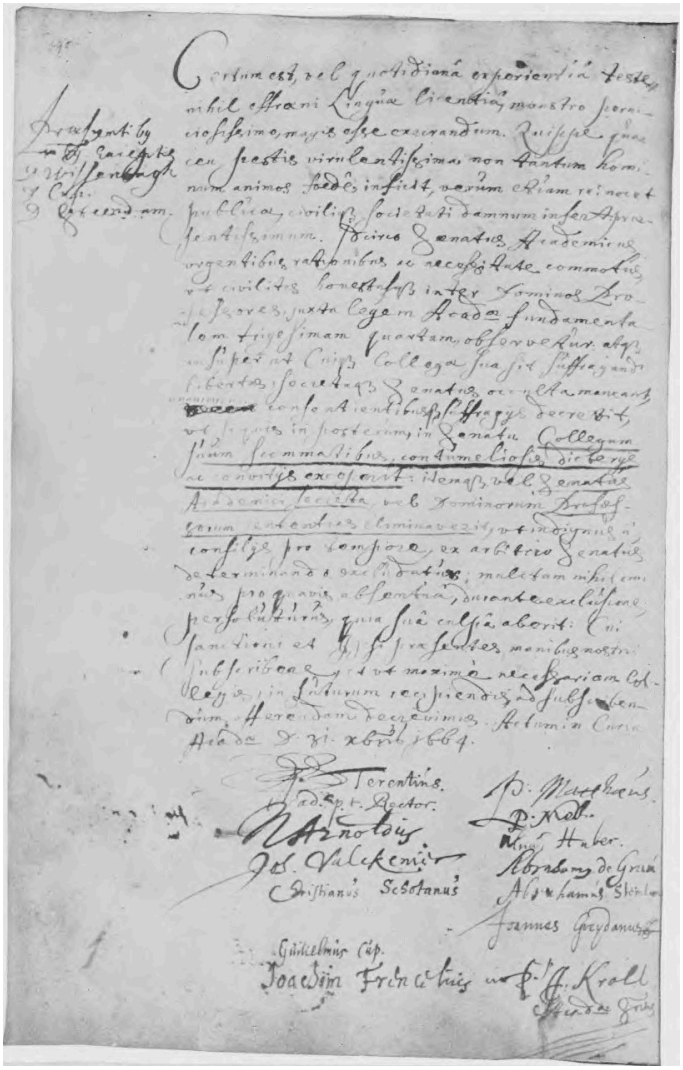
[2] Being asked, I have written, in other words "written at request".

[3] My own translation into Dutch.

[4] With my own translations into Dutch alongside.



Page from Part A of the Acta van den Senaat der Franeker Academie, with the decree of 31 December 1664, which Prof. Joannes Greydanus at first refused to sign (somewhat reduced).

Page from Part A of the Acta van den Senaat der Franeker Academie, with the continuation of the decree reproduced on the reverse (see page 135) (slightly reduced).

in which Prof. Greydanus' name is mentioned and which relate to a visit of the Curators to the Academy and to the College of the said Professor.

[the Latin originals and their Dutch translations are printed side by side in two columns; here each excerpt is given first in Latin, then in Dutch.]

Diarium Actorum (2nd volume 1664—1683) page 18.

> (Latin) "On the day of 8 Febr. 1665. To the Rector Magnificus an open Letter was delivered from the most Noble and most Distinguished Gentlemen Curators of the Academy, in which they made known that they would come to Franeker on the coming 13 Febr., and on the following day would hold the Examination of the Alumni.
> In the same session the Lord Rector Magnificus put to the Senate whether they had any matters which ought to be laid before the most Noble Gentlemen Curators in the name of the Academy: and it was decreed that the President should recommend the case of the military court to the most Noble Gentlemen Curators.
> Secondly it was decreed that the Arrival of the most Noble Gentlemen Curators and the Examination of the Alumni (on) 14 Febr. should be made known to the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus by the Pedel. Done in the Senate hall as above.
> (signed) J. Kroll."

Diary of What Happened.

> On the day of 8 Febr. 1665. To the Rector Magnificus an open Letter has been delivered from the most Noble and illustrious Gentlemen Curators of the Academy, in which they (state that they) will come to Franeker on the coming 13th Febr. and on the following day will hold the Examination of the Alumni.
> In that same session the Lord Rector put to the Senate (the question) whether they too had matters which ought to be laid before the most Noble Gentlemen Curators in the name of the Academy; and it was resolved that the Chairman should recommend the matter of the military court to the most Noble Gentlemen Curators.
> Secondly it was resolved to make known the Arrival of the most Noble Gentlemen Curators and the Examination of the Alumni on the day of 14 Febr. to the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus by the Pedel. Done in the Senate hall as above.
> (signed) J. Kroll."

"Diarium Actorum" (2nd volume 1664—1683). Page 32.

(Latin) "All present
Except Mr. Frencelius.
On the day of 31 August 1665.... In the same session the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus asked that permission be granted him to hold his public lectures in his own house: Which was denied him, and that he should be forbidden to affix any notices either on his own door or on that of the Academy.
Done in the Senate hall as above.
(signed). J. Kroll."

Diary of what happened.

All present
Except Mr.
Frencelius.
On the day of 31 Aug. 1665. In the same session the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus asked that he be given leave to hold the public lectures in his house. Which was refused him, and (it was resolved) that he should be forbidden to post any announcement on his own door or on that of the Academy.
Done in the Senate hall as above.
(signed) J. Kroll.

"Diarium Actorum" (1st volume 1647—1664).[1] Page 297.

(Latin) "All present
Except Mr. Frencelius.
On the day of 31 August 1665, by Decree of the General Senate the most Illustrious Mr. Wubbena[2] shall continue his Public Lectures at the ninth hour, yet without prejudice to the faculty of Theology and of Medicine.
In the same session the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus protested against this decree.
Done in the Senate hall as above.
(signed) J. Kroll."

Diary of What Happened.

All present
Except Mr.
Frencelius.
On the day of 31 Aug. 1665. By Resolution of the Whole Senate the most Illustrious Mr. Wubbena shall continue his Public Lectures at 9 o'clock, yet without anticipating the decision of the Theol. and Medical Faculty.
In that same session the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus protested against this resolution.
Done in the Senate hall as above.
(signed) J. Kroll.

"Diarium Actorum" (2nd volume 1664—1683) Page 33.

(Latin) "On 2 October 1665....
In the same session the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus asked that he might hold his Lectures from the ninth hour, since otherwise he was being slighted by the Senate; but the Senate judged that it must abide by the earlier Decree, made on 31 Aug. 1665. Done in the Senate hall as above
(signed) J. Kroll."

Diary of What Happened.

On the day of 2 October 1665....
In the same session the most Illustrious Mr. Greidanus asked to be allowed to hold his Lectures from the ninth hour, since he was otherwise being dishonoured by the Senate. But the Senate resolved that it must abide by the previous Resolution taken on 31 Aug. 1665. Done in the Senate hall as above.
(signed) J. Kroll.

[1] This entry, which ought to have been recorded in the 2nd volume (1664—1683), was by mistake placed in the 1st volume (1647—1664).

[2] Johannes Wubbena, the Professor of Philosophy appointed on 29 April 1664, colleague of Prof. Greydanus (see page 133).

"Diarium Actorum" (2nd part 1664—1683).		Diary of Events.
Page 34.
(Latin) "All present	On the day of 5 October 1665.	All present	On the day of 5 October 1665.
Except Mr. Schotano	In the same session the most illustrious Mr.	Except Mr.	In the same session the most
	Greidanus and the most illustrious Mr.	Schotanus.	illustrious Mr. Greidanus
	Wubbena informed the Senate		and the most illustrious that they had made an arrangement		Mr. Wubbena informed the Senate between themselves concerning the ninth		that they had made a mutual hour, namely that the most illustrious Mr.		arrangement concerning the ninth Wubbena, at the request of Mr. Greidanus		hour, namely that the most granted him the ninth hour.		illustrious Mr. Wubbena, at the
	This friendly arrangement the		request of Mr. Greidanus
	Senate approved, without however		had ceded to him the ninth prejudice to the Theological		hour.
	and Medical Faculty.		The Senate approved that

"Diarium Actorum" (2nd part 1664—1683).		Diary of Events.
	Done as above.		friendly agreement, without
	(signed) J. Kroll."		however anticipating the decision of the Theological and Medical Faculty.
			Done as above.
			(signed) J. Kroll.

In 1666 Prof. Arnoldus, Prof. Huber and Prof. Greydanus were delegated to the Gedeputeerden (Deputy States), to request them to have the office of Inspector [1] filled by the Professors themselves in monthly turns, and in 1667 the Rector Magnificus together with Prof. Greydanus was appointed to go to Leeuwarden at the first opportunity, in order to expedite the case, still pending with the Gedeputeerden, between the Academy and the Frisian Military Court.

The two entries relating to this, on pages 57 and 86 respectively of the 2nd Part (1664—1683) of the "Diarium Actorum", read as follows:

1666.	1666.
(Latin) "On 11 September it was deliberated in a public session	On the day of 11 September there was deliberation in a public of the Senate about the office of the Inspectorate, that it be	session of the Senate about the office of requested in the name of the Academy from the illustrious	Inspector, in order that this be requested in the name of the Lords Deputies of the States, so that for very weighty reasons	Academy from the most glorious Lords Gedeputeerde Staten,
it may be administered by the Lords Professors themselves in	and that for very weighty reasons it should be served by monthly turns: and this the Senate approved, and to that end	the Professors themselves each in turn for a month.
chose as commissioners the Reverend Mr. Nic. Arnoldus in place	That the Senate approved of the Magnificent Prorector, who asked to be excused, and	and to that end chose as its commissioners the Reverend beside him the most illustrious Mr. Huberus and the most illustrious Mr. Greydanus.	Mr. Nic. Arnoldus in place of the
In the absence of the Secretary	prorector, who asked to be excused, and (signed) M. Buschius."	beside him the most illustrious Mr. Huber and the most illustrious Mr. Greidanus.
	In the absence of the Secretary
	(signed) M. Buschius.

(Latin) "On 29 July of the year 1667....	On the day of 29 July of the year 1667....
In the same session in the General Senate Mr. Rector	In the same session in the Full Senate the Magnificus and Mr. Greidanus were delegated, at the first	Rector Magnificus and Mr. Greidanus were opportunity, to go to Leeuwarden in order to press the case	delegated, to go to Leeuwarden at the first
still pending between the Academy and the Military Court	opportunity, in order to urge, with the most noble
of Friesland /after consultation with the most noble Lords	Gedeputeerde Staten, the handling of the case
Curators of the Academy/ with the most noble Deputies	between the Academy and the Frisian Military of the States.	Court still pending, /after communication of the
Done in the Senate Hall as above.	consideration of the most noble Lords Curators
(signed) J. Kroll."	of the Academy/.
	Done in the Senate Hall as above.
	(signed) J. Kroll.

Prof. Johannes Greydanus died 4 June 1668; his colleague in Philosophy Abraham Steindam (see page 144), appointed 29 April 1664 (see page 133), was charged with delivering the funeral oration.

Concerning this, the following is noted in the Academic Archive, in the Second Part (1664—1683) of the "Diarium Actorum":

[1] Inspector (Oeconomus) of the Burse, an institution established by the Government, where students of small means could take their meals more cheaply than elsewhere.

[the Latin text and the Dutch translation are printed in parallel columns; they are transcribed here one after the other.]

(Latin) "On the day of V June CIↃIↃCLXVIII the Rector Magnificus reported the death of Mr Johannis Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine and ordinary Professor of Philosophy, and concerning the oration to be delivered in his memory; for which duty Mr Abrahamus Steindam, ordinary Professor of Philosophy, was requested and appointed.
Done in the Senate Hall
U. Huber, at present
Rector of the Academy."
On the day of 5 June 1668 the Rector Magnificus reported the death of Mr Johannis Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine and ordinary Professor of Philosophy, and concerning the oration to be delivered in his memory. For this official task Mr Abraham Steindam, ordinary Professor of Philosophy, was requested and deputed.
Done in the Senate Hall
U. Huber, for the present time
Rector of the Academy.

Concerning the death of Prof. Greydanus a Volume of songs was printed at Franeker in 1668. A copy of that Volume is in my possession; below follows the title, of which a reproduction is given overleaf, and its further contents:

(Latin) Academia plorans,
sive Epicedia
in luctuosissimum at beatissimum obitum
Clarissimi, Acutissimi Experientissimique Viri,
D. JOANNIS GREYDANI,
A. L. M. Philosophiæ & Medicinæ Doctoris, & illius Facultatis in alma Frisio-rum Academia (dum fata sivêre)
Professoris Primarii
Qui
Iammodo transgressus est tenorem humanæ virtutis, ut numen indicit, Aerâ Christi 1668, die 4. Junii: terræ mandatur 12. ejusdem currentis.
At Franeker
Printed by Johannes Wellens, Ordinary Printer of the Illustrious States of Friesland and of their Academy.
[1668.
[1]

The Academy weeping or Funeral Song/s/on the most mournful but most blessed death of the very Illustrious, Acute and Experienced [Man
Mr JOANNIS GREYDANUS,
Master of the Liberal Arts, Doctor of Medicine, and of that (Philosophical) Faculty in the Academy the Alma (Mater) of the Frisians (as long as fate allowed it)
Principal Professor Who
Not long ago stepped beyond the course of human vital power, as God indicated, in the year 1668 of the Christian era, on the day of 4 June. He is committed to the earth on the 12th of the same current month.
Franeker.
Printed by Johannes Wellens, the Ordinary Printer of the Illustrious Deputed States of Friesland and of their Academy. 1668.
(Latin) You, Thymbraean, who found the Gods favourable, and the stars of Heaven devoted to you, while our School joyfully bestowed the axes upon you, and the consecrated Muse openly adorned your sceptre with the triumphal buskin;
Put off your purple garments, and the leafy festive ornaments of your hair, and, unsightly in mourning dress, bedew your shining face with a stream of tears.
While the honour of Wisdom is buried, and into the theatres of the Gods above there is set so great a radiance, so noble a pledge of Heaven, than whom no other ever stood forth more excellent in genius, and more capable of a lofty mind.
For he taught whatever counsels Machaon gave,
and old Hipparchus, or the citadels of learned Cecrops, observing each single thing with sturdy sinews.
Tell, cruel Fates, deadly Divinities, whom Libyan Tigers bore, and Scythian Lionesses fed at their udders, and the impious tartarus nourished with Stygian streams, monster-bearing offspring:
Tell, who, by goading swelling furies in the heart, urged so great a crime and so great a wrong to be hastened with a bold hand, which grieving late Posterity shall find repaired in no age.
But why, Muse, do you accuse the raving Goddesses and the hastened fates, while all things fall, and stand fast, confirmed by the judgement of the highest God, who, governing destinies, spins the threads of the Fates by his venerable divine will.
This I know: GREYDANUS rejoices, and roams the Elysian fields, where, in the glow of perpetual youth, he lives, and looks down upon human endeavours beneath him.
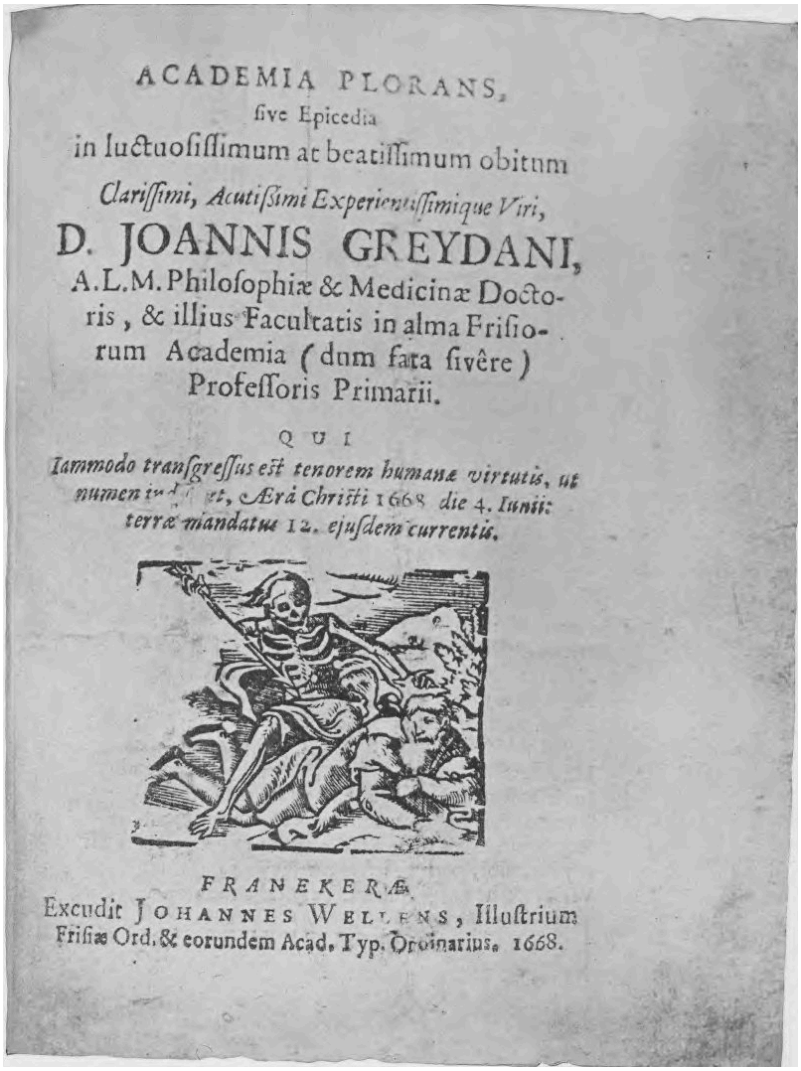
Joh. Bueker, Student of Sacred Letters.
You, Thymbraean (Apollo), who found the Gods kindly and the stars of Heaven devoted to You, when our School conferred the power upon You and the Muse consecrated (to You) publicly adorned Your sceptre with a song of triumph. Put off Your purple garments and (lay aside) the leafy ornaments of Your festive hair, and, unsightly through the mourning dress, bedew with a stream of tears Your shining face, while the honour of Wisdom is buried, and so great a light is set in the palace of the Supreme Gods, so noble a pledge of Heaven. Never has the earth brought forth a more excellent genius, more able to comprehend a profound spirit. For he taught all the counsels that Machaon gave and old Hipparchus, and the learned citadel of Cecrops (Athens), by examining each thing separately with his iron sinews. Say, cruel Fates, Goddesses of Destiny, who brought forth the Libyan tigers, and gave drink to the Scythian lionesses, and fed the unblessed tartarus with the streams of the Styx, monstrous brood, say, who has, by goading resentment and fury in the heart, advised that so great a sin and so great a wrong should be committed in haste with a presumptuous hand. Late posterity shall find with grief that this (wrong) will never in any age be repaired. But why do You, Muse, accuse the mad Goddesses and the hasty fate, since all things fall down, and remain fixed by the judgement of the highest God, who, ordering the destinies, spins the thread of the Fates according to His inexorable majesty. This I know, GREYDANUS rejoices, and hovers through the Elysian fields, where he, in the bloom of an eternal youth, lives, and looks down upon human striving below him.
Joh. Bueker, Student in Sacred Letters.

[1] Translation of my own into Dutch (prose).



ACADEMIA PLORANS,
sive Epicedia
in luctuosissimum ac beatissimum obitum
Clarissimi, Acutissimi Experientissimique Viri,
D. JOANNIS GREYDANI,
A.L.M. Philosophiæ & Medicinæ Doctoris, & illius Facultatis in alma Frisiorum Academia (dum fata sivêre) Professoris Primarii.

QUI
Iammodo transgressus est tenorem humanæ virtutis, ut numen in[illegible]et, Ærâ Christi 1668 die 4. Iunii: terræ mandatus 12. ejusdem currentis.

FRANEKERÆ
Excudit JOHANNES WEL[illegible]ENS, Illustrium Frisiæ Ord. & eorundem Acad. Typ. Ordinarius. 1668.

Title page of a Collection of songs on the death on 4 June 1668 of Prof. Joannis Greydanus (see page 138) (actual size).

(Latin) Another.

What evil rumour has dashed down the chairs of Pallas, and made the rejoicing Goddess grieve?
Why does the Academy, which just now resounded with joyful applause, mourn, and think that it has utterly perished?
Indeed he has fallen, whom the later age will admire, and to whom the present age has given no equal;
he whose learning honoured the house of Apollo, and who had passed headlong through all the degrees, lies buried in the earth; hence the school is in mourning,
and the torches of sorrowing Pallas stand without light.
For whatever wisdom Greek antiquity could possess; or whatever later ages teach;
whatever the shrewd Persian once knew, and Egyptian Canopus, and the kingdoms lying under the western skies;
and whatever the Syracusan, or Tycho, the greatest glory of the Danes, set down in books that endure;
what the terse page of the old man of Cos teaches, what the ample page of Galen; what lay hidden from physicians and philosophers:
GREYDANUS enclosed it all within his learned breast;
all of it falls away with the perishing of GREYDANUS.
I am mistaken, for his lifeless body is laid away beneath the weight of the earth, but his mind, restored to life, remains for ever.

It rises above the heavens to behold God face to face, and rejoices to have abandoned the dwelling of envy.
Fame, penetrating to the furthest recesses of the world,
never allows such great names to die.
C. Schellinger
Student of Sacred Theology.

(Latin) To the Same.

Behold, past is the day on which they would sing worthy songs of triumph for Frencelius, who holds the arms of his sceptre.
But what will please at its first rising swiftly perishes, as a splendid rose falls in its tender bloom.
And because nothing is lasting, death is heaped upon death,
and new mourning follows sad fates, when blazing thunderbolts strike our lands with the death of a most excellent man who deserved to live long.
He had tasted the use of life with the very tips of his lips, and had steeped his mind in the Pierian nectar;
from his tender years he had trodden the Aonian Muses, and it always pleased him to keep his hands busy.
He never ceased to search out the precepts of great Plato, and the learned doctrines of Aristotle.
He has fallen, alas! the Leader of Wisdom and the most noble Light, who had been the hope and the ornament of his native land.
Alas! how much praise his native land has lost with him, and how much the honourable band of youth has lost.
Ah! why was it not granted you to live with us long days, such as those of Nestor, as you deserved.
It pleases me to remember, and often to call up again, the words which you brought forth from your breast to oblige others.
It is a heavy loss, repairable by no art,
now that death withdraws you from our eyes.
While the world, as far as it extends, stands stricken with its peoples, they bring their own sighs to your tomb.
But for you there remains an established honour, and for the Muses there endures no slight glory, and the Pierian ornament.
A learned throng adorned you with praises while you lived, and after your death your fame will be everlasting.
To my teacher
I, sorrowing, set this up Atso Inia, Ph. St. Docc. Fris.

Another (dirge).

What sad tiding has overturned the seat of Pallas, and made the joyful Goddess deeply sorrowful? Why does the Academy mourn, which just now made joyful cheering to be heard, and why does it think that it has altogether perished? Because there lies dead the man whom later times will admire, whose equal the present has not given, whose learning honoured the dwelling of Apollo, and who had gone through all the degrees with lightning speed; he now lies buried in the earth. And therefore the school is in mourning, and the torches of Pallas stand sorrowful and without light. Whatever wisdom Greek antiquity could possess, or whatever later times teach, and whatever the shrewd Persian formerly knew, and the Egyptian Canopus[1] and the /king/doms which lie under the western skies, and what the Syracusan (Archimedes) or the very great Tycho, the greatest glory of the Danes, set down in books that endure, what secrets the page (the book) of the old man of Kos (Hippocrates) and what the book of Galenus has extensively taught, what remained hidden from physicians and philosophers: all of it GREYDANUS enclosed within his learned breast; all of it falls away with the perishing of GREYDANUS. I am mistaken, for his motionless body is laid away beneath the earth, but his spirit, which came to life again, remains for ever. It is raised above the world in order to behold God in person, and rejoices to have abandoned the dwelling of envy. Fame, by penetrating to the furthest hiding-places of the world, will never allow such great names to die.

C. Schellinger
Student of Sacred Theology.[2]

To the Same.

Past is the day on which one would sing worthy songs of triumph for Frencelius, who holds the arms of his sceptre[3]. But what will please at its first rising swiftly perishes, just as a splendid rose falls away in its tender blooming. And because nothing is lasting, death is heaped upon death, and new mourning follows sad fortunes, when flaming lightning-bolts strike our lands with the death of a most excellent man, who deserved to live long. He had enjoyed the use of life with the very tips of his lips, and had steeped his spirit in the Pierian nectar, and from his young years had visited the Boeotian Muses. It always pleased him to keep his hands busy. He never ceased to search out the precepts of the great Plato and the learned propositions of Aristotle. He has fallen, alas, the Leader of Wisdom, and the noble Light, who had been the hope and the ornament of his native land. Alas, how much glory his native land has lost with him, and how much glory the honourable throng of young men has lost. Alas, why might it not be that you lived long years with us, such as those of Nestor, as you deserved. It gives me pleasure to remember and often to call up again the words which you, in order to render others a service, brought forth from your breast. It is a heavy loss, to be repaired by no means, now that death has withdrawn you from our eyes. While the earth, as far as it extends, stands crushed with its peoples, they bring their sighs in person to your grave-mound. But for you there remains a well-established honour, and for the Muses there endures for many years a not inconsiderable glory and the Pierian ornament. A learned multitude adorned you with praise during your life.

[1] Canopus (Canobus) was at that time a considerable town situated in the Nile delta, with a temple of Serapis in which cures took place.

[2] Probably Cornelis Schellinger, later the minister married to Idske Beilanus, from 1672—1683 at Ameland and from 1683—1718 at Winsum.

[3] There are errors in the Latin text of this sentence.

Manes Ejusdem.

(Latin)
Recently we all came down to the praise of Hippocrates, and joyfully gave the insignia of the Rectorate to a physician;
but now we mourn at the urn of another physician, and lament the fate of a keen-witted philosopher:
and the divine Grynaeus grieves for a pupil snatched away, and the Tritonian maiden weeps for her worshipper;
nor does Urania restrain the tears that have welled up, but weeps for the learned astronomer who knew the stars of heaven:
behold, the throng of the divine Plato laments, and the company of Cartesius, and the youth devoted to Stagira:
and our Academy carries before it the deadly yews:
and Frisia herself walks forward in a mourning robe.
I too would wish to pour forth sad dirges;
but the use of my tongue and my pen is barred to me;
sorrowing I am hindered; my voice sticks in the middle of my throat.
Set up for his teacher
Hobbo Schotanus
à Sterringa, F.F.

In obitum ejusdem.

(Latin)
I, who recounted the august processions of Pallas at the change of the President, and the wishes that were to be brought to the new Father;
when the noble offspring of the famous Galenus provided matter for plucking the strings of the joyful lyre; behold, now I touch another lyre, now a sadder time is at hand, and all joys rush into mourning, while the bright honour of Hippocrates and the highest glory of Minerva flees the pale dwellings of envy.
Just as a sheepfold is thrown into confusion when its master is lost, if a wolf rushes in, tearing with swift claw:
so we too, in anxiety, are tossed about by the same mishap, while an unexpected fate rages against the dwelling of Wisdom.

While there falls before the hearths of Lethe he whose equal few ages will see, and no times have seen.
Whom Medicine boasts as hers, whom the divine Mathesis boasts as her own, and whom Phoebus claims to be his leader.
It was not to be, that this light, the herald of a twofold disaster, should shine upon the peoples with its flame-bearing horses.
But thus the fates alternate in turn: thus joys go before mourning, and the body does not remain without end.
Sorrowing, he set this for his teacher of pious memory
N. Alma, Phil. Stud.

In Manes ejusdem.

(Latin)

When once hearts were terrified by great grief
And your fame after your death will be imperishable.
To my teacher
I have composed this in sorrow.
Atze Inia, Student of Philosophy,
a Frisian of Dokkum.[1]

The Shade of the Same.

Recently we all came to the praise of Hippocrates, and joyfully gave the insignia of the Rectorate to a physician[2]. Now we mourn at the grave of another physician, and lament the fate of a philosopher and keen-witted man. And the divine Grynaeus (Apollo) laments a pupil who has been snatched away, and the Tritonian Maiden (Pallas Athene) mourns her worshipper. And Urania too does not refrain from the tears that welled up, to weep for the learned Astronomer, who knew the stars of heaven. See, the company of the divine Plato laments, and the following of Cartesius, and the young men devoted to Stagira (Aristotle). And our Academy carries before it the yew staves belonging to death. And Friesland herself walks forward in a long, hanging mourning robe. I myself too would wish to bring forth sad funeral songs. But the use of my tongue and pen is hindered. Sorrowing, I am prevented; my voice sticks in the middle of my throat.

Composed for his teacher by Hobbo Schotanus
à Sterringa, son of F.[3]

On the death of the same.

I, who recounted the splendid procession of Pallas at the change of the Præses[4], and the wishes that were to be brought to the new Father, when the noble offspring of the famous Galenus had provided material for plucking the strings of the joyful lyre. See, now I play another lyre, now there is a gloomier time, and all joy quickly turns into mourning, while the shining honour of Hippocrates and the very high glory of Minerva flee the pale house of envy. Just as a sheepfold also falls into confusion when it has lost its shepherd, when a wolf runs in there with swift claw and tears it apart, so we too are scattered in disquiet by one and the same mishap, while an unexpected decree of fate penetrates destructively into the dwelling of Wisdom; while before the hearth of death there falls: he, whose equal few centuries will see, and no times have seen. Whom medical science exalts as its own, and whom the divine Mathesis (boasts) as her own, and whom Phoebus claims for himself as being a leader. It was not to be, that this light, the herald of a twofold disaster, should shine upon the peoples with its flame-bearing horses. But thus the fortunes alternate in turn. Thus joy goes before mourning, and the body does not remain endlessly.

Sorrowing, he composed this for his teacher of blessed memory
N. Alma, Student of Philosophy.[5]

On the Shade of the same.

When once the hearts were terrified by great were terrified by great grief, and were beating their breasts with mournful palms, and in their hearts wept for the sad fate of our Iacobus, nimble in matters of secrets and most knowing:
but at last Titan, glowing red, arose from the deep with better promise, when, with a great throng of young men accompanying, for the Father taking up the worthy office of the Rectorship, we prayed with our vows for prosperity and much welfare:

but because nothing fixed or constant endures in the world, and fortune now remains glad, now assumes a bitter countenance, and fickle chance oppresses various men while it advances others:
GREYDANUS, mighty in the acuity of a wise mind, has died by a swift fate — he who was fully taught in the ancient discoveries of the wise, and had tasted the honourable arts, and with the genius of his mind had searched out the stars and the airy dwellings, and the spheres of the revolving heaven!
Moreover he was able to lay open the hidden powers of nature and to investigate her ways and the hidden causes.
But at last the bright light of the School has been snatched from us, and the new torch that was to shine through the broad regions of the world.
Alas, hateful death! What unworthy cause compelled it to snatch away by cruel death a noble master, to whose grave-mound we dedicate the highest honours,
and with the present song testify our heavy grief:
Divine mind of man, farewell! We with resigned steps shall follow, when the moments of our brief life are spent.
H. Postma. Docc. Fris.
Phil. Stud.

---

[1] Probably the minister at Suawoude from 1676—1691, who later married Cornelia Augustini van Rischinga.

[2] This was Joachimus Frencelius, Professor of Medicine and Anatomy, who a few days earlier, on 3 June 1668, became Rector Magnificus (see note 2 page 131).

[3] Son of F. will probably have to be son of C., namely of the well-known historian Christ. Schotanus à Sterringa. This son, born in 1647, was later promoted to J. U. D^{r}..

[4] This apparently refers to the Rector Magnificus, who changed about June (see note 2 page 131).

[5] Probably the later minister, from 1676—1683 at Rauwerd, from 1683—1701 at Oosterlittens and from 1701—1727 at Bolsward. This minister was first married to Catharina Melchior Zingel, and later to Grietje Sijmens, widow of the Schout bij Nacht (rear admiral) Hidde Sioerdts de Vries.

To the Same.

(Latin)

What shall I complain of? Alas, that the raging darts of death have had such power, and have not kept away from the holy gowns!
Whither do you lead him? Or what cruel ruin will envelop your people, now that a great pledge has been taken away.
Because you keep us all too unhappy in life, and our days bereft of the honour of the extinguished light.
Acknowledge, Jehovah, the lost pillar and our groaning, may you yourself behold the hands lifted up.
Learn, renowned city, that in him you lack a citizen, a rare one, such as the Council seldom sees or honours with deserved honour.
Lay aside, Academy, your glad staves in a mournful procession, and, widowed, learn the force of your misfortune.
You who lately shone venerable with uplifted countenance, now, wounded, are scarcely seen in a doubtful light.
And you who alone before made peoples happy with your salutary aid, now yourself perish of a sad wound.
He has fallen, alas! And the honour and the hope of the medical name had set great expectations upon that head, and it has failed them.
He lies here, than whom no one was happier in distinguishing tender herbs with a sure hand, or more learned in the art.
He in whom piety had shaped courage, exalted modesty good manners, learning eloquence — behold, he lies!
Yet look upon us, cast down, brought to the utmost extremity, and restore us whole again, kindly Father, you who can; but you, Pierides, who are to perform the funeral rites, fix this tearful song upon this grave-mound.

F. Gellius
Leov. Fris. Phil. Stud.

grief and men beat their breasts with mournful hands and in their hearts wept for the sad fate of our Jacobus, who was nimble in matters of secrets and most learned, at last a rosy Titon arose out of the sea with a better expectation, when we, with a great throng of young men who accompanied him and desired the worthy office of the Rectorship for their father, wished him much happiness in our prayers and much welfare. But because nothing is firm and endures steadfast in the world, and fate now remains glad, then again assumes a bitter countenance, and, inconstant, oppresses various men and advances others: GREYDANUS, mighty through the acuity of a wise mind, has died by a swift fate — he — who was fully learned in what the wise had found of old, and had tasted the honourable arts, and with his understanding and mind had searched out the stars and the regions of the heaven and the spheres of the revolving heaven. Moreover he was able to set forth the hidden powers of nature and to investigate her ways and the hidden causes. But at last this bright light of the School has been snatched from us and the new torch that was to shine through far-flung regions of the world. Alas, hated death! What unworthy cause has compelled the snatching away of a noble master by a cruel death, at whose grave-mound we dedicate the highest honour and by this song testify our heavy grief. Divine mind of man, farewell! We shall with resigned steps follow, when the moments of the short life have been lived through.
H. Postma. A Frisian of Dokkum, student of Philosophy.[1]

On the Same.

What shall I complain of? Alas, that the raging arrows of death have had such power and have not kept away from the holy gown. Whither do You lead him? Or what terrible disaster will strike your people through the taking away of a great pledge? Because You spare us all too unhappily in life and rob our days of the honour of the extinguished light. Acknowledge, Lord, that a pillar of support is lost, and acknowledge our sighing. May You behold the hands lifted up to You. Learn, renowned city, that in him a citizen is lacking to you, such as the Town Hall seldom sees, and whom it rightly honours. Lay aside, Academy, your glad staves in a sombre procession, and learn as a widow the greatness of your disaster. You who lately shone venerable with uplifted countenance, you are now, wounded, scarcely seen in a doubtful light. And you who alone before made multitudes happy with your salutary aid, now yourself perish of a sad wound. He has fallen, alas! And the honour and the hope of the medical name had set great sums upon that head. No one was happier than he in having distinguished the tender herbs with a sure hand, or more learned in his profession. Now — there he lies. He to whom piety had brought courage, exalted modesty good manners, learning eloquence, behold, there he now lies. Yet look down upon us, cast down and brought to the utmost, and raise us up again completely, beneficent Father, Who can do that. But you, Muses, who wish to perform the funeral rites, lay this dirge upon the grave-mound.

F. Gellius
A Frisian of Leeuwarden[2] Student of Philosophy.[3]

---

[1] Probably the later minister Haring Postma, who married Hittie Rypama (of the village of Oostrum), at Paesens from 1672—1685.

[2] He was probably born at Wirdum (near Leeuwarden), where his father was minister.

[3] Probably the later minister Foppo Gellius, from 1674—1689 at Wirdum, from 1689—1702 at Hallum, and from 1702—1708 at Doccum.

[the upper part of the page is set in two parallel columns, the Latin poems on the left, the Dutch translations on the right; the left column is transcribed first.]

(Latin) To the same.

Ah! he departs and dies, the bright light of the Frisian School, GREYDANUS, the noble bulwark of Wisdom.
Everyone suffers his own loss from such a death, and the flourishing throng laments its own lot.
Ah, day of misfortune and disaster! and Atropos, so hateful to the Muses, cutting the threads with her hostile thumb.
Ah, the youth complains and, mourning in its heart, bewails its losses, and scatters speechless sounds towards the stars.
That day, that day of groaning, and faithless to the Muses, on which the excellent, gleaming gem of Wisdom fell.
Alas, when I turn over in my heart the death of GREYDANUS, then too a tear slips from my eyes.
And also, who would not weep at the sad death of a most excellent Doctor and a Philosopher.
But what does it help to weep and to vex the breast with sighing;
one rest and their own fate await all.
For death holds the sceptre that is common to the whole world;

the black night calls all things under its laws.
His writings keep his mind, his venerable face is in bronze, his spirit dwells in the stars, the rest will belong to death.

Not as he wished, but as he was able, this was poured forth by
A. Kaldenbach
Student of Philosophy, a Frisian of Franeker.

(Latin) To the same.

Weep, pious Muses, and rouse laments with beating of the breast, and let the youth be free of gladness; already the dreadful cypress darkens the June suns with its funereal covering.
GREIDANUS dies, the ornament and the summit of Wisdom, and he hides his days of life through the advancing fates;
O swift destruction! whose Violence never allows the celebrated to shine forth with lasting fame.
I am mistaken, for the better part, surviving after the grave, enjoys in heaven the happy airs of the Gods;
the other part, entrusted to fame, resounds through the mouths of the common people and, exalted, flourishes under the favour of Phoebus.
Yet weep, Muses, weep for your own misfortunes;
Philosophy bewails her own, and, bereft of her father, lays aside the splendour of Phoebus for a mourning robe.
Theodorus ab Altena, of Harlingen.

For the same.

Ah, he has gone away and died, the bright light of the Frisian School, GREYDANUS, the noble protector of Wisdom. Everyone suffers his own loss as a result of such a death, and the flourishing throng laments its own lot. O days of misfortune and disaster, and Atropos, so hated by the Muses, and who with her hostile thumb cuts /his life's/thread. Ah, the youth complains and, sad at heart, bewails its loss, and sends speechless sounds upwards. That day, that day of sighing and which is faithless to the Muses, on which that excellent, shining gem of Wisdom was cast down. Ah, when I ponder in my heart the death of GREYDANUS, then a tear too falls from my eyes. And who indeed would not weep for so sad a death of a man, (who) (was) a most excellent Doctor and Philosopher. But what does it help to weep and to vex one's breast with sighing. One rest and his own fate await all. For death holds the dominion that is common to the whole world. The black night of death calls all things under its laws. The writings preserve the mind, the face you shall revere in metal, the spirit inhabits the realm of the stars, the rest will belong to death.

Not as he wished, but as he was able, this was brought forth by
A. Kaldenbach
Student in Philosophy, a Frisian of Franeker.[1]

For the same.

Weep, pious Muses, and rouse laments by beating your breast. And let the youth be free of joy. Already the dreadful Cypress darkens the June sunbeams with its roof belonging to death. GREIDANUS dies, the ornament and the crown of Wisdom, and he hides his days of life through the advancing fate. O swift destruction of death, whose Violence never allows that celebrated men should begin to shine with a lasting fame. I am mistaken, for the best part, which continues to live after the grave, enjoys in heaven the happy atmosphere of the Gods. The other part, given over into the mouth of the common people, resounds on and stands in high esteem, under the favour of Phoebus. But weep, Muses, cry out your misfortune aloud. Philosophy bewails her own, and, bereft of her father, lays aside the splendour of Phoebus for the mourning robe.

Theodorus van Altena. Of Harlingen.

To the Same.

I am wholly saddened/ entirely bereft of judgement/as if a heavy blow had cleft my heart:
An unexpected sound of deadly death-rattles has rung into my ears with great terror/
My spirit stands astonished/ as though fallen into a swoon/and utterly shattered by the dismal sound;

My senses are startled, since they frightened me/
My covered face is constantly turned to the ground/now such a bright Radiance, and Light of our time vanishes/ is darkened/ and breathes out his Life.
It was Greydanus*/ whose Spirit floated through all the world/* and whatever lived in the wood or in the water/he searched out very closely/ with uncommon delight/and at last kissed the summit of knowledge.
Truly/ he was a man in whom wisdom played/and a highly famed understanding/ that bred many arts/
He had the firm ground/ and the Greek Foundation of Aristotle imprinted in his head;
yet not as a number of perverse minds forge it/

[1] Arnold Kaldenbach, son of D[r]. Gerhard Kaldenbach, Secretary and Librarian of the Franeker Academy, later Burgomaster and Secretary at Franeker, and Yda Verhel. He took his degree as Doctor of Philosophy on 29 Sept. 1670 and was in Febr. 1675 praelector at the Academy; before January 1684 he had already died.

> Which has never been heard, or is contrary to reason:
> But what he had tested with his own eye's light,
> Which God from the beginning has founded in man;
> What Nature herself wished to keep back from Cartesius
> And had not been discovered in so many hundred years,
> That he traced out with unheard-of diligence,
> Sparing no expense, nor any trouble or time,
> What seemed hidden, that he opened up,
> With unflagging courage and at various times,
> But at last brought it out of the hidden cave,
> And filled all his writings everywhere therewith.
> He was not disturbed by those who came to mock what was his,
> But sought with a silent mouth to quell the discord.
> Glad was our School, which had such a master,
> Who brought the straying Youth onto the right path.
> His voice was not too loud, but the force of ripe words,
> Like a piercing arrow, was heard in his lecture room,
> Besides that he also tasted the art of Medicine
> And the honour of Doctor, and did many a kindness;
> He left no gardens untouched, nor any herbs remaining,
> From which he did not draw power to drive away diseases.
> But alas! It is vanity, all that Art comprehends,
> And what Nature gives, because the healing herb > Denied help to its own Master and does not let him live,
> So that he might give more fruits for our use
> Of his ingenious brain and eloquent understanding,
> Which is not consumed, but chooses a higher Land,
> Where the knowledge of the Wise shall come to nothing,
> And through exchange a better shall arise.
> But when I consider the misfortune and pain,
> Which now, sorrowful Lady, makes your heart sink:
> I see, truly, I see your distress and sad suffering,
> Which constantly torment and assail your grieved spirit
> Because your Other Half, your dearest pledge > Has, by the parting of the soul, been torn out of your hand.
> It is true, you miss your Crown, but not the Lord's blessing,
> Which can weigh a rich comfort against the sorrow,
> He can, according to His will, soften with happiness
> The adversity and affliction which now befalls you.
> Gods eternal decree no one can resist,
> But all together must tremble before His laws.
> And so be not faint and too greatly distressed,
> Nor carried away by too great mourning and grief:
> But pray the Lord for help and comfort in the solitary life,
> He who is a protector of Widows shall give it.
> (Latin) In sorrow he set this up for his teacher

> Jacobus Bleck,
> Student of Medicine, a Frisian of Franeker.

The poem included on page 190 by: Sixtus Wiersma.

This collection of funeral poems, in which Prof. Greydanus is commemorated not only as a philosopher and astronomer but also particularly as a physician, has raised with me the question whether his death at such a young age may possibly have been due to some fatal accident. According to the title of the collection Prof. Greydanus was buried 12 June 1668. Concerning the place where he was laid to rest no data could be traced. It seems probable that this took place at Franeker, and indeed either in the Academiekerk, a small church building which at that time belonged to the University, or in the Martinikerk.

Various epitaphs present in the Academiekerk and in the Martinikerk at Franeker are given on pages 503 to 533 of H. L. Benthem, "Holländischer Kirch- und Schulen-Staat", Franckfurt und Leipzig, 1698, and in N^{os} 1, 2 and 7 of the paper "De Friesche Adelaar".

An epitaph concerning Prof. Greydanus does not, however, occur among them, nor in N^{o} 1338 of the Telting-Register, described as "Register of the graves in the church", which nevertheless cannot lay claim to that description, since it consists merely of a small quire of paper, later supplemented probably by Mr. Heerke Wenning, the Editor of the paper just mentioned.

All this, however, does not yet exclude that Prof. Greydanus was nevertheless buried, for instance, in the Martinikerk at Franeker, for, as Mr. Heerke Wenning already wrote in his paper in 1891, many gravestones in this church are hidden from view by a wooden floor.

During his eight years in office (from 10 June 1660 to 5 June 1668) Prof. Greydanus acted as promotor at the following doctoral promotions:

1 July 1661. Olaus Nicolai Fielkius (of Danish nationality).

Concerning this promotion the following is recorded in the "Diarium Actorum":

[the two following quotations are printed side by side, the Latin original in the left column and the Dutch translation in the right column.]

> (Latin) "The most excellent, most subtle and most learned Mr. Olaus Nicolai Fielkius, of Danish nationality, Master of the Liberal Arts, was, through the most illustrious, most capable and most acute man Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine and of Philosophy and with us ordinary Professor of Philosophy (all the most illustrious Messrs. Professors being present, with the Exception of Mr. Johan Valkenier, Mr. C. Schotana and Mr. P. Matheo), proclaimed with the full votes of the Professors present, and at the same time he was congratulated by all. Done in the senate hall of the academy."
>
> [1] The most Excellent and most Discerning and Learned Mr. Olaus Nicolai Fielkius of Danish nationality has, through the most Illustrious and Knowledgeable and acute man Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Doctor of Medicine and of Philosophy and with us ordinary Professor of Philosophy (all the most Illustrious Messrs. Professors being present, with the Exception of Mr. Johan Valkenier, and Mr. C. Schotanus and Mr. P. Matheus), been promoted with all the votes of the Professors present to Master of the Liberal Arts, and at the same time he was congratulated by all. Done in the Senate hall.

25 March 1664. Guido Fanois (Phanois) Gallus;

21 April 1664. Abram (Abrahamus) Steindam, Leovard. Frisius, who on the 29th following was appointed Professor of Philosophy at Franeker;

21 November 1664. Joh^{s} Schotanus à Sterringa;

22 April 1666. Ailko Crùmminga, a Frisian from Embden.

Of the lectures given by Prof. Greydanus 2 sets of dictated notes have been preserved and are now the property of the Friesch Genootschap at Leeuwarden.

The one set of notes is from the year 1660, by the student Atzone Nicolaïdes [2], and the other from the year 1662, by the student Guljelmus Siccama. The titles of these notes are as follows:

[the titles are printed side by side, the Latin originals in the left column and the Dutch translations in the right column.]

(Latin) "Lectures in PHYSICS in a private College Dictated by IOANNE GREYDANO Master of the Liberal Arts, Doctor of Philosophy and of Medicine & ordinary Professor of Philosophy Written down at Franeker by Atzone Nicolaides." student of the Arts. 1660.	Dictated by IOANNES GREYDANUS Master of the Liberal Arts, Doctor of Philosophy and of Medicine and ordinary Professor of Philosophy Written down at Franeker by Atze Nicolaides Student of the Liberal Arts. 1660.
[1] Lectures in PHYSICS at a private College	(Latin) "Dictations On the synopsis of the Logic of Burgersdijk in notes and examples of the most learned, most illustrious lord IOANNE GREIDANO, Master of the Liberal Arts and most erudite Professor of Philosophy and most experienced doctor of medicine.

Guljelmus Siccama
In the year 1662"
Dictations, on the "Synopsis of Logic" of Burgersdijk
in notes and examples of the most Learned, Illustrious Lord

IOANNES GREIDANUS, Master of the Liberal Arts and most learned Professor of Philosophy and most expert doctor of medicine.
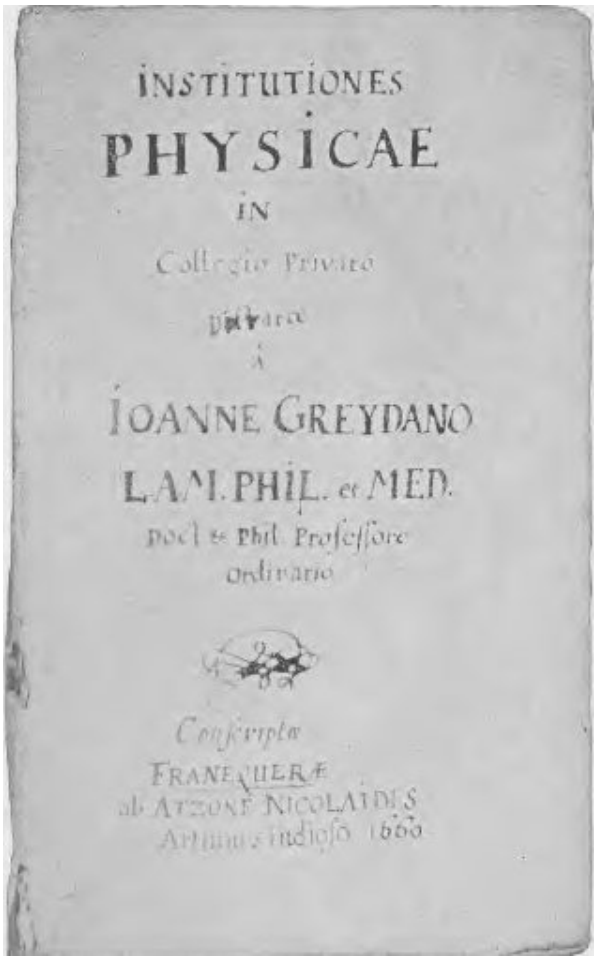
Willem Siccama
In the year 1662.

A reproduction of both title pages is added alongside.

On page 179 these dictated notes will be briefly returned to.

[1] My own translation into Dutch.

[2] Presumably the later minister, from 1664—1670 at Nes and Wierum, and from 1670—1701 at Drogeham.



INSTITUTIONES
PHYSICAE
IN Collegio Privato
DICTATAE
A IOANNE GREYDANO
L.A.M. PHIL. et MED.
Doct. et Phil. Professore
Ordinario
Conscriptae
FRANEQUERAE
ab ATZONE NICOLAIDIS
Artium studioso 1660

Title pages of two sets of lecture notes of the college given by Prof. Ioannes Greydanus; the one set of notes is from the year 1660 by the student Atze Nicolaides and the other from the year 1662 by the student Willem Siccama (much reduced).

IDEÆ LOGICÆ
NOVANTIQUÆ
Diatypoſis,
Generalia benè cognoſcendi, retinendi, reſolvendi, judicandi ac docendi præcepta ſummâ brevitate exhibens, AUTORE, JOHANNE GREYDANO.
INDEO FRANEKERÆ,
Sumptibus JOH. ARCERII Bibliopolæ.

Institutiones

PHYSICÆ,

LIBRIS UNDECEM

Abſoluta

AUCTORE

JOHANNE GREYDANO,

FRISIO.

Cum duplici Indice.

LEOWARDIÆ

Sumptibus Auctoris.

Excudit HENRICUS RINTJUS, Anno 1664

294 T. GUTBERLETHI

In Diſputationem Phyſicam

IARICHII ab OCKINGA.

QUi Phyſices rimetur opes, cæliq; meatus
Ac terræ immenſæ climata, rarus erit
Rarus Ariſtoteles, rarus Zenonis alumnus
Pierii cathedram ſedulitate premit.
Ne tamen hic vanis campus ſterileſcat aveniis,
Lappisve & tribulis ſordeat ager:
En Ockingan ſtirpis germana propago
Greydano magno Præſide ſtudia quæſit;
Naturæque vices varias eventilat arte,
Et ratâ ingenii dexteritate ſui.
Macte probo Juvenis ſtudio generoſe, polita Scande frequens poſthac pulpita; Magnus eris.

152) "Institutiones Physicæ" of 1664 (reduced). Below: A part of page 294 from the Collection of Latin Poems "Poëmata pleraque posthuma" by Tobias Gutberleth, printed in 1667, with the poem in which mention is made of "the Great Greydanus" presides (see page 172) (actual size).

According to the sources to be mentioned hereafter, Prof. Greydanus is said to have written the 3 following booklets:

Idea Logicae Nov. antiquae. Franeq. 1659. 12°;

Institutiones Metaphysicae. Franeq. 1660. 12°;

Institutiones Physicae. Leov. 1664. 8°.

Of these 3 booklets a copy of the first-named and of the last-named is in my possession; nowhere else — wherever it might be — have I been able to discover another copy, so that these are in all probability the only copies which still exist today of the little works written by Prof. Greydanus. The booklet named in the 2nd place was indeed present in the University Library at Leuven, where during the occupation of Belgium by the Germans it was lost, together with all the other books, in the fire of 25 August 1914, while the booklet named in the last place, according to the "Catalogus Universalis cum pretiis de Boek-negotie" compiled by Abraham Ferwerda and published by A. Ferwerda and G. Tresling (see page 305 of the 7th part of the 1st Volume, Containing the Latin Books in Octavo Letter D—G), was sold in 1768 at a public auction for 3 stuivers.

The title page, of which a reproduction accompanies this, of the first-named booklet, which, like the other, is drawn up entirely in Latin, and to which my own translation into Dutch has been added, reads as follows:

"Ideæ	Outline of the essence of the Old
LOGICÆ	LOGIC
Novantiquæ	in a new arrangement
Diatyposis	setting forth in very concise form
Generalia benè cognoscendi,	the general precepts for coming to know well, retinendi, resolvendi, judi-	for retaining, for resolving,
candi ac docendi præcepta sum-	for judging and for teaching
mâ brevitate exhibens,	by the Author
Autore,	Johannes Greydanus
Johanne Greydano
Franekeræ	Franeker
Sumptibus Joh. Arcerii	Published by Joh. Arcerius
Bibliopolæ."	Bookseller.

On the reverse side of the title page there follows:

"Augustinus, Epist. 7.	Augustinus, Letter 7.
Ego fateor, me ex eorum numero esse conari, qui proficiendo scribunt, & scribendo proficiunt, unde si aliquid vel incautius, vel indoctius positum est à me, quod non solum ab aliis, qui id videre possunt, meritò reprehensum, verùm etiam ipso, nec mirandum est, nec dolendum. Nam nimis impense se amat, qui alios vult errare, ut error suus lateat."	I acknowledge, yet I strive to belong to the number of those who, while making progress, write, and while writing, make progress; wherefore one should neither be surprised at, nor grieve over it, when something has been set down by me less carefully, or less learnedly, which has rightly been censured not only by others, who are able to see it, but also by myself. For he loves himself all too dearly who wishes others to err, so that his own error may remain hidden.

Thereafter comes the following dedication:

"DEDICATIO	DEDICATION
Nobiliss. Ampliss. ac præpoten-	to the most Noble, most Eminent and tibus Viris, D.D. Illustrium	most Mighty Men, the Lords Deputies
Frisiæ Ordinum	of the Illustrious States
Deputatis,	of Friesland
D. Dominico ab Aylva.	The Honourable Dominicus van Aylva
D. Carolo à Roorda.	The Honourable Carolus van Roorda
D. Onniæ à Groustins.	The Honourable Onnias van Grovestins
D. Elconi à Glinstra.	The Honourable Elco van Glinstra
D. Jacobo Bouritio.	The Honourable Jacobus Bouritius
D. Danieli de Blocq	The Honourable Daniel de Blocq
à Scheltinga.	of Scheltinga
D. Cornelio Haubois.	The Honourable Cornelius Haubois
D. Ewoldo Steensma.	The Honourable Ewoldus Steensma
D. Frederico ab Inthiema.	The Honourable Fredericus van Inthiema
Eorumque Fidissimo à Secretis,	and Their most Faithful Secretary
D. Ahasvero Vierssen,	The Honourable Ahasverus Vierssen
Dominis meis Gratiosissimis.	to my most Gracious Lords

[the page prints the Latin text and its Dutch translation in two parallel columns; the left column is given first.]

(Latin)

Most Distinguished, Most Powerful Lords,

That the world is rushing towards the worse is a common complaint frequently uttered by the mouth of the ordinary crowd, and that it slides down to its ruin by a certain common and continuous course; so much so that whatever is done or happens in our own age has degenerated by many leagues from the deeds of former times, from the ages of our forefathers, and therefore can in no way be set on a level with them, much less be preferred to them. That the kindliness of Heaven is not the same, nor the fertility of the Earth, nor the firmness of Plants and Animals, nor the health and length of life of men, as that which flourished of old, is so deeply rooted an opinion of the crowd, that the club could more easily be wrested from the hand of Hercules than that opinion from the mind of the people. But how truly, and how agreeably to Nature herself, this is asserted, we shall examine, God willing, in "The Marvels of Nature". That in the Arts the case is indeed quite otherwise, anyone who weighs the matter in a fair balance notices without much trouble. For how many, how great and how useful Arts, wholly unknown to the craftsmen of the ancient age, has our own time, by the singular goodness of God, brought forth? And those which were in use among the ancient craftsmen now produce their works by a far easier and cheaper method, with greater certainty and with more eminent excellence, so that the works of the ancients compared with them seem mere displays of crudeness. And this is no wonder: constant attention, untiring labour — the nurslings of the desire for glory and riches — and likewise zeal and emulation, help the workmen, once they keep to the path already trodden flat and made level, to go further onward. There is added to this, that those most ingenious craftsmen, when they perceive that in one matter they surpass the ancients, boldly, and by a not unhappy daring, hope to be able to attain the same in all the rest; For if men had held this thought, that no one should judge that he could be more excellent than he who had been the best, those very men who are the best would not have been so, as Quintilian, Orat. 12, points out most excellently. And it seems that one need not hesitate to say that in those Arts which we in the Schools call the liberal Arts the case stands in like manner. For where the causes are alike, entirely the same effects must necessarily follow. But in our Scholastic affairs the way is prepared, and there are very many runners, who rouse a sufficient emulation, and beyond that one another mutually, arous—

Most Distinguished, Most Powerful Lords.

That the world is becoming worse and is going downhill is a general complaint frequently uttered by the mouth of the ordinary people, and that by a certain general and constant course it is sliding down to its ruin. So much so that everything that happens or occurs in our age is miles removed from and has degenerated from what happened formerly, in the ages of our forefathers, and therefore can in no way be set on a level with it, much less above it. That the kindliness of heaven is not the same, nor the fertility of the earth, nor the firmness of plants and animals, nor the health and length of life of men, as that which flourished of old, is so deeply rooted an opinion of the ordinary people, that the club could more easily be torn from the hand of Hercules than that opinion from the mind of the people. But how truly, and in agreement with nature herself, this is asserted, we shall, if God wills, examine in the work: "The Marvellous Things of Nature". That in the Arts the case is indeed quite otherwise, he who judges the matter fairly notices without much trouble. For how many, how great and how useful Arts, wholly unknown to the craftsmen of the ancient time, has our time brought forth, by the singular goodness of God? By their labour these put together the things which were in use among the craftsmen of antiquity now far more easily and cheaply, with greater certainty, with more excellent superiority, so that the works of the ancients compared (with them) seem mere tokens of crudeness. And this is no wonder: constant attention, untiring labour — nurslings of the desire for glory and treasure — and likewise zeal and emulation, help the workmen, when they keep to the footpath already trodden flat and made level, to go further onward. There is added to this, that those most ingenious craftsmen, when they notice that in one matter they surpass the ancients, boldly, and by a not unhappy daring, hope to be able to attain the same (also) in all the other matters. For if men had held that thought, that no one judged that he could be more excellent than he who had been the best, those very ones who are the best would not have been so, is what Quintilianus Orat. 12 points out most excellently. And it seems that one should not hesitate (to say) that in those Arts which we in the Schools call the liberal Arts, the case stands in like manner. For where the causes are alike, entirely the same effects must necessarily follow. But in our Scholastic affairs the way is prepared (and there are) very many runners, who rouse a sufficient emulation, and moreover one another mutually. And not only do the prizes and honours with which the practitioners of our Arts are adorned spur on to attention and to the due exertion of labour, but also the dignity of the objects and the excellence of the aim make that attention the more intent and that exertion the easier to bear. Who therefore could doubt that the perfection of the liberal arts in our age is greater than it was of old? Only that vain credulity could be a hindrance, that Antiquity is the rule and standard by which, as by a Lydian stone, our arts must be tested; (and) that nothing can now be said which had not previously been said better and more accurately by the ancients. As a result of which the craftsmen seem to grasp only at a shadow, since they do not consider the arts in an absolute way, as they are and ought to be, but deriving them from (Latin) rousing one another: And not only do the prizes and honours with which the practitioners of our Arts are distinguished spur men on to attention and to the labours that are due, but also the dignity of the objects and the excellence of the goal make that attention firmer and these labours more bearable. Who, therefore, could despair of a greater perfection of the liberal Arts in our age than that which existed in antiquity? Only this vain credulity could stand in the way: that Antiquity is the rule and norm against which, as against a Lydian stone, our arts must be tested; that nothing can now be said which has not been said before, better and more accurately, by the Ancients; whence the practitioners seem to grasp at a mere shadow, inasmuch as they do not consider the arts absolutely, as they are and ought to be, but derive them from the natural bent and from the writings of some ancient Author, which are less rich in ingenuity, embracing a cloud instead of Juno, and the image instead of the thing itself. That credulity, therefore, not only hinders further progress, but utterly destroys it. For just as the water of a spring does not rise higher than the head of the spring from which it is drawn, but continually flows downward, so the Arts that are derived from Authors will never climb above those Authors, but will perpetually descend and turn towards what is lesser. For no practitioner will produce a work more excellent than the rule set before him. In this respect, therefore, the Arts commonly called liberal might seem worse than the mechanical ones. But that there is a decay of the practitioners and not of the Arts, Lactantius, Book 2 of Divin. Instit. chap. 8, plainly, and not without reason, sets forth: God has given wisdom to all, to each according to his share, so that he might both search out that of which men have not yet heard, and carefully weigh what he has heard; nor, because they went before us in time, have they also surpassed us in wisdom, which, if it is given equally to all, cannot be taken possession of beforehand by those who go before. It is inviolable, like the light and brightness of the sun, because, as the sun is the light of the eyes, so wisdom is the light of the human heart. Wherefore, since to be wise, that is, to seek the truth, is inborn in all, those deprive themselves of wisdom who, without any judgement of their own, approve what was found by their forefathers, and are led by others after the manner of cattle. But in this they are deceived, that, once the name of the forefathers has been uttered, they do not think it possible either that they themselves should be wiser, because they are called the younger, or that those men should have been unwise, because they are named the elders. Thus far the natural bent and the writings, which are less rich in ingenuity, of some author of former times, they embrace the cloud instead of Juno, and the image instead of the thing itself. That credulity, therefore, does not merely hinder further progress, but destroys it altogether. For just as the water of a spring does not rise higher than the mouth of the spring from which it is drawn, but flows constantly downward, so the arts that have been derived from authors will never climb above those Authors, but will continually go down and turn towards what is lesser. For no artist will make a work that is more excellent than the rule set before him. In that respect, therefore, the arts commonly called liberal would seem worse, or less good, than the handicrafts. But Lactantius shows, Book 2 of Divin. Instit. chap. 8, plainly, and not without reason, that there is a decay of the artists, not of the arts. He writes: God has given wisdom to all, to each according to his share, so that he might both search out that of which men have not yet heard, and carefully weigh what he has heard. And because they have gone before us in time, they have not therefore surpassed us in wisdom. And although this is given equally to all, yet it cannot be taken possession of beforehand by those who go before. It is inviolable, just like the light and brightness of the sun, because, as the sun is the light of the eyes, so wisdom is the light of the human heart. Since the having of understanding, that is, the seeking of the truth, is inborn in all, those therefore deprive themselves of wisdom who, without any judgement, approve what was found by the forefathers, and are led by others like cattle. But in this they are mistaken, that they think it cannot happen, once the name of the forefathers has been uttered, either that they themselves are wiser, because they are called the younger, or that those men were unwise, because they are called the forebears. Thus far Lactantius.

I had long since come to cherish the same expectation concerning Logic, the noblest and most useful of the liberal Arts, namely that by a more faithful care, while persevering in the footsteps of those who went before, without despairing of the outcome, it could be made more perfect, and that it had not, as it has been handed down by men, already attained up to now the highest perfection. But this was mere expectation, until I began to compare those general precepts of Logic with the goal and to apply them, both by the living voice and in writing, to observing well, to judging, to impressing upon the memory, to discerning the sense of another man's writings, to passing judgement upon them, to communicating one's own thoughts to others, that is, to teaching (all of which is in every way required of Logic as the art of the mind in coming to know things). For there some things — which might also be my own dullness — could not satisfy me in all their parts, wherefore I now begin to trust that which I had previously believed, namely that this art or skill of ours can be taught in a more perfect order. And granted that I might find myself unequal to that burden, yet I thought that the attempt was to be praised, even though the strength were lacking. I therefore gird myself for the work, and set the precepts of Logic together in another order, which the requirements of the goal placed before my eyes. And that I compare with practice and with the use or convenience, both for the shaping of my own

Lactantius.

(Latin) I had long since conceived the same expectation concerning Logic, the noblest and most useful of the liberal Arts, namely that by a more faithful care, by treading in the footsteps of those before us, and by not despairing of the result, it could be rendered more perfect, and that it had not hitherto, as being handed down by men, already attained the highest perfection. But it was a mere expectation, until I began to compare those common precepts of Logic with their end, and to apply them to perceiving well, judging, retaining in the memory, discerning the sense of another's writings, passing a judgement upon them, communicating one's own thoughts to others, that is, to teaching, both by the living voice and in writings (all of which are altogether required of Logic, as the art of directing the mind in the knowledge of things). For there certain things — which might also be my own dullness — could not satisfy me in every part, whence what I had before hoped I now begin to trust, namely that this our Art or skill can be taught in a more perfect order. And although I should find myself unequal to that burden, yet I thought that the attempt should be praised, even though the strength were lacking. I therefore gird myself to the work, and set together the precepts of Logic themselves in another order, which the requirements of the end presented to me. And this I compare with practice, and with the very advantage of it, both for the forming of my own understanding and for the instruction of pupils, and I find that I profit very much thereby in both respects. Having done this, I resolve to bring these my thoughts upon the Art of Logic publicly to light, and to set them forth in this outline, so that what has seemed useful to me may be examined by others also, whether it is indeed such, or whether my conviction has deceived me; and lest, if it should appear genuine, I should seem to conceal it from my neighbours, contrary to Christian charity.

This, most Illustrious Lords, has been the reason of my undertaking and of this Idea of a Logic New-and-Old, which your Names persuade me to inscribe, and that I owe whatever this little work amounts to, besides other sufficiently weighty reasons, to your singular benevolence bestowed upon me, by which you granted me public Lectures and philosophical disputations in your gracious Academy; understanding as for the instruction of the pupils, and I become aware that I am thereby of very great profit on both sides. By that fact I resolve to bring these my thoughts on Logic openly to light, and to set them forth in this printed philosophical pamphlet, in order that what has seemed useful to me may also be examined by others, whether it is indeed such, or whether I have been mistaken in my conviction, and in order that, if it should prove genuine or substantial, I should not seem to hide it from my neighbours, contrary to the demand of Christian love.

This, most Illustrious Lords, has been the reason of my undertaking and the idea of this work on Logic in a new arrangement. And to dedicate it to You, and that I owe You all that this little work signifies, to this I am brought and of this I am convinced, besides other sufficiently weighty reasons, by Your special benevolence shown to me, whereby You have granted me public lectures and disputations in Philosophy at Your Academy, and which I esteem so highly that whatever fruit my small wit may be able to bring forth, I have resolved to lay down at Your seats of honour, in order to testify, but not fully to prove, my gratitude. For the rest I pray the Most Good and High God, with suppliant mind, to heap His benefits upon You and the Fatherland, and to protect that Fatherland against the violence and the machinations of the enemies, and to direct Your deliberations to the renewal of His Kingdom and to the eternal salvation of You all. Written at Franeker on the 9th of May 1659.

Most devotedly Bound in obedience to Your most Illustrious Governance

J. GREYDANUS, MASTER OF THE LIBERAL ARTS Doctor of Medicine and of Philosophy Public Lecturer.

(Latin) and which I esteem so highly that whatever fruit my small talent may be able to bring forth, I have resolved to lay it down at your seats of honour, for the sake of attesting, not of fully discharging, my gratitude. For the rest, I pray with suppliant mind to the Best and Greatest God, that He may heap His benefits upon You and upon the Fatherland, and that He may protect it against the violence and the machinations of the enemies, and may direct the counsels of you all, to the restoration of His Kingdom and to the eternal salvation of you all. Given at Franeker, on the Nones of May 1659.

To Your Most Illustrious Lordships
Most Devotedly Obedient
J. GREYDANUS, Master of the Liberal Arts, Doctor of Medicine and Public Lecturer in Philosophy."

Furthermore the booklet, which was thus written by Johannes Greydanus when he was still a private lecturer in Philosophy, consists of 130 pages.

The first four pages are taken up by the following "Praemonitio" (Preliminary reminder):

[the following two quotations are printed side by side in parallel columns, the Latin text at the left and the Dutch translation at the right.]

(Latin) "PRELIMINARY REMINDER.

Most kindly Reader! Through the complaints of many, not of the lowest sort of people, but also of men endowed with outstanding learning, beyond any risk of envy, it has long been spread abroad that an excellent and most highly necessary use and purpose of Logic is indeed promised, but that in the work itself it is entirely barren; since common Logic does not teach how properly to apply the means required for that purpose, nor do the means themselves appear at all sufficient, or lawfully distinguished according to their uses: inasmuch as all these seem to be directed only to this, that the writings of others may become known, and not that the pupil himself may acquire for himself the knowledge of things by the own powers of his understanding; and since it only shows the manner (albeit less distinctly) of communicating acquired knowledge to others, but falls short in the manner in which he himself, who is to communicate it, shall obtain it, and sets forth many other things confusedly and in no way proportioned to the purpose. Just as I myself also have very frequently found that these things are so, partly in the formation of my own understanding, partly also in the instruction of pupils. For which reason I began to think about a more suitable order, and about a restoration of the means that are lacking in Logic itself. Hence already early on I arranged the precepts of logic by one method after another, and compared those same precepts, thus disposed, with the purpose: but no order presented itself that was more suitable and more fit for attaining the purpose than that in which I set forth the whole of Logic for you in this outline. But conscious of my slenderness, I fear that perhaps my conviction, and the blind love of my own work, deceive me; wherefore I have resolved to bring these earlier thoughts, thrown onto paper with unpolished skill, into the light in public disputa-

PRELIMINARY REMINDER.

Most kindly Reader! Through the complaints of many, not of the lowest people, but also of men endowed, beyond danger of envy, with outstanding learning, it has long been spread abroad that indeed an excellent and most highly necessary use and purpose of Logic is promised, but that this is entirely fruitless in the work itself. Since the ordinary Logic does not properly teach how to apply the means required for that purpose, and the means themselves too do not appear at all sufficient, or lawfully distinguished in their use: since all these seem to be directed only to this, that the writings of others may become known, and not that the pupil himself may acquire for himself the knowledge of things by the own powers of his understanding; and since these only indicate the manner (albeit less clearly) of communicating the acquired knowledge to others, but fall short in the manner in which he himself, who is to communicate it, shall gain possession of it; and set forth many other things confusedly, and in no way proportioned to the purpose. Just as I myself also have very often found, partly in the formation of my own understanding, partly in the instruction of pupils, that these things are so. Wherefore I have begun to think about a more suitable order, and about a restoration of the means that are lacking in Logic itself. Hence already early on I applied to the precepts of Logic one method after another, and compared those precepts, thus ordered, with the purpose. But no order presented itself to me that was more useful and more fit for attaining the purpose than that in which I set forth the whole of Logic for You in this sketch. But conscious of my slightness, I fear that my conviction sometimes misleads me, and the blind love of my own work. Therefore I have resolved to bring these earlier thoughts, set down on paper without embellishment, into the light for public discussions, while I shall await the judgement of others upon them, so that later, if they are approved, they may be published improved and provided with the necessary explanations and examples; if they displease, that they may be entirely suppressed. But if, on the contrary, they are found to contain the bad mixed with the good, then let that which proves useful, > (Latin) tations to bring into the light, intending to await the judgement of others about them, so that hereafter, if they are approved, they may be published in a more corrected form, adorned with proper commentaries and examples; if they displease, they may be entirely suppressed; but if on the other hand they are found to contain bad mixed with good, then, cleansed of the tares and the errors, let those things that seem useful come forth again for your use, the rest being consigned to oblivion. And let not the departure in some matters from the customary road disturb you: not all men of old went to the Delphi of Apollo by the same road. Therefore I judge that there is no need to quarrel so anxiously about the road; if this one displeases anyone, let him choose another, and follow his own or the common one. But this one thing I ask: that you do not condemn these precepts without reason and before a proper examination undertaken without prejudice, but rather weigh them in a fair balance, and, having so weighed them, either approve or reject them; for thus you will not find me reluctant in burying and refuting my own opinions. Above all, however, be mindful of Christian charity, with which he will not cease to love you,

> I. G. the Author."
>
> cleansed of weeds and errors, come forth again for your use, while the rest is consigned to oblivion. And let the deviation in some matters from the usual road not displease you. Formerly not all went along the same road to the Delphi of Apollo. Wherefore I hold that one need not contend so anxiously about the road. If this one displeases anyone, let him choose another, and follow a road of his own, or the common road. But this one thing I desire, that you do not condemn these precepts without reason and before a proper examination undertaken without prejudice, but rather weigh them fairly and thus approve or reject what has been weighed. Assuredly you will then not find me hesitant in burying and refuting my own opinions. Above all, however, may you be mindful of Christian charity, with which he will not cease to love you, > J. G. the Author.

The booklet contains the following 10 chapters:

"De Natura Logicæ" (On the Nature of Logic) with 21 theses;

"De Genetica" (On its Origin) with 46 theses;

"De Eo qui cognoscet" (On Him who will know) with 15 theses;

"De Modo cognoscendi" (On the Manner of coming to know) with 144 theses;

"De Judicio" (On Judgement) with 53 theses;

"De Argumentatione" (On Argumentation) with 54 theses;

"De Memoria" (On Memory) with 4 theses;

"Εὑριστικὴ" (The finding) with 54 theses;

"Κριτικὴ" (The judging) with 52 theses;

"Ἑρμηνευτικὴ" (The explaining) with 66 theses.

One of the smallest chapters, namely the first, follows here in full, with my own translation into Dutch beside it:

(Latin) "On the Nature of Logic.	On the Nature of Logic.
1. Logic is an Art which directs the mind in the knowledge of things.	1. Logic is an Art which directs the mind in the coming to know of things.
2. Dialectic it is less correctly called, since that word denotes at most a part of it, and that by no means the principal part.	2. It is less correctly called Dialectic, which word denotes at most only a part of it, and by no means yet the principal part.
3. Just as also Logic takes its name chiefly from λόγου ἐνδιαθέτου or the inner word, namely from the reason which it chiefly directs.	3. Just as also Logic derives its name chiefly from Logos Endiathetos, or inner, that is, from the reason which it chiefly directs.
4. It is an Art, and indeed insofar as it is considered as a habitus: for a System of Precepts is improperly called an Art.	4. It is an Art, and indeed insofar as it is regarded as a habit*: for the System of Precepts is improperly called an Art.*
5. It is however considered in the Idea, that is, insofar as it is abstracted from the subject; for thus it is perfect, and has the character of the end.	5. It is however considered in the Idea, or in its essence, that is, insofar as it is thought apart from the subject; for thus it is perfect, and you have the ratio of the end.
6. The human mind is its Object, insofar as it is directed by it and is, as it were, imbued with a new form, the knowledge of things.	6. The human Mind is its Object, insofar as it is directed by it, and is affected as with a new form, the knowledge of things.

(Latin) 7. And it is concerned with everything intelligible, and chiefly with the things themselves; whence mention was made of these in the definition.

8. Rhetoric does not differ in kind from Logic, but is a part of it, or rather[1] of Dialectic, or a certain more special application of it.

9. Now Logic is either General or Special: the former sets forth in general the precepts of knowing which are common to all things; the latter applies them to these or those things.

10. Of the General there are two parts, Didactics and Hermeneutics.

11. Didactics is that which delivers the precepts by which our mind teaches itself, that is, learns to form its thoughts rightly.

12. Hermeneutics delivers the precepts by which the mind rightly explains its thoughts to others.

13. Didactics consists of two parts: 1. Genetics, which teaches to form thoughts from the things themselves; 2. Analytics, which teaches to form thoughts from the speech of others.

14. This Analytics is twofold: either εὑριστική, that is, investigating the true sense of another's speech, or Διακριτική, which judges concerning the truth and the falsity of someone else's speech.

15. There are therefore four chief parts of Logic, because our mind is directed in just as many ways.

16. Among these there is this order, that διδακτική be taught before ἑρμηνευτική. For he who is to teach another must first himself be taught: and it is more necessary that he himself know something, than that he communicate that knowledge to others.

17. But among the parts of διδακτικῆς Genetics must first be worked out, and afterwards Analytics; for the order of nature requires that we first learn to think rightly, before we gird ourselves for the thoughts of another. And one's own thoughts are always and absolutely necessary, those of others not so.

18. Conversely, Εὑριστική should be taught before διακριτική. For knowledge precedes judgement.

19. Logic is among the remaining arts the most necessary; because none can exist without it. It is the most noble, because it takes away the diseases of our mind, while the rest only supply the defects of the body.

20. Yet not all its parts have an equal necessity. For Didactics is more necessary than Hermeneutics. And in the former, Genetics than Analytics.

21. Since therefore it perfects the mind so far that the mind cannot do without it for its own perfection, it is undeservedly banished outside the parts of Philosophy."

7. And it is concerned with everything knowable, and chiefly with the things themselves; wherefore mention was made of these in the definition.

8. Rhetoric does not differ in kind from Logic, but is a part of it, or rather of Dialectic, or a certain more special application of it.

9. Now Logic is either General or Special. The former sets forth in general the precepts for learning to know which are common to all things. The latter applies them to these or those matters.

10. Of the General the two parts are: the Didactics and the Hermeneutics.

11. The Didactics is that which indicates the precepts by which our mind teaches itself, that is, learns to form its own thoughts rightly.

12. The Hermeneutics indicates the precepts by which the mind rightly explains its own thoughts to others..

13. The Didactics consists of two parts: 1. the Genetics, which teaches to form thoughts out of the things themselves; 2. the Analytics, which teaches to form thoughts out of the utterances of others.

14. This Analytics is twofold: either Investigating, i.e. tracing out the true sense of another's utterance, or Judging, which, concerning the truth and the untruth of the utterance of someone else, judges.

15. There are therefore four chief parts of Logic, because our mind is directed in just as many ways.

16. Among these there is this order, that the Didactics is taught before the Hermeneutics. For he who is to teach another must first himself be taught. And it is more necessary that he himself know something, than that he communicate that knowledge to others.

17. But among the parts of the Didactics the Genetics must first be worked out, and then the Analytics. For the order of nature requires that we first learn to think rightly, before we gird ourselves for the thoughts of another. And one's own thoughts are always and absolutely necessary, those of others not.

18. Conversely the Finding, or investigating, is taught before the Judging; for Knowledge precedes judgement.

19. Logic is among the other arts most highly necessary, because no branch of knowledge can exist without it. It is most highly excellent, because it takes away the diseases of our mind, while the rest only supply the defects of the body.

20. Not all its parts, however, have an equal necessity. For the Didactics is more necessary than the Hermeneutics. And in the former the Genetics more than the Analytics.

21. Since therefore it leads the mind so far towards perfection that the mind cannot do without it for its own perfecting, it is wrongly set outside the parts of Philosophy.

---

[1] The complete word is: immo.

The title of the other little book, of which a reproduction is given opposite page 145, reads:

[the quoted text is printed in two parallel columns, the Latin original at left and the Dutch translation at right; each column is transcribed in full below.]

(Latin)	[1]
"Complete PHYSICAL Treatises, in eleven Books by the Author Johanne Greydano, a Frisian With a twofold Index. Leowardiæ. At the Author's expense, Henricus Rintjus printed it, in the year 1664."	Complete PHYSICAL Treatises in eleven Books by the Author Johannes Greydanus, a Frisian With a twofold Index. At Leeuwarden. At the Author's expense Henricus Rintjus published it in the year 1664.

Then follows:

(Latin)
"To the Most Eminent, Most Noble
DEPUTIES
of the Illustrious Estates of Frisia,
The Nine Men,
D. Dominico ab Aylva,
D. Carolo à Roorda,
D. Oniæ à Grovestins,
D. Elkoni à Glinstra,
D. Johanni à Scheltinga,
D. Martino Fokkens,
D. Scheltoni à Rispens,
D. Allardo à Burum,
D. Wilhelmo Uwma.
And to their Secretary,
D. Gisberto à Viersen.
As Also
To the Most Noble, Most Eminent Men, the Heads of the Chamber of Accounts,
D. Aulo ab Haarsma,
D. Suffrido Abbinga ab
Humalda,
D. Danieli de Blocq à Scheltinga,
D. Edzardo Gerolsma.
And to their Secretary,
D. Isbrando à Viersen.
Most Noble, Most Eminent Men,
I offer to Your Eminences my Physical Treatises, or a brief and easy explanation of Natural Things, as they are, come to be and work: a Complete one nevertheless, because it sets forth both the general and the special matters, in so far as that could be done in this studied brevity, required by the nature of precepts. This material would be prolix, and would require even ten volumes of huge folio format, both because of the multitude and variety of the Works of Nature, and because of the divergent opinions, indeed[2] the schools, of the Philosophers concerning these and their principles. But mindful of the office laid upon me by Your Eminences, and in order to do a service to the cultivators of purer wisdom among my Pupils, I have brought everything together in brief; yet I have touched upon everything. To this end, namely, that they might have a method for coming to know these Wonders of Nature (of that Divine power, spread out and exercised throughout the whole universe), and also that they might compare the works and the opinions of others not confusedly, but in order; for it is my greatest wish that they should learn in good order, and thus go forth well taught. And so that I myself, wandering in so vast a material, which I had to treat in lectures for my pupils, should not go astray,

To the High and Mighty, Most Noble, most Illustrious DEPUTIES
of the Estates of Friesland
The nine men,
The Honourable Dominicus van Aylva,
The Honourable Carolus van Roorda,
The Honourable Onnias van Grovestins,
The Honourable Elco van Glinstra,
The Honourable Johannes van Scheltinga,
The Honourable Martinus Fokkens,
The Honourable Schelto van Rispens,
The Honourable Allard van Burum,
The Honourable Wilhelmus Uwma.
And Their Confidential Secretary
The Honourable Gijsbertus van Viersen
As also to the Most Noble, High and Mighty Men Heads of the Chamber of Accounts,
The Honourable Aulus van Haarsma,
The Honourable Suffridus Abbinga van
Humalda,
The Honourable Daniël de Blocq van
Scheltinga,
The Honourable Edzard Gerolsma.
And Their Secretary,
The Honourable Isbrand van Viersen.
Most Noble, High and Mighty Men,
I offer to Your High Mightinesses: my Physical Treatises, or, concerning the things of nature as they are and come into being and work, a brief and easily understandable explanation. But a Complete one, because they set forth both the general and the particular things, in so far as that could be done within this artificial brevity, required by the character of precepts. This material would be too extensive, and would require as many as ten volumes of large folio format, both because of the multitude and variety of the Works of Nature, and because of the divergent opinions, indeed the schools, of Philosophy concerning these and their principles. But mindful of the office entrusted to me by Your High Mightinesses, and in order to render a service to the practitioners of pure wisdom among my Pupils, I have brought everything together in a short compass, yet I have touched upon everything. To this end, namely, that they should have a methodical guide for coming to know these Wonders of Nature (of that Divine power, spread out and exercised throughout the whole universe), and also that they should compare the works and the opinions of others not confusedly, but in order. For that they should learn in good order, and thus go forth well taught, is my highest wish. And so that I myself, wandering in so extensive a material, which I had to treat in lectures for my pupils, should not go astray, I have made this thin

[1] My own translation into Dutch.

[2] The complete word is: immo.

[the page prints the Latin text in the left column and the Dutch translation in the right column; both columns are given here one after the other.]

(Latin)

stray, I prepared this slender thread, and now, having dictated it to the pen some years ago, in order to come to the aid of the labour of those who copy it out and continually corrupt it, I have given it to be printed and brought into the public light.

That I have thought it ought to be inscribed to Your Honours is partly because I owe all the offspring of my mind, as also everything that is mine, to Your Honours; partly because I believe that a delineation of this kind of things, of which all the bodies of the Universe, and so we ourselves too, consist, will not be unwelcome to Your Honours, a delineation which by its brevity promises ease and pleasantness; partly because it is unknown to me whether Physical Institutions have ever been completed in Your Academy; at any rate I know quite certainly that they have not appeared by that method and on those foundations.

Receive therefore, most Noble and most Honourable Men, this little book laid down at Your feet, small indeed in bulk, but as the rudiment of a fuller work, that it may be such a testimony, however slight, of the gratitude which I owe to Your Honours for so many benefits bestowed upon me.

That God, the Best and Greatest, may at last keep You unharmed, the Commonwealth safe, the Church pure, prays,

Your Noble and Honourable Lordships'

most humble servant

Johannes Greydanus."

guide and dictated it some years ago; now, in order to come to the aid of the trouble of him who copies that out and keeps making it worse, I have had it printed and brought into the light. And as to the fact that I have thought I ought to dedicate it to Your Honours, that is partly because I owe all the fruits of my mind, as well as all that is mine, to Your Honours; partly because I believe that such a sketch of the things of which we ourselves, like all the bodies of the Universe, consist, will not be unpleasing to Your Honours; a sketch which by its brevity promises easy intelligibility and pleasantness; partly because it is unknown to me whether Physical Treatises have ever been published in Your Academy — that they at any rate have not come to light according to that method and according to those principles, I know quite certainly.

Accept therefore, Most Noble and Most Mighty Gentlemen, this little book, laid down at Your feet, which is indeed small in extent, but is as a forerunner of a more complete work, so that it may be a proof, however small and very slight, of the thanks which I owe to Your Honours for so many benefits granted to me. Finally, that God the Most High may keep You unharmed, the State preserved, the Church pure, prays the very Humble servant of Your Noble and Mighty Lordships

Johannes Greydanus.

Next comes the following Preface, again with my own translation into Dutch alongside it:

(Latin)

"A Short Preface
To the READER
Kind Reader.

Often chances that come in between call us away from our purpose, for God disposes what man proposes. I had purposed, indeed[1] promised, to set forth the Marvels of Nature acroamatically, and in proportion to their extent, variety and difficulty, amply and at length, as the matter required. But partly hindered by various cares, partly stirred up by the urgings of my Hearers and Pupils, I present at least a sketch, to be kept for use until the promised work follows, into the public light, as a premature birth. In it, however, you have the order and method of Physical Studies, brief indeed, but not therefore less clear or easy. I for my part have looked in it to usefulness rather than to truth already certainly demonstrated; I have often preferred brevity to evidence, as also order to certainty. For many things which are doubtful, or false, or not yet sufficiently demonstrated, not only to others but also to myself, I have either employed or presupposed after the manner of hypotheses, so that they might be foundations by which truths otherwise hidden and held to be secret could be investigated. The books, or rather the Titles, are eleven, namely because as many are to be established in the larger work, where they will easily attain a proper extent, whereas here they scarcely exceed what we call chapters. If you wish to use them, as far as I am concerned you are free to do so; but if you reject them, I shall readily allow you to enjoy your own wit. For I confess that in my public lectures and private Colleges I have looked chiefly to my own convenience in brevity and order; and who will count that a fault? If you approve, it is well; if you disapprove, I shall not blame you. Perhaps I myself now think otherwise in very many things; for I am one of the Electing school, where, all things having been weighed, we retain what is true. And who will object, since even in the matter of Faith the Apostle bids us to test all things, to hold fast the good? Do you think that a Philosopher, a follower of rea-

Short Preface
To the READER.
Kind Reader.

Often chances that come in between call us away from our purpose, for God disposes what man purposes. For I had purposed, indeed promised, to set forth the Marvels of Nature acroamatically[2] and in proportion to their extent, variety and difficulty, broadly and at length, as the matter requires. But partly hindered by various cares, partly stirred up by the insistence of Hearers and Pupils, I at least bring into the light, as an unripe fruit, a sketch for use, which one must keep until the promised work follows. In this you now have the order and the method of the Physical studies, brief indeed, but not therefore less clear and intelligible. For I have therein directed my eye to usefulness rather than to the truth which has already been certainly proved; brevity I have preferred to evidence, as also order to certainty. For much that is not only for others, but also for myself either doubtful, or untrue, or not sufficiently proved to me, I have either touched up or laid down beforehand by way of suppositions, so that they might be principles by which truths otherwise hidden and held to be hidden could be traced out. The books, or rather the Titles, are eleven in number, because namely in the larger work just as many would receive a place, in which they will easily obtain a rightful extent, while here the main points, which we mention, scarcely become visible. If you wish to use them, then as far as I am concerned you are free to do so. But if on the other hand you reject them, I shall readily let You enjoy Your own ingenuity. For I confess that I have chiefly had in view my own convenience, in bre-

[the signature mark "12" is printed at the foot of the page.]

[1] The complete word is: immo.

[2] Intended for a scholarly hearer.

[the text is printed in two columns, the Latin original at the left, the Dutch translation at the right]

(Latin) son, less free than a Theologian who is bound to the infallible norm of the Word? With us the later thoughts are for the most part judged the more prudent, especially when it is permitted, after the manner of the nobler kind of dogs, to follow the scent and to track out old traces more exactly. You will urge that in this so learned age nothing ought to be sent forth into the light but what is exactly polished. I confess it: but who, even today, can polish anything so exactly that no blemish or irregularity remains. And if it be done, it is rather to be expected from the man of the study than from him who teaches from the chair; for the former is not driven to judge hastily, nor to publish his judgments abroad: but the latter is compelled, with a view to the expectation and the demands of his Pupils, for the most part to lay something down and to promulgate Doctrines before a proper and exact examination can be held. If therefore the blemishes of error offend you: remove them. For I have undertaken to teach not error, but truth; I would therefore have you believe that it has crept in apart from my intention, through the weakness and the slightness of my understanding. I should therefore not wish that you fasten your teeth upon what seems to you erroneous, carry it about, and so revile me privately or publicly. But if you do so, I shall be as a log; I shall give you back nothing but the silence of Harpocrates. You will certainly bring forward, I know well enough, nothing but what has often been laid down by others; and if you believe that it was unknown to me, you perhaps attribute too much to yourself and too little to me. Certainly I hate disputations worse than dog or snake; the truth is indeed said to be sought by those debates, but she herself, even if she were present, would withdraw herself, for fear that what for the most part falls upon the person should be transferred to her. If therefore you love them, You will be my Adversary. But I have written these things not for Adversaries, but for Friends, for Pupils, and for myself. If from my silence you believe that I am vanquished, you will have no glory but an empty one; but I a true and solid one, who judge that in the wrestling-place of Philosophy, where inquiry is made after the truth, it is no less glorious to be vanquished than to vanquish. Certain faults occur in the printing, and no wonder, the edition having been made while I was absent; nor does the printing-house seem to have been sufficiently equipped for this matter. They are however few, which you will easily correct, and rare are those which cannot be amended from the context. But enough of a Preface; farewell therefore, Kind Reader, and you, Carper, see that you fare well.
At Franecaræ, on the day after the Calends of October, in the year 1664. Johannes Greydanus."

ciseness and order, in my public lectures and in my private Colleges, I have above all had in view. And who will reckon that a vice? If you approve it, it is well. But if you disapprove it, I shall not take it amiss. Perhaps I myself now judge otherwise in very many things. For I am one of the Eclectic [1] school, where we, after having weighed everything, retain what is true. And who will rise up against that, since the Apostle even in the matter of Faith commands to test all things, to retain the good. Do you think that a Philosopher, as an adherent of reason, is less free than a Theologian, who is bound to the infallible norm of the Word? By us the later thoughts are for the most part judged the more sensible, especially when it is permitted to follow the scent after the manner of the nobler kind of dogs, and to track out old traces more accurately. You will bring forward as an objection that in this so learned age nothing but what is accurately finished ought to be sent forth into the light. I acknowledge it. But who can finish anything so accurately, even in our own day, that no blemish or irregularity remains. And if it happens, one must expect it rather from the man in the Study than from him who teaches from the Chair. For the former is impelled not to judge hastily, nor to make his judgments known. But the latter is compelled, with a view to the expectation and the demands of the Pupils, very often to lay something down and to publish Doctrines before a proper and accurate investigation can be held. If therefore the birthmarks of inaccuracy offend you, take them away. For I have undertaken not to teach untruth, but truth. I should therefore wish that you believe that that inaccuracy has crept in apart from my intention, as a consequence of the weakness and the slightness of my understanding. I should therefore not wish that you set your teeth, as it were, into what appears to you inaccurate, carry that about and thus revile me privately or publicly. But if you do it, I shall be as a tree-trunk. I shall give you back nothing through the silence of Harpocrates. You will therefore bring forward, of that I am certain, only what has already often been laid down by others. And if you believe that it was unknown to me, you perhaps attribute far too much to yourself and too little to me. Certainly I hate disputations worse than dog or snake. It is indeed said that the truth is sought by those debates, but she, even if she were present, would withdraw herself, out of fear that what strikes the person, as for the most part happens, should be transferred to her. If therefore you love those disputations, You will be my Opponent. I however have written this not for my Opponents, but for Friends, Pupils and myself. If through my silence you believe that I am vanquished, you will have no glory but an empty one; I however the true and solid one, who judge that in the wrestling-place of Philosophy, where investigation is made after the truth, one can be vanquished no less gloriously than vanquish. In the printing a few faults occur. And this is no wonder, because the edition took place while I was absent. Also the printing-house does not seem to have been sufficiently equipped for this matter. They are however only a few, which one can easily correct, and rare are they which one cannot restore from the context. But enough of a Preface. Farewell therefore, Kind Reader, and you, Carper, may it go well with you.

At Franeker, the second of October of the year 1664. Johannes Greydanus

After this follows the ensuing poem by Johannes Bek, student in Philosophy:

[1] eclecticus = a philosopher who takes over from all systems what seems to him the best. I have had this sentence printed conspicuously.

(Latin)
“ON THE PHYSICS
of the most Illustrious, most Experienced and most Acute Man
JOHANNES GREYDANUS,
Doctor of Medicine and Philosophy, and Ordinary Professor of the same in the renowned Academy of the men of Franeker, composed with Daedalean artifice, but now breaking its prison-bars to the greatest benefit of the Republic of Letters.
Do you undertake to unfold the hidden powers of nature,
And to climb the lofty heights with iron-shod foot?
As soon as the report was brought to my ears
I said: oh, that that day might come down from heaven,
On which the little book, so often entrusted to the pen, may press the printing-press and fly through the mouths of many men!
The hidden origin of forms has tormented very many,
And the hidden cause of the swelling sea has tormented them;
These things you grasp by an easy method and in clear order;
The things that long lay hidden have not lain hidden from you.
As a second Apollo you will unlock for me the secrets of nature,
You will be a second Oedipus, driving away all the mists.
For just as Theseus, having grasped the thread of Ariadne, is able to go out from the labyrinthine regions:
So the studious band, wandering along doubtful windings, obtains from you aid and support.
Book, make yourself known throughout the whole world,
And be you in the hands of late posterity.
What things you do not contain, who could look for more in you
I do not know, since in brief compass you bear a thousand doctrines.
Hail, learned Book; if a stern Momus were present as censor, he would loose his mouth into a pleasant sound:
Or if you wish to enter the splendid palaces of Kings, your words need no second file;
Or if you seek the lofty benches, there will be no one who will stir up envy or prepare ambushes:
Since by your reasoning you impose an unwelcome silence upon the Ancients, recalling the Harpocrates of Isis.
To his Teacher
not as he wished, but as he was able, with a swift Muse, as a fixed sign of honour and respect, sang JOHANNES BEK. of Zeeland
Student of Philosophy.
A Good Mind Possesses a Kingdom.”
[1] ON THE PHYSICS BOOK of the very Renowned, very Experienced and very Acute Sir
JOHANNES GREYDANUS
Doctor of Medicine and of Philosophy and therein ordinary Professor at the renowned Academy of the citizens of Franeker, Which has been composed with the artistic skill of Dædalus, but which now breaks the prison-fetters to the very great advantage of the Republic of Letters.
You take upon you, the hidden powers of nature [to set forth
And with spurred foot to climb the high saddle?
As soon as the report was brought to my ears
I said: Oh that that day might come down from heaven,
On which the little book, so many times entrusted to the pen, may make the press labour and go round in the mouths of [many men.
The hidden origin of the forms has tormented very [many,
And the hidden cause of the swollen sea has tormented [very many;
These you comprehend by an easy method and in [a clear order,
The things that long, but not for you, have been [hidden,
As a second Apollo you will unlock for me the hidden [things of nature,
You will be a second Oedipus, who drives away all [the mists.
Just as, namely, Theseus, grasping the thread of [Ariadne, ventures to go out of the labyrinth,
So a study group, wandering along uncertain [ways, obtains from you assistance and help.
O book, become known over the whole earth,
And be you in the hands of late posterity.
I do not know who will look in you for more things which you do not contain, since in concise form you enclose a thousand [doctrines.
Hail, learned Book, if a stern Caviller [were present,
the critic would open his mouth in a pleasant [sound:
Whether you wish to enter into the splendid palaces
[of Kings
Then your words need no second file.
Whether you strive for the high seats, there will be [no one,
Who would arouse envy or prepare ambushes.

While you by your manner of acting impose an unplea[sant silence upon the Ancients, referring to the Harpocrates of Isis.
For his Teacher has, not as he wished, but as he was able, with a swift Muse, as a fixed sign of veneration and respect, sung this song
JOHANNES BEK, a Zeelander
Student of Philosophy
A Good Mind Possesses the Kingdom.

The little book further consists of:

an “Index Librorum & Capitum”;

a text covering 262 pages;

and an “Index Rerum[2].”

Here follow in full: the “Index Librorum & Capitum” and six Chapters, for which in the first place the shorter ones have been chosen, always with a translation into Dutch by me alongside:

[1] My own translation into Dutch (prose).

[2] An index of subjects.

INDEX		INDEX
LIBRORUM & CAPITUM.		OF BOOKS AND CHAPTERS.
Liber I. Tractatus 1. De Naturâ & Constitutione Physicæ.	pag. 1	Book I. Treatise I. On the Nature and the Constitution of Physics.	page 1
Tractatus 2. Cap. 1. De Principiis.	8	Treatise 2. Chapter 1 On the Principia.	8
Cap. 2 De Materiâ.	10	Chapter 2 On Matter.	10
Cap. 3 De Formâ.	15	Chapter 3 On Form.	15
Cap. 4 De Naturâ.	24	Chapter 4 On Nature.	24
Cap. 5 De Affectionibus.	30	Chapter 5 On the States.	30
Cap. 6 De Quantitate.	ibid.	Chapter 6 On Quantity.	ibid.
Cap. 7 De Affectionibus ortis ex Quantitate.	32	Chapter 7 On the States arising from Quantity.	32
Cap. 8 De Figurâ.	36	Chapter 8 On Figure.	36
Cap. 9 De Qualitate.	38	Chapter 9 On Quality.	38
Cap. 10 De Qualitatibus Tactilibus.	42	Chapter 10 On the Tangible Qualities.	42
Cap. 11 De reliquis Qualitatibus.	49	Chapter 11 On the remaining Qualities.	49
Cap. 12 De Loco.	54	Chapter 12 On Place.	54
Cap. 13 De Motu.	56	Chapter 13 On Motion.	56
Cap. 14 De Mutatione.	60	Chapter 14 On Change.	60
Cap. 15 De Duratione & Tempore.	65	Chapter 15 On Duration and Time.	65
Liber II. De Mundo, ejusque corporibus majoribus.	66	Book II. On the World and its larger bodies.	66
Cap. 1 De Mundo.	ibid.	Chapter 1 On the World.	ibid.
Cap. 2 De Mundi Affectionibus.	68	Chapter 2 On the States of the World.	68
Cap. 3 De Corporibus Majoribus continentibus.	72	Chapter 3 On the Larger contiguous Bodies.	72
Cap. 4 De Astris.	78	Chapter 4 On the Stars.	78
Cap. 5 De Astris fixis.	81	Chapter 5 On the fixed Stars.	81
Cap. 6 De Planetis.	85	Chapter 6 On the Planets.	85
Liber III. Cap. 1. De Corporibus Minoribus in genere.	91	Book III. Chapter 1 On the Smaller Bodies in general.	91
Cap. 2 De Elementis in genere.	92	Chapter 2 On the Elements in general.	92
Cap. 3 De Igni.	94	Chapter 3 On Fire.	94
Cap. 4 De Aëre.	97	Chapter 4 On Air.	97
Cap. 5 De Aquâ.	102	Chapter 5 On Water.	102
Cap. 6 De Mari.	106	Chapter 6 On the Sea.	106
Cap. 7 De Fontibus.	111	Chapter 7 On Springs.	111
Cap. 8 De Terra.	114	Chapter 8 On the Earth.	114
Liber IV. Cap. 1. De Mixtis in genere.	116	Book IV. Chapter 1 On Mixed Substances in general.	116
Cap. 2 De Interitu mixtorum.	120	Chapter 2 On the Destruction of mixed substances.	120
Cap. 3 De Combustione.	123	Chapter 3 On Combustion.	123
Liber V. Cap. 1. De Inanimatis in genere.	126	Book V. Chapter 1 On Inanimate Things in general.	126
Cap. 2 De Meteoris in genere.	127	Chapter 2 On Meteors in general.	127
Cap. 3 De Differentiis Meteorum.	129	Chapter 3 On the Differences of Meteors.	129
Cap. 4 De Meteoris igneis.	131	Chapter 4 On the Meteors consisting of fire.	131
Cap. 5 De Meteoris igneis impurioribus.	137	Chapter 5 On the less pure Meteors consisting of fire.	137
Cap. 6 De Meteoris Aëreis.	141	Chapter 6 On the Meteors consisting of Air.	141

INDEX		INDEX
Cap. 7 De Meteoris Aqueis.	146	Chapter 7 On the Meteors consisting of Water.	146
Cap. 8 De Meteoris terreis.	153	Chapter 8 On the Meteors consisting of earth.	153
Cap. 9 De Meteoris apparentibus.	156	Chapter 9 On the appearing Meteors.	156
Liber VI. Cap. 1. De Corporibus inanimatis in genere.	159	Book VI. Chapter 1 On the inanimate Bodies in general.	159
Cap. 2 De Mineralibus in genere.	161	Chapter 2 On the Minerals in general.	161
Cap. 3 De Succis concretis.	162	Chapter 3 On the congealed Juices.	162
Cap. 4 De Terræ speciebus & Lapidibus.	166
Cap. 5 De Metallis.	168
Liber VII. Cap. 1. De Principiis Viventium.	171
Cap. 2 De Vitâ & morte Viventium.	173
Cap. 3 De Actionibus Viventium.	175
Liber VIII. Cap. 1. De Principiis Plantarum.	177
Cap. 2 De Causis & Actionibus Plantarum.	180
Cap. 3 De Affectionibus Plantarum.	181
Cap. 4 De Differentiis Plantarum.	183
Liber IX. Cap. 1. De Animali ejusque partibus solidis.	185
Cap. 2 De partium solidarum differentiis accidentalibus.	189
Cap. 3 De Formâ & qualitate Animalium.	192

(Latin)

Chapter 4 On the Actions of Animals in general.	196
Chapter 5 On Chylosis.	200
Chapter 6 On Sanguification.	202
Chapter 7 On the Motion of the Heart.	203
Chapter 8 On Respiration.	206
Chapter 9 On the Affections of the blood.	208
Chapter 10 On the Excrements in general, and in particular on the excrements of the first coction.	210
Chapter 11 On the Excrements of the second coction useful by Quantity.	212
Chapter 12 On the Excrements of the second coction useful by Quality.	216
Chapter 13 On the Excrements of the second coction that are useless and deprived.	217
Chapter 14 On the Excretion of the Excrements.	219
Chapter 15 On the Generation of Animals.	220
Chapter 16 On the Sensation of Animals in general.	223
Chapter 17 On the external Sense.	226
Chapter 18 On the internal Sense.	230
Chapter 19 On Waking and Sleep.	233
Chapter 20 On the local motion of Animals.	234
Chapter 21 On the Affections of the Soul.	239
Book X. Chapter 1 On Brutes in general.	239
Chapter 2 On the Differences of Brutes.	240
Chapter 3 On the remaining Differences of Brutes.	242
Book XI. Chapter 1 On the absolute Essence of the Human mind.	245
Chapter 2 On the relative Essence of the Mind.	246
Chapter 3 On the Origin of the Mind.	250
Chapter 4 On the Duration of the Mind.	252
Chapter 5 On the Actions of the Mind.	253
Chapter 6 On the Intellect in general.	254
Chapter 7 On the Acts of the Intellect.	257
Chapter 8 On the Will.	260

Chapter 4 On the Soil Types and Stones of the earth.	166
Chapter 5 On the Metals.	168
Book VII. Chapter 1 On the Principia of Living Beings.	171
Chapter 2 On the Life and death of Living Beings.	173
Chapter 3 On the Activities of Living Beings.	175
Book VIII. Chapter 1 On the Principia of Plants.	177

Chapter 2 On the Causes and Activities of Plants.	180
Chapter 3 On the Properties of Plants.	181
Chapter 4 On the Differences of Plants.	183
Book IX. Chapter 1 On the Animate Being and its solid parts.	185
Chapter 2 On the accidental differences of the solid parts.	189
Chapter 3 On the Form and quality of Animate Things.	192
Chapter 4 On the Activities of Animate Things in general.	196
Chapter 5 On Chylosis[1].	200
Chapter 6 On the Formation of Blood.	202
Chapter 7 On the Motion of the Heart.	203
Chapter 8 On Respiration.	206
Chapter 9 On the Properties of the blood.	208
Chapter 10 On the Excrements in general and on the excrements of the beginning of the digestions in particular.	210
Chapter 11 On the Excrements of the further digestion which are useful by their Quantity.	212
Chapter 12 On the Excrements of the further digestion which are useful by their Quality.	216
Chapter 13 On the Excrements of the further digestion which are useless and deprived of nourishment.	217
Chapter 14 On the Secretion of the Excrements.	219
Chapter 15 On the Generation of Animate Beings.	220
Chapter 16 On the Sensation of Animate Beings in general.	223
Chapter 17 On the external Sensation.	226
Chapter 18 On the internal Sensation.	230
Chapter 19 On Waking and Sleep.	233
Chapter 20 On the local motions of Animate Beings.	234
Chapter 21 On the Affections of the Soul.	239
Book X. Chapter 1 On the Animals in general.	239
Chapter 2 On the Differences of the Animals.	240
Chapter 3 On the remaining Differences of the Animals.	242
Book XI. Chapter 1 On the absolute Essence of the Human mind.	245
Chapter 2 On the relative Essence of the Mind.	246
Chapter 3 On the Origin of the Mind.	250
Chapter 4 On the Duration of the Mind.	252
Chapter 5 On the Activities of the Mind.	253

[1] Pressing out, decocting, thickening of a juice.

Chapter 6 On the Understanding in general. 254
Chapter 7 On the Operation of the Understanding. 257
Chapter 8 On the Will. 260

BOOK I.

Chap. V.

On the Affections.

(Latin) *T*here follow the affections. Now affections are [certain[1] modifications of matter, brought about by motion, by which matter is disposed now in one way, now in another. From which definition it is clear that the affections are not things, or true accidents, but only modes of matter, which differ from it not in reality, but only modally.

Now there are various affections, of which some arise from matter, some from form, some from both.

And they are on the whole either primary or derived. The primary, which flow from matter, are quantity and figure, from form qualities and powers; from both together motion, place, time.

Derived affections: some arise from quantity, such as divisibility, continuity, contiguity, finiteness, impenetrability: or they arise from figure, such as regularity, or irregularity, or from the qualities, such as health, strength etc.

In setting forth these affections in general, such an order must be established that in the first place there be considered quantity, and thereafter the affections arisen from it, which must be followed by figure, after which the kinds of qualities must be treated, from which one must pass on to place, motion, time.

BOOK I.

Chap. XV.

On Duration and time.

(Latin) *T*here follows the duration and time of natural bodies; between which words this distinction must now be held, namely that duration is the very persisting of a natural body in its being, from the beginning of its origin right up to its destruction; time however is the measure of that persisting.

As far then as concerns duration, this belongs to natural bodies by virtue of an impulse as it were impressed upon their nature, by which all and each continue their being for so long until they are driven out of it by something else.

There is however a notable difference in the term thereof, [for some complete their duration sooner, others later; of which variety the cause is partly internal, partly [external.

Internal is the connection of the parts in the body, which is more or less firm; for the firmer that bond is, the more the body can resist external destroying agents, and in that measure it can continue its being the longer: the contrary will happen if the cohesion of the parts is less firm.

External causes too, the internal ones being set aside, bring about a notable variability in duration, as appears in the duration and destruction of living things, of stones, etc.

Time, or the measure of duration, is in matters of Physics chiefly taken from the most common motion, one obvious and constant, such as is that of the Sun and the Moon in relation to our earth: for this motion, divided into various stations, presents to us years, months, days etc., by which, as by common rules and measures, we are accustomed to measure the duration of natural bo-

BOOK I.

Chapter V.

On the States (Properties).

Now follow the states. The states now are certain modifications of matter, brought about by motion, whereby matter is each time differently disposed. From which definition it appears that the states are not things, or accidents proper, but only modes of being of matter, which differ from it not in essence, but only in mode.

Now there are various states, of which some have arisen from matter, others from form, others from both.

And they are on the whole either primary or derived. Primary, which flow from matter, are the quantity and the figure; from form the qualities and the powers; from both together: motion, place, time.

The derived properties (states) come forth: some from quantity, such as divisibility, continuity, contiguity, finiteness, impenetrability; or they come forth from figure, such as regularity, or irregularity; or from the qualities, such as health, strength etc.

In setting forth these properties (states) in general this order must be followed, that in the first place there be considered the quantity, and thereafter the properties arisen from it, upon which must follow the figure, after which the kinds of qualities must be treated, from which one must pass on to place, motion, time.

BOOK I.

Chapter XV.

On Duration and time.

Now follows the duration and the time of the natural bodies, between which words this distinction must be maintained, that duration is the persisting itself of a natural body in its being, from the beginning of its being until its destruction; time however is the measure of that persisting.

As far then as concerns duration, this agrees with the natural bodies by virtue of a disposition as it were impressed upon their nature, whereby all of them and each one separately continue their being for so long, until they are driven out of it by something else.

A principal difference however exists in the term thereof, for some end their duration sooner, others more slowly; of which difference the cause is partly internal, partly external.

Internal is the connection of the parts in the body, which is more or less firm. For the firmer that cohesion is, the more the body can offer resistance to the outwardly destroying powers, and in that measure it can continue its being the longer. The contrary will happen if the cohesion of the parts is less firm.

Also external causes, the internal ones being set aside, bring about a principal change in duration, as appears in the duration and the destruction of living beings, stones, etc..

Time, or the measure of duration, is, in those things which belong to Physics, chiefly ta-

[1] The lines of the little book have been kept here.

(Latin)

we are accustomed to measure the duration of natural bodies.
And this will suffice concerning time or duration; wherefore, now that the general affections have been dealt with, we shall make a beginning of assigning the same, according to their order, to the individual bodies, and of demonstrating them from the principia.

BOOK III.

Chap. VIII.

On the Earth.

There follows the Earth, which is a heap of the coarsest, rigid particles of the third element, endowed with infinitely various shapes, which by the agency of the celestial globules have been thrust down nearest to the centre, and there constitute a solid body.
The matter of the earth therefore is those most diverse particles; their diversity is evident from the infinite variety which exists in the colours, tastes and consistency of the various parts of the earth, as also from the most diverse metals and stones, which seem as it were the flowers of the earth.
No form is known besides the disposition of the parts.
The efficient cause is motion, by which these particles have been separated from the common mass, endowed with certain shapes, and thrust towards the centre.
The end of the earth is either common or special.
The common ends are 1. To sustain living beings 2. To receive the water in its bed. 3. To provide a place for those things which are required for the nourishment of animals. 4. Together with the remaining elements to provide matter for mixed bodies.
5. To supply to metals and stones not only a place, but also matter.
The special ends are. 1. To resist putrefaction, since it dries out.
2. To kill worms, for the same reason.
Concerning the magnitude of the earth nothing certain can be said.
The qualities of the Earth are various; for 1. it is dry, both actually and potentially; actually indeed, because of itself it receives no fluid particles into its pores, for if there are any, these are adventitious: potentially however, because by receiving moisture into its pores it can dry bodies out.
2. It is indifferent with regard to heat and cold, for the earth does not forsake its nature, whether it be hot or cold.
3. In heaviness it surpasses the remaining elements, and that because it consists of coarser and more disordered particles, which, being less apt for motion, we said above are driven more violently towards the centre by the ethereal globules.
But you may ask, how then does the earth rise above the water, so much so that even whole mountains stand out very high above the surface of the waters, from which nevertheless the water flows down? Answer. This is so because the earth is more consistent and solid, for which reason it does not yield so easily to the pressure of the globules as water does.

4. The earth is coarse, yet with various difference, according as its particles are larger or smaller; for the most part however it is coarser than the remaining elements.
5. This notwithstanding, it is rarer than all the rest, for it has more numerous and larger pores on account of those coarse, rigid and disordered particles, which neither exactly fill all space, nor can be joined so closely that larger pores are not left than in the remaining elements.
6. The earth is stable and solid, not fluid; for such particles, being less apt for motion, cohere more firmly among themselves.

from the most common motion, which strikes the eye and is constant, such as that of the sun and moon in relation to our earth; for this motion, divided into distinct parts, gives us the years, months, days, etc., according to which, as common rules and measures, we are accustomed to measure the duration of natural bodies.

And this will be sufficient concerning time or duration. Wherefore we, now that the general properties (states) have been dealt with, shall make a beginning of assigning them, according to the order (of these properties), to the individual bodies and of showing them from the principia.

BOOK III.

Chapter VIII.

On the Earth.

Now follows the earth, which is an accumulation of particles of the third element, which are very thick and dry and provided with endlessly different shapes, which particles by the working of the celestial globes have been pushed most towards the centre and there compose a solid body.

The Matter of the earth is therefore those very diverse particles. The divergence of these particles is evident from the endless variety that there is in the colours, taste and composition of the different parts of the earth, as also from the very different metals and rocks, which seem as it were flowers of earth.

No form is known, except the composition or disposition of the parts.

The effecting cause is the motion by which these particles have been separated from the common mass, endowed with definite shapes, driven towards the centre.

The purpose of the earth is common or particular.

Common purposes are: 1. To maintain the living beings. 2. To receive the water in her bosom. 3. To provide a place for that which is required for the nourishment of the animate beings. 4. Together with the remaining elements to provide the matter for the mixed ones. 5. To make available for the metals and rocks not only a place, but also the matter.

Particular purposes are. 1. To resist putrefaction, since it dries out. 2. To kill the worms, from the same cause.

Concerning the size of the earth nothing certain can be said.

The qualities of the earth are various. For 1. it is dry, both actually and potentially. And indeed actually, since of itself it receives no moisture particles into its pores; for if there are some, then these have come to it from without. Potentially however, because by taking up the moisture into its pores it can cause bodies to dry out.

2. With regard to heat and cold it is indifferent, for the earth does not forsake its nature, whether it be warm or cold.

3. In heaviness it surpasses the remaining elements, and that because it consists of thicker particles, and those less ordered, which, being less fit for motion, were thrust the more violently towards the centre by the celestial globes, as we have said above.

If you now ask how then the earth rises above the water, so much so that also whole mountains come out very high above the surface of the waters, from which after all the water flows down? Answ. This is indeed because the earth is more constant and solid, for which cause it does not yield so easily to the pressure of the celestial globes as the water does.

4. The earth is thick, with distinct difference how-

(Latin) 7. Finally, the colours, tastes, smells of the earth are various, not only because of the admixture of other particles, as in the other elements; but rather because the earth itself consists of particles so diverse in size and shape that it is not difficult, from their combination alone, to give an account of all that diversity; if, however, anyone wishes to know these differences thoroughly, he must either seek a special consideration of the earth, or wait until the most important of these differences are set forth among the minerals.

The shape of the earth is not fixed; but if it does obtain one, it retains it tenaciously, since it is a solid body.

The place of the earth is about the centre of the lower world, as appears from its heaviness.

Concerning its motion and duration nothing peculiar seems to be said. These things, then, have been said about the earth, and so about all the elements in particular.

BOOK IX.

Chapter VI.

On the Formation of Blood.

Completed concoction is called sanguification, which is an action of the heart and of the parts subservient to it, by which blood is produced from the chyle.

Now blood is a nourishing humour, concocted from chyle by the motion and heat of the heart and by a twofold passage through the heart, ruddy and fat, which by means of the beat of the heart is driven with force in every direction through the arteries to the parts that are to be nourished, and either becomes joined to those parts, or, passing through their pores, enters the veins, through which it is carried again to the heart, to undergo a new concoction.

The proximate matter of blood is the chyle, carried immediately to the heart, but not chymus or any other humour standing midway between chyle and blood, whether it be said to be prepared in the liver, in the spleen, or in both; for no access to the liver or to the spleen lies open to the chyle.

The remote matter is that from which the chyle is generated, namely food and drink.

The efficient cause of blood is the heart, under whose name are contained all things which are either in it or attached to it; of which [some] concur principally, some less principally, in [sanguifi]cation.

The principal cause is the animal fire, or the [native heat, by whose aid the remaining parts perform their offices.

Among the less principal causes: 1. Is the heat of the heart, [not indeed rarefying the chyle, so that blood is made from it, for thus the blood would grow white; for what is rarefied acquires whiteness through the intrusion of airy particles, as appears in foam; but rather that heat adds another arrangement to the insensible particles of the chyle; [for that colours can be changed by this, the chymus abundantly testifies, and in the kitchen we experience that broths concocted by heat change their colours.

however, according as its particles are either larger or smaller; yet it is very much thicker than the other elements.

5. Notwithstanding this, it is nevertheless rarer than all the other elements, for it has more ample pores, and ones that are larger, on account of those thick particles, which are dry and disordered, which do not entirely fill all the space, nor can be so closely joined but that there remain larger pores than in the other elements.
6. The earth is stable and firm, not fluid, for such particles, being less apt for motion, cohere more firmly among themselves.
7. Finally, the colours, taste and smells of the earth are different, not only because of the admixture of other particles, as in the other elements, but rather because the earth itself consists of particles which differ so greatly in size and shape that it is not difficult, merely from the combination of those particles, to explain all that diversity. If, however, anyone wishes to know those differences completely, he must either seek the special consideration of the earth, or wait until, in dealing with the minerals, the most important differences thereof are set forth.

The shape of the earth is not fixed, but when it acquires a shape, it holds it firmly, because it is a solid body.

The place of the earth is near the centre of the lower world, as appears from its heaviness.

About its motion and duration nothing particular appears able to be said. This, then, has been said about the earth, and so far about all the elements in particular.

BOOK IX.

Chapter VI.

On the Formation of Blood.

The completed digestion is called formation of blood, which is an action of the heart and of the parts serving it, by which blood is produced from the nutritive juice.

Now blood is a fluid serving for nutrition, which is brought forth from the juice by the motion and warmth of the heart and by a twofold passage through the heart, red and fatty, which by means of the heart-beat is driven with force in all directions through the arteries to all the parts that are to be nourished, and joins itself with those parts, or, passing through their pores, penetrates into the veins, through which it is again carried to the heart, in order to undergo a new digestion.

The nearest matter of the blood is the juice, which is carried immediately to the heart, but not Chymus[1] or another fluid which stands midway between nutritive juice and blood, whether it must be called prepared in the liver, in the spleen, or in both; for the juice has no access to the liver or the spleen.

The more remote matter is that from which the juice is brought forth, namely food and drink.

The efficient cause of the blood is the heart, under whose name everything is comprised that is either in the heart or connected with it; of which some things concur principally, others less chiefly in the formation of blood.

The chief cause is the fire of life or the natural warmth, by whose working the remaining parts fulfil their task.

Among the less important causes: 1. is the warmth of the heart, which indeed does not make the juice thin, so that the blood arises from it, for in that way the blood would become white. For what becomes thin acquires a white colour through the intrusion of particles of air, as appears in saliva. But rather that warmth adds another proportion to the insensible particles of the juice. For that the colours can there-

[1] the gastric juice.

[the page is set in two parallel columns, the Latin text at the left and the Dutch translation at the right; the right column opens with the continuation of the text from the preceding page.]

BOOK IX.

Chap. XIX.

On Waking and sleep

(Latin) Accidents of the senses are vital force & rest.

Vital force of the senses is called waking, which is a continuous presenting of objects made to the internal or external senses.

Therefore the natural cause of waking is attention to those sensations. But preternatural is all that which can strongly affect any one of the internal or external senses.

Rest of the senses is called sleep, and it is the lifting away of that presenting.

Of this the causes are: 1. Those which remove the strongly working objects of the senses. 2. Those which take away a motion already aroused. 3. Those which moderate too great an attention; and this concerning the senses.

BOOK XI.

Chap. VIII.

On the Will.

Next follows the Will, which is a manner of thinking by which the mind freely desires or rejects the things understood.

The object of this are known things, for as there is no desire for what is unknown, so there is also no fleeing from it; and for this reason the will is mostly called a blind faculty, because it has need of the understanding as its guide.

But the understanding so precedes the will, that sometimes one, sometimes two, sometimes all three of its acts precede; for not seldom a determined willing arises without a preceding estimation or a proper judgment, as appears in boys and other less prudent persons, who will and do not will something without proper weighing and judgment.

The form of the will consists in freedom, by which the mind freely desires or rejects; for it has the free power of willing or not willing those things which have been estimated and judged by the judgment of the understanding; although it is true that the will very often follows a bad estimation and certain spontaneous inclinations, arisen out of a bad habit of willing, so much so that it desires what by an erring judgment has been estimated good, and flees what by a like judgment has been judged bad, and often even struggles against that judgment itself, fleeing the things estimated good and desiring the bad, according to that saying of Medea: I see the better things and approve them, the worse I follow.

Notwithstanding this, however, the will remains first of all and in itself indifferent with regard to opposites of whatever kind, both contrary and diverse ones as well as contradictory ones, so much so that what it now wills, or once willed, it could now, or at any other time, not will, and could desire the things contrary to or diverse from them.

Hence it is, namely, that anyone can experience in his own conscience that he has omitted that which he could have done, and likewise that he has done this, of which he could have performed the contrary.

Hence it is also certain that men will not always on the same consideration desire or reject that which, as the same or in all respects like it, is offered to them at a different time while they are in the same condition.

The will therefore can differ from the understanding, not only out of a bad habit of willing, but also out of a bad manner of understanding, and therefore the will, according to the object which it desires, is either good, or bad, or erring.

Good is that which follows the dictate of the understanding, duly proposed.

change, the chymus abundantly testifies, and in the kitchen we experience that the sauce, boiled by the fire, changes colour.

BOOK IX.

Chapter XIX.

On Waking and sleep.

Accidents of the senses are vital force and rest.

The vital force of the senses is called waking, which is a continuous presenting of objects to the senses, either inwardly or outwardly.

The natural cause of waking is therefore the attention directed to those sensations. But a preternatural cause is all that which can strongly affect one of the inward or outward senses.

The rest of the senses is called sleep, and is a lifting away of that presenting of objects.

Of this the causes are: 1. Those which take away the objects of the senses that exert influence; 2. Those which lift away a motion already begun; 3. Those which slacken a too great attention. And this concerning the senses.

BOOK XI.

Chapter VIII.

On the Will.

Now follows the Will, which is a manner of thinking by which the mind freely desires or rejects the things grasped by the understanding.

The object thereof are known things, for there is thus no desire for, nor fleeing from, that which is not known. And for this reason the will is mostly called a blind faculty, because it has need of the understanding as its guide.

But the understanding so precedes the will, that sometimes one act, sometimes two, sometimes all its three acts (activities) precede. For not seldom a firmly determined willing arises without an estimation preceding it, or a proper judgment, as appears in boys and other less sensible people, who, without proper consideration and judgment, will and do not will something.

The form of the will consists in freedom, by which the mind freely desires or rejects. For it has the free power of willing or not willing that which has been estimated and valued by the judgment of the understanding. Although it is true that the will very often follows a bad estimation and certain spontaneous inclinations, arisen out of the bad habit of willing, so much so that it desires what by an erring judgment has been valued as good, and flees or avoids what by a like judgment has been judged bad, and often also struggles against that judgment itself, fleeing what has been valued as good and desiring what is bad, like that word of Medea: I see the better and approve it, the worse I follow[1].

Notwithstanding this, however, the will remains first of all and in itself indifferent with regard to opposites, of whatever kind, both contrary and diverse ones as well as contradictory ones, so much so that what it now wills, or once willed, it could now or at any other time not will, and could desire that which is contrary to or diverse from it.

Hence it is natural, what everyone can experience in his own consciousness, that he has left undone that which he could have done, and likewise that he has done that of which he could have performed the contrary.

Hence it is also certain that men will not always on the same consideration desire or reject that which, as the same, or in all respects

---

[1] Ovidius "Metamorphoses" VII. 20, 21.

[the Latin text in the left column and its Dutch translation in the right column are printed side by side; the left column is given first.]

(Latin) Bad is that which conflicts with the intellect rightly giving its pronouncement.

Erring is that which follows the intellect giving a wrong pronouncement, or which resists a desire that is well affected.

The actions of the Will are commonly held to be βούλησις & προαίρεσις, of which the former would be the willing and desiring of the end, the latter however of the means; but in reality these do not differ; for both look to an end, although not equally directly; and moreover, the means themselves are certain ends, subordinated to some higher end, and finally all ends, with the exception of the last, may also be called means in respect of the last.

One also usually distinguishes the actions of the will into [elicited & commanded.

> The former they call those which are set in motion by the mind itself in order to attain the end.
>
> The latter, however, those which at the command of the mind are carried out by the instruments and organs of the body for the attainment of the end.
>
> But the elicited actions belong to the judgement of the intellect, the commanded ones however are of the Will alone, to whose command the members of the body obey.
>
> The other things which can be said about the mind can be supplied either from general Pneumatics or from special ψυχολογια. Here therefore let there be, of those things which about man, and thus about all natural bodies, could be said in the manner of a textbook as briefly as possible,
>
> THE END."
>
> like it, is offered at a different time to those who find themselves in the same condition.
>
> The will can therefore be contrary to the intellect, not only by virtue of the habit of willing the bad, but also through the bad manner of understanding, and therefore the will, according to the object which it desires, is either good, or bad, or erring.
>
> Good is the will which follows the pronouncement of the intellect that is properly presented.
>
> Bad, the will which resists the intellect that properly gives its pronouncement.
>
> Erring, the will which follows the intellect that gives a bad pronouncement, or which resists a desire that arises from a good affection.
>
> As the workings of the Will are commonly held to be: Willing and choosing, of which the first would be an end, the other however a willing or desiring of the means. But in essence these do not differ, for both look to an end, although not equally directly, and what is more, the means themselves are indeed an end, subordinate to some higher end; and finally every end, with the exception of the last end, may be called a means, with a view to the last.
>
> One also usually distinguishes the workings of the will into elicited and commanded.
>
> The first are called those which are set in motion by the mind itself in order to reach an end.
>
> The last however, those which at the command of the mind are performed by the instruments and organs of the body for the attainment of an end.
>
> But the elicited workings belong to the judgement of the intellect, the commanded ones however are of the will alone, whose command the members of the body obey.
>
> The other things which can be said about the mind can be supplemented either from the general doctrine of the mind or from special psychology. Here therefore must be the end of those things which about man, and in so far about all bodies of nature, could be said as briefly as possible within the measure of a textbook.

The chief conclusion which we can draw from what has been included above is, in my opinion, this, that Johannes Greydanus belonged, as he himself says in his "Kort Voorbericht aan den lezer", to the eclectic tendency in Philosophy (see on page 154 the sentence which I have had printed in italics), that is the tendency to which his teacher, Prof. Johannes Phocylides Holwarda, also adhered, and which consisted in this, that from all systems — thus also from the Cartesian — the best was chosen, or as he himself calls it in his preface just mentioned: "the tendency in which we, after having considered everything, retain what is true".

From his marriage proclamation of 18 June 1654, given on page 87, we have seen that Johannes Greydanus then lived at Franeker: "by the Town Hall", where his "friend and fellow combatant" Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama will have lodged with him, but in which house exactly that was is not known. Likewise it has not been possible to find where Johannes Greydanus lived immediately after his marriage. It is however certain that in April 1668 he was in possession of the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh onwards on "de Greyde" (see the table belonging to page 101), which house, as is mentioned on page 101, remained the property of the "Greydanus" family for more than 80 years. But whether he moved into this house cannot be stated with certainty. On 8 February 1667 he bought for 1277 goldguldens from the orphan children of Baucke Sickes van Bourstee, Town and Province Master Mason, "a certain fine, splendid, newly built house and garden with appurtenances, standing to the North of the Diep in the Nieuwe Hof (or Heerengracht)[1], having to the East the widow of D^{r} Jousma and to the West Pyter Minses". The purchased house could be taken possession of on 1 May 1667, so that it seems quite probable that Prof. Greydanus, who died on 4 June 1668, was still established in this house for a short time. The original Decreetbrief (letter of judicial decree), relating to the public sale of the house held by decree of the Court of Franeker (which sale took place in this manner because the property belonged to orphaned children), has been preserved and is at present in the possession of Mr. T. Greidanus at Amsterdam (N^{o} 455 of the genealogy). The "Decreetbrief for Professor Johannes Greidanus and his wife" reads as follows:

[1] That Baucke Sickes was called Baucke Sickes van Bourstee, was Town and Province Master Mason, and lived on the Heeregracht, appears from his Franeker judicial marriage proclamation dated 21 April 1661: Baucke Sickes van Bourstee, Town and Province Master Mason at the Heregracht and Antie Heerckesdr. of Jellum now at Roorda Burch.

"Burgomasters and Councillors of the town of Franeker
hereby make known and declare that one Jacob Jouckes, master shoemaker in the aforesaid town, as authorized guardian over the orphaned children left by the late Baucke Sickes, in his lifetime town mason, has represented to us that, for the maintenance and care of the said children and for their debts, it was most urgently necessary to sell a certain house and garden, with appurtenances, standing here on the north side of the Nieuwe Hof, at present inhabited by Professor Huber. And since the same etc.: Whereupon it was ordered by us: The Court of the town of Franeker hereby orders and commissions the burgomasters Brunia[1] and Gascamp[2] together and each of them separately, to inform themselves concerning the necessity of the sale mentioned in the petition, and to make report thereof to the honourable Court, so that, this having been done, further disposition may be made as is proper. Done at Franeker, the 6th of December 1666; below stood: By order of the aforesaid Court, and it was signed G: Kaldenbach with flourishes. Whereupon then, the report of the aforesaid commissioner having been heard, it was finally ordered as follows: The aforesaid Court, having heard the report of the honourable commissioner and the necessity of the aforesaid sale, has consented to the same, so doing by these presents, observing therein the formalities required by the custom of the country. Done at Franeker, the 18th of December 1666; below stood: By order of the aforesaid Court, and it was signed G. Kaldenbach with flourishes. In order then to proceed further lawfully therein, the said commissioner, after the sale had been set on foot with strijkgeld (bidder's premium), in order to reach the highest price, caused it to be proclaimed at three different times, both on Sundays and on court days, respectively from the church and from the Court here, and caused it to be announced throughout the whole town by bills and by drumbeat, at the customary time and place! That, after three Sunday and Court proclamations, first at the going out of the burning candle, thereafter at the drawing of the seal out of the wax, and thus by decree and approbation of the Court of the town of Franeker, there was offered for sale a certain fine, handsome, newly built house and garden with appurtenances, standing north of the Nieuwe diep, having to the East the widow of D:ne Jousma, and to the West Pijter Menses, charged with its proper floreen, at present inhabited by Professor Huber, and left by the deceased[4] Baucke Sickes, town mason; whoever had a mind to it might come on the 30th of January 1667 at the town hall at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, being a Thursday, and buy on the conditions and articles to be read out beforehand to the bystanders at that time; likewise, if anyone wished to make any objection or protest, he should then state his grounds of opposition precisely, on pain of forfeiture. After which the joint commissioner, the burgomaster Lolle Pijters Garscamp, together with the secretary, repaired at the appointed time to the town hall, and there caused to be read out aloud the articles drawn up for the sale, running thus: Firstly, that the sale, as well as the raising of the bids, should take place in goldguldens (gold guilders), halves and quarters thereof. That the buyer should take possession of the purchase on the 1st of May 1667. That on the coming court day, the 8th of February, the day of raising the bids and of the final knock-down would be held, at the lifting of the seal out of the wax, here before this Court at 9 o'clock in the forenoon. That the decree should be delivered at the cost of the buyer. That the buyer who should remain purchaser at the burning candle should enjoy the sixth penning of the increase which should take place at the lifting of the seal out of the wax. That the final buyer should be bound, upon receiving the knock-down, or at the drawing of the seal out of the wax, to pay the stuiver monies, for the covering of the previous sessions, salaries and expenses and whatever else had been incurred over the sale with strijkgeld, and likewise to refund the strijkgeld increase and the poor-monies, as expressed before. That the final buyer should be to pay the purchase money in three equal terms, namely on the 1 May days of the years 1667, 1668 and 1669, each time a just third part, in free, costless and harmless money, both as regards consent money, the 56th penny, and other charges to be incurred in this matter; That the buyers, when so requested, should be obliged to provide sufficient surety for the purchase sum and its appurtenances, which surety, renouncing the benefit of discussion of the principal and pledging his goods, should undertake to pay the promised purchase money as his own debt, and to stand in for the buyer in all things; That the seller should be entitled to fall back upon the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and further bidders, and to accept them at his pleasure as final buyers, in such manner that each should have to stand by his bid until the final palmslagh (the handclasp concluding the bargain) should be given to another; That, for the proper payment of the purchase money, not only the property sold should be specially bound and mortgaged, under the clause of constitutum in due form, until full payment, but also generally all the buyer's other goods, none excepted, under submission to the Court of Frieslandt as to this Court of Franeker. After the proclamation of all of which, since no one appeared to make any opposition, the said Commissaris had the candle lit upon the sale, and further asked repeatedly whether anyone wished to raise the bid made by the Heer Professor Johannes Greidanus of twelve hundred and seventy-seven goldguldens (gold guilders), and that by strijckgelt (premium to the bidder at the candle), ... but since at that time no one appeared to raise it, the candle thereupon burned out, and the aforewritten Professor Greidanus remained buyer at that time. After which again the time and place of the sale at the lifting of the seal out of the wax was announced throughout the whole town by fresh publication, both by the posting of bills and by the beating of the drum, and the buyer was summoned to see the Decree interposed upon the sale; and further, the above-mentioned articles having been read beforehand to everyone at the Town Hall, as also the first buyer with his promised purchase sum having been named and made known, the seal was thereupon set upon the wax, and further it was asked at various times by the said Commissaris whether anyone wished to raise the previous bid of 1277 goldguld:, but since no one appeared at that time to raise it, the aforesaid Commissaris lifted the seal out of the wax, and thus the aforementioned Heer Professor Johannes Greidanus remained the final buyer. Wherefore we, Burgomasters and Councillors of the aforesaid Town of Franeker, having seen the acts and proceedings of the honourable Commissaris, as also having heard his report, have, in the name and on behalf of the sovereignty of the Province of Frieslandt, confirmed, approved and decreed the aforesaid sale, confirming, approving and decreeing the same hereby, thereby divesting the aforesaid seller in his capacity of the aforesaid house and garden with appurtenances, and placing therein, and in the vacant, real and actual possession thereof, the said Heer Professor Johannes Greidanus with his wife, so that they may from now on hold, possess and use the property sold in ownership, according to the tenor of the aforesaid articles, without prejudice to the Province of Frieslandt, this Town of Franeker, and to everyone's rights in other matters. Wherefore we, Burgomasters and Councillors of the aforesaid Town, condemn the buyer to bring up the promised purchase money, with its appurtenances, at the proper time and to pay it in conformity with the aforesaid articles. In witness of the truth we have had this confirmed with our Town's Great pendent Seal, as also by the hand of the Secretary, today within Franeker, at the Town Hall, the 8th February 1667.
(signed) G. Kaldenbach."

[1] Agge Andries Brunia.

[2] As appears further on: Lolle Pijters Garscamp.

[3] This manner of proceeding was prescribed in Book I, Title XIII and Book III, Title XXVIII of the Statutes or Provincial Ordinance of Friesland for the sale or exchange of immovable property belonging, among others, to minors.

This sale was proclaimed on 3 successive Sundays from the Church, and on 3 court days from the Court, after which a session day was fixed at a certain hour and place, in order to auction the goods publicly by the burning candle and to leave them to him who, at the going out of the candle, was the last to raise the bid. After this the documents were brought before the Court of Friesland or the lower court, the sale was proclaimed once more from the Church and from the Court, and a session day was held before the Court of Friesland or the lower court, where everyone could raise the highest bid made at the burning candle "before the drawing of the seal out of the wax" of the decree which the Court of Friesland or the lower court would thereupon pass, "but he who shall have remained purchaser at the burning candle shall have the sixth penning of the increase which shall take place at the time of the lifting of the seal out of the wax."

At the session by the burning candle, therefore, no strijkgeld or increase money was actually given, so that the purpose of the lawgiver appears to have been to make these sales as little costly as possible. For the bidders were spurred on to try to become purchaser at the burning candle, in the hope of afterwards enjoying the increase money to be levied, and the higher the price then ran, the more increase money had to be paid out and thus the less was taken off the proceeds of what had been sold.

This manner of proceeding, which had its good side, already existed in 1542 and lasted until about the year 1809.

[4] Abbreviation of "obiit", he has died.

In the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) 1661—1682 the following is noted concerning this purchase:

> "Everyone is hereby informed that, after three Sunday and court proclamations, first at the going out of the burning candle, thereafter at the drawing of the seal out of the wax, and thus by Decree and approbation of the Court of the Town of Franeker, there is offered for sale a certain fine, splendid, newly built house and garden with appurtenances, standing to the north of the canal, in the Nieuwe Hof, having to the east the widow of D^re^ Jousma and to the west Pijter Minses, charged with its proper floreen (land tax), at present inhabited by Professor Huber and left by the late Baucke Sickes master mason.

> Whoever has an interest therein may come on the day,[1] hour and place which shall be designated on the third proclamation day respectively over the Church and the Court here, and buy on conditions and articles to be read beforehand to the bystanders; also, should anyone wish to make any objection or protest, he may then state his grounds of opposition pertinently, on penalty of forfeiture.
> First Proclamation in Court the 21st December 1666
> 2nd Proclamation in Court the 18th January 1667
> 3rd Procl. in Court the 25th January 1667
> 4th Procl. in Court the 1st February 1667."

It is fairly certain that Prof. Greydanus, in order to pay this purchase sum, borrowed money from Ds. Adrianus Bechius, Dutch Reformed minister at Engelum. For in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Menaldumadeel there occurs on 7 July 1679 an inventory at the house of the late Ds. Adrianus Bechius, Dutch Reformed minister at Engelum, who was married to Tjamk Jans and had as children Henricus, studiosus (student) (18 yrs) and Susanna, wife of Petrus Bransma, former cornet of a company of cavalry at Leeuwarden, in which inventory the following clause is found:

> "Professor Joannes Greidanus at Franeker owes, according to the bond dated 2 April 1667, the sum of 425 g.gl. 18 st. 10 penn. as remainder, with the interest from May 1679 at 5 per hundred."

After the death of Prof. Greydanus the purchased house became the property of his son Tjardus Greydanus for the one half, and of his daughter Elisabeth Greydanus for the other half. This Elisabeth Greydanus married for the 2nd time Joannes Antonides (Boeckholt) (see page 230), schoolmaster first at Pingjum and later at Sexbierum. From this marriage several children were born, of whom, however, only Trijntie Joannes Antonidi (Boeckholt) remained alive, who after the death of her parents came into possession of the half house. All this may appear from the inventory drawn up on 26 September 1703 at the house of the deceased Elisabeth Greidanus at Sexbierum, who was then already the widow of Joannes Antonides (Boeckholt), in which inventory (see page 228) the property was described as "a very handsome house and garden, standing and situated on the Nieuwwerck at Franeker, being rented by Dr. de Jongh, minister at de Knijpe, which house belongs to the ward [Trijntie Joannes Antonidi (Boeckholt)] for the one half and to her curator (Ds. Theardus Greydanus, minister in the village of Achlum, full uncle on the mother's side) the other half in his own name, yielding for the whole annually in rent 57 carolus guilders in free money".

[1] On the 31st January 1667, being a Thursday, at one o'clock by the burning candle, and on the 5th February following, being a court day, at the lifting of the seal out of the wax, at 9 o'clock, before noon, at the Town Hall here.

The possession of the half house by Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, the Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitsum, passed after his death on 19 March 1712 to his son Ausonius. This follows from the deed dated 31 October 1715 of the Franeker Protocolboek (register of deeds), included on page 305, by which Ausonius' cousin, the above-mentioned Trijntie Joannes Antonides (Boeckholt) — also called Trijntie Jans —, who was married to Feicke Pieters, sells her half of the house for 312 gold guilders to the owner of the other half, that is to say the said Ausonius Greidanus, who was then only 13 years old and therefore was represented by his curator Suffridus (van) Westerhuis.

The son of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, the later apothecary Tjeerd Greydanus at Harlingen (see page 354), inherited the property from his father, for in the Reëel-cohier (real-estate tax register) of Franeker, present in the Municipal Archives there, Tjeerd Greydanus is named in 1766 as the succeeding owner of the property.

Tjeerd Greydanus sold the house, according to the following abridged deed dated 9 May 1768 in the Protocolboek of Franeker, for 1450 carolus guilders to Jan Hendrik van Swinden, Professor of Philosophy at the Academy at Franeker, whereby this property, which had been in the possession of the "Greydanus" family for over a century, passed into the ownership of others:

> "Tjeerd Greijdanus, apothecary at Harlingen, sells to Mr. Jan Hendrik van Swinden, Professor of Philosophy at the Academy at Franeker, a certain distinguished house, back yard and garden, the house consisting of three lower and two upper rooms, further kitchen, well, cistern and privy with everything that is fixed thereto by earth, band, spike and nail, just as and in such manner as it was inhabited by the late Prof. H. W. Berntzauw and afterwards by Mr. Dois, standing and situated on the Nieuw Hof at Franeker, having the public street to the South, Mijnte Pieters, master mason, to the West, Abraham Garama, schoolmaster, to the East, and burgomaster Nauta to the North as neighbours, for 1450 carolus guilders.
> (signed) Tjeerd Greijdanus (signed) G. C. Gonggrijp, advocate, witness."

By Prof. van Swinden the house was sold in 1785 to Mrs. Widow of the late Pieter Reboulleau, born de Maffe, at Franeker, whose daughter, the citizeness A. E. Reboulleau, widow of the late Prof. J. Garcin, transferred it in 1797 to Gerrit Noot, Captain in the 3rd Battalion of the 4th half Brigade of Infantry in the service of the Batavian Republic, then in garrison in the Nieuwe Akker Schans in Groningerland. From the sale was excepted: "the bookcases, the little iron chimney in the study, the stove in the lecture room, as well as the linen press, which the seller, although they be found fixed, retains for herself". The relevant entries in the Franeker Protocolboek follow here in the main:

> "20 Jan. 1785. The highly learned and widely renowned Mr. J. H. van Swinden, Professor Ordinarius of Philosophy at the Provincial Academy at Franeker, sells to Mrs. Widow of the late Pieter Reboulleau, born de Maffe, at Franeker, a certain house and garden with appurtenances of mine, standing and situated on the Nieuw Hof within Franeker, at present inhabited by myself as owner, encumbered with one year's lease and nine option years belonging to the lady and purchaser, annually for a sum of 80 carolus guilders above the whole chimney tax, which alone comes at her expense, having ... to the East, Pieter Pieter, master mason, to the West, and Dr. R. Nauta to the North and the street and canal to the South as neigh> bours, for 2900 carolus guilders of 20 stuivers each."

> "15 April 1797. The citizeness A. E. Reboulleau, widow of the late J. Garcin, in his lifetime Master of Liberal Arts and of Philosophy,
>
> D^{r} Ling. Gall. Professor and minister of the Walloon Congregation at Franeker sells to the Citizen G. Noot, Captain in the 3^{e} Battalion of the 4^{e} half Brigade of infantry in the service of the Batavian Republic, at present in garrison in the Nieuwe Akker Schans in Groningerland, my excellent cross-house, garden and summer-house with all that is fixed to it by earth, beam, wall, spike and nail, except the bookcases, the small iron chimney in the study, the stove in the lecture room, and also the linen press, which the seller, though they are found to be fixed, reserves for herself, standing and situated across from the Nieuwe Hoff, inhabited by the seller herself as owner, but to be vacated on 12 May 1797 and free of ground rent, having a free alley between the house on the east and this one; having as adjoining neighbours Rinse Gerrits on the east, Pieter Pie^{s} Pook on the west, the street and the canal on the south and Dr. R. Nauta and associates on the north; publicly sold for 972 ggl. 21 strs or 1361 cargl. 17 strs."

From the archive of the Franeker notary Mr. I. Telting it appears that the house was publicly sold, provisionally on 8 October 1821 and finally on 22 October following, by Jacobus Pierson Tholen, Professor at Franeker, executor of the will of the late Mrs. Maria Anna de Jongh, widow of the late Mr. Gerrit Noot, to Sybren Bauckes van Smeden, master blacksmith at Franeker, and Klaas Sybrens Ferwerda, master dyer at Tzum, each for one half, for the sum of 989 gulden. The property was then described as a "solid, spacious and very commodious house, garden and yard within Franeker, ward Tweede Oost N^{o} 89, provided with several rooms, with a free alley on the east". The adjoining neighbours were: D. G. Boorsma on the east, Zijtze Hilles Hilstra on the west, G. Hollander and Pieter Gerrits on the north and the street on the south.

By private sale of 22 January 1822, as appears from a deed executed before the same notary, the said property, according to the Kadaster (land registry), around 1830 measuring 400 centiare, was transferred in ownership by the said owners Van Smeden and Ferwerda to Age Annes Bleker, merchant at the K.V. [1] (N^{o} 2), for the sum of 800 gl..

At the establishment of the Kadaster around 1830 the owner was still: Age Annes Bleeker, merchant and butcher at Franeker;

in 1837: Janke Ages Bleeker;

± 1845: Fedde Hannema, baker at Franeker;

± 1846: Douwe Jans Bangma, farmer at Arum;

1874: Jan Douwes Bangma, farmer at Parrega;

1877: Douwe Buwalda, minor, at Arum;

1883: Theodorus Wilhelmus Dopheide at Franeker;

1890: Joris Kuurstra, carpenter at Franeker;

and at present the owner is: Tjitske de Groot, widow, at Franeker.

After the occupancy by Gerrit Noot the appearance of the house has evidently greatly deteriorated. At present it is let to 4 labourers' families. In the course of time the front has been altered by replacing the front door with a double entrance door, in order to make the property suitable for occupation by more than one family.

In the Reëel-cohieren (real property tax registers) of Franeker the house appears from 1713 onwards under the ward: "Tweede Oost n^{o} 80"; in 1809 it bore the number 89 and at present it is numbered 184, 185 and 186. When Prof. Greydanus bought it in 1667 it stood to the north of "'t Diep in 't Nieuwe Hof" or, on the ground of the note on page 162, possibly on the Heeregracht; in 1703 it was situated on "'t Nieuwwerck", later on "'t Nieuw Hoff" and at present it is the 7th property on the Heeregracht, between the Lijnbaanstraat (alley) and the Dijkstraat. A photograph of the front of this present property is appended here.

As has already been reported, it seems probable that Prof. Greydanus lived in the house for a short time, but no proofs of this have been found; whether after his death in 1668 any member of the "Greydanus" family still stayed in it, is not known. Among the occupants have been, among others: Prof. E. L. Vriemoet, Professor of Oriental languages, who rented it from 1731 to 1737 for 95—100 car.gl. a year; in 1749 Prof. J. Schrader, Professor of History and Eloquence, and from 1753 to 1762 Prof. H. W. Bernsau, Professor of Theology, at a yearly rent of 100 car.gl..

[1] K.V. = Kaatsveld.

Front façade of the present property Heeregracht 184, 185 and 186 at Franeker, purchased in its original condition in 1667 by Prof. Johannes Greydanus.

From the volume of poems published on the occasion of the death of Prof. Johannes Greydanus it appears that at that time his wife Yttie Pieters Wimersma was still alive. She even seems to have been still living at Franeker on 12 October of the year of his death (1668) (see pages 132 and 195). Of her, however, nothing further has become known. In view of the fact that her son Petrus, before he took up the ministry of Rijperkerk, as a candidate in theology came under the classis of Leeuwarden (see note on page 240), it is not impossible that she lived within this classis. This also seems to be indicated by the granting of pensions to children of Prof. Joh. Greydanus by the delegates of Smallingerland represented in the States of Oostergo on 26 March 1669 and by those of Westdongeradeel on 16 May 1674 (see page 202 and page 221).

Just a few days before the death of Prof. Greydanus on 4 June 1668, namely on 29 May preceding, the Deputy States had decided to have the salary of the deceased still paid out to the widows or heirs of Professors or other provincial officials, not on the customary two half-yearly payment dates, but only on the single half-yearly payment date following the decease.

This decision was taken in consequence of a petition from the widow of Prof. Wilhelmus Cup, who died on 16 January 1667, requesting:

> "an order for one year's salary, in which year her late husband died", and "whereupon, after having taken in the advice of the Lords Auditors, it was decided that, seeing that other widows before this have likewise enjoyed a year of grace of salary, to the aforesaid petitioner, over and above the half-year of death's salary of 600 £, shall be granted the sum of 400 £, and accordingly an order shall be passed for her to the amount of 1000 car. £, whereby this custom shall cease, and hereafter to no widow or heirs of deceased professors or other provincial officials shall any further order be granted than for that salary which falls due on the next following payment date."[1]

According to the Registration Books of the Payment Orders of the Frisian Chamber of Accounts, the widow of Prof. Greydanus was dealt with in accordance with this resolution, for, although her name is not mentioned, the last half-yearly salary on behalf of the Professor was nevertheless paid out on 14 September 1668.

According to the deed reproduced on page 28, dated "Monday the 16th of November 1668", from the "Litium Acad. Rotula" of the Franeker Academic Archive, at the request of Hidde Johans, as great-uncle by marriage, and of Agge Romckes, as second cousin by marriage, Prof. Dr. Philippus Mathaeus, Professor of Medicine, was appointed curator over the children of Prof. Greydanus.

Further, nothing could be found in the Academic Archive or in the other archives concerning the estate of Prof. Johannes Greydanus.

The only thing still encountered is the following, occurring under the heading "Letters and Instruments" of the Inventory, drawn up 26 September 1703 at the house of the deceased, of Prof. Greydanus' daughter Elisabeth Greydanus, in her time widow of the late Joannes

Antonides (Boeckholt), in life schoolmaster at Sexbierum (see page 228):

> "Copy, Account, Proof and remainder rendered by the Hon. Professor Matheus Senior with some documents pertaining thereto concerning His Honour's administration held from the month of November 1668 until November 1690 over the goods left by the Honourable Professor Greydanus."
> "An agreement, transaction and final settlement, established and confirmed between the ward's late Mother and her brothers concerning their late parents' estate, dated 5 April 1695."

Those "parents" were Prof. Greydanus and Yttie Pieters Wimersma, the latter of whom therefore died before 5 April 1695.

Possibly the coming of age of the youngest of the children of Prof. Greydanus was for the curator Prof. Matthaeus Sr. the reason to render account of his administration in November 1690. The youngest son Petrus was born at Franeker on 20 September 1665 and was thus just 25 years old in November 1690, when Prof. Matthaeus Sr. laid down his curatorship.

In any case the estate of Prof. Johannes Greydanus must have included: 1° the "very handsome House and Garden, standing and situated on 't Nieuwwerck at Franeker", purchased by him in 1667 for 1277 gold guilders, probably still inhabited by him for a short time and, according to the inventory dated 26 September 1703 at the house of death of his late daughter Elisabeth Greydanus, left by him (see page 228);

[1] Because the content of this resolution has been cast in narrative form, it is not word for word the same as the original.

2° "a certain house and kitchen with appurtenances" on "de Greyde" at Franeker — the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh onwards —, which at the end of 1698 was sold by two of the children of Prof. Greydanus for 160 car. gl. (see page 101) and in which Prof. Greydanus might possibly have lived;

3° "a bond of the Province payable to the bearer hereof, amounting to 400 car.gl., having been issued in favour of Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Professor of Philosophy, dated 1 May 1666"[1], as appears from the estate of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitsum (see page 207);

4° "a bond of the Province, dated 14 September 1666, standing in the name of the late Mr. Professor Greydanus, amounting in capital to 400 cargl."[1], as appears from the estate of Elisabeth Greydanus, remarried to Joannes Antonides (Boeckholt) (see page 228).

Among the painted portraits of the Professors of the former Franeker Academy, which portraits are now hung in the Town Hall there, the portrait of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus is not to be found.

From the "Index Alphabeticvs /Quorum nominibus hic additur Asteriscus*, eorum Imagines conspiciuntur in Curia Acad. nostrae"[2], — in which therefore an asterisk has been placed after the names of those Professors of whom a portrait is found in the Assembly Hall of the Academy —, occurring at the back of the little book "Series Professorvm et Lectorvm Academiae Frisicae, qvae est Franeqverae" by Prof. E. L. Vriemoet, which was printed in 1745 and may be regarded as a forerunner of the larger work on the Franeker University published by that author in 1758, it appears that already then — thus in 1745 — the portrait of Prof. Greydanus was not present among the portraits of the Franeker Professors.

From the Franeker legal documents given below (Portfolio I. 16) one might draw the conclusion that a painted portrait of Prof. Johannes Greydanus never existed, for in 1664 he did indeed commission the painter Mathijs Usens to paint him and his wife, but the carrying out of that commission failed in a lamentable way. For Mathijs Usens was, after the commission, taken prisoner and condemned "to be led by the executioner onto the scaffold and there to be very severely flogged and to have his tongue pierced with a glowing iron", and further to be banished "for ever out of Friesland", because he, although "born of Christian parents and brought up in the Christian religion, had in February last, both at the house of Secretary Hansma at Workum and in the inn, spoken much in contempt of God and His holy Word":

Let it be placed in the hands of the opposing party in order to state within two days his opinion hereon, after notification of this, so that, this being done, further disposition may be made as is proper.
Done 22 July 1664
By order of the Court
In the absence of the Secretary
(signed) L. Hachtingius 1664.
"To the Honourable Magistrate
of the Town of Franeker.
With due reverence the Honourable Professor Greydanus informs Your Honours that he recently sold to a certain painter, whose name is unknown to the petitioner, but who is the person who a few weeks ago was publicly flogged in Leeuwarden at the blockhouse, a certain bed, on condition that the said painter should pay for it when he had painted the petitioner and his wife, which the aforesaid painter, since he had been brought into prison[3] and banished from this province, has not been able to carry out; now it is so that it has become known to the petitioner that the said bed is at present in the house of Joannes Clasen, butcher, here on the [1] These two provincial bonds, together amounting to 800 Caroli guilders, were issued to Prof. Greydanus in 1666, because he, in connection with the country's great need, had had to advance to the country a sum of 800 Caroli guilders, corresponding to his yearly salary (see page 133).

[2] (Those at whose names an asterisk is here added, of them the portraits are to be seen in the Assembly Hall of our Academy).

[3] Criminal sentence of the Court of Friesland dated 9 July 1664. Matthijs Usens, painter, at present a prisoner, condemned to be led by the executioner onto the scaffold and there to be very severely flogged and to have his tongue pierced with a glowing iron, banishes him further for ever out of Friesland, because — although the prisoner, born of Christian parents and brought up in the Christian religion, had in February last, both at the house of Secretary Hansma at Workum and in the inn, spoken much in contempt of God and His holy Word, etc.

> Viverstraat, and therefore public persons, namely Wybrandus Joannis and Heyn Arriens were ordered to ask whether he, Joannes, would voluntarily hand over the bed to the petitioner or not, and since the said Joannes Clasen was absent, received from his wife the following answer, namely, that she wished to keep the bed for the house rent, according to the annexed report marked A; and since the petitioner and no one else is the owner of the aforesaid bed, the more so since it is still unpaid, understanding therefore, with all due reverence to the Magistrate, that Joannes Clasen is not in the least entitled to it, since he cannot possess the goods of others against their will and consent; wherefore the petitioner humbly requests that the said Joannes Clasen may be ordered to hand over the bed to the petitioner, or to let him have it, with the offer that he, the petitioner, will satisfy the aforesaid painter at valuation; (Latin) which being done and as requested/s/.
> (signed) Wybrandus Joannes.
> We the undersigned public persons in Franeker declare that at the request of the Honourable Professor Grijdanus we went to the wife of Joannes Clasen, butcher in the Vijverstraat here, whom (since her husband was absent) we asked whether she would let the aforesaid Professor have the bed which the painter had left there, or not; we received as answer: we keep the bed for the rent; of which this is the report. In witness of our hands. Franeker, this 21 July 1664.
> (signed) H. Aerjans (signed) Wybrandus Joannis."

Nevertheless I have succeeded in tracing a depiction — though a defective one — of Prof. Johannes Greydanus.

On the "31st of October" 1664 (see Part XIII page 98 of the "Vaderlandsche Historie" by J. Wagenaar) the Stadhouder of Friesland and Groningen, Prince Willem Frederik van Nassau-Dietz, died at Leeuwarden as a result of the sudden discharge of his saddle pistol, which had at first failed and which he therefore wished to examine. His remains were buried at Leeuwarden with pomp and splendour on 27 December 1664 Old Style or 6 January New Style [1], and interred there in the Jacobijner Kerk.

This funeral was attended among others by the Professors of the Franeker, as well as by the Professors of the Groningen university.

In the Franeker Academic Archive one finds in the "Diarium Actorum" of 1664—1683, on page 10, the following entry concerning this, from which it appears that the Professors were to form part of the funeral procession according to an established order which had been read out, and that, if the Gentlemen of the Council of War and the military officers should wish to press in front of them, they would patiently allow this — and I would say that in doing so they showed themselves true wise men. For attendance at the solemn banquet (epulum) the Rector Magnificus Joannes Terentius and Prof. Joachimus Frencelius were designated, or, if the latter should be invited privately, Prof. Nicolaus Arnoldus. For expenses of "carriage as well as the entertainment" 1 silver ducaton was allotted for each of the 15 Professors and for the Secretary of the Academy, and half a silver ducaton for each of the two Pedels, to be charged to the Academy Fund. On the day of the funeral they were to assemble in the morning at exactly 9 o'clock in "Het Wapen van Vranckrijk" at Leeuwarden:

> "On 9 Decemb. (1664) the Honourable Rector Magnifi/cu/s > has reported on his executed commission to > Leuwerden concerning the order in the funeral of > His Princely Grace: And said that . . . . [2] according to > the established and read-out order the place to be taken and that if the Gentlemen of the Krijgsgeraedt (council of war) and the military officers should push in ahead of the Acadae College, this shall be accepted patiently.
> For the Epulum (banquet) the Honourable Gentleman Rector Magnificus and Mr. Frencelius have been appointed, but should Mr. Frencelius receive a private invitation, then the Honourable Gentleman Nicolaús Arnoldús is substituted.
> It has likewise been resolved that, to cover the costs, both of the carriage and of the entertainment, seventeen silver Ducatons shall be taken from the fund, for the Honourable Gentlemen and the Sris (Secretary) one each and both the Beadles half a ducaton each, without any further costs being charged to the fund[1] afterwards.
> The gathering shall be at the Wapen van Vranckrijck exactly at 9 o'clock in the morning before the funeral.
> (Latin) Done in the Senate Hall as above.
> (signed) J. Kroll."

[1] In the works of Eekhoff and Frederik Muller to be mentioned hereafter, 15 Dec. 1664 O.S. and 6 January 1665 N.S. are given. In the article by Dr. Hofstede de Groot mentioned further on it is stated that these data are not correct, because the difference between old and new style in the 17th century amounted to only 10 days. Since on 6 January 1665 N.S. the accident occurred on the bridge at Franeker with Johan Maurits van Nassau-Siegen, who was returning from Leeuwarden, where he had attended the funeral ceremonies, to Holland, Dr. Hofstede de Groot gives as the date of the funeral: 15 Dec. 1664 O.S. and 25 Dec. 1664 N.S., which however, according to the reasoning set out, must be 27 December 1664 O.S. and 6 Jan. 1665 N.S.. The date of 27 December 1664 O.S. then agrees with the date of 27 December 1664 for the accident on the bridge at Franeker mentioned on page 138 of Part I of "De Vrije Fries", the journal of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden.

[2] illegible word.

Now of this funeral a print was made consisting of 25 sheets, which is one of the rarest funeral prints in existence. The print is described in the Catalogue of Historical Prints: of Frederik Muller under no 2199 and of Stolk under no 2305, as well as on pages 10 and 11 of W. Eekhoff "De Stedelijke Kunstverzameling van Leeuwarden", Leeuwarden 1875. The plate, entitled: "Rouw-Staetelycke Lykpracht in de Uyt-Vaert en Begraeffenisse van het ont-zielde Lichaem van Willem Frederik van Nassau", was published in 1666 at Leeuwarden by Sixtus Regneri Aruntsma, Allardus Stellingwerf and Sachaeus Sibema. Its draughtsman is Frans Carré (or Carree), the engravers are M. Noé and C. Appeus, while P. Langweer is the writer of the rather extensive inscriptions. Up to now only 3 copies of the plate are known, of which 2 are at present kept in the Rijks Prentenkabinet at Amsterdam and 1 in the Koninklijke Bibliotheek at 's-Gravenhage. With the copies in the Rijks Prentenkabinet, in one of which all the coats of arms, standards, caparisons, tabards etc. are handsomely coloured with colours, gold and silver by a skilled artist of the 17th century, there belongs a legend, which in the one copy is incomplete and in the other complete. The complete text has however been cut into pieces and pasted on 2 sheets. In this pasted-up text the description of the group of Franeker Professors (indicated on the print by: The Beadles — The Gentlemen Professores of the Academy at Franeker), which is followed by the Professors of the University at Groningen, reads as follows: [2]

"The Honourable Gentlemen Professors of the Academy at Franeker.
Jacobus Tabbecatius.
Petrus Poll. } Beadles.
1. Joannes Terentius, (Latin) A. M. Professor of the Language &c.
(Latin) P. T. Rector of the Academy.
2. Nicolaus Arnoldus.
3. Joannes Valckenier. } (Latin) Professors of S.S. Theology.
4. Guilhelmus Cup, (Latin) Professor of Law.
5. Joachimus Frencelius.
6. Philippus Matthæus. } (Latin) Professors of Medicine.
7. Petrus Moll, (Latin) Professor of the Greek Language.
8. Ulricus Huber, (Latin) Professor of Eloquence, History & Politics.
9. Abrahamus de Grauw, (Latin) Professor of Mathematics.
10. Johannes Greydanus.
11. Abrahamus Steyndam. } (Latin) Professors of Philosophy.
12. Johannes Wubbena.
13. Jacobus Kroll, (Latin) Secretary."

[in the list the braces join the names of each group to the profession printed beside them.]

[1] The Fund, formed from: the amount placed annually at the disposal of the Senate, the enrolment, examination and promotion fees of the students and the proceeds of the collections at the academy sermons.

[2] The numbers placed before the names do not occur in the legend, but have been added by me.

Of the staff which the Franeker Academy consisted of in December 1664, the following therefore walked in the funeral procession: both beadles, 12 of the 15 Professors and the Secretary of the Academy (absent were: Christianus Schotanus, Professor of Theology, Johannes Jacobus Wissenbach, Professor of Law, and François de la Prix, extraordinary Professor of the French Language). The question now is whether the names in this legend are given in the order in which the persons are drawn on the print, that is, in which they walked in the procession. In order to be able to judge of this, I have compared the painted portraits hanging in the Town Hall at Franeker with the figures occurring on the print. Before discussing the result of this comparison, however, I shall first give some consideration to the print itself. Eekhoff considers both the drawing and the engraving of the print very weak and defective; he finds that the faces are without expression and the figures resemble dolls. Langweer, however, is praised by Eekhoff for his fine lettering. In the 26th Part of "De Vrije Fries", the Journal of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden, there appears on pp. 12—36 an article by Dr. C. Hofstede de Groot on "De Schilder Carree en zijne teekeningen voor de Lijkstatie van Vorst Frederik van Nassau", which article deals chiefly with the little sketchbook of Frans Carree, containing the portrait studies of the persons who took part in the funeral in question, but from which sketchbook, in the course of time, 42 of the 64 leaves originally in it have been cut out entirely and one half of a leaf with a rough hand. In this article Dr. Hofstede de Groot says that the draughtsman Frans Carree took much trouble to catch the likeness, that much care was bestowed by him on the characterization, but that most of the likeness was lost in the engraving; the engravers M. Noé and C. Appeus were men of far less artistic ability than the draughtsman. The little drawings in the sketchbook all render in detail the heads with the band. It was superfluous to indicate the rest of the clothing, for this was the same with all the participants in the funeral procession. The little prints have been carefully drawn by Carrée in India ink; the heads on the plate engraved by Noé and Appeus are the mirror images of them. Dr. Hofstede de Groot's contribution contains little portraits from the sketchbook, namely of a number of persons whose names appear from the inscriptions in the book, and of a few whose identity Mr. Hofstede de Groot thought he might establish by comparison with the funeral print. Beside these little portraits the corresponding parts of the plate of Noé and Appeus are reproduced. Evidently, therefore, Dr. Hofstede de Groot was unaware of the presence in the Rijks Prentenkabinet at Amsterdam of a legend belonging to the funeral print. From the illustrations included in the article it appears, in my opinion, that the figures occurring on the print do most certainly show a likeness to the little portraits in the sketchbook, of which likeness Dr. Hofstede de Groot himself indeed made use. For that reason it seems to me that the comparison of the figures on the print with the paintings in the Town Hall at Franeker could very well be made.

If we now look at the group of Franeker Professors on the print, a reproduction of which is given herewith, then we can in the first place observe that all the figures, although woodenly indicated, are by no means the same; there are, namely, tall and short persons, persons with fat round and with long pointed faces; the first beadle has a beard, while all the other persons have no beard and practically no moustache. If we take on the print the 4th Professor, that is, the Professor who walked in the 2nd row on the left, then he undeniably shows a fat round face with only a shadow of a small moustache. According to the legend this is Prof. Cup. And what do we now see on the portrait of Prof. Cup in the Town Hall at Franeker? A man with a fat round, I should say, puffy face with a trace of a small moustache. The 8th Professor on the print, walking in the 4th row on the left, has a long face, with a sharp chin, without a beard and as good as no moustache. According to the legend this is Prof. Huber, who on the portrait at Franeker has a long face, with a pointed chin without beard or moustache. In the same way I think I can find a more or less

Group of the Professors of the University at Franeker, appearing on sheets 23 and 24 of the 25-sheet DEPICTION OF THE PROCESSION AT THE FUNERAL at Leeuwarden on 27 December 1664 of Prince Willem Frederik van Nassau, Stadholder of Friesland and Groningen (nearly actual size).

Legend.

1. Jacobus Tabbecatius. } Pedellen.
2. Petrus Poll.
3. Joannes Terentius, A. M. Linguæ Professor &c. P.T. Academiæ Rector.
4. Nicolaus Arnoldus. } S. S. Theol. Professores.
5. Joannes Valckenier.
6. Guilhelmus Cup, Iuris Professor.
7. Joachimus Frencelius } Medicinæ Professores.
8. Philippus Matthæus
9. Petrus Moll, Græcæ Linguæ Professor.
10. Ulricus Huber, Eloquent. Hist. & Polit. Professor.
11. Abrahamus de Grauw, Matheseos Professor.
12. Johannes Greydanus. } Philos. Profess.
13. Abrahamus Steyndam.
14. Johannes Wubbena.
15. Jacobus Kroll, Secretarius.

discern in the 1st Prof., the Rector Magnificus Terentius, in the 2nd Prof.: Prof. Arnoldus, in the 5th Prof.: Prof. Frenzelius, in the 6th Prof.: Prof. Matthaeus and in the 11th Prof.: Prof. Steyndam. On these grounds I consider it practically certain that the legend does indeed give the names in the order in which the persons appear on the print, that is, in which they walked in the funeral procession, and that consequently the 10th Professor, thus the person who walked on the left in the 5th row, is Prof. Johannes Greydanus, a small person, with a long face, sharp chin, a long, straight and sharp nose, without a beard and with as good as no moustache. A reproduction of the legend, of the sheet on which the text of the Franeker group of Professors is pasted, is given on the reverse side.

At the close of this chapter I add everything that I have been able to find about Johannes Greydanus in the printed books, arranged in chronological order and accompanied by a few remarks:

I. In a collection of Latin poems “Poëmata pleraque posthuma” (Poems, for the greater part published after his death) by Tobias Gutberleth, Rector of the Gymnasium at Leeuwarden, printed there in 1667 in 12^{o} by Lambertus Dronrijp, which little book has been preserved in various Libraries (such as the Royal Library at 's-Gravenhage, the Provincial Library at Leeuwarden), one finds under IV Epigrams (pointed poems) on page 294, which has been partly reproduced above at page 145:

[the Latin poem and its Dutch translation are printed side by side in two columns.]

(Latin) “On a Physics Disputation of Jarichii ab Ockinga.
Whoever may search out the riches of Physics, and the courses of the heaven and the regions of the immeasurable earth: rarely does a swan, rarely an Aristoteles, rarely a nursling of Zeno occupy the chair with Pierian diligence.
Yet, lest this field should grow barren with empty wild oats, or the acre run riot with burrs and thistles:
behold, a true offshoot of the Ockinga stock shakes the rattle, with the great Greydanus presiding; and he brings forth the various changes of nature by his skill, and by the rare dexterity of his genius.
All honour to you, noble youth, excellent in study; hereafter ascend often the polished pulpits; Great you shall be.”

[1] “On a disputation in natural science
by Jarich van Ockinga.
Whoever may search through the treasures of Natural Science, and the courses of the heavens, and the regions of the immeasurable earth, rarely does a swan, rarely an Aristoteles, rarely a nursling of Zeno [2], occupy the chair with Pierian [3] activity. Yet, lest this field should be unfruitful through empty wild oats, and lest the acre should run riot with burr-weed and thorns: Behold, a true offshoot from the family Ockinga shakes the rattle, while the great Greydanus presides. And the changes of nature he brings forth by the ability and rare shrewdness of his wit. Greatly do I approve it, Youth, excellent in study, ascend hereafter frequently the finely polished chair. Great you shall be.”

In this poem the words “the great Greydanus presides” will refer to the fact that Johannes Greydanus after 29 April 1664 was the senior Professor of Philosophy, or from May to 3 June 1664 was the Rector Magnificus of the University at Franeker. Jhr. Jarich van Ockinga was inscribed as a student at Franeker on 30 December 1659, but in the Academic album no mention is made of any promotion of his.

II. The little book cited on page 168, which is drawn up entirely in Latin, by the Franeker Professor of the Oriental and Hebrew languages E. L. Vriemoet, which may be regarded as a forerunner of that Professor's larger work on the Franeker University. The title of this little book, in which it is not indicated that it was written by Vriemoet, runs as follows:

[the Latin title and its Dutch translation are printed side by side in two columns.]

(Latin) “List OF THE PROFESSORS
and Lecturers
of the Frisian Academy, which is
at Franeker
to which are added
the Rectorial Annals;
And a List
Of Those who were to the Academic Senate

[4] List of the PROFESSORS
and the Lecturers
of the Frisian Academy, which is
at Franeker
to which are added
a List of the Rectors and a Statement of Those who were Secretary of the Academic

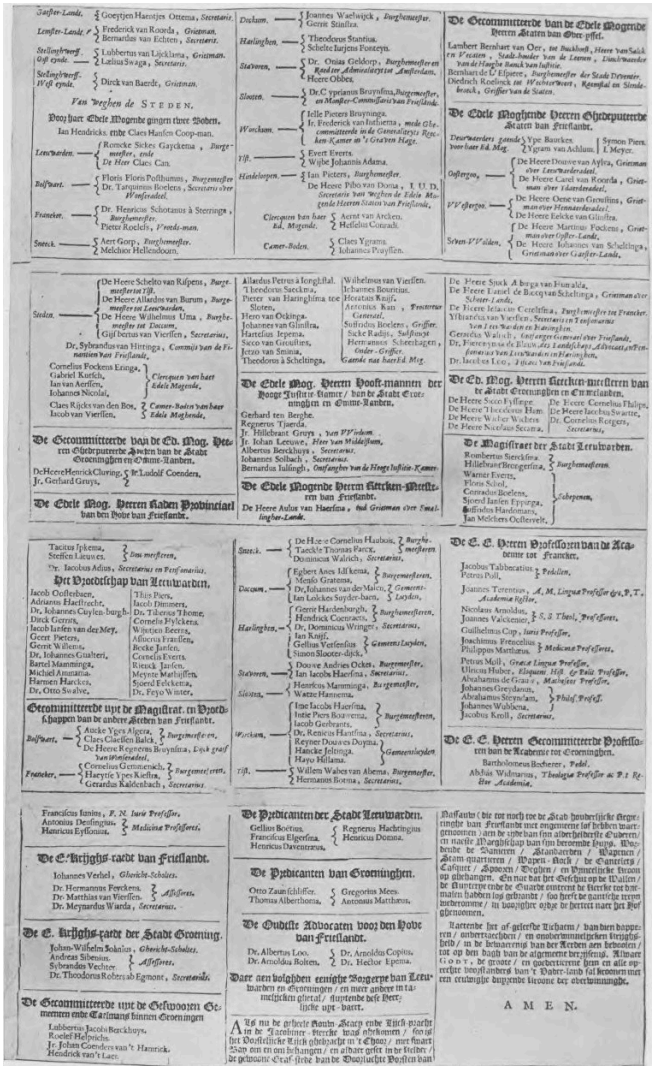
[1] My own translation into Dutch prose.

[2] Head of the Stoic School.

[3] poetic.

[4] My own translation into Dutch.



Sheet with part of the printed Legend, belonging to the funeral print on which Prof. Johannes Greydanus appears (much reduced).

[the following block is printed in two parallel columns, the Latin original at left and the Dutch translation at right.]

Ab Actis Ut & Bibliothecariorvm. Apud Nicolavm Vdink, Bibliopolam MDCCXLV.”
Senate have been As also of the Librarians. At Nicolaas Udink, Bookseller 1745.

In this booklet the following is stated on pages 40 and 41 concerning Johannes Greydanus:

[the following two texts are printed side by side in parallel columns, Latin at left, Dutch translation at right.]

> “1660.
>
> LXII. JOHANNES GREIDANVS. Franeq. Frisius. Med. Doctor & L. A. Mag. In studiis Philosophicis discipulus Arnoldi Verhel; Philosophiae Praelector publicus fuit ab an. 1657. Professor vero ordinarius creatus, d. XXV. Maii, an. 1660. introductus, d. V. Julii. Obiit, d. IV. Junii, an. 1668. Orationem parentalem habuit Abrahamus Steindam, Philosophiae Professor.
>
> Scripsit Institutiones Metaphysicas; & Physicas; nec non Logicam Nov-antiquam.”
>
> [1] “1660.
>
> 42. JOHANNES GREIDANUS, Frisian from Franeker, Doctor of Medicine and Master of the Liberal Arts. In the philosophical studies a pupil of Arnoldus Verhel; he was private lecturer in Philosophy from the year 1657 onwards. But appointed ordinary Professor on the 25 May of the year 1660, and installed on the 5 July. Died on the 4 June of the year 1668. The funeral oration was delivered by Abraham Steindam, Professor of Philosophy.
>
> He wrote a textbook on Metaphysics and on Physics, as well as on The New-Old Logic.”

As has been reported on page 168, one finds it further stated in the “Index Alphabeticvs” of this booklet that at that time no portrait of Prof. Johannes Greydanus hung in the Meeting Hall of the Academy.

III. The larger work of the Franeker Professor E. L. Vriemoet mentioned under II, with the following title-page:

[the following two title-pages are printed side by side in parallel columns, Latin at left, Dutch translation at right.]

"Emonis Lvcii Vriemoet, St. Th. D. Ling. or. & Antiq. Hebr. Prof. P. ATHENARVM FRISIACARVM Libri dvo. qvorvm Alter, Praeter Historiam Academiae, qvae est FRANEQUERAE, Elogia Sereniss. & Ampl. Ephororvm, Alter, Cl. Professorvm, cvm serie Secretariorvm, Bibliothecariorvm, nec non Inspectorvm Oeconomiae Pvblicae, a natalibvs eivs ad praesens aevvm vsqve, complectitvr. Leovardiae[2], Excudit Gulielmus Coulon, Illustr. Frisiae Ord. atque Eorumd. Acad. Typograph. Ordin. MDCCLVIII." [1] Emo Lucius Vriemoet, Doctor of Sacred Theology, extraordinary	Professor of the Oriental languages and of Hebrew Antiquities. THE FRISIAN ATHENS in two books, of which the One, Besides the History of the Academy, which is established at FRANEKER, Eulogies on the most Illustrious and Distinguished Curators, the Second on the most Learned Professors, with a list of the Secretaries, Librarians as also of the Inspectors of the Public Bursary, from their beginning to the present day, comprises. At Leeuwarden, Printed by Willem Coulon, Ordinary Printer of the Illustrious States of Friesland and Their Aca- demy. 1758.

On pages 480, 481, 482 and 483 one finds the eulogy on the Professor described as the 62nd, Johannes Greydanus, which eulogy, with the addition of what appears on pages 9 and 10 of the addenda and corrections included at the back of the work, reads as follows:

[the following two texts are printed side by side in parallel columns, Latin at left, Dutch translation at right; in each the notes () and (*) are printed in two narrow sub-columns below the opening line.]

LXII.
JOANNES GREIDANVS.
Philosophiae Professor.
1660.
Franequera Frisius. () Tjardi filius. (*) () Alb. Acad.
() Hinc apud insignia familiae in annulo Nostri signatorio, aliquot abhinc annis in ruderibus Arcis Siardemanae Nomine reperto, qui ad rev. Aus. Greidanum Eccles. Pietersbierumanum rediit,* I.T.G.

[1] LXII.
JOHANNES GREIDANUS
Professor of Philosophy.
1660.
From Franeker, a Frisian (). Son of Tjaard. (*) () Album of the Academy.
() Hence with the family coat of arms on a signet ring of our man in question, found some years ago in the ruins of the Sjaerdema Castle, which ring was handed over to the Rev. Aus. Greidanus, minister at Pietersbierum* (the letters): I.T.G.

[1] My own translation into Dutch.

[2] In my possession there is also a copy of the title-issue, in which this is replaced by: "Leovardiæ Excudit H. Æ. de Chalmot 1763."

[the page is set in two parallel columns, the Latin original on the left and the Dutch translation on the right; each column has its own footnote apparatus at the foot, set in two sub-columns.]

[left column, Latin text:]

(Latin)

Greidani the name possibly taken from some part of our city, called de Greide.

He came for the sake of study to our Academy, on XIIX June of the year 1647. (a) And in the Philosophical subjects he attended the lectures of Arnoldum Verhellium, several of whose Metaphysical Dissertations (b) he defended in disputation; and of Joannem Phocyliden. (c)

Devoted moreover to the study of Medicine, he without doubt had as teachers those who then flourished here, Philippum Matthaeum & Ioachimum Frencelium. Perhaps also, already before the year 1651, Ioan. Antoniden Lindenum.

Having, however, completed the Academic course, he obtained in both sciences the Doctoral laurel; being adorned with it publicly and solemnly. In Philosophy indeed and in the Mastership of the Liberal Arts after holding a Disputation on Theses drawn from various parts of Philosophy; in Medicine however, after defending a Disputation on Intestinal Worms. Both took place on the same day, XV June of the year 1654. (d)

From this time, after he had for several years privately instructed students in the Philosophical subjects, having presented a petition to the Assembly of the Illustrious Deputed States of the Nine Men, he obtained the authority to teach publicly, on VII January of the year 1658.

(e)

Which was followed, two years later, after the death of Christoph. Munsterus, by the conferring upon him of the Philosophical Professorship itself, on XXV May of the year 1660 (f) He was installed in it, on V July (g)

He zealously adorned this post, partly by teaching, partly by disputing; and by the books published, which are to be mentioned presently.

Since, however, he philosophized more freely than to adhere so scrupulously to the opinions of his elders and to what he had received from his teachers, unpleasant quarrels arose for him more than once. And it seems that already before he taught publicly at the Academy he was in some way hated by some on account of the name of such a free-thinking mind; whence one reads that to the first grant to him of the authority to teach publicly this caution was added: that he should mix in no discordant novelties. (h) I believe, such things as he could have drawn from his excellent teacher Ioannes Phocylides (see above, p. 359): or such as were further adopted by himself from the Cartesian Philosophy then arising. Not a few things of this kind he brought forward in the Institutiones Physicae published afterwards. Besides which he seems also to have held, in his Metaphysical and Logical writings, things which displeased the Senate of the Professors. Hence also on the first of July of the year 1658 a complaint was brought against him, on the occasion of a Disputation on the Idea of the New-Antique Logic; which was forbidden to be published publicly, as being, in the words of the Academic Senate, stuffed with errors and paradoxes. And shortly after*, on the* XXII of the same month, the Disputation being published again, it seemed full of novelty. Again, finally, two years later; when, Greidanus, although admonished several times in friendly fashion by the Senate, not desisting from new doctrines and paradoxes, it seemed at last that the Most Illustrious States of the Country themselves must be approached in this matter; for this purpose being delegated the Rector Magnificus Matthaeus, and the Professors of the Theological Faculty; on I & XIV February of the year 1660. Upon this the Senate was ordered to present the heads of the accusations in writing, on the XXIIX of the same month. (i) If this was done, it must be that these, the matter having been duly investigated by the Curators at the order of the Deputed States of the Nine Men, (k) were not judged of such moment that he deserved to be branded on this*

[footnote apparatus of the left column, printed in two sub-columns:]

(a) Alb. Acad. on that day.

(b) See Verhellius's Speculum primae Philosophiae Entis.

(c) See Praefat. Institut. Metaphys.

(d) Alb. Acad. p. 304.

(e) Acta Sen. Acad. Vol. B, on XIII January.

(f) Acta Del. Ord. on that day.

(g) Alb. Acad.

(h) Provided he brought no strange novelties into it. See Acta Sen. Acad. l. cit. Indeed already on XIX March 1655 one reads that in the case of Greidanus Arnoldus and Verhellius were sent to Leovardia. Act. Vol. P. I. p. 170.

(i) Acta Sen. Acad. Vol. D. I on the said days.

(k) Acta Del. Ord. XVI. Febr. 1660.

[right column, Dutch translation:]

The name Greidanus possibly derived from a certain part of our city, called de Greide.

He came to our Academy to study there on the 18th of June 1647 (a). In the philosophical subjects he attended the lectures of Arnoldus Verhel, several of whose metaphysical treatises (b) he defended in disputations, and of Johannes Phocylides (c).

Having besides devoted himself to the study of medicine, he without doubt had as teachers the men who were then flourishing: Philippus Matthaeus and Joachimus Frencelius. Perhaps before 1651 also Johannes Antonides van der Linden.

After, however, having completed the academic course, he obtained in each of the two sciences the Doctoral laurel of honour, with which he was publicly and solemnly adorned. In Philosophy and in the Mastership of the Liberal Arts after holding a disputation on Theses taken from various parts of Philosophy, in Medicine however after defending a disputation on the intestinal worms. Both ceremonies took place on the same day, 15 June 1654 (d).

After he had thereafter for several years given instruction in the philosophical subjects privately to the students, he obtained, upon a petition presented to the assembly of the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States), the authority to teach publicly, on 7 January 1658 (e).

This was followed, two years later, after the death of Christophorus Munsterus, by the conferring upon him of the Professorship itself in Philosophy, on 25 May 1660 (f). This Professorship he took up on 5 July (g).

This chair he adorned most zealously, both by teaching, and by delivering orations, and by publishing the books which will be mentioned presently.

Since, however, he philosophized somewhat too freely to hold very scrupulously to the rules laid down of old, which he had learned from his earlier teachers, less pleasant disputes arose for him more than once. It seems that already before he taught publicly he was in a certain way hated by some persons because of the name of such a free-thinking mind; hence it seems that to the first permission granted to him to teach publicly this warning was added, "that he should bring no strange novelties into it" (h). I believe that by this were meant things which he could have derived from his excellent teacher Johannes Phocylides (see above p. 359), or things which were afterwards adopted by himself from the then rising philosophy of Descartes. He brought forward not a few such things in his Institutionibus Physicis (Physical Investigations) published later. Moreover he seems also to have included in his Metaphysical and Logical writings things which were of such a nature that they could displease the Senate of the Professors. Hence

[footnote apparatus of the right column, printed in two sub-columns:]

(a) In the Album der Academie on that day.

(b) See Verhel's "Speculum primae Philosophiae Entis" ("Mirror of the being of the first Philosophy").

(c) See the Preface: "Institut. Metaphys." (of the Metaphysical Investigations).

(d) In the Album der Akademie p. 304.

(e) Proceedings of the Acad. Senate, Part B, on 13 Jan.

(f) Proceedings of the Gedeput. Staten on that day.

(g) Album der Akademie.

(h) Provided he brought no strange novelties into it. See the Proceedings of the Senate of the Academy 1st Citation. One even reads that already on 19 March 1655 Arnoldus and Verhel were sent to Leeuwarden in the Greidanus case. Proc. Part P. I p. 170.

[the page is printed in two parallel columns, the Latin text at the left and its Dutch translation at the right; both are transcribed here in that order.]

(Latin) account Greidanus should deserve to be so branded; to whom scarcely three months later the most noble Lords did not hesitate to entrust the very Professorship of Philosophy, as we have just seen. It is credible that, besides new views in Physics, concerning the essence of body, concerning the vortices of the world, concerning the motion of the earth around the sun, and the like, in Metaphysics, besides likewise some new hypotheses, he together with his Phocylides censured too freely that repellent thing, which never, even today, will please the more liberal minds, and which at that time clung to them. For which reason he himself writes in the Preface to the Instit. Metaphys.; that, when he studied Philosophy under Phocylides, he was of a mind rather averse to the study of Metaphysics; of which he afterwards confesses to have everywhere experienced the all-round usefulness in giving his lectures and holding his public disputations.

He ceased to live on the IV of June in the year 1668. And on the XII, when he had been buried, his Colleague in the Professorship of Philosophy, Abrahamus Steindam, delivered a funeral Oration in his honour. (l)

Sons by his Wife Iedtia Petri de Wymersma, whom he had married at the beginning of the month of July 1654, (ll) he left three: Tiardum, Sixtum & Petrum Greidanum, and one Daughter. Of whom,

TIARDVS GREIDANVS. Born XIX January 1656; from XIII May 1673 a citizen of our Academy; on II July 1677 Candidate of the Holy Ministry; from the following year minister of the neighbouring villages Achlum & Hitzum. Died on XIX March in the year 1712. Leaving a Son, by Eelckia Ausonii Steenkist, whom he had taken home in wedlock in the month of August 1686 (ll), Ausonio Greidano, who from the year 1723 is minister of the village Pietersbierum, likewise in our neighbourhood; and is still alive today. Among whose children is a son, a Student of Medicine with us.

SIXTVS GREIDANVS. Born XXIIX November 1657. A citizen of the Academy from XXXI October 1674. And, after holding a Disputation on Cancer, just as two years earlier he had defended another of his own under Phil. Matthaeus on the Blood, he was created Doctor of Medicine on XXVII September 1683. Afterwards Conrector (deputy headmaster) (m) of the School of Franeker. Died XII May in the year 1698.

ELISABETHA GREIDANA. Born XXI July 1660.

PETRVS GREIDANVS. Born XX September 1665; from XXX August 1683 a Student of the Frisian Academy. From the year 1695 minister of the village Ryperkerk of the Classis Leovardiensis. Died on XXII January in the year 1733. Whose children survive (n).

The WRITINGS of our Greidanus are:

Idea Logicae Nov. antiquae. Franeq. 1659. 12.

Institutiones Metaphysicae. Ibid. 1660. 12.

Institutiones Physicae. Leov. 1664. 8.

(l) Inscription of the funeral Poems then published, and Acts of the Academic Senate, V June.

(ll) Manuscript Notes, Franeq.

(m) He already was so on XV May 1686.

(n) These particulars about the descendants of our Greidanus, partly from the Album of the Academy, partly and chiefly from Manuscript Notes in the keeping of the Rev. Aus. Greidanus, Grandson of our man.

that a complaint was lodged against him on 1 July 1658 on the occasion of a disputation on the Idea of the new-old-fashioned logic, which disputation it was forbidden to publish, as being stuffed full of errors and paradoxes (thus the words of the Academic Senate). Notwithstanding this, the disputation was published again on the 22nd of the same month and it made the impression of being full of nov- elties. Once more, finally, two years later, when Greidanus, although admonished a number of times in a friendly way by the Senate, nevertheless did not give up new doctrines and paradoxes, it was at last resolved to turn to the Illustrious Deputed States of the land themselves, while for this purpose on the 1st and 14th of February 1660 the Rector Magnificus Matthaeus and the Professors of the Theological Faculty were delegated. In answer to this the Senate received the order to submit the chief points of the accusations in writing on the 28th of that same month. (i). When this had been done, those chief points, after the matter had been duly investigated by the Curatoren by order of the Deputed States (k), must have been judged of so little weight that Greidanus should have deserved to be branded on that ground, seeing that the Very Noble College scarcely three months later did not hesitate to entrust to him himself, as we have just seen, the Professorship of Philosophy. One must assume that he uttered, besides new views in natural science, concerning the essence of the body, concerning the vortices of the world, concerning the motion of the earth around the sun, and the like in Metaphysics, and besides some likewise new hypotheses, together with his (teacher) Phocylides also a somewhat too free disapproval of that repellent thing, to which the somewhat more free-thinking minds never, nor today either, will feel themselves attracted, and which at that time clung to that science. Reasons why he himself writes in the preface of his Metaphysical investigations, that, when he practised philosophy under Phocylides, he was still in a frame of mind rather foreign to metaphysics, of which however he acknowledges afterwards to have everywhere experienced the all-round usefulness in giving his lessons and holding his disputations.

He ceased to live on 4 June 1668. And at his burial on the 12th his colleague Abraham Steindam presented him with a funeral oration (l).

By his wife Iedtje Pieters van Wijmersma, whom he had married at the beginning of the month of July 1654, he left three sons: Tjardus, Sixtus and Petrus Greidanus and one daughter. Of whom:

TJARDUS GREIDANUS, born 19 January 1656, since 13 May 1673 a citizen of our Academy; on 2 July 1677 candidate of the Holy Ministry; since the following year minister of the villages in our neighbourhood Achlum and Hitzum. Died 19 March 1712, leaving a son, by Eelkje Ausoniusdr. Steenkist, whom he married there in the month of August 1686 (ll), Ausonius Greidanus, who since 1723 is minister of the village Pietersbierum, likewise situated in our neighbourhood, and is still alive today. Among his children is a son who is a student of medicine with us[1].

SIXTUS GREIDANUS, born 28 November

(i) Acts of the Academic Senate Part D I on that day.

(k) Acts Deputed States 16 Febr. 1660.

(l) Inscription of the funeral orations then published and Acts of the Academic Senate 5 June.

(ll) Manuscript notes Franeker.

---

[1] Dr. Jan or Johannes Greydanus, N° 60 of this genealogy.

1657, citizen of the Academy since 31 October 1674 and, after holding a disputation on cancer, as also two years earlier after defending under Philippus Matthaeus another disputation, on the blood, he was promoted on 27 September 1683 to Doctor of Medicine. Later Conrector[1] (deputy headmaster) of the Latin school at Franeker. He died 12 May 1698.

ELISABETH GREIDANUS, born 21 July 1660.

PETRUS GREIDANUS, born 20 September 1665; since 30 August 1683 student at the Frisian University. Since 1695 minister of the village of Rijperkerk in the classis of Leeuwarden. He died 22 January 1733. His children are still living (n).[2]

WRITINGS of our Greidanus are:

Idea of the New-Ancient Logic. Franeker 1659. 12.

Metaphysical Investigations. Idem 1660. 12.

Physical Investigations. Leeuwarden 1664. 8.

Furthermore one finds in the work of Vriemoet: on pages 201 and 202 in the eulogy on Arnoldus Verhel, Prof. of Philosophy:

> (Latin) “Hence perhaps arose the quarrel, stirred up more than once, with his colleague Johannes Greidanus. He, although formerly, when he had Joh. Phocylides as his teacher, rather estranged from metaphysics, afterwards nevertheless devoted himself diligently to it as well; but by his freer mind he sometimes seemed too much of an innovator, perhaps from some taste of Cartesianism which he had acquired. Concerning whom it will have to be looked into in its own place.”
>
> [1] Hence perhaps arose the quarrel, which occurred more than once, with his colleague Johannes Greidanus. He, although at first, when he had Joh. Phocylides as his teacher, felt less attracted to metaphysical study, nevertheless devoted himself later to this too with zeal; by his somewhat freethinking spirit he did, however, sometimes give the impression of being too much of a reformer, perhaps because he had taken a certain taste of Cartesianism. Concerning which person one will have to look in its own place.

on page 345 in the eulogy on Christianus Schotanus, Prof. of the Greek Language and of Theology:

> (Latin) “He also had published, for the use of beginners, Pasoris Manuale Gr. Latinum; by the labour partly of his son Gellius Schotanus, partly, he having died in the meantime, of Ioannes Greidanus, then Student of Philosophy and Medicine, enlarged with the words of the Greek Versions collected from the Concordances of Kircher. Amsterdam 1654. 12.”
>
> [1] He also had published, for the use of beginners, Pasor's Greek-Latin Handbook, prepared partly by his son Gellius Schotanus, partly, when the latter had in the meantime died, by Johannes Greidanus, at that time Student of Philosophy and of Medicine, with a more complete collection of the > Greek words from the Translations and from the Concordances[2] of Kircher. Amsterdam 1654. 12.

on page 362 at the close of the eulogy on Johannes Phocylides Holwarda, Prof. of Philosophy and also astronomer:

> (Latin) "Nic. Blancardus, Oration for the Academic Jubilee, pages 22, 23. Philosophy herself, governess of the mind and interpreter of nature, — here, by the fault of the age, or of men, long lay uncultivated and bristling with thorns, and almost ended in contentions and smoke; except that in Phocylides and Greidanus, teachers of most flourishing talent, recently also in Gulichius she seemed to revive."
>
> [1] Nic. Blancardus, Excellent Academic Jubilee orator, pages 22 and 23. Philosophy herself, governess of the soul and interpreter of nature — she has here, through the fault of the circumstances of the times or indeed of men, long lain fallow, and overgrown with thorns, and has at last ended in disputations and word-mongering; were it not that in Phocilydes[3] and Greidanus, Doctors of a very rich endowment, and recently also in Gulichius[4], she has evidently revived.

and on page 486 in the eulogy on Abrahamus Steindam, Professor of Philosophy:

> (Latin) "in it too he sought the doctoral honours, and thus, after holding a Disputation, obtained them at Franeker, with Ioannes Greidanus as promotor, on XXI April 1664 (e).
> (e) Album of the Academy p. 386."
>
> [1] the Doctoral degree, for which he competed, was granted him at Franeker, while as his promotor there appeared Johannes Greidanus, 21 April 1664 (e).
> (e) Album of the Academy page 386.

---

[1] Translation into Dutch by myself.

[2] Alphabetical list of the words and sayings contained in Holy Scripture, with indication of the place where they occur.

[3] Johannes Phocylides Holwarda.

[4] Abr. Gulichius.

From this biography by Prof. Vriemoet it appears in the first place that Prof. Vriemoet must have known the contents of the little books written by Prof. Greydanus: "Institutiones Physicæ" and "Institutiones Metaphysicæ", of which last little book I have been unable to trace a copy, for concerning the first-mentioned book he says that there were incorporated in it not a few things borrowed from the philosophy of Descartes which was coming up in that time, and from the preface of the last-mentioned book he quotes the sentence in which Prof. Greydanus says "that, when he practised philosophy under Phocylides (that is, Johannes Phocylides Holwarda), he was still in a frame of mind rather foreign to metaphysics, of which, however, he acknowledges that afterwards, in giving his lessons and holding his disputations, he everywhere experienced the all-round usefulness".

Further Vriemoet writes that Johannes Greydanus, through his somewhat freethinking spirit, sometimes gave the impression of being too much of a reformer, perhaps because he had enjoyed a certain taste of Cartesianism, and that one must hold it that he expressed: new points of view in physics, concerning the essence of the body, concerning the vortices of the world, concerning the motion of the earth round the sun, and such like in metaphysics, as well as a number of new hypotheses.

From this it therefore follows that Johannes Greydanus borrowed much from the teaching of Descartes, which agrees with his own statement that he belonged to the eclectic direction or school in Philosophy (see page 162).

Finally one may still infer from note (n), in which it is stated that the data concerning the descendants of Prof. Greydanus are derived partly and chiefly from manuscript notes of Prof. Greydanus' grandson, the Pietersbierum minister Ausonius Greidanus, that Ausonius Greidanus was not acquainted with the descent of his grandfather Greydanus.

IV. J. N. Paquot, Licentiate in Theology, Professor of the Hebrew Language at the University of Louvain, "Mémoires pour servir à l'histoire littéraire des dix-sept Provinces des Pays-Bas, de la Principauté de Liège, et de quelques contrées voisines". In it one finds, in the edition in 3 folio volumes of 1765 "à Louvain, de l'Imprimerie Académique" which is in my possession, on page 317 of "Tome premier":

> (French) "JEAN VAN DE GREIDE, or GREIDANUS, son of Tiard van de Greide, was born at Franequer about 1633. Having had himself enrolled in the University of that town on 18 June 1647, he there studied Philosophy under Arnold Verhel, & Jean Phocylidès: then, having decided upon Medicine, he took the lessons of the Professors Philippe Matthaeus, & Joachim Frencelius, & apparently also those of Jean Antonides van der Linden until 1651, when the latter moved to Leyde. His course being finished, he received on one and the same day the cap of Master of Arts and that of Doctor of Medicine; this was on 15 June 1654. After that he practised giving private lessons on Philosophy, and on 7 January 1658 he was permitted to teach it in public. He did not delay in showing the attachment which Phocylidès had inspired in him for the principles of Descartes; & that could not fail to expose him to vexations, at a time when on all sides there was outcry against the new opinions of that Philosopher on the essence of bodies, on the vortices, on the motion of the earth, etc. On 1 July 1658 Van de Greide was forbidden to publish a Dissertation Ad Ideam Logicæ Nov-antiquæ which he had prepared, because it was found full of errors & of paradoxes; another thesis, which he proposed shortly afterwards, was regarded on the 22nd of the same month as filled with novelties. Not having yielded to the warnings which the Magistrate of the town gave him more than once on these matters, the affair was reported to the States of Friesland, to whom on 1 & 14 February 1660 the Rector Matthæus & the Professors of the Faculty of Theology were deputed. The Magistrates were ordered (on the last day of the same month) to set down their heads of accusation in writing: but all this uproar had no sequel; since as early as 24 May of the same year Van de Greide was provided with the chair of Philosophy, which fell vacant through the death of Christophe Munsterus. He took possession of this place on 5 July following, & occupied it fairly quietly until his death, which occurred on 4 June 1668. Abraham Steindam, his colleague, delivered a funeral oration for him on the 12th of the same month. He had three sons, of whom the eldest, Tiard van de Greide, was minister of the villages of Achlum & of Hitzum near Franequer, & died on 19 March 1712, leaving a son named Ausone, who became in 1723 minister of Pieterbierum in the same district. Sixte van de Greide, second son of our Author, took the cap of Doctor of Medicine at Franequer on 27 September 1683, was sub-

[the quotation continued from the previous page is printed in two columns; left column first, then right column]

> (French) subsequently Con-Rector of the School of Franequer, > and he died 12 May 1698. Finally Pierre, > brother of the latter, became Minister of Ry-perkerk under the classis of Leuvarde, and he > died 22 January 1733. From the father we have:
> 1. Idea Logicæ Nov-antiquæ. Franequeræ, 1659. 16°.
> 2. Institutiones Metaphysicæ. Franequeræ, 1660. 16°.
> 3. Institutiones Physicæ. Leovard. 1664. 12°.
> ☞ Vriemoet, 480—483."

What is included here in Paquot's work gives the impression of being derived entirely from Vriemoet's book [1]; it is only peculiar that Paquot constantly uses not the name Greidanus but Van de Greide, and gives a different format for Prof. Greydanus' 3 booklets, from which one might draw the conclusion that he had had those booklets in his hands.

Besides on page 317, "Jean Greydanus" is also mentioned on page 576 right column and page 577 right column of the same Volume.

V. The well-known book by Mr. W. B. S. Boeles, which was published from 1878—1889 at Leeuwarden by the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde, and bears the title "Frieslands Hoogeschool en het Rijks Athenaeum te Franeker". About Johannes Greydanus we find the following in this work:

On page 40 Volume I:

> "With regard to the number of professors in each faculty, however, no fixed rule was ever adhered to. Thus, for example, the medical faculty, from the death of Auletius in 1608 until van der Linden's departure to Leiden in 1651, was represented by only one; in philosophy there were once three at the same time, namely Greidanus, Steindam and Wubbena."

On pages 236 and 237 Volume I:

> "In order to preserve concord and mutual trust, the members [2] bound themselves in 1643 by a formal resolution, that there should be excluded from the Senate meetings and passed over in the conferring of academic dignities, every professor who, in spite of repeated brotherly admonitions, openly or in secret, by word or in writing, directly or indirectly, in his own person or through another, had diminished or reviled the good name of one of them, had prejudiced students against a colleague or incited them, had without lawful reasons withdrawn himself from the meetings and deliberations, had made public, distorted or condemned the secrets of the Senate and the opinions of colleagues, had caused mutual hatred and envy, or had in other respects behaved in conflict with the laws of the academy."

Then Boeles, since he had not come across it in print, reproduces the complete resolution of 1643 and continues:

> "This formulary was signed by the professors of that time (among whom one still finds Maccovius) and by their successors, until on 31 December 1664 it was modified in so far that the main substance remained: (Latin) "if anyone hereafter in the Senate shall have assailed his colleague with mocking and abusive expressions and slanders, and likewise if he shall have divulged either the secrets of the Senate of the Academy or the opinions of the Gentlemen Professors." [3]
>
> Prof. Greidanus at first hesitated to place his name beneath it, not in order to withhold his approval of the measure, but because he knew himself too well not to know that he could not keep silent."

On page 135 above the resolution of 31 December 1664 has been included, which Prof. Greydanus at first did not wish to sign, but beneath which he nevertheless, as the last of the Professors then in office, put his name. The reason given by Mr. Boeles for the initial refusal to sign seems to me more or less incomplete, for, as was stated by Prof. Greydanus himself (see the just quoted page 135), the grounds for the refusal were: "several motives better kept secret than freely spoken".

On pages 336 and 337 Volume I, in an enumeration of the academy citizens who with leave of the Senate gave private instruction:

> "JOHANNES GREIDANUS, L.A.M. Philos. et Med. Dr. at Franeker, made known in 1658 "how he, after having instructed the studying youth in philosophy privately for some years, had been requested by that same youth on this occasion also to be allowed to attend and

[1] Of whom Paquot says in his "préface": (French) "Since Mr. Foppens no remarkable production on the subject which occupies us has reached me, apart from that of Mr. Vriemoet, Professor of Oriental Languages at Franequer, who in 1758. gave us the lives of all those who have taught in that University. He there entered into a very exact, perhaps too minute, detail of everything concerning them, with the exception however of their works, over which he passes rather lightly."

[2] Of the Academic Senate.

[3] "if anyone hereafter in the Senate has met his colleague with mocking and abusive expressions and slanderous talk, and likewise if he has repeated the secrets of the Senate of the Academy or the pronouncements of the Gentlemen Professors".

enjoy, to which is added his as it were innate desire to be permitted to do such a thing". Therefore he requested, as a doctor, to be allowed to hold public lessons and disputations in philosophy. On 7 January 1658 his request was granted on condition that he should not teach any strange novelties. Two years later Greidanus saw himself promoted to professor, in the place of prof. Chr. Munsterus."

On pages 230 and 231 of Volume II the biographical notice of Johannes Greidanus:

"JOHANNES GREIDANUS, born at Franeker, entered the academy there on 18 June 1647. Verhel and Phocylides Holwarda were his teachers, very different in philosophical direction. Under van der Linden, Phil. Matthæus and Frencelius he studied medicine. In both faculties he took his doctorate on 15 June 1654, after defending a Disp. at theses ex variis philosophiae partibus depromptas, and a Disp. de lumbricis. A month later he entered the bond of marriage with Jetske Peters van Wymersma.

At the beginning of 1658, "after having for some years privately taught the studying youth in philosophy", he requested, at the urging of his pupils, to be allowed to hold public lectiones and disputationes, in accordance with the old laudable custom of the academy and the practice at German and English universities. On condition that he would not proclaim any "strange novelties", the Senate granted his wish.

Verhel and Munsterus certainly feared that Phocylides' pupil would take his liberal direction. And not without reason, for on 1 July 1658 the Senate suppressed his first disputation of the Idea logicae novo-antiquae (Fran. 1659), as full of errors and paradoxes; on 22 July Cup, Arnoldus and Verhel were deputed to the Curators concerning another disputation, (Latin) "full of novelty".

After repeated friendly admonitions, the Senate at the beginning of 1660 lodged a complaint against him with the Ged. Staten (Deputed States) about "a certain book, recently published". Whether his Institutiones metaphycicae, Fran. 1660, or the Idea logicae was meant, we do not know. The Gedeputeerden (Deputies) sent those lamentations to the Curators for advice; these requested the Senate to formulate the grievances in writing and accurately. Meanwhile Munsterus died. And what did the Curators now do? They nominated Greidanus as his successor. Beside him on the list of three stood Godofr. Spinaeus, professor at Steinfurt, and Mich. Busch, Theol. et Philos. Cand. Appointed at once by the Gedeputeerden, Greidanus took up his professorship on 5 July. Under such circumstances his appointment had an important significance, in so far as the Curators and Gedeputeerden showed that they supported the striving for progress against the attacks of the old Verhel.

On the works just mentioned Greidanus let follow in 1664 Institutiones physicae. None of the three came under our eyes. In the same year Verhel too at last died. Greidanus, according to the report of the Curators, "having now for a considerable time filled his professorship with good praise", then became the senior of the faculty and therefore saw his salary of f 700 raised to f 800. Abr. Steindam appeared at the same time as ordinarius, Wubbena as extraordinarius beside him.

An early death carried him off already on 4 June 1668. Whether his wife was then still living we dare not affirm, but certainly that he had three sons and one daughter. Abr. Steindam delivered the Orat. funebris, which however did not go to press. In some Carmina funebria his decease was greatly lamented.

Vriemoet, 480—483; add. 9, 10 with Mss. notes of Burmania; Paquot, I, 317."

To this biographical notice the following supplement is given on page 842 of the same volume:

"JOHANNES GREIDANUS (p. 230) was greeted at his marriage by Nic. Wielstra F. and H. Schregardus, students of theology, with the Echts-Eer-gedicht In-gegaen van den Hoogh-geleerden, wijtberoemden ende Godtsaligen Jongman, D. Johannes Greydanus .... en de Eerbaere, Godtsalige, Deughden-Rijcke, en zedige jonghe-Dochter Yttie Pieters Wimersma, Beyde in den Houwelijcken-staet bevesticht, den 2 Julii 1654. at Franeker 1654. 4°.

His private teaching is recalled by Institutiones physicae in collegio privato dictatae a Joanne Greydano .... conscriptae Franequerae ab Atzone Nicolaides, Artium studioso, 1660, from which dictation the professor's Institutiones physicae sprang, which saw the light in 1664. In his lessons on logic he seems to have followed the Institt. logicae contractae of Franco Burgersdijk, as may appear from a copy of the Idea Logicae Aristotelicae of Verhel (Fran. 1663), interleaved with blank paper, on which the student Gulielmus Siccama wrote a dictation of Greidanus: In synopsin Logicae Burgerdicianae per notas et exempla a Doctiss. clariss. Domino Joanne Greidano. Anno 1662. That student perhaps thereby intended to compare the divergent views of those professors. Both dictations are present at the Friesch Gen., and possibly of some importance as materials for a pragmatic history of philosophy in our country."

On page 232 of Volume II in the biographical notice of Abraham Steindam:

"It certainly deserves notice that three philosophical directions were represented at Franeker at the same time. Steindam was a peripateticus, Greidanus a novo-antiquus, Wubbena a Cartesian."

As has been shown, this is, as far as Greidanus is concerned, less correct, for he was an eclectic.

And on page 277 of Volume II in the biographical notice of Johannes Schotanus à Sterringa:

"In his philosophical studies he felt himself more attracted by the freer direction of Greidanus than by the scholasticism of Verhel. Proofs of this are laid down in Exercitationes philosophicae, argumenti Logici praecipue et Metaphysici, auctore et respondente Jo. Schotano, Fran. 1664, and in the Diss. philos. comprehendens aliquot theses ex variis philosophiae partibus selectas[1], defended by him for his degree on 6 Oct. 1664, whereupon on 21 Nov. followed his promotion to L.A.M., with Greidano as promotor.

VI. On page 113 of "Bibliographie Néerlandaise historique-scientifique des ouvrages importants dont les auteurs sont nés aux 16^{e}, 17^{e} et 18^{e} siècles, sur les sciences mathématiques et physiques avec leur applications" by Dr. Bierens de Haan, Rome, 1883, one finds:

[1] A copy of this Diss. is to be found in the Coll. v. Br. n^{o} 25."

(French) "GREYDANUS (Iohannes), b. 1633 at Franeker, d. there 4 June 1668; son of Tjarda G; Professor at Franeker.
1. Idea Logicae Nov-antiquae. Franeq.
1659. 12°.
2. Institutiones Metaphysicae. ib. 1660.
12°.
3. Institutiones Physicae. Leovard.
1664. 12°."

VII. On page 134 of the translation from the English by Mr. C. van Vollenhoven of the work of Dr. J. P. N. Land, during his life professor of Philosophy at Leiden, “De Wijsbegeerte in de Nederlanden”, 's-Gravenhage 1899, the following occurs:

> “Franeker was a hotbed > of Cartesianism under Jo. Greidanus (1658—68), Jo. Wubbena (1664—78), Jo. Schotanus a Sterringa (1678—99), Abr. Gulichius (1679—80), Tob. Andreae the nephew (1681—85), Herm. Alex. Roëll (1686—1704), and Ruard Andala (1701—27, a fierce opponent both of Geulincx and of Spinoza). Yet here too the scholastic tradition and the letter of the statute were observed by the appointment of Christoph. Munster (1651—60), Abr. Steindam (1664—72), and Jo. Regius (1686—1738), a pupil of Ger. de Vries, who, when he was forty years old and his philosophy quite out of date, had to improve his finances by practising as a physician. Nevertheless, as an old man, he still entered upon a violent paper war against the Cartesianism of his colleague Andala, to which the Curators had to put an end.”

VIII. The little piece by the contributor Dr. G. A. Wumkes appearing in the Frisian weekly “Sljucht en Rjucht” of 17 December 1927, already included on pages 86 and 87.

Furthermore, the Biographical Dictionaries contain a few particulars concerning Prof. Johannes Greydanus which are of no importance to us, since they are borrowed from the foregoing books. In the well-known Biographical Dictionary of Van der Aa one finds, besides matter on Prof. Johannes Greydanus, also some notes on his sons and on his grandson Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, the minister at Pietersbierum, of which last it is said: “He practised Dutch poetry, as appears from a verse on the Friesche Geschiedenissen of Christianus Schotanus”. This is incorrect, as one can see at once when one remembers that Ds. Ausonius Greydanus was not born at Achlum until 1701, whereas the work of Schotanus in which the poem occurs had already appeared in 1658. This poem, included here before on pages 78—79, is therefore not by Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, but by his grandfather Prof. Johannes Greydanus. The same mistake has been made in the Biographical Dictionary of Protestant Theologians in the Netherlands by Dr. J. P. de Bie and Mr. J. Loosjes, which work is not yet complete and of which the Editors have promised me that they will correct the error in a supplement to be issued.

For the sake of completeness it may still be mentioned that Prof. Johannes Greydanus is also named:

on page 183 of “Beschryvinge van de Heerlyckheydt van Frieslandt tusschen 't Flie end de Lauwers met nieuwe Caerten van t Landschap in 't algemeen soo Oud als Nieuw end De drie Gedeelten in 't besonder alsmede de Grietenien end steden op kosten van 't Landt afgemeten In 't net gebracht, geteeckent en gesneden op copere platen” by Christianus Schotanus, 1664; on page 302 of “Holländischer Kirch- und Schulen-Staat” by H. L. Benthem, Franckfurt und Leipzig, 1698.

This long-winded Chapter I may conclude with the reproduction of a poem by the well-known reciter and writer of humorous songs Mr. A. W. Kamp, which was included in the weekly “Haagsche Post” of 2 February 1924. Not because it has any bearing whatsoever on Prof. Johannes Greydanus, but because in the 5th stanza the name Greidanus is mentioned in one breath with the name Schotanus, which Mr. Kamp will surely have done quite by chance (for the sake of the rhyme?), but for which, as we have seen in this Chapter, there is every reason, so that I thought the poem too delightful not to snatch it from oblivion and to grant it a place here.

“Frisian Speed Skaters,
By Mr. A. W. Kamp.
When in the South we have hardly hung the straw hat in the cupboard, then with arctic noises
the North is already being barked at, long before the Rotte begins to freeze Friesland's winter fate is settled and by swift Frisians on skates
the first sausage is fetched from IJlst.
And when it stands written there on the beam:
“Here Pier fetched the first sausage” then wide Friesland comes to life along the water that bears up its sons, in the water no Frisian is wont to swim, this is reported of Radboud already,
yet on the water, not to be tamed,
he is a hero by ship or by skate.
Just as the East with its peoples is renowned for the desert pace, so on Friesland's free pools the skating stride is unequalled;
the environment works its old wonders and sets its stamp upon the race, even Zeus could hardly thunder
if his environment were another one.
Just as of old Hellas well knew how to serve the interests of art and to the contest of songs sent its singers towards Corinth — so Friesland now sends out swift little groups to Holland for the skating contest and the offspring of the brothers Poepjes comes and sees and wins the spoils.
At Kudelstaart a Ringnalda beats the elite by some eight lengths, at Stompwijk again a Buwalda carries off the bag of rijksdaalders (coins of two and a half gulden), and if at Alphen no Schotanus makes a bid for the championship, then it is certainly a Greidanus who must receive the palm of honour.
The Woudstra's and the Joustra's leap like dynamos along the track as long as elsewhere they have natives (non-Frisians) to defeat;
but when it is Frisians against Frisians then not a single Frisian does his best, each one tries to lose the contest, and accepts the motto: best is last!
Then one sees Eitsma's lapping Feitsma's, Wybrandy catches up with Sybrandy, even Poepjes has no wish to hurry for each is sure of the winnings.
Whoever comes last need not be ashamed:
the pot is shared out like brothers, the land's way is the land's honour, who will blame you?
he who shares fairly, his soul grows callous.”

1. He was already that on 15 May 1686. ↩
2. These data concerning the descendants of our Greidanus are derived partly from the Album of the Academy, partly and chiefly from manuscript notes in the keeping of the Rev. Ausonius Greidanus, a Grandson of our (Greidanus). ↩

CHAPTER V

THE GENEALOGY "GREYDANUS", WITH THE ASSOCIATED ALLIANCES

INTRODUCTION

The genealogy that follows begins with the parents of the first "Greydanus", that is Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus. These parents, Prof. Greydanus, his stepmother with her parents and his wife with her parents, have been dealt with in detail in the preceding chapters, so that here only a short, but for that very reason better connected, survey of them will follow.

Of the parents of the first "Greydanus" all descendants down to about the establishment of the Civil Registry will be given, thus what Prof. van Bemmelen calls the parentele. Among those descendants one will consequently find a few persons who do not bear the family name "Greydanus", and moreover various persons — with their descendants — who have appropriated that name by taking it over, for instance, from their mother, and who are therefore in fact not a "Greydanus", for which reason they will be indicated as "(pseudo)-Greydanus". More will therefore be given than the title of this book "Het geslacht Greydanus" indicates. Indeed, here and there genealogical data will also be inserted which do not concern the actual family "Greydanus". All this has been done in order still to increase somewhat the slight scholarly value of this work, for which one should see the preface.

After about the establishment of the Civil Registry, on account of the great extent of the family, only the members of the family "Greydanus" have been included, thus no longer the children of female members.

The descendants of the parental couple from which the start has been made are arranged according to the generations and in a consecutive numbering in Latin numerals, the eldest children of a married couple being numbered first.

With each generation the period which it roughly covered has been indicated, with mention of some known historical events or data, so that one may easily orient oneself concerning the period — with its manners and customs — in which that generation lived.

In the first generation one thus finds: a married couple, in the second: persons who are brothers and sisters of one another, in the third: groups of persons who are related to one another as cousins, in the fourth: as second cousins, etc.

In order that, with this chosen system, one may nevertheless see immediately of every descendant who his direct ancestors are and in what manner he descends from the common ancestor, there have been indicated with every descendant the numbers under which his father, his grandfather on the father's side, etc., appear, until one has arrived at n^{o} 1, that is the ancestor. With these numbers the order of multiple marriages has further been indicated by indices in Roman numerals.

Although I — averse to eulogizing — had, on beginning the compilation of this work, scrupulously resolved to devote no reflections to the persons themselves of the family, I have, in connection with the theories of Prof. van Bemmelen, gradually come to the opinion that it is desirable, even at the risk of making mistakes, precisely to bring forward, as much as possible, the particulars of the person himself. Therefore those particulars will be communicated wherever it is at all possible, which communications must however be accepted with the necessary reservation, since of the character and appearance of the persons practically nothing has been recorded and almost everything in that respect rests on suppositions on my part.

In the genealogy there has been mentioned, as far as known, the occupation or the position of the father of the person married to a member of the family "Greydanus"; thus the occupation or the position of the fathers-in-law of the "Greydanussen". In general, what has been taken here is not the occupation or position of the father-in-law at the time of the marriage of his child, but the principal occupation exercised by him or the highest position held by him during his lifetime.

The occupation of arable farmers, cattle farmers and of those who practised both agriculture and cattle breeding, has mostly been indicated by "landman" (farmer).

For marriages contracted in Friesland after the institution of the Burgerlijke Stand (Civil Registry), the name of the village or town where the town hall was situated, and thus where the civil marriage ceremony took place, has been given in brackets after the name of the Municipality concerned. For Friesland is, in our country, the province where history has on the largest scale united various villages, situated over an extensive area, into one rural municipality. The Council of such a rural municipality then usually has its seat in the principal village of the Municipality, or else in a nearby town municipality. Thus the town hall of the rural municipality of Franekeradeel stands in the town municipality of Franeker, and that of the rural municipality of Wijmbritseradeel in the town municipality of Sneek. In these town municipalities one therefore finds 2 town halls. Heerenveen lies in the 3 rural municipalities: Ængwirden, Haskerland and Schoterland [1]. In the course of time the administrative seat of some rural municipalities has been moved. For Baarderadeel this took place from Weidum to Mantgum, for Barradeel from Harlingen to Pietersbierum, for Dantumadeel from Rinsumageest to Murmerwoude, for Hemelumer Oldephaert en Noordwolde from Stavoren to Koudum, for Leeuwarderadeel from Leeuwarden to Huizum, and for Wonseradeel from Bolsward to Witmarsum.

[1] In 1934 the rural municipalities of Ængwirden and Schoterland were abolished. Ængwirden, almost the whole of Schoterland and a part of Haskerland were united into the Municipality of Heerenveen, with the former town hall of Schoterland as its seat. The western part of Schoterland and the remaining part of Haskerland were joined together into the present municipality of Haskerland.

FIRST GENERATION

(N° 1) 1610—1650 (1618 Oldenbarnevelt beheaded; 1648 end of the Eighty Years' War)

PROGENITOR

1 TJAERD (TYEERD) JANS (for him see also Chapter III, the ancestry of the first "Greydanus")

Born ± 1610, son of Jan Buwes, citizen and gortmaecker (groats miller) on "de Greyde" at Franeker in the 8th house counting from the Nauwe Steegh, and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr., widow of Wijbe Andries, which couple had at least 1 or 2 more sons and 2 daughters. Jan Buwes, whose handmark was: ✳, died at Franeker in 1636, and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. died there in 1652, aged about 70 to 80 years. Both Jan Buwes and Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. were Mennonite. From a lawsuit which Trijntie Tyaerdtsdr. brought in 1647 against her daughter-in-law Griettie Benedictus, one would gather that she was "not easy to deal with and very tight with money".

From 1636 until his death in 1646 gortmaecker or gortmolenaer (groats miller) on "de Greyde" at Franeker, where he owned a dwelling house — the 4th house counting from the Nauwe Steegh and in 1630 bought by his father Jan Buwes from the latter's family — with a separate groats mill.

At Franeker he was assigned to the pikemen, and his house was one of those where a fire bucket was kept.

He probably professed the Reformed religion.

His handmark was: ⋈.

He was not wealthy — his estate showed assets of somewhat more than 1776 Caroli guldens — and behaved as befits a good head of a household.

At the age of about 30 to 40 years he died at Franeker just before 3 February 1646.

MARRIED:

1° JANTIEN JANS, daughter of: Jan Foppes and Anne (Antie) Jelledr., about 1630. Jan Foppes was a landman (farmer) at Tjummarum, where he owned land of his own and also rented land; the latter he rented from the Province (Clooster- or 's Landschapslanden (monastery or provincial lands)), from the family of the Secretary of Barradeel Dr. Johannes Clingbijl and from the Grietman (district magistrate) of Barradeel Jr. Dominicus van Hottinga. A farmhouse standing on the lands rented from the gentlemen Clingbijl and Hottinga was half his property. He remarried Rixtie Jacobsdr. and died at Tjummarum in November 1654 at the age of about 60 to 70 years. Although he repeatedly borrowed money, the "profitable statement" of his estate nevertheless showed a favourable final sum of somewhat more than 2900 goudgulden.

She died between 3 February 1630 and ± 1643, at an estimated age of 30 to 40 years.

2° GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS, to whom Tyaerd Jans was already married in the year 1643.

She was born at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum), still a minor in 1617, and a daughter of: Benedictus Seerps and Engel Johannes, who in 1617 remarried Frans Fransen d'Oude. Benedictus Seerps lived at Wijnaem (Wijnaldum), where Frans Fransen d'Oude was also established at first, though in 1631 he moved to Pietersbierum. At Pietersbierum Frans Fransen d'Oude was a landman and "Co-Deputy of the embankment works of the Vijffdelen outside the dike"; he borrowed money again and again, and often considerable sums, and seemed to get into financial difficulties more and more, for 2 years before his death in 1654 he relinquished, in settlement of his debts, his salary with attendance fees as Deputy of the Dike Board for the year 1652.

Griettie Benedictus remarried first Wybe Dircxen, in June 1656 at Franeker Pijr Pijters, boat builder there, and on 2 February 1659 at Franeker Gerryt Sydses, wagon maker in that town. Having thus been married four times, she died at an estimated age of 50 to 60 years, in needy circumstances at Franeker, where her mother Engel Johannes had also come to live after the death of Frans Fransen d'Oude, and where she died.

Griettie Benedictus' second husband: Wijbe Dircxen, presumably widower of Trijn Hommes, was first a farmer at Herbayum and later a gortmaecker (groats miller) and burgher at Franeker. The couple Wijbe Dirxcen × Griettie Benedictus then lived at Franeker on "de Greyde" in the 4th house from the Nauwe Steegh, left by Tyaerd Jans, where Wijbe Dircxen operated the adjoining groats mill, after this had been done, following the death of Tyaerd Jans, by the gortmaecker Rutger.

Griettie Benedictus' third husband: Pijr Pijters was widower of Antie Remmelts Lamminga and before that of Auck Sijbrens.

Griettie Benedictus repeatedly borrowed money, with her dwelling house and appurtenances as security. In 1652 she sold her house on "de Greyde", excluding the groats mill, for 550 goudgulden, and afterwards lived at Franeker on 't Godsacker and on "de Dijck". Wijbe Dircxen signed with the handmark: [handmark symbol resembling 朩] or [handmark symbol resembling 木], his wife however was able to write.

When Griettie Benedictus with her 2nd husband Wijbe Dircxen came to live at Franeker again from Herbayum, they were entered on 28 October 1649, with attestation from elsewhere, as members of the Reformed Congregation at Franeker.

She made a sympathetic impression in a lawsuit brought against her in 1647 by her mother-in-law Trijntie Tyaerdts.
CHILDREN:

from the 1st marriage:

Jan Tyaerds (Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus), who follows under number: 2.

From the 2nd marriage: 3 children, of whom only the following are known:

Benedictus Tyaerds, who follows under number: 3.

Tyaerdtie Tyaerds, who follows under number: 4.

SECOND GENERATION (Nos 2 UP TO AND INCLUDING 4) 1640—1700

/1648 end of the eighty years' war; English sea wars — Tromp and De Ruyter; 1672 year of disaster, Jan de Witt murdered; 1685 the "Réfugiés" come to our country; Stadholder Willem the Third proclaimed King of England in 1689; 1695 death of Christiaan Huygens, the inventor of pendulum clocks; 1702 death of Willem the Third/

Son of Tyaerd Jans (No 1) and Jantien Jans

first marriage

2 PROF. DR. JOHANNES GREYDANUS (JAN OR JOAN GREYDE, JOHANNES THEOTARDI, JAN TYAERDS) (see for him also Chapter IV, the first "Greydanus")

Line of descent: Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Franeker, between 3 February 1630 and 3 February 1631 · d. 4 June 1668 · son of Tjaerd (Tyeerd) Jans (No 1) and Jantien Jans · m. Yttie Pieters, 1654

Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus

Born at Franeker between 3 February 1630 and 3 February 1631.

After the death of his mother, who died between 3 February 1630 and ± 1643, he lived for some years at Franeker in the house of his grandmother Trijntie Tyaerdsdr.. On 22 May 1644 his father bought, evidently for him, at an estate sale a "biblia latina and other books" for 2 Caroli guldens and 11 stuivers.

Shortly before 3 February 1646 his father also died and he had to enter into a division of property with his stepmother Griettie Benedictus. From his father's estate he received "from maternal goods" 910 Caroli guldens.

He at first called himself "Jan or Joan Greyde" after the name "de Greyde" of a street at Franeker lying along a canal, in which he and his relatives lived, but when on 18 June 1647 he came to the Franeker Academy, the Rector Arnoldus Verhel entered him as "Linguarum et Philos. Stud." under the name of "Johannes Greidanus".

In his student days he showed himself an adherent of the new ideas which Cartesius (Descartes) had proclaimed and which had been imparted to him by his teacher Prof. Johannes Phocylides Holwarda, who was an eclectic philosopher[1]. A son of the Franeker Professor of Theology Sixtus (van or ab) Amama: Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama, whose dissertation "Investigation into Certain Selected Philosophical Questions", with which he intended to take his doctorate on 19 May 1647 before Prof. Holwarda, was [rejected] by the Academic Senate, which in that time was fiercely opposed to and resisted tooth and nail the proclaiming of those new ideas, called himself a "fellow combatant" of Johannes Greydanus. When the said Senate decided in 1653 to banish this Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama from Franeker on account of an act of wantonness he had committed — which decision was indeed revoked through the intervention of others, but came into force again when Amama had an Almanac for the year 1655 printed without the Senate's permission, in the "afterword" of which the decision of banishment was pilloried in a slanderous manner — this Amama appears, in the interval between the two decisions of banishment, to have lodged for some time with Johannes Greydanus, who then lived "by the Town Hall". At the same time Amama argued before the Senate that Johannes Greydanus had had the direction of the correction of the Almanac. Although Amama had sprung from the patrician class and Greydanus from that of the ordinary citizens, both, born at Franeker, were close kindred spirits and warm friends.

Johannes Greydanus too has himself had to take up the struggle many a time against the then all-powerful scholastic scientific tendency in the Franeker University, but he only began this vigorously after his doctorate, thus at a time when the Senate of the Academy stood practically powerless against him, whereas direct measures could be taken against the student Amama. This struggle therefore cost Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama his life in a scientific sense, although the municipal and provincial authorities were very well disposed towards him and his family, while on the other hand Johannes Greydanus succeeded not only in remaining standing in that fight, but even in getting ahead and in being appointed Professor of Philosophy at Franeker, chiefly because both the Curators of the Academy and the Deputy States of Friesland were on his side.

Johannes Greydanus took his doctorate at Franeker on the same day, 15 June 1654, as doctor of Philosophy and Master of the Liberal Arts (L.A.M.), after defending, before Prof. Arnoldus Verhel, a disputation containing theses taken from various parts of Philosophy, and as doctor of Medicine, after defending, before Prof. Joachimus Frencelius, a disputation on intestinal worms. On 20 May previously he had been admitted to both examinations, and he had entertained the Professors and others at splendid banquets for two days.

In the original doctoral diploma concerning philosophy, which is in my possession, one reads in Latin that when Johannes Greydanus, who was "a much beloved citizen" of the Academy, "trusted that he had made such progress in Philosophy and the arts that he could both undergo a lawful examination and gird himself in a praiseworthy manner to the accomplishment of the remainder which is wont to precede the Doctoral and Magisterial honours", he had asked the Academy to judge of this, which "most equitable and fitting request" had been officially accepted, and that they had had him examined, "after having taken account of His life, morals and respectability, and having caused an investigation concerning Philosophy as a whole to precede". Further one reads that they had "heard him expound" a thesis of Aristotle: "Without judgment the laws must have no force whatever", "and heard him answer most aptly to the arguments put forward", and that they had also soon seen him defend the philosophical disputation with which he wished to take his doctorate, "in public, without the help of the Praeses, in a very numerous assembly and amid applause". After the previous taking of the oath in Philosophy he was publicly and solemnly proclaimed and promoted in the temple of the Academy to "Master of the Liberal Arts and a fit and worthy and sufficiently capable Doctor of Philosophy". He was given "the doctoral and magisterial power to ascend the Lectern and from it to teach, to explain, to dispute, in short to perform all those acts which belong to the office of the true Philosopher and Master of the Liberal Arts", while "the excellences, privileges and dignities granted to the rank of doctors and magisters by right or by custom" were conferred upon him.

[1] A philosopher who chooses the best from all systems.

The bull relating to the promotion to doctor of medicine, which is in the original in the possession of Mr. Tj. Greidanus at Amsterdam (n^{o} 455 of this genealogy), is drawn up in the same style.

The following may still be quoted from it. Before Johannes Greydanus proceeded to the defence of his disputation on the intestinal worms, he had to give a treatise on those "in whom the excrements of the belly are frothy through substances secreted by that belly, etc.". Since He had shown to the Academy and to the whole Senate "in every field an uncommon skill, learning and at the same time a spotlessness of morals and of life", "the highest Degree in Medicine was solemnly and publicly bestowed upon him according to current usage". He was also given the authority to teach medicine publicly, "to dispute about it, to consult, to explain, to ascend the Doctoral Chair, to bestow honours upon anyone as worthy of them as He was, in short to use and enjoy all honours, every right and all privileges of a Doctor, both here and in any other place".

On the occasion of these promotions a collection of poems printed at Franeker in 1654 appeared, of which a copy is still present in the Provincial Library at Leeuwarden. The collection contains the following poems (see pages 83—86):

a Latin poem by the above-mentioned Nicolaus (van or ab) Amama, who ended his poem with: "This unadorned applause was given, without the favour of Minerva, to a Countryman, Fellow-combatant and House-mate, exceedingly Beloved, by Nicolaus van Amama, Sz^{n}. Jun. student of letters and philosophy";

a short Latin poem by Johannes Verhel, "friend to friend";

the following little poem:

> "Have rain and air given a fruitful Harvest,
> Who is there that does not at once expect a rich blessing:
> If the Greyde thus grows on, fed with Manure and Dew,
> Who knows what in one year this double Doctor does.
> Out of Friendship,*
> I. À Geroltsma F.F."

a Latin and a Dutch poem, as well as the following "letter anagram" by Henricus Schregardus, Stud. in Philos. and Theol.:

"Letter anagram on the phrase
Joannes Greydanus
(Latin) Doctor of Medicine & Master of Philosophy Does pain course through You, Go, buy medicine, R
That will soon cure you." [1] and a Frisian poem, beneath which stands the Dutch motto: "He who wishes to learn, and can learn — He is esteemed, and becomes a Man", by the printer of the collection, the Academy printer Ids Alberts, which poem — since from that period, apart from the poems of the well-known Frisian poet Gijsbert Japiks, few poems in Frisian are known — is discussed together with the whole collection by Dr. G. A. Wumkes, Librarian of the Provincial Library at Leeuwarden, in N^{o} 50 dated 17 December 1927 of the weekly "Sljucht en Rjucht" published there.

During the rest of his life Dr. Johannes Greydanus probably carried on a busy medical practice, as appears from various claims of his that have been found in the Franeker Inventories and Weesboeken (orphans' registers) (see pp. 119—121). Among these claims there is also an original, itemized account written by him in his own hand. This account occurs in the Estate Inventories of Franeker as an appendix to the Inventory dated 16 October 1666 of the baker Hein Monses, living opposite the Wage at Franeker, and reads as follows:

[1] & = et, ii = ij and "R" is the sign which a physician uses at the beginning of a prescription and means "recipe", i.e. "take".

> "Specification of services rendered to the household of the late Hein Montzes.
> 1665. 18 September called to his child and thereafter attended him and earned f . . . . . 1—10—0
> 1666. 3 March. Called to his wife and thereafter attended her until the 15th of the said month[1] and earned f . . . . 9— 0—0
> 4 July. Earned for his little daughter f . . . . . 0—12—0
> Likewise the 5th and 6th f . . . . . 1—16—0

23 dict. Earned for his step-daughter f . . . . . 0—12—0
13 August. Earned for the same f . . . . . 2— 8—0
22 dict. To his wife and step-daughter until the 24th dict. inclusive and earned f . . . . . 2— 8—0
25 dict. and the 26th to himself, wife and earned 5— 0—0
26 dict. until the 29th inclusive earned for his son f . . . . . 3— 6—0
22 September and further the 23rd earned for his child f. 1—16—0 1 October and further until the 5th inclusive earned for his step-daughter f . . . . . 2— 2—0
f 35—12—0
35—12—0
(signed) Joannes Greydanús."

With the above-mentioned Inventory there is also found as an appendix an account of the Franeker apothecary Cornelis Wellens, which account relates for the greater part to the supply of the medicines prescribed by Professor Greydanus in the medical treatment covered by his itemized account given above.

This apothecary's account has the following contents:

"Anno 1666. The merchant Hein Montzes will have prescribed by Mr. Professor Greydanús 25 July. Potio[2] . . . . . fl 0—18—0
Conditúm[3] . . . . . 1—14—0
13 August. Potio . . . . . 0—16—8
14 ditto. Haústús[4] . . . . . 0— 8—0
22 ditto. Decoctúm[5] . . . . . 1— 8—0
23 ditto. Haústus. . . . . 0— 9—8
Decoctúm . . . . . 0—18—0
Enema[6] . . . . . 1— 4—0
Haústús . . . . . 0— 9—0
24 ditto. Haústús . . . . . 0— 8—8
Decoctúm . . . . . 1— 2—0
Linimentúm[7] . . . . . 0— 7—0
Bolús[8] . . . . . 0— 8—0
Decoctúm . . . . . 1— 3—0
25 ditto. Decoctúm . . . . . 1— 8—0
Potio . . . . . 1— 5—0
Bolús . . . . . 0— 6—8
Púlvis[9] . . . . . 0— 8—0
27 ditto. Potio . . . . . 1— 3—0
Júlapiúm[10] . . . . . 0—14—0
28 ditto. Potio . . . . . 0—18—0
21 September. Potio . . . . . 1— 1—0
1 October. Haústús. . . . . 0— 9—0
4 ditto. Haústús . . . . . 0— 8—8
Total: fl 19—14—8
(signed) Cornelis Wellens Apothecary."

A reproduction of the itemized account and of the apothecary's bill is added here as well.

Besides carrying on his medical practice, Johannes Greydanus appears after his graduation also to have given private lessons to students in Philosophy, for in a [1] dictatus = aforesaid.

[2] drink.

[3] balsam.

[4] draught.

[5] boiled herbal drink.

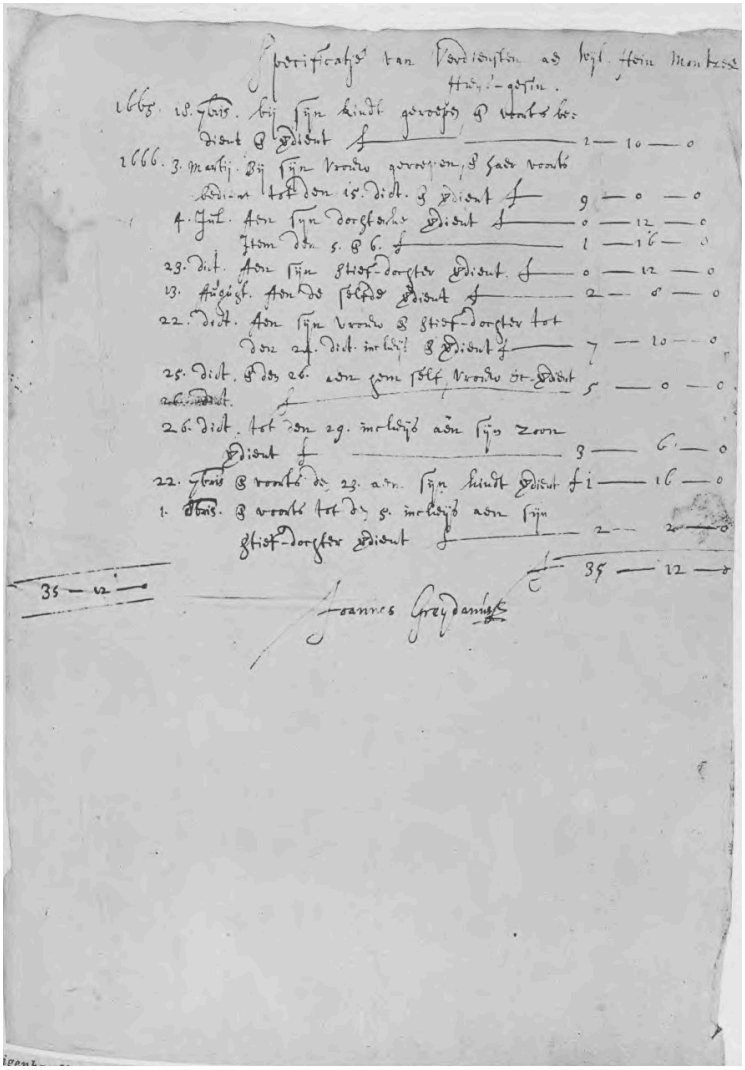
[6] clysma (rectal syringe).

[7] ointment.

[8] pill.

[9] powder.

[10] sour-sweet (blood-purifying) drink.



Account written in his own hand by Prof. Dr. Joannes Greydanús, for medical services rendered in 1665 and 1666, from the Boedelinventarissen (estate inventories) of Franeker (slightly reduced).

Account of the Franeker apothecary Cornelis Wellens, for medicaments supplied in 1666, prescribed by Professor Greydanus in the medical treatment to which the account reproduced at page 188 largely relates (slightly reduced).

request dated 13 January 1658 to the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States), in which he asks to be appointed private lecturer in philosophy, according to the old custom at this Academy and according to the present usage at the German and English Universities, he states:

> "that, after having for some years privately instructed the studying youth in Philosophy, he is daily asked by that same youth, who are still being instructed by him, to be allowed on this occasion also to attend and enjoy his public lectures and disputations, to which is added his, as it were, inborn desire to be permitted to do so."

On 24 March 1660 the Franeker Professor of Philosophy Christophorus Munsterus died. On 25 May following the Curators drew up the following nomination list for his successor:

1° Godhofridus Spinaeus, Professor at Steinfurt;

2° Dr. Johannes Greydanus;

3° Michael Buschius, Candidate in Theology and in Philosophy, from which on 8 June 1660 Dr. Johannes Greydanus was appointed by the Gedeputeerde Staten.

According to the original letter of appointment in my possession, drawn up in Dutch, he was appointed, "as we fully trust in his good qualities, capacity, learning, fitness and experience. Therefore giving the aforesaid Greidanius full power, authority and special order henceforth to lecture and teach in our University in the Publice, also to instruct and exercise the (Latin) students in public and private disputations and further to do everything that the same professorship might require, and that at an Honorarium or salary of seven hundred Car. guldens a year, together with the other emoluments and liberties, in conformity with the Academic Privileges, ordering the Magnifico Rectori, and the other Professors of our aforesaid University, together with all others whom this may concern, to recognize and respect the aforesaid Joannis Greidanius as Professor of Philosophy."

On 5 July 1660 he took up his professorship, on which occasion a Dutch verse was made which was "very suspect of pasquilleuse (pasquinneuse = libellous) words and matters against some of the Professors (tending to great disparagement of the Senatus and its Members)". One of the Academic Beadles, who had distributed and circulated the "notorious poem drawn up in Dutch", of which the author proved to be Annius van Echten, against the will and the order of the Rector Magnificus, was sentenced by the Senate to a fine of one rijksdaalder, to be paid within twice 24 hours.

In June 1663 Prof. Greydanus was chosen Assessor of the Senate for the Philosophical faculty, in which capacity he signed two entries in the Sententieboek (book of judgments) of the Academy which were not written by him. From that same year there have been found by him an entry in the "Litium Academicarum Rotula" and an entry in the Sententieboek, written entirely in his own hand in the absence of the Secretary of the Senate.

After the death, on 16 February 1664, of Prof. Arnoldus Verhel, Prof. Greydanus became the senior Professor of Philosophy. Because, according to the Curators, he had "now for a considerable time filled his professorship with good praise", he was appointed on 29 April 1664 in the place of Verhel, whereby his salary was raised from 700 to 800 Caroli guldens a year, while Abraham Steindam was appointed as new Professor of Philosophy, and Joannes Wubbena as extraordinary Professor in that faculty, so that from then until the death of Greydanus there were at Franeker 3 Professors of Philosophy holding office at the same time. Since Verhel at his death was the Rector Magnificus, three months of the Academic year still remained; by lot there were then designated for it, for March: Prof. Moll, for April Prof. de Grau, and for the remaining time: Johannes Greydanus, who was also to introduce the future Rector. This future Rector was Johannes Terentius, who took office as such on 3 June 1664.

Of this temporarily entrusted Rectorship of Johannes Greydanus there is evidence in the entry written entirely in his own hand: page 385, beginning with: "Praeside Academiae J. Greydano, Philos. Profess" in the Album Studiosorum, and the note in the Register "Rotula immunitatum Academiae (1660—1772)" under the heading: "Pro Mense Majo (1664) Praesid. J. Greijdano", as well as, in the Inventory book of the Senatus Judicalis of the University, the: "Inventory and description of the Books and Goods left by Mons^{r} Georgh Massow, carried out in the presence of the honourable Praeses Magnificus Joh. Greidanus at the house of Wierdt Wijbes on 6 May 1664".

In 1666 Prof. Huber and Prof. Greydanus were deputed to the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States) to request that the office of Inspector of the Burse — which was an institution where students of little means could dine more cheaply than elsewhere — should be filled by the Professors themselves in monthly rotation, and in 1667 the Rector Magnificus together with Prof. Greydanus were appointed to travel to Leeuwarden at the first opportunity, in order to hasten the handling of the case, still pending before the Gedeputeerden, between the Academy and the Frisian Court Martial.

Prof. Johannes Greydanus died 4 June 1668 and thus reached an age of only 37 or 38 years. He was buried, presumably in the Martini church, where at present many gravestones are hidden from view by a wooden floor, or in the Academy church, at Franeker, 12 June following, on which occasion his colleague in Philosophy Abraham Steindam delivered the funeral oration, which was not printed.

Concerning the death of Prof. Greydanus a collection of songs was printed in 1668 at Franeker by Johannes Wellens, of which a copy is in my possession and in which the following occurs (see pages 138—143):

a Latin poem by Joh. Bueker SS. LL. stud.;
a Latin poem by C. Schellinger SS. Theol. Stud.;
a Latin poem by Atso Inia Ph. St. Docc. Fris.; a Latin poem by Hobbo Schotanus à Sterringa F.F.;
a Latin poem by N. Alma Phil. Stud.;
a Latin poem by H. Postma Docc. Fris. Phil. Stud.;
a Latin poem by F. Gellius Leov. Fris. Phil. Stud.;
a Latin poem by A. Kaldenbach Phil. Stud. Fran. Frisius.; a Latin poem by Theodorus ab Altena, Harl.;
a Dutch poem by Jacobus Bleck Med. Stud. Franeq. Fris.; and the following poem:

> "It seems that everything again, after all too brief rejoicing, > clothes itself in mourning garb, and so comes again to suffering, > now that Greydaens sorrowful corpse, today through death, > is to man an example of his approaching distress;
> O, this is far too harsh! Who can bear this monster?
> Shall no wife, no child, no blood relation lament here, > no apothecaries? shall this not cause great weeping > among the people, and sorrow in Atheen?
> Certainly, yes. The rolling of the tears, > they make the spouse's head into sore paths of brine, > indeed so that she is inwardly distressed in her soul,
> and that her sorrowful heart almost melts in tears.
> Cease, sorrowful wife, from shedding more tears, > and let the salty moisture flow on your cheeks > no more; but consider that he is in a better state > than he ever was here in this sinful land, > and that there he enjoys the joy for which we long,

> which no eye of all earthly men has ever seen, > which no ear has ever heard, which no understanding knows of, > therefore, sorrowful wife, swallow down your heart and grief, > and weep no more, for your husband is above > in heaven, to praise his creator there for ever.
> (Latin) In sorrow he set this up > Sixtus Wiersma
> Snec. Fr. J: St.
> (Latin) Motto: Death is the final boundary of things."[1]

During his eight years in office Prof. Greydanus acted as promotor at the following promotions:

[1] Motto: "Death is the final boundary of things", a proverb derived from Horatius.

1 July 1661. Olaus Nicolai Fielkius (of Danish nationality); 25 March 1664. Guido Fanois Gallus; 21 April 1664. Abram (Abraham) Steindam, his later Colleague in Philosophy; 21 November 1664. Johannes Schotanus à Sterringa; 22 April 1666. Ailko Crùmminga (of Embden).

Of the lectures he gave, 2 sets of dictated notes have been preserved and are now the property of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden. The one set of notes is from the year 1660 by the student Atzone Nicolaïdes and the other from the year 1662 by the student Guljelmus Siccama.

As a Philosopher Johannes Greydanus was, like his teacher Prof. Johannes Phocylides Holwarda, an eclectic, as he himself writes in a "Short Foreword to the Reader" in his booklet mentioned hereafter: "Institutiones Physicæ", Leeuwarden 1664: "I am one of the eclectic school, where, after having considered everything, we retain what is true". It seems to me that in doing so he chose much from the then emerging Philosophy of Cartesius (Descartes). Yet he also appears to have been a reformer, to have set up some new hypotheses and to have indicated new points of view in metaphysics (the doctrine of that which is beyond the senses) and in physics concerning "the essence of the body, the crowning heights of the world and the movement of the earth around the sun". At first he felt less attracted to metaphysical study, but later he also devoted himself to it diligently, as appears from the preface of his booklet mentioned hereafter, "Institutiones Metaphysicæ", Franeker 1660, in which he writes: "that, when he was studying philosophy under Phocylides, he was still in a frame of mind rather alien to metaphysics, of which however he acknowledges that afterwards, in giving his lessons and holding his disputations, he everywhere experienced its all-round usefulness".

His writings are, as far as is known:

I. Written as a student:

under the name "Jan Greyde van Franeker, motto "hiernae beter": a Dutch poem printed in 1651 by the printer Ids Albertsz. at Franeker on the marriage d.d. 31 March 1651 of Johannes Joris Sola and Haeske Hendricks Duynterp, of which poem a copy is present in the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden; under the name "Joan T. Greyde, Franeq. Symb. Posthac meliora speramus" (that is in Dutch "Hiernae beter"[1]): a translation from the Latin of the Rackouws Catechismus (Doctrine of the Socinians) with its examination by Joan Henricus Alstedius, printed in 1652 together with the "F. Socini, Hooft-Summe der Christelijcke religie, met de wederlegginghe van dien" by Prof. Christianus Schotanus, at Franeker by the printer Ids Albertsz.. A copy of this booklet is in the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden.

a partial revision of a new enlarged edition, published by Prof. Christianus Schotanus at Franeker, of the Greek-Latin Dictionary of the Franeker Professor of the Greek Language George Pasor. The revision had been begun by Prof. Schotanus' son Gellius Schotanus, who at his death had left it completed only for half. Of this new enlarged edition three completely identical printings appeared at Elsevier in Amsterdam in 1654, 1664 and 1672; a copy of the printings of 1664 and 1672 is in my possession.

II. Written as Private Lecturer:

a Dutch laudatory poem at the front of "De Geschiedenissen Kerkelyck en Wereldtlyck van Friesland Oost ende West; Beginnende van d'eerste Geheuchenis ende voltrocken tot op het Iaar na Christi geboorte 1583" by Prof. Christianus Schotanus, Franeker, Boudewijn Wellens 1658 (title edition: Amsterdam, Joost Pluymer, 1660);

[1] The literal translation is: "Hereafter we hope for better things".

"Ideæ Logicæ Novantiquæ, diatyposis generalia benè cognoscendi, retinendi, resolvendi, judicandi ac docendi præcepta summâ brevitate exhibens", published at Franeker by Joh. Arcerius, bookseller, 12°. Apart from a "Dedication" and a "Preliminary remark", the little book in my possession contains 130 pages, while at the front there also appears the following text, taken from the Church Father Augustinus, who is venerated as a Saint: I acknowledge, yet I strive to belong to the number of those who write while making progress, and who make progress while writing, for which reason no one should be surprised, nor grieve, if something has been set down by me less carefully, or less scientifically, which has been rightly disapproved not only by others who are able to see it, but also by myself. For he loves himself far too much who wishes others to go astray, so that his own error may remain hidden."

III. Written as Professor:

"Institutiones Metaphysicæ", Franequer 1660, 12°., a little book which I have not been able to trace anywhere; it was, however, present in the University Library at Leuven, where it was lost together with all the other books in the fire of 25 August 1914.

"Institutiones Physicæ libris undecem absolutæ Auctore Johanne Greydano, Frisio, cum duplici Indice", which little book was published in 12° in 1664 at the author's expense at Leeuwarden by Henricus Rintjus. Besides: a dedication, a short preface to the Reader, a Latin laudatory poem by Johannes Bek, a Zeelander, student of Philosophy, motto: "A Good Mind Possesses the Kingdom", and two tables of contents, this little book contains a text covering 262 pages.

In the Archive of the Board of Curators, the Senatus-Generalis and the Institutions of the Former Academy at Franeker there is also a volume n° 35*a*, in which the Accounts of the printer and of the binder are recorded, for the years 1666—1741. In this volume there stands on page 29 an "Account and statement of what Johannes Wellens, Printer of the Province and of the Academy at Franeker, has delivered from 13 November 1667 to 19 May 1668, chargeable to the Province" and then the following are listed:

> "13 disputations by the Rector Magnificus Huber; 22 by D. Arnoldus; 3 by Professor Frencelius; 1 by Professor Matthaeus, 8 disputations by Prof^r de Grauw and > Three by D. Greidanus at 9—.—.
> 1 by D. Wubbena."

Johannes Greydanus must have been endowed with a rich intellect, as is witnessed by his knowledge, at a relatively still youthful age, of the Latin and Greek languages, in translating from the Latin 't Rackouws Catechismus with its examination by Joan Henricus Alstedius, and in preparing an enlarged edition of the Greek-Latin Dictionary of Prof. Pasor, — and by taking his doctorate on the same day as doctor of Philosophy and as doctor of Medicine.

He appears to have been a practical, in the true sense of the word philosophical, moral and prudent man, who did not let himself be taken advantage of.

His practical sense I believe can be inferred from the fact that he did not entirely yield to his "as it were innate desire to" teach philosophy, but alongside it, since he was not wealthy, studied medicine and practised as a physician.

That he did not let himself be taken advantage of and dared to take a stand of his own might follow from an entry in the Academic Archive, according to which he, when he was still a Private lecturer, "had spat out" some abusive words "at" Prof. Banck, Extraordinary Professor of Law at Franeker, and from the fact that of all the Professors at Franeker he was the only one who was not immediately willing to put his signature to a declaration by which they bound themselves mutually: to behave decently and orderly in word and deed in the meetings of the Senate and not to pass on to third parties what was said there.

His discretion follows, in my view, from the promise made without evasion to the Senate: "for the repair of the injured honour of Mr. Banck", to offer his apologies to this gentleman in the presence of the Rector Magnificus and of a Professor of Law, and from his signing of the declaration just mentioned, after a copy of it had, at his request, been given to him.

From the "Short Preface To the Reader" in his "Institutiones Physicæ" his philosophical temper might appear, since he writes that, if anyone "shall publicly revile him" on account of the content of his writing, he "shall be as a tree trunk" and "shall give nothing in return but the silence of Harpocrates"[1], that he "most certainly hates disputations worse than a dog or a snake", that "those who love disputations are his opponents", but that he "has not written the book for opponents, but for friends, pupils and for himself".

Concerning his morality we are informed by his doctoral diplomas, in which the phrase occurs that account has been taken of his "life, morals and respectability". Furthermore, nothing has been able to be found in the Academic Archive or in other Archives concerning conduct of his contrary to morals.

From the documents that have been preserved one can see that Johannes Greydanus wrote a neat, small, but clear and, as occurs more often in that period, artistic hand.

His portrait does not occur among the painted portraits of the Professors of the former Academy at Franeker, which portraits are now hung in the Town Hall there.

From the Index appearing at the back of the little book by Prof. Vriemoet: "Series Professorvm et Lectorvm Academiae Frisicae, qvaé est Franqverae", which appeared in 1745, it appears that already then no painted portrait of Prof. Greydanus was present in the Assembly Hall of the Academy.

It seems to me that no painted portrait of Prof. Greydanus has ever existed, for although, according to the Franeker Court Records, he had in 1664 given the painter Matthijs Usens the commission to paint him and his wife, nothing could come of the carrying out of that commission, because Usens was taken prisoner and sentenced "to be led by the executioner onto the scaffold and there to be very severely flogged and to have his tongue pierced through with a glowing iron" and furthermore to be banished "for ever out of Friesland".

Prof. Greydanus does however appear on the funeral print published at Leeuwarden in 1666 by Sixtus Regneri Aruntsma, Allardus Stellingwerf and Sachaeus Sibema concerning the Stadholder of Friesland and Groningen Prince Willem Frederik van Nassau-Dietz, whose mortal remains were interred with pomp and splendour in the Jacobijner church at Leeuwarden on 27 December 1664. On this plate, consisting of 25 sheets — one of the rarest funeral prints in existence, since to this day only 3 copies of it are known, of which 2 are kept in the Rijksprentenkabinet at Amsterdam and 1 in the Royal Library at 's-Gravenhage — the Franeker University is represented by a group, consisting of both Academy Beadles, 12 of the 15 Professors, and the Secretary of the Senate. Prof. Greydanus is the 10th Professor, walking on the left in the 5th row beside Prof. Abraham de Grau, according to a legend belonging to the copies of the print present at Amsterdam, and on the ground of investigations carried out by me. Although the figures on this print are defective and chiefly rather wooden, one may in my opinion nevertheless conclude from the depiction of Prof. Greydanus that he was a small person, with a long face, sharp chin, and a long, straight and sharp nose. At that time, which was about 2 years before his death, he wore no beard and virtually no moustache.

[1] The god Horos, taken over by the Greeks from the Egyptians, who among the Egyptians is represented as a figure of youth by a naked child sucking a finger, which among the Greeks gave rise to the misunderstanding of making him the god of silence, who holds a finger before his mouth.

Johannes Greydanus lived at Franeker on 18 June 1654, according to his marriage registration, “next to the Town Hall”. Where he lived immediately after his marriage is not known, but it is known that in March/April 1668 he was in possession of the 8th house on “de Greyde” counting from the Nauwe Steegh. This was therefore the house in which his grandfather Jan Buwes lived at that time, which house remained in the possession of the “Greydanus” family until 1698, that is for 80 years. In the present buildings on the north side of the Noord at Franeker, the earlier buildings of what was gradually no longer called “de Greyde” can no longer be recognized, since all 17th century houses at that spot appear to have been replaced by others.

On 8 February 1667 Prof. Greydanus bought at Franeker, for 1277 goldguldens, “a certain fine, splendid, newly built house and garden with appurtenances, standing to the north of the Diep (that is, canal) in 't Nieuwe Hof (or Heerengracht)”, which house could be taken possession of on 1 March 1667, so that it seems quite likely that Prof. Greydanus still lived in it for a short time. It is fairly certain that, in order to pay this purchase price, Prof. Greydanus borrowed money on 22 April 1667 from Ds. Adrianus Bechius, Dutch Reformed minister at Engelum, at 5%, of which the remainder on 1 May 1679 amounted to 425 ggl. 18 st. 16 penn..

This last-mentioned house remained in the ownership of the “Greydanus” family until 1768, thus for well over a century, and at present it still exists under nos 184, 185 and 186 on the Heerengracht, between the Lijnbaanstraat (alley) and the Dijkstraat. Among the occupants of the house have been, among others, from 1731 to 1737 Prof. E. L. Vriemoet, in 1749 Prof. J. Schrader and from 1753 to 1762 Prof. H. W. Bernsau, while in 1768 it was bought from the “Greydanus” family by Prof. J. H. van Swinden; after the first half of the 19th century, however, the appearance of the house seems to have greatly deteriorated. In the course of time the front façade has been altered by replacing the front door with a double entrance door, in order to make the property, in which 4 labourers' families are now established, suitable for occupation by more than one family.

Concerning the estate of Prof. Greydanus, nothing could be found in the Academic Archive or in the other Archives.

To that estate, however, must have belonged:

1° the 8th house, counting from the Nauwe Steegh, on “de Greyde” at Franeker, which was allotted, each for one half, to Tjardus and Elisabeth, respectively the eldest son and the daughter of Prof. Greydanus;

2° the house with garden in 't Nieuwe Hof (on 't Nieuwe Werckt or the Heerengracht) at Franeker, purchased in 1667 by Prof. Greydanus for 1277 goldguldens, which was likewise inherited, each for one half, by his eldest son Tjardus and his daughter Elisabeth;

3° a provincial bond dated May 1666, for 400 Car.gl., in the name of Prof. Greydanus, appearing from the estate of his son Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, the minister at Achlum and Hitsum;

4° a provincial bond dated 14 September 1666, for 400 Car.gl., in the name of Prof. Greydanus, forming part of the estate of his daughter Elisabeth, last widow of Joannes Antonides (Boeckholt).

From this one might draw the conclusion that Prof. Greydanus did not die without means, also in view of the circumstance that in his partial estate mentioned above nothing appears concerning the share that must have fallen to his youngest son Petrus.

Johannes Greydanus is, in chronological order, further mentioned in the following printed books or periodicals on the pages stated after them:

Christianus Schotanus. Beschryvinge van de Heerlyckheydt van Frieslandt tusschen 't Flie end de Lauwers, Franeker, 1664 (see page 183, where only his name is mentioned);

Tobias Gutberleth. Poëmata pleraque posthuma, Leeuwarden, 1667, (see page 294, where in the poem on the physics Disputation of Jarich van Ockinga he is only referred to as “the great Greydanus”);

H. L. Benthem. Holländischer Kirch- und Schulen-Staat, Frankfurt and Leipzig 1698 (see page 302, where only his name occurs);

E. L. Vriemoet. Series Professorvm et Lectorvm Academiae Frisicae qvae est Franeqverae, Franeker, 1745 (see pages 40 and 41);

E. L. Vriemoet. Athenarum Frisiacarum, Franeker, 1758 (title issue Leeuwarden 1763) (see pp. 201, 202, 345, 362, 480, 481, 482, 483, 486 and pp. 9 and 10 of the addenda and corrigenda);

J. N. Paquot. Mémoires pour servir à l'histoire littéraire des dix-sept Provinces des Pays-Bas, de la Principauté de Liège, et de quelques contrées voisines", Leuven, 1765 (see Part I page 317);

A. J. v. d. Aa. Biographisch Woordenboek der Nederlanden, Haarlem, 1851—1879. (see 7th Part, pages 410 and 411);

Mr. W. B. S. Boeles. Frieslands Hoogeschool en het Rijks Athenaeum te Franeker, Leeuwarden, 1878—1889 (see Part 1 pages 40, 236, 237, 336 and 337, Part II pages 230, 231, 232, 277 and 842);

Dr. Bierens de Haan. Bibliographie Néerlandaise historique-scientifique des ouvrages importants, dont les auteurs sont nés aux 16e, 17e et 18e siècles, sur les sciences mathématiques et physiques avec leur applications, Rome, 1883 (see page 113);

Dr. G. P. N. Land. De Wijsbegeerte in de Nederlanden. Translated from the English by Mr. C. van Vollenhoven, 's-Gravenhage, 1899 (see page 134); and the Frisian weekly "Sljucht en Rjucht", Leeuwarden (see pages 829 and 830 of the issue of 17 December 1927).

MARRIED:

YTTIE (YDTIE, YDKE) PIETERS (VAN) WIMERSMA, daughter of Pieter Bockes and Lysbet Sickes (Rinia), 2 July 1654 (marriage proclamations dated 18 June 1654 at Franeker, where on 1 July following the certificate was collected).

She must, presumably as the only child of the said couple, have been born at Miedum (near Leeuwarden), Marssum or Franeker, after 14 February 1632, — on which date the certificate was issued of her parents' marriage proclaimed at Marssum —, hence, in view of her marriage date, about 1634. From the funeral song of the student Sixtus Wiersma on the death of her husband, included on page 190, it appears that she was then still living, estimated 34 years of age, but nothing further about her has been able to be traced, other than the entries referred to on pages 132 and 167 in the Academic Register no 20 "Rotula immunitatum Academiae (Academicorum) 1660—1772", according to which beer was delivered on 14 June, 26 August and 12 October of the year 1668 to the Widow Greydanus. From this it follows, then, that Yttie Pieters (van) Wimersma was still living at Franeker on 12 October 1668.

Her father Pieter (Piter, Pyter, Pijter) Bockes was born at Miedum near Leeuwarden, as son of Bocke Bockes, farmer there, and Bauck Sijdses. A brother of Pieter Bockes was Sijds Bockes, who had, among others, a daughter Trijntie Sijdses. This Trijntie Sijdses married Agge Romckes, skipper, merchant and "armefoeght" (overseer of the poor) at Dronrijp. Agge Romckes, who was thus a cousin by marriage of Prof. Greydanus, on 16 November 1668, together with the latter's uncle by marriage Hidde Johans, requested the Rector Magnificus of the Franeker University to appoint a curator over the children left by Prof. Greydanus. The youngest of these children, Petrus, was favoured by Agge Romckes in his will dated 11 May 1679 with a legacy of 100 gulden.

Pieter Bockes became a citizen of Franeker on 1 July 1635, where he was: carrier (voerheer) or waggoner and rotmeester (squad leader) of the Musketeers. For the exercise of his trade, which consisted of transporting persons and goods and of hiring out horses and vehicles, he needed a stable or a barn, — for which purpose he rented the barn belonging to the Sjaerdemaslot at Franeker, which in those days was referred to as "the" barn —, which is why he also appears under the designation of "stalman" (stable-keeper) or "schuurman" (barn-keeper). Pieter Bockes lived at Franeker on "de Greyde" in the corner house on the Sjaerdemastraat, thus right next to the Syaerdema barn situated near that street, which house he had bought in 1650 together with Cornelis Dircx Laensma for 300 goudguldens and a rijksdaalder. He was a man who was continually at loggerheads with someone, as appears from the many lawsuits which he conducted, and in which he is depicted as "a person always inclined to trouble and discord", as someone with "a litigiousness without reason and without right", who "seeks to vex another and to drive him to expense, doubtless out of vindictiveness" or "comes hastily assailing one with a lawsuit". He died after his wife, in 1666 or 1667, at an estimated age of about 60 years. His hand mark was: [small hand mark drawn as two triangles meeting at a point, crossed by a line].

Her mother Lysbet (Lysbeth) Sickes was born between 12 April and 1 December 1614, as the daughter of Sicke Fongers, whose parents owned lands at Pingjum and Collum, and Tyeets (Tyets, Tietske) Jansdr. (Jan Lammertsdr.), of which couple, besides Lysbet, 4 sons and 4 daughters more are known. Lysbet Sickes died before 5 September 1661, so that she will have reached the age of 40 to 50 years. That Lysbet Sickes is supposed to have belonged to the family "Rinia" rests on this, that her eldest sister Jacobien (Japke) Sickes, who married (Jhr.) Keimpe Unia, is recorded as "Rinia" in the additions which Mr. De Haan Hettema made in a copy, interleaved with white paper and now in the Provincial Library at Leeuwarden, of his work written with Mr. A. van Halmael Jr.: "Stamboek van den Frieschen vroegeren en lateren Adel". Sicke Fongers was a landowner at Marssum, which possession we find again in a sale in 1662 of $^{1}/_{7}$ of half a sate of land at Marssum by his granddaughter Yttie Pieters (van) Wimersma, assisted by her husband Prof. Greydanus, — for ± 750 goudguldens, and a gold ducaton for each of her children Tjardus, Sixtus and Elisabeth —, to Joannes Glinstra, ordinary Councillor of the Court of Friesland. The mother of this Joannes Glinstra, Maycke Watze-Eelckesdr., was a daughter of Ydtje Jan-Lamberts, who among others had a brother: Jan (Janz) Lammerts de Jonge, the father of our Tyeets Jansdr., which last died at Leeuwarden aged in her 80s.

From the sale, according to the proclamations of 27 May/17 June/8 July 1662 in the Reces- and Proclamatieboek (register of court sessions and property sales) of Menaldumadeel, of the remaining 6/7 part of the half sate of land at Marssum by the 6 branches of children and descendants of the late Tyeets Jansdr., it appears that that sate bore the name of "Wymersma-sate", in all about 80 P.M. in size, with "the dwelling, hay barn, trees and plantations and further tenant's rights", so that Yttie Pieters (van) Wimersma derived her family name

(van) Wimersma from the name of the sate of land at Marssum which came from her grandmother on her mother's side — Tyeets Jansdr. — of which she owned $^{1}/_{7}$ part of the half.

From numerous other examples it has become clear to me that the bearing of a byname is often to be regarded as a right, attached to the ownership of land of that name, something similar therefore to what formerly existed among the nobility in the "Rittergut". Friesland teems with named saten (zathen), states and lands, whose possessor had the right to bear that name. With the transfer of ownership there passed also, unless the contrary was stipulated[1], the right to add the name — the title — to one's ordinary name to the new owner; as is usually mentioned, "with honour, right of way and further appurtenances". When therefore in the year 1662 Yttie Pieters sold her named property to the Glinstra family, she had thereby in fact also lost the right to her byname "van Wymersma". Nevertheless she continued to bear this byname.

[1] I have noted the case in which an owner of a house with land which bore a name, on selling the land expressly stipulated the right to bear the name, in other words he did not sell this right.

As a result of the linking of the right to bear the name to the possession of the name-bearing property, there sometimes arose different families of one and the same name, between which no degree of blood relationship whatever existed. This phenomenon increased in proportion as more properties bore the same name. This does not make the practice of Frisian genealogy any easier.

Concerning the Wymersma-sate the following may still be reported:

In 1640, then, the sate[1] was in the possession of Sicke Fongers' widow: Tyeets Jans Lammertsdr.. Tyeets Jans Lammertsdr. must have inherited the sate[1] from her parents Jan Lammerts de Jonge and Idtie Louws, since these bought the sate in 1597, as appears from the following entry in the Reces-Proclamatieboek (register of court sessions and property sales) of Menaldumadeel:

> 15 February /1/8 March 1597. Jan Lammertsz and Itzen Lousdr., spouses and citizens in Liuwerden, b.b. and consent upon the purchase of a certain sate of land, size 80 pondematen, situated within Marssum, used by Hoijte Heres as tenant, bought from Johan van Hermana at Minnersga, each pondemaat for 43 g.gl. eleven-half stuivers (that is $10^{1})_{2}$ st./ and moreover, of each goudgulden of the aforesaid purchase sum one stuiver towards payment of the wijnkoop (purchase drink money) and other charges falling thereon, all this free of cost and damage, to be paid according to the deed of sale (In the margin stood: This proclamation is the last that has been registered or extracted of great consents. Done 18 March 1597).

In 1597, then, the Wymersma-sate came into the possession of Yttie Pieters van Wymersma's forebears. From the size of the area (80 P.M.) and of the purchase sum (± 3500 ggl.) it follows that it was an important sate, so that it can be explained that Yttie Pieters named herself after the sate, presumably for the first time when she married Dr. Johannes Greydanus, who possibly gave the impulse to the adoption of that surname.

After 1662 the Wymersma-sate does not seem to have been sold again and to have come to light under this designation. After various members of the Van Glinstra family had held the sate in possession by inheritance, it became, by marriage, about the end of the 18th century, the property of the Vegelin van Claerbergen family. In the year 1858 the owner of almost the same sate (75 of the former 80 P.M., so that in the course of the centuries it had remained fairly intact, with the cadastral description: Municipality of Deinum Section A N^{os} 448 and 449 and Section B N^{os} 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, 135, 157, 192, 199, 268, 300—302) was Jhr. Mr. P. B. J. Vegelin van Claerbergen; the tenant at that time was: Wybe Gerrits Terpstra. At present the cadastral description of the property of 1858 reads: Municipality of Deinum Section A N^{os} 1888 and 1889 and Section B N^{os} 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, 135, 157, 199, 393, 415, 416, 428 and 429, and the owner is Dirk Cornelis van der Tol, cattle farmer at Marssum, with the exception of the two numbers of Section A, which are in the possession of Trijntje Hilarides at Leeuwarden, widow of Douwe Arjens Wassenaar. This present-day property consists of pasture land with house, barn, yard, slurry pit and storage place, and is situated just to the southwest of the village of Marssum on both sides of the Menaldumervaart, on the Miedweg, the former main road from Marssum to Menaldum, now a side road of the main road from Marssum to Franeker, over which the steam tram runs.

[1] It should be noted here that there is some doubt whether Tyeets Jans Lammertsdr. inherited the whole or only the half Wimersma-sate from her parents Jan Lammerts de Jonge and Idtie Louws. It is true that, as mentioned on page 110, in 1640 the voting right of the sate stood in the name of "Tiets, Jan Lammerts, Widow of Sikke Fongers", but this right may have been attached to a part of the sate, for instance to the so-called hornleger (farmstead site). Also, on 2 November 1641 Tyeets Jans pledged only the half sate as security for a debt of 500 g.gl. (see page 111), which is in agreement with the sale of only the half sate by the joint children of Tyeets Jans to "Joannis Glinstra". Probably the other half of the sate was inherited by Tyeets Jans' stepbrother Lambert Jansz. at Visvliet, a son from a previous marriage of Tyeets Jans' father. The Sententie (judgment) of 15 July 1626 N^{o} 21, included on pages 112 and 113, would indeed point to this, but does not yet provide any definite certainty about it. For on the one hand Lambert Jansz. at Visvliet was indeed declared inadmissible in his claim to be recognized for the half as owner and possessor of the goods of Jan Lamberts and Ittien Lousdr., but on the other hand it stands that that declaration of inadmissibility rested, among other things, on the assurance of Tiets Jans that she, as is stated in the Sententie, was inclined ofne[?] to be rid of the trouble with the least possible procedure, and as far as the requested division is concerned, she in her own name had never been unwilling to separate and divide, as she even now offered to do according to the content of the tenor of the testamentary disposition and codicil left by her parents. A sale of the other half of the Wimersma-sate has not been able to be found. According to the first Floreencohier (land-tax register) of 1700, the whole Wimersma-sate was at that time the property of the Van Glinstras.

Dr. Johannes Greydanus and his wife Yttie Pieters (van) Wimersma became members of the Reformed Congregation at Franeker together on 14 July 1655.

CHILDREN: 1. Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, who follows under number: 5. 2. Dr. Sixtus Greydanus, who follows under number: 6. 3. Elisabeth Greydanus, who follows under number: 7. 4. Ds. Petrus Greydanus, who follows under number: 8.

CHILDREN FROM THE 2nd MARRIAGE OF TYAERD JANS (N° 1) WITH GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS

3 BENEDICTUS (BENEDIXT, BENEDICX, BINDIX) TYAERDS (TJEERDS, TIEERDS, TIEERTS, TIEERDTS)

Line of descent: Tjaerd 1II

b. Franeker, between 1632 and 1644 · son of Tjaerd (Tyeerd) Jans (N° 1) and Pijr Pijters · m. Antie Johannes, 1661

He was born at Franeker, as appears from his judicial marriage registration to be mentioned hereafter. The year of his birth can only be given approximately. His stepbrother, the later Prof. Greydanus, was born in 1630 or 1631. If we assume that Prof. Greydanus' mother Jantien Jans died soon after his birth and that his father Tyaerd Jans shortly thereafter remarried with Griettie Benedictus, then the birth of Benedictus Tyaerds can nevertheless not fall earlier than in the year 1632. Benedictus Tyaerds' sister Tyaerdtie Tyaerds was baptized, as will appear below, on 27 March 1646. Since she was the last child of Tyaerd Jans, who died just before 3 February of that same year, the birth of Benedictus Tyaerds cannot be placed later than in the year 1644. Benedictus Tyaerds must therefore have first seen the light of day between 1632 and 1644, and if one considers his marriage in 1661, one would say that this must have been about the year 1637.

He must be one of the three children mentioned in the "Provisional statement of the goods left by the late Tyaerd Jans Gortmaecker (groats miller), possessed by him in common with Griettie Benedictus during their time, the 2nd of April 1646", included on p. 27, in which occurs:

> "Of which the widow shall first receive and enjoy one half for herself,
> and further three eighth parts for her three children, and > Jan Foppes with his associate in his capacity the remaining eighth part."

At his marriage registration on 14 April 1661 in the Church Marriage Register of Franeker he lived "on the Pitercelistraat", also called "'t Eylandtje" and situated near the middle of the town.

On 16 April 1664 Benedictus Tyaerds became a member of the Reformed Congregation at Franeker, as appears from the following entry in the Register of Members kept by the Minister:

> "Members received in the year 1664
> . . . . . .
> Received on 16 April 1664
> Benedictus Tjaerdts"

He lived at Franeker in the town quarter called "1st Half North", "Northern Quarter" or "North", as appears from the following data concerning the Franeker Citizenry in the Telting-Archief:

1°. N° 1251. "Description of the Citizenry for the levy of every third man. 18 July 1672".

> "1e Half Noord: . . . . . .
> Gerben Symons
> Benedixt Tieerds
> Pyter Molenaarsknecht."

2°. N° 1240. Year 1672—1677. "Assessment of the wealth of all inhabitants of the Town and jurisdiction for the levy of the hundredth penning".

> "1672. Northern Quarter
> . . . . . .

> Tierck Romkes 100.
> Benedictus Tieerdts 100.
> Romcke Wybrens 400.
> . . . . . ."

3°. N° 1404. "Declaration and assessment of the means of the inhabitants for the levy of the hundredth penning". Year 1689.

> Assessed at an amount payable of 2 stuivers per week
> "Noord:
> . . . . . .
> Benedictus Tieerts
> Tieerd Benedixt
> . . . . . ."

In addition, Benedictus Tieerts appears on the last-mentioned registers of: 31 July 1690, 17 June 1691, 25 May 1692 and May 1693.

His place of residence, at least in 1682, in the Noorderkwartier, appears more particularly from the following entry in the Franeker proclamatieboek (register of property sales) to have been the Molensteegh, which lay in the vicinity of "de Greyde":

> "29 September -6-20 October 1682. The Hopman Baucke Jansen Kiestra with his wife buy a certain house, standing here in the Molensteegh, inhabited by Benedix Tieerts, having an empty poor-house room to the north and the empty lot of Pyter Jansen the carpenter to the south as neigh> bours, free of ground rent, further with claims etc., bought from D^ns^ Georgius Duinterp with his wife for 24 ggl."

With which the entry in the Franeker Recesboek is in agreement:

> "20 January 1682. Mons^r^ Duinterp protests (Latin) to the same effect (on the effect of the injunction) against Tierck Jurians concerning the house. The same with his wife, as parties serving the injunction, protest as above against Ydtie Peperneutie, Pyter Abrams and Benedixt Tieerts, the parties enjoined, to leave their respective dwellings free and clear in May 1682."

Benedictus Tyaerds was a burgher of Franeker, as will appear hereafter, and "gesworen waecker" (sworn watchman) and turfmeter (peat measurer) there.

The latter appears from the register preserved in the Municipal Archives of Franeker: "Diary of the daily business of the Magistrate of the City of Franeker from 1 July 1669", in which one finds the following resolutions:

> "Today, 17 September 1672, by resolution of the Burgomasters and Councillors of this city, the persons named hereafter were summoned to the town hall, and having appeared, after the reading out of the order and arrangement of the watch established for the sworn watchmen in the year 1659, were again called and elected as gesworen waeckers, after they had not only promised and undertaken to conduct themselves promptly according to the contents thereof, but had moreover promised, at all times upon the order of the said Burgomasters and Councillors, in the service of the Country and this City, should the need so require, to make a campaign into the field and to march out without any dissimulation for a proper pay, to be fixed by the same Burgomasters at that time. Done as above."

Then follow 21 names, among them that of Benedicx Tierdts.

> "Today, 21 June 1673, the Gentlemen of the Magistrate, in accordance with a previous resolution taken by them as Vroedschap (town council), have again engaged the sworn watchmen, to the number of twenty, for their former service, being the following persons": among others: Benedictus Tieerdts., who have all undertaken under solemn oath to acquit themselves therein as is fitting."
>
> "Today, 4 June 1694, Ippe Sytses has been granted the office of turf measuring in place of the deceased Benedix Tieerdts by the honourable Burgomaster Sipke Baarda, and to that end has taken the oath of fidelity in the hands of the honourable Mr. President S. Westerhuys."

The first-mentioned resolution of 17 September 1672, by which Benedictus Tieerdts was appointed one of the 21 "gesworen waeckers", who promised "at all times upon the order of the said Burgomasters and Councillors, in the service of the Country and this City, should the need so require, to make a campaign into the field and to march out without any dissimulation for a proper pay", probably stood in connection with the distressing circumstances in which the Republic found itself in the disaster year 1672. Possibly the absence of the name Benedictus Tieerdts from the city registers of 1673—1688 is the result of a "campaign into the field" made by him.

On the register of the hundredth penning of May 1693 the name Benedictus Tieerdts still occurs, but from the resolution of 4 June 1694 mentioned above it appears that on that date the turfmeter Benedictus Tieerdts had already died. Benedictus Tieerdts must therefore have died at Franeker, probably not yet 60 years of age, between May 1693 and 4 June 1694.

From his residence in the Molensteegh next to "a poor man's chamber", the assessment of his means, and his occupations, it follows that Benedictus Tieerdts belonged to the poor citizens of Franeker.

At the beginning of 1683, however, together with 2 children of the sister (Syouck Benedictusdr.) of his mother Griettie Benedictusdr., namely Benedictus Anskes at Dokkum and Douwe Anskes at Sneek, as well as with Frans Pyters, stableman at Workum, whose family relationship to him has not become known, he was owner, each for a $^{1}(_{4}$ part, of $8^{1})_{2}$ P.M. of pasture land at Oerdum, situated to the northwest of Franeker. This pasture land, which probably came from Frans Frans de Jonge at Pietersbierum, a son of Frans Frans d'Oude, the stepfather of the said Sjouck Benedictusdr. and Griettie Benedictusdr., was then sold for 1000 cargl., 6 rijxdaelders and "a further 2 silver ducatons to Frans Pijters as a gratuity", so that at that moment Benedictus Tieerdts came into possession of a little over 250 Caroli guldens.

The entry of this sale in the Franeker Protocolboek (register of conveyances) follows here below:

20 January 1683 (registered 9 February 1683).

> "Benedictus Tieerts and Antie Johannes, spouses, citizens within Franeker, for ourselves and as authorized agents of Benedictus and Douwe Anskes, at Doccum and Sneecq respectively, and also of Frans Pijters stableman residing within Worcum, warranting for them under pledge of our goods, acknowledge that we, each for a fourth part and together for the whole, have sold, ceded and transferred in hereditary ownership, and do so by these presents, to Harmen Cornelis, sworn grain measurer, and Antie Wendels, spouses, for the one lawful half, and Magdaleentie Wendels widow of the late Pijter Cornelis, in his life carrier, likewise within Franeker, for the other lawful half, and thus to both in whole, certain about eight and a half Pondematen of pasture land lying outside the northwest of Franeker at Oerdum, however large or small, good or bad, it may be, having lady Helena van Louinga, widow of the late lord Dr. Henricus van Starringa to the south and west and the Sexbierumervaert to the east and north as neighbours, charged with two and a half floreen in the general assessment for taxation; likewise with one year's lease to the Vroedsman (town councillor) Pijtter Poppes, which lease the buyers shall enjoy[1] as well as with a passage, way and drift over it and with the joint maintenance of the landing stage and the planks[2] on the aforesaid Sexbierumervaert in proportion to the floreen, enjoying in return a free way, passage and drift over the said landing stage and planks[1] together with the lands lying across the waterway according to old custom" etc.

Further, in the Protocolboek there is also mentioned the purchase sum already given of 1000 cargl. with 6 rijxdaelders and "a further 2 silver ducatons to Frans Pijters as a gratuity", which amount is also named in the proclamation of 26 January—2—9 February 1683 in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales).

From this entry in the Franeker Protocolboek it further appears that Benedictus Tieerdts signed with the letters BT[3] and Antie Johannes with her name, and that both were citizens of Franeker.

MARRIED:

ANTIE JOHANNES, born at Akkerwoude, 1 May 1661 at Franeker.

The marriage entry reads as follows:

in the Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker.

> "The 14th (April 1661)
> Benedictus Tiaardts on the pitercelistraat
> and > Antie Johannesdr. on the Dijck > Married here on the 1st of May."

in the Register of marriage notices to the Court at Franeker:

> "The XIIIth of April 1661
> Before the president Dr H. Schotanus à Sterringa > Benedixtus Tyeerds born and residing at franeker > and Antie Johannis born at Ackerwoude and residing within > the aforesaid town, have had their marriage banns consented to by the > Court here."

[at the left of this quotation, joined by a brace to the last four lines, stands Donatum p. cōmiss]

[1] / Gauderen = to enjoy.

[2] / Landing stage and movable auxiliary bridge of planks.

[3] / This "hand mark" appears to be a good example of someone of whom it cannot be said straight away that he could not write.

Of Antie Johannes it is only known that she was still living at the beginning of 1683, which follows from the sale of the greydland at Oerdum. As has been stated, she is called a burgher of Franeker and she was able to write.

CHILDREN:

1. Trijntie Benedictusdr. (Greydanus), who follows under number: 9.
2. Tiaard Benedictuszn., who follows under number: 10.
3. Johannes Benedictuszn. (Greydanus), who follows under number: 11.
4. Griettie Benedictusdr., who follows under number: 12.
5. Jan Benedictuszn., who follows under number: 13.

---

4 TYAERDTIE TYAERDS

Line of descent: Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Wynaldum, 27 March 1646 · daughter of Tjaerd (Tyeerd) Jans (N° 1) and Pijr Pijters

Her baptism and death follow from the Wijnaldum church register, in which one finds the following:

> "TYAERDTIE TYAERDS, a little daughter of Tyaerd...., > being the brother-in-law of the old Frans Fransen > at Pietersbierum, was baptized in 1646 on Good > Friday 27 March, though born outside Wynaem.
> Tiaerdtie, still being small, died between > Old and New Year's night of that same year 1646 into 1647."

This little daughter of Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus was thus born after the death of her father, who died just before 3 February 1646, which is why the mother will have named her after her deceased husband. According to the entry in the Wynaldum church register, Tyaerdtie Tyaerds was born "outside Wynaem", possibly at Franeker, or at Pietersbierum, where Griettie Benedictus, after the death of her husband, went to await the approaching confinement with her mother Engel Johannes and her stepfather Frans Fransen d'Oude, who lived at Pietersbierum, presumably not far from the little church at Wynaem, so that the little one was baptized there.

The Wynaldum minister did not know the name of the father Tyaerd Jans, because he lived at Franeker and had died there, but from the description the brother-in-law, that is, the son-in-law, of d'Oude Frans Fransen, who was in fact the step-father-in-law of Tyaerd Jans, it nevertheless follows with a probability bordering on certainty that we are here dealing with a little daughter of Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus.

Like her brother Benedictus Tyaerds, Tyaerdtie Tyaerds was one of the 3 children referred to in the phrase occurring in the "Provisional statement of the goods left by the late Tyaerd Jans, Gortmaecker (groats miller), possessed by him in common with Griettie Benedictus during his lifetime, the 2nd of April 1646":

> “Of which the widow shall first receive and enjoy one half for herself, > and moreover three eighth parts for her three children, and > Jan Foppes with his associate in that capacity the remaining eighth part.”

It may here be further noted that nothing is known of the third child of Tyaerd Jans and Griettie Benedictus.

---

1. / Landing stage and movable auxiliary bridge of planks. ↩

THIRD GENERATION

(N^{os} 5 UP TO AND INCLUDING 13) 1660—1735

/1672 year of disaster, Jan de Witt murdered; 1685 the "Réfugiés" come to our country; Stadholder Willem de Derde proclaimed King of England in 1689; 1695 Christiaan Huygens, the inventor of pendulum clocks, dies; 1702 death of Willem de Derde; wars with Lodewijk de Veertiende; 1738 death of Herman Boerhaave/.

Children of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus (N^{o} 2) and Yttie Pieters (Van) Wimersma

---

5 DS. TJARDUS (TIARDUS, THEARDUS, TIOTARDUS, THEOTARDUS) GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

Ds. Tjardus Greydanus

b. Franeker, 19 January 1656 · d. Achlum, 19 March 1712 · son of Prof. Dr. Johannes Greydanus (N^{o} 2) and Yttie Pieters · m. Aafke Olthoff, 1682 · m. Eelckien Steenkist, 1686

He was born at Franeker 19 January 1656 (see page 482 of E. L. Vriemoet "Athenarum Frisiacarum").

His baptismal entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker reads as follows:

> "On the 23rd of January 1656 D^{r} Greidanis > has a child baptized named Tiardus."

In the Members' Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker there is also a list of those baptized from 1 January 1649 to 27 January 1658. In this list the baptism of Tjardus Greijdanus is entered, as appears from the accompanying reproduction, as follows:

> - (1656) Janŭariŭs"
> "D$_{R}$: Greijdanŭs child, named: Tiardŭs 23*

On 26 March 1669, thus soon after the death of his father Prof. Johannes Greydanus, Tjardus Greijdanus was appointed alumnus — a free pupil or student who receives instruction and maintenance from the public funds without charge — of Smallingerland. The deed concerning this appears in the Resolution Book of Volmachten (delegates) of the Quarter: "Oostergo", and reads as follows:

> "On this day the 26th of March 1669 there appeared Arent van Haersma, Grietman (district magistrate) and Focco Fockens Eringa and Volmachten of Smallingerlant, and they declared that for the vacant place of Alumnus of the aforesaid Grietenie they had chosen and nominated, doing so by this present deed: Theotardus Greidanus, attending the Triviale Schole (Latin grammar school) at Franeker. Requesting the Gentlemen Deputies that Their Honours, in accordance with the Province's resolution of 20 March 1650, may be pleased to pass the customary payment orders, wherefore the aforementioned Gentlemen Haarsma and Eringa have requested that this deed might be registered in the resolution book of Oostergo."

From the following entries in the Registration Books of the Payment Orders appear the yearly amounts — pensions — which were paid out for the study of Tjardus Greydanus:

> "25 November 1669. The candidatus /Hesselus (Arnoldi) Schuyringa, stud. alumnus/ on Smallingerland ½ year's pension . . . . . 55.—.—.
> /in the margin stands//: Presented on 1 June 1670 a deed that this was placed upon Theotardus Greidanus.
> 15 February 1671: Theotardus Greidanus pupil alumnus on Smallingerland, according to the deed of 26 March 1669 one year's Mart pension 1670 . . . . . 60 £
> 23 Dec. 1671. Theodorus Greidanus pupil on Smallingerland as above . . . . . 60 £
> 26 Nov. 1672. Theodorus Greydanus pupil and alumnus on Smallingerl^{t} as above, for the last time 60 £
> 17 Oct. 1674. Theodorus Greydanus stud. and alumnus on Smallingerl^{t} the pension of 1673 . . 110 £
> 4 June 1675. Tiardus Greidanus stud. and alum. on Smallingerland one year's pension due at Martini 1674 . . . . . 110 £
> 27 April 1676. Tiardus Greidanus, stud. and alum. on Smallingerlant one year's Martini pension . . 110 £
> 5 January 1677. Tiardus Greidanus, stud. et alum. on Smallingerlant one year's pension lately due at Mrt. . . . . 110 £
> 14 December 1677 Tiardus Greidanus, stud. et alum. on Smallingerlant one year's pension fallen due at Mrt. last . . . . . 110 £."

From this it appears that the yearly pension amounted to 60 £ as long as Tjardus Greydanus attended the Triviale School, and 110 £ during the time that he studied Theology at Franeker.

Tjardus Greydanus was enrolled as a student at the Franeker Academy on 13 May 1673, as appears from the following entry on fol. 455 of the Album Academiae Franekeranae, which is in the State Archives of Friesland, in which the names of the students were usually entered by the Rector himself, but in which, in this case, the student himself seems to have made the entry:

> (Latin) "In the month of May in the year 1673, under the presidency of Johannes Wubbena, professor of philosophy, the following were enrolled as citizens of the academy:
> . . . . . .
> 13 May. 28 $^{1/}$ Tiardus Greidanus Frisian, student of philosophy."

Further, concerning him, one still finds in the Album Studiosorum 1676—1716 (Recension lists):

> (Latin) "(Recension of Students) > Done in the Year 2 June 1676 Theotardus Greidanus student of Theology > the same 1677 " " " " ."

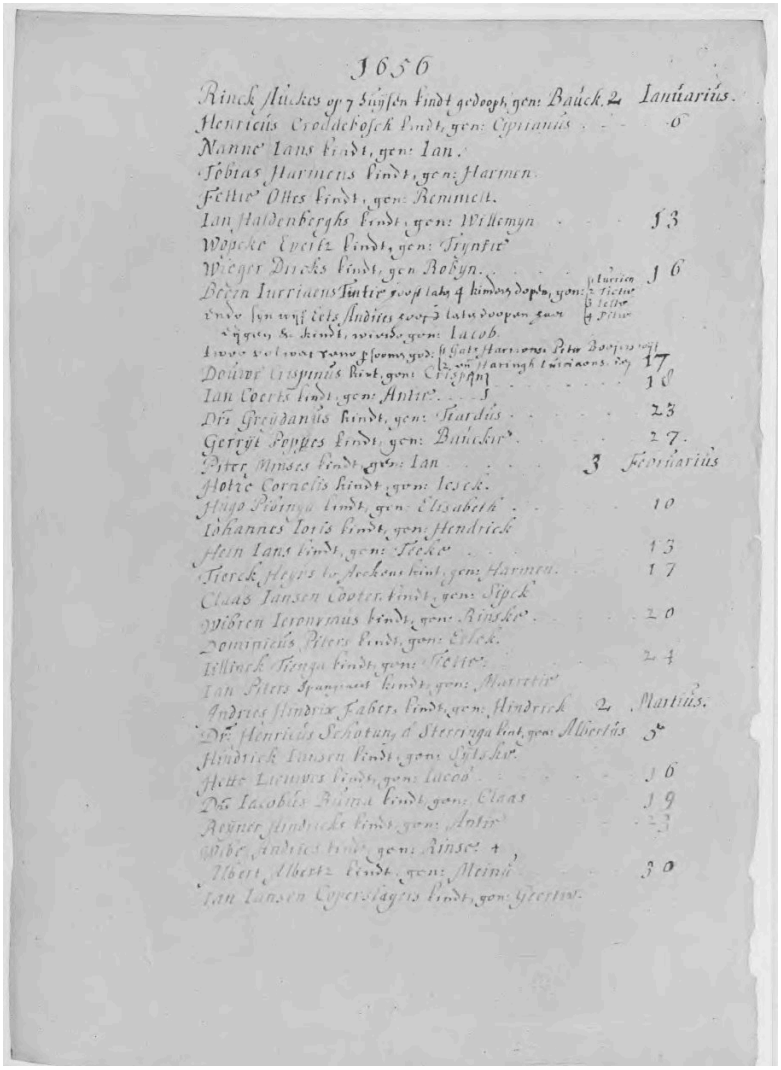
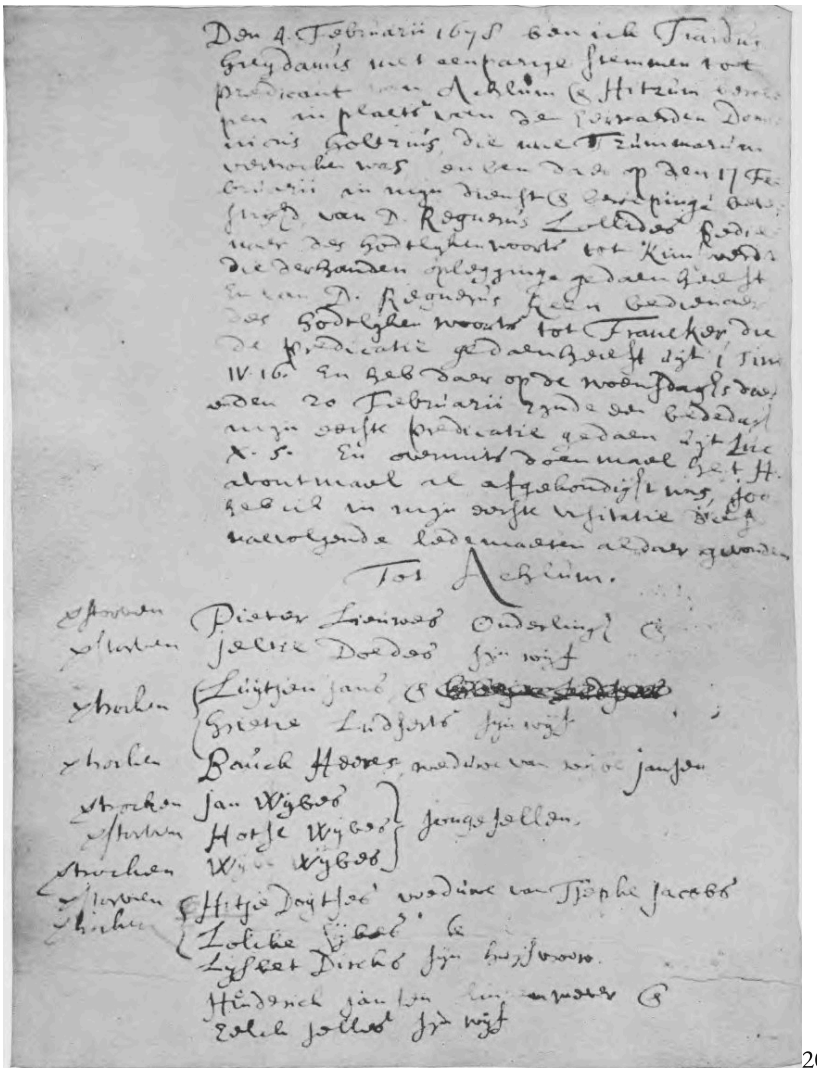
[1] Serial number.



Page from the Lidmatenboek (register of church members) of the Reformed congregation of Franeker, with the baptismal entry dated 23 January 1656 of Tiardùs Greijdanùs (slightly reduced).

[the facsimile is faded and only partly legible at this scan resolution; doubtful readings are marked.]



204) (actual size).

Tjardus Greydanus was thus first enrolled at Franeker as a student of Philosophy and later of Theology.

At the back of the "Diarium Academiae" from 25 August 1664 to 16 April 1683 the following is further noted:

> "Registration of the Apostilles
> 1675 on 4 August approved
> Tiard Greidang. Apostille in favour of Tiardg Greidanùs, ending 1 July 1675.
> On 2 August 1676 the
> following apostilles were approved
> Tiardus Greydanus. An Apostille in favour of Tiardus Greydanus dated 1 July 1675.
> On 1 August 1677 the
> following Apostilles were approved
> Tiardus Greidanus 1 July 1677.
> On 8 May 1678 the > following Apostilles were approved
> Thiardus Greydanus 1 July 1677."

In the book occurring under II N° 29 of the Archive of Curators, the Senatus-Generalis and the Institutions of the former Academy at Franeker: "Rotula Studiosorum frequentantium Bursam-1699—1674", giving the names of the students who attended the Burse (student bursary hall) in those years, T. Greidanus appears from 12 July 1673 onwards. Soon after his enrolment as a student on 13 May 1673 Tjardus Greydanus thus made use of the Burse, in which an indication might be found that his mother no longer lived at Franeker at that time.

On 4 December 1676 Tjardus Greydanus put himself forward for taking the Classical examination; on 23 April 1677 he was admitted to take this examination, in May and June 1677 he took the examination, and on 2 July 1677 the honourable Classis judged "unanimously" to admit him to the (Latin) sacred ministry. Concerning this one finds the following in the Archive of the Classis Franeker of the Dutch Reformed Church for the years 1676—1677:

> 4 December 1676. Some students of Holy Theology have submitted their names in order to be examined, namely Michael Wilhelmi, Joh. Haselbeeck, Lollius Posthumus and Tiardus Greidanus.

> 23 April 1677. the candidates d. Michael Wilhelmi, d. Joh. Haselbeeck, d. Lollius Posthumus and d. Tiardus Greidanus have, on their laudable testimonials, been admitted (Latin) to the examination in Theology, just as their examiners have been appointed: D. Regnerus Lollides and D. Poppinga.
>
> 7 May 1677. . . . . after which the candidates presented their propositions on the set texts to the honourable assembly with good praise, and in their answers concerning that which was put to them by the examiner in the original languages conducted themselves in such a manner that they were admitted to further examination, which shall take place three weeks from today.
>
> 28 May 1677. Thereupon inquiry was made concerning the knowledge of the candidates in Holy Theology, so that the Reverend Praeses[1] examined them with regard to the common places (Latin) on Theology, on Religion, on the Word of God, on God, in the treatment of which places they conducted themselves in such a way that the honourable Classis unanimously judged that the examination with them should be proceeded with further.
>
> 18 June 1677. After the invocation of the Lord's name by the Reverend Praeses, inquiry was made concerning the knowledge of the candidates in theology in the places on God, election, reprobation, Creation, Providence, in the treatment of which places they conducted themselves in such a way that the Classis jointly judged that the examination with them should be continued in the afternoon.
>
> the same day in the afternoon the honourable Classis again began and continued the previous examination of the candidates and examined (Latin) the place concerning the Mediator and considered therein (Latin) Christ foreknown, promised and manifested, and his offices and state of humiliation, and therein the honourable Brethren of the Reverend Classis took such pleasure that with full votes they admitted them to the propositions.
>
> 2 July 1677. After . . . . etc. the propositions of the candidates were heard by the honourable Classis, which, compared with their previous examination, so pleased the honourable Classis that the honourable Classis unanimously judged that they should be admitted to the sacred ministry, as they have been admitted, with the wish of the Lord's blessing.
>
> 3 September 1677. There were read the (Latin) Testimonials of Admission of the Candidates, written by D. Lollides and D. Poppinga, which were approved by the honourable Assembly, with thanks to their honours for the trouble taken, just as their honours are also heartily thanked herewith for their laudable examination, which was pleasing to the honourable Classis.

On 20 January 1678 a child was baptized in the Church of Achlum by Tjardus Greydanus as Min. Cand., as appears from the following entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Achlum and Hitzum:

[1] Lollides.

"On 20 January 1678 Tiardo Greydano*, Candidate of Sacred Theology, baptized in the village and Church of Achlum Doede, a son of Pieter Lieuwes, elder at Achlum, & Jeltie Doedes."*

On 4 Febr. 1678 Tjardus Greydanus was called as Reformed Minister at Achlum and Hitzum by unanimous votes of both villages, which call was approved on 11 Febr. following by the Classis of Franeker, and on 17 February following he was installed in his office by the ministers Regnerus Reen and Regnerus Lollides. Concerning this the following is found:

Archive of the Classis of Franeker:

> "11 February 1678. The Classis of Franeker, being assembled extraordinarily, has heard the proposal of the Commissioned Inhabitants of Achlum and Hitzum, presenting their new call issued upon the person of D. Theardus Greijdanus and therewith annexed the voting list of the same. The honourable Classis, in the fear of the Lord weighing and considering what was to be observed therein, finds that the aforesaid call has been made with unanimous votes of both villages Achlum and Hitzum, according to the resolution of the Country, upon the said person of Theardus Greidanus, and approves the same as such. As commissioners for the installation were voted: the honourable Brethren: Regnerus Reen and Regn. Lollides, at that time President and Scriba of the Classis."

Baptismal register of Achlum and Hitzum:

> "The following children were baptized by me, Tiardus Greydanus, after I had been called as minister of Achlum and Hitzum on 4 February 1678 and installed on 17 February."

"Members'" and Marriage Register of Achlum and Hitzum: the page reproduced above, written by Tjardus Greydanus in his own hand, reading:

"On 4 February 1678 I, Tiardús Greydanús, was called with unanimous votes as Minister of Achlúm and Hitzúm in place of the Reverend Dominicús Goltziús, who had removed to Tzúmmarúm, and I was thereupon installed in my office and calling on 17 February by D. Regnerús Lollides, Minister of the Divine Word at Kimswerdt, who performed the laying on of hands, and by D. Regnerús Reen, Minister of the Divine Word at Franeker, who preached the sermon from 1 Tim IV. 16. And on the Wednesday following, the 20th of February, being a day of prayer, I preached my first sermon from Lúc X. 5. And since at that time the Holy Supper had already been announced, I found at my first visitation the following members there.

At Achlúm.
deceased — Pieter Lieuwes, Elder, and deceased — Jeltie Doedes his wife departed — { Lúijtjen Jans and { Grietie Lúdserts his wife departed — Baúck Heeres, widow of Wijbe Jansen departed — Jan Wijbes } deceased — Hotse Wijbes } bachelors. departed — Wijbe Wijbes } deceased — Hitje Doijtses, widow of Tjepke Jacobs departed — { Lolcke Sijbes and { Lijsbet Dircks his wife Hinderick Jansen, linen weaver, and Eelck Jelles his wife."

On 8 April 1678 he became a Member of the Classis Franeker, in 1682 he was a Member of the Synod at Leeuwarden and in 1686 at Franeker, in 1689 "correspondent to North Holland"[1] and in 1698 Scriba Synodi at Sneek and in 1704 "at 't Heerenveen".

Until his death he remained Minister at Achlum and Hitzum, but was twice nominated, namely on 20 September 1696 for the vacancy of Ds. Regnerus Reen and on 24 June 1704 for the vacancy of Ds. Johannes

[1] The Ministers appointed by the Classes, namely one by each classis, who maintained "Correspondence" or "letter communication" with Mr. Dirk Onder de Linden, publisher at Amsterdam, for the communication of the so-called Church news; in order to make publicly known in print, in the monthly Boekzaal, the changes occurring in the Church (see the note on page IV of the "Voorreden tot den bescheiden lezer" in W. A. Bachiene "Kerkelijke Geographie der Vereenigde Nederlanden").

Diagram (draft) concerning the CURATORSHIP of DS. TJARDUS GREYDANUS, *Dutch Reformed Minister at Achlum and Hitsum. Belongs with page 205. - Mayke (Marike, Mary) Ysbrandts — First at Menaldum, afterwards at Franeker, where Jan Andriesz. was a citizen and koemelcker (cow-keeper). † Franeker 1651. - ⚭ Jan Andriesz. — † Franeker 1649. - Hessel Jans — Mr. Cuyper (master cooper) at Franeker. - ⚭ Antje Boons - Tamme Hessels — Koeckebacker (cake baker) at Franeker. † Franeker 1691. - ⚭ Beertie Jacobs — † Franeker 1686. - Sjouckjen Tammis — b. ± 1684. - ⚭ Lucas Ottis Salverda - Pyttie Tammis — b. ± 1685. - Jacob Hessels — † 1672. - Maeicke Hessels - ⚭ Johannes Jans — Treckschipper (barge skipper) on the Leeuwarden route; in 1697 Mr. Wolkammer (master wool-comber) at Franeker. - Jelle Taeckes — B. ± 1626. Apothecary at Leeuwarden. M. Jorwerd ± 20 February 1653. † August 1657, buried at Franeker. - ⚭ I Aefke Jans — † 1693. - Taco Jelles — First citizen-sergeant, later Hardhouder (Steenhouwer) (stonemason) and Vroetsman (town councillor) at Franeker. - ⚭ I Yttie Lamberts Salverda — B. ± 1664. Baptized as an adult at Franeker 21 March 1691, dau. of Lammert Poppes Salverda. - Lambert Taeckes — (called himself after his mother Salverda). Bapt. Franeker 11 November 1690. Ontvanger (tax receiver) at Tzum. † 1748. - ⚭ Bregtje Piers (Strikwerda) — B. 1695, dau. of Pyer Pijtters and Aethje Brongers. M. 6 June 1717. † 1750. - ⚭ II Heercke Ydema — Merchant at Franeker. - Yde Heerckes Ydema — b. ± 1695. - ⚭ III Ds. Aggæus Eydsma (Eysema) — Dutch Reformed Minister at Tzum. - ⚭ II Ds. Ausonius Steenkist — B. Wynaem (Wynaldum) ± 1622. Dutch Reformed Minister at Mantgum and Schillaard. M. Mantgum 3 July 1659. † Mantgum 20 September 1669. - Eelckien Steenkist - ⚭ II Ds. Tjardus Greydanus - ⚭ I Aefke Olthoff

Creygton, on the nomination list for minister at Franeker, as appears from the two following entries in the Acta of the Kerkeraad (church council) of the Dutch Reformed congregation there:

> "20 September 1696.
> . . . . . .
> Thereupon they proceeded at once to the nomination > and the following were brought into consideration by > the Brethren:
> (by) the Honourable Westerhuijs . . . . and Dms Tiardus Greidanus, minister > at Achlum".
>
> "Tuesday the 24 June 1704.
> . . . . . .
> Thereupon . . . . . .
> the Honourable Burgomaster Schotanus . . . . named the > following . . . . Dms Tjardus Greidanus at Achlum."

On 13 July 1689 he installed Aggæus Eidsma, formerly conrector at Franeker, in his office at Tzum, concerning which the following is recorded in the book of the Reformed congregation at Tzum "Handelingen van den Kerkeraad 1645—1886 en Lidmaten 1645—1772":

> "CONTENTS.
> of what has occurred both at > the beginning of my service and in the > course of the same.
> After it had pleased the all-governing God according to His great ways > to incline the hearts of the honourable Johan à Goslinga, Grietman (district magistrate) > of Franequeradeel, of the noble and other landowners and > persons entitled to vote, to choose me, Aggaeum Eidsma (Latin) son of the Franeker burgomaster, > as overseer and teacher of the congregation which > assembled at Tsúm, this same call was, as lawful, > approved by the Franequer Classis on the VII July 1689 and > declared good and blameless
> On the XIII of the same month I was installed with the laying on of hands: the > sermon was preached by D. Tiotardús Greidanús J. F. from > Thess. V 12. 13, the laying on of hands being performed by D. Rúdolphús > Staak, ministers, in Achlúm and Hitsúm, and in Schalsum and Boer, > with a great attendance of hearers."

In 1698 Ds. Tjardus Greydanus was curator (guardian) over the children of Tamme Hessels, koeckebacker (cake baker) at Franeker, and Beertie Jacobs, and about 1700 over the child of Taco Jelles, Vroetsman (town councillor) and Hardhouder [1] at Franeker, and Yttie Lamberts Salverda.

All this follows from the entries given below in the Authorisatieboek (register of authorizations) and in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker, elucidated by the accompanying diagram, from which it appears that Aefke Jans was the mother of Eelckien Steenkist (the 2nd wife of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus) and of Taco Jelles (a son from her first marriage with Jelle Taeckes), and that she had a brother Hessel Jans, whose son was called Tamme Hessels.

Authorisatieboek of Franeker:

> "28 November 1694. D^{s} Tiotardus Greidanus, minister of the Divine Word at Achlum and Hitzum, curator over Siouckjen (10½ yrs) Pyttie (9 yrs), surviving children of Tamme Hessels and Beertie Jacobs. This appointment took place by virtue of the will of the late Hessel Jansen, Mr. Kuiper in Franeker, who had nominated Domine Tiotardus Greidanus as curator over his two grandchildren."

Weesboeken of Franeker:

> "11 May 1703. Account of D^{e} Tjardus Greijdanus, V.D.M. at Achlum, in his capacity, according to testamentary disposition, of curator over Sjouckjen and Pyttie Tammis, child of Tamme Hessels and Beertie Jacobs, in their time married couple, koeckebackers in Franeker, concerning the said children's property since 9 November 1694. (In the margin) On this day, 11 May 1703, D^{nus} Tjardus Greijdanus, as accountant, assisted by the Procurator P. Altena, submitted this account in the presence of the honourable Burgomaster Dr. T. Brunia, assisted by the Secretary Julius a Jeltinga, and it was received and closed by Lucas Ottis Salverda, husband and guardian of his wife Sjouckjen Tammis, as well as by Johannes Jans, Leeuwarden treckschipper (barge skipper), as uncle by marriage and curator ad hunc actum over Pyttie Tammis, further endorsed and the receipts cancelled."

Authorisatieboek of Franeker:

> "(undated, but ± 1699). At the request of Yttie Lambers Salverda, at present wife of D^{e} Aggaeus Eysema, minister of the Divine Word at Tzum, there has been appointed as curator over Lambert, aged . . years, minor son of the late Taco Jelles, in his lifetime Vroedtsman and Hardhouder of this town, and of the aforesaid Yttie Lambers Salverda, D^{s} Theotardus Greijdanus, V.D.M. in Achlum and Hitsum, as uncle by marriage of Lambert Takes.

---

[1] Stonemason.

> At the request of the aforementioned Yttie Lamberts Salverda there has been appointed as curator over Yde, aged . . years, minor little son of the late Hercke Ydema, in his lifetime merchant here, and of the aforementioned Yttie Lamberts Salverda, Rinse Abbema S.S. Th. Cand. and full uncle on the father's side over Yde Herckes Ydema, assisted by the Ruling Burgomaster Amilius Jacobides, since he is not yet fully 25 years old."

Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker:

> "19 Dec. 1699. Rinso Edonis Abbema, S.S. Ministerij Candidatus, as uncle on the father's side and authorized curator ad hunc actum over Yde Herckers (in his 4th year), little son of the late Hercke Ydema, merchant in Franeker, begotten in wedlock by Yttie Lamberts Salverda, in this matter, since he is not yet fully 25 years old and is himself under curatorship, assisted by the Ruling Burgomaster Emilius Jacobides, who has likewise been authorized ad hunc actum; further D^{n} Theothardus Greydanus, V.D.M. in Achlum and Hitzum, likewise as authorized curator ad hunc actum over Lambert Takes (aged 9 years), little son of the late Taco Jelles, Vroetsman (town councillor) in Franeker, begotten in wedlock by the above-mentioned Yttie Lamberts Salverda, last widow of the late Heercke Ydema, now remarrying with D^{ne} Aggeus Eijsema, minister of God's Word at Tzum."

Moreover, Ds. Tjardus Greydanus was curator over the little daughter left behind by his sister Elisabeth Greydanus (N^{o} 7), but this will be stated under this little daughter (N^{o} 25).

At the end of 1698 Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, together with his sister named above, sold the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh onwards on "de Greyde" in Franeker for 160 cargl. to Sybren Claessen and Maycke Bouwes, spouses there. This house, which they had inherited from their father Prof. Johannes Greydanus, had in its time been inhabited by their great-grandparents Jan Buwes × Trijntie Tyaerdts. The relevant Franeker proclamation dated 25 November /2/25 December 1698, completed as far as necessary from the Franeker Protocolboek[1], reads as follows:

> "Sybren Claessen with his wife (Maycke Bouwes), spouses, citizens of Franeker, buy a certain house and kitchen with appurtenances on de Greijde, having Jan Allerts to the west and Mr. Jan Cornelis to the east, charged with 20 strs. (stuivers) yearly ground rent and its proper house floreen, as also to the proclaiming spouses with 10 years' lease at 16 cargl. yearly, bought from D^{s} Tiardus Greydanus V.D.M. in the village of Achlum for the one half and cum soc. (Elisabeth Greijdanus, wife of Mr. Joannes Antonides at Sexbierum for the other half) for the sum of 160 cargl. Adjudication to the proclaimant 15 Dec. 1698."

In an account of the curatorship over the children of the late Ds. Hesselus Schuiringa V.D.M. and of his wife Janneke van der Eyk, at Mindertsga, dated 5 June 1697, included in the Weesboek of Wonseradeel, it is recorded that to Tiardus Greidanus, minister at Achlum, 20 cargl. had been paid for one year's board money for Susanna Schuiringa, fallen due p^{o} (primo) May 1695, in accordance with the receipt of 4 June, and further that Tiardus Greidanus had also paid 19 strs for knitting yarn. The daughter of the late Ds. Hesselus Schuiringa, minister at Minnertsga, thus appears to have been in board with Ds. Tjardus Greydanus.

Ds. Tjardus Greydanus died, presumably at Achlum, 19 March 1712 and thus reached an age of a little over 56 years. He, both his wives and 2 of his children are buried next to one another in the Reformed Church at Achlum. Photographic reproductions of the stone slabs lying on their graves, over which a wooden floor has now been laid, are included herewith.

According to the reproduction of the slab on the grave of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, the following inscription is chiselled upon it, as well as the arms of the family "Greydanus", though, as has already been stated on page 19, without the six-pointed star and with a peculiar heraldic form of the mill wheel unknown to me:

"On 19 March 1712 there fell asleep in the Lord the Reverend and Godly and Very Learned Dominus Tiardus Greydanus, minister of God's Word in the congregation at Achlum and Hitsum, aged in his 57th year, and he lies buried here and awaits a blessed resurrection".

In the Archive of the Classis Franeker the following is found after his death:

> "2 May 1712. D. Beilanus having proposed to the meeting that the heirs of the late D^{o} Greidanus were indeed desirous to come to an agreement with the honourable Classis, whereupon D. D. Beilanus and Schellinger, being commissioned thereto, have agreed therein with the above-mentioned heirs to take charge of the vacant service each time for one ducaton, with provision of lodging, concerning which matter a final decision shall be taken in the coming session."

[1] Deed dated 21 March 1698, registered 16 December 1698.

Stone slab, in the Reformed Church at Achlum, on the grave of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, † 19 March 1712.

Two stone slabs in the Dutch Reformed Church at Achlum, on the graves of both wives and of two children of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus.

Concerning the estate of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus we find the following recorded in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker:

> "16 Dec. 1716. There appeared before the co-governing Burgomaster H. D. Lomars and the Secretary J. Scheltema: Suffridus van Westerhuis, Rentemeester-Generaal (receiver-general) of the domains of Friesland and Burgomaster of the town of Franequer, as authorized Curator over Ausonius Greidanus, a surviving little son of D^{nus} Tjardus Greidanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum and Hitsum, begotten in wedlock by the late Eelckjen Steenkist, which Ausonius Greidanus recently, and thus after his father's death, has become heir of his full sister Yttie Greidanus, in that capacity Requirant and Rendant on the one side, against Johannes Greidanus, Huisman (farmer) at Pingjum, heir for a third part of his late father D^{ns} Tjardus Greidanus aforesaid, Requireerde and Rendeerde on the other side, in order to make with one another an account, separation and division of goods.
> In the first place there is exhibited here an:
> Inventory, completed and closed by the joint relatives, made at the house of the deceased, from which everything can plainly and clearly be seen, what goods were left by the deceased and found at the house of the deceased. It is also to be noted that the Requireerde Johannes Greidanus enjoyed and received his maternal goods for some years and for a long time during the lifetime of his late father... pro memoria.
> A provincial bearer bond of 500 cargl. in favour of Grytie Cornelis with cession to Aafke Steenkist dated 27 April 1666, changed by resolution of the States into a bearer bond according to the placard of 25 April 1711.
> A ditto capital of 250 cargl. dated 12 September 1696 according to the Resolution of 3 July 1695.
> A bearer bond, amounting to 800 cargl. in favour of Hoite Feickes with cession to Sibbeltie Haltema or the bearer of this, dated 20 May 1673, but changed into a bearer bond.
> A ditto provincial bearer bond amounting to 400 cargl. in favour of and in the name of D^{nus} Tjardus Greidanus d.d. 4 May 1690, Resolution of 1 May 1689.
> A provincial bearer bond, amounting to 200 Cargl. according to the Resolution of 23 February 1706.
> A provincial bearer bond amounting to 400 cargl., having been laid out in favour of Mr. Johannes Greidanus, Professor of Philosophy, dated 1 May 1666 according to the Resolutions of 2 and 30 March 1666.
> A life-annuity deed on the life of Johannes Greidanus amounting to 200 cargl., dated 27 March 1705 according to the Resolution of 27 February 1705, marked with No. 4356.
> Idem, amounting to 200 cargl. dated 27 March 1705 according to the Resolution of 13 April 1702, with no. 2592.
> Idem, on the life of Ausonius Greidanus, for 400 cargl. dated 3 July 1705."

Among the further receipts (possessions) there also occur items arising from the Pastorieplaats (parsonage farm) at Achlum. According to the recapitulation, there amounted: the goods of the late minister Tjardus Greidanus to the sum of 1963—7—1, of which Johannes Greidanus as heir to $^1/_2$ of his late father[1] is entitled to . . . . . 654—9—. . but after various hearings held and in order to prevent disputes it has been agreed by the parties that Johannes Greidanus shall receive on account of paternal goods . . . . . 600—.—. . Ausonius Greidanus is entitled to (in total, including maternal goods). . . . . 4396—2—. .

The deed is signed by: S. Westerhuys, Johannes Greidanus, and Maaike Steenkist as full aunt of Ausonius Greidanus.

In the Personeelcohieren (personal-tax registers) of Franekeradeel one finds the following concerning Ds. Tjardus Greydanus:

> in the register of 1706: at Achlum D. Tjardus Greidanus for himself for f 2600.— and as curator over M^r Johannes Anthonij's children for 5—4—.; > in the register of 1711: at Achlum the heirs of Dom^s Greidanus for f 2600; in the register of 1714 the entry of the heirs of D^{ne} Greidanus is signed by S. Westerhuijs in his capacity as curator.

From the foregoing it thus appears that Ds. Tjardus Greydanus reached the age of 56 years, that he was financially in good circumstances, and that he had a small handwriting, which was apparently written rapidly and therefore sometimes degenerated into carelessness. With the following page there is also added a reproduction of folio 156 d.d. 8 December 1691, written by Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, in the account book of the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) of the village of Achlum, beginning with 1564 and ending with 1719, and renewed in 1817. This page reads as follows:

> "f 156.
> Today, 8 December 1691, the inhabitants of > Achlúm, after prior house announcement and notification, > have assembled in order to speak about the arrangement of the village > lands in connection with the resolution of 14 June 1691, > and it has been resolved by a majority of votes that > for one year the land shall be left as it is, in order > meanwhile to see whether clay can be sold out of it, > and that therefore the Kerckvoogden shall seek > to let the scharren (grazing shares) by public call, provided care be taken > that it be stipulated that the tenants shall be > obliged to bring the proper dongh[2] onto it.

[1] The entire profitable state of the estate of D^s Tjardus Greydanus amounted to the sum of 8357-14-..

[2] Manure.

> Thus resolved on the date as above, in witness of our > hands and marks. (signed) Jan Claessen.
> (signed) Pijtter Dircks. (signed) Pietter Tiepkes.
> (signed) Gerlof Clasens. (signed) Yan Yacobs.
> This ✗ is That + is (signed) Tiardus Greydanús > Ieb Harmens' Jan Beerns' minister in > own set own set Achlúm et Hitzúm > mark mark
> (signed) Aúcke Rinties (signed) M^r Minse Al> (sgd.) Jacob Tiepkes. berdts[1] / Dorprechter (village judge) in the > village of Achlúm 1691."

His writings are:

A booklet, entitled "De brandklok tot Hitzum geklipt", containing two sermons, delivered on the occasion that the house of an immoral man at Hitzum was consumed by fire. I have not been able to trace a copy of this booklet.

A Hebrew poem on Hermannus Witsius, on his acceptance of the professorship in Theology at Franeker on 16 April 1675. The poem is found, together with a Latin verse by U. Huber and a Hebrew one by M. Wilhelmi S.S. Theol. St., at the back of the "Oratio inauguralis: Exhibens speciem veri ac sinceri theologi" of that Professor, consisting of 58 pages. A copy of this Oration, printed in 1675 by the Academy printer Johannes Gyselaer, is present in the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden[2]. A reproduction of this Hebrew poem by Tiardus Greidanus accompanies page 209, while a translation of it follows below:

> An ornate crown, in which (is) wisdom and knowledge in keeping, > for a sign to the children of my people, a head and crown, is that not > the wise one, the perfect one, like the great teacher > HERMAN WITSIUS
> after he has come to the dwelling place which (is) in the famous city > Franeker
> to teach the Law of the Lord and His commandments.
> King Solomon greatly praised > the man who by his wisdom delivered a little city, > and wherein (were) few men,
> and drove the enemy from her gate.
> What shall we do for them who have delivered > the church of God by their knowledge?
> Therefore praise the Lord, for He > has sent forth a learned man; and you, who > [love > the Law of the Lord, rejoice > with me. Now this one will explain to us the Words > of God. And be glad, for > the peoples of our land shall not now become > unbridled. For the prophecy[3] / is confirmed, > and God has given shepherds after His heart, > who shall feed us (with) their knowledge and > [wisdom.

> Thus has He (with) His blessing visited His people, > from heaven. Blessed is he that comes.
> Why should you remain standing outside? Bless,
> Lord, his strength, and may You take pleasure > [in the work > that he shall work. Your good blessing > (be) upon him, and upon all our many, > whom he shall teach Your fear.
> And over this house may
> Your eyes, O Lord, be opened.
>
> Bless our delight and may > our sons of the prophets be as the plant > that is reared in her youth. He,
> God, shall keep us from all evil.
> In haste and brevity I have written this poem,
> I,
> Tiardus Greidanus
> son of J. G.
> Theol. Stud.

Concerning Ds. Tjardus Greydanus the following is found, in chronological order, in the printed books:

E. L. Vriemoet. Athenarum Frisiacarum. Franeker 1758 (Title edition Leeuwarden 1763). Already included on page 175.

Ds. Ausonius Greydanus. Naamlyst der Predikanten, die zedert de Herforming gedient hebben in de Classis van Franeker, en aanmerkingen over de naamlysten van andere Classen. Leeuwarden 1761.

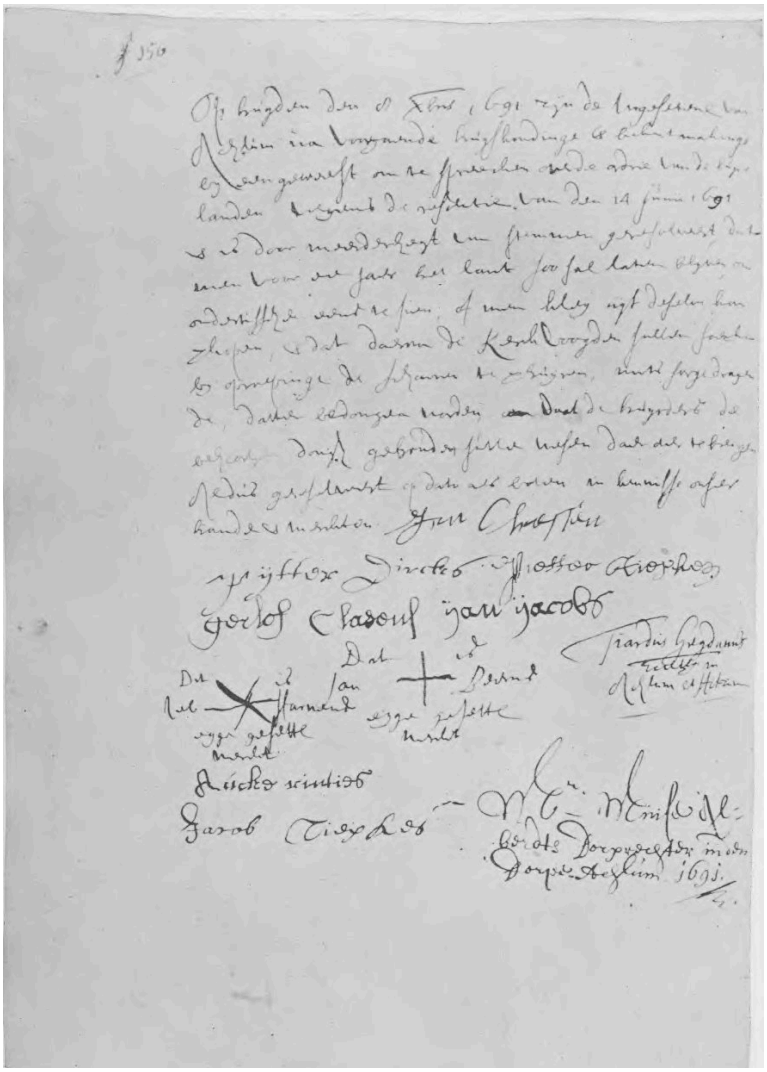
Page 3:

> Achlum and Hitzum.
> "1678. TJARDUS GREYDANUS. Joh.: Philos. Profes: Fil:, Aus. Pat: having become Candidate in the Classis of Franeker on 2 July 1677, he was here

[1] / See note 1 on page 209.

[2] / See the Catalogue of 1862 of the Society, page 258.

[3] / lit.: vision.



Folio written in his own hand on 8 December 1691 by D. Tiardús Greydanús, from the Rekeningboek (account book) of the Reformed Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) of Achlum (slightly reduced).

עֲטֶרֶת תִּפְאֶרֶת / שֶׁבַח חָכְמָה וְרַעַת לְמִשְׁמֶרֶת /

לְאוֹת לִבְנֵי עַמִּי רֹאשׁ וַעֲטֶרֶת · הֲלֹא הוּא

הֶחָכָם הַשָּׁלֵם כּוּ״רר

הֶרְמַן וִיטְסִיוּס:

אַחֲרֵי בָּא אֶל־יְשִׁיבָה שֶׁבָּעִיר הַהֶלָּלָה

פְּרֶנֶקֶר

לְלַמֵּד תּוֹרַת יְיָ וּמִצְוֹתָיו:

שׁ לָמָּה הַמֶּלֶךְ מְאֹד הִלֵּל — אֲשֶׁר יְרֵעֵנוּ דֵּעָה וְחָכְמָתָם:
אִישׁ שֶׁפִּחְכְּמָתוֹ עִיר קְטַנָּה / — כֹּה פָּקַד בְּרָכָתוֹ עִמּוֹ
וַאֲנָשִׁים בְּזֹה מְעַטִּים / נִצַּל — מִשָּׁמַיִם · בָּרוּךְ חַבָּא /
וְאֶת־אֹיֵב חָדַף מְהֵרָה: — לָמָּה תַּעְמֹד בַּחוּץ: בָּרְכָה
מַה־נַּעֲשָׂם אֲשֶׁר הוֹשִׁיעוּ — יְהוָה חֵילוֹ / וְתִרְצֵהוּ פְּעָלָה
אֶת־קָהַל אֱלֹהִים בְּבִינוֹתֵיהֶם · — אֲשֶׁר יִפְעָל · בְּרָכָתְךָ שֹׂבָה
עַל־בֵּן הוֹדוּ לָאֵל / כִּי הוּא — עָלֵינוּ וְעַל כָּל־רַבּוֹתֵינוּ / שָׁלַךְ אִישׁ לָמוּד · וְשֶׁאֹהֲבֵיהֶם — שָׁלְמוּ־נוּ · יִרְאָתָךְ:
אֶת־תּוֹרַת יְהוָה עַמָּדִי — וְאֶל־הַפִּיחַ חֲזֵה יְהִי
שָׁכְחוּ · עָהּ הָיָה דְבָרִי — נָא אֲדֹנָי פְּתָחוֹת עֵינֶיךָ ·
אֱלֹהִים יְפָרְשֵׁנוּ · וְשׁוֹשׁוּ כִּי — פָּרַךְ אֶת־חֲפָצֵינוּ · וְהָיוּ
לֹא יִפָּרְעוּ עָתָה עַמִּי — בְּנֵי נְבִיאֵינוּ כְּמוֹ הַנָּטַע
אַרְצֵנוּ · כִּי חָזוֹן נֶאֱמָן / — הַמְנֻוָּל בְּנֵעוֹרֵינוּ · הַהוּא וְאֵלוֹהַּ נָתַן רֹעִים כִּלְבָבוֹ / — אֱלֹהִים יִשְׁמְרֵנוּ מִכָּל־רָע:

בְּנִחִיצָה זְקוּרָה סְלִיחָה כְּכַתְּבִי אֲנִי

TIARDUS GREIDANUS
J. G. F. הת

שׁ רִים וְשָׂרוֹת עֲלוֹ רָאשֵׁי הָרִים / — אֶת־אֲשֶׁר שָׁלַךְ לִהְיוֹת אֲלוּף עַמּוֹ /
הַשָּׁלִיכוּ מִכֶּם פְּנֻדִּים קוֹדְרִים · — וְיִנָּחֶה אוֹתָנוּ בְּחוּרִים וְהוֹרָח וַאֲתֶּם שָׁבְכוּ אֶל־אַרְצֵנוּ / — פְּדֶרֶךְ קְצָרָה תַּלְמִידֵי הוֹרָה:
נֵילוּ וְשִׁירוּ שִׁיר חָדָשׁ לָנוּ / — עַל־כֵּן נִסְפְּרָה שִׁמְךָ לְאַחֲרֵינוּ
זִמְרוּ כְבוֹד אִישׁ חָכָם מוֹרֵנוּ / — וְרֹאשְׁךָ נֵעָשֵׂר / אַף אֶל־אֱלוֹהֵינוּ
אֲשֶׁר בָּא בִּישִׁיבָה זֹאת לְלַמְּדֵנוּ — נִתְפַּלֵּל לְהוֹשִׁיעַ לְךָ בְּחַיֶּיךָ / בְּשָׁלוֹם תּוֹרַת אֱלֹהִים וְאֶת אָרְחוֹ / — וְיַצְלִיחַ אֶת־כָּל־מַעֲשֵׂה יָדֶיךָ:

M: WILHELMI SS: Theol. St.

Page with a Hebrew poem by Tiardus Greidanus at the back of the printed Oratie with which Hermannus Witsius took up the professorship of Theology at Franeker on 16 April 1675 (see page 208) (slightly reduced).

> called in 1678, and approved on 11 February, installed by Regnerus Reen, and Regnerus Lollides, was in 1682 Member of the Synod at Leeuwarden, in 1686 at Franeker, in 1689 Correspondent to Noordholland, in 1698 Scriba Synodi (clerk of the Synod) at Sneek, and in 1704 at 't Heerenveen, died on 19 March 1712, at the age of 56 years and 2 months: besides a Hebrew Poem on the Inaugural Oration of Prof. Witzius, composed when he was still a student, there has also been published by him a Dutch tract, called the Brandklok van Hitzum, containing two sermons."

H. W. Steenstra. Oudheidkundige aanteekeningen van de Dorpen en Kloosters der Grietenij Franekeradeel, tevens bevattende een naamlijst van de Hervormde Predikanten dier dorpen, sedert de Hervorming tot nu toe. Franeker 1836.

Page 23:

> The ministers who have served Achlum and Hitzum are the following:
> "1678. TJARDUS GREIDANUS Candidate at Franeker on 2 July 1677, installed here in February 1678, was repeatedly Member and Deputatus of the Synod. Died on 19 March 1712, aged a little over 56 years. Besides a Hebrew poem, there appeared from this minister a certain little book, entitled: de brandklok van Hitzum, consisting of two sermons, delivered on the occasion that the house of an immoral man there was consumed by fire."

A. J. v. d. Aa. Biographisch Woordenboek der Nederlanden. Haarlem, 1851—1879. 7th Part, pp. 410 and 411. In which nothing special is stated.

Ds. T. A. Romein. Naamlijst der Predikanten.

Page 237:

> Achlum and Hitzum.
> "1678. TJARDUS GREIDANUS, born at Franeker on 19 January 1656, son of Johannes, professor there, brother of Petrus at Rijperkerk, called as a candidate on 17 February, delivered his inaugural sermon on the 20th following, being Wednesday, a day of prayer, and died on 19 March 1712. He published "de brandklok tot Hitzum geklipt."

Dr. J. P. de Bie and Mr. J. Loosjes. Biographisch Woordenboek van Protestantsche Godgeleerden in Nederland. 's-Gravenhage n.d. Third Part, p. 344:

> "GREYDANUS (TJARDUS), son of Johannes Greydanus, professor of philosophy at Franeker, was born there on 19 January 1656 and enrolled on 13 May 1673 as a student at the university of his native town. Promoted to proponent in 1677, he made his entrance at Achlum and Hitzum on 20 February 1678, which congregation he served until his death on 19 March 1712. Besides a Hebrew verse on the Oration of professor Witsius, there appeared from his hand: De brandklok tot Hitzum geklipt, containing two sermons, delivered on the occasion that the house of an immoral man there was destroyed by fire.
> Literature: v. d. Aa, Biogr. Wdb., i.v. — Romein, Pred. Friesl., p. 237."

Moreover he also appears in other Biographical Dictionaries, while his name is further mentioned in:

the cohieren der stemmen (registers of votes) printed at Leeuwarden for the years 1640 and 1698, in which, in the first Part, of Westergo, on p. 61 under the village of Achlum, it is recorded:

> "Thus done and carried out, in the Gakercke of the village of Achlum in the presence of various inhabitants, after publication had been made by the Court, and by the Church, and by announcement from house to house, and by ringing of the bell, before the Highly Noble Born Lord, Lord Sicco van Goslinga, Grietman (district magistrate) of Franekeradeel, assisted by the Substitute Secretary, in witness whereof their signature, together with that of D^{s} Teardus Greidanus, minister of the place, and the Dorprechter (village judge), Done as above, this 31 August 1698 signed. S. v. Goslinga, Rudolphus Petri, Teardus Greidanus, B: Albarda[1] /Dorprechter"

[1] Apparently Minse Alberdts, the Dorprechter of Achlum, who also signed the document of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus reproduced on p. 208.

Hermanni Witsii. Exercitationes Sacræ in Symbolum quod Apostolorum dicitur et in Orationem Dominicam. Editio secunda. Franequeræ 1689, in which one finds at the front:

> (Latin) The names of the most excellent young men, who > took the part of Respondents in these Academic > Exercises.[1]
> (Latin) In the Franeker Academy.
> [a brace spans the two following lines] Salomon Opitius, Lesna Polonus 1675. 29. Sept:
> Thomas Ecken, Regiomonto Borussus. 20. Octob: > Tiardus Greidanus, Franequera Frisius. 4 Decemb: etc."

MARRIED:

1° AAFKE (AEFKE, AEFFCKE) OLTHOFF, dau. of Jan Gerloffs Olthoff and Aeltie Vitus Ennema, 24 September 1682 at Achlum.

The marriage entry in the Church Marriage Register of Pingjum reads as follows:

> "In the year 1682. On the 10th of September the banns were announced of D. Tiardus Greidanus, Minister of the Divine Word at Achlum and Hitzum, and Aafke Olthof at Pinjum, and they went on three successive Sundays without impediment, and on the 24th of September they were married at Achlum."

Aafke Olthoff was born at Pingjum in 1657/1658, because she died on 29 Aug. 1683 at the age of 25 years (see page 211) and, as appears from the following, in 1669 was in her 12th year:

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Wonseradeel S. N^{o} 61 for the year 1669.

> "9/10 August 1669. Inventory at the house of the deceased Aeltie Vitus Ennema at Pingjum, in her lifetime wife of Jan Gerloffs, shopkeeper and cloth merchant there, her surviving widower, who has now recently entered upon a second marriage with Antie Vernies, his present wife, in the presence of Hemcke Jelles[2] former Schepen (alderman), but at present also sworn Gemeensman (town councillor) of the town of Sneeck, great-uncle and guardian of the orphan children: Aeffcke Jans, in her 12th year, and Gerloff Jansz, in his 8th year.
> Aeltie Witus Ennema's troupen.[3] consisted among other things of: A rose ring, a stone ring, a heart clasp, a golden wedding ring and gold and silver coins.
> The contribution of Jan Gerloffs from his late parents' goods amounted to 3837—4—14, that of the late Aeltie Ennema, as appears from a certain account rendered by the Burgomaster Himcke Jelles as former guardian before the town of Sneeck, dated 22 November 1656, the sum of 2066—1—2, besides a certain $^{1}/_{4}$ house at Maccum, which still belongs to the orphan children, over and above which, after the aforesaid division, 13 cargl. was received on account of the half of Sijbren Johannes' bond, in total 2079—1—2.

	Cargl.
The household effects and furniture, appraised, amount to	648— 4—0
the common silverware	96—19—0
Cloths and carsaijen[4], baize and further haberdashery	3343—10—1
Wheat, butter and smoked meat	575—15— :
the half cow and the lamb	35— : — :
bonds (apart from Dirck Ruyerdts obl^{ie})	1147—16—4
Book debts	3073— 4— :
the house and yard etc., out of which Aeltie Vitus Ennema died, standing at Pingum, in de Buyeren and at present inhabited by the Requirant (Jan Gerloffs) and his wife et libris (Latin: and children)	1540— : — :
Gores Elias, merchant at Laijen[5], owes for butter received	366— 7— :
Sijbren Andries, at Leuwarden, owes for wool received	95— : — :

	Cargl.
Ready money	120— : — :
the orphan children, to bring into the reckoning on account of their late mother's death and funeral costs	50— : — :
	11091—15 — 5
There remains clear for the common estate and to the good	9386—12—9
Brought in	5916— 6—0
Gained during the marriage	3470— 6—9
of which each of the parties is due the rightful half	1735— 3—$4^{1}/_{2}$
for Jan Gerloffs 3837—4—14 + 1735—3—$4^{1}/_{2}$ =	5572— 8—$2^{1}/_{2}$
the orphan children for their late mother's contribution, besides the $^{1}/_{4}$ part of the house at Maccum in de Schans and on account of the $^{1}/_{2}$ profit	3814— 4—$6^{1}/_{2}$

Apart from and besides their late mother's linen and woollen clothing, silverware and trouwpenningen (marriage coins).”

In the subscription of the account, the old Burgomaster Hemcke Jelles is thanked and financially discharged by the Requirant (Jan Gerloffs), as father over his children, for his guardianship ad actum divisionis (Latin: up to the act of division) and for his administration. The deed is signed by: Jan Gerloffs, Anna Verniers and H. J. Feikens.

[1] The names of the excellent young men who had their turn to respond at these Academic exercises.

[2] According to E. Napjus. Geschiedkundige Kronijk en Beschrijving van de Stad Sneek, 2nd edition, Sneek 1826 (pages 91 and 92), Himke Jelles Feikens was in 1655: Schepen, in 1664: Raadsman (councillor) and in 1671: Burgomaster.

[3] trouwpenningen (marriage coins).

[4] coarse twilled cloth.

[5] Leiden.

Draft: Fragment Genealogy “OLTHOFF”. Belongs with p. 211. Order of the children unknown. [the note “Volgorde der kinderen onbekend.” is printed on the connecting bar above the row of children of Jan Janss. Olthoff.] - Gerloff - ⚭ Gatske ? - Lysbet Gerloffs — † Pingjum before 17 March 1663. - ⚭ Claes Hayes — Wholesale dealer in dairy products at Pingjum. † Pingjum before 17 March 1663. - Gatske Claeses — B. ± 1646. - ⚭ Lammert Tuenis — at Pingjum. - Auckien (Acke) Claeses — B. ± 1648. - Tiede Gerloffs — † Pingjum before 5 February 1656. - Gerloff Gerloffs de Olde — Dairy dealer and landowner at Pingjum and † there ± 1654. - ⚭ Maycke Jans Olthoff (see below) - Thomas Gerloffs - ⚭ Jantien Beerns — dau. of Beern Jans at Sneek. - Children - Jan Janss. Olthoff — Curator (guardian) of Stijntke Popckedr. † Bolsward circa 1633. - ⚭ Stijntie Yans Bruinsvelt (Brunsvelt). — She survived her husband. - Maycke Jans Olthoff — † at Pingjum ± 1654. - ⚭ Gerloff Gerloffs de Olde (see above) — Dairy dealer and landowner at Pingjum and † there ± 1654. - Gerloff Gerloffs — Appotequer (apothecary) and Contra-rolleur der Convoyen en Licenten (controller of convoy and licence duties) at Makkum. - ⚭ I Anna (Anneke) Mettinga (Mestinga) - Gerlof Gerloffs — Bapt. Makkum 5 Oct. 1656; 2 May 1659. - Maeycke Gerloffs — Bapt. Makkum 3 March 1658. - Jan Gerloffs — Bapt. Makkum 12 May 1659; 13 Aug. 1665; 19 Aug. 1666. - Trijntie Gerloffs — Bapt. Makkum 8 June 1662. - Jakumeine Gerloffs — Bapt. Makkum 22 November 1663. - Maria Gerloffs — Bapt. Makkum 19 Febr. 1668. - ⚭ II Maria Wyaerda - Jan Gerloffs Olthoff — Laeckencooper (cloth merchant), wholesale dealer in dairy products, shopkeeper and deacon of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Pingjum. † before 20 August 1717. - ⚭ I Aeltie Vitus Ennema (Enema) — B. ± 1630, dau. of Ds. Vitus Pibonus (Pibonis) Ennema, Dutch Reformed minister, successively at Otterloo, Longerhouw and Schettens and Makkum, and Aafke Jelles (Feikens). † before August 1669. - Aefke Olthoff — B. Pingjum 1657/1658. M. Achlum 24 Sept. 1682. † 29 Aug. 1683. Buried in the Reformed Church at Achlum. - ⚭ I Ds. Tjardus Greydanus — B. Franeker 19 January 1656. Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitzum from 1678—1712. † Achlum 19 March 1712. Buried in the Reformed Church at Achlum. - ⚭ II Eelckien Steenkist - Ds. Gerlacus (Gerloff) Johs. Olthoff — B. Pingjum 28 April 1661. Student at the University of Groningen 10 June 1682. Dutch Reformed minister at Schalsum and Boer. † Sneek 18 May 1739, aged 77 years, 8 months and 3 weeks, and buried in the Church at Schalsum. - ⚭ Maria van Roeff — dau. of Claes Gerritse van Roeff, Raadt (councillor) and Schepen (alderman) of Weesp, and Nelletje Barends Karseboom. M. Weesp 22 Nov. 1690. - Aaltje Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 22 Aug. 1691. - Nelletje Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 27 March 1693. - Jan Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 8 April 1694. - Claas (Nicolaüs) Olthoff — B. Schalsum 3 June 1695. Bapt. Schalsum 27 June 1695. Dutch Reformed minister, successively at Deersum and Poppingawier, Hindeloopen and Sneek. † Sneek 22 Aug. 1776 and buried there in the East Choir of the Groote Kerk. - Jan Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 15 March 1697. - Aaltje Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 4 May 1699. † before 9 March 1705. - Nelletje Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 23 October 1701. - Jan Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 27 Aug. 1703. - Aaltje Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 9 March 1705. † before 23 June 1706. - Aaltje Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 23 June 1706. - Jan (Johannes) Olthoff — B. Schalsum 3 November 1708. Bapt. Schalsum 8 November 1708. Dutch Reformed minister, first at Goënga, Gauw and Offingawier, afterwards at Nieuwland. † 17 April 1732 and, according to the gravestone, buried in the Church at Goënga. - Gerlacus Olthoff — Bapt. Schalsum 8 Oct. 1710. - ⚭ II Antie Verniers — of Amsterdam. Member with attestation Achlum and Hitzum 25 November 1666. M. Pingjum 14 June 1669. - Ds. Petrus Olthoff — B. Pingjum ± 1687. 1713 Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitzum, as successor of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus. † Achlum 10 April 1732. - ⚭ Elida van der Ley - Anna Elisabet Olthoff — Bapt. 1715. - Gatske Gerloffs - ⚭ I O/o/cke Alberts Reen — Apothecary at Makkum. M. Makkum 17 April 1664. - ⚭ II Wybe Lieuwes — at Makkum. M. Makkum 6 March 1670. Master skipper and “Oostervaarder” (Baltic trader). - Grietje Jans Olthoff — In 1669 widow at Bolsward. - ⚭ Sybe Doeckes — Burgomaster at Bolsward. - Willem Jans Olthoff — First goldsmith's apprentice at Bolsward, later Mr. Goudsmidt (master goldsmith) and jeweller at Leeuwarden. † circa 1657. - ⚭ Bertie (Bettie) Fransen - Claerke Willems Olthoff — Bapt. Leeuwarden 9 October 1650. M. Bolsward 15 January 1671. In 1680 members of the Reformed Congregation at Franeker. - ⚭ Tiaerd Douwes Hellinga — Widower of Leeuwarden. - Antie Jans Olthof - ⚭ I Jan Diurres — † before 20 May 1647. - ⚭ II Andries Broers (van Tiallehuysen) — M. Bolsward 20 May 1647. † before 21 May 1654. - ⚭ III Gerryt Douwes Twellinga — Marriage procl. Bolsward 21/28 May/4 June 1654. Gemeensman (town councillor) at Bolsward. - Claeske Jans Oltho/o/ff - ⚭ Lieuwe Wybes - Jan Jans Olthoff — Vroetsman (town councillor) and Mr. Goldsmidt (master goldsmith) at Bolsward. Was still living 28 Sept. 1701. He made in 1689 the silver mustard pot of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus × Eelckien Steenkist mentioned on p. 19. - ⚭ I Siouckjen Dirx Siaarda — of Oosterend. M. Bolsward 15 August 1669. - Jan Jansen Olthoff — Bapt. Bolsward 3 Nov. 1670. - Bouckjen Jans Olthoff — Bapt. Bolsward 20 Aug. 1673. - Jancke Jans Olthoff — Bapt. Bolsward 22 July 1677. - Siouckjen Jans Olthoff — Bapt. Bolsward 31 July 1679. - ⚭ II Jetske Tjepkes Ipma — M. Bolsward 19 March 1682. - Antie Jans Olthoff — Bapt. Bolsward 6 January 1683.

From this account it appears that Jan Gerloffs at Pingjum was a lakencoper or zijdecramer (cloth merchant or silk dealer) and a dealer in dairy products (butter). That he carried on an export trade in dairy products may be inferred from the fact that, according to the account, he had to pay loft rent to Claes Sydtses at Harlingen, presumably for the storage of the articles he was to export.

Aefke Olthoff came to Achlum with attestation on 27 October 1682, according to the following entry in Ds. Tjardus Greydanus' own hand in the Lidmatenboek (members' register) of Achlum and Hitzum, reproduced on the reverse side:

> "1682 On 27 October there were received, upon the confession of their > faith, as members of Christ's hidden > body:
> . . . . . .
> And with a good attestation there has come to us > deceased. Aefke Olthof wife of Tiardús > Greydanús from Pinjúm."

She died, probably at Achlum, at the age of 25 years on 29 Aug. 1683, thus a few weeks after the birth of her son Johannes, who had been baptized on 12 Aug. before, and was buried in the Reformed Church at Achlum, where her husband with his second wife and 2 of his children were also laid to rest (see page 206). According to the illustration, included with page 207, of the stone slab on the grave of Aefke Olthoff and of 2 children of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, the following inscription concerning Aefke Olthoff appears on it:

> "In the year 1683 on 29 August died the hon> ourable Aefke Olt-hof wife of D: > Tiardus Greydanus minister in Achlum > and Hitzum, aged 25 years, and lies buried here".

The father of Aefke Olthoff: Jan Gerloffs Olthoff was a son of Gerloff Gerloffs de Olde and Maycke Jans Olthoff, so that Jan Gerloffs took over the surname Olthoff not from his father but from his mother. Jan Gerloffs Olthoff's first wife was a daughter of Ds. Vitus Pibonus (Pibonis) Ennema (Enema), Dutch Reformed minister, successively at Otterloo, Longerhouw and Schettens, and Makkum, and Aafke Jelles Feikens, evidently a sister of the Sneek burgomaster Himcke Jelles Feikens; his second wife was Antie Verniers, of Amsterdam, whom he married at Pingjum on 14 June 1670.

The arms "Olthoff", as well as the heraldic description of them, follow below:

gold, with 2 crossed black eagle's legs. Crest: an eagle's leg issuing from the shield. Torse and mantling: gold and black.

"Olthoff"

Accompanying this there is also a draft: fragment genealogy "Olthoff", while the various pieces of evidence, in chronological order, for the above follow below:

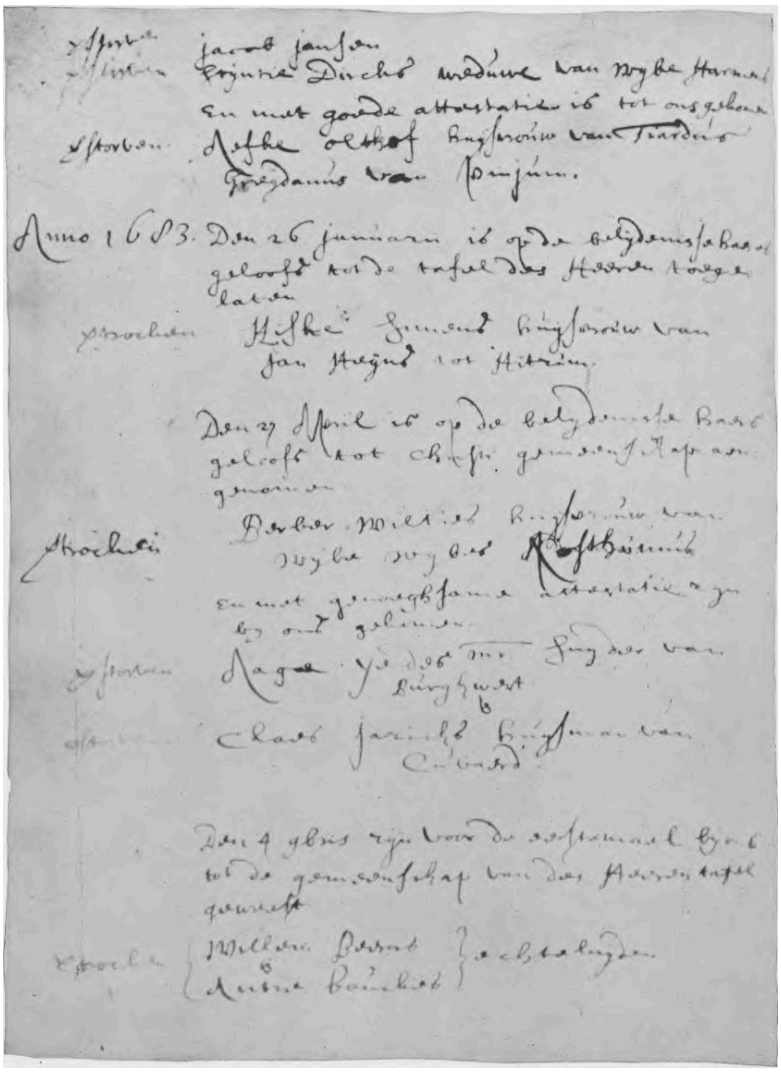
Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Wonseradeel.

> "12/26 Sept./3/10/17 October 1635; 16 Jan./13 Febr. 1636. Ds. Vitus Enema, Minister of the Holy Gospel at Maccum, and Aefke Jelledr., spouses, buy a certain house and homestead etc. in Maccum at the Statuma neighbourhood, from Ids Mirx and Neeltie Cornelis dr., spouses, for the sum of 400 ggl."
>
> 9 Febr. 1639, 8/15 April 1648, 11 Nov. 1648, 8 Sept. 1649, 9/23 February 1650. Ds. Vitus Pibonis Enema, minister at Maccum and Cornwerd, sells and buys various properties.
>
> "19 August 1648. Gerloff Gerloffs and Maycke Jansdr. (Olthoff), spouses at Pingjum, buy $4^{1}(_{2}$ pondemaat of grassland at Pingjum, used by Tomas Martens as tenant, charged with $1^{1})_{2}$ floreen rent, free of buildings, having the Herewech to the East, Hylcke Wlbes to the South and the common Vaart to the North, bought from Jacob Pieters[1] and Trijntie Clasedr. for one half and Siouckien Clasedr., widow of the late Feddrick Tiercks[2] (with children) for the other half."

This is evidently the land at Pingjum which Fonger Jelles (Rinia) and Eeck Sickes previously had in ownership (see page 117).

[1] Probably had the surname "Hibma".

[2] Probably had the surname "Nieuwenhuis."



Page written by Ds. Tiardús Greydanús containing the entry dated 27 October 1682 of his first wife Aefke Olthof, from the Lidmatenboek (register of church members) of the Dutch Reformed Congregation of Achlum and Hitsum (see page 211) (actual size).

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Wonseradeel.

> Deed of 1 July 1649 (registered 26 October 1654), in which Jelcke Sipkes, bachelor at Maccum, acknowledges a debt of 500 ggl. to Gerloff Gerloffs and Maycke Jansdr., spouses in the village of Pingium.

Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Wonseradeel.

> 3/23 Febr. 1650; 9 Mrt. 1650. D[s] Petrus Ennema, minister at Pingjum and Surich, Watse Oedses[1] there, and Abraham Peters Bontekoe, apothecary at Harlingen, with their wives, buy properties at Pingjum.
> "16 Febr. 1650. Gerloff Gerloffs and Maycke Jans (Olthoff), spouses, together with Claes Hayes and Lysbert Gerloffs, spouses at Pingum, buy 3 parcels of land: 1°. 2$^{1}/_{2}$ P.M. of arable land sown with rye; 2°. 2 P.M. sown with wheat, and 3°. 2 P.M. of arable land, bought from Idsert Hettinga in Harlingen."

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Wonseradeel.

> According to an account dated 23 September 1652, in which Hemcke Jelles (Feikens), former Burgomaster of Sneek, appears as uncle of the children, the couple Ds. Vitus Pibonis Enema and Aefke Jelles (Feikens), of whom the latter had died, had two children, namely: Aeltie (born ± 1630) and Stijntie (b. ± 1636).

This Aeltie Vitus Ennema (Enema), b. ± 1630, is thus the 1[st] wife of Jan Gerloffs Olthoff.

> "Accounts dated 5 Febr. and dated 24 Jan. 1656, the first rendered by Ds. (Petrus) Ennema, minister of the Divine Word at Pingum, and Impte Thomas there, together appointed guardians of the two surviving orphan children of the late Claes Hayes, who lived and died at Pingum, begotten in marriage with Lysbert Gerloffs, to Thomas Hayes at Arum as full uncle on the father's side and Jan Gerloffs at Pingum (cousin on the mother's side), of their receipts and expenditure had since the death of the late Claes Hayes; the other rendered by the aforesaid D[s] Petrus Ennema and Willem Jans Olthooff[2], citizen and master goldsmith in Lieuwaerden, as appointed guardians of the three surviving orphan children of the late Gerloff Gerloffs (de Olde) and Maycke Jans Olthooff, in their lifetime spouses and died at Pingum, to Gerloff Gerloffs, at present married and having obtained veniam aetatis[3] from the Court, for himself; and joined with Jan Gerloffs his brother, and they together standing surety for Gats Gerloffs their sister, of the administration which they have had since the division of the ...."

From the first-mentioned account it appears, among other things, that Claas Hayes, who was married to Lijsbet Gerloffs, a sister of Gerloff Gerloffs de Olde, carried on a wholesale trade in butter and cheese. Further there occurs in the account:

> 18 Mrt 1654. Jan Gerloffs noi[e] his mother for money lent — 150 cargl.
> 28 Nov. 1654. Tiede Gerloffs paid for goods — 12—10—12
> 12 July 1654. Riemer Thonis (Faber) at Harlingen for two lopens of beans — 5—.—..
> As possessions are named: half of about 5 P.M. of arable land lying in 3 separate parcels on Pinjumer Bootlant, of which the other half belongs to Gerloff Gerloffs, and such inheritance as shall be found upon liquidation to be due to them from their late uncle Tiede Gerloffs.

According to the other orphans' account the immovable property was as follows:

> "a certain house and yard etc. at Pingum, in which Gerloff Gerloffs with his wife died and at present inhabited by Jan Gerloffs, valued at — 500 ggl.
> 5 P.M. 10 einsen 1 foot $7^{1}/_{2}$ inches of measured maadlant[4] on Pingumermieden, called de Lange maden, estimated at — 437 ggl. 14 st.
> $4^{1}/_{2}$ P.M. of pasture land at Pingum near the village, bought from Jacob Pijtters and others at Harlingen, estimated at — 817 ggl. 14 st.
> half of 3 parcels of land at Pingum on Bootlant, of which the other half belongs to the heirs of Claes Hayes — 418 ggl.
> 2 P.M. of hay land at Pingum to the south of the Grote Groede and 2 P.M. of hay land at Pingum on the Lange Mieden, estimated respectively at 160 and 150 ggl., bought from Aeffke Pijtters Metsma, on which the sum of 151 ggl. 7 st. still has to be paid.
> Jan Gerloffs's share amounted to 2740 ggl. 24—14, therein included, besides his house — shop goods assigned to him — 1889 ggl.—21—3 > with interest from Jacobi 1654 to May 1656 — 165 ggl.—10—> further the house rent of the dwelling for the period of 7 quarter-years up to May 1656 — 49 gl."

From this last orphans' account it seems it may be inferred:

1° that Gerloff Gerloffs de olde, besides a sister Lysbet Gerloffs, who was married to the dairy dealer Claes Hayes, also had a brother Tied/t/e Gerloffs;

2° that Jan Gerloffs at first lived with his parents at Pingum, from whom at their death ± 1654 he took over their business, and that after that time he will have married his first wife;

3° that at the division ± 1654 all 3 children of Gerloff Gerloffs de olde were under guardianship, hence were not yet 25 years old, but that on 24 January 1656 only Gatske had a guardian, since Jan by virtue of his age was already of age and Gerloff, by virtue of a declaration of majority of the Court of Friesland, recorded in the Memoriaalboek of the said Court dated 9 November 1655, acted independently. Gerloff is mentioned as married; concerning Jan this is not said; he therefore appeared to be still unmarried at that time.

---

[1] Surname: Bang/a/ma.

[2] Well-known Leeuwarden master goldsmith; see "De Vrije Fries" Volume 28 pp. 244, 304, 314 and following.

[3] Declaration of majority.

[4] pasture.

Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Wonseradeel.

> Sale by decree dated 9 February/1 March 1656 by Ds. Petrus Ennema, minister of the Divine Word at Pingum, and Impte Thomas, farmer there, both as authorized curators over the surviving orphan children of the late Claes Haijes and his wife, in that capacity for $^{1}/_{3}$; Willem Olthooff, master goldsmith, in Lieeuwarden as curator over the orphan children of the late Gerloff Gerloffs and his wife for $^{1}/_{3}$, together with Beern Jans at Sneeck as grandfather and curator over the orphan children of the late Thomas Gerloffs begotten by the late Jantien Beerns, for $^{1}/_{3}$, together heirs of the late Tiede Gerloffs, who in his lifetime lived and died in the aforesaid village of Pingum.
>
> Jan Gerloffs at Pingum became provisional buyer of the half of 3 P.M. of arable land at Pingum for 156 ggl. per pondemaat, but Petrus Ennema became the final buyer with an increase of 7 strs. per P.M.

Authorisatieboek (register of authorizations) of Wonseradeel.

> "20 March 1657. Jan and Gerloff Gerloffsz as brothers of Gats Gerloffs their sister, together children and heirs of Gerloff Gerloffs d'Olde, deceased at Pingum. At their request there is appointed as curator over Gats Gerloffs: Here Martens Hiddinga, Ontfanger (receiver of taxes) at Pingum, this in place of the late Ds. Ennama, minister at Pingum and Zurich [1]/".

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Wonseradeel.

> "Orphans' account dated 14 May 1660, on behalf of the deceased curator the late Empte (Impte) Thomas, who lived and died at Pingum, over the orphan children Gatske and Auckien of the late Claes Hayes. On behalf of the deceased there appeared Gerrijt Thomas at Kimswert (his brother) and Hessel Gerbens at Pingum (his brother-in-law), while as co-curator is named: Hero Martens Hiddinga, Dorprechter (village judge) and Ontvanger at Pingum, assisted by Gerloff Gerloffs, Controller, and Jan Gerloffs at Maccum and Pinjum respectively as blood relations." For the rest this account seems of less importance; the only thing appearing from it is that the orphan children Auck (Acke) and Gatske boarded with Jan Gerloffs; at least this I would infer from the following expenditure items:

6 May 1658.	Jan Gerloffs for Acke's board money for 1 year and 20 weeks	70 cargl.
13 May 1658.	Jan Gerloffs paid for one year's board money for Gaetske	35 "
id.	The same paid for cloth and haberdashery	26 cargl.	10 st.
26 Oct. 1658.	Jan Gerloffs paid for half a year's board money for Agge Clases	27 "	6 "
9 July 1659.	Trijntie the seamstress for Acke's board money for $^{1}/_{2}$ year due May 1659	27 "	6 "
ditto	the same Trijntie for sewing wages earned on Acke	2 "
27 Nov. 1659.	paid for Auck Claeses for making stockings and for the dyeing		4—8

30 ditto	Trijntie the seamstress for Auck Clases' board money due All Saints 1659	27 “	6 “

Furthermore Jan Gerloffs, cloth merchant at Pingum, appears a couple of times in this account as supplier of shop goods.

Authorisatieboek of Wonseradeel.

“17 March 1663. In place of the late Hero Martens Hiddinga there are appointed as curators over Gatske (in her 17th year) and Auckien (in her 15th year), children of the late Claes Hayes / × Lysbeth Gerloffs/, spouses who died at Pingum: Gerloff Gerloffs, Controller of the Convoys at Maccum, and Jan Gerloffs, shopkeeper at Pingum.”

Weesboek of Wonseradeel.

In it is included an account of 30 June 1664, which was rendered on behalf of Willem Olthoff, in his lifetime goldsmith and jeweller in Leeuwarden, concerning the guardianship over Gatske Gerloffsdr., who was the youngest child and co-heir of the late Gerloff Gerloffs and Maycke Jans Olthoff, in their lifetime spouses who died in the village of Pingium.

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Wonseradeel.

In deeds of 8 July 1664 and 2 Dec. 1667, registered 8 July 1664 and 19 March 1668 respectively, Jan Gerloffs, merchant at Pingium, appears as creditor for 60 cargl. on account of purchased barley and for 130 cargl. on account of shop goods received.

Dutch Reformed Lidmatenboek (register of church members) of Achlum and Hitzum.

“1666. On 25 November have united themselves with God's Church:
. . . . . .
with attestation
Anna Verniers, unmarried daughter.”

Hypotheekboek of Wonseradeel.

On 4 August 1668 (registered 4 Dec. 1669) there appear as creditors: Gerben Gosses and Jan Gerloffs as deacons of the Reformed Church at Pingum.

On 1 January 1669 (registered 29 May 1669) Gerloff Gerloffs, Controller of the Convoys and Licences at Maccum, and Jan Gerloffs, shopkeeper at Pingum, together authorized curators over the surviving orphan children of the late Claes Hayes and Lysbeth Gerloffsdr., in their time spouses at Pingum, declare that they owe 300 cargl. to Ds. Theodoris Paludanus, minister of the Divine Word at Pingum, and Acke Pijttersdr., spouses.

On 8 May 1669 (registered 18 Dec. 1669) Jan Gerloffs, merchant at Pinghum, is creditor for 100 ggl. of Rintie Jans × Bauck Goslichs, there.

[1] Ds. Petrus Pauli Enema (Ennema), born at Harlingen, minister at Pingjum and Zurich, died, according to his gravestone, 16 November 1656.

Dutch Reformed marriage register of Pingjum.

“On 30 May 1669 the banns were announced of Jan Gerloffs of Pinjum and Miss Anna Verniers of Amsterdam, but living at Pinjum, and they went on 3 successive Sundays without hindrance, and they were married on 14 June.”

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Wonseradeel.

In it there occurs, dated 3 June 1669 (registered 18 December 1669), an acknowledgement of debt of 500 cargl. at 5%, which Hauk Aggesz and Tiertie Wybesdr., married couple at Witmaersum, were said to owe to Annetie Verniers, bride of Jan Gerloffs at Pingum.

14 June 1671 (registered 13 February 1677). Concerns an acknowledgement of debt, according to which G. Gerlofs received 500 cargl. at 4% from his brother Jan Gerlofs and Antie Verniers, cloth merchant in the village of Pingum.

28 May 1672 (registered 13 February 1677) Jan Gerlofs with his wife Antie Verniers buys from his brother Gerlof Gerlofs, controller and apothecary at Maccum, and from the latter's wife Maria Wyaerda, three parcels of land, situated within the parish bounds of the village of Pingum, for the price of 130 g.gl. per pondemaat.

13 September 1675 (registered 13 February 1677) Gerlof Gerlofs, controller at Maccum, acknowledges a debt of 350 cargl. to Gatske Gerlofs, at present wife of Wybe Lieuves, likewise living there.

According to a deed of 19 March 1698 (registered 18 June 1698) Jan Gerloffs, merchant at Pinjum, bought from the Master silversmith Sytse Claas Burmania at Makkum and his wife and co-owners, the half of 7 pondematen of arable land under Pingjum for the price of 90 ggl. 7 strs per pondemaat.

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Wonseradeel.

On 27 August 1711 Jan Gerlofs Olthof, merchant at Pinjum, together with Ds. Tammerus Domna, minister there, as authorized curators over the children of Heert Doedes, render account and reckoning on behalf of the said children of their administration of the estate of the late Claes Pytters, in life at Pinjum.

Jan Gerloffs in this case signs as Jan Gerlofs Olthof.

Hypotheekboek of Wonseradeel.

9 May 1712 (registered 31 January 1716) Jan Gerloff Olthoff, cloth merchant at Pinjum, creditor of Haye Hayes de Jonge, farmer at Menaldum.

Accounts of Curators of Wonseradeel (Portfolio Q[1]).

Account dated 20 August 1717, preceded by an undated petition to the Court of Wonseradeel, in which it is stated on behalf of the children and heirs of the late Jan Gerloffs Olthoff, merchant at Pingum, that he, together with Ds. Tammerus Domna, had been curators over the children of the > late Heert Doedes, likewise heirs of the late Claes Pytters at Pingium, and further requesting that commissioners be appointed from the Honourable Court, in whose presence the heirs may render account and reckoning of the curatorship.

>
> This account dated 20 August 1717 is then rendered by Joannes Greidanus — the son of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus and Aefke Olthoff, — for himself and as having mandate and power of attorney from D^nus^ Gerlacus Olthoff, V.D.M. at Schalsum and Boir, together with D^nus^ Petrus Olthoff, V.D.M. at Achlum and Hitsum, children and grandchild and heirs of the late Jan Gerloffs Olthoff, in life merchant at Pingum, and thus of the administration which the late Jan Gerloffs Olthoff had had since the account rendered by him on 27 August 1711 before the Commissioner of this Honourable Court as curator over the children of Heert Doedes in the estate of the late Claes Pijtters, and this rendered to Siucke Sijmens, at present living at Makkum, as being for $^{2}/_{3}$ concerned in this matter according to the will left by the late Claes Pijtters.

Summarizing and further extending the data concerning Aafke Olthoff, we arrive at the following:

The parents and grandparents on the mother's side of Aafke Olthoff were not without means and were landowners at Pingjum. Her father inherited over 3837 cargl. from his parents, and her mother Aeltie Vitus Ennema left at her death over 9386 cargl., exclusive of the linen, the woollen clothing, the silverware and the wedding coins. The said grandparents owned land at Pingjum "on Pinjumermieden, called the Lange maden", "by the Buijren", "on Bootlant", "on the south of the Grote Groede" and "on the Lange Mieden".

Aafke Olthoff derived her surname from that of her father's mother Maycke Jans Olthoff, a sister of the well-known Master gold- and silversmiths: Willem Jans Olthoff at Leeuwarden and Jan Jans Olthoff at Bolsward, the maker of the silver mustard pot mentioned on page 19 belonging to Ds. Tjardus Greydanus and his 2nd wife Eelckien Steenkist. Her father had already used the surname Olthoff as well, so that she took over its use from him.

The mother of Aafke Olthoff was a daughter of Ds. Vitus Pibonus (Pibonis) Ennama, minister at Makkum, and Aafke Jelles Feikens, sister of Himcke Jelles Feikens, Burgomaster of Sneek.

Curator over the orphan children of Claes Hayes, married to a sister of Aafke Olthoff's grandfather Gerloff Gerloffs the elder, was among others Ds. Petrus Pauli Ennema (Enema), minister at Pingjum and owner of land there. Ds. Petrus Pauli Ennema was first married to Aeltie Tyepckes Abbema, daughter of Tyepcke Rinties Abbema at Franeker, and afterwards, according to the Leeuwarden marriage proclamations of 16/19/26 August 1649, to Bintie Thoenis Faber, daughter of Thoenis Riemersz. Faber, Burgomaster of Leeuwarden. After the death of Ds. Petrus Pauli Ennema on 16 November 1656, Bintie Thoenis Faber remarried with Hero Martens Hiddinga, son of Marten Pijtters Hiddinga and presumably L.H/eres?/ Minnema. This Hero Martens Hiddinga, who had earlier been married to Antie Andles Popta, daughter of Andle Wopkes Popta and Sijtscke Fogelsangh, was at first Ontvanger (receiver of taxes), Dorprechter (village judge) and Dijksgedeputeerde (deputy of the dike board) at Pingjum, and later soutsieder (salt boiler) at Makkum. Andle Wopkes Popta and Sijtscke Fogelsangh are included in the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel, genealogy Fogelsangh, generation 3. More data concerning this couple can be found, besides in the said stamboek (annotations), in the "Gedenkboek van het Gasthuis van Dr. Popta en Heringa-State te Marssum", described by A. W. Weissman, 1912, published by the Trustees of the Foundation on the occasion of its 2nd centenary. That we are here indeed dealing with a daughter of Andle Wopkes Popta is confirmed by the children's names Sijdtske and Andle with Hero Martens Hiddinga.

2° EELCKIEN (EELCKJEN, EELKJEN, EELKJE) STEENKIST (VAN STEENKIST, à STEENKIST), daughter of Ds. Ausonius Steenkist (Van Steenkist, à Steenkist) and Aefke (Aafke) Jans, widow of Jelle Taeckes, according to the marriage proclamations of 7 and 8 August 1686 at Franeker, where the attestation was taken out on 15 August following. The marriage entries at Franeker read as follows:

1° Marriage register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation 1680—1732:

> "(1686) The 8th of August > 30 : Tiardus Greijdanus minister at > Achlum and Hitsum, and Eelckjen
> Ausonii Steenkist at Franeker
> On the 15th of the same the attestation taken out."

2° Register of marriage notices to the Court:

> "(1686). Ordinary session before the Presiding officer > D^r^ Theodorus Arents, 7 Aug. 1686.
> Tiardus Greijdanus minister at Achlum and > Hitsum, and Eelckien Ausonii Steenkist > at Franeker, are hereby granted their marriage > proclamations."

In these entries it is thus not recorded where and when the marriage was performed. The attestation, however, was taken out at Franeker on 15 August 1686, so that the marriage will probably have been contracted soon afterwards, possibly already on the following day, thus on 16 August 1686. The confirmation of the marriage cannot have taken place at Franeker, because the attestation was taken out there. In the great work of Prof. E. L. Vriemoet (see above, page 175) it is stated that Tjardus Greidanus was: "minister of the villages in our neighbourhood, Achlum and Hitzum", and "died 19 March 1712, leaving one son, by Eelkje Ausoniusdr. Steenkist, whom he married in the month of August 1686 in that same place". By "in that same place" Vriemoet will now have meant "Achlum and Hitzum", so that Ds. Tjardus Greidanus will presumably have married Eelkje Steenkist at Achlum, where the parsonage stood. Since the Reformed marriage register of Achlum and Hitsum still extant today begins only with 24 May 1772, that book can shed no light on the marriage in question.

Eelckien Steenkist was baptized at Mantgum on 8 April 1660, according to the following entry in the church book of the Dutch Reformed Congregation there:

> "(Baptized) the 8 April 1660.
> Ausonius à Steenkist & Aafke Jans Eelckien."

She became a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker on 28 April 1677, as appears from the entry below in the membership register there:

Draft: Fragment Genealogy "Steenkist (à Steenkist, Van Steenkist)". Belongs with page 216. - Romck Wybedr. - ⚭ I Aucke Lycles — at Balk and probably at Makkum † ± 1608. - Wiebe Auckes — at Balk. - Sibrich Aukes - ⚭ Ds. Philippus Daniëls Eilshemius — Dutch Reformed minister at Harlingen. - Eelck Auckes (Eelckie Awkes) — b. at Balk. m. at Harlingen procl. 2-9-16 May 1618, moved 10 May 1628 from Wijnaldum to Leeuwarden, where she kept a shop and probably remarried Symon Bottis. † at Leeuwarden just before 3 August 1636. - ⚭ Ds. Gualtherus (Wolterus) Johannes'/Hansonis/ Steenkist (see below) - ⚭ II Fonger Feytes — Bijsitter (assessor) of Gaasterland, widower of Romck Folckerts. - Hans Steenkist - Gualtherus (Woltherus or Wouter) Steenkist - Hans (Johannes) Wouters (van) Steenkist — Already 1600/03 at Franeker. 1613/14 citizen and Wijnheer (wine merchant) in 't Vergulden Hooft at Franeker. - ⚭ Margrietke (Grietghen) Petersd. van Damme - Ds. Gualtherus (Wolterus) Johannes'/Hansonis/ Steenkist — b. Franeker ± 1591. Dutch Reformed minister at Wijnaldum. † March 1627. - ⚭ Eelck Auckes (Eelckie Awkes) (see above) - Ds. Ausonius Steenkist — b. Wijnaldum ± 1622. Dutch Reformed minister at Mantgum and Schillaard. m. Mantgum 3 July 1659. † 20 Sept. 1669. - ⚭ II Aefke Jans — dau. of Jan Andries and Mary Ysbrands at Franeker. † 1693. - Eelckien (Eelkjen) Steenkist — bapt. Mantgum 6 April 1660. m. probably 16 August 1686. † 19 October 1703. Buried in the Reformed Church at Achlum. - ⚭ II Ds. Tjardus Greydanus - ⚭ I Aefke Olthoff - Hiske Steenkist — † Franeker 26 Aug. 1719. - Maayke Steenkist — bapt. Mantgum 21 Dec. 1665. † Franeker 12 January 1747. - Janke Steenkist — † Franeker 31 October 1726. - note: Had a cloth shop at Franeker. - ⚭ I Jelle Taeckes — Apothecary at Leeuwarden. m. Jorwerd ± 20 Febr. 1653. Buried Franeker Aug. 1657. - Taeke (Taco) Jelles — Burger-Sergeant; stonemason and Vroedsman (town councillor) at Franeker. - ⚭ Ytje Lammerts Salverda - Aafke Steenkist [a "?" is printed above the line connecting her to her parents] - Peter Hanses Steenkist — Innkeeper at Franeker. † before 1627. - ⚭ I Antie Abbema - Grietje Peters Steenkist - ⚭ II Romcke Feddricks - Lucas Hanses Steenkist — 1631—1657 Mr. Kleermaecker (Snijder) (master tailor) and Uytdrager (second-hand dealer) at Franeker. 1647—1649 Keurmeester (inspector) of the Snijders' or Kleermaeckers' guild. 1646 Sergeant of the Noorder Quartier. 1647 Rotmeester (squad leader) with pike, idem. 1654 Commander, idem. † Franeker 1657. - ⚭ Foockeltje Gerrytsdr. — m. before 17 July 1640. Still living March 1651 - daughter — Buried Franeker 21—28 Oct. 1631. - Grietje Lucas Steenkist — m. Franeker 4 Nov. 1663. - ⚭ I Ewert Obbes Adama — Citizen, Mr. Brouwer (master brewer) and Burger-Lieutenant at Franeker. - ⚭ II Ydtie (Ydtje) Jans — from Boer, dau. of Jan Douwes. Widow of the Faendrich (ensign) Iske (Eeske) Taekes Jelgersma at Franeker (whom she married at Franeker 4 Aug. 1658). m. Franeker 19 Sept. 1667. - Abraham Hanses Steenkist — Still living 1621. - ⚭ Grietie Lucas? (1609) - Joris Steenkist - Hans Joris Steenkist — Citizen at Franeker. † before 1624. - ⚭ Mayke — in 1624 at Franeker. † before April 1632. - Marten Hanses Steenkist — † before 28 June 1624. - ⚭ Belijke - Children. - Geertie Hanses Steenkist - ⚭ Syuerdt Bauckes — † before 28 June 1624. - Children. - Antonetta Hanses Steenkist - ⚭ I Jacob . . . . . . - Children. - ⚭ II Jan . . . . . . - Children. - Antie Hanses Steenkist - ⚭ Ds. Obbertus Foppy - Andries Joris Steenkist — probably at Leeuwarden. - Andries Andries van Steenkist — Embroiderer. - ⚭ Orsula van Loon (Orsula Jan van Loensdr.) — m. Leeuwarden 4 May 1623. - Mr. Joris Andries Steenkist — of Leeuwarden. 1632 at Balk as Secretary of Gaasterland. - ⚭ I Freerckien Atedr. — of Dokkum. Marriage procl. Harlingen. 3/10/17 July 1614. - ⚭ II Auckien Pieters — of Dokkum. Marriage procl. Leeuwarden 2 Sept. 1653.

"1677.
On 28 April upon their confession of faith.
. . . . . .
5. Eelkjen Steenkist.", while in the Members' Register of Achlum and Hitsum she was entered by Ds. Tjardus Greydanus himself, as appears from the reproduction on the reverse side of a page of this book, as follows:

"In the year 1686.
On 31 October there were for the first time at the Lord's table with us, upon the confession of their faith.
. . . . . .
And with attestation
deceased Eelckjen Aúsonii Steenkist, wife of D. Greydanús, from Franeker."

Eelckien Steenkist died before her husband, because Ds. Tjardus Greydanus himself wrote in the Members' Register beside Eelckien Steenkist: "deceased". Her date of death — 19 October 1703 — appears from her epitaph on a stone slab in the Dutch Reformed Church at Achlum, where her husband with his first wife and 2 of his children also lie buried (see page 206). An illustration of the slab on the grave of Eelckien Steenkist is added with page 207, from which it appears that on that slab the inscription given below is carved, as well as the coat of arms "Steenkist" given hereafter, in which besides the Frisian eagle the leafed bunch of grapes can be recognized:

"In the year 1703 on the 19th of October there rested in the Lord the honourable Eelckien Ausonii Steenkist, second wife of D^{o} Tiardus Greydanus, Minister at Achlum and Hitsum, aged in her 44th year, and she lies buried here".

Herewith also goes a draft: fragment-genealogy of the family Steenkist (à Steenkist, Van Steenkist), whose family arms occur, besides on the gravestone just mentioned, on the little mustard pot mentioned on page 19. An illustration of the arms, of which the heraldic description is as follows, is added herewith:

party per pale: 1. the Frisian eagle.

2. silver, with a green-leafed bunch of grapes [1] in natural colour.

"Steenkist (à Steenkist, Van Steenkist)"

Crest: the bunch of grapes with the stem downwards.

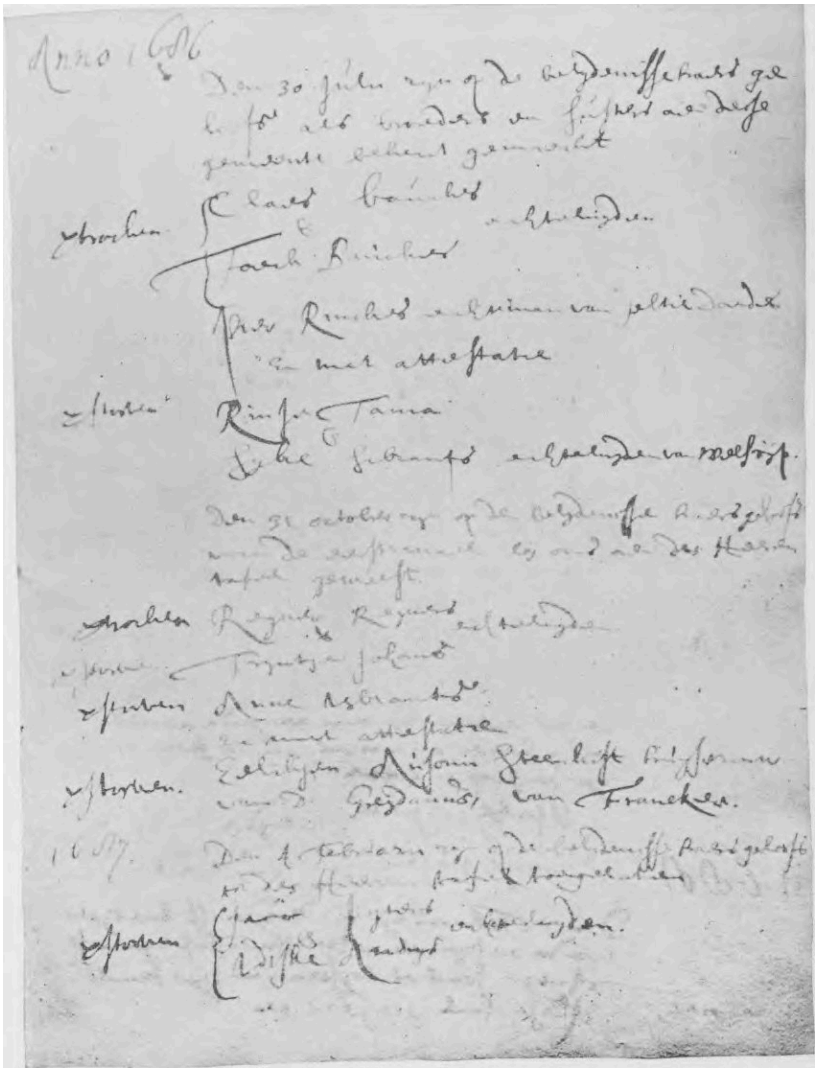
Wreath and mantling: silver and blue.

I further note that the fragment-genealogy is not entirely certain, since what has been assumed in the draft, namely that Gualtherus (Woltherus or Wouter) Steenkist and Joris Steenkist are brothers, is still undecided; the descendants given for them are, however, correct.

The various data of the family Steenkist follow here in chronological order:

> Album Studiosorum of Franeker.
> "2 April 1610 Wolterus Johannes à Steenkist Franeq. Phil. Stud."
>
> Dutch Reformed Marriage Register of Harlingen.
> "Gwalterus Johannes van Stienkist, servant of the Holy Divine Word at Wijnnaem, and Eelck Auckes of Balck, their banns went on 2-9-16 May (1618) and married."
>
> Portfolios with documents concerning public sales held at Franeker (Judicial Archive Franeker J. J. 1 and 2).
> In a deed of sale of 1621 there appear: Hans Wouters van Steenkist for himself, Gualterus and Peter, sons of Hans Wouters van Steenkist, together with Wijbe Jacobsz and Syurdt Obbe's son, curators until the division of the estate, over Lucas and Abraham, the youngest sons of the aforesaid Hans Wouters van Steenkist begotten in wedlock with the late Margrietke Petersdr. van Damme.

[1] Perhaps this figure in the arms "Steenkist" is derived from the occupation of the one appearing in the draft: fragment-genealogy: Hans (Johannes) Wouters (van) Steenkist, around 1600/1614 wine merchant in 't Vergulden Hooft at Franeker.



Page written by Ds. Tiardús Greydanús with the entry dated 31 October 1686 of his second wife Eelckjen Aúsonii Steenkist, from the Lidmatenboek (members' register) der Hervormde Gemeente van Achlum en Hitsum (see page 216) (actual size).

In a collection of documents covering the years 1594—1600 in the above-mentioned portfolio of documents concerning public sales at Franeker (J. J. 1) one finds, in a document dated 27 March 1600 concerning the sale of a house by the Dongummerpijp out of which the late Dieck Thijsz died, the name of Hans Wolters (van Steenkist), burgher and wijnheer (wine-tavern keeper) (innkeeper) in 't Vergulden Hooft at Franeker.

Telting-Archief.

N^{o} 752, Year 1624. Hooftgelt (head tax) 1^{e} Half Noorder Quartier:

Mayke Hans Joris Wed^{e} (van Steenkist) with a boy who has been sent to her to attend school.

Wills of Franeker.

Will dated 28 June 1624 of Maycke Hans Joris van Steenkist Wed^{e}, female burgher within Franeker. After it has been recorded therein that 200, 250, 300 and 100 cargl. respectively have been put out at interest to her late son Marten Hans, the late Syurdt and Geertie, her daughter and deceased brother-in-law, Antonetta and her late husband, and Antie her youngest daughter, married to D. Obbertus Foppy, minister of the Divine Word, she bequeaths all the goods she will leave behind to:

1^{o}. the children of her late son (Marten Hans) begotten by the late Belijke; 2^{o}. the children of her daughter Geertie procreated by the late Syurdt Bauckes; 3^{o}. the children of Antonetta begotten by her late two husbands Jacob and Jan; and 4^{o}. Antie her youngest daughter, each for a ¼ part.

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franeker.

Deed dated 19/27 Nov./14 Febr. 1627, registered 27 Nov. 1627/8 March 1627, concerning Antie Abbema widow of Peter Hansz. van Steenkist. This widow was a boarding-house keeper and kept students in lodgings. As security for the payment of the boarding debts Antie Abbema was given a mortgage. The names of the students were: the medical student Georgius Ecskein and Jr. Georgius van Strobandt van Thorn; apparently both foreign students /they signed: Georgius Erskein Grijphiswaldensis Pomeranus and Georgius Stroband thoe Borüssus.

[the two dates are printed as fractions, "19/27 Nov." above "14 Febr." and "27 Nov. 1627" above "8 March 1627"]

Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franeker.

Proclamation of 13/20/27 April 1632, whereby Maycke Hans Jooris (van Steenkist) Wedue, owner of ¾, and Mr. Joris Andries (van Steenkist) at Balk, owner of ¼, sell to Boudewijn Jansz Wellens, Procureur-postulant (practising attorney) and Aefke Jansdr. Waltha a house and barn, together with a vacant lot and joint use of the alley, standing on the Coornmerckt, to the South of the Diept, having Jan Jansz. Wringer's house to the East and Rinske Pieter Everts to the West.

Telting-Archief.

N^{o} 803. On the list of those buried 21—28 Oct. 1631 appears: Luckes Hansses (Steenkist) child.

N^{o} 814, year 1633. On 2 May Lucas Hanses (Steenkist) lent to the Rentm^{r} (receiver): 1500 . . — . . — . . .

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Harlingen.

3 August 1636. "Having heard the grounds of opposition and the excuses put forward and brought in by Dominus Regnerus Bogermannus, minister of the Divine Word within Harlingen, and Albart Harmens, burgher there, who had been appointed by the will of the late Eelck Auckesdr. as curators over Ausonius Gualteri Steenkist, the court has, at the request of the aforesaid Ausonius Steenkist, authorized as curators over him (Latin) for the act of division the honourable Abbe Coenraets and Jan Evertss, former meensmannen (town councillors) of this town."

Account dated 21 Oct. 1639/16 April 1640, whereby Jan Everts, Burgomaster at Harlingen, together with Trijntie Feddesdr. widow of the late Old Burgomaster Abbe Coenraedts and Coenraedt Abbes, the latter's father, both former curators of Ausonius Steenkist, orphan child of Gualterus Steenkist, in his lifetime minister at Wijnnaem, and Eelck Auckesdr., at that time married couple, rendered account of their administration of the orphan child's goods to the common creditors of Eelck Auckes.

From this account it appears that Eelck Auckes, after the death of her husband, settled at Leeuwarden[1] and there carried on a shop business. At her death an inventory was drawn up at Leeuwarden on 5 August 1636. Further, mention is made of a silver signet, and of bonds charged to Pieter Seerps and Jelle Abbes at Wijnaem[2] (2 May 1628) and to Wiebe Aukes cum uxore at Balck (the orphan child's uncle) (16 June 1631 and 27 September 1636). Next there is also mention of bonds in the name of Fonger Wopkes at Maccum, Dirckien Pijters here and Dirck Lous cum uxore at Wynaem, while it also appears that Ausonius Steenkist went to school at Harlingen, at any rate boarded there with Bernardus Aquila, praeceptor at Harlingen (later minister of Oosterzee and Jorwerd). For the period from 1 May 1636 to 3 May 1637 board money and claviger gelt (money for the claviger) were paid out for Ausonius. After the departure of Bernardus Aquila, Ausonius was in the house of Sioucke Hantie Aelses Wed^{e} at Harlingen. Hence it is that Ausonius Steenkist, although born at Wijnaldum, on his enrolment as a student at Franeker gave himself as being from Harlingen.

Finally, in this inventory there is still mention of an agreement said to have been entered into with Daniël E/i/lsemio E/i/lsemius[3] through the mediation of the Burgomaster Dr. Hilbrandts, the notary J. Faber and the minister Bos, concerning goods which had been redeemed from the lombart (pawnbroker's bank), but which he (Daniël) claimed belonged in part to his brother. Presumably various goods of Eelck Auckes, widow of Ds. Gualterus Steenkist, had been deposited in the lombart, in order thus to obtain working capital for the shop.

At the end the account is furthermore provided with a receipt dated 21 April 1653, signed by Ds. Ausonius à Steenkist Eccles. in Mantgum, for the receipt of various papers from the hands of Burgomaster de Gavere.

---

[1] At Leeuwarden Eelck Auckes appears to have married again, with Simon Bottis.

[2] For this couple see note 2 on page 59.

[3] This Daniël E/i/lsemio E/ij/lsemius[?] is evidently not Daniël Eilshemius, who at the moment when the goods were redeemed from the lombart (at Leeuwarden) was already minister at Anjum, because in that case something would surely have been mentioned of it. This Anjum minister was a son of the Harlingen minister Ds. Philippus Eilshemius (1605—1631), who was married to Sibrich Auckedr., a sister of Eelck Auckedr., the wife of Ds. Gualtherus Steenkist (see the draft: fragment genealogy "Steenkist"); according to the source indicated in Ds. Romein's list of names, the said Anjum minister is supposed to have been a brother-in-law of the well-known Frisian poet Gijsbert Japix.

Telting-Archief. N^{o} 868, year 1640. On the nomination for sergeant of the Noorder Quartier stood: Lucas Hansen (Steenkist).

Album Studiosorum of Franeker. 14 April 1642. Ausonius Gualtheri Steenkist, Harlinganus, Phil. Stud. with the addition placed in the margin: "alumnus".

Dutch Reformed Lidmatenboek (register of church members) of Franeker. Admitted as member 29 October 1643: Ausonius Steenkist, studiosus (student).

Telting-Archief. N^{o} 947, year 1647. Noorder-Quartier. Lucas Hansen Steenkist, according to the Roll of 1647 Rotm^{r} (squad leader) with pike. N^{o} 997. 1647—1649. As Keurm^{r} (inspector) of the Snijders- or Kleermaeckersgilde (tailors' guild) appears Lucas Hanses (Steenkist). In the year 1657 we find him struck through on the membership list. N^{o} 959 and 1007. Municipal levy concerning the paring or sanding of the Bolwerk, etc. 27 March 1648 and 6 Aug. 1651 respectively. 2^{e} Noorder-Quartier. Lucas Hansen (Steenkist) [1].

Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franeker. 28 Febr./7/14 March 1651. Lucas Hansz. Steenkist Mr. Snijder (master tailor) and Uytdrager (second-hand dealer), burgher within Franeker, buys a certain plot and small garden, at present planted with trees, etc., situated behind his (the buyer's) house in the Molensteigh here, at present inhabited by the seller, acquired by purchase from Lodewick Jansz. Linnenwewer (linen weaver) for 48 cargl.

Dutch Reformed Trouwboek (marriage register) of Franeker. "On 16 February 1653. Jelle Taeckes on the Hoochstraat and Aefke Jans on the Dijck. On the 19th of the same attestation taken out."

Kerkeboek (church register) of Jorwert. A^{o} 1653. "After the marriage banns had been published during the vacancy of the ministry by me [2] , on attestation from Franeker there were married at Jorwert Jelle Teeckes apothecary and Aefke Jansdr.".

Telting-Archief. N^{o} 1384. Among the city's creditors appear: (bond 22 May 1657 for f 1000.) Lucas Hansz. Steenkist at Franeker; / id. 18 May 1663 id. / Ausonius Steenkist and Hessel Jansen in qlt. N^{o} 1067. Ordinances (payment warrants) concerning the Rentem^{r} (receiver's) office passed since 18 March 1657, among others: 12 June 1657. Antie Steenkist for interest 110—:—:

Marriage registers of Leeuwarden. Civil: "On the 11th of June (1659) Dom. Ausonius Steenkust, minister of the Divine Word at Mantgum and Schillaerd, and Aefke Jans, widow of Jelle Taeckes were granted the marriage banns." Ecclesiastical: "D^{on} Anthoni Stiencust, minister of the Divine Word at Mantgum and Schillaerdt, and Aeffke Jans, widow of Jelke Takes were proclaimed for the first time on 12 June 1659, for the second on the 15th of the same, for the third on the 19th of the same, and on the 24th of the same took out attestation. Married in 1659 at Mantgum.

Telting-Archief. N^{o} 1067. Ordinances (payment warrants) concerning the Rentem^{r} office passed since 18 March 1657, among others: 10 June 1659. Lucas Hansen Steenkist for interest: 50—:—:

Marriage registers of Franeker. Ecclesiastical: "On the 18th (October) (1663) Ewert Obbes Adama on the Coudall and Griettie Lucas Steenkist on the Olde Coornmark, married here on the 4th of November." Civil. "3 October 1663. Ewert Obbes Adama, residing here within Franeker, and Griettie Lucas Steenkist on the Olde Koornmerckt, likewise here, are by this Court consented their marriage proclamations.' "14 September 1667 Everdt Obbes Adama Burgher Lieutenant and Ydtie Jans. widow of the late Faendrich (ensign) Iscke Taeckes [3] are hereby consented their marriage proclamations by the Honourable Court of the City of Franeker."

Proclamatieboek of Franeker. 29 Jan./5/12 Febr. 1664. Grietie Lucas Steenkist (according to the Franeker Protocolboek on those dates "wife of Ewert Obbes Mr. Brouwer (master brewer) at Franeker") sells a house on the Oude Koornmerckt for 700 ggl.

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Baarderadeel. 9 June 1664. D^{mus} Ausonius à Steenkist, minister of the Divine Word at Mantgum, is appointed and sworn as curator (ex testamentary disposition d.d. 21 July 1663/ over Take Jelles, his stepson, this at the request of Hiske Huyberts, widow of the late Secretary Siricus Zachaei Idsinga.

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franeker. 8 January 1665 (registered 7 February 1681). Yte Broersen, Mr. Schoenmaecker (master shoemaker) and Boockien Lieuwes, spouses, owing to D^{us} Ausonius Steenkist, minister of the Divine Word at Mantgum, and Aefke Jans spouses, 300 cargl. at 4%. 10 May 1671 (registered 7 February 1681). Eete Broersen, Mr. Schoenmaecker and Boockien Lieuwes, spouses, burghers within Franeker, owe to Aefke Jans, widow of the late Reverend Pastor Ausonius Steenkist of Mantgum, but now likewise residing here, 500 cargl. at an interest of 4 1/2%.

Register of annuity letters in the Archive of the Rekenkamer (Chamber of Accounts) of Friesland. Register 53 IA, year 1677, under the date of 26 March appears: N° 50 Maijcke Steenkist at Franeker, aged 11 years, and Jancke Steenkist aged 8 years; Register 53 I[a] I N° 200 (for the years 1730—1746). Maijke Steenkist, aged 63 years at Franeker, died 1747, 12 January.

---

[1] In 1648 without surname.

[2] Ds. Renicus Zachaei van Idsinga.

[3] Family name: Jelgersma.

Recesboek (register of court recesses) of Franeker.

"On 20 April 1680 there appeared before the aforesaid Commissioner: Hiddius Houcama, Procureur-postulant here, legatee of the late Hiske Hiddema, further as father of his little son Taeck Hiddes, designated heir for a 1/3 part of the aforesaid Hiske Hiddema, so far as necessary supported by Mr. Engelbart Roelants, the child's grandfather, assisted by Dr. Rudolphus Petri, interested party and plaintiff, requesting that Aefke Jans, widow of the late Dominus Steenkist, for herself and in the name of the children begotten in marriage by the said Steenkist, defendant, should give a categorical declaration upon the claim made by the plaintiff on 5 April last before the aforesaid Commissioner, to render account, proof and the remainder concerning the administration which the said Steenkist has had over the goods of the aforesaid Hiske Hiddema.

The defendant Aefke Steenkist, first protesting the nullity and prejudicial character of the capacity assumed by the plaintiff, insists upon the Court's penal ordinance of 17 April 1680, with the request that the plaintiff Houcama, as a transgressor of the same, may be prosecuted and punished by the Procureur-Generaal by virtue of his office."

Dutch Reformed register of members of Franeker.

[the two following register extracts are printed side by side in two columns]

"1681.
On 16 July were received upon their confession of faith
1. Hiske Steenkist, unmarried woman."
"1688.
on 6 October was received Mayke Steenkist."

Telting-Archief.

N° 1404. Assessment of the wealth of the inhabitants of Franeker for the 100th penning, year 1689.

West: Aefke Steenkist 1500.

Dutch Reformed register of members of Franeker.

17 March 1694 (Janke)[1] Steenkist.

Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franeker.

21/28 August /4 September 1696. Hiske, Maeycke and Jancke Steenkist, unmarried women in Franeker, buy for 1250 gl. a house with a shared alley on the west side together with the adjoining house, in Franeker, at present inhabited as tenants by Dirck Cornelis and Maeicke Cornelis, married couple, having the heer Sminia to the East, the sellers to the South and West and the Butterbrugh to the North, bought from Anna Camper, wife of Dr. Tinaeus Beilanus, Advocate before the Court of Friesland, and Feyckjen Doeckes Sinaeda, wife of Ds. Gerhardus Horrius, minister of the Divine Word at Vrouwen Parochie.

Weesrekeningboek (orphans' account book) of Franekeradeel.

In this book the name of Hiske Steenkist is mentioned once or twice as a creditor. To give an impression of her shop business at Franeker in the years 1710—1713, it may be noted that she sold: "clothing of fabrics, striped calamanco, silk damask, sanet-stripe, lace and muslin".

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franeker.

3 July 1716 (entered 17 November 1722). Johannes Regius, Doctor of Medicine and Philosophy and Professor thereof at the Academy of Franeker, and Cornelia Stamperius, married couple, owe 300 cargl. to the honourable merchant women Hiske, Maicke and Jancke Steenkist, sisters, on account of shop wares received, at 3½%.

3 July 1716 (entered 17 November 1722). Another similar acknowledgement of debt of 50 cargl.

Proclamatieboek of Franeker.

30 October/6/27 November 1716[2]. Hiske, Maijcke and Jancke Steenkist, unmarried women at Franeker, buy for 2000 cargl. from Elisabeth Hania, widow de Gavere at Bolswart, a house etc. with a garden behind it on the Voorstraat opposite the Valck, inhabited by the buyers themselves, having Jouck Jacobs, butcher's wife, to the East and the heirs of the Vroedsman (town councillor) Taco (Teecke) Lieuwes Midverda (Metwerda) to the West.

Telting-Archief.

N⁰ 1612. 30 August 1719. Received from Mayke Steenkist for a 2-inch coffin for her sister 22—0—0.

Dutch Reformed register of members of Franeker.

In the list of members of the year 1709 one finds on the south side of the Voorstraat the following persons: Mayke Steenkist, Janke Steenkist and Hiske Steenkist. The last-named, according to a note, † 26 August 1719.

In the list of members of 16 June 1720 the place of Hiske has been taken by: "Jetske Douwes, her maidservant". Elsewhere it is recorded that on 25 September 1718 "Jetske Douwes", unmarried woman, made confession of faith and that on that ground she was entered as a member of the Church.

Janke Steenkist died, according to a marginal note, on 31 October 1726. This agrees with the list of members of 24 September 1730, where Maijke Steenkist is given with the following persons, apparently living in her house: "Catharina Lomars, shop girl, and Jetske Douwes, her maidservant".

According to still later notes, on 18 June 1745 there became a member of the congregation: Aafke Dirks, unmarried woman, (living) with Maayke Steenkist, and Maayke Steenkist died on 12 January 1747 and her maidservant Jetske Douwes on 1 June 1757.

On the ground of confession of faith made, there was admitted on 13 December 1720 as a member of the Reformed Congregation Ausonius Greidanus, Student of Sacred Theology, living with Maayke Steenkist, who seems regularly to have had students in her house; at any rate on 17 March 1726 there was received as a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation of Franeker on the ground of confession of faith made: Meinardus Atsma, Student of Sacred Theology, (living) with Maayke Steenkist.

Collateraalboek (register of collateral succession duty) of Franeker.

20 November 1719. Maicke and Jancke Steenkist, sisters, having become heirs of their sister Hiske Steenkist, deceased in Franequer, declare: the collateral duty, according to the personal property assessment standing in the names of the three of them in the register of the 100th and 1000th penning here in this town in the name of the heirs of Aafke Steenkist with the sum of 1500 cargl., being thus, with respect to their deceased sister's share, 500 cargl.

---

[1] The first name is not filled in, but this must be "Janke".

[2] 17 October 1716 Protocolboek of Franeker.

> 2 Dec. 1726. Maicke Steenkist, living within Franequer, declares for the collateraal the inheritance and estate of her sister Jancke Steenkist, who died here on 31 October 1726, according to the personal property assessment, standing in the cohier of this town in the 1st West assessed at the sum of 4000 cargls in the name of Aafke Steenkist's heirs, which 4000 gls must be divided into two equal portions, the one to the heir and the other portion or 2000 £ for the deceased.
> 20 March 1747. According to this entry, which is included on page 289, Ds. Ausonius Greidanus inherited the entire estate of 8000 car.gl. from his aunt Maycke Steenkist, in life "merchant woman" at Franeker and there deceased 12 January 1747.

In the Naamlijst of Ds. T. A. Romein one finds further: on page 204 under "Wynaldum":

> "1617. Gualtherus Johannes à Steenkist. In 1615 there was a Gualtherus Hansonis van Steenkist (thus he wrote himself) Th. St. at Franeker. He was confirmed as candidate on 31 August, after the disputation on the doctrine of Vibr. Hectoris at Oudwoude had been concluded, and died on 1 March 1627, aged 36 years, according to the gravestone inscription."

[the word transcribed as "disputat" is printed hyphenated across lines as "dis-puut"; it reads disputt[?] — best reading: dispuut]

and on page 168 under "Mantgum en Schillaard":

> "1648. Ausonius à Steenkist, son of Gualtherus Johannes at Wijnaldum and born there, candidate, was formerly tutor at Syrtemastate at Engelum, approved on 12 June, member of the Classis on 7 August — died on 20 September 1669, aged about 47 years."

Eelckien Steenkist, the 2nd wife of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, was thus a daughter of Ds. Ausonius Steenkist, Dutch Reformed minister at Mantgum and Schillaard, and Aafke Jans.

Aafke Jans was earlier married to Jelle Taeckes, apothecary at Leeuwarden, from which marriage was born: Taecke (Taco) Jelles, burgher-sergeant, stonecutter (stonemason) and Vroedsman (town councillor) at Franeker, who was thus a stepbrother of Eelckien Steenkist.

Eelckien Steenkist was baptized at Mantgum on 8 April 1660, died on 19 October 1703 at the age of 43 years, probably at Achlum, and was buried there in the Reformed Church. Her father, born at Wijnaldum ± 1622, received his early schooling at Harlingen, was enrolled at Franeker on 14 April 1642 as Phil. Stud., coming from Harlingen; before he became minister on 12 June 1648 he was tutor at Syrtema-State at Engelum, and died 20 September 1669, aged about 47 years. He was a son of the Wijnaldum minister Gualtherus (also called Wolterus) Johannes (also called Hansonis or Hanses) Steenkist, who was married to Eelck Auckes van Balk, died at the age of 36, and was in turn a son of Hans (Johannes) Wouters (van) Steenkist, burgher and wine host (innkeeper) in 't Vergulden Hooft at Franeker, and Margrietke (Grietghen) Petersdr. van Damme.

Eelckien Steenkist's mother Aafke Jans was a child of Jan Andries, first living at Menaldum and deceased at Franeker as burgher and cow-keeper, and Marijke Ysbrandtsdr..

Eelckien Steenkist had no brothers, but 3 sisters: Hiske, Maayke and Janke Steenkist, who at Franeker had a well-patronized cloth shop in their own house on the Voorstraat opposite the inn "de Valk" and were not without means. Maayke Steenkist, who died last of the 3 sisters, left 8000 cargl.

Added hereto is a draft: fragment genealogy:

1° of the family to which Aafke Jans, the mother of Eelckien Steenkist, belonged, and of which no surname has come to light;

2° of the family of which Jelle Taeckes, the first husband of Aafke Jans, was a member. From this fragment one can see how peculiarly the adoption of surnames was handled in those days. The eldest son of the couple Taecke Taeckes × Maycke Huyberts Hiddema calls himself Hiddema after his mother, a grandson of the second son takes the name “Salverda”, likewise from his mother, and the third son adorns himself with the surname “Houckema”.

3° of the family “Jelgersma” (see on the draft: fragment genealogy “Steenkist”: Grietje Lucas Steenkist). On this draft fragment “Jelgersma” there also occurs Bauck Iskes (Eeskes) Jelgersma, who was married to Prof. Johannes Greydanus' uncle: Claes Jansen (de Kleyne), first baker and afterwards Bolsward skipper at Franeker (see for instance the chart belonging with page 48).

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the family of Aefke Jans' first husband: Jelle Taeckes. - Jan Hessels — Co-purchasers 1573/1589 of Franyastate at Pietersbierum. - ⚭ Eelck Lolckedr - Hessel Jans - ⚭ Ansck Jelledr. Bonnema — 1606 at Minderscha. - Lolcke Jans — † before 1605. - ⚭ Jantgen Piersdr. - Children. - Andries (Andrijs) Jans — † 1606. - ⚭ Titske (Tyeets) Jans — dau. of Jan Jacobs and Jouwer Toenisdr. † 1608. At Franeker. - Geertie (Gertje) Andries — † 1636. - ⚭ Jan Fockez. (Van) Beyma — at Franeker. - Eelck Andries - ⚭ Seerp Sijbrens — at Harlingen. - Andries Andries — innocent (mentally incapable) - Jan Andries — First at Menaldum, later citizen and koemelcker (dairyman) at Franeker. † 1649. They left property at Tzum and at Welsrijp. - ⚭ Marijke (Mary, Mayke) Ysbrandtsdr. — † Franeker 1651. - Andries Jans — † 1672. - ⚭ Antje ..... — at Wijnaem. - Tits (Tyeetske) Jans — † 1645. - ⚭ Lieuwe Taeckes Midverda — Citizen and hatter at Franeker. - Auckien Jans — † 1645. - ⚭ Pyter Simens — Carpenter. - Jouwerke Jans — † 1654. - ⚭ I Fedde Simons Mostert — Citizen, Carpenter and Vroedsman (town councillor) at Franeker. † before 2 Dec. 1662. - ⚭ II Sjouckien Gerits or Heres - Hessel Jans — Mr. Cuyper (master cooper) at Franeker. - ⚭ Antje Boons - Aefke Jans — † 1693. - ⚭ I Jelle Taeckes - ⚭ II Ds. Ausonius Steenkist - Eelckien Steenkist - ⚭ Ds. Tjardus Greydanus - Jouwerke Andries — † 1621. - ⚭ Tjerk Baukes Romeda — † 1645. at Welsrijp.

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the family of Aefke Jans, the mother of Eelckien Steenkist. Belongs with page 220. [the sibling bar carrying Taco Hiddema, Jelle Taeckes, Hiddius Taconis Houckema, Meyncke Taeckes and Maycke Taeckes hangs below the Taecke Taeckes block; the chart does not show from which of his two marriages each of them descends, so they are nested directly under him] - Taecke - Taecke Taeckes — Citizen, Zijdewinckelier (silk-cloth shopkeeper) (silk-cloth merchant) and administrating Armenvoogd (poor-relief overseer) at Franeker. † Franeker Nov. 1650. - ⚭ I Sytie Anstadr. - ⚭ II Maycke Huyberts Hiddema — † October 1649. - Taco/ne/ Hiddema — b. ± 1624. 23 June 1645 Juris Cand. Franeker. Was still living 16 July 1649, but was † 30 Nov. 1653. - Jelle Taeckes — b. ± 1626. Apothecary at Leeuwarden. m. Jorwerd ± 20 Feb. 1653. bur. Franeker Aug. 1657. - ⚭ I Aefke Jans - ⚭ II Ds. Ausonius Steenkist - Taeke (Taco) Jelles — Citizen-Sergeant, Hardhouder (stonecutter) and Vroedsman (town councillor) at Franeker. Was still living at Franeker 12 March 1691, but † before 1696. - ⚭ I Ydtie Lamberts Salverda — dau. of Lambert Poppes Salverda, bapt. as an adult at Franeker 12 March 1691. - ⚭ II Heercke Ydema — Merchant at Franeker. - ⚭ III Ds. Aggaeus Eydsma (Eysema) — Dutch Reformed minister at Tzum. - Aaltje Taeckes — bapt. Franeker 5 Oct. 1687. - Jelle Taeckes — bapt. Franeker 16 May 1689. - Lambert (Lammert Taeckes) Salverda — bapt. Franeker 11 Nov. 1690 Receiver (tax collector) at Tzum. † 1748. - ⚭ Bregtje Piers (Strikwerda) — dau. of Pier Pijters (Strikwerda) and Aethje Brongers. † 1750. - Aaltje Lammerts Salverda — b. at Tzum. m. at Franeker 26 October 1749. - ⚭ I Ds. Theotardus (Tjeerdt) (van) Burenstins — bapt. Franeker 23 July 1715, son of Hector van Burenstins, Co-ruling Burgomaster of Franeker. First Praeceptor (teacher) of the Latin School at Franeker, afterwards Dutch Reformed minister at Ytens. † 12 May 1780. - ⚭ II Christina Hanecroot — of Engelum. Marriage attestation passed at Franeker 27 Aug. 1758. - Taeke Lammerts Salverda - ⚭ Hyke Dircksdr. - Ittje Lammerts Salverda - ⚭ T. Salverda - Aefke Lammerts Salverda — † 1775. - ⚭ L. Stiensma - Hiddius Taconis Houckema — b. ± 1628. Procureur-Postulant (attorney) at Franeker. Was still living at Franeker 20 April 1680. - ⚭ I Gerlantie Tiercx Wibranda — b. ± 1627, dau. of Tierck Hessels Wybranda and Antie Domna at Weidum. m. Franeker 11 Nov. 1655. - ⚭ II Feickien (Engelbarts) Roelants — dau. of Engelbert Roelants. - Taecko Hiddes - Meyncke (Meinuw, Mintie) Taeckes — b. ± 1634. - ⚭ I Lolcke Dirks — Citizen and Dokkum skipper at Franeker. † before 29 Sept. 1667. They were still living 1 July 1659. - ⚭ II Claas Regnerij Isselmonde — Master baker on the Coudal at Franeker. m. Franeker 16 October 1667. - Maycke Taeckes — b. ± 1636. bur. Franeker 5 Dec. 1657. - ⚭ Sachaeus Reneri Idsinga — Clerk of the Infantry Company at Jorwerd. Probably son of Ds. Rienk Sakes (Renicus Zachaei) van Idsinga, V.D.M. at Jorwerd 1652—1670, who was a brother of Sierck Sakes van Idsinga, mentioned on the chart: Greydanus/Tjerck Hiddes de Vries.

Draft Fragment-Genealogy “Jelgersma”. [the letters A and B printed above Take Iskens (Eetsens) Jelgersma and above Ocke Jansen give the order of the two marriages of Lisck Saackles; a “?” is printed on the line joining Antie Iskens to Iske/Jelgersma/ and on the line joining Antie Takes Jelgersma to her parents.] - Iske/Jelgersma/ - Bauck Iskens Jelgersma — Widow of Claes Jansen at Franeker. M. Franeker 20 Nov. 1661. - ⚭ Lou Jans — Master Baker at Franeker. - Take Iskens (Eetsens) Jelgersma — from Sexbierum. Burgomaster and Timber Merchant at Franeker. † between 21 Febr. 1655 and 18 Febr. 1657. - ⚭ I Anna Epkedr. — from Minnertsga. M. October 1620. - ⚭ II Lisck Saackles - ⚭ B Ocke Jansen — Master Silversmith. M. Franeker 10 Aug. 1659. - Hylckien Takes Jelgersma — M. Franeker 22 April 1658. - ⚭ Lambert Jans (de Gavere) — In 1658 surveyor and in 1661 baker at Harlingen. - Viltetus Takes Jelgersma — Ensign. In 1665 Apothecary at Harlingen. - ⚭ Stijntje Lases (Hannema) — M. before 20 January 1656. - The descendants are settled at Harlingen. - Iske (Eeske) Takes Jelgersma — Citizen, Ensign and Timber Merchant at Franeker. M. Franeker 4/18 Aug. 1658. † before 19 September 1667. - ⚭ I Idtje Jans — dau. of Jan Douwes at Boer - ⚭ II Everdt Obbes Adama — Citizen, Lieutenant and Master Brewer at Franeker. Widower of Grietie Lucas Steenkist. M. Franeker 19 Sept. 1667. - Take (Taco) Yskes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 19 June 1661. Burgomaster and Timber Merchant at Franeker. † 26 July 1733. - ⚭ Yske Horraeus — M. ± 1691. - Itje Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 21 June 1693. † before 13 Febr. 1701. - Yske Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker January 1695. † before 10 Nov. 1696. - Yske Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 10 Nov. 1696. † before 15 Aug. 1706. - Petrus Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 11 Sept. 1698. † before 10 Febr. 1704. - Ytje (Ida) Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 13 Febr. 1701. - ⚭ Symon Domynecus Sloterdijk - Petrus Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 10 Febr. 1704. - Yske Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 15 Aug. 1706. † before 1713. - Yske Takes Jelgersma — Bapt. Franeker 1713. - Antie Takes Jelgersma — M. 21 March 1658. - ⚭ Jan Pyters Hartog — Merchant at Franeker. - Antie Iskens - ⚭ Hartmannus Feijonis — Notary Public at Franeker.

Connection: Greydanus/Tjerck Hiddes de Vries via Jelle Taeckes. Belongs with page 220/221. - Huybert Hiddema - Hiscke Huyberts Hiddema — † 28 March 1664; buried in the Church at Jorwerd. - ⚭ I Sierk Saeckes (Siricus or Siricho Zachaei) van Idsinga — Secretary and Receiver of Baarderadeel. † 1 April 1660. Buried in the Church at Jorwerd. - Matthijs van Idsinga — B. 7 Aug. 1629. † Harlingen 12 Dec. 1712. - ⚭ Hendrina de Loë — B. 13 August 1639. M. Coevorden 29 Nov. 1661. † February 1683. - Anna Margaretha van Idsinga — B. 18 September 1662. † 22 Dec. 1723. - ⚭ Tjerck Hiddes de Vries — B. Harlingen 9 Aug. 1666. Bapt. Harlingen, Westerkerk, 29 Aug. 1666. SON OF ADMIRAL TJERCK HIDDES DE VRIES. Captain at Sea. † on a ship from England to Harlingen 20 Dec. 1689. - ⚭ II Rode Bockema - Maycke Huyberts Hiddema — † Oct. 1649. - ⚭ II Taecke Taeckes — Citizen and silk shopkeeper (silk cloth merchant) at Franeker. † Franeker Nov. 1650. - ⚭ I Sytie Ansta - Jelle Taeckes — B. ± 1626. Apothecary at Leeuwarden. M. Jorwerd ± 20 February 1653. Bur. Franeker Aug. 1657. - ⚭ I Aefke Jans — dau. of Jan Andries and Maryke Ysbrandtsdr. † 1693. - ⚭ II Ds. Ausonius Steenkist — B. Wynaldum ± 1622. M. Mantgum 3 July 1659. Dutch Reformed Minister at Mantgum and Schillaard. † 20 Sept. 1669. - Eelckien Steenkist — Bapt. Mantgum 8 April 1660. M. ± 16 Aug. 1686. † 19 Oct. 1703. Buried in the Reformed Church at Achlum. - Ds. Tjardus Greydanus — B. Franeker 19 January 1656. Dutch Reformed Minister at Achlum and Hitzum. † Achlum 19

March 1712. Buried in the Reformed Church at Achlum. - ⚭ I Aafke Olthoff - ⚭ II Eelckien Steenkist (see above) - Sijts Huyberts - ⚭ Claes Seltiesz — Fettewarier (dealer in tanned leather goods) at Franeker. † before Sept. 1628.

There is also added here a scheme, from which follows a certain kinship of the aforementioned Jelle Taeckes, thus of the family "Greydanus", with the Frisian Admiral Tjerck Hiddes de Vries.

CHILDREN:

From the 1st marriage:

Johannes Greydanus, who follows under number: 14.

From the 2nd marriage:

1. Ydtje Greydanus, who follows under number: 15.
2. Aefke Greydanus, who follows under number: 16.
3. Aefke Greydanus, who follows under number: 17.
4. Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, who follows under number: 18.

---

6 DR. SIXTUS GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

He was born at Franeker 28 November 1657 (see page 483 of E. L. Vriemoet "Athenarum Frisiacarum").

His baptismal entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Franeker reads as follows:

> "1657.
> on 2 December Dr. Johannes Greidanus has a child baptized named Sixtus."

In the Reformed membership register of Franeker there is also a list of those baptized from 1 Jan. 1649 to 27 Jan. 1658. In this list the baptism of Sixtus Greydanus is entered as follows:

> "2 December 1657. Dr: Johannes Greidanus child named Sixtus."

On 15 July 1676 he became a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker, as appears from the following entry in the membership register:

> "1676.
> On 15 July
> Upon their confession of faith
> .....
> Sixtus Greidanus Stud."

According to the following act dated 16 May 1674 in the resolution book of the quarter Oostergo, Sixtus Greydanus would have been appointed alumnus of Westdongeradeel. Although the first name of the beneficed Greidanus is not included in the act, it must nevertheless be Sixtus, for his brother Tjardus was already an alumnus and to him the pensie (stipend) was paid out regularly, while another Greidanus cannot be considered for it.

> "Today, the 16th of May 1674, there appeared at the Landschapshuijs (provincial government house) the Honourable Ernst Sicco van Aylva, Grietman (district magistrate) and Volmacht (delegate) of Westdongeradeel, and declared, by virtue of the accompanying act adopted today by the joint Lords Volmachten of Oostergoo, that he had nominated to the alumnus place which has fallen to the aforesaid grietenij (district) of Westdongeradeel and is at present vacant, the person of Greidanus, and that with the honour and the profits belonging thereto; authorizing and therefore requesting the Noble Mighty Lords Gedeputeerde (deputies) to pass henceforth the annual ordonnance at the proper times for the aforesaid Greidanus for the aforesaid pensie."

Whether, however, this appointment of 16 May 1674 was later undone, or whether it was never carried into effect, is not entirely clear, for in the payment ordonnances, in which we regularly find Tjardus Greydanus mentioned, another Greydanus does not appear. Perhaps the non-payment of the pensie is connected with the reduction of the number of alumni, as appears from the Index to the Staatsresolutiën (resolutions of the States) by the hand of J. van Leeuwen (published by J. A. de Chalmot). If it was resolved on 22 February 1618 "to let the alumni die out or depart" down to 41, on 29 March 1667 the number of the alumni was definitively reduced to 41, while on 30 March 1672 their number was fixed at 20, with abolition of the extraordinary alumni. It would not be surprising if the cancellation of Sixtus' pensie had been the consequence of the resolution of 1672. Whereas before that time apparently every grietenij could designate its alumnus, then this number was halved.

Sixtus Greydanus came to the Franeker Academy on 31 October 1674, as follows from the entry below in the Album Academiae Franekeranae, present in the State Archives of Friesland, in which the names were entered by the Rector himself.

> (Latin) "In the year MIↃCLXXIV
> During the rectorate of the Magnificent Michaele Buschio, professor of eloquence and political history, the following declared their names among the citizens of the Academy:
> 31 Oct. Sixtus Greidang[1] Franequerang[1], Joannis Greidani professor, son[1]."

In this Album one further finds the following concerning him:

> (Latin) "In the year MDCLXXXIII, while Philippo Matthæo Sen., Doctor and professor of Medicine, was for the third time Rector Magnificus, the following declared their names among the citizens of the Academy:
> 21 Jun. Sixtus Greijdanus of Franeker, Candidate of Medicine, son of professor Greydani."

In the Album of the Franeker Academy, which is kept in the Provincial Library of Friesland, and in which the students entered their names themselves, this last entry, of which a reproduction is added opposite, reads:

> (Latin) "Under Rector P. Matthaeo Sen. the following declared their names in the year MDCLXXXIII > 21 Jún. Sixtús Greijdanús, of Franeker, Candidate of Medicine, free of charge."

Furthermore, the following is also found in the last-mentioned Album:

> (Latin) Review of the Students > made in the year 1677, 78, 79, 81, 83: Sixtus Greidanus Student of Medicine.
> 1680: Reviewed at home: Sixtus Greidanus, of Franeker.
> 1682: Reviewed in the Academy in the month of June in the year 1682 Sixtg Greydanus of Franeker, Student of Medicine."

In the Diarium Academiae 25 Aug. 1664—16 April 1683 one finds at the back:

"Registration of the Apostilles.
On 2 November 1675 there was validated in the account
Sixtg Gredang one apostille ending 9 Decemb. 1675.
On 7 Novemb. 1677 the following apostilles were approved
S. Greijdanus 8 December 1676
On 3 May 1682 the following apostilles were approved in the Academic Senate for Sixtus Greydanús the 5 May 1681.
On 2 May 1683
there was approved in the Judicial Senate the Apostille for Sixtus Greijdanus begun 27 April 1682 and ended 27 April 1683 last past."

On 27 September 1683 Sixtus Greydanus took his doctorate at Franeker as Doctor of Medicine, after the defence of a disputation on cancer and previously of a disputation on the blood. Concerning this the following is recorded in the Academic Archives:

Acta of the Senatus Generalis of the Franeker Academy. Diarium Acad. III.

(Latin) "On the day of 21 June 1683. Mr. Sixtus Greidanus of Franeker, son of professor Joh. Greidani of blessed memory, was admitted to the medical examination. Done in the hall as above.	[2] On the day of 21 June 1683. Mr. Sixtus Greidanus of Franeker, son of Prof. Joh. Greidanus of blessed memory, has been admitted to the medical examination. Done in the hall as above.
(signed) B. à Blijdensteyn 1683."	(signed) B. à Blijdensteyn 1683.
(Latin) "27 September 1683. Mr. Sixtus Greidanus*, son of Joh., after holding an inaugural medical disputation on cancer in the Academic church, was created and proclaimed Doctor of Medicine by the illustrious, most experienced and most celebrated Mr.* Philippù/m/ Matthaeum Seniorem, Doctor of Medicine and with us ordinary Professor of Botany and of the Liberal Arts, Rector Magnificus. Done in the academic hall as above.	27 September 1683. Mr. Sixtus Greydanus*, son of Joh., has, after the holding of a medical inaugural treatise on cancer in the academic church, been made and proclaimed Doctor of Medicine by the famous, most learned, celebrated Mr. Philippus Matthaeus Senior, with us ordinary Professor of Botany and of the Liberal Arts, Rector Magnificus. Done in the Academy hall as above.*
(signed) B. à Blijdensteyn 1683."	(signed) B. à Blijdenstejn 1683.
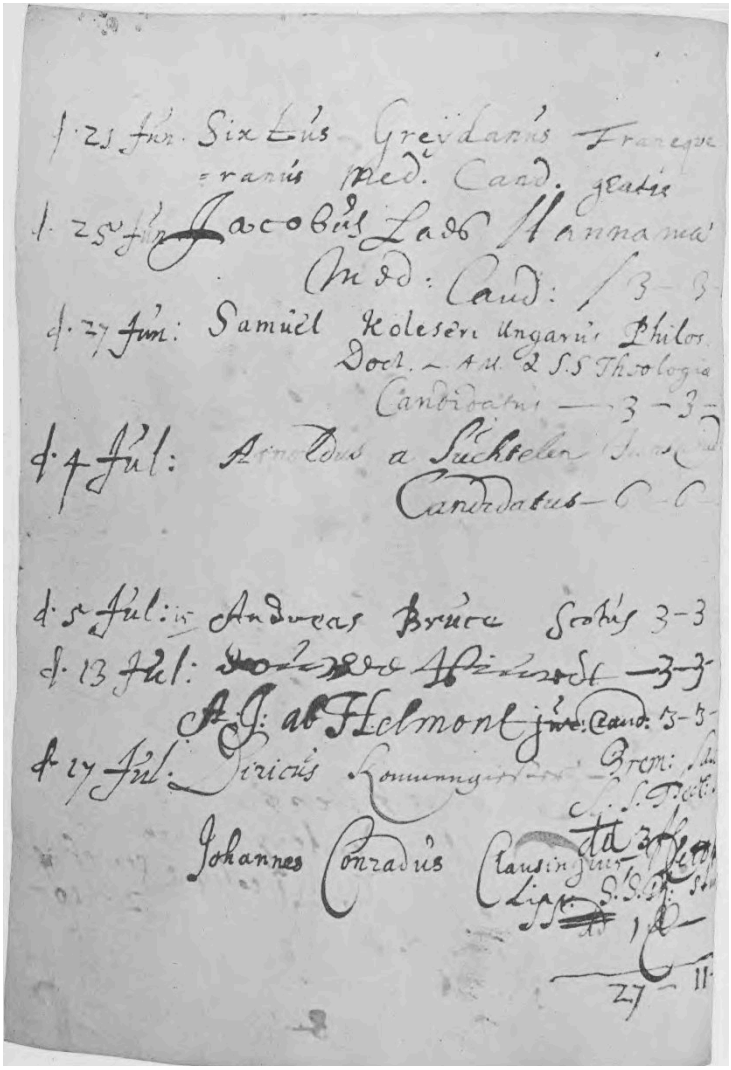
Album Studiosorum Franeker.	Album of the Students of Franeker.
(Latin) "27 Sept. 1683. Sixtus Greidanus son of Prof. Greidani*, after a public disputation had been held on cancer, with me (Prof. Ph. Matthaeus Senior) as promotor (in medicine)."*	27 Sept. 1683. Sixtus Greidanus*, son of* Prof. Greidanus*, after the holding of a public disputation on cancer, with me (Prof. Philippus Matthaeus Senior) as his promotor (in medicine).*

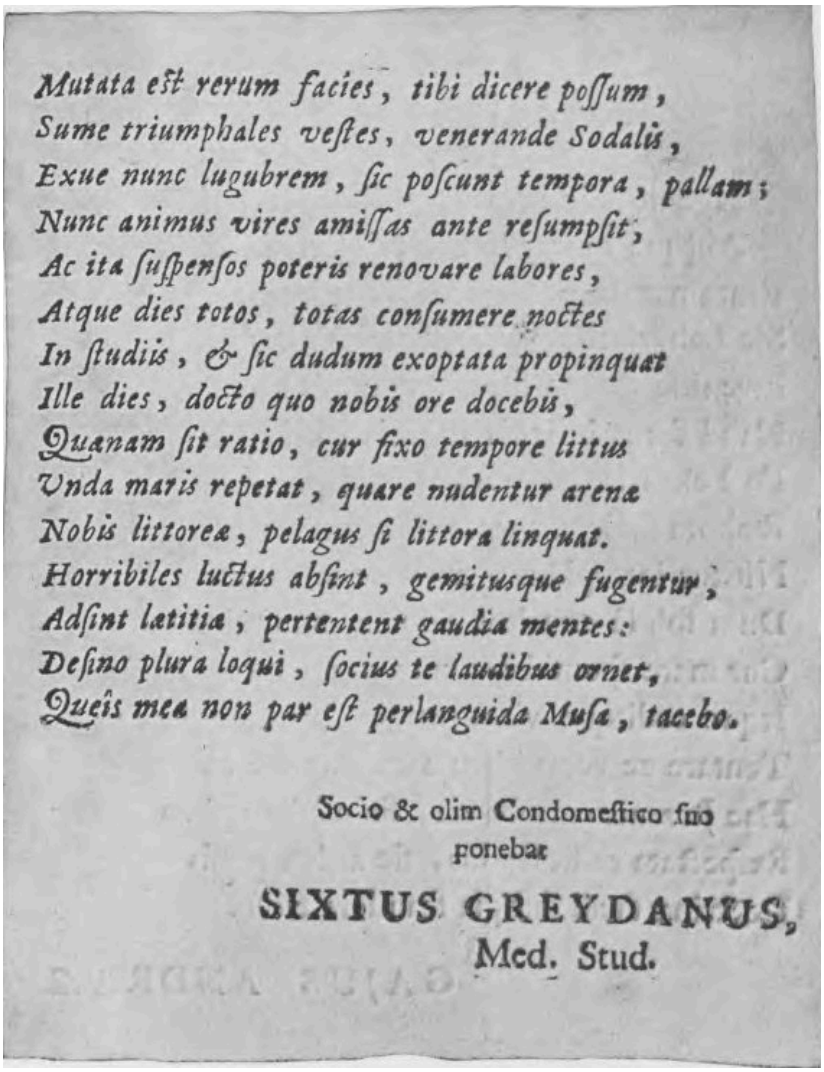
Dr. Sixtus Greydanus, who, according to the Franeker Weesboeken (orphans' registers), already as a student gave instruction

[1] g means us.

[2] Translation into Dutch by myself.



Page from the Album Studiosorum of the Franeker Academy with the entry in his own hand dated 21 June 1683 of Sixtús Greijdanús (actual size).



Mutata eſt rerum facies, tibi dicere poſſum,
Sume triumphales veſtes, venerande Sodalis,
Exue nunc lugubrem, ſic poſcunt tempora, pallam;
Nunc animus vires amiſſas ante reſumpſit,
Ac ita ſuſpenſos poteris renovare labores,
Atque dies totos, totas conſumere noctes
In ſtudiis, & ſic dudum exoptata propinquat
Ille dies, docto quo nobis ore docebis,
Quanam ſit ratio, cur fixo tempore littus
Unda maris repetat, quare nudentur arenæ
Nobis littoreæ, pelagus ſi littora linquat.
Horribiles luctus abſint, gemitusque fugentur,
Adſint lætitiæ, pertentent gaudia mentes:
Deſino plura loqui, ſocius te laudibus ornet,
Queîs mea non par eſt perlanguida Muſa, tacebo.

Socio & olim Condomeſtico ſuo ponebat
SIXTUS GREYDANUS,
Med. Stud.

Printed Latin poem from about 1680 by the student Sixtus Greydanus on the occasion of the death of his fellow student Buma /see pp. 225/226/ (actual size).

gave lessons to various pupils[1], was appointed on 11 June 1684 Conrector of the Latin Schools at Franeker, at a salary of 300 cargl. a year, as appears from the following decision, occurring in the "Resolutieboek des Vroeds-schaps binnen die stad Franeker" (resolution book of the town council of Franeker) kept in the Municipal Archive:

> "Today, the 11 June 1684, their Honours the Gentlemen of the Magistracy of the town of Franeker, having heard and read the nomination of three able persons, made by the combined Gentlemen Scholarchen (school governors) at the order of their Honours, for the filling again of the vacant office of Conrector in their Latin School, have accordingly by unanimous votes elected and nominated to the aforesaid office of Conrector the honourable Sixtus à Grijdanus Med. D^{r}, and that at a yearly salary of three hundred car. gls[?], and further with such emoluments as his predecessor Eydsema has enjoyed."

This predecessor in the conrectorship Eydsema was Aggaeus Eydsema (Eydsma or Eysema), who was called as minister at Tzum[2]. He was a son of the Franeker burgomaster Sybe Agges Eydsema and the third husband of Yttie Lamberts Salverda, first married to Taeke (Taco) Jelles (see the draft fragment genealogy of Jelle Taeckes at p. 220).

Dr. Sixtus Greydanus died 12 May 1698 at a little over 40 years of age (see p. 483 of Athenarum Frisiacarum by E. L. Vriemoet) and, according to a family note, was buried at Dongjum. He was succeeded as conrector by D^{e} Niclaides, who, according to the decision below from the above-mentioned resolution book, was appointed on 6 June 1698:

> "Today, the 6 June 1698, their Honours the Gentlemen of the Magistracy of the town of Franeker, having heard and read the nomination of three able persons, made by the combined Gentlemen Scholarchen at the order of their Honours, for the filling again of the vacant office of Conrector in their Latin School, have accordingly by unanimous votes elected and nominated to the aforesaid office of Conrector the honourable[3] Candidate of Sacred Theology, and that at a salary of three hundred caroli guilders and further with such emoluments as his predecessor Sixtus a Greijdanus has enjoyed. Done as above."

Besides the conrectorship of the Latin Schools at Franeker, Dr. Sixtus Greydanus seems also to have practised medicine, as may appear from the Franeker Sententieboek (book of judgments), in which under the date of 30 July 1697 there occurs a lawsuit between Hessel Gerryts Hanekroot, master silversmith at Franeker, and Dr. Sixtus Greydanus, conrector there. The judgment is of an interlocutory nature and is followed by a Sentence of 27 December 1697, by which the defendant (Dr. Sixtus Greydanus) is condemned to pay the plaintiff the sum of 67 cargl. 3 st., with the interest accrued since the joinder of issue, without prejudice to the defendant's right concerning what he shall show by proper specification to be due to him from the plaintiff for medical services and medicines supplied. As appears from the preamble of the Sentence, the plaintiff had taken the oath "in confirmation of his account book".

Moreover, in the Acts of the Particular Synod of the Dutch Reformed Church of Friesland one finds in substance the following:

> 17 June 1690. Art. 39. On a petition of Aeltje Schotanus, widow of D. Bartholdus Wiarda, p. m., in his lifetime minister at Worckum, requesting — notwithstanding that she is married — that she might again enjoy the benefit of the viduale Collegie (widows' fund); because the marriage had taken place as it were against her will and wish, that the man she had married had after a short time left her and set out on a far and lengthy journey, and that she, according to the testimony of Doctor Greidanus and Miss Terentius, was afflicted with a deep melancholy and with the severe struggle arising from it, the Christian Synod resolves, since this matter is both ecclesiastical and political, that it shall be taken ad referendum."

Most probably the "Doctor Greidanus" mentioned in this document is Dr. Sixtus Greydanus, who, as is stated below, presumably lodged in rooms with Aeltje Schotanus at Franeker, and his testimony might be understood as a medical declaration that Aeltje Schotanus was suffering from a deep melancholy.

Dr. Sixtus Greydanus seems at Franeker first to have lodged in rooms with Aaltje Schotanus, a sister of Prof. Johannes Schotanus à Sterringa, Professor of Philosophy at Franeker, and a daughter of Prof. Christianus Schotanus. This might follow from the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker, in which one finds under the date of 9 February 1687:

> "the late Ds. Bartholdus Wiarda, in his lifetime Servant of Jesus Christ at Worcum, and Aaltie Schotana, now remarried to Philippus de Gijs, assisted by him and by her brother Prof. Dr. Johannes Schotanus. Profitable account, in which among other things:

---

[1] Namely Andrys Jarighs Helbada, Aggaeus Johannes' Ennema.

[2] See p. 261 of the Naamlijst by Ds. T. A. Romein and pp. 205 and 206 above.

[3] D[e]. Niclaides, which name is mentioned in the Decision of 26 April 1701.

> "also received by the same Professor Schotanus from Dr. Greidanus for board money and room rent 108— 2—:
> From Mons[r] Hora for room rent there is due at May 1687 23— 0—:
> from Dr. Greidanus likewise 11—10—:"

On 18 February 1689 he was living as "Brugmeester" (bridge master) on the Heeregracht. All this appears from the "Brughboeck ende Naamregister der resp[e] Bouwmeesters en de opsichters van de Steenen en Holten Bruggen, sampt Brandgereedschap binnen Franeker beginnende August 1669", which is in the Municipal Archive of Franeker, in which one finds:

> "Between XXXIII and XXXIV wooden bridge on the North of the Lijnbaan over the Heeregragt. All the houses on the South, those built as well as those still to be built, beginning from the house of Albert Alberts Pottebacker up to the entrance of the Lijnbaan towards the Bolwerck, each reckoned as one whole house; and since the vacant lot has now been sold to three different persons, namely the first lot next to Jetse Thomas' house to Baucke Jansen Kiestra, and the second to the honourable Dr. P. D. Lomars, and the third to Secretary Simon de Wein, which the aforesaid Secretary has transferred to Pyter Ulbes, cloth merchant, so it is that each buyer shall contribute towards the bridge, namely that each vacant lot is reckoned and must pay, according to the conditions of sale, for two house sites.
> Brugmeesters of this are, by commission: Frans Hansen and Mr. Claas Foppes, organist, 6 Oct. 1684. On 18 Febr. 1689 Dr. Greidanus; as Brugmeesters by commission Feicke Clasen Pottebacher and Ruierd Idses on 20 April 1696, etc."

On 20 December 1697 Dr. Sixtus Greydanus lived in a "fine dwelling and excellent garden with appurtenances, provided with well, cistern and privy, standing and situated in 't Proevenhuis, running in front from the street (Schilcampen) to the town wall at the back" at Franeker, which he had rented, as appears from the following entry:

> Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franeker.
> 20 Dec. 1697 (registered 10 May 1699): "Albartus Voogd with his wife and Taco Hartog with his wife sell to the honourable Douwe Sickes, Vroetsman (town councillor), and Gretske Tjeerds, married couple, likewise there (at Franeker), a certain fine dwelling and excellent garden with appurtenances, provided with well, cistern and privy, standing and situated here in 't Proevenhuis, running in front from the street to the town wall at the back, inhabited by Dr. Sixtus Greydanus as tenant, having Secretary Jeltinga and Minck Jacobs to the East and Foppius Garrema to the West as neighbours."

Dr. Sixtus Greydanus seems to have been in poor financial circumstances. According to the following he was assessed in 1689 for a property of 550 gulden, and he repeatedly borrowed money, whether or not together with his wife, at the end of his life even pledging his salary:

> Telting-Archive.
> N[o] 1404. Assessment of the wealth of the inhabitants of Franeker for the 100th penning in the year 1689.
> "East. Dr. (Sixtus) Greydanus (declaration 400) assessment 550— amount to be paid 5—10—0."
> Hypotheekboek of Franeker.
> "23 June 1694 (registered 8 January 1697) Sixtus Greidanus, Med. Doct. and conrector of the school at Franeker, and Kunneke Gerryts, married couple in Franeker, owe 50 car.gl. to Mr. J. van Jeltinga with his wife;
> 9 October 1694 (registered 8 January 1697) Sixtus Greydanus, Med. Doct., owes 50 cargls to Mr. Julius Jeltinga with his wife;
> 6 August 1695 (registered 9 January 1697) Sixtus Greidanus, Med. D[r] and Conrector in Franeker, owes 100 car.gl. and 15 of the same gulden in interest for 3 years to Hard Wijck Theunis, present wife of Sijbe Agges, master borat-weaver in Franeker;
> 23 May 1697 (registered 21 July 1697) Dr. Sixtus Greydanus, Medicinae D[r] and Conrector, and Cuineke Gerryts, married couple in Franeker, owe 300 car.gl. to Gerloff Sipkes (Baarda), at present residing in the said town, at 5%. In which deed the following clause occurs: "and in particular the creditor is hereby assigned to the vroedtsman Taco Yskes Jelgersma, as the present ecclesiastical receiver, from whose hands the co-debtor Sixtus > Greidanus receives his salary, so that every quarter of a year, to be reckoned from St. Jacoby 1697, he shall enjoy, have, draw and receive the sum of 25 cargls."

Concerning the estate of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus we are informed by the following Inventory, occurring under N° 28 in the Estate Inventories (Portfolio J) of the Archive of the Senatus Judicialis of the University at Franeker:

> "On 12 May 1698. Sealing carried out at the house of the deceased Dr. Greydanus, in his lifetime conrector of the Latin school here, before Mr. Commissioner Suffridus Westerhuis, also Deputy of the States of this province, in the presence of us, Eleck W. Ates and court messenger P. Pijtterzon, as substitutes of the said Mr. Commissioner and Secretary Julius a Jeltinga
> 2 seals on a confer . . . . . f
> 2 ditto on the pulpitrum . . . . . f
> The bookcase left unsealed and the books counted at f 114—
> In witness of us the undersigned.
> (signed) W. Ates Abs. Sec.
> (On the back): Sealing at the house of the deceased Dr. Sixtus Greijdanus 1698.

> Inventory and Resve description made at the house of the deceased Dr. Sixtus Greijdanus, in his lifetime Conrector of the Scholae trivialis, in the presence of the honourable Commissioner Suffridus Westerhuis, also Deputy State of this province, associated with the Secretary Julius à Jeltinga, at the request of his creditors, of all such goods, movables and household effects as were found in the aforesaid house of the deceased, on this day, 19 May 1698.

[in the heading above, "Resve" is printed with an overline]

A bed and bolster	1 pair of gloves	2 towels
three pillows	2 hats	3 knitted caps
1 Japanese blanket	1 mourning band	2 napkins
2 white blankets	black night gown	1 bolster cover
2 green curtains and valance	1 pair of leather underbreeches	8 neckcloths
a ditto mantelpiece cloth	1 serge undervest	nine handkerchiefs,[6] white
2 blue bedspreads	1 black muff	2 coloured cloths
5 chairs	some old undergarments of little importance	2 undervests
4 chair cushions	1 tin can	4 sheets
1 table	A copper coffee kettle	1 bolster cover
a writing desk with a stand	a barrel half full of old books and waste paper	3 pillowcases
a small chest with some odds and ends	a cloak stick	1 box with salve
a tea rack[1] with ten little cups and 12 little saucers	a lamp	a plush cap
1 canister[2]	a beer can	In the writing desk.
1 small teapot	3 pipe baskets with waste paper	1 pewter inkwell
2 tin tea caddies	1 black grogram[4] cloak	2 pairs of shoes
1 rummer and a small flask with silver	1 black c/loth/ coat	1 pair of slippers
eight prints with frames	1 ditto	some manuscripts
1 small mirror	1 coloured c/loth/ coat	ten caroli gulden in money
1 comb case with 2 combs etc.	1 ditto camisole	some bottles
1 hourglass	1 coloured undervest	The bookcase.
1 tobacco box	1 pair of black c/loth/ breeches	on the first shelf 24 books
1 copper chafing dish	1 shaving cloth	on the second shelf 25 ditto
1 clothes brush	1 pair of white hose[5]	on the third shelf 25 ditto
1 brass[3] candlestick	2 coloured little window curtains	on the fourth shelf 19 ditto
1 ditto snuffer	5 fluttering neckcloths	on the fifth and last shelf 19 ditto
two small tin coffee kettles with taps	2 long neckcloths	1 fire screen
1 tin canister	1 ditto	1 pair of tongs
2 knives	2 white undervests	1 rope hook
1 penknife	1 white little tray	1 cover
the hat case	9 men's shirts	1 hearth brush
a new hat	6 neckcloths	Some shelves for the bookcase in the attic
1 pair of black hose	5 pocket handkerchiefs	a cane

> Thus done, inventoried and described on this day, the 19th of May 1698. In witness whereof we the undersigned."

Of Sixtus Greydanus a printed Latin poem has been preserved, which he composed as a student on the occasion of the death of his fellow student Buma. The poem lies in one of the 5 folio portfolios N° 1096, which are kept in the Provincial Library at Leeuwarden (see page 428 of the Systematischen Catalogus. Vervolg, Leeuwarden 1897). The poem is printed on a small leaf of paper, of which a reproduction accompanies page 223. On the reverse of the leaf a similar poem by Gajus Andreae is printed.

Below follows the poem with a translation of it in prose by myself:

(Latin)
"The face of things has changed, I can tell you:
Take up the triumphal garments, venerable comrade,
Put off now the mourning cloak, so the times demand;
Now the spirit has taken up again the strength formerly lost,
And so you will be able to resume your suspended labours,
And to spend whole days and whole nights
In study; and thus draws near that long-desired

The aspect of things has changed, I may well tell you: take the triumphal garment, honoured comrade; put off now the mourning robe, so the time demands. Now your soul has taken up again the strength formerly lost, and so you will be able to resume the suspended labour and to spend whole days and nights in study; and soon draws near that so long awai-

[1] probably a small rack.

[2] tin box.

[3] brass

[4] greyn = a kind of silk.

[5] stockings.

[6] pocket handkerchiefs.

[the Latin verse and its Dutch translation are printed side by side in two columns]

(Latin)
That day, on which you will teach us with learned mouth, what the reason is, why at fixed times the wave of the sea returns to the shore, why the sands of the beach are laid bare for us, if the sea leaves the shores.
May dreadful mourning be absent, and let groans be put to flight, let gladness be present, let joys pervade the minds:
I cease to speak further, may a companion adorn you with praises, for which my very languid Muse is not equal, I shall be silent.
For his companion and once fellow housemate this was set down by Sixtus Greydanus
Med. Stud.

awaited day, on which with your learned mouth you shall teach what the reason is that the sea water at fixed times returns to the beach, — that the sand of the shore becomes dry when the sea leaves the beach. May dreadful mourning be absent, and sorrow be banished, may there be gladness, and may joy pervade the minds: I cease to speak further, may your companion adorn you with praise, for which my sluggish Muse gives no strength, I shall be silent.
For his companion and former housemate this was written by Sixtus Greydanus
Med. Stud.

Concerning him one finds on page 483 of E. L. Vriemoet's "Athenarium Frisicarum" a few notes, which have already been communicated on pages 175/176.

In the Banga-Archief kept in the Municipal Archive of Franeker it is stated under I N^{o} 19*a* that Sixtus van Greidanus was born at Franeker 28 November 1657, became Med. Doctor in 1683, was appointed on 11 July [1] 1684 Conrector of the School at Franeker at a salary of f 300.— and died 12 Aug^{s} [2] 1698.

Dr. Sixtus Greydanus thus died at Franeker on 12 May 1698 and, according to a family note, is said to have been buried at Dongjum.

MARRIED:

CUNNEKE (KUNNEKE, CUINEKE) GERRYTS (GERRITS, GERRITHS), possibly a daughter of Gerrit Jans and Kenu Cornelis, 7 April 1689 at Schalsum.

The marriage entries read:

1°. at Franeker in the Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation 1680—1732:

"(Anno 1689) 12. The 17th of March 18: Sixtus Greidanus Doctor of Medicine and Conrector of the town of Franeker and Kunneke Gerrits both residing in Franeker.
On the 31st ditto attestation taken out.
fees 5 gl."

2°. at Franeker in the Register of marriage notifications to the Court:

"(1689) Ordinary session 16 March 1689 before
Vice-President Sioerd Obbes Winsemius

> Sixtus Greidanus Doctor of Medicine and Conrector of the town of Franeker and Kunneke Gerrijts both residing in Franeq. are granted their marriage proclamations by the Court as above. [3] "

3°. at Schalsum in the Register of Members, Baptisms and Marriages of the Dutch Reformed congregation kept by the minister:

> "On 3 April 1689, after production of good attestation, were confirmed in the married state Sixtg Greidanüs doctor of medicine and Cünneke Gerrits unmarried young woman, both of Franeker."

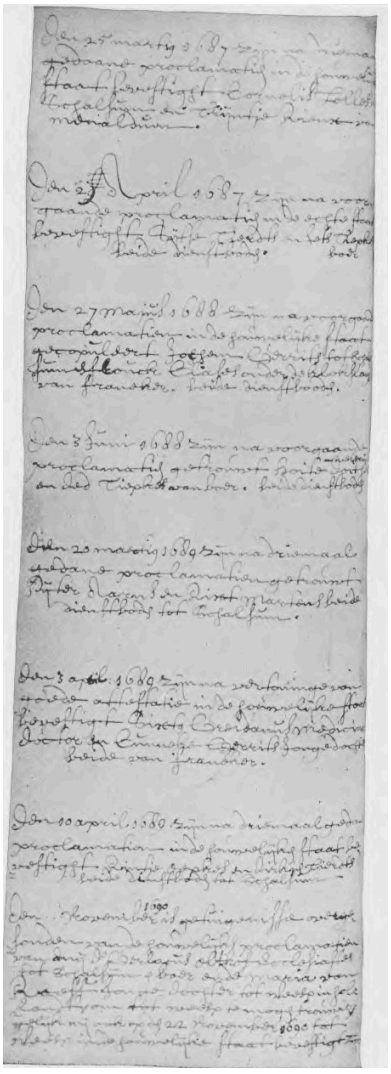
This entry, reproduced on the reverse side, and this confirmation of marriage were performed by the minister at Schalsum Ds. Gerlacus Joh[s] Olthoff, who was a brother of the first wife (Aafke Olthoff) of Dr. Sixtus Greidanus' brother Ds. Tjardus Greidanus, the minister at Achlum and Hitsum. This is probably the reason that the marriage was not concluded at Franeker, but at Schalsum.

Kunneke Gerrits is possibly a daughter of Gerrit Jans and Kenŭ Cornelis. This mar-

[1] Which must be 11 June, see page 223.

[2] According to the foregoing this must be 12 May.

[3] In connection with the foregoing this must mean: "of the town of Franeker by these presents".



Page, with the marriage entry dated 3 April 1689 of Dr. Sixtg Greidanús and Cúnneke Gerrits, from the Register of Members, Baptisms and Marriages of the Reformed Congregation of Schalsum (slightly reduced).

couple came to Franeker in 1643 in July before Jacobi with attestation, according to the following entry in the Membership Book of the Dutch Reformed Congregation there:

> "In the year 1643 in July before Jacobi > with attestations:
> Gerrit Jans and > Kenù Cornelis his wife", while Gerrit Jans/en/ on 6 September 1651 at Franeker had a child "Kenù" baptized, as appears from the following entry in the Franeker Reformed Baptismal Book.

> "1651.
> On 6 September Gerrit Jansen has > a child baptized named Kenù."

Possibly this entry then concerns Kunneke Gerrits, the wife of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus.

Kunneke Gerrits became a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker on 17 April 1686, as follows from the following entry in the Membership Book:

> "1686.
> on 17 April
> were received
> upon their confession of faith
> . . . . . .
> 13. Kunneke Gerriths } unmarried women."

The date of her death is not known; in any case it must have been after 23 May 1697, when her name was still found in the mortgage deed of that date (see page 225).

CHILDREN:

1. Itje Greydanus, who follows under number: 19.
2. Gerhardus Greydanus, who follows under number: 20.
3. Jancke Greydanus, who follows under number: 21.
4. Jo/h/annes Greydanus, who follows under number: 22.
5. Gerardus Greydanus, who follows under number: 23.
6. Gerardus Greydanus, who follows under number: 24.

---

7 ELISABETH (ELIZABETH, ELISABET, ELIJSABET) GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

She was born at Franeker 21 July 1660 (see E. L. Vriemoet "Athenarum Frisiacarum" page 483) and was baptized there 25 July following, as appears from the following baptismal entry:

> "On 25 July 1660.
> Professor Greidanus has a child baptized named Elijsabet."

On 28 October 1676 she became a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker, where in the Membership Book one finds recorded:

> "1676.
> On 28 October.
> Upon their confession of faith
> . . . . . .
> Elizabeth Greidanus unmarried woman."

On 10 March 1678 she came with good attestation to Achlum and Hitzum, where her brother Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, who had been called there as minister on 4 February before, entered the following in the Membership Book:

> "In the year 1678. On 10 March, at the first com> munion, to which may the Lord further be pleased > to grant His blessing, there came with good attestation > to this congregation > departed Elizabeth Greidanus unmarried woman from > Franeker."

Possibly she came to Achlum to keep house for her brother.

Elisabeth Greydanus died at Sexbierum 14 September 1703. The date of this death is taken from a family note, which agrees with an entry dated 15 December 1712 in Part 14 of the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker, which entry is included on page 304. For according to this deed, the curator Ds. Tjardus Greydanus took up his financial administration over a little daughter left behind by Elisabeth Greydanus on 14 September 1703. That she died at Sexbierum follows from the account included on pages 304/305 from the Accounts of Curators, Wonseradeel Q 1.

Her estate appears from the following entry in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Barradeel:

> "26 September 1703. Inventory and respective description made, after preceding sealing, at Sexbierum in the house of the deceased, the late Elisabeth Greydanus, formerly widow of the late Joannes Anthonides, in his lifetime schoolmaster there, in the presence of the honourable Sjoucke Eelckes Gerelsma (Gerroltsma), mede Rechter (co-judge) over Barradeel and Commissioner appointed thereto by the Court here, associated with Mr. Mathijs van Idsinga, Secretary of the aforesaid Deel, at the request of the Reverend and godly Ds. Theardus Greydanus V.D.M. in the village of Achlum, full uncle on the mother's side and authorized curator over Trijntie Joannes Antonidi, in her 10th year, an orphan child left behind by the above-mentioned late Elisabet Greydanus and the late Jan Antonides, in the presence of Jucke Feyckes and Lucas Reijners, both schoolmasters and uncles by marriage, together with advocates for the aforesaid pupil, residing at Terzool and Oosterwierum respectively, and that of all such goods, > household effects and movables, linen and woollen, silver and gold, bed and bedding, deeds and instruments, debts due and owing, as were found in the aforesaid house of the deceased, the declaration being made by Marycke Antonides, full aunt of the aforementioned pupil, who under oath taken in the hands of the aforesaid Commissioner promised to do everything in uprightness, without knowingly concealing anything."

Among the deeds and "instruments" of this inventory there follows further:

> A Landtschapsobligatie (provincial bond), dated 14 September 1666, standing in the name of the late professor Greydanus, in his lifetime the pupil's late grandfather; amounting in capital to 400 cargl., having fallen to her late mother's share by agreement in the respective division and partition of 2 April 1695 on account of paternal goods, thus 400—.—.
> An obligation upon Lucas Reyners, schoolmaster at Oosterwierum, the pupil's uncle by marriage, on which there still remains in capital 25.—.—
> A Reversael brieff (counter-deed), to the charge of Sybren Clases[1] (Latin) with his wife, at Franeker, on which there is still outstanding the last instalment, due 1 May 1700, amounting to 53 cargl. 6 strs 10 penn., of which one half belongs to the original requirant, the pupil's curator Ds. Theardus Greydanus, in his own name, and the other half in the aforesaid capacity 26—13—5
> A memorandum, together with a note of the profitable assets which at the death of the pupil's late mother's first husband were at that time found in the house of the deceased.
> An agreement, transaction and respective liquidation, drawn up and confirmed between the pupil's late mother and her brothers concerning their late parents' estate, dated 5 April 1695.
> Copy, Account, Proof and remainder rendered by Mr. Professor Matheus Senior, with some documents pertaining thereto, concerning his Honour's administration held from the month of November 1668 until November 1690 of the goods left by Mr. Professor Greydanus.
> A very fine house and garden, standing and lying on 't Nieuwwerck at Franeker, being rented by Dr. de Jongh V.D.M. in de Knijpe, which house belongs one half to the pupil and the other half to her curator in his own name, yielding for the whole yearly in rent 57 cargl. free money."

Furthermore there follows, among other things, under the heading "Liabilities":

> "Hiske Steenkist claims for book debt 7—15—. in which something is due to the profit of the pupil." etc.

From this inventory one might conclude that Elisabeth Greydanus was not without means.

MARRIED:

1⁰ GERRYT DOUWES, between 28 January 1676 and 14 October 1682.

This marriage follows from both of the following notes by Ds. Tjardus Greydanus in the Rekeningboek der Kerkvoogdij van Achlum (Kerkeboek van den Dorpe Achlum 1564—1719. Hernieuwd 1817): fol. 81:

> "Anno 1682.
> "On the same date (6 December) received from Elizabeth > Greydanùs, widow of Mr. Gerryt Doù> wes, for the bell-ringing of > Frans Lùbberts. 2— 0—0"

and fol. 90:

> "Anno 1682.
> On 6 December given to Elizabeth Greyda> nùs, widow of Mr. Gerryt Doùwes, for [1] In 1698 he had bought from Ds. Tjardus Greydanus and his sister Elisabeth, for 160 Cargl. (that is three times the amount of the stated instalment of 53 Car.gl. 6 strs. 10 penn.), the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh onwards on "de Greyde" at Franeker (see page 101).

Folio written in his own hand on 30 November 1680 by Gerrijt Doúwes, Schoolmaster at Achlúm, from the Rekeningboek der Hervormde Kerkvoogdij van Achlum (somewhat reduced).

> money laid out for various things used for the Church and School and set out in the specification, by receipt with > q. 16 2—17—0."

From the designation Mr. Gerryt Douwes and the payment to Elisabeth Greydanus of money for "things used for the Church and School" it can already be inferred that Gerryt Douwes was Schoolmaster at Achlum. This is confirmed on fol. 77 anno 1680 of the said Kerkeboek, where we find the handwriting of Gerryt Douwes, the signature of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus and the signature: "Gerrijt Doùwes

> Schoolmaster at > Achlùm
> 26."

A reproduction of this folio is included herewith.

The number 26 in the flourishes beneath the signature of Gerryt Douwes probably means that he was then 26 years old, so that he would then have been born about 1654.

On 28 January 1676 Gerryt Douwes was, after a preceding confession of faith, baptized at Achlum and became a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation, according to the two entries below:

Baptismal register of Achlum and Hitzum:

> "1676. On the 28th of January there was baptized on the confession > of his faith Gerrijt Douwes, > Schoolmaster in Achlum."

Register of members of Achlum and Hitzum:

"Anno 1676. On the 28th of January there were, after a preceding confession of faith and examination, admitted to the communion of our Church.
. . . . . .
Gerryt Douwes, Schoolmaster in Achlum."

Gerryt Douwes must have died before 6 December 1682, since, according to the above, Elisabeth Greydanus was then his widow. The sum of 2 Caroli guilders which the widow Elisabeth Greydanus had to pay to the Church on 6 December 1682 for the ringing of the bell by Frans Lubberts will have related to the ringing of the church bell at the funeral of her husband Gerryt Douwes, the Schoolmaster at Achlum. As appears from the following, Gerryt Douwes was still alive on 11 August 1681 and his widow remarried on 14 July 1683, so that Gerryt Douwes must have died between 11 August 1681 and 6 December 1682.

Concerning Gerryt Douwes the following notes have further been found:

in the Church wardens' account book of Achlum:

"1678. To Mr. Gerrit Douwes on account of clothes bought for Rintie Wybes at the auction of Jetse Jilderts, according to receipt with litt. N the sum of 6—11—0
To Mr. Gerrit Douwes on account of various items, such as for the making of the grave of Hette Jans, for the fetching and paying of lime and sand for the Schoolmaster's house and on account of some other services, according to receipt with Lit. O the sum of 7— 3—0 To Mr. Gerryt Douwes on account of his salary, according to receipt with lit. P the sum of 2— 6—0
Anno 1681.
On the same date (11 August) paid to Mr.
Gerryt Douwes on account of the hodman's work at the tower, according to receipt with M 30— 7—0 on the same date to Mr. Gerryt Douwes paid for a wooden bucket 0— 8—0"

2° JOANNES (JOHANNES, JAN) ANTONIDES (ANTONII) VAN BOEC/K/HOLT OR BOEC/K/HOLT/, 14 July 1683 at Pingjum, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed marriage register of Pingjum and Zurich 1668—1690:

"(1683) On 1 July the banns were announced of Johannes Antonii, Secretary of the Gulden Halsband and schoolmaster at Pinjum, and Elisabet Greidanus at Achlum, and they went on three consecutive Sundays without impediment, and on 14 July they were married."

Johannes Antonides was a son of Mr. Antonius Gerardi van Boecholt and Trijntje Jansdr..

He was baptized at Wirdum on 18 December 1653, as follows from the entry below in the baptismal, marriage and members' register of the Reformed Congregation of Wirdum (1622—1734), kept by the minister:

"(A° 1653)
On the 18th ditto (December) the child of M^r^ Antonius Gerardi van Boecholt was baptized and was named Jan."

The name of the wife of Mr. Antonius Gerardi van Boecholt is taken from the lists of members of Wirdum occurring in the said register, in which one finds:

"(A° 1647)
On the same ditto (14 March) there came to us with good attestation from Oosterwierum Mr. Antonius Gerardi van Boecholt and Trijntie Jansdr, spouses."

In this same old Wirdum church register one also finds that Mr. Antonius Gerardi van Boecholt was notaris publicus (notary public). For indeed, in that capacity his handwriting and signature occur on 9 April 1651. On that date he declared, as Nots. Publ., that the church register, not only as regards baptisms but also as regards marriages and members, agreed with the old church register at Wirdum. He had therefore evidently copied it. In view of this work and of the prefix "Mr." to his name, the supposition readily arises that he was a schoolmaster, a function which was often combined with that of bookkeeper of the Church. This supposition is confirmed by a deed dated 8 September 1677, entered on 22 November 1680 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Barradeel, which relates to a number of school servants, among whom A. Gerardi van Boecholt, Not. Publ..

In the list of Frisian notaries at the back of the booklet by S. Koopmans: "Het Notariaat in Friesland vóór 1811" he occurs on page 174 as: "Anthonius Ruardi van Boickholt, living at Wirdum". According to that list his appointment as notary was entered on 28 November 1650 in the Registry of the Court.

As appears from his marriage entry, Johannes Antonides {(van) Boeckholt} was Secretary "of the Gulden Halsband" and schoolmaster at Pingjum. The Pingjumer Gulden Halsband is the name of the dike which begins on the seaward side near the village of Surich, surrounds the villages of Pingjum and Witmarsum like a band, and joins the Marnedijk. It seems to have been a special protection of the villages of Pingjum and Witmarsum against the sea water, so that "De Gulden Halsband" will formerly have been regarded as a sea-defending (dike) waterschap. This purpose has now lapsed; it is now an ordinary inner dike.

Joannes Antonides (van) Boeckholt was schoolmaster at Pingjum until November 1693; after this he became schoolmaster at Sexbierum, where he was also dorprechter (village judge).

On 19 June 1681 he was already schoolmaster at Pingjum.

He is found in the account book of the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) of Pingjum (1680—1714), in which the payment of his salary repeatedly occurs as an expenditure of the Kerkvoogdij. In this account book he is called Mr. Joannes or Mr. Jan, Mr. J. Antonii and finally Mr. Joannes Antonides. His salary was paid to him each quarter, namely: at Candlemas (2 February), at the beginning of May, at St. James (25 July) and at All Saints (1 November). The salary amounted to 37-10-0 per quarter. The first entry concerning him that is found in the said book reads:

> "(1681)
> 19 June for a hearth-iron for Mr. Joannes 2— 1—0" and then follows:

> "19 Febr. 1682 to Mr. Joan-> nes $^{1}/_{4}$ year's salary due at Candle> mas 1682 37—10—0"

As further examples, the following entries concerning this:

"(1684)
To Mr.: J: Antonii $^{1}/_{4}$ year's salary, due May 1684 37—10—0"
"(1689)
Numero To Mr. Joannes Antonides $^{1}/_{4}$ year's 13. salary due at Candlemas 1689, amounting to . . . . . 37—10—0"
of 15 Febr. 1689.

The last entry concerning the payment of his salary is of All Saints 1693 and reads as follows:

"(1693).
On 5 Nov. paid to Mr. Jan the sum of thirty-seven guilders 10 for a quarter of a year's salary due at All Saints 1693, appears by receipt, last day of Nov. 37—10—0"

Concerning him the following entry is also found:

Expenditure 1691:

"To Mr. Joannes for the writing of letters, both to the ministers of the Classis and to candidates to preach, and for carriage charges laid out, together 7— 5—0
According to receipt with 3 F."

That Johannes Antonides {(van) Boeckholt} left Pingjum as schoolmaster in November 1693 may further appear from the following expenditures entered in 1694:

"On 8 Febr. paid out to Mr. Jacob Symens Schoonmaaker for $^{1}/_{4}$ year that he has looked after the clock of Pinium, undertaken
when there was no schoolmaster, thus 12— 9—0 with receipt
N° 2"
"On 9 Febr. paid out to notary Scheerhagen for the costs incurred over the voting for a new schoolmaster thus 9— 2—0
With receipt
N° 3"
"on the 12th ditto (February) paid out to Mr. D. Simonides for his church as well as other village services when there was no schoolmaster at Pinium, with receipt 20— 0—0"

The successor at Pingjum of Mr. Johannes Antonides (van) Boeckholt was Bosscha (probably Ulr.), who was appointed in February 1694. The first entry concerning the payment of his salary reads:

"(1694) on 9 May paid out to the schoolmaster Bosscha for $^1/_4$ year of both school and church services, due May 37—10—0 with receipt N° 11"

That Johannes Antonides {(van) Boeckholt}, the second husband of Elisabeth Greydanus, after having been schoolmaster at Pingjum, became schoolmaster at Sexbierum, is proved by the following entries:

the baptismal entries at Sexbierum on 30 May 1696, 28 April 1698 and 11 September 1701 of children of Mr. Antonides;

the entries already cited on p. 101 in the Franeker proclamatieboek (register of property sales) and in the Franeker protocol book dated 25 November (2) 25 December 1698, whereby Ds. Tjardus Greydanus at Achlum and Elisabeth Greydanus, wife of Mr. Joannes Antonides at Sexbierum, each for one half and jointly for the whole, sell to Sybren Claessen, married to Maycke Bouwes, at Franeker, the well-known "Greydanus house" on "de Greyde" there (the 8th house from the Nauwe Steegh);

the entry in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship authorisations) of Barradeel d.d. 20 September 1703, reproduced on page 304, in which mention is made of "Joannes Antonides in his lifetime schoolmaster at Sexbierum".

That Johannes Antonides at Sexbierum was also Dorprechter (village judge) may appear from the Floreencohier (land-tax register) of Sexbierum of 1700, which is signed as Dorprechter by J. Antonides.

The names of Mr. Jan Antonides and Elysabeth Greydanus occur in an extract from the Boelgoedboek (register of public auctions) of the Secretary of Barradeel, quoted in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Barradeel d.d. 28 Nov. 1703, stating some conditions "upon which and other conditions

Zacharias Evouts[1] at Sexb. has bought at Ype Tjeerds' public sale
(9 items) to a total amount of		8—23—..
Mr. Jan Antonides hembrock	4—..—..	4—..—..
at Sybren Pytters': pontjer[2]	— 6—
saddle	—18—		..—24—..
at Elisabet Greydanus': 2 white curtains	—17—
bedsheet	1—22—
wytlingh	.—26—
in addition a pair of breeches	1—26—
man's shirt	—26—		6— 5—..
18 pondemaat of land rented from Mr. Sprongh owner S. Jacobs for			39— 4— 8 59—..— 8 goudgulden
purchase money			2— 3—..
			61— 3— 8" .

According to a family note Johannes Antonides died 4 April 1703, probably in his place of residence Sexbierum. This agrees with the entry just mentioned, reproduced on page 304, d.d. 20 September 1703 in the Authorisatieboek of Barradeel, which relates to the appointment of a curator over Trijntje, "little daughter of the late Elysabeth Greydanus and lawfully begotten by the late Johannes Antonides, in his lifetime schoolmaster at Sexbierum".

On page 228 it is mentioned that Jucke Feyckes, schoolmaster at Terzool, and Lucas Reiners (who in 1698 signs the stemcohier (register of voting farms) of Oosterwierum as: Lucas Regnerij), schoolmaster at Oosterwierum, were uncles by marriage of the little daughter of Johannes Antonides, and that Marijcke Antonides was a full aunt of that little daughter. Jucke (Joeke) Feickes was namely married to this Marijcke (Maria) Antonides, while Lucas Reiners was first married to Pyttertie Harmens and later to Antie Anthonii Boeckholt, which appears from an inventory d.d. 1 May 1696 included in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Baarderadeel, concerning this Lucas Reiners. The family relationship is shown in the following chart "/van/ Boecholt":

none [the right-hand column of the chart is cut off by the right page edge] - Mr. Antonius Gerardi (van) Boecholt — Notaris publicus and Schoolmaster at Wirdum. - ⚭ Trijntje Jansdr. - Dirckien Antonii (van) Boecholt — Bapt. Wirdum 12 Nov. 1648. Came to Wirdum 17 Nov. 1678 with certificate from Pingjum. Married Wirdum 1682. - ⚭ Doitse Karstis - Marijcke/Maria/ Antonii (van) Boecholt — bapt. Wirdum 3 Aug^{s}. 1651 "5 days old". 18 Febr. 1683 member at Wirdum. - ⚭ Jucke Feickes — Schoolmaster at Terzool. - Joannes (Jan) Antonii (van) Boecholt — bapt. Wirdum 18 December 1653. Schoolmaster, first at Pingjum, afterwards at Sexbierum. - ⚭ II Elisabeth Greydanus - ⚭ I Gerrit Douwes — Schoolmaster at Achlum. - Baefke Antonii (van) Boecholt — bapt. Wirdum 7 December 1656. - Antie Ant[illegible] (continues off sheet, right) — (van) Bo[illegible] bapt. Wi[illegible] January 166[illegible] May 168[illegible] schoolm[illegible] Wirdum [illegible] men. 7 N[illegible] with cert. [illegible] came in[illegible] - ⚭ Lucas Reiners — Schoolmaster at Oosterwierum. - ⚭ I Pyttertie Harmens

[1] family name: Æsgema.

[2] pole, to press down the load of hay or grain sheaves on the wagon and hold it together.

For the sake of completeness let it be mentioned here that a family coat of arms is known of a family "van Boeckholt", originating from the "Land van Utrecht". The heraldic description of this coat of arms is as follows:

black with three silver columns, 2 and 1

or

silver with three black columns, 2 and 1

Crest: a black column in front of a silver pair of wings.

CHILDREN:

From the 2nd marriage:

1. Trijntie Joannesdochter {(van) Boecholt}, who follows under number: 25.
2. Gerrijt Joanneszoon {(van) Boecholt}, who follows under number: 26.
3. Ytie Joannesdochter {(van) Boecholt}, who follows under number: 27.
4. Ytie Joannesdochter {(van) Boecholt}, who follows under number: 28.

---

8 DS. PETRUS GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 2 ← Johannes 11

He was born at Franeker 20 September 1665 (see E. L. Vriemoet "Athenarum Frisiacarum") and baptized there 24 September following, according to the entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker:

> "On the 24th (September 1665)
> Professor Greydanus has a child baptized named Petrus."

In a will dated 11 May 1679 of his father's cousin by marriage Agge Romckes, who namely was married to a daughter of Pieter Bockes' brother Sydse Bockes and at Dronrijp practised the occupation of skipper, merchant and "armefoeghd" (overseer of the poor), a legacy of 100 Caroli gulden was assigned to him. This appears from an Inventarisation occurring in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Menaldumadeel dated 22 May/25 January 1682 of all the goods, both movable and immovable, claims, credits, entitlements, none excepted, left behind by Aege Romckes and Trijntie Sydses, in their time husband and wife, deceased, in which inventarisation among the liabilities of the estate the following item occurs (see page 97):

> "Petrus Greydanus is due by virtue of the aforesaid Testament (that was the testamentary disposition of the late Aegge Romckes dated 11 May 1679) the sum of 100 ℔, herewith on account of $^{1}/_{4}$ of a year's interest at 1 ℔ 5 st.
> 101—5—."

He came to the Franeker Academy on 30 August 1683, concerning which the following entries exist:

1° Album Academiae Franekeranae, which was kept by the Rector and is now preserved in the State Archives of Friesland:

> (Latin) "In the year MDCLXXXIII, Philippus Matthæus Sen., Doctor of Medicine > and Professor, being Rector Magnificus for the third time, the following declared their names > among the citizens of the Academy:
> on the same day (30 Aug.) Petrus Greidanus of Franeker, > student of theology, son of professor Greidanus."

2° Album of the Franeker Academy, in which the students themselves entered their name and which is now present in the Provincial Library of Friesland at Leeuwarden:

> (Latin) "Under Rector P. Matthæus Sen. the following declared their names > in the year MDCLXXXIII: > on the same day (30 Aug). Petrus Greijdanus, Frisian, student of > theology. free of charge."

Further one finds concerning him in the first-mentioned album also:

> (Latin) "Review of Students. > done in the year 1683. (privately) 1684 (in the Academy) N.B. Petrus Greidanus of Franeker > " 1685 June Petr9 Greidan9 Franek. > student of philosophy (Privately reviewed)", while at the back of the register belonging to the Academic Archives "Diarium Academiae 25 Aug. 1664—16 April 1683" there is further written under the heading "Registration of the Apostilles:

> "On 6 May 1685
> there was approved in the Senatus Judicialis the Apostille (endorsement) for Petr Greydanus begun on 12 March 1684 and ended on 12 March 1685 last past"

"In the year 1685, on 4 November, the following apostilles were approved:
3. for Petrus Greydanus begun on 12
March 1685 and ended on 26 August 1685."

After that Petrus Greydanus appears to have exchanged the Franeker University for that of Groningen, at least one finds in column 125 of the "Album Studiosorum Academiae Groninganae", printed in 1915:

(Latin) "Under the Rector Wesselus Bertling 1685.
7 Sept. Petrus Greijdanus, Frisian, of Franeker."

Five years later, however, he was again enrolled at Franeker, as appears from the two following entries:

1° Album Academiæ Franekeranæ:

(Latin) "In the year 1690, under the Rector Jacobus Rhenferdius, the following declared their names among the citizens of the Academy:
Petrus Greidanus, Candidate for the Ministry."

2° Album of the Franeker Academy:

(Latin) "Under the Rector Jacobus Rhenferdius the following declared their names among the citizens of the academy, in the year CIↃIↃCXC ... in the month of September ...
Petrus Greydanus S. S. M. cand."[1]

He became a member of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker on 18 April 1685, according to the following entry in the Members' Register of that congregation:

"1685.
On 18 April were admitted
upon their confession of faith.
. . . . . .
4. Petrus Greidanus } students."

From the entry below in this Members' Register it appears that he stayed at the University of Groningen no longer than until the autumn of 1688:

"1688.
on 6 October were admitted upon attestation
Petrus Greidanus S. Min. Cand. from Groningen", from which it also follows that on 6 October 1688 he was already a Candidate in Theology.

It may further be mentioned here that a peculiar entry of the year 1683 concerning a "Pijter Greydanus" has come to light.

This entry stands on folio 108 of the account book of the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) of Achlum (Church book Achlum 1564—1719), where at that time Petrus Greydanus' eldest brother Ds. Tjardus Greydanus was minister, and reads as follows:

"Expenditure of the Church property
by Jacob Tiepkes
1683.
1. In the first place, on 21 December paid out to Pijter Greydanus for the cleaning of the clockwork 1—4—."

Whether by this "Pijter Greydanus" Petrus Greydanus is meant, who might for instance have lent his good offices to his brother Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, at that time minister at Achlum, in seeking someone who could clean the works of the church clock at Achlum, is not certain; in this period, however, no other Pijter Greydanus is known than the theological student Petrus Greydanus studying at Franeker.

Although Petrus Greydanus was thus already S.S. Min. Cand. on 6 October 1688, he was not until approved on 1 April 1695 [1] for Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp and on the 14th following installed in the Holy Ministry by D.D. B. Redding and D. Ruardi, ministers at Oenkerk and at Suidwolde respectively.

[1] Entered by himself.

In the Archive of the Dutch Reformed Church of the Classis Leeuwarden one finds the following entry concerning this:

> "1 April 1695. There was presented a certain Instrument of Call, made upon the person of D. Petrus Greijdanus, S. S. M. candidatus, delivered by the honourable Commissioners of the villages Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp, with a request for approbation, which, having been weighed by this honourable Classis in the fear of the Lord, was approved, in conformity with the Resolution of the Province, with the wish of the Lord's rich blessing, and as confirmatores were appointed: D. Bernardus Redding and D. Dominicus Ruardi, ministers at Oenkerk and Suwoude respectively."

On 22 April 1695 he became a member of the Classis, as appears from the following note in the Classical Archive:

> "22 April 1695. D. P. Greydanus, servant of the Holy Gospel at Ryperkerk c.a. has requested to be admitted as a member of the Classis, which was granted him by the honourable Classis, with the assignment of his seat."

In the said Archive one comes across the following entries concerning his appointments:

> As deputatus (deputy) of the classis:
> 4 October 1697. As deputati of the Classis have been appointed: for the East: D. Ruardi and D. Greijdanus.
> 3 October 1701. As deputati have been appointed from the east: D. D. Sterringa and Greidanus.
> 5 Oct. 1705. For the coming winter season there have been appointed as deputaten classis from the east: D. D. Greidanus and Renici.
> 4 Oct. 1706. As deputaten of the Classis there have been voted from the east: D. Broersma and D. Greidanus.
> 7 Oct. 1709. Named as deput. clas. Leov. from the east: D. Greidanus and D. Abbema.
> 2 October 1724. As deputaten of the classis for the coming winter there have been voted: from the east: D. Greidanus and D. Atsma.
> 2 October 1730. As deputati of the classis for the coming winter there have been appointed: from the east: Greidanus and Nauta.
> As deputatus synodi:
> 6 October 1704. 2. At the request of D. Greidanus in his capacity as Deput. Synodi to render his account of the widows' money, there have been appointed to audit the said account: D. D. Brink, Stellingwerf and Horreus.
> 6. The commissioned Brethren appointed in Article 2 for the auditing of the account of D. Deput. Greydanus have reported that the widows' money had been delivered there where it had to be delivered, whereupon both D. Greydanus (though now absent) was thanked for the good handling of the Vidualia and the Commissioners for the auditing of that account.
> As commissioner as (member of) the synod:
> 2 May 1707. Voted as commissioners ad Synodum: D.D. G. Hajonides and A. Eelarts, ministers at Belcum and Husum respectively, as primi; D^{o} D^{o} P. Greidanus and Y. Fennema, ministers at Rijperkerk and Leeuwarden respectively (as secundi).
> 16 April 1708. Elected as Commissioners for the coming Synod [2] as primi: D^{o} Petrus Greydanus, minister at Rijperkerk, and D. Joannes Winkler, minister at Weijdum; from the honourable elders: B. Knock, Raedt Ord^{s} (ordinary councillor) in the Court of Friesland, at Leeuwarden, and Hero Sterringa at Beers.
> As assessor of the classis:
> 2 March 1703. Assessor D. Pet. Greidanus.
> 31 March 1704. Assessor D. P. Greidanus.
> 4 August 1732. Assessor: D^{o} Petrus Greijdanus.
> As scriba (clerk) of the classis:
> 8 October 1703. Scriba D. P. Greydanus.
> 4 July 1707. Scrib. D. P. Greydanus.
> 7 July 1732. Scriba: Petr. Greijdano.
> As praeses (president) of the classis:
> 3 May 1728. For the coming meeting, which will be on the first Monday of the following month, the honourable Classis has elected: as Praeses: D^{nus} L. Posthumus, Primus; P. Greidanus, secundus.
> 7 June 1728. The time of the meeting was elected and fixed on the first Monday of the month of August, there having been appointed as Praeses: D^{o} Greidanus as Primus and D^{o} Renici as secundus.
> 2 August 1728. President: D^{o} P. Greidanus.

[1] There was probably at that time a fairly considerable surplus of candidates in Theology. Some therefore went so far as to accept the position of Rector, Conrector or teacher at the Latin Schools in the province. That a surplus may be assumed can appear from the facts, for example, that in Friesland in the year 1694 there were only 11 vacancies and no fewer than 45 Candidates, while in the following year 1695 these numbers were respectively 10 and 37. I therefore suspect that this surplus also played tricks on the Candidate Petrus Greydanus. See also the note on page 240.

[2] At this Synod a gravamen (formal complaint) was also submitted and defended by the Classis Leeuwarden, directed against the Socinians, who held their meetings under the cloak of Mennonitism. Should Ds. Petrus Greydanus perhaps be the father of this proposal adopted at the Synod, it is recalled that his father Prof. Johannes Greydanus, as has been related, had already worked on a criticism of the Catechismus van Rackouw, containing the Doctrine of the Socinians.

Furthermore, from the Archive of the Classis Leeuwarden the following notes, which relate to Ds. Petrus Greydanus, could be unearthed:

> "22 May 1702. A letter was submitted and read from their Noble Mighty Deputed States of Friesland, ordering that the preaching turns of D. Ruardi, minister at Suidwolde & Tietjerk (chosen by their Honours as army chaplain with the troops) should be taken over by the Classis as customary during his absence, whereupon the Classis voted D. Greidanum to assign the preaching turns in writing to the members of the Classis, beginning with the youngest and so on in order.
> 8 Sept. 1704. It came up concerning D^{nus} Greidanus that he had still not paid four widows in accordance with the promise made at the previous Classis, and it was thereupon resolved and charged to the Scriba to send him a short letter of admonition about it, to pay the widows, to render account at the coming Classis and to answer for himself in this matter.
> 1 Aug^{s} 1707. D. Greydanus, by order of the Church Council of Hardegarijp and Rijpperkerch, put before the Classis, since some people living within the district of his ministry had become members of the congregation of I: C^{ti} which assembles at Bergum and took communion in the said > place, whether the Classis did not judge it fair that all such ought not to take communion elsewhere than in the place within whose district they live, which by the Classis, in accordance with the resolution of the Province and of the Synod, was judged to be most proper.

> 24 April 1713. D. Greidanus put before the Assembly as a Quaeritur: how he should conduct himself regarding a person who desired to become a member of our congregation and was not himself sufficiently aware and assured whether he had received the holy covenant seal of Baptism or not. — And in this matter he was referred to the classical book, in order to learn from it how and in what manner in former times the Classis had resolved in such cases, and having ascertained this, then to act therein pro re natâ (see also page 238).
> 5 October 1716. (brief content) D. Greidanus, together with 5 other ministers from the Classis, appointed to investigate and report in the matter of the appeal of Mr. Tjebbinga, schoolmaster at Menaldum, against the Church Council there.
> 6 October 1721. D. D. Greidanus and Staphorstius appointed, with the charge to request the Grietman (district magistrate) Glinstra that he be pleased to issue at the earliest the announcement for a new call (to the vacant place at Bergum), provided that the Reverend assembly provisionally undertakes to perform the holy service there during the vacancy, though drawing the full salary for it.
> 24 November 1721. D. D. Greidanus and Staphorsius reported that the Honourable Mr. Glinstra (Grietman) thanked the Classis for its zeal and earnestness, was satisfied with its resolution, having given assurance that he would let the call proceed by Easter; desiring that the Classis take over all the preaching turns at Bergum, both ordinary and extraordinary.
> 5 October 1727. With regard to the deposition of D. Q. Adius at Oenkerk, it is decided that for the next 6 weeks the neighbours, and thereafter the Brethren beginning with the youngest, should perform the service there, and Greydanus is requested, when the 6 weeks have elapsed, to tell the Grietman so.
> 4 Oct. 1728. The elder and deacon of Hardegarijp requested that their minister D. Greydanus might preach as many times in their place as at Rijperkerk, which was being neglected by his Reverence, whereupon the Classis resolved that D. Greydanus shall at the next session produce his letter of call and at the same time prove with witnesses how his Reverence and his antecessores have performed the service before this, when the Classis shall decide this matter and settle it completely.
> 30 Mai 1729. D. Greydanus requested that his case mentioned in the previous acts might be settled, and the Classis, after investigation of the matter, judged that D. Greydanus was not obliged to preach twice at Harde-Garijp, leaving this to D. Greydanus himself: yet recommending his Reverence to contribute everything that may serve for the peace and edification of that congregation and to perform the service at the said place as far as lay in his power, without, however, being bound to preach twice at that place."

Ds. Petrus Greydanus died at Rijperkerk as minister of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp in January 1733, thus at the age of not yet 68 years. For the exact date of his death various statements are found, namely 21, 22 and 23 January. The sources from which these statements are taken will follow later, from which it will appear that the most probable date of his death is 22 January 1733.

As is stated in, for example, the Naamlijst of Ds. T. A. Romein to be mentioned hereafter (see page 121 under "1789. Jacobus Engelsma Mebius"), he was buried in the Church at Rijperkerk. At present, however, his gravestone is no longer to be found there, owing to the wearing away of the inscription, a consequence of walking over the gravestones as floor covering. In 1922, however, the minister of Rijperkerk wrote to me that one of his deacons was firmly convinced that a gravestone of Ds. Greydanus was present in the Church. In the spring of 1932 the gravestones were moved from their places because of subsidence, and a few slabs were turned over.

During his ministry Ds. Petrus Greydanus installed the following ministers in their service in villages situated near Rijperkerk, which is taken from: Ds. Martinus Laurman "Naamlijst der Eerw: Heeren Predikanten, dewelke zedert den tijdt der Reformatie tot in den jare 1751 den H. Dienst des Euangeliums, zo binnen de stad Leeuwarden als ten platten Lande in de Dorpen, behorende onder het Resort van de Eerw: Classis van Leeuwarden, hebben waargenomen." Leeuwarden 1751:

> July 1705, with D^{s} H. Renici, minister at Garijp: at Bergum: Johannes Noordbeek (Rud. fil.) (see Laurman page 122);
> August 1705 with Ds. H. Renici, minister at Garijp: at Suidwolde and Tietjerk: Durandus Duirsma (see Laurman page 129);
> September 1706 with Ds. Aeg. Broersma, minister at Oudkerk: at Oenkerk, Giekerk and Wyns: Rinso Abbema[1] (see Laurman page 131);
> October 1707 with Ds. H. Renici, minister at Garijp: at Bergum: Hildebrandus Mentes (see Laurman page 122);
> July 1723 with Ds. G. Nauta, minister at Oudkerk: at Oenkerk, Giekerk and Wyns: Quirinus Adius (see Laurman page 132);
> April 1728 with Ds. G. Nauta, minister at Oudkerk: at Oenkerk, Giekerk and Wyns: Petrus Steenhovius Posthma (see Laurman page 132);
> May 1729 with Ds. Ambr. Dorhout, minister at Garijp: at Bergum: Gerardus Couperus (see Laurman page 123).

In the Diaconie (deacons' poor relief) and Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) accounts of Rijpperkerk Ds. Greydanus is repeatedly mentioned. A sample of the entries in those accounts follows here:

> Diaconie accounts.
> "1699. On 27 December to domine Greidūs two years' pensie[2] 1698 and May 1699 due, at six car. gulden six stuivers a year, amounting to 12—12—.
> 1702. On 30 April paid to Mr. Jacob concerning the lying of the timber at the end of the domine's meadow and a board of the Nieuwerckt gate from the cooper, full berete and the grating, something for earth too much 0—4—8
> On the 27th of May paid to Siuwer Beerns for materials delivered and wages for labour at the house of domine Greydanus, according to specification and receipt with n^{o} 37 12—17—0
> On 3 July to domine Greydanus two years' pensie, due May 1700 and 1701, at six car. gulden six stuivers a year, amounting to 12—12—0" > Kerkvoogdij accounts.
> "1702. On 18 June received from D^{s} Greydanus and Focke Luytiens together seven car. gulden on account of four years' ground rent, issuing from the farm inhabited by the aforesaid Focke Luitiens and due May 1699, 1700, 1701 and 1702 respectively 7—.—.
> 1704. On 13 May received from Ds. Greydanus one gulden 15 stuivers, being the half of 2 years' ground rent of the parsonage farm inhabited by Focke Luitiens as tenant farmer, due May 1703, 1704 respectively 1—15—.
> On 8 June received from Focke Luitiens the other lawful half of the two years' ground rent up to May 1703 and 1704 respectively 1—15—.

> Expenditure.
> 1702. On 18 May paid to Ds. Greydanus six car. gulden 6 stuivers on account of one year's perpetual rent, due May 1702, according to receipt with n° 14. 6—6—.
> ditto, at the sale of the alder trees standing on the churchyard and elsewhere at Rijpperkerk, expended on strijkgeld (bidder's premium) two gulden 16 stuivers 2—16—."

In the archive kept by the minister at Rijpperkerk there is a Register containing the Acts of the church council of Rijpperkerk from 28 February 1734 to 11 January 1788, interspersed with membership lists of 1734 and of 1770, as well as diaconie accounts from 1721 to 1781. In these first diaconie accounts Ds. P. J. Greydanus still plays a part; not only does the closing statement of the accounts also bear his signature, but now and then his name occurs in them as well. Thus on 23 June 1723 there was paid to D. Greydanus the ground rent of the poor houses, due May 1722 and 1723 . . . . . 1—8—.

In the same account it is likewise recorded that "by order of D. Greydanus a diaconie book has been bought . . . . . 1—10—., a proof that the minister set store by a good administration of the diaconie moneys. He regularly had an amount of 1—10—. set aside for the "Guilikese or Paltse Kerk". His readiness to give appears from the item of expenditure of 2—.—. occurring in the account for the year 1724, which was given "by order of D^{nus} Greydanus" towards the building of a new Church in the Rotteval on 7 September 1724. From the year 1724 onward it appears from the heading of the account that the auditing took place at the house of Ds. P. J. Greydanus. The account which was adopted on 25 May 1732 bears his signature for the last time, and the account for 1733 gives an explanation of this absence by the following item of expenditure: On 16 September 1733 to Ymte Greydanus paid the ground rent of Gaats and Aalthe muy huys (poorhouse) 1—8—.

[1] Apparently the same as mentioned on page 206.

[2] in this case means rent.

Ymte had thus collected the ground rent on behalf of his father, who had meanwhile died.

Leaving the biographical dictionaries out of consideration, we find the following about Ds. Petrus Greydanus in the printed records.

1°. "Boekzaal der Geleerde Waerelt":

> 1733 p. 244, vol. 1.
> (February). "Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp vacant, since D. Petrus Greidanus died here on 23 January, leaving a widow with children, for whom the preaching service has to be performed[1]".
> and p. 380, vol. 2.
> (September) "Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp. Here D. Adrianus Oudtkerk, minister in de Rottevalle, has been called, and on the 8th of this month approved by the Classis; he will however not come over to this congregation before the ending of the gratiejaar[1], while meanwhile a dispute which has arisen between the two villages concerning the performing of the preaching turns will be decided by Their Noble Mightinesses."

2°. The Naamlijst of Ds. Martinus Laurman mentioned above. P. 130: (Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp):

> "1695. Petrus Johannis Greidanus S. S. M. Cand., approved on 1 April, confirmed in the holy ministry on the 14th of the same by D. D. B. Redding and D. Ruardi, ministers at Oenkerk and Suidwolde, and became a member of the Classis on 23 April. His Reverence was Deputatus Synodi in 1703, in 1708 member of the Synod at Harlingen, and died here on 21 January 1733, aged in his 68th year."

3°. The notes already reproduced on page 176 from E. L. Vriemoet "Athenarum Frisiacarum" p. 483.

Since the statement that Ds. Petrus Greydanus died on 22 January 1733 appears to be taken from the manuscript notes of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus which Vriemoet made use of, I think I may attach the greatest value to this date.

4°. Ds. T. A. Romein, Naamlijst der Predikanten, sedert de Hervorming tot nu toe, in de Hervormde Gemeenten van Friesland". Leeuwarden 1886.

> p. 120. (Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp).
> "1695. Petrus Johannes Greidanus, born at Franeker on 20 September 1665, son of Johannes, professor there, brother of Tjard at Achlum, candidate, confirmed on 14 April, in 1703 dep. Syn., in 1708 member of the Synod at Harlingen, and died on 21[2], 22[3], 23[4] January 1733.
> 2/ Laurman, p. 130 and according to Ds. S. D. v. Veen.
> 3/ Vriemoet, p. 483.
> 4/ Boekzaal 1733, p. 244." > and p. 121.
> "1789. Jacobus Engelsma Mebius ..... The ministers who died earlier are all buried in the church at Ryperkerk[2].

5°. Dr. S. Cuperus, "Kerkelijk leven der Hervormden in Friesland tijdens de Republiek". Second Part. Leeuwarden — Groningen 1920. P. 36. ["Leeuwarden" is printed above a rule and "Groningen" below it, as a fraction.]

> (Baptism and Lord's Supper)
> ".... Ds. Adrianus Pijn-Appel of Molkwerum, when in 1617 he asked how to deal with someone who desired to come to the Lord's Supper but did not know for certain whether he had been baptized — his own "conscience" and an old woman thought he had, his brother maintained he had not — received as answer that two ministers from his neighbourhood should first make a careful inquiry into the value of those testimonies, and that then one could act as the greatest edification of the church required; and Ds. P. J. Greidanus of Rijperkerk was, 100 years later[2], being in a similar difficulty, referred to the custom of the fathers, as this was to be dug up from the classis book. But already in 1604 the question whether persons who know nothing of their baptism could be admitted to the Lord's Supper without the administration of baptism was deemed weighty enough to > obtain upon it the judgement of the learned men of Franeker, and the Synod inclined to the opinion which that of 1611 was emphatically to express, namely that such persons ought indeed to be baptized; and when in the middle of the 17th century an unnamed minister from the Dokkum Classis asked whether someone who had long been a member, but of whom it later appeared that he had not been baptized, "must still receive the seal of the covenant in order to become a partaker of the comfort springing from it", he was answered without hesitation: yes."

From the entry given below in the archive of the Classis Leeuwarden it further appears that the widow of Ds. Petrus Greydanus, as has already been reported above, for a full year — the "annus gratiae" — enjoyed the full stipend, and that Ds. Petrus Greydanus was succeeded by Ds. A. Oudkerk, minister in de Rottevalle:

[1] A special form of vacancy was the gratiejaar, or better said the naejaer. The establishment of this arrangement, whereby the widows and orphans of ministers "for a full year, reckoned from the day of the death of the deceased, receive the parsonage revenues and profits, and also bear its burdens", is due to the Noble Mighty States, who called this form of vacancy into being by Resolution of 21 April 1598.

[2] As has already been reported on page 236.

> "7 September 1733. The calls of the villages of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp to the person of D. A. Oudkerk, minister in de Rottevalle, have been submitted, with the addition of a certain dispute between the villages concerning the preaching turns; the Honourable Classis, having considered the matter, approves the call in this manner, as being in conformity with the Ordinance of the Land, salvo jure pactium, and dismisses him from his present post, granting him leave to depart when the annus gratiae shall have ended, with the wish for the Lord's blessing."

The financial condition of Ds. Petrus Greydanus does not appear to have been brilliant. As appears from the following, he repeatedly borrowed money and was a poor payer:

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Tietjerksteradeel

> 4 April 1695 (registered 5 January 1704) "Petrus Greidanus, pastor in Ryperkerk and Hardegarijp, declare and acknowledge that I am truly indebted to the honourable Hans Gijselaar, printer to the Provincial Academy, and Antje Epes Bootzum, married couple in Franeker, in the sum of seven hundred Caroli guldens, the gulden at 20 stuivers each, on account of ready money advanced and books purchased, received by me, which sum I promise and undertake to repay to them or the holder of this deed in pure and countable money on 4 April 1696, and to bring up with four like guldens per hundred per year as interest for the use thereof, commencing 4 April 1695 and thereafter running until full payment, pledging herefor as mortgage and security all my goods, none excepted, with submission to the Court of Friesland and all other justiciable courts."
>
> 5 December 1695 (registered 8 February 1701) "Petrus Greidanus, Servant of the Divine Word at Ryperkerck cum annexis, and Bottie Ymtes, married couple living at Ryperkerck, declare and acknowledge that they are truly and duly indebted to Jan Albarts and Claeske Symens, married couple also living at Ryperkerck, in the sum of two hundred gold guldens, the gulden at 28 stuivers each, on account of ready money advanced and counted out to us at the execution of this deed, hence renouncing the exception of money not counted out; they promise and undertake to bring up the abovementioned sum one year after the date hereof with four and a half like guldens per hundred as interest, under pledge of all our goods, none excepted, both movable and immovable, with submission to the Court of Friesland and all other Courts."
>
> 21 October 1696 (registered 28 March 1700) "Petrus Greidanus, servant of the Divine Word at Ryperkerk and Hardegarijp, and Bottie Ymtes, married couple living at Ryperkerck, declare and acknowledge that they are indebted to Oenkerck in the sum of four hundred Caroli guldens at XX stuivers each, arising on account of ready money advanced and gratefully received by us before the execution of this deed: wherefore we then renounce the exception of money not counted out, undertake and promise thankfully to restore and pay the abovementioned sum of four hundred Caroli guldens one year from the date hereof, with four like guldens for every hundred for the want and interest thereof, or in case of non-payment thereafter always with like yearly interest running until full payment, pledging therefor, as also for costs and damages, all our goods, none excepted, with submission to the Court of Friesland and all other Courts."

[in the third entry the printed text reads "... indebted to Jetse Martens and Wytske Wymers, married couple, living at Oenkerck ..."]

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Tietjerksteradeel

Herein is included an inventory dated 1/9 July 1710 at the house of the deceased Jan Albarts at Ryperkerk, first married to Claaske Symens and later to Jantje Tiebles. In this inventory one finds:
Profitable debts owing to the estate.
D^{ns} Petrus Greidanus owes, according to the bond dated 3 December 1696, the sum of two hundred gold guldens, of which the interest at 4½ per cent (so that the aforementioned acknowledgement of debt dated 5 December 1695 at 4½%, likewise amounting to 200 gold guldens, has apparently been discharged), remaining from the execution thereof 280—:—:
fourteen and a half years' interest up to June 1711 182—14—:
Moreover D^{ns} Greidanus owed, according to the account book,
"for goods fetched" 16— 8—8
and finally also:
"for a quarter of tea" 1—10—:
"still owing for craft gin" :— 2—2

Hypotheekboek of Tietjerksteradeel

> 30 October 1731 (registered 2 December 1732) "We the undersigned (Petrus Greidanus, Pastor in Ryperkerk et Hardegaryp, Bottje Imtjs, Auke Saakes, Wybren hendricks) declare that we have come to an agreement with one another and have amicably accorded that I, the minister, shall pay the sum of three hundred and sixty-five Caroli guldens, and that in hard coin and not with bearer notes or provincial bonds, and that then this bond with the interest shall be dead and void, but with this stipulation that the sixty-five Caroli guldens shall be paid at once, as we the undersigned have indeed received them, and that the three hundred Caroli guldens shall be paid by me at a convenient time, either in full or in instalments, provided that in case of default four Caroli guldens per hundred shall be given yearly, and I pledge the rent of Venne yearly as security and all my goods as assurance that we the undersigned shall never at any time address D^{o} Greidanus concerning the aforesaid bond and interest, with which contract we have our mutual satisfaction, thus confirmed with our customary signatures."

We must now, with the data enumerated concerning Petrus Greydanus, try to arrive at some description of his character and conduct.

At the outset we may state that he seems to have been a peculiar person. He came in 1683 to the Franeker and 2 years later to the Groningen University, so that he — assuming that he also attended the Latin School at Franeker — had no lessons from his brother Dr. Sixtus Greydanus, who was appointed conrector at that School in 1684. In 1688 he was S.S. Min. Cand., but only became a minister at the beginning of 1695. The question therefore arises: what did he do in those 7 years between 1688 and 1695[1]? And after those 7 years he accepted a post which lay relatively far from the cradle of his family, for while all his relatives were apparently settled to the west of Leeuwarden, he came to live to the east of that town. Just when he began his ministry at Rijperkerk he had to sign, although he had already received his paternal inheritance, an acknowledgement of debt for the — in those days not inconsiderable — amount of 700 Caroliguldens, in favour of the Academy printer at Franeker Hans Gijselaar and his wife, on account of moneys advanced to him and books purchased.

Studying at two Academies and buying books, probably for a considerable amount, could be an indication that Petrus Greydanus took a broad view of his studies, but the first fact could just as well point to the possibility that Petrus' studies at Franeker were not progressing well and that he therefore decided to try his luck at Groningen.

He borrowed money more than once, and at the death of one of his creditors it came to light that he had never — that is, in 14 years — paid a penning of interest on the sum lent to him, so that the amount of the debt had increased by more than half.

It further appears that his Reverence or his guests consumed gin and that he did not pay for it promptly. This need not, however, be reckoned to his discredit, for in those days heavy “tippling” was general in Friesland.

From his order for the purchase of a Diaconate book, his appointments as Deputatus Synodi and as Member of a Synod, and the fact that no shortcomings emerge from the Synodal Archives, one might draw the conclusion that he performed his office properly.

But be that as it may, of the 4 children of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, Ds. Petrus Greydanus had the largest number of children — namely 7 — and became the ancestor of an enormous branch of descendants, beside which the other branches, namely those of his father's stepbrother, of his brother Tjardus and of his sister Elisabeth, sink completely into insignificance.

Alongside this is further added a reproduction of folio 61 (Accounts of deacons 1658—1696) of the Church Book of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp, with the fine handwriting and the signature of Ds. Petrus Greydanus.

The page reads as follows:

> “Foocke Lüijtjens, as Deacon of Rijperkerck, having > rendered proof and account in the presence > of the Reverend Church Council and Dng Greijdanüs, minister > there, together with some members of the same Con> gregation, of his receipts and expenditure during the time > of his service, and it has been found that the whole > receipt amounts to the sum of five > hundred Carl: guilders 13 stuivers 14 penningen, against which > the expenditure amounts to the sum of two hun> dred and thirty-one Car. guilders 8 stuivers 12 penningen, so > that it appears that the receipt is greater than the expen> diture by the sum of two hundred and sixty-> nine Car: guilders 5 stuivers and 2 penningen, which two hundred > and sixty-nine Car: guilders 5 stuivers 2 penningen he, Fooke > Lüijtjens, as outgoing Deacon, has handed over > in the presence of us all to Wijbren > Jans as present Deacon, together with the [1] From a yearly list of changes among the ministers of the various classes, included after the Synodal Acta, at the end of which the candidates in the various classes were also listed, it appears that on 5 June 1694 he no longer lived at Franeker, but in the Classis Leeuwarden, for on that date there is named Ex-Classe Leowardiana, among others, the candidate D. Pet: Greidanus, who then also seems to have been charged, already since the month of May before, with the supply of the ministerial vacancy at Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp, as might follow from the marriage and baptismal entries in the Church Book of that Congregation. See in this connection the first note on page 235.

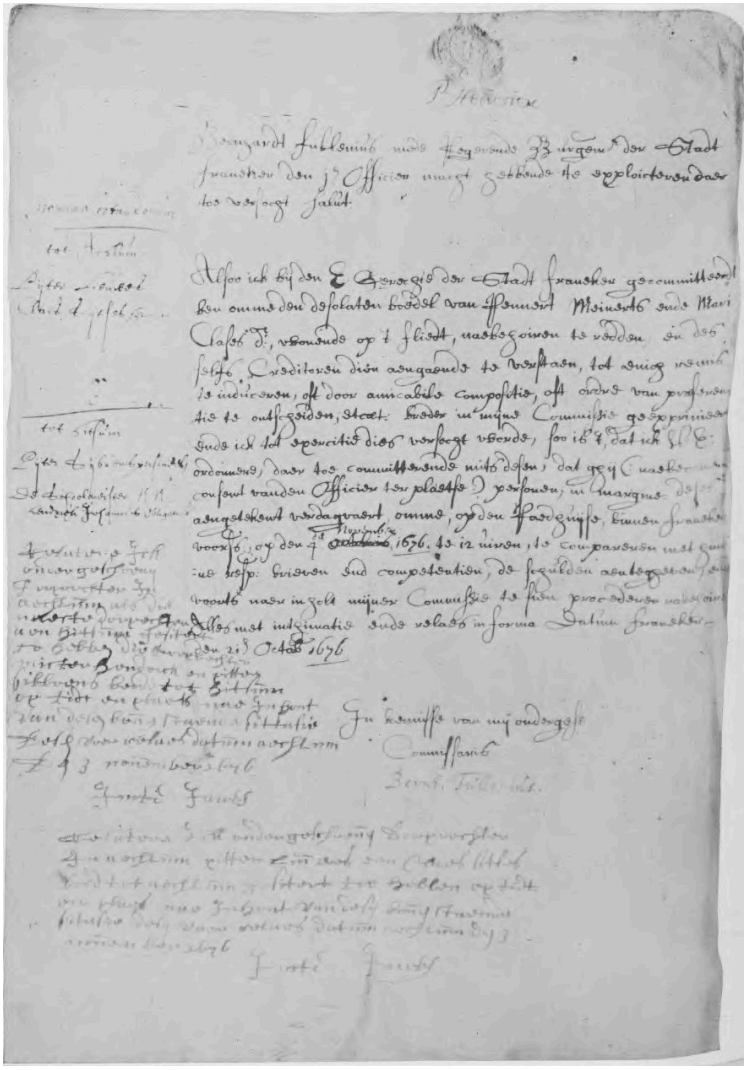
Folio written in his own hand on 12 February 1696 by Ds. Petrus Greijdanus from the Church Book of the Reformed Congregation of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp /see pages 240/241/ (somewhat reduced).



Document, — on which, among other things, appears the handwriting dated 3 November 1676 of the Achlum Dorprechter Imte Jacobs —, from the Boedelinventarissen van Franeker (see page 244) (slightly reduced).

remainder which Evert Alberts still owes on account of his purchased house, which having been bought for the sum of 50 car.: gulden and thereon paid for peat delivered for the poor to the sum of 31 car: gulden, 5 stuivers, so that he, Evert, still owes the sum of 18 c gulden and 15 stuivers, so that we discharge Fooke Lüijtjens of his office and thank his honour for his faithful service and the good care shown herein, passing this as a final and absolute receipt, in witness whereof our customary signatures, Done
the 12 February 1696.

this ⊗ is this ⊤ is (signed) Vijbren Yans Warnar ⊗ Jans Jacob ⊤ Everts elder's own self- set set mark, mark, (signed) illegible (signed) probably:
Weyse (Wytze) Gaetes (Gaetzes)
(signed) IJppe Sigerdts (signed) P: J: Greijdanüs pastor in Rijperkerc
and Hardegarijp."

MARRIED:

Bottie (Bottje) Ymptes (Imptes, Ymtes, Imtes), 23 June 1695 at Rijperkerk, as appears from the following entries in the Reformed marriage registers:

Tzum.

> "Do. Petrus Greidanus minister of J: C: in his congregation at Riperkerk and Hardegarijp, and Bottje Ymtes at Tzum, the first proclamation on the 2nd June 1695, and on the 23rd of the same confirmed at Rijperkerk."

Rijperkerk.

> (banns): "On the 9th June 1695 Dng Petrus Greijdanus Minister of the Divine Word at Rijpkerck and Hardegarijp and Bottje Imtes from Tzum were married by Dng Eijdsma minister at Tzum, in the village of Rijperkerc, on the 23rd of the same."

The marriage was thus solemnized at Rijperkerk by the minister of Tzum, Ds. Aggaeus Eydsma (Eysema), the third husband of Yttie Lamberts Salverda, whose first husband Taeke (Taco) Jelles was a stepbrother of Eelckien Steenkist, the wife of Ds. Petrus Greydanus' brother Ds. Tjardus Greydanus at Achlum (see the draft fragment-genealogies at page 220).

Bottie Ymptes was baptised at Achlum on 24 May 1665 as daughter of Impte Jacobs and Antie Clases. Her baptismal entry in the Baptismal register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Achlum and Hitzum 1656—1754 reads as follows:

(A° 1665) "Impte Jacobs the father, Antie Clases the mother, Bottie baptised the 24 May".

It may be noted here that on 28 June 1657 a daughter Bottie of the said couple had already been baptised at Achlum, with the following entry:

(A° 1657) "Impte Jacobs the father, Antie Clases the mother, Bottie baptised the 28 June".

She became a member at Tzum on 28 October 1694, as appears from the note below in the book containing Acts of the Church Council 1645—1886 and Members 1645—1772, of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Tzum:

"1694. On 28 October there were added to the Church at the holding of the Lord's Supper, upon a confession of faith, the following number
. . . . . .
5. Bottie IJmtes unmarried young woman."

On a list of members drawn up in 1734 for Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp is noted: "Bottje Ymtes, minister's wife". Her name has in the course of time been struck through with the addition of "obiit". She probably died about 24 June 1736. This might follow from the Register of the Acts of the deputies of the Synod (1728—1794 for the distribution of the widows' money), N° 13[1] of the Archive of the Provincial Church Board of Friesland, in which is noted: dated 2 November 1734 under the Classis Leeuwarden "Greidanus with 41 weeks". With effect from 1 January 1734 the widow's money thus came into effect for Bottie Ymptes, which, as appears from the subsequent accounts, she retained until ± 24 June 1736, when she in all probability will have died, since in the account closed on 13 November 1736 "Greidanus (Wed[e]) from the Classis Leeuwarden" appears, with the addition: "ceases with 32 weeks".

The parents of Bottie Ymptes were Ympte Jacobs and Antie Clases. Ympte Jacobs (see the accompanying draft of a fragment-genealogy of the family of Bottie Ymptes) was the son of Jacob Jacobs, husbandman at Achlum, and Wick Jansdr., which Jacob Jacobs married for the 2nd time Trijntie Andriesdr.. All this rests on the following from the entries dated 19 April 1636 in the Weesrekeningboek (orphans' account book) of Franekeradeel of 1633—1640 (pages 224—230):

> Houck Jacob Jacobsdr. (who was married to Foppe Jansen Jislum — Yslum — the later Bijsitter (assessor) of Franekeradeel) and Impt Jacob Jacobs son (over whom Jelte Sydtses at Kimsveerdt was curator) were children of the first marriage of the late Jacob Jacobs husbandman at Achlum and Wick Jansdr.. Further, Agge Andries at Tierchwirdt (in 1642 at Burgwerd) and Foppe Jans aforesaid were together guardians over Jacob and Claes, Jacob Jacobs' children by Trijntie Andriesdr., his second wife, born in wedlock.

Ympte Jacobs must have been born about 1618, on the ground of the following content of the deed dated 28 January 1634 in the Authorisatieboek (book of guardianship appointments) of Franekeradeel: Curator over Imte Jacobs (aged 16 yrs): Jelte Sydtses his mother's brother (since his mother was named: Wickje Jansdr. a stepbrother must therefore be meant). Agge Andrijs (at Tierchwirdt) (their mother's brother) curator over Jacob (12 yrs) and Claes Jacobs (4 yrs.). Co-curator Jacob Claessen at Doengum, on their father's side.

Ympte Jacobs thus had another sister Houck Jacobsdr., married to Foppe Jansen Jislum (Yslum), Bijsitter of Franekeradeel, and had two younger stepbrothers Jacob Jacobs, born ± 1622, and Claes Jacobs, born ± 1630.

Ympte Jacobs and his wife Antie Clases were members of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Achlum.

In the Ledematen- en Trouwboek (register of members and marriages) of Achlum and Hitzum 1656—1842 the following notes concerning them are found:

"A° 1656. Ich Stansius
Today, the 9th of November, I delivered my inaugural sermon and on the Sunday following announced the Lord's Supper
And finding no names recorded,
I found at the first visitation that the following were members.
. . . . . .
Impte Jacobs and Antie Clases his wife"
"Members 29 Sept. 1668:
. . . . . .
Impte Jacobs Dorpregter (village judge) and Antie Clases his wife"
Members 4 February 1678 on the entering upon the ministry by Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (in total 103):
" At Achlum:
. . . . . .
deceased Impte Jacobs Dorprechter and receiver and deceased Antie Clases his wife"

Ympte Jacobs was "Hinxteman", that is, stallion keeper [1], Dorprechter, Receiver and church warden at Achlum.

That he was Hinxteman and church warden appears from the Rekeningboek (account book) of the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) of Achlum (1563—1719), in which occurs:

> "In the year 1665 in March this book was begun when the church wardens were Cornelis Douwes at Luidum and Imte Jacobs Hinxteman at the Sluis, and by order of the same church wardens, with the advice of D° Jacobus Stansius Pastor at Achlum, all the church properties and their revenues were duly recorded and here set down in detail by M[r] Gerrit Janssen schoolmaster at Achlum according to the preceding order, as follows.."

[1] / This occupation is still practised today in the countryside; the purpose is the breeding of horses, whereby the mares are usually not the property of the stallion keeper.

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the family to which Bottie Ymptes belonged, the wife of Ds. Petrus Greydanus, Dutch Reformed Minister at Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp. Belongs with page 242. - Jacob Jacobs — Huisman (farmer) at Achlum. - ⚭ I Wick Jansdr. — Had in 1636 a (half?) brother Jelte Sijdtses, who in 1640 was meijer (tenant farmer) of farm N° 28 at Kimswerd. - Houck Jacobs — m. Achlum 1 January 1629. (see the Wijnaldumer Kerkeboek). - ⚭ Foppe Jansen Jislum (Yslum) — Bijsitter (assessor) of Franekeradeel. † 1648. - Ympte Jacobs — b. ± 1618. Hinxteman (stallion keeper), Dorprechter (village judge), Ontvanger (tax collector) and Kerkvoogd (church warden) "Op de Sluis" at Achlum. † Achlum ± 1682. - ⚭ I Gretske Lous (Aesgama) — dau. of Lou Annes (Aesgama) at Wieuwerd. - Antie Ymptes — † before 4 December 1682. - Gretske Ymptes — b. ± 1647. - ⚭ Jan Cornelis — Huislieden (farmers) at Achlum, † before 7 April 1686. - Cornelis Jans — bapt. Achlum 11 Aug[s] 1667. - Trijntie Jans — bapt. Achlum 28 Febr. 1669. - ⚭ Jentje Folkerts — 27 May 1691 at Arum. - Aet Jans — bapt. Achlum 8 Aug. 1675. - Jacob Ymptes — Farmer and Ontvanger (tax collector) at Tzum. † Tzum May 1693. - ⚭ Akke (Auck) Sybrens — bapt. Achlum 28 May 1654, dau. of Sibrant Harckes and Lisabeth Jans. m. Achlum 19 June 1680. † before 6 September 1694. - Ympte Jacobs — b. ± 1683. - Sybren Jacobs — b. ± 1685. - Harke Jacobs — b. ± 1687. - Antie Jacobs — bapt. Tzum 19 Febr. 1688. - Bottie Ymptes — bapt. Achlum 28 June 1657. † before 24 May 1665. - ⚭ II Antie Clases - Claes Ymptes — bapt. Achlum 10 June 1660. In 1727 Huys- en hingsteman (farmer and stallion keeper) at Achlum. † before 1746. - ⚭ I Ath Wybes - ⚭ II Ymck Heerts - Aat Claases — Was living in 1741. - Claas Claases — bapt. Achlum 18 April 1723. - Ympte (Imte) Claases — bapt. Achlum 9 June 1726. Snickschipper (barge skipper) at Achlum 1758. - Jan Claases — bapt. Achlum 14 Sept. 1727. - Bottie Ymptes — bapt. Achlum 24 May 1665. - ⚭ Ds. Petrus Greydanus - ⚭ II Trijntie Andriesdr. — Had in 1636 a brother Agge Andries at Tierkwerd. - Jacob Jacobs — b. ± 1622. - ⚭ Antie Pieters - Claes Jacobs — b. ± 1630. - ⚭ I Jentz (Jentu, Jemick) Gerlifs - ⚭ II Antie Simons

Concerning the trade of Hinxteman (stallion keeper) of Ympte Jacobs, who thus lived at Achlum "op de Sluis", we are further informed by the following entries, occurring in the estate inventory dated 8 June 1686 of the house of the deceased Ympte Jacobs (see Estate Inventories of Franekeradeel):

> "a black stallion 77 rijxd[rs] 25 strs . . . g.gl. 138—11—.
>
> a grey stallion 102 rijxd[rs] 31 strs. 8 penn. 183— 7—8 > in stud fees still to be received . . . . . 62—10—."

Ympte Jacobs, who must therefore have died before 8 June 1686 — on page 245 it will appear that he had already died before 17 October 1682 —, possessed a by no means insignificant "house, barn cum annexis", according to the following acknowledgement of debt dated 19 June 1699 (registered 4 December 1702) in the Mortgage Book of Franekeradeel:

> "Claas Ymtes and Ath Wybes, spouses living in the village of Achlum, acknowledge that they owe 900 car.gl. to D[e] Petrus Greidanus, Servant of the Divine Word at Ryperkerk, and Bottie Ymtes, spouses living in the aforesaid village, arising from a certain valuation of house, barn, lane, together with farming implements and household goods, in the manner in which these were left by Bottie Ymtes' parents according to her share of the inheritance, all in conformity with the valuation of the said goods made in the presence of the honourable Court of Franequeradeel and before its commissioner, on condition of paying yearly the sum of 36 like guilders, which interest . . . . etc., under pledge of all our goods on both sides without exception and especially of us debtors' house, barn cum annexis mentioned above. Done at Rijperkerk the 19 June 1699.
> * (signed): P. J. Greidanus Eccl. at Rijperkerck, Bottie Ymtes, Claas Imtes and Aet Wybes mark, J. Fortuyn advocate as witness."*

Since of Ympte Jacobs' children there had already died at his death Antie Ymptes and Bottie Ymptes, baptized 28 June 1657, both of whom had no descendants, while still living were: Gretske Ymptes, married to Jan Cornelis, Jacob Ymptes, receiver at Tzum and married to Akke Sybrens, the Claas Ymptes just mentioned, married to Ath Wybes, and Bottie Ymptes, married to Ds. Petrus Greydanus, thus 4 children, Ympte Jacobs' property at Achlum must also, in view of the foregoing acknowledgement of debt, have been valued by the Court of Franekeradeel at a value of 4 × 900 car.gl., that is at 3600 car.gl..

Claas Ymptes, married to Ath Wybes, evidently therefore took over the stallion-keeping business at Achlum which came from his father Ympte Jacobs.

Part of the property left by Ympte Jacobs must have been a "stringh" of land which he had bought in 1669, according to the following proclamations dated 18 March/1/8 April 1669 in the Franekeradeel Proclamatieboek (register of property sales):

> "Inte Jacobs and Antie Clases, spouses at Achlum, b.b. and c. concerning the purchase of a certain stringh of land lying in the village of Achlum right behind us proclaimants' house, having the owners of the Cloosterfenne to the south, the old Slachdijck to the north, free of floreen or ground rent, further with the actions, servitudes and rights thereto belonging, bought from the heirs of Jo[r] Clants at Groeningen for the sum of three hundred and twenty ggl., as more fully stated in the deed of purchase thereof."

"Stringh" is in some Frisian (clay) districts the name for long, narrow pieces of land; possibly this "stringh" is the "lane" referred to in the mortgage deed dated 19 June 1699 mentioned above, perhaps bought by Ympte Jacobs with a view to his stallion-keeping business.

That Ympte Jacobs was Dorprechter (village judge) at Achlum is proved by the entries dated 29 September 1668 and 4 February 1678 already given on the preceding page in the Register of Members and Marriages of Achlum and Hitzum 1656—1842. This is further confirmed by both of the following documents, in which his capacity of Dorprechter is mentioned, while on the first document, a reproduction of which stands opposite page 241, his handwriting moreover occurs, precisely in his function as Dorprechter.

The first document is to be found in the Estate Inventories of Franeker B.B. 14, and here follows a complete copy of it:

P. Hendricx.
"Bernhardt Fulleniús, co-governing Burgomaster of the City of * Franeker, to the 1st Officer having power to serve writs, being * requested thereto, greetings.
[the following three lines stand in the left margin, in roman type] (Latin) Names of those to be summoned
at Achlúm
Pijter Lieúwes
Whereas I have been commissioned by the honourable Court of the City of Franeker

[the two columns at the top of the page continue the quoted document; the narrow left-hand column holds the marginal notes, the wide right-hand column the text of the commission]

Claes Sijtses mortgage at Hitsum Pijter Sijbrens personal.
The schoolmaster N. N.
Hendrick Johannes on bond
I report,
the undersigned Dorprechter (village judge) in Aechlúm, as the nearest Dorprechter to Hitsúm, that I have summoned the Dorprechter,
master Hendrick and Pitter Sibbrens, both at Hitsúm, at the time and place according to the contents of this above-standing summons.
This as report, dated Aechlúm
the 3 November 1676
w.g. Imte Jacobs have been commissioned by the Honourable Court of the City of Franeker to duly settle the insolvent estate of Rennert Meinerts and Mari Clases' daughter, living on 't Fliedt, and to hear their creditors in that matter, to induce them to some remission, either by amicable settlement, or to separate them by order of preference; etc.:[1] as is more fully expressed in my commission, and I being requested to carry it out, so it is that I order you, hereby commissioning you thereto, that you (: after having obtained the consent of the Officer of the place :) summon the persons noted in the margin hereof, in order to appear at the Town Hall within Franeker aforesaid on the 4th of November 1676 at 12 o'clock with their respective documents and claims, to declare the debts, and further to see the proceedings conducted according to the contents of my commission as is proper. All with notification and report in due form. Dated Franeker the 21st of October 1676.
In witness whereof I the undersigned Commissaris (commissioner)
(w.g.) Bernh.: Fúlleniús
I report, I the undersigned Dorprechter
In Aechlúm that I have summoned Pitter Lúiwes and Claes Sitses, both at Aechlúm, at the time and place according to the contents of this above-standing summons. This as report, dated Aechlúm the 3 November 1676.
(w.g.) Imte Jacobs"

The second document consists of folio 8 of the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) Account Book of Achlum (Church Book of the Village of Achlum 1564—1719), and reads as follows:

> "Today, the 24 Febr. in the year 1667, > the common inhabitants of the village of Achlúm gathered in our church, after the customary > house-announcement and bell-ringing, in order to speak about the > letting of rooms, back-houses or whatever name they might > have, and to lay down a firm regulation, and have > in that matter resolved, as they do resolve hereby, > that no one, none excepted, shall be allowed to let rooms > to any person coming in from outside, or else shall have to give security for > the charge which the church or the village might > incur from it, and have therefore signed this deed with > our customary signatures. Done as above.

(w.g.) J. Stansius	Michiel Jacobs	Jacob Willems
Eccls in	Deersúm	Feijcke Dijrcks
Achlum	Yelle Douwes	Ben Cornelis
this is	Jan Cornelis	Pieter Tiepkes
Johannis [mark] Douwis	Yacob Mincks	Jan Claessen
	Dirch Iepes
own		This is
affixed mark		Claas [mark] Clasens own affixed mark
this is		Claas Jacobs
Lúijtien [mark] Jans		this is
own		Alij [mark] Piters
affixed mark		own affixed mark
Imte Jacobs
Dorprechter

> The above deed has been approved by me as > Grytman (district magistrate), done the 31 Aug. 1678.

(w.g.) S. v. Goslinga."

In the "Ledematen-lijst" (members' list) of Achlum dated 4 February 1678, drawn up by Ds. Tjardus Greydanus on taking up his ministry, Ympte Jacobs is also mentioned as ontvanger (receiver of taxes).

Concerning this office we find in the Kerkvoogdij Account Book of Achlum, each time in May, from 1674 to 1680, an entry "paid to Ymte Jacobs the chimney money for the pastor's and schoolmaster's house", amounting for one year to between 12 and rather more than 19 gulden. On 17 October 1682 this schoorsteengelt (chimney tax) for the year 1681, at 12—0—0, was paid to Ympte Jacobs' unmarried daughter Antie Ymptes, from which it follows that Ympte Jacobs seems to have died already before 17 October 1682.

[1] means etcetera.

From this same book it appears that Ympte Jacobs lent money to the Church, for one finds in it the two following entries:

"Anno 1681.
On 2 February paid to Imte
Jacobs on account of interest fallen due in the year 1680 according to receipt marked with C 7—0—0"
and
"1682.
12 ditto (November)
Antje Imtes on account of interest of the year 1682 7—0—0"

From this last entry it again follows that Ympte Jacobs was then deceased, wherefore the interest on the capital lent by him to the Church was paid out to his unmarried daughter Antie Ymptes, who evidently lived with him.

This Kerkvoogdij (church wardens') account book further shows Ympte Jacobs' office of Kerkvoogd (church warden). Thus he was, for example, in 1660 administering church warden; thus on "27 May 1663, in place of Feicke Dircks, Jimte Jacobs was chosen as new warden, who has undertaken to serve the aforesaid in all faithfulness; in true witness whereof the signing by the honourable Lord Grietman (district magistrate), the minister and the hands of all the inhabitants"; thus he was, as has already been mentioned above (see page 242), church warden in March 1665; and thus on 16 June 1665 the church wardens Cornelis Douwes and Ymte Jacobs were thanked for their services, while Cornelis Douwes was discharged from his office, Jimte Jacobs was continued in his office and in place of Cornelis Douwes Feycke Dircksz. was chosen as new warden.

After the death of her father the following were appointed curators over Bottie Imptes and her brother Claas: her eldest brother Jacob Ymptes, ontvanger (tax receiver) at Tzum, married to Akke Sybrens, and her brother-in-law Jan Cornelis, married to her sister Gretske Ymptes. This appointment follows from the note below dated 4 December 1682 in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Franekeradeel:

"Jacob Ymptes and Jan Cornelis, curators over Claes and Bottie, children of Ympte Jacobs."

From the following entries it appears that Bottie Ymptes, before she married Ds. Petrus Greydanus on 23 June 1695, had been housekeeper for wages with her eldest brother and curator Jacob Ymptes, and that after his death his youngest daughter Antie was taken into board by Ds. Petrus Greydanus and Bottie Ymptes for 52 caroligulden a year, that is for 1 caroligulden a week, and against reimbursement of other expenses laid out for her.

Boedelinventarissen (estate inventories) Franekeradeel.

"31 May 1693. House of the deceased, the late ontvanger Jacob Ymptes at Tzum, at the request of Reiner Anskes, farmer at Tzum, and Claes Ymptes at Achlum as authorized curators over Ymte (aged 10 years), Sybren (aged 8 years), Harke (aged 6 years) and Antie (aged 5 years), children left by the late Jacob Ymptes and Acke Sybrens, spouses, and that on the declaration of Bottie Ymptes, the housekeeper and sister of Jacob Ymptes, last deceased.
Under the "Silverware" occurs:
"A little purse and seven brass keys[1], marked Acke Sybrens.
A silver hook with 2 chains and attached to it a leather sheath with a silver tip, and on the sheath a knife with a silver head, the hook being marked Anke Romkes.
A silver beaker, marked J. J. and A. S.[2]"
"The half of a farmstead and lands at Tzum, in all 70 pondematen in size, charged with 18 floreen, 17 stuivers and 8 penningen, last inhabited by the ontvanger Jacob Ymptes, of which the other half belongs wholly and entirely to the children of Tietske Sybrens."

From this it appears that Bottie Ymptes' eldest brother, the ontvanger Jacob Ymptes at Tzum, was owner and occupant of a not inconsiderable landed property there, which apparently from the parents of his wife. According to the printed Stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1640, 1698 and 1728 this landholding was: place N° 13 at Tzum, called "Schaewijck"[1], with the following descriptions:

[1] Brass keys.

[2] Jacob Imptes and Acke Sybrens.

1640. Owner: "The Lords States of Frieslandt. Schaewijck. 70 p.m. 18 Flor. 17 st. 8 penn" Meyer (tenant farmer): Jan Aenes.
1698. "Reiner Anskes cum socio Reformed, the other half Mennonite." Owner: "Reiner Anskes and Claes Ymtes as curators over Jacob Ymtes' children for $^{1}/_{2}$ and Minck Wiltjes as curator over the child of the late Tjebbe Minckes the other half". Meyer: Eeltje Sytses.

1728. Owner: "Eeltje Sytses for $^{3}/_{4}$, Antje Jacobs[2] for $^{1}/_{4}$." Meyer: Eeltje Sytses.

Weesrekeningboek (orphans' account book) of Franekeradeel. (A. A. 9. p. 31).

"On 6 Sept. 1694 there was rendered by and on behalf of Reyner Anskes, farmer at Tzum as administering curator over Ymte, Sybren, Harcke and Antie Jacobs, children left by the late Jacob Ymte and the late Acke Sybrens, spouses at Tzum, to and against Claes Ymptes, uncle and co-curator over the same children, an account and reckoning (rendered).

In that account the following entries occur:

"Settled with Bottie Ymtes such 55 cargl. as the late Jacob Ymtes had lent her, and since 60 cargl. was due to her in wages, thus paid to the same Bottie by liquidation ... 5—·—:"

"Claes Ymtes still owes, by deed of division of 10 Sept. 1688 of the goods left by the parents, on May 1688 376 cargl. 6 strs., from which however 60 cargl. must still be deducted, which Jacob Ymtes had received as a wedding gift and Bottie in silver, so there remains on May 1688 net 316—6—·"

Weesrekeningboek of Franekeradeel. (A. A. 9. p. 96).

20 June 1702. "Account in the name and on behalf of Elske Bruis, widow of the late Reiner Anskes, in his lifetime farmer at Tzum, for herself and as mother and lawful guardian over her children begotten in wedlock by her said late husband, in this assisted by Jacob Foppes and Mr. Claes Douwes (schoolmaster) both at Tzum, and that of such management and administration as her said husband, as administering curator over the children of the late Jacob Imptes and Acke Sybrens, has had or ought to have had since his last account dated the 6th of September 1694, likewise rendered before the Commissioner of this Honourable Court."

Herein the following entries attract our attention:

"On 29 April 1695 paid to Bottie Imtes for sewing wages ... 1— 8—:
On the 15th of April 1697 paid to P. J. Greidanus for board money ... 52—:—:
On the 20th of May 1698 paid to P. J. Greidanus, minister in Rijperkerk et Hardegaryp, for one year's board money ... 52—:—:
On the 1st of June 1699 paid to P. J. Greydanus for one year's board money falling due May 1699 for Antie Jacobs ... 56—10—:
On the 30th of May 1700 paid to P. J. Greydanus, pastor in Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp, for one year's board money and money laid out for Antie Jacobs ... 57— 3—:"

20 June 1702. "Account between Elske Bruins, widow of the late Reiner Anskes, farmer at Tzum, for herself and in the capacity there mentioned according to the same closed above, accountant on the one side, and Claes Ymtes at Achlum together with Eeltie Tjepkes at Cubaerd as curators over the children of the late Jacob Imtes, accountees on the other side.

On the 25th of June 1701 paid to D^{ns} Petrus Greidanus for board money and head-money and other expenses for Antie Jacobs, falling due May 1701. ... 59— 8—:
On the 16th of June 1702 given to Antie Jacobs for her necessities ... 5—:—:

Concerning Bottie Ymptes' sister Gretske Ymptes there follows below a record from the Franekeradeel Weesrekeningboek:

"On 27 May 1691 Jacob Ymtes, farmer and receiver in the village of Tzum, rendered account, proof and balance as administering curator over Trijntie Jans, daughter of the late Jan Cornelis and Gretske Ymtes, in their lifetime farming people in the village of Achlum, to and against the same Trijntje Jans, assisted by her lawful husband Jentje Folkerts at Arum."

In this account the following entries are of importance to us:

"On May 1687 received from Claes and Bottje Ymtes ... 178 cargl. 10 strs.
on account of the orphan child's grandfather's and grandmother's property ... 178 — 10 —
On the 12th of July (1687) paid to Mr. Jan Olthoff (silversmith at Bolsward) for silver for the mounting of a Bible ... 14 — 6 —".

In order to obtain a better survey than the foregoing data afford, there follows here a short recapitulation of the principal particulars of Bottie Ymptes and her family.

---

[1] According to the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Franekeradeel dated 28 October (11) 25 November 1706, the place "Schaewijck" seems also to be called "de Kooij". According to this proclamation, Lijsbet Tjebbes, wife of Eelcke (Eeltje) Sijtses, farmer in the village of Tzum, bought $^{1}/_{8}$ of an excellent farm of land (measuring 70 P.M.) at Tzum called "de Kooij", of which the purchaser and Acke Tjebbes each own $^{1}/_{6}$ and the other half belongs to Jacob Ymtes' children, charged with 18 flor. 17 st. 8 penn., from her brother Sijbren Tjebbes for 1189 cargl. Presumably the descendants of this Eeltje Sijtses named themselves after this place-name: Kooistra.

[2] Evidently Jacob Ymptes' youngest daughter, who was brought up at Rijperkerk by her uncle and aunt Ds. Petrus Greydanus and Bottie Ymptes.

Bottie Ymptes was the youngest child, baptized at Achlum 24 May 1665, of Ympte Jacobs and his 2nd wife Antie Clases /his 1st wife was Gretske Lous /Aesgama//.

Her father was a stallion keeper at Achlum "op de Sluis", on a farm of his own, alongside which he purchased in 1669 from Jhr. Clant at Groningen a "stringh", that is a long narrow strip of land. At his death his estate was assessed at a value of 3600 car.gl., and he left behind a "black stallion" worth more than 138 and a "grey stallion" worth more than 183 gulden, while more than 62 gulden in stud fees was still owed to him. Besides being a stallion keeper he was also Dorprechter (village judge), Ontvanger (receiver) and Kerkvoogd (church warden) at Achlum. He died about 1682 at the age of about 64 years.

At the death of her father Bottie Ymptes was therefore about 17 years old. Since her mother Antie Clases had presumably also died by then, she became housekeeper for wages with her eldest brother, who was also one of her guardians, Jacob Ymptes, farmer and owner of half of the 70 pondematen farm "Schaewijck" at Tzum, and also receiver there. On 28 October 1694 Bottie Ymptes became a member of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Tzum, and on 23 June 1695 she was joined in marriage at Rijperkerk by the minister of Tzum to Ds. Petrus Greydanus.

After the death, about 1696, of her eldest brother Jacob Ymptes and of his wife Akke Sybrens, the youngest daughter of the deceased, Antie Jacobs, was taken into the house of Ds. Petrus Greydanus and Bottie Ymptes for an annual payment of 52 caroligulden for board and lodging.

Bottie Ymptes had another sister, Gretske Ymptes, married to Jan Cornelis, farmer at Achlum, and a brother Claas Ymptes, who took over his father's farm at Achlum and was married to Ath Wybes.

Bottie Ymptes most probably died 24 June 1736 at the age of 71 years and thus survived by some years Ds. Petrus Greydanus, who, as we have assumed, exchanged the temporal for the eternal on 22 January 1733.

CHILDREN:

1. Johannes Greydanus, who follows under number: 29.
2. Antje Greydanus, who follows under number: 30.
3. Ydtje Greydanus, who follows under number: 31.
4. Johannes Greydanus, who follows under number: 32.
5. Imte Greydanus, who follows under number: 33.
6. Antje Greydanus, who follows under number: 34.
7. Jacob Greydanus, who follows under number: 35.

CHILDREN OF BENEDICTUS TYAERDS (BINDIXT TJEERDS) (N° 3, DESCENDING FROM NUMBER 1[II]) AND ANTIE JOHANNES

9 TRIJNTIE (TRIJNTJE) BENEDICTUS (BENEDIXT, BENDIX) (GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 12 January 1662 · daughter of Benedictus Tyaerds (N° 3) and Antie Johannes · m. Geert Fransen, 1682 · m. Nijs Adolphs, 1694

She was baptized at Franeker on 12 January 1662, according to the following entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation there:

> "/1662/ On the 12th (January)
> 2/ Benedictus Tiaards has a child baptized
> named Trijntie."

and was admitted as a member of that congregation together with her daughter from her first marriage, Meins Geerts, on 10/12 December 1706, according to the following note in the Franeker Membership Register:

"On 10/12 December 1706 there were admitted by D. Saagmans upon confession of their faith
Trijntie Benedix wife of Nys Adolphs
Meins Geerts her daughter."

In the aforementioned Lidmatenboek (members' register) we still find concerning her the following notes in the various membership lists:

1° "Register of the members of this congregation made after the visitation of the immediately preceding Lord's Supper of 16 June 1709
On the Noordermolenstraat:
Trijntje Nijssen [1]
Meinsk Geerts [2]"
2° "Membership list 16 June 1720.
In the Molensteeg
(Latin) died April 1729 Trijntje Benedictus
Meinsk Geerts j.d. [2]"

From these notes it thus follows that on 16 June 1709 and 16 June 1720 Trijntie Benedictus lived at Franeker in the Noordermolenstraat or in the Molensteeg, which is probably to be regarded as the same street or as a part of it[3], and that she died at Franeker in April 1729, thus at the age of just over 67 years.

She has never been found bearing the family name "Greydanus"; only the foregoing and her marriage entries given below are all that has been able to be found concerning her in the archives. As has been reported, however, in Chapter III, her youngest son Benedictus from her second marriage, the printer and bookseller at Groningen, always called himself by the family name "Greydanus", which in that Chapter has counted as one of the more or less certain proofs that Trijntie Benedictus' father Benedictus Tyaerds was a stepbrother of Prof. Johannes Greydanus.

MARRIED:

1° GEERT FRANSEN, 25 June 1682 at Franeker, according to the two marriage entries below:

1° Marriage register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker 1680—1732:

> "(1682) The 11th ditto (June) > 12. Geert Fransen Dopjeswever (weaver of dopjes cloth)
> 12: and > Trijntje Benedixt residing in the > Molensteeg.
> Married here on the 25th ditto."

2° Register of marriage notices before the Court 1665—1692 of Franeker:

> "(Latin) Ordinary session before the President Pybo Hendrix, 10 June 1682.
> Geert Fransen Doopieswever and Trijntie > Benedixt, both residing in the Molensteigh, > are hereby granted their marriage proclamations by the Honourable Court of the > City of Franeker."

From these entries it appears that Trijntie Benedictus at the time of her marriage notices lived at Franeker in the Molensteeg. She was then 20 years old and will thus at that time have lived with her parents, if they were still alive.

Now in 1682 both parents were still living, for Benedictus Tyaerds and Antje Johannes in January 1683 sold, together with others, $8^1/_2$ pondematen of land situated near Franeker at Oerdum (see page 200); of Benedictus Tyaerds we even know that he died at Franeker between May 1693 and 4 June 1694 (see page 200).

Benedictus Tyaerds' place of residence at Franeker is known precisely for the year 1682, for on page 199 it has been shown that on 29 September/20 October 1682 he lived in the Molensteeg. All this therefore agrees perfectly and may be regarded as an indication that the Trijntie Benedictus who on 25 June 1682 married Geert Fransen at Franeker really is a daughter of our Benedictus Tyaerds.

[1] This means "Trijntje", the wife of Nijs, namely Nijs Adolphs.

[2] This is Trijntje Benedictus' daughter from her first marriage.

[3] See page 324 at and with the note.

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the family (possibly: Snellert, Snellius) of Nijs Adolphs, the 2nd husband of Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9 of the genealogy "Greydanus"). Belongs with page 249. [a long connecting line with an arrowhead at each end runs from the words "uit welk huwelijk:" in the entry of Nijs Adolphs (m. Franeker 29 Oct. 1671 Claaske Bottes) across the chart to the entry Adolph Nijsses, bapt. Franeker 8 September 1672, who is drawn far to the right; he is therefore entered here as a child of Nijs Adolphs.] [at the right-hand edge the sheet is folded, so the entries Maycke Adolphs Snellert — Claes Hendricx, Adolph Hendricks Duynterp and Janneke Nijsses Snellius are distorted and only partly legible.] - Adolph Lieuwes - ⚭ ? - Lieuwe Adolphs - ⚭ Masijntje Lucas de Heersdr. - Nijske Lieuwes - Nijs Adolphs — Baker, Weaver and Lieutenant of the Noorder Quartier at Franeker. † before 12 April 1643. - ⚭ I Jouck Jelderts - Adolph Nijsses — Mentioned at Franeker in 1648. - Nijs Adolphs — m. Franeker 29 Oct. 1671 Claaske Bottes, from which marriage: m. Franeker 2 Febr. 1682 Frouckjen Jans, widow of Beernt Warners. At Franeker: hatmaker's journeyman, sworn peat-carrier and peat-measurer, and lessee of the "Impositie van de Vismerck" (tax on the fish market). † Franeker November 1717. - Adolph Nijsses — bapt. Franeker 8 September 1672. Mr. Wieldrayer (master wheel-turner). Was still living 18 Febr. 1706. - ⚭ Grietje Dirks — of Bolsward. m. Franeker 30 June 1694. - Nijs Adolphs. - ⚭ II Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) — bapt. Franeker 12 January 1662. m. Franeker 25 June 1682 to I. m. Franeker 21 October 1694 to II. † Franeker April 1729. - ⚭ I Geert Fransen — bapt. Franeker 10 January 1658, son of Frans Geerts and Meinsk Tyaerdts - Meijns Geerts — bapt. Franeker 15 March 1683. - Meynskje Geerts — N° 37 of the genealogy "Greydanus". - ⚭ Gerryt Jans - Antje Geerts — bapt. Franeker 6 March 1688. - Sytske Nijsses — bapt. Franeker 3 Nov. 1695. Communicant member Franeker in 1728. - Antje Nijsses — bapt. Franeker 4 January 1698. - Grietje Nijsses — bapt. Franeker 26 November 1700. m. Franeker 14 May 1730. 1760 Binnen-moeder (matron) of the Klaarcampster Weeshuis (orphanage) at Franeker. † Franeker 1777. - ⚭ Rense Nijsses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 12 April 1708, son of Nijs (Dionisius) Tjallings Snellius and Aaltje Rinses Jusma. At Franeker: first Mr. Glaasemaker (master glazier) and Schildenaar (painter), in 1760 Binnen-vader (house-father) of the Klaarcampster Weeshuis. † Franeker 1780. (see below) - Trijntie Rinses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 1 Febr. 1731. - Nijs Rinses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 15 March 1732. At Franeker: Burgher, Mr. Verwer (master dyer) and glazier, and Burger-Luitenant (citizens' lieutenant) of the Noorder Espel. † Franeker, unmarried, 10 May 1813. - Aaltje Rinses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 8 Febr. 1739. m. Franeker 23 May 1768. † before 1780. - ⚭ I Thomas Claasen Wygersma — At Franeker: Merchant, Mr. Backer (master baker) and Mede-Vroetschap (fellow town councillor). - ⚭ II Nieske Harmens (Hermanus) Broeksma — of Heerenveen. - Adolph Renses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 26 Sept. 1744. - Benedictus (Nijsses) Greydanus — bapt. Franeker 6 March 1703. Printer and bookseller at Groningen. † Groningen June 1775. - ⚭ P/i/etertje Westbroek — bapt. Groningen 19 September 1706, dau. of Jacob Piters (Peters) Westbroek and Hillichjen Jans Tooren. m. Groningen 27 October 1729. † Groningen Dec. 1775. - Matthies Greydanus — bapt. Groningen 4 Aug. 1730 - Trijntie Greydanus — bapt. Groningen 17 Sept. 1732. - ⚭ I. Gerhardus Mennes. - ⚭ II. Hindrik Klinkhamer. - ⚭ III. Hans Ansens. - Pietertjen Greydanus — bapt. Groningen 1 January 1734. - Nijsz Greydanus — bapt. Groningen 17 Dec. 1734. - Hillegien Greydanus — bapt. Groningen 1 March 1739 - Nijs, D'Nijs or Denys Greydanus — bapt. Groningen 5 January 1746. - ⚭ Fiepke (Feipke) Wilts - Teets Adolphs — bapt. Franeker 22 February 1654. - Michel Adolphs — bapt. Franeker 12 December 1655. - Maycke Nijsses - ⚭ Harmen Johannes — Ferry skipper Sneek. - J/o/uck Nijsses — m. Franeker 28 March 1652. - ⚭ Claes Hendricx — of Leeuwarden. - ⚭ II Jaij Tjallings — Communicant member Franeker April 1643. - Tjalling Nijsses (Nijsten) — Burgher and merchant at Franeker. - ⚭ Feyckien Willemsdr. — m. Franeker 31 Dec. 1665. - Jayke Tjallings — bapt. Franeker 7 October 1666. - Janneke Tjallings — bapt. Franeker 16 Aug. 1668. Was still living 26 July 1714 at Franeker. - Willem Tjallings — bapt. Franeker 24 Nov. 1670. - Nijs (Dionisius) Tjallings Snellius — bapt. Franeker 30 January 1673. Student of languages at the Academy of Franeker 10 June 1693; as student communicant member at Franeker 12 June 1698. Burgher and Treckschipper (tow-barge skipper) from Franeker to Leeuwarden. † before 6 February 1722. - ⚭ Aaltje Rinses Jusma — m. Franeker 7 April 1701. - Tjalling Nijsses — bapt. Franeker 9 Febr. 1702. - Aafke Nijsses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 13 Nov. 1703. - Rinske Nijsses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 31 March 1707. - Rense Nijsses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 12 April 1708. At Franeker: first Mr. Glaasemaker (master glazier) and Schildenaar (painter), 1760 Binnenvader (house-father) of the Klaarcampster Weeshuis. † Franeker 1780. - ⚭ Grietje Nijsses — bapt. Franeker 26 November 1700, dau. of Nijs Adolphs and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus). m. Franeker 14 May 1730. 1760 Binnenmoeder (matron) of the Klaarcampster Weeshuis at Franeker. † Franeker 1777. (see above) - Feyckjen Nijsses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 29 Aug. 1713. Communicant member Franeker 1740. - ⚭ Pytter de Groot — Burgher and hatmaker at Franeker. - Janneke Nijsses Snellius — bapt. Franeker 29 Aug. 1719[?]. - Geertie Nijsses — m. Franeker 4 Sept. 1653. - ⚭ Pier Pyters — Linen weaver at Franeker. - Cathalina Adolphs — (also called: Adams) - ⚭ I Hendrick Sipkes Duynterp — Mr. Timmerman (master carpenter), Burger-Luitenant in the Noorder Quartier, at Franeker. † in 1648. - Ciprianus (Sipke) Hendricks Duynterp — b. ± 1629. 1657 L. and L.S. student at Franeker. - Haeske Hendricks Duynterp — b. ± 1632. - ⚭ I Johannes Joris Solla — son of Joris Johannes Solla, Stadstorenwachter (city tower watchman) at Franeker. m. Franeker 31 March 1651, on the occasion of which marriage Jan Greyde of Franeker, the later Prof. Johannes Greydanus, composed a printed poem (see page 72). - One of the children was Joris Duynterp, bapt. Franeker 22 September 1651, the later Ds. Georgius Duynterp, who m. at Franeker 17 October 1678 Brechtie Hessels. - ⚭ II Cornelis Wynnerts (Everts) — Mr. Dopjeswever (master weaver of dopjes cloth). m. Franeker 12 June 1664. - Adolph Hendricks Duynterp — b. ± 1647. Was unmarried[?]. - ⚭ II Jan Pyters Rijckart — widower of Corneliske Jans. m. before 14 May 1652. - Maycke Adolphs Snellert - ⚭ Claes Hendricx[?] — Mr. Schoenmaker (master shoemaker)[?]

Geert Fransen was baptized at Franeker on 10 January 1658, according to the following entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker 1650—1687:

> "(1658) On the 10th of the same (January) > Frans Geerts has a child baptized > named Geert."

The father of Geert Fransen was therefore Frans Geerts, who was married to Meynske Tiaerdts, since in the Franeker proclamatieboek (register of property sales) we find the proclamation dated 15/22/29 January 1669, by which Frans Geertsz. and Meynske Tiaerdts, spouses and citizens at Franeker, buy a house and rear yard with appurtenances on the west side of the Molensteegh, where, as we have seen, Geert Fransen was living in 1682 at the time of his marriage registration. Moreover, Geert Fransen and Trijntie Benedictus had a daughter who bore the name Meynsk (see page 248). Also, in the Franeker marriage register one still finds, on 20 October 1650, the proclamation, and on 10 January 1655 the solemnization, of the marriage of Frans Geerts, on 't Hockaart, and Meins Tiaerdts, on de Dick.

From his marriage registrations it appears that Geert Fransen was a "dopjeswever" (weaver of dopjes cloth) at Franeker; he was still living on 6 March 1688, when he had a little daughter Antje baptized, but he must have died before the beginning of 1694, since Trijntie Benedictus remarried in October 1694 as the widow of Geert Fransen. Geert Fransen therefore reached an age of between 30 and 40 years.

2° NIJS (NIES, NIESKE) ADOLPHS (ADOLFFS, ADOLFS) (SNELLERT OR SNELLIUS?), son presumably of Adolph Nijsses (Snellert or Snellius?), 21 October 1694 at Franeker.

The relevant marriage registration in the Reformed marriage register of Franeker reads as follows:

> "1694 On the 7th of October Nijs Adolphs sworn > 12: peat carrier and Trijntje Bendix > 12 widow of Geert Fransen both near the Mo-> lensteegh within Franeker.
> On the 21st of the same married here."

Concerning the family of Nijs Adolphs there is appended a draft fragment-genealogy, from which it would follow that his grandfather on his father's side, Nijs Adolphs, had: a sister Maycke Adolphs, who called herself by the surname Snellert, and a grandson Nijs or Dionisius Tjallings, who called himself by the Latinized form Snellius of that surname. The descendants of this Nijs or Dionisius Tjallings Snellius, one of whose sons, Rense, married a daughter Grietje of our Nijs Adolphs, retain the surname Snellius.

On this ground one might be led to include our Nijs Adolphs in the family Snellert or Snellius; however, neither he himself nor any of his descendants used that surname, so far as is known, — on the contrary, his youngest son Benedictus called himself, as we have seen, by the actual surname "Greydanus" of his mother Trijntie Benedictus. Probably this son Benedictus first used the name "Greydanus" at his marriage registration at Groningen in October 1729, possibly wishing thereby to honour the memory of his mother, who shortly before, in April 1729, had entered into eternal rest (his father had already died in November 1717). Moreover, this son bore the first name of his mother's father.

The baptismal entry of Nijs Adolphs has not been found at Franeker, but that of his presumed sister Teets on 22 February 1654 and of his brother Michel on 12 December 1655 has.

The presumed father of Nijs Adolphs was Adolph Nijsses, of whom only this is known, that in 1648 he lived in the Franeker town quarter "West", as appears from the description of the citizenry of Franeker in that year, in N° 947 of the Telting Register.

Before Nijs Adolphs entered into marriage with Trijntje Benedictus, he had apparently already been married twice, for on 29 October 1671 there married at Franeker Nijs Adolphs, hatmaker's journeyman on the Schilbanck, and Claaske Bottes at the Botterbruch, and on 2 February 1682 Nijs Adolphs and Frouckjen Jans, widow of the late Beernt Warners, both living in the Kleine Steegh, were married in that same place.

From the first marriage Adolph Nijsses was baptized at Franeker on 8 September 1672; he married at Franeker on 30 June 1694 — thus just before his father's third marriage — Grietje Dirks of Bolsward. Adolph Nijsses was Mr. Wieldrayer (master wheel-turner) and was still living on 18 February 1706.

In 1671 Nijs Adolphs lived, according to the list of "Burgeren en Ingesetenen binnen Franeker", N° 1269 of the Telting-Register, in the Noorderquartier. This list must then have been drawn up before 29 October, which seems likely, for, as indicated above, he then lived on the Schilbanck, a street which will have lain outside the Noorderquartier.

In the list of 1671 he is entered among the musketeers; from the description of the citizenry of Franeker in the year 1672 (see N° 1251 of the Telting-Register) it appears that he served as a musketeer under (captain) Fullenius.

From 1672 to 1677 he was established in the Wester-Quartier, to which the Schilbanck will have belonged, for which see N° 1240 of the Telting-Register.

In 1683 he bought at Franeker a house and garden with appurtenances in the Molensteegh, according to the following proclamation d.d. 19/26 January/2 February 1683, supplemented from the Protocolboek (register of deeds) d.d. 4 February 1683:

> "Nijs Adolphs with his wife buy from Georgius Duynterp /student of sacred theology, for $^1/_2$, and Japke Douwes Hobbema, widow of the late master builder Cornelis Eiberts (Eeverts), for $^1/_2$/ a house and garden with appurtenances in the Molensteegh, occupied by Pieter Abrams, having Egbert Geerts as tenant adjoining to the north and the sellers' hay barn to the south."

By the seller Georgius Duynterp, who is here still recorded as a student of theology, will be meant Georgius Duynterp, who had already become Reformed minister at Jutrijp and Hommerts at the beginning of 1682. This would then be the same person as the owner of the house in the Molensteegh rented by the parents of Trijntie Benedictus (see page 199). From this the conclusion could again be drawn that Nijs Adolphs and Trijntie Benedictus, before their marriage in 1694, lived next to or near each other in the Molensteegh, which might have been an inducement for Nijs Adolphs to enter matrimony for the third time with the 32-year-old widow, in spite of her little daughter of 10 years (see pages 248 and 249).

Georgius (Joris) Duynterp, the presumed son of Johannes Joris Solla and Haeske Hendricks Duynterp, on whose marriage at Franeker on 31 March 1651 Jan Greyde of Franeker, the later Prof. Johannes Greydanus, composed a printed poem, appears on the accompanying draft: fragment-genealogy "Nijs Adolphs". Ds. Georgius Duynterp thus did not take over the name "Solla" from his father, but the name "Duynterp" from his mother, from which the strange manner in which surnames were dealt with at that time may again appear.

Nijs Adolphs seems to have lived in his own house in the Molensteegh until his death; at least one finds in the oldest tax cohier of Franeker, that is that of the Reëele Penning (real property tax) of the year 1711, under Eerste Noord:

> "Nijs Adolphs (Owner) Occupier himself:
> A house b. p. rent 7—8—:
> of which in grondpagt (ground rent) 1—8—: > 6 (cargl. rent) 1 cargl. tax."

while in the Franeker Proclamatieboek (register of property sales), in a proclamation d.d. 11/18/30 December 1722, mention is made of a "yearly ground rent out of Nijs Adolphs' house of 1 cargl. 8 strs". Moreover we have seen from the lists of church members of Franeker on page 248 that Trijntie Benedictus with her daughter from her first marriage (Meinsk Geerts) on 16 June 1709 and 16 June 1720 lived in the Noordermolenstraat or the Molensteegh. From which last list it could follow that Trijntie Benedictus, after the death of her husband in November 1717, continued to live in her own house.

At his first marriage on 29 October 1671 Nijs Adolphs was a hatmaker's journeyman.

On 6 February 1680 he was "chosen" as Turfmeter (turf-measurer), as appears from a register in the Municipal Archives of Franeker entitled "Diarium of the daily business of the Magistrate of the City of Franeker from 1 July 1669", in which under the date mentioned stands:

> "Nijs Adolphs chosen as Turfmeter in place of Siabbe Sioerdts."

In this same register one finds under 26 June 1682:

> "Aern Jans and Nijs Adolphs have, with the consent of the Magistrate, exchanged their offices of turf-carrying and turf-measuring."

After 26 June 1682 Nijs Adolphs remained sworn turfdrager (turf-carrier) — as may appear from his marriage entry of October 1694 with Trijntie Benedictus and from an entry of 1 February 1695 in the Franeker proclamatieboek (register of property sales) — until 8 August 1712, when the following was entered in the "Diarium" just mentioned:

> "Nijs Adolphs, by sjancement, appointed Turfmeter in place of Pytter Jansen, and the latter in turn appointed carrier in place of Nijs Adolfs."

He now remained sworn Turfmeter until his death, as appears from the entry in the said "Diarium":

> "19 November 1717. Atse Folckerts granted the post of Turfmeter, vacant through the death of Nijs Adolphs."

From an agreement of 29 April 1706, included in the Pachtboek (lease register) of 1660 to 1709 kept in the Franeker Municipal Archives, and from N° 1531 of the Telting-Register, it appears that Nijs Adolphs leased, from 1 May 1706 to 1 May 1709, for the sum of 33 cargl. 11 st., the "Impositie van de Vismerck" (impost on the Fish Market). His surety was Dionisius Tjallingi Snellius, who was a son of a half-brother of his father, is mentioned on page 249 and appears on the accompanying draft fragment-genealogy "Nijs Adolphs".

Nijs Adolphs provided board and lodging to persons supported by the Armvoogdij (poor relief board), as appears from an Armvoogdij account of the year 1686 — N° 1388 of the Telting-Register —, in which account there occurs under 1 November 1686 the item:

> "Board and lodging money for Hiltie Olffers at Nies Adolfs's 6—5—o."

Nijs Adolphs himself must have lived in needy circumstances.

In the cohieren concerning the assessment of the means of the inhabitants of Franeker for the 100th penning the following assessments occur with regard to him:

> for the years 1689 and 1690 Nieske Adolphs, living in the North, was assessed at an amount payable of 2 stuivers per week (see no. 1404 Telting-Archief); > and for the year 1701/1702 Nijs Adolphs, living in the I^st North, is listed as without means (see N° 1489 Telting-Archief).

His lack of means after 1701/1702 is confirmed by the fact that he was buried at the expense of the Armvoogdij, since in the "Accounts of the administering poor relief wardens of their receipts and expenditures on account of the coffins, in 1717, 1718 and 1719" (see N° 1612 Telting-Archief) it is stated:

> "2 November 1717. For Nis Adolfs a coffin $1^1/_4$ inch thick 9—o—o."

He therefore died at Franeker shortly before 2 November 1717, which agrees with what was stated above, that on 19 November 1717 the Franeker Magistrate granted Atse Folckerts "the post of Turfmeter", vacant through the death of Nijs Adolphs.

If we assume that Nijs Adolphs was born about 1650, he reached the age of 60 to 70 years.

From the agreement of 29 April 1706, concerning the leasing of the "Impositie van de Vismerck" (see above), it appears that he signed with the hand mark [hand-drawn angular mark resembling an N].

CHILDREN:

from the first marriage:

1. Meins Geerts, who follows under number: 36
2. Meynske Geerts, who follows under number: 37.
3. Antje Geerts, who follows under number: 38.

from the second marriage: 1. Sijtske Nijsses, who follows under number: 39. 2. Antje Nijsses, who follows under number: 40. 3. Grietje Nijsses, who follows under number: 41. 4. Benedictus (Nijsses) Greidanus, who follows under number: 42.

---

10 TIAARD (TIAERDT, TJEERD, TIERD) BENEDICTUS (BINDIXT)

Line of descent: Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1^II

b. Franeker, 1 January 1665 · son of Benedictus Tyaerds (N° 3) and Antie Johannes · m. Lysbet Cornelis, 1687

His baptismal entry is recorded in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker as follows:

> "On the 1st of January A° 1665
> Benedictus Tiaards has a child baptized,
> named Tiaard."

When in 1687 he married Lysbet Cornelis at Franeker (see below), he was a mason's journeyman.

There he seems to have lived in the Molensteegh with or next to his father Benedictus Tieerts, for in the Assessment of the means of the inhabitants of Franeker for the 100th penning for the year 1689 (N° 1404 of the Telting Register), among the persons in the Noord who were assessed at an amount to be paid of 2 strs per week, one finds standing one beneath the other:

Benedictus Tieerts

and Tieerd Benedixt.

After that time nothing more about him could be brought to light at Franeker, which might be explained by the fact that in 1689 he moved to Leeuwarden. At any rate, there in the Town Burgher Book of 1640—1782 on folio 334 the following entry has come to the surface:

> "On the 31st ditto (October 1692).
> Tiaerdt Benedictus bombasine-worker, born at > Franequer as above /has been admitted as a burgher of this Town > after he had taken the oath according to the Formulary registered > above, at the hands of the honourable Police, and had paid the > dues appertaining thereto/", while in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Leeuwarden is found:

> "(Baptized:) On the 17th ditto (November 1689)
> Cornelis a son of
> Tierd benedictus."

Since this baptism took place at the end of 1689, the year after which nothing more could be found at Franeker concerning Tiaard Benedictus, since the child baptized was named Cornelis and the wife of the Franeker Tiaard Benedictus was named Lysbet Cornelis, and since the Tiaard Benedictus who became a burgher of Leeuwarden in 1692 was born at Franeker, there remains little doubt that the Leeuwarden Tiaard Benedictus of 1689 and 1692 is the same person as the Franeker Tiaard Benedictus of 1689 and before.

At Leeuwarden Tiaard Benedictus lived "op de Brol", as is stated in the baptismal entry of his son Benedictus on 27 January 1692 (see p. 39 or 335).

After the registration of his burghership at Leeuwarden, Tiaard Benedictus and his wife vanished there without a trace, so that it must be assumed that this couple left Leeuwarden again for another place, which however could not be discovered.

MARRIED:

LYSBET CORNELIS, 26 December 1687 at Franeker, which marriage was entered as follows in the Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker:

Line of descent: 12: ← Griettie 12

> "(1687) On the 11th ditto (December)
> Tjeerd Benedictus mason's journeyman
> and > Lijsbet Cornelis, both within franeker
> On the 26th ditto married here."

Concerning Lijsbet Cornelis nothing can be reported.

CHILDREN: 1. Trijntje Tjeerds (Greidanus), who follows under number: 43. 2. Cornelis Tjeerds (Greidanus), who follows under number: 44. 3. Benedictus Tjeerds (Greidanus), who follows under number: 45.

---

11 JOHANNES BENEDICTUS (BINDIX) (GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1II

He was baptized at Franeker 13 May 1666, as appears from the following entry in the baptismal register of the Dutch Reformed congregation there:

> "(1666) The 13th (May)
> Benedictus Tiards has a child baptized,
> named Johannes."

Now on 16 October 1692 a Johannes Benedictus, wheelwright's journeyman, living in the Noordermolenstraat there, married at Franeker (see below). Since our Johannes Benedictus' father, Benedictus Tiaards, who only died in 1693 or 1694, lived in the Molensteegh, which is probably to be regarded as the same street as, or a part of, the Noordermolenstraat[1], Johannes Benedictus, the wheelwright's journeyman in 1692, is presumably the son Johannes of Benedictus Tiaards and Antie Johannes.

On 10 March 1695 the certificate was taken out of a marriage proclaimed at Franeker on 24 February previously, of Johannes Benedix, master wheelwright at Pingjum, and Trijntje Hanses, living on the Noorder Bleek at Franeker (see page 256). The "wheelwright's journeyman" at the time of his first marriage thus seems to have established himself fairly soon afterwards as "master wheelwright" at Pingjum. The certainty that the "master wheelwright" at Pingjum in 1695 is the same person as the "wheelwright's journeyman" at Franeker in 1692 may be found in the fact that a daughter Aeltie of Johannes Benedictus, probably born at Pingjum (see the diagram belonging to page 36), appears later with the surname "Greydanus".

On 23 February 1695 the master wheelwright at Pingjum, Johannes Benedicx, bought a "house and garden with appurtenances at Pinjum", as appears from a proclamation of that date in the Wonseradeel proclamatieboek (register of property sales), the content of which is in the main as follows: "Johannes Benedicx, master wheelwright at Pinjum, buys a certain house and garden with appurtenances, standing and situated at Pinjum, having the heirs of Pijtter Minks to the east and south, Jantie Wijbrens' newly bought house to the west and the Heeveweg to the north, charged with 14 stuivers yearly ground rent, to be paid to the church or its wardens there, this house having a free view and window opening onto the yard of the aforesaid Jantje Wijbrens, without her being permitted to take away or impair his view by any planting or building; acquired by purchase from Grietie Geerts, married to Heere Poppes, master baker at Arum, with the approbation and consent of the same her husband, for the sum of 275 carolus gulden, in which, however, is also included a year's rent falling due 1 May 1695 amounting to 21 goudgulden 14 stuivers, to be paid in instalments, namely Candlemas 1695, 1696 and 1697, each time a lawful third part of the purchase sum."

Already on 27 February 1697 Johannes Benedix and Trijntie Hanses sold this house at Pingjum, according to the proclamation given below in the Wonseradeel proclamatieboek, which sale will have been connected with their removal about this time from Pingjum to Harlingen, since the couple Johannes Benedictus × Trijntje Hanses, as appears from the Harlingen proclamations following hereafter dated 11/18 December 1698/15 January 1699/17/24 December 1698/21 January 1699, bought a house by the Lommertspijp at Harlingen and in that town had a son Hans baptized on 29 January 1699 (see page 43 or 342):

"Albert Jelgers, carpenter, and Botje Pijtters, married couple at Pinjum, buy a certain house and garden with appurtenances, standing and situated in the aforesaid village of Pinjum, at present inhabited and used by the sellers (adjoining owners and further description as in the previous proclamation), acquired by purchase from Johannes Benedix, master wheelwright, and Trijntie Hanses, married couple in the aforesaid village, for the sum of 274 carolus gulden, to be paid in instalments, namely Candlemas 1697 next, on taking possession 100 carolus gulden ready money, and then further at Candlemas 1698, 1699 each time the lawful half of the remaining 174 carolus gulden."

In the Harlingen proclamatieboek the proclamation by which Johannes Benedictus and Trijntie Hanses bought a house near the Lommertspijp at Harlingen reads in the main as follows:

"Johannes Benedictus, master wheelwright, and Trijntie Hanses, married couple, citizens of Harlingen, buy a certain fine house and stable behind it, with appurtenances, standing and situated in this

[1] See page 324 at and including the note.

> City by the Lommertspijp, having Evert Hendricx, M[r] blacksmith, together with the public street and canal to the east; the street to the south; Cornelis Teves, Mr. baker, to the west and north as nearest neighbours; the freight-wagon sign hanging out from this house, at present occupied and used by Willem Willems breet with his wife, but being free of lease years and also free of ground rent, this house consisting, apart from the stable, of a front room, a front chamber provided with a bedstead and a little pantry, a passage and next to it an inner chamber provided with two bedsteads with a pantry in between; — item a shed, in it a rainwater tank, next a spacious yard and small enclosure provided with a well — item two large upper chambers, each with two bedsteads, and above the shed a small upper chamber provided with a bedstead, further with appurtenances . . . . . .; all this purchased from Teecke Ides Kolaerdt, also Vroedschap (town councillor) and merchant in the aforesaid town, for 700 gold guilders and one rijksdaalder."

To pay the purchase sum of 700 gold guilders for this house with appurtenances at the Lommertspijp in Harlingen, Johannes Benedictus and Trijntie Hanses borrowed a sum of 800 carolus guilders from Jacob Hatsma, likewise serving Burgomaster and merchant at Harlingen, whereby the purchased house with appurtenances was given as security. The mortgage deed relating to this, dated 23 October 1699, was registered on 20 July 1707 in the Mortgage Book of Harlingen and has in the main the following content:

> "Johannes Benedictus, Mr. wagon-maker, and Trijntie Hanses, his wife, citizens within the town of Harlingen, acknowledge and declare that they owe 800 carolus guilders to the honourable Jacob Hatsma, likewise serving Burgomaster and merchant in the aforesaid town, for money advanced in cash and to our satisfaction . . . . . and which money has been applied to the payment for the house with appurtenances now inhabited by us in this town, by the Lommertspiep, purchased from Teecke Ydes Koolardt, likewise Vroedschap here, at 4% (the aforesaid house with appurtenances was given as special security)."

The deed was signed by: "Johannes Benedictus, Trijntie Hanses and the Notary Public J. A. Schuttenius" and, according to a note placed in the margin, was cancelled on 29 July 1707 at the request of Dr. Titus Sloterdijck as holder of the bond.

In the foregoing deed of sale and mortgage deed Johannes Benedictus is mentioned as wagon-maker and citizen of Harlingen, where he must have settled in 1697, 1698 or 1699. Although he could not be found in the Harlingen Citizens' Book, in whose entries the place of birth was usually recorded, it may nevertheless be supposed with a probability bordering on certainty that the Harlingen wagon-maker Johannes Benedictus is the same as the person of that name whose marriage was proclaimed at Franeker on 16 October 1692 as a wagon-maker's journeyman and about March 1695 as Mr. wagon-maker, and on the ground of the agreement of names even his Franeker birth, confirmed by his baptism on 13 May 1666, from the couple Benedictus Tyaards and Antje Johannes, is obvious.

With the aid of old tax registers (Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers)) it could be established that Johannes Benedictus was still living at Harlingen from 1716 to 1728, but according to the next surviving Reëelcohier — that of 1733 — he had already died, for then his house and stable (situated at the Lommertspijp) in the 2[nd] Quarter, N[o] 84, stood in the name of Johannes Benedictus' widow. Johannes Benedictus would thus have died at the age of somewhere in his fifties.

In the Reëelcohieren of Harlingen of the years 1726 and 1728 Johannes Benedictus appears as user of a house and two pieces of land, situated in the Buiten Buyren of Harlingen and of which the rental value amounted to 180 carolus guilders 30 stuivers, while the owner of it was: the heirs of Gauke Suringar.

Johannes Benedictus was also owner of 3 pondemaat of land at Sexbierum. Concerning that one finds in the:

> Reëelcohieren of Barradeel:
>
> that in 1711 of the parcel, Sexbierum N[o] 30, of 3 pondemaat, charged with 1 floreen 7 stuivers, the owner was Johannes Bindix and the user Bauke Lieuwes;
>
> that in 1718 apparently the same parcel, then numbered Sexbierum N[o] 40, of 3 pondemaat, charged with 1 floreen 7 stuivers, stood in the name of Johannes Benedix with as user Joost Clasen, who in 1728 was tenant of the voting farm N[o] 30 at Sexbierum.
>
> Floreencohieren (land-tax registers) of Barradeel:
>
> that in 1718 the parcel at Sexbierum N[o] 30, of 3 pondemaat, charged with 1—7—0, belonged to Johannes Benedix and that the user of it was Joost Claesen.

According to the Floreencohieren of Barradeel, in 1708 the owner of the parcel, then numbered Sexbierum N[o] 31, 3 P.M. in size and charged with 1—7—0, was Hessel Hendriks, and the user was Bauke Lieuwes, while, according to the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of that same Grietenij (district), in 1727 the parcel Sexbierum N[o] 40, 3 P.M. in size, charged with 1 floreen 7 stuivers and with 3 car-

gl. ground rent to the Hr. Grietman (district magistrate) S. T. van Burmania, stood in the name of Tjerk Claeses, as the husband of Johannes Benedictus' daughter; Aaltje Johannes, who had the land sold by her father in 1728. From the deed dated 28 January/11/25/February 1728, included on page 43 or 336/, in the Proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales) of Barradeel it appears that the land was situated "by the Oudedijck under Sexbierum".

MARRIED:

I° TRIJNTJE HESSELS (HARDA), daughter of Hessel Gerrijts (Harda) and Aaltie Jans, 16 October 1692 at Franeker; he was then "wagon-maker's journeyman" and both lived on the Noordermolenstraat at Franeker. The entry in the Franeker Reformed marriage register reads as follows:

"(1692. The 2nd of October)
12: Johannes Bindix wagon-maker's journeyman
12 and Trijntje Hessels young daughter: both on the Noorder Molenstraat within Franeker, Married here on the 16th of the same month."

Trijntje Hessels (Harda) was baptized 20 February 1670 at Minnertsga, as daughter of Hessel Gerrijts (Harda) and Aaltie Jans.

Her baptismal entry in the church register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Minnertsga 1655—1771 reads as follows:

"(Baptized)
(Anno 1670)
214. Trijntie, Hessels: was baptized, the 20 February 1670 being a little daughter of Hessel Gerrijts: Dorprechter (village judge) at Minderschae: the father brought her."

The name of the mother of Trijntje Hessels Harda is taken from the following marriage deed of Hessel Gerrijts (Harda) in the church register just mentioned:

"(Marriage proclamations)
An° 1665.
6. HESSEL GERRIJTS tailor, of Minderschae | 1st procl.: the 14 and | 2nd procl.: the 21 } May
AELTIE JANS, maidservant of Miss | 3rd procl.: the 28
Camstra at Minderschae | Married here
| the 31 May."

From the foregoing baptismal deed and marriage deed it appears that Hessel Gerrijts Harda was Dorprechter and tailor at Minnertsga. He remarried on 21 July 1676 at Minnertsga, again with an Aaltje Jans. The relevant entry, in which he appears with his surname "Harda", reads in the church register of Minnertsga as follows:

"(Marriage proclamations)
Annus 1676
137 HESSEL GERRITS HARDA tailor at Minderscha the { 30 April the { 1st procl.
and { 7 May { 2nd procl.
AALTJE JANS of Rijpe- { 14 May { 3rd procl. kerck Married here the 21 July."

Trijntje Hessels (Harda) must have died before March 1695, when Johannes Benedictus remarried.

The family arms of the family "Haerda" are known, which appears to be a different family from the family "Harda", for which reason a heraldic description of them has been omitted here.

2° TRIJNTJE HANSES MEERTSMA (MERTSMA, MARTSMA), about March 1695 (attestation taken out at Franeker 10 March 1695), living on the Noorderbleek at Franeker, daughter of Hans Broers Meertsma and Sydske Cornelisdr. Oerdum; he was then "Mr. Wagon-maker" at Pingjum. The marriage entry at Franeker in the Reformed congregation reads as follows:

"/1695/
12:
18 The 24th of the same (February)
Johannes Benedix, Mr. Wagenmaker at Pinjum
and Trijntje Hanses, young dau., on the Noorder Bleek here.
On 10 March the attestation was taken out."

Trijntje Hanses Meertsma was a daughter of Hans Broers Meertsma, Dorprechter (village judge) and Kerkvoogd (church warden) at Heegh, and Sydske Cornelisdr. Oerdum. She was baptized at Heegh on 31 October 1669, according to the following entry in the church book of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Heeg 1594—1772:

> "/Baptized/ Trijntie, child of Hans Broers Meertsma > the 31 October (1669)."

Hans Broers Meertsma and Sydske Cornelisdr. Oerdum were married at Heegh on 24 February 1667, according to the following entry, taken from the church book of Heegh:

> "The 24 February 1667: Hans Broers Mertsma, Dorprechter of Heegh, and Sijtske Cornelis of Franequer."

In the Franeker Reformed marriage register this entry reads as follows:

> "3 February 1667. Hans Broers Martsma, Dorprechter in Heegh, and Sijtske Cornelisdr. Oerdum at 5 huisen. Had one proclamation during the week, on the 5th of the same and on the 14th of the same. Attestation issued."

Hans Broers Meertsma was baptized at Heegh on 12 July 1635 as son of Broer Hanses, presumably owner and meijer (tenant) of the stemdragende plaats (voting farm) N° 6 at Heegh in the printed stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1640, and Fouw Tiaerds. He first married at Heegh on 3 May 1657 Feyk Hesselsdr., with whom he appears as Dorprechter and Kerkvoogd on the list of members at Heegh of 1664.

His second wife Sydske Cornelisdr. (Oerdum) was registered as a member at Heegh on 30 November 1667.

On the list of members at Heegh of 1666 there is written after Hans Broers Mertsma: "departed with attestation to Franequer"; the hand in which this was written appears to be of the years 1670/1671.

Trijntje Hanses Meertsma's mother Sydske Cornelisdr. Oerdum was evidently a daughter of Cornelis Jacobs and Trijntje Seerps, who as a widow in 1664, assisted by her son Claes Cornelis and her two sons-in-law, Eme Sydses and Frans Hanses, sold 9 P.M. of pasture land at Urdum to Frans Johannes, farmer at Hitsum, as curator over Rinse Fransen, surviving orphan child of Frans Fransen de Jonge and Rinske Taeckedr. (Elgersma), in life spouses (see page 47). This was therefore the land that in 1683 was turned into money by Johannes Benedictus' father: Benedictus Tieerds and 3 further co-owners.

The 9 P.M. of pasture land belonged to a landholding at Urdum of 24 to 25 P.M., which, according to the Franeker proclamations d.d. 25 March, 1/8 April 1636, had been bought by Cornelis Jacobsz and Trijntje Seerpsdr., spouses living at Vrdum under the jurisdiction of Franeker, from Douwe Douwes Hopperus and his wife for 210 gold guilders per P.M.

In 1664 Trijntje Seerpsdr. sold not only the 9 P.M. to the curator of Rinse Fransen, but also the remaining part of the 24 to 25 P.M., namely:

> by the deed d.d. 3 February 1664, entered in the Franeker protocol book d.d. 5 February 1664: 3 P.M. and a good 3 einsen, to U. J. Dr. Henricus Schotanus, at present also serving Burgomaster within Franeker, and Miss Helena van Loouinga, spouses; > by the deed d.d. 3 February 1664, entered in the Franeker protocol book d.d. 25 March 1664: 9 P.M. of pasture land to U. J. Dr. Henricus Schotanus à Sterringa and his wife, aforementioned; > and by the deed d.d. 3 February 1664, entered in the Franeker protocol book d.d. 13 May 1664: house, hay barn, house site, courtyard and plantation etc., in all 4 P.M. in size, to U. J. Dr. Henricus Schotanus à Sterringa and his wife, aforementioned.

This landholding was situated at Oerdum, Urdum or Vrdum, a hamlet lying to the north-west of Franeker and belonging to it, then called "uytbuyrt"; it is also possible that it was the name of a former farmstead there. In the Atlas of Dr. Bern. Schotanus à Chart (draft) of the families: Meertsma, Mertsma or Martsma and Oerdum. Belongs with page 257. [the text of the married-in person at the far right, "Frans Hanses te Franeker.", is partly cut off by the sheet edge.] - Broer Hanses (Meertsma) — Owner and meyer (tenant farmer) of the voting farm N° 6 at Heegh in 1640. - ⚭ Fouw Tiaerds - Hans Broers Meertsma — bapt. Heegh 12 July 1635. Dorprechter (village judge) and church warden at Heegh. 1670/1671 moved to Franeker. d. before 5 January 1673. - ⚭ A Feyk Hessels — m. Heegh 3 May 1657. † 31 July 1665. - Broer Hanses Meertsma — bapt. Heegh 22 January 1660. d. before 22 December 1667. - Fouw Hanses Meertsma — bapt. Heegh 27 October 1661. - Claaske Hanses Meertsma — bapt. Heegh 13 December 1663. - ⚭ B Sydske Cornelisdr. Oerdum (see below) — m. to I Heegh 24 February 1667; m. to II Franeker 23 January 1673. d. Franeker before 13 April 1674. - Broer Hans Meertsma — bapt. Heegh 22 December 1667. - Trijntie Hanses Meertsma — bapt. Heegh 31 October 1669. m. ± March 1695. d. Harlingen ± 1770. - ⚭ II Johannes Benedictus — bapt. Franeker 13 May 1666 as son of Benedictus Tyeerds and Antie Johannes. First wheelwright's journeyman at Franeker, then master wheelwright at Pingjum and finally citizen and master wheelwright at Harlingen. d. Harlingen between 1728 and 1733. - ⚭ I Trijntje Hessels Harda — bapt. Minnertsga 20 Febr. 1670, dau. of Hessel Gerrijts Harda, Dorprechter (village judge) and tailor at Minnertsga, and Aaltie Jans. m. Franeker 16 Oct. 1692. - Aeltie Johannesdr. Greydanus — probably b. at Pingjum ± 1695. - Antje Johannes — probably b. at Pingjum ± 1697. - Hans Johannes — bapt. Harlingen 29 January 1699. - Benedictus Johannes — bapt. Harlingen 2 April 1702. - Corneljs Johannes — bapt. Harlingen 8 February 1705. - Sydske Johannes — bapt. Harlingen 19 April 1711. - Froukjen Johannes — bapt. Harlingen 3 June 1714. - Cornelis Jacobs (Oerdum) — (bapt. as an adult at Franeker 16 April 1656). Owner of 24 to 25 P.M. of land "tot Oerdum" under Franeker. d. before 3 February 1664. - ⚭ Trijntje Seerps — Still living 3 February 1664 at "Oerdum". - Sydske Cornelisdr. Oerdum — m. to I Heegh 24 February 1667; m. to II Franeker 23 January 1673. d. Franeker before 13 April 1674. - ⚭ I Hans Broers Meertsma (see above) - ⚭ II Beern Cornelis — Weaver's journeyman at Franeker. - Claes Cornelis Oerdum - Ymk Cornelisdr. Oerdum — member of the Dutch Reformed Church Franeker 1656. - ⚭ I Eme (Yme) Sijdses — at Heegh. - ⚭ II Popk Broers Meertsma — bapt. Heegh 10 January 1641 as dau. of Broer Hansen Meertsma and Fouw Tiaerds. m. Heegh 22 January 1682 as widow of Focke Asses, baker at Heegh. - Trijntje Cornelisdr. Oerdum — m. Franeker 1 February 1660. - ⚭ Frans Hanses — at Franeker.

Sterringa, published in 1718 by François Halma, the name "Oerdum" appears between the names "War" and "Klein Lankum": at the front on the general map of Friesland and on the map of "De Grietenye van Franeker Deel, de Tweede van Westergoo, benevens de Jurisdictie der Stad Franeker". According to the "Teikens" (legend) on this last map "Oerdum" was a "stemmende plaats" (voting farm), situated in the Jurisdiction of the City of Franeker. In the little book printed in 1736 by Tobias van Dessel at Leeuwarden, "Friesland, en deszelfs gantsche geleegentheid vertoont in een geographisch woordenboek", one finds: Oerdum in the Grietenij of Franekeradeel, to the north-west near Franeker. Sydske Cornelis Oerdum and her family will have derived the byname “Oerdum” from the landed property there or of that name.

Hans Broers Meertsma must have died before 5 January 1673, because, according to the Church Marriage Register of Franeker, on that date the marriage of Beerndt Cornelis, weaver's journeyman on the Noordermolenstraet, and Sytske Cornelis, widow of the late Hans Broers on the Noorderbleeck, was proclaimed there and solemnized on 23 January following, which marriage was also proclaimed before the court on 4 January 1673.

Sydske Cornelisdr. (Oerdum) must have died at Franeker about 1674, since in the Estate Inventories of Franeker (B.B. 14) is found:

> an inventory dated 13 April 1674, in the house of the deceased Sijdtske Cornelis, last wife of Beern Cornelis on the Noorderbleek, for the benefit of her 2 under-age children by her former marriage, Broer (6 years) and Trijntje (4 years) — that was therefore the later second wife of Johannes Benedictus — begotten in wedlock by the late Hans Broers, at the request of Frans Hanses (uncle of the children on the mother's side), all upon the declaration of Trijntje Cornelis (aunt on the mother's side).

To this has also been added a draft scheme concerning the families: “Meertsma, Mertsma or Martsma” and “Oerdum”.

In the cohier of 1744, drawn up in connection with the abolition of the harbour dues, there appears in the 2nd City Quarter of Harlingen the name of Johannes Benedictus Widow, assessed at 10 capitals, with the addition “raises herself by 2 capt.”, so that apparently the said widow was “in good circumstances”. On the cohier the size of the household was given as 4 persons. Immediately below it, as belonging to the same property, then follows: Feycke Sjoerds, well-to-do, household of 3 persons. In the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) mention is made each time (for instance for 1742) of “Johannes Benedix Widow owner of the house; herself c.s. occupier”, so that Johannes Benedictus Widow at Harlingen possessed a house of her own — probably the above-mentioned property at the Lommertspijp — in which, however, other persons also lived. But the household of the widow herself will in 1744 presumably have consisted of herself and her three children.

As mentioned above, according to the Harlingen Reëelcohieren Trijntje Hanses (Martsma) was in 1733 the widow of Johannes Benedictus. She occurs in those cohieren continuously up to and including the year 1774 as: “Johannes Benedictus Weduwe c.s.” Since she was baptized at Heegh on 31 October 1669, she must have reached an extraordinarily great age. It does not seem impossible that she passed the century; yet it must not be lost sight of that the naming in the tax cohieren is not always a sound basis, because the former naming is sometimes maintained longer than corresponds with the actual situation.

Known is the family coat of arms of the family “Marnstra or Mernstra”, which appears to be a different family from the family “Martsma or Mertsma”, for which reason a heraldic description of it has not been included here.

CHILDREN:

From the first marriage:

Aeltie Johannesdr. (Greydanus), who follows under number: 46.

From the second marriage:

1. Antje Johannesdr., who follows under number: 47.

2. Hans Johannes, who follows under number: 48.
3. Benedictus Johannes, who follows under number: 49.
4. Cornelis Johannes, who follows under number: 50.
5. Sijdske Johannesdr., who follows under number: 51.
6. Froukjen Johannesdr., who follows under number: 52.

---

12 GRIETTIE BENEDICTUS

Line of descent: Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1II

She was baptized at Franeker 11 August 1669, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed baptismal register there:

> “(1669) The 11th (of August)
> Benedictus Tiaards has a child baptized,
> named Griettie.”

Nothing further has been found concerning her, so that she will presumably have died at a young age.

---

13 JAN BENEDICTUS

Line of descent: Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1II

His baptismal entry in the Franeker Reformed baptismal register reads as follows:

> “2/ (Anno 1674) the 15th (of March).
> Bindix Tjeerds has a child baptized
> named Jan.”

Now at Franeker there is found, in the church register (dated 18 Sept. 1729) and in the judicial register of marriage proclamations (dated 17 Sept. 1729), the intended marriage of "Jan Benedictus, living at Franeker before May 1729, but at present at St. Anna gebuirte, and of Pyttje Meinderts, spinster, likewise at St. Anna Gebuirte" (according to the church register of marriage proclamations the attestation was taken out on 2 October), while in the church marriage register of St. Anna Parochie there was recorded on 18 September 1729 the marriage of Jan Benedictus of Franeker and Pyttje Meinderts of Anna Parochie. On 18 and 25 September and 2 October the proclamations took place at St. Anna Parochie, and on 9 October following the marriage was solemnized there.

Since no proof or indication can be adduced that this Jan Benedictus is the same person as the Jan Benedictus who was baptized at Franeker 15 March 1674, what is reported concerning him and his daughter must be accepted with the necessary reservation.

MARRIED:

PYTTJE MEINDERTS, 9 October 1729 at St. Anna Parochie.

She was the daughter of Meindert Jilles, since on 19 November 1730 at St. Anna Parochie there was baptized Geertje, child of Jan Benedictus, which child was held at the font by Jan Benedictus' father-in-law: Meindert Jilles. Further investigation showed that Mein-/d/ert Jil/l/es and his wife Grietie Everts († 28 January 1722) settled with attestation at St. Anna Parochie on 26 April 1711, coming from Vrouwebuurt, and that this couple had the following children baptized at St. Anna Parochie: Evert, baptized 28 June 1711, — Tjerk, baptized 6 May 1714, — and Jetske, baptized 2 February 1716.

CHILD:

Geertje Jansdr., who follows under number: 53.

FOURTH GENERATION (Nos 14 TO 53 INCLUSIVE)

1685—1795

/1685 the "Réfugiés" come to our country; Stadhouder (stadholder) Willem de Derde proclaimed King of England in 1689; 1695 Christiaan Huygens, the inventor of the pendulum clock, dies; 1702 death of Willem de Derde, wars with Lodewijk de Veertiende; 1738 death of Herman Boerhaave; 2nd half of the 18th century the "Pruikentijd" (Periwig Age); 1785—1787 civil strife between the Patriots or Keezen and the Orangemen, Orange supporters or Prince's men; 1795 the Batavian Republic/.

Child of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (No 5) and Aefke Olthoff first marriage · 2 · 1[I]

---

14 JOHANNES (JOANNES, JOHANNIS) GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Tjardus 5[I] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

He was baptized at Achlum 12 August 1683, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Achlum and Hitsum:

> "1683 On the 12th of August baptized at Achlum Joannes > a little son of Tjardus Greydanus minister > the father and Aefke Olthof the mother."

Johannes Greydanus first lived at Pingjum, from which place, as we have seen, his mother Aefke Olthoff came, and there he practised the occupation of husbandman and of merchant.

That he was a husbandman appears from the house-assessment register of Wonseradeel, in which under the date of 18 April 1711 is found the "House-assessment made by Master Masons, Carpenters together with a gardener at the request of Eeltie and Albert Ruirds as administrators of the estate of the late Jan Ruirds Registered on the one part, and Johannes Greydanus at Pinjum, with regard to the House, Barn and further tenant's right, standing on the farmstead of the Widow of Mr. Hector van Glinstra, at Pinjum." The house and barn etc. were assessed at 1505 g.gl. 14 strs; the garden according to the first planting at 183 cargl. 5 strs and according to the present condition at 477 cargl. 16 strs.

Johannes Greydanus thus took over from Jan Ruirds the lease of house, barn and garden on a farmstead of the Widow of Mr. Hector van Glinstra at Pingjum. This is confirmed by the Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of Pingjum of 1718, where for place No 36 the heirs of Hector van Glinstra are mentioned as owners and Johannes Greydanus as user. Likewise in the printed stemcohier of 1728 Johannes Greydanus is the tenant of place No 36 at Pingjum; the owner has then, however, become: Haytse Pabes at Pietersbierum. One finds, namely, in the printed Stemcohieren: in those of 1640 and 1698 on page 219 of Wonseradeel (2nd part of Westergo) and in those of 1640 and 1728 on page 274 of Westergo, the following:

	Pingjum (Wonseradeel). 1698		1728
Place	Owner	Tenant	Owner	Tenant
No 36	The former Grietman (district magistrate) Hector van Glinstra	Jan Ruirds.	Haytse Pabes[1] at Pietersbierum	Johannes Greidanus".

Besides this he also rented land from the Church at Pingjum. This can be found in the Church Wardens' account books of 1680—1714 and of 1715—1750, kept by the minister at Pingjum, from which books it appears that from 1710 to 1722 he rented ½ Pondemaat of church land, the first years at a yearly rent of 1 gulden and 8 strs and later for double the price, namely 2 gulden and 16 strs, and that in 1735/1736 he leased from the Church the "buire-venne" for 12 gulden and 12 strs. Concerning the first rent one meets in the said books each time an entry like that concerning e.g. 1719:

> "(Receipts 1719) ditto (4 Oct.) Johannes Greidanus the rent > of ½ pondemaat in his meadow Martini 1718 2—16—:", while the entry concerning the last rent reads:

> "(Receipts 1736)
> From Johannes Greidanus > one year's rent of > the buire venne due Mart > 1736 12—12—."

According to the Floreencohier (land-tax register) of 1718 of Wonseradeel, Johannes Greidanus at Pingjum had the following land in use in that year:

	Floreen.
No 99. farmstead 70½ P.M., of which the Widow of Mr. Glinstra was owner	25	20	6

	Floreen.
N° 132. 7 P.M., of which D^{s} P. Olthof and Bae Watses were owners	3	“	“
N° 167. ½ P.M., of which the Church of Pinjum was owner	0	5	12
N° 290. ½ P.M., of which the heirs of Gatske Gerlofs were owners	0	8	4

Johannes Greydanus further occurs as husbandman at Pingjum:

2 February 1715 in the accounts of Curators — Q[1] — of Wonseradeel (see hereafter page 263);

[1] Later family name “Bokma”.

10 March 1716 in the will drawn up on that date by his half-brother Ausonius Greydanus, the contents of which are given in full on pages 288/89;

16 December 1716 in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker (see hereafter page 263).

That Johannes Greydanus was also a merchant appears from the following entry of his second marriage, and from the entries below, taken from the account books mentioned above:

Expenditure 1709.
“On the 16 December to J. Greidanüs on account of clothing, for the poor, per receipt N° 54 25—11—:”
Expenditure 1737.
“On the 21 December to Johannes Greidanus on account of bread delivered, received by the poor. 46— : —:”, from which it follows that Johannes Greydanus supplied: articles of clothing and bread.

Johannes Greydanus repeatedly formed part of the Dutch Reformed church board at Pingjum; thus we find him in 1712 as Kerkvoogd (church warden), in 1713 as Administering Kerkvoogd, in 1716 as deacon, in 1724 again as Kerkvoogd and in 1725 once more as Administering Kerkvoogd.

Attached are reproductions of a few pages from the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens') account book of Pingjum.

The page which I have called A relates among other things to the handing over of the office of Administering Kerkvoogd by the “honourable Albert Ruirds” to the “honourable Johannes Greidanüs”, who has co-signed the document drawn up by the minister, which reads as follows:

> “On this day, the 27th of the winter month 1712, the congregation of the village of Pingiüm entitled to vote has, after previous announcement > from house to house > and ringing of the bell, assembled in the church there, in order to examine > the account of the administration of the church goods there > rendered by the honourable Albert Rüirds, farmer at Pingiüm, > for the year as above, and it has been found, > That the receipts amount to the sum of one thousand five hundred > and fifty-two Carolus guilders and fourteen stuivers 8 penningen — 1552—14—8.
> The expenditure, both with and without receipts, to the sum of one > thousand four hundred and eighty-eight Carolus guilders 1488—14— :
> The receipts being compared with the expenditure, it has been found that there was > received more, to the sum of sixty-four guilders 8 p. —64—0—8.
> which surplus money, to the sum as above, > has been paid over by the outgoing church warden mentioned above to his successor, the honourable Johannes Greidanüs.
> And the above-named outgoing church warden, the honourable Alb. Rüirds, > is thanked for good and faithful administration.
> Thereupon one proceeded to the voting and election of > a new church warden, and by a majority of the > votes there was chosen — the honourable Jan Reins[1] receiver at Pingiüm — > thereupon one separated, in witness whereof the signing of our hands, (Latin) done as above > (signed) Johannes Greijdanus Tammerüs Domna > Tialling Meijnderts Eccles. in Pingiüm etc.
> Meijnert Dircks
> J. Hiddinga Jan Reins[1]
> Harmen Willems
> Fenes Dürcks Douwe Johannes > Hein Maertens
> Pijtter Jaargs

The page which I have called B is a page of the administration for 1713, conducted by Johannes Greydanus as Kerkvoogd. The page, which is not written in his own hand, reads as follows:

> "Receipts during > the administration of the honourable > Johannes Greidanüs as Church warden at Pinjüm, for the year > 1713, stated in Carolus gld. s. p.
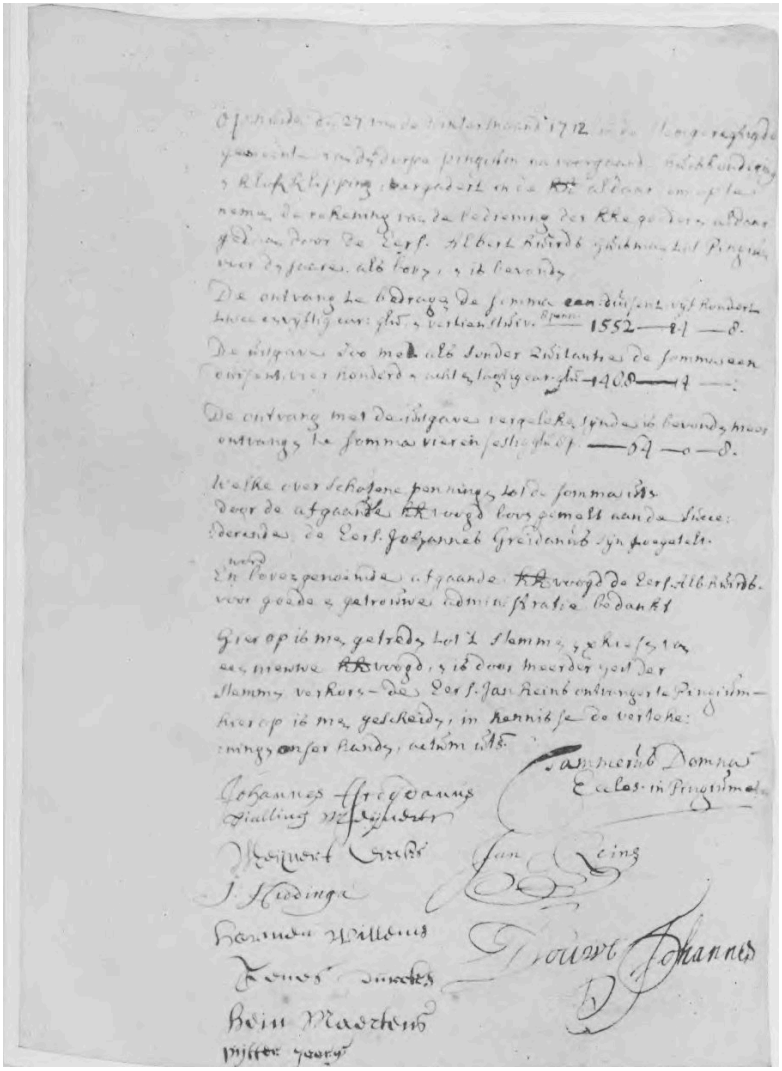
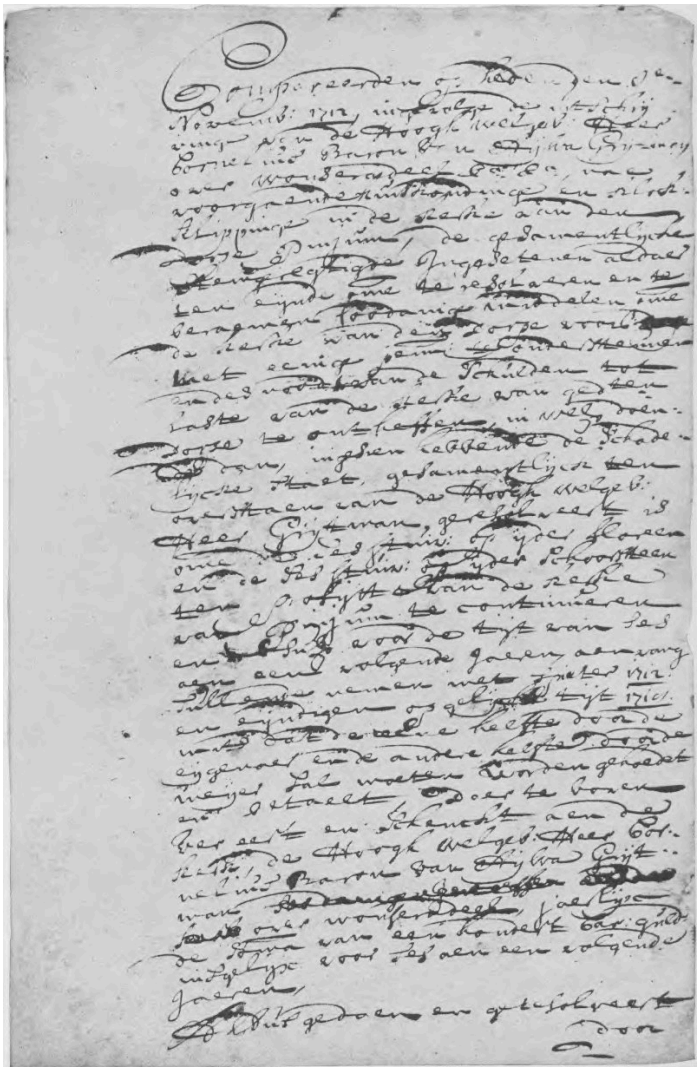
> On the 27 December from the outgoing

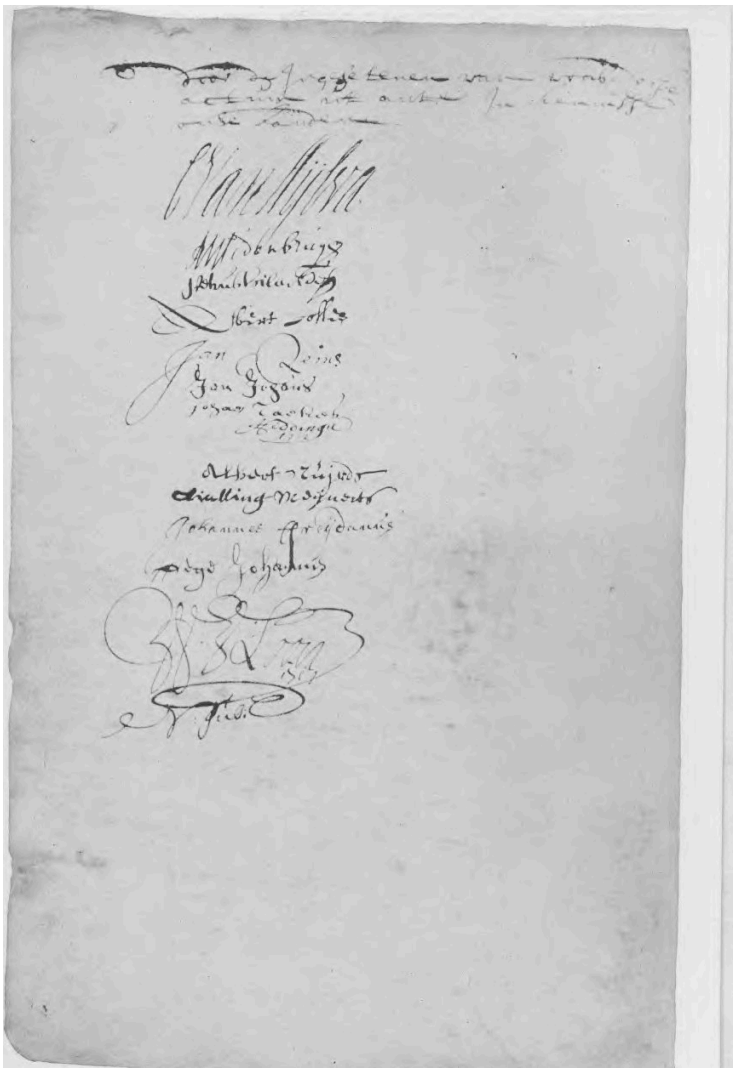
[1] Probably Jan Reins Heringa.



Page, called A by me, with the signature dated 27 December 1712 of the Administering Church Warden Johannes Greijdanús, from the Rekeningboek der Herv. Kerkvoogdij van Pingjum (somewhat reduced).



Page, called by me C, with the beginning (for the conclusion see opposite), of a resolution taken by the voting-entitled inhabitants of Pingjum dated 8 November 1712, to provide for the debts of the Church, from the Rekeningboek der Herv. Kerkvoogdij van Pingjum (see page 261) (somewhat reduced).



Page, called by me D, with the conclusion of the resolution referred to alongside, signed among others by Johannes Greijdanús (see page 261) (somewhat reduced).

Page, which I have called B, of the Administration for 1713, conducted by the Church Warden Johannes Greidanus, from the Account Book of the Dutch Reformed Church Wardens of Pingjum (somewhat reduced).

Kerkvoogd Albert Ruirds the surplus shown at the last account 64— : —8.
Ditto from Teeunis Dirks the rent for 4 pondm̃ on the lange miede and the breede dijk due Mt: 1712: 28— : — :
Ditto from Claas Claasen the rent of $3^{1}/_{2}$ pondm̃ in dyxhoek 21— : — :
Ditto from Waaling Claasen the rent for the Endgarsen 4—14— :
1713. The 23rd of January, from Sipke Johannes for stone bought from Albert Ruirds 3— 3— :
Lat:[1] 120—17—8”

The pages, which I have called C and D, concern a resolution taken by the voting-entitled inhabitants of Pingjum to provide for the debts of the Church, and read as follows:

[the following quotation is printed in two italic columns]

"There appeared today the 8th of November 1712, pursuant to the summons of the Right Honourable Corneliüs Baron van Aijlva, Grietman (district magistrate) of Wonseradeel etc. etc., after previous house announcement and bell-ringing, in the church of the village of Pinjüm, the joint voting-entitled inhabitants there, in order to resolve and to devise such means as to support the church of the aforesaid village with some money and, if need be, to relieve it of the debts charged to the church of the said village; in doing which, then, having considered the damaging state, it has been jointly resolved in the presence of the Right Honourable Grietman to continue the six stuivers on each floreen and the six stuivers on each chimney for the benefit of the church of Pinjüm, and that for the period of six consecutive years, which shall begin at St. Peter 1712 and end at the same time in 1718, provided that the one half shall have to be borne and paid by the owner and the other half by the tenant. Over and above this the Right Honourable Corneliüs Baron van Aijlva, Grietman of Wonseradeel, presents and donates to the church yearly the sum of one hundred Carolus guilders, likewise for six consecutive years.
Thus done and resolved by the inhabitants of the aforesaid village. (Latin) Done as above. In witness whereof our signatures signed C. van Aijlva
A. Widenbrugh
Petrüs Hilarides
Albert Lolles
Jan Reins [2]
Jan Johans
Johaen Taekes
Hiddinga
1712.
Albert Rüyrds
Tjalling Meijnerts
Johannes Greijdanüs
Oege Johannis
W. v. Loon
1712.
N: Pub:"

The deaconship of Johannes Greydanus is further brought to light by the following entry in the Pingjum Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) account book:

"1716 17 May Ditto Johs Greidanus as deacon the rent for 2 rooms being inhabited by Anne Dirks and Lieuk O: due May, appears from receipt N° 4. f 13— : — :"

From the expenditure entry dated 21 December 1737 communicated on page 260, one might draw the conclusion that Johannes Greydanus was living at Pingjum on that date. In any case he was not established there on 28 April 1734, since it appears from the following registration in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Wonseradeel that he was then residing with his wife at Kimswerd.

Deed dated 28 April 1734, registered 6 December 1738.

> "Johannes Greidanus and Ydtje Folkerts, spouses at present living at Kimswert, acknowledge owing 1000 Carolus guilders to Sjoerd Wybrens Wijngaerden, master sailmaker in Harlingen, in his capacity as curator over Claas Jacobs, being a surviving son of the late Jacob Clasen, in his lifetime master cabinetmaker and Vroedsman (town councillor) of the aforesaid town, this in the place of two separate bonds lying charged to us and to the profit of the deceased Jacob Claasen aforesaid, the one dated 26 May 1717 for 800 Carolus guilders principal, the second dated 11 Jan. 1719 for 200 Carolus guilders, bearing interest at $4^1/_2$%."

[1] la'tus = page total.

[2] Probably Jan Reins Heringa.

Johannes Greydanus will have moved to Kimswerd in connection with the fact that his second wife Ydtje Folkerts Gerbranda came from that place and that her parents owned various landed properties there. Ydtje Folkerts Gerbranda accordingly inherited landed property at Kimswerd (see pages 268 and 269), as can be seen among other things from the Floreencohier (land-tax register) of 1738, in which as owner of the farm Kimswert N° 8 is entered Johannes Greidanus nom. filiæ (Latin: in the name of the daughter). From the latter it again appears that Ydtje Folkerts Gerbranda was no longer alive in 1738 and had left her landed property at Kimswerd to her daughter.

Johannes Greydanus himself died on 4 December 1738. This has been drawn from the "Register of the Life Annuities [1] d.d. 28 April 1730 /R Ic/53/" present in the Archive of the Provincial Executive of Friesland, Rekenkamer (Chamber of Accounts) department, in which occurs:

> under N° 2592: Resolution of the Rekenkamer d.d. 13 April 1702: Johannes Greydanus, 46 years[2] at Aghlum with the amount of 14—.—. and the years 1730 up to and including 1738 as well as the addition: (Latin) "died 4 Dec. 1738"; > and under N° 4356: Resolution of the Rekenkamer d.d. 27 February 1705: Johannes Greydanus, 48 years[2] at Aghlum, with the amount 14—.—. and the years 1730 up to and including 1738 as well as the addition: (Latin) "died 4 Dec. 1738."
>

This date of death of 4 December 1738 agrees with the entry on 27 Dec. 1738 "expenditure without receipt" accounted for by Johaan Tekes Hiddinga in the Church Wardens' Account Book of Pingjum:

"Two sheets bought at the estate sale of J. Greidanus for Geetske Hendriks 1—17— :"

Moreover one finds in this Account Book the following entry as well: “expenditure with receipt” by Johaan Tekes Hiddinga:

> “On 8 Jan. 1739 To > Bauke and Trijntie Greidanus [3]
> on account of bread, eggs: Lieuk Obbes, > Gretske Hendriks, Lysbet Jans,
> Doede Sytses, Sybe Clases
> And Nies Harmens, on account of > Jeltie Janties. Receipt shown. 43—9— :”

Johannes Greydanus thus reached the age of 55 years.

Already when he was still a minor he lent money to others, since by deed d.d. 25 May 1702, registered d.d. 2 June 1706 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Wonseradeel, Eibert Pytters, skipper, acknowledges, for himself and as husband and guardian of Doetje Andles his lawful wife at Pingium, that he owes a sum of 52 cargl. 10 strs to the honourable Ds. Tjardus Greidanus, minister at Achlum c.a., as father and lawful guardian of Johannes Greidanus, his son by a former marriage, begotten in wedlock with Afke Olthoff his first wife, at an interest of $4^{1}/_{2}$%, whereby as Post S. is noted: “the above-cited has occurred by mistake, as it speaks of and stands in Ds. Greidanus' own name, so that it is to his profit.”

After the death of his father, Johannes Greydanus was appointed on 4 June 1712 by the Court of Wonseradeel as guardian over the little daughter Trijntie Johannes (Jans) of his father's sister Elisabeth Greydanus, married to Johannes (Jan) Antonides or Antonii //van/ Boeckholt/, which appears from the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Wonseradeel and from the deed d.d. 15 December 1712 in Part 14 of the Franeker Weesboeken (orphans' registers), in which among other things occurs:

> “There appeared before the presiding B[r] H. D. Lomers, Commissioner appointed in this matter, assisted by the Secretary J. Scheltema, the Lord S. van Westerhuis, authorized guardian over Ausonius Greidanus as well as Johannes and Yttie Greidanus, both children of age and heirs of the late Ds. Tjardus Greidanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum and Hitsum, as guardian over Trijntie Jans, thus Requirants and Renderers on the one part;
>
> Upon and against Johannes Greidanus, authorized guardian over the said Trijntie Jans, in this matter Requiree and Renderee on the other part, concerning such receipts and expenditures as the late Ds. Tjardus Greidanus has had over the said Trijntie Jans since 14 September 1703 up to the date hereof” etc. At the end of the deed it is stated that “the orphans' account is approved, the curatorship being recommended to Johannes Greijdanus*.”*

[1] “Constituted upon the life” of the said persons, “chargeable to the Province of Frieslandt”. These bonds then yielded 7% interest, so that Johannes Greydanus over the years 1730 up to and including 1738 enjoyed an interest of f 14.— per year for a capital of f 200.— invested in life-annuity bonds.

[2] It appears that the age was taken according to the year of entry in the Register, but the place of residence is undoubtedly according to the years 1702 and 1705 of the Resolutions which related to these life annuities.

[3] These were Johannes Greydanus' children.

In the Accounts of Curators — Q1 — of Wonseradeel one finds a request addressed to the Honourable Court of Wonseradeel by Feike Pytters, baker at Hylaard, as husband and guardian of Trijntje Johannes Antonides his wife, which according to an apostil of 2 February 1715 was placed in the hands of the Mede Regter (associate judge) Adrianus Grons as Commissaris (commissioner). In this request it is stated:

> “that upon the death of Elisabeth Greydanus, widow of the late Johannes Anthonides, his wife's mother, who died at Sexbierum, Dom. Theardus Greidanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum, became authorized curator over his wife and over her property left to her by her parents, and administered her property; upon the death of which curator his son Johannes Greidanus, at present farmer at Pingum, as co-heir in his father's place received the property of the original petitioner into his keeping and succeeded to the said curatorship over her, requesting that a Commissaris be appointed, before whom Johannes Greidanus may render account and reckoning of his father's and of his own administration.”
>
> Upon this follows a “summons of Johannes Greydanus to appear on 14 February 1715 at Bolswart in the Gryttenie Regtkamer (district courtroom)”, together with the “Account rendered by Joannes Greydanus at Pingjum as authorized curator over Trijntie Jans, who has given herself in marriage to Feycke Pytters at Hylaard, and thus of his administration which he has had over the property of the said Trijntie Jans since his authorization, following upon the account rendered by the Heer S. Westerhuys to the accountant on 15 December 1712 before the Commissaris of the court of the town of Franequer, upon which this one follows.” Furthermore it is mentioned that Joannes Greydanus was authorized as curator by the Honourable Court of Wonseradeel on 4 June 1712.

Johannes Greydanus has already been mentioned by me:

> On page 207, namely in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker of 16 December 1716, concerning the separation and division of the property left by his father Ds. Tjardus Greydanus. Therein it is stated that Johannes Greidanus, farmer at Pingjum, is heir for a $^{1}/_{5}$ part of his late father D[nus] Tjardus Greidanus, that he “has enjoyed and received his maternal property for some years and long during the lifetime of his late father”, and that “for the $^{1}/_{5}$ from his late father there is due to him 654 gulden and 9 stuivers,” but that “after various hearings held and in order to prevent discord it was agreed by the parties” that on account of the paternal property he shall receive 600 gulden;
>
> On page 214, namely in the Accounts of Curators of Wonseradeel (Portfolio Q[1]), in which is found an “account” rendered on 20 August 1717 by Joannes Greidanus, “for himself and as having the commission and power of attorney of D[nus] Gerlacus Olthoff, V.D.M. at Schalsum and Boir, together with D[nus] Petrus Olthoff, V.D.M. at Achlum and Hitsum, children and grandchild (this was Joannes Greydanus himself) and heirs of the > late Jan Gerlofs Olthoff, in his lifetime merchant at Pingum, and thus of the administration which the late Jan Gerloffs Olthoff has had since his account rendered on 27 August 1711 before the Commissaris of this Honourable Court" etc.

Johannes Greydanus must not have been without means, since his mother Aefke Olthoff, of whom he was the only child, inherited, as we have seen on page 210, a not inconsiderable sum from her father, his own paternal portion amounted to 600 gulden, and both his first wife Claaske Baukes Fopma and his second Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda (see under those wives) belonged to a well-to-do family. Yet he seems to have "fared" badly, since in 1734, thus some years before his death, he still had a debt of 1000 caroliguldens; the descendants of his son Bauke too became poorer and poorer; his daughter Trijntje, on the other hand, was not without means. Judging from the contents of the various documents one would say that he was disposed more towards administrative work than towards farming, and that he was not a disagreeable man, since an agreement concerning the fixing of the size of his paternal portion could apparently be concluded with him without much trouble, and his half-brother Ausonius bequeathed to him in his will of 10 March 1716 the sum of "one hundred silver ducatons, or three hundred and fifteen caroliguldens" (see page 289).

MARRIED:

1° CLAASKE (KLAASKE) BAUKES FOPMA, namely at Achlum (certificate taken out at Spannum on 2 September 1708), daughter of Bauke Fransen Fopma and Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama.

The entries relating to this marriage read as follows:

Church Marriage Register of Pingjum: "The marriage banns of Johannis Tjaardus Greidanus, merchant at Pinjum, and Klaaske Baukes Fopma at Spannum were announced on 18 August in the year 1708 and in September a certificate was issued in order to marry at Achlum....."

Church Marriage Register of Spannum: "1708. Johannes Greidanüs of Pingium and Claaske Baukes Fopma at Sp: had on the 19th of August their first proclamation, and so on thereafter, and on 2 September a certificate was given in order to be confirmed in the married state at Aglum."

Claaske Baukes Fopma was a daughter of Bauke Fransen Fopma and Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama, who married at Leeuwarden on 28 January 1683, according to the following marriage entries:

at Leeuwarden (Church Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Church): Married on 28 January 1683:

> "Baucke Franssen Fopma at Welsrijp and Lolckien Wilckes Wolcama in this city.";

at Welsrijp in the register of members, baptisms and marriages kept by the minister:

> "Anno 1683. On this day, 14 January 1683, Baûke Fransen Fopma at Welsrijp, and Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama declared their marriage banns to me, and after their names had been proclaimed on 3 successive Sundays, and that without any objection, they were thereupon on 28 January 1683 confirmed in their Holy State of Matrimony at Leeûwarden."

Accompanying this is a draft: fragment genealogy of the family "Fopma", on which are also shown the other alliances with the family "Greydanus", namely Maria Greydanus (N° 62 of this genealogy), who married Tjalle Sjoerds Bosscha, a son of Sipkje Tjalles Fopma — and Dieuke Greydanus (N° 69 of this genealogy), whose husband Frans Baukes Fopma was a great-grandson of our Bauke Fransen Fopma.

As is recorded in the marriage entry at Welsrijp of Bauke Fransen Fopma, he was then living at Welsrijp, where his mother Lysbet Clases, apparently after the death of her husband at Leeuwarden, settled in 1681 together with her daughter Lolckjen Baukes (Romeda, Rommertha, Rommerda), widow of Tarquinius Sybema, according to the following entry in the register of members, baptisms and marriages of Welsrijp:

> "On 23 October 1681, having held the Lord's Holy and most worthy Supper > in and with my[1] congregation in the village of Welsrijp, > the following persons were added to the bosom of our > Church.
> I. After showing good attestation:
> 1. Lysbet Claeses, widow of the late Rentmeester (steward) > Frans Sipkes, and > 2. Lolck Baukes, her daughter, widow of > the late clerk Sybema of Leeuwarden."

Bauke Fransen Fopma and Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama lived at first at Holwerd, as follows from the Proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales):

> of Baarderadeel, proclamation 13/27 Oct./8 December 1684, according to which Lolckien Wilties, assisted by her husband, at Holwert, buys $^1/_3$ part of 20 goudguldens perpetual rent issuing from Mockama-State at Bosum from Moerckien Douwes, assisted by her husband[2], of which the purchaser already owned the remaining $^2/_3$ parts herself;

of Hennaarderadeel, proclamation 16/30 June/28 July 1686, whereby Baucke Fransen and Lolcktien Wilties, living at Holwert, buy a farm at Spannum. This proclamation reads as follows:

> "Bauke Fransen and Lolcktien Wilties, married couple, living at Holwert, request registration, bid and consent for the (purchase of)[3] a certain voting-registered farmstead of land, seventy pondemaat in size, situated at Spannum, inhabited and used by the heirs of Trintie Sijbrens, the house, barn, trees and plantation with appurtenances being merged into the purchase of the lands, burdened with eighteen floreen in the general assessment for taxation, and with the tenancy for this current year, receiving therefrom as rent 212 caroliguldens 12 stuivers, besides one year's rent advanced, which the married purchasers will receive from the tenants next May: which sum they will have to repay to them after the expiry of the tenancy; further with all other burdens, profits, claims, servitudes and rights, as regards the maintenance of dikes, roads, waterways, footbridges, stiles, gangways, cart-road and droveway, both active and passive, belonging and appertaining thereto, none excepted, in the manner in which it belonged to us sellers, against whom the purchasers shall have no claim, even though everything may not have been expressed specifically, it having been acquired by purchase from the joint heirs of the late noble Lord Sabinus van Wissama, in his lifetime Grytman (district magistrate) of Idaerderadeel, and Lady Frou van Burmania, at the time husband and wife, thus sold and conveyed, each pondemaat for the sum of 64 goudguldens, to be paid in money free of costs and without loss, both as regards consent money 56 penningen and otherwise, in instalments as on 1 May 1686, 1687 and 1688, each time a full third part, more fully according to the deed of purchase hereof.
>
> The Court awarded consent to the purchaser. Done on 28 July 1686."

The couple Bauke Fransen Fopma × Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama will have settled on the farm at Spannum soon after the year of purchase 1686, since their daughter Lysbeth, who was baptized on 24 October 1686, is their last child appearing in the baptismal register of Holwerd. The child following Lysbeth, Claaske, the later wife of Johannes Greyda-

[1] Note by D[s] Leuconis Bernardusz. Sylvius, from 1664—1707 V.D.M. at Welsrijp.

[2] Moerckien (Murkje) Douwes (Winia), married to Abelus van Echten (see page 266).

[3] These words have been omitted from the deed.

Draft: Fragment Genealogy "Fopma". Belongs with page 264. [in the row Bauke Tjerks Romeda — Lysbet Clases — Frans Sipkes Fopma — Reinuke Tialkes Bonnema the letters A and B, printed above the two wives, number the marriages of Frans Sipkes Fopma, while the numerals I and II, printed above Bauke Tjerks Romeda and above Frans Sipkes Fopma, number the two marriages of Lysbet Clases.] - Sipke Sipkes Fopma — 1620 on Fopma-zathe at Hoogebeintum. 1622 Volmacht (delegate) of Ferwerderadeel. Still living 1626. - ⚭ Lolck Fransdr. Unia — dau. of Frans Fockes Unia and Saapck Gijsbertsdr. Ysera. d. Hoogebeintum 1640. - Tjalle Sipkes Fopma — ± 1646 elder at Ried. d. 1661. - ⚭ I Geertje (Geurtje) Dircksdr. — within the clockslag (bell-ringing jurisdiction) of Harlingen. m. before the Court of Harlingen 14 March 1630. - Geertje Tjalles Fopma — b. 1631/32. d. 26 October 1698? aged 66 yrs., buried at Ried. - ⚭ Folckert Gerrits — d. 16 June 1695, in his 68th year. - Tjalle Folckerts Fopma — (surname "Fopma" taken over from his mother). First at Makkum, afterwards burgher, merchant and "Wesevoogd (orphanage governor) of the enclosed Orphanage" at Workum. - ⚭ Bauck Rinsesdr. — dau. of Rinse Lolkes and Antie Douwes (Gerlsma), spouses at Wons. m. Ried 28 October 1694; at marriage from Makkum. - Folkert Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Makkum 16 August 1696. d. before 10 February 1703. - Rinse Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Makkum 27 July 1697. - Gertje Tjalles Fopma. — bapt. Makkum 19 February 1699. - ⚭ Jacob Doijema — In 1754 farmers at Pingjum. - Antie Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Workum 9 February 1701. - Folkert Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Workum 10 February 1703. - Gelske Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Workum 22 June 1704. - Sipkje/n/ Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Workum 22 Sept. 1706. Marriage procl. Harlingen 3/10/17 February 1737. - ⚭ Sjoerd Bouwes Bosscha — b. at Lippenhuizen. Becomes a burgher of Harlingen 28 December 1733. Mr. Gortmaeker (master groats miller) at Harlingen. - Tjalle Sjoerds Bosscha - ⚭ Maria Greydanus - Sipke Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Ried 10 March 1644. 1672—1691 at Ried. Unmarried. d. Ried 1691. - Sytske Tyalles Fopma — m. at Ried in 1661; at marriage: "from the Monastery Aengjum". - ⚭ Aeryen Lamberts — at marriage from St. Jacobi Parochie. ± 1662 spouses at Ried. - Children also called themselves "Fopma", e.g. Tjalle Arjens Fopma, Burgomaster of Harlingen. - Lolkien Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Ried June 1647. - Sierk Tjalles Fopma — bapt. Ried 4 June 1655. - ⚭ II Gerlske Siercks — b. ± 1613. d. 27 Jan. 1678 at Ried, aged 64 years. - Trijntje Sipkes Fopma - ⚭ I Bocke Riencx — in 1640 meijer (tenant) of the vote-bearing farm Holwerd n°. 18, Blinxma or Meinsma (see pp. 266 and 267). - ⚭ II Wilcke Hebbes Wolcama — son of Hebbe Taeckes Wolcama and Fettie Halbes. Bijsitter (assessor) of Westdongeradeel 1654—1660. - Lolckien Wilties Wolcama - ⚭ Bauke Fransen Fopma (see below) — (for further particulars, see alongside). - Trijntje Baukes Fopma — bapt. Holwerd 20 January 1684. d. 7 November 1749. - ⚭ Pyter Klaassen — at Tzum and Winsum. d. 21 April 1762. Buried in the front part of the church at Spannum. - Lysbeth Baukes Fopma — bapt. Holwerd 24 October 1686. d. 12 January 1755. Buried 20 January 1755 in the grave of her husband. - ⚭ Ds. Gerardus Noordbeek Elbertusz. — son of Ds. Elbertus Joannisz. Nortbeck, minister at: Tjalbert, Harlingen, Stavoren and Workum, and Hotske Aabes. Minister, first at Olde en Nieuwe Berkoop, later at Minnertsga. d. Minnertsga August 1738. Buried in the Church at Spannum. - Claaske Baukes Fopma - ⚭ I Johannes Greydanus - ⚭ II Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda - Sytske Wilties Wolcama - ⚭ Outger Jarichs - Frans Sipkes Fopma — Steward and Merchant at Leeuwarden. Marriage procl. with A Leeuwarden, 20 September, 27 ditto and 4 October 1640 (attestation given 5 Octob. 1640). Marriage attestation with B Franeker 15 August 1657. d. 6 July 1679, aged 65 years. Buried "by the South door of the Church at Stiens." - ⚭ A Reinuke Tialkes Bonnema — widow of Syerck Tannia. - ⚭ B Lysbet Clases — 23 October 1681 at Welsrijp. d. 1693. - ⚭ I Bauke Tjerks Romeda — son of Tjerk Baukes Romeda and Jouwerke Andries. 1656 Burgher and Merchant at Franeker. - Tjerk Baukes Romeda — b. ± 1646. - Lolckjen Baukes Romeda (Rommerda) — b. ± 1648. 23 October 1681 at Welsrijp. - ⚭ Tarquinius Sybema — Schrijver (clerk) and Rollarius of the Court of Friesland at Leeuwarden. d. before 23 October 1681. - Bauke Fransen Fopma — bapt. Leeuwarden 24 Nov. 1658. At marriage from Welsrijp. m. Leeuwarden 28 January 1683. Farmer until ± 1687 at Holwerd, afterwards on his own farm, N° 19 of the Stemcohier (register of voting farms), at Spannum. d. 7 January 1694. Buried in the Church at Spannum. - ⚭ II Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama (see above) — b. ± 1655 at Hoogebeintum, dau. of Wilcke Hebbes Wolcama and Trijntje Sipkes Fopma. 11 April 1742 at Oosterlittens. d. 12 May 1744. Buried at Spannum in the grave of her 2nd husband. - ⚭ I Sipke Sipkes Sasma — m. ± 1674. 29 March 1678 at Mantgum. d. 11 March 1681. - Sipke Sipkes Sasma — bapt. Mantgum 1 Jan. 1680, d. young. - Frans Baukes Fopma — b. Spannum 17 September 1690. Bapt. at Spannum by Ds. Jacobus Schotanus. Farmer on his own father's farm at Spannum, N° 19 of the Stemcohier. His name appears as Kerkvoogd (church warden) on a memorial stone of 1742, on which his family coat of arms is also placed, in the church tower at Spannum. d. 15 December 1747. Buried in the grave of his wife. - ⚭ Geertje (Gertie) Hessels (Strikwerda) — b. Lijons 28 May 1693. Bapt. Oosterlittens 25 June 1693, as dau. of Hessel Jans and Rixtje Pijtters Strikwerda (see the scheme "Strikwerda" with page 390). At marriage from Oosterlittens. m. Oosterlittens 1 November 1716. d. 12 October 1742. Buried 18 October 1742 in the Church at Spannum. - Bauke Fransen Fopma — b. Spannum 28 December 1717. Farmer on his own father's farm. Church warden and Elder at Spannum. Writer of an autobiography. Apparently died in 1791 at Spannum, where there is a "doodbaar" (bier) in the Church, on which the following verse, presumably from his hand, is painted: "Now I set out on the last journey, And leave behind only the sinful flesh, And if you serve God willingly And make Christ your friend. We shall now, God will sweeten it, Meet one another one day in joy, A joy where one knows no sorrow And where one knows nothing of parting And where one never saw an eye weep. Fear God and follow. I go before. B. 1791. F.F." - ⚭ Seerpjen Douwes Schotanus — b. Wommels 8 December 1725. Bapt. Wommels 9 December 1725, as dau. of Douwe Bernardus Schotanus, Surgeon at Wommels, and Tjitsche Serps (Braarda). m. Spannum 31 August 1749. - Son — b. 22 Aug[s] 1750 d. 23 Aug[s] 1750. - Son — b. 7 June 1751 d. 16 June 1751. - Lolkje Baukes Fopma — b. Spannum 18 February 1753. Bapt. Spannum 25 February 1753. d. Spannum 28 February 1753. - Son — b. 5 January 1754. d. 5 Febr. 1754. - Frans Baukes Fopma — b. Spannum 16 November 1756. Bapt. Spannum 28 November 1756. Innkeeper and Owner of the Inn "'t Hof van Holland" at Harlingen. d. Harlingen 28 August 1826. - ⚭ Dieuke Greydanus — b. Spannum 2 May 1759. dau. of Jacob Greydanus, Schoolmaster at Mantgum, and Aukjen Siebes. m. Spannum 15 May 1780. d. Harlingen 27 May 1828. - Tjitske Baukes Fopma — b. Spannum 3 February 1758. Bapt. Spannum 5 February 1758. m. Holwerd 22 June 1788. - ⚭ Ruurd Klazes Hoogterp - Douwe Baukes Fopma — b. Spannum 16 April 1760. Bapt. Spannum 27 April 1760. d. Spannum 7 February 1809. - ⚭ Antje Rinses - Gertje Baukes Fopma — b. Spannum 15 Sept. 1769. Bapt. Spannum 1

Oct. 1769. m. Beetgum 25 Nov. 1787. - ⚭ Durk Bartels Hoogterp — Master Surgeon at Beetgum. - Richtsje (Rigtie) Fransen Fopma — b. Spannum 8 December 1721. - ⚭ I Sie/t/se Eeltjes (Kooistra) — m. 15 May 1740. Farmer on the farm "de Kooi" at Tzum. d. 17 January 1759. Buried 24 January 1759 in the Church at Spannum. - ⚭ II Willem Hessels — m. in 1760. In 1761 at Edens. - Bauke Baukes Fopma — bapt. Spannum 27 May 1694, d. aged four weeks. - Sipke Fransen Fopma — Elder at Welsrijp. d. in 1694. - Lolkjen Fransen Fopma — Still living 27 May 1694, presumably at Spannum.

nus, must therefore have been held at the font at Spannum, where the baptismal registers however only begin on 2 July 1693.

Claaske Baukes Fopma must therefore have been born between 24 October 1686 and 2 July 1693, which agrees with an entry evidently relating to the children of Bauke Fransen Fopma in the Frisian Registers of Life Annuities from 1663 to 1698:

> 16 April 1697. N^{os} 1528—1531: Trijntie (14 yrs.), Lysbeth, Claeske and Frans (7 yrs.) Bauckes (Fopma) at Spannum.

According to this entry Frans was born about 1690 (in an autobiography [1]) of his son Bauke Fransen Fopma the date 17 September 1690 is given for this/, Lysbeth was baptized 24 October 1686, so that Claaske Baukes Fopma will have first seen the light of day about 1688, and indeed, as we have assumed, at Spannum. According to the autobiography just mentioned Claaske Baukes Fopma died as early as 7 July 1709, so that she reached an age of only about 20 years.

The child of Bauke Fransen Fopma and Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama following after Frans: Bauke, who according to the aforementioned autobiography lived only 4 weeks, was baptized at Spannum 27 May 1694. Bauke Fransen Fopma had already died at the time of this baptism, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Edens and Spannum:

> "1694. On 27 May I (Do^{e} Petrus Nicolai, minister at Edens and Spannum) baptized the child of Lolkjen Wiltjes [2]/, the widow of Bauke Fransen, and it is named Bauke, the aunt Lolkjen Fransen being witness."

This agrees with the above-mentioned autobiography of Bauke Fransen Fopma, who reports therein that his grandfather, also called Bauke Fransen Fopma, "died on 7 Jan. 1694 and was buried at Spannum in the church, as is stated on the stone".

The possession of the farm at Spannum also follows from the printed stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1698 and 1728, from which it appears that it was the vote-bearing farm N^{o} 19 with the description given below:

> "1698. Owner. Tenant.
> 19. for herself and as mother over her children procreated in wedlock by Bauke Fransen — Lolckjen Wiltjes widow of Bauke Fransen"
> "1728. Owner. Tenant.
> 19. Lolkjen Wiltjes for herself and in the name of her children — Frans Baukes."

In 1728 the tenant of the farm at Spannum was therefore Claaske Baukes Fopma's brother: Frans Baukes Fopma, who was married to Geertje Hessels (Strikwerda) of Oosterlittens and who later, presumably after the death of his mother Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama, also owned the farm. This Frans Baukes Fopma was at Spannum also Kerkvoogd (church warden). In the church tower there a gable stone is set in the wall, on which is stated:

> "In the year 1742 this tower was renewed and improved under the Honourable Lord Edzard van Sminia, Grietman (district magistrate) over Hennaarderadeel etc. etc. and Gentius Hesselius, minister at Edens and Spannum; the church wardens Jan Leenerds [3]/ and Frans Baukes."

On the gable stone there are also placed the family arms of these 4 persons, thus also of Frans Baukes Fopma, whose arms are as follows:

blue or red, with three green clover leaves, 1 and 2.

These arms [4]/ however do not appear to be the actual arms of the family "Fopma", to which Claaske Baukes Fopma belonged. The actual arms are to be found at Hoogebeintum on the tombstone of the progenitor of the family: Sipke Sipkes Fopma, married to Lolck Fransdr. Unia. The heraldic description (the colours are unknown), illustrated by the accompanying figure, of these ancestral arms is as follows:

[1] A copy of this autobiography is in the possession of the present president church warden at Spannum: J. D. Noordmans, who has meanwhile died in the first half of 1935.

[2] The name "Lolkjen Wiltjes" was added later, presumably by Ds. Gentius Hesselius, a later minister at Edens and Spannum (concerning him see pages 386 and 387).

[3] Three of his children later bore the surname Bontiema (Bontjema).

[4] The arms with the three clover leaves occur frequently; it does indeed seem that these emblems, by which in the pasture districts landed property in general must be meant, were used for want of a definite family coat of arms.

per pale: 1. the Frisian eagle. 2. per fess: a. two acorns side by side. b. an oak leaf.

In Rietstap's Armorial général a Fopma coat of arms is mentioned: gold with three black pots with handles, 2 and 1; in addition there also occurs for the family "Fopma" a coat of arms: per pale: 1. blue, with a lily.

2. red, with two six-pointed stars, arranged palewise.

Claaske Baukes Fopma's father was moreover entitled to the possession of $^{1}/_{3}$ and later of $^{2}/_{3}$ part of the voting farm N^{o} 6 at Welsrijp, as appears from the printed stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1698 and 1728:

> 1698.
> "N^{o} 6. Owner: Lockjen Baukes Sijbema for $^{2}/_{3}$ and Lockjen Wiltjes, on her husband's side for $^{1}/_{3}$." Meijer (tenant farmer): Lockjen Sybema > /By Lockjen Baukes Sybema will be meant Lolckjen Baukes Romeda (Rommerda, Rommertha) the widow of Tarquinius Sybema, see the draft fragment-genealogy "Fopma"/.

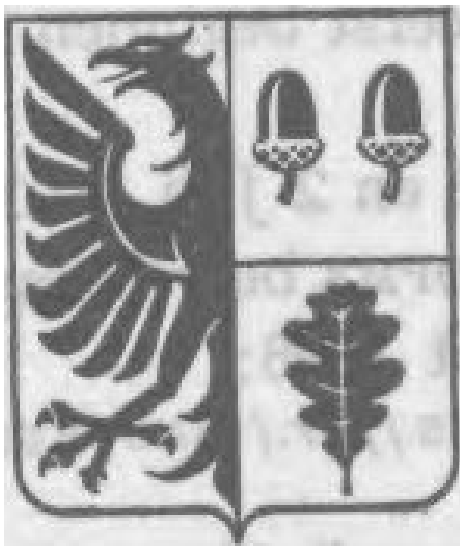
and 1728.
"N° 6. Owner: Lolkjen Wiltjes nom. lib. for $^{2}/_{3}$ and the Receiver Bauke Tjerks for $^{1}/_{3}$."
Meyer: Bauke Tjerks.



"Fopma"

Claaske Baukes Fopma's mother was co-owner of the voting farm N° 4 "Haitsma" at Firdgum, of the voting farm N° 18 "Meinsma or Blinxma" at Holwerd, and of the voting farm N° 5 at Bosum, perhaps called "Mockama" (see page 264).
The entries concerning these in the printed stemcohieren of 1698 and 1728 are as follows:

Firdgum: 1698.
"N° 4. Haijtsma.
Owner: Lolckjen Wiltjes $^{1}/_{2}$, Abeli van Echten at Leeuwarden $^{1}/_{8}$
Ipe Jentjes, Riemerus Jentema[1] and Jan Jentjes $^{1}/_{8}$, Jan Riemers $^{1}/_{2}$ in $^{1}/_{8}$, the same Ype Jentjes cum sociis $^{1}/_{3}$ in $^{1}/_{8}$, van der Laen at Weidum, Pyter Hendricks[2] and Jancke Meinderts[3] the three of them together the remaining $^{1}/_{8}$."
Meijer: Jan Riemers.
and 1728:
"Owner: Mr. Westerhuys at Franeker for the one half,
and Lolckjen Wiltjes for the other half.
Meijer: Gerben Gerbens."
Holwerd:
1698.
"N° 18. Blinxma
Owner: Lolckjen Wiltjes, widow of the late Baucke Fransen, at Spannum, for the one half, and Sijtske Wiltjes, wife of Outger Jarichs, for the other half."
Meijer: Outger Jarichs.
and 1728.
"N° 18. (Meinsma).
Owner: Lolckjen Wiltjes widow of the late Bauke Fransen, and Sytske Wiltjes widow of the late Outger Jarigs.
Meijer: Sytske Wiltjes."

The Sytske Wiltjes (Wolcama) named here was Lolkjen Wiltjes Wolcama's sister, for which reference is made to the draft fragment-genealogy "Wolcama" also appended here. The voting farm N° 18 at Holwerd was thus from 1698 to 1728 the joint property of the two sisters Lolkjen and Sytske Wiltjes Wolcama.

Bosum:
1698.
"N° 5. Owner: Dr. Beuckens at Leeuwarden, nomine uxoris, for $23^{1}/_{2}$ p.m. (pondemaat), the Burgomaster Fopma nomine liberorum, for $15^{1}/_{2}$ p.m., Ytie the widow of Sijbe Sjoerts for $11^{1}/_{4}$ p.m., Lolkjen, the widow of Bauke Fransen, Murkje Douwes, wife of Abelus van Echten, together with the children of Hijlkjen Douwes, together heirs-Meijer: Harmen Aukes.

[1] Probably the same as the later minister of Idzegahuisen and Piaam: D[s] Riemer Jenthema.

[2] Wiersma.

[3] Rynia.

Draft: Fragment Genealogy "Wolcama". Belongs with page 266. - Taco (Wolcama) - Wilcke Tacoz (Wolcama) — Church warden at Goutum 1580. - ⚭ 1. Rinsck Taeckedr. - ⚭ 2. Tyed Hebbedr. - [the descent line to the children below is drawn from the single bracket joining Wilcke Tacoz to both wives, so the children cannot be assigned to one of the two marriages] - Taecke Wilckes Wolcama — at Goutum. † before 12 February 1608. - ⚭ I Sijts Aetedr. — sold on 2 July/22 Sept./1 Oct. 1625 land "near the villages Wirdum and Swichum at the Heckmiede". - ⚭ II Aebe Teijez - Wilcke Taeckes Wolcama — sold in 1615, with his two brothers Aete and Hebbe, the land "Nijbreck" at Goutum. - Tyed Taeckedr. Wolcama — † before 1634. - ⚭ Wobbe Thomas — at Mantgum. - Aete Taeckes Wolcama — sold in 1615, with his two brothers Wilcke and Hebbe, the land "Nijbreck" at Goutum. - ⚭ Auck Clasedr. - Tiettie Atesdr. Wolcama - ⚭ Gerloff Foppes Hoitema — Married couple at Boxum 1663. - Grijt Atesdr. Wolcama — † as widow before 27 Sept. 1677. - ⚭ Claes Jansen — at Beetgum. † before 1677. - Taecke Ates Wolcama — at Britsum. Was still living 1677. - ⚭ Yttie Keijmpes (Heslinga) (of Marssum). m. 1646. - Ate Taeckes Wolcama - ⚭ Claeske ?..... - Taecke Ates (Wolckama) — bapt. Dronrijp 25 Aug. 1695; burgher of Franeker 1741. - ⚭ Hiltje Claasis — b. ± 1693; in 1754 widow at Franeker. - Trijntie Ates (Wolckama) — bapt. Dronrijp 20 Aug. 1699. - Ytie Ates (Wolckama) — bapt. Dronrijp 8 April 1703. - Auke Ates (Wolckama) — bapt. Dronrijp 3 April 1707. - Auck Taeckes Wolcama - ⚭ Pieter Jansen — Master baker at Leeuwarden 1683. - Hebbe Taeckes Wolcama — sold in 1615, with his two brothers Wilcke and Aete, the land "Nijbreck" at Goutum. 1627/1660 Assesseur (assessor) of the Court of Leeuwarderadeel. - ⚭ Fettie (Fedtie) Halbes - Taecke Hebbes Wolcama — of Holwerd. - ⚭ Grietie Clases Doma — of Goutum. m. Hyum 28 June 1657. Lived 1664 at Beetgum, 14 April 1698 at Dronrijp, 1699 at Workum. - Claeske Hebbes Wolcama — m. 1660. - ⚭ Pytter Gerrijts — at Dokkum. - Jurjen Hebbes Wolcama — b. ± 1642. Ontvanger (tax receiver) at Goutum. - ⚭ Baefke Sipkes — m. Goutum 1663. - Fetje Jurjens Wolcama — bapt. Goutum 24 January 1664. m. Goutum 1696. - ⚭ Sierk Aelses - Claaske Jurjens Wolcama - Folkert Jurjens Wolcama - Sipke Jurjens Wolcama - Wijntie Hebbes Wolcama — m. 1662. † before 1689. - ⚭ I Dije Dirks - ⚭ II Geertjen Pijters — m. 1689. - Wilcke (Wiltie) Hebbes Wolcama — Bijsitter (assessor) of Westdongeradeel 1654—1660. - ⚭ II Trijntie Sipkes Fopma — daughter of Sipke Sipkes Fopma and Lolck Fransdr. Unia. - ⚭ I Bocke Riencx — in 1640 Meijer (tenant) of the vote-bearing farm Holwerd no. 18, Blinxma or Meinsma (see pages 266 and 267). - Lolckien Wilckes Wolcama — b. ± 1655 at Hoogebeintum. - ⚭ I Sipke Sipkes Sasma - Sipke Sipkes Sasma — bapt. Mantgum 1 January 1680. † young. - ⚭ II Bauke Franses Fopma - Claaske Baukes Fopma - ⚭ I Johannes Greydanus - ⚭ II Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda - Sytske Wilckes Wolcama — bapt. Holwerd 17 Oct. 1658. Was still living 1728 at Holwerd. - ⚭ II Outger Jarichs — Farmer at Holwerd † before 1728. - Taecke Taeckeszoon Wolcama - ⚭ I Aeffke Jetsedr. Pettertilla - ⚭ II Remmert (Rommert) Wypkes — at Bosum. - Wilcke Taeckes Wolcama - Anna Wilckedr. Wolcama - Tet Wilckedr. Wolcama - ⚭ I Hette Gerrijts — b. ± 1565. † before 13 March 1582. - ⚭ II Folckert Hilles - Hebbe Wilckes Wolcama - Auck Wilckedr. Wolcama - Anna Tacodr. (Taeckedr.) (Wolcama)

> ...of Sipkjen Sipkes[1]/, for $11^{1}/_{4}$ p.m., and Willem Meinerts for $8^{1}/_{2}$ p.m."
> and 1728.
>
> "N° 5. Owner: Dr. Beukens 39 p.m. A. van Echten Meyer (tenant farmer): > for $7^{1}/_{2}$ p.m. and Sybe Tjerks 15 p.m. Sipke Sierks."*

This entry, concerning Bosum in the year 1698, connects with an orphans' account occurring in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Baarderadeel: dated 20 March 1696 (page 110), in which mention is made of a division dated 9 November 1693 between Hylckien Douwes Winia (widow of the late Meynert Jansen and remarried to Mons[r] Johannes van der Laan at Weidum) with her associate and Lolkien Wilties *(Wolcama) assisted by her husband, concerning the inheritance of* Sipke Sipkes Sasma[2]/, who died at Mantgem.

From the foregoing it appears that the mother of Claaske Baukes Fopma, Lolckien Wilties Wolcama, must have been very wealthy.

We further find Lolckien Wilties Wolcama, among others, in:

the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register). Deed dated 28 June 1734, registered 27 September 1741, in which Severijn Tjepkes and Jiskien Scheltes, spouses at Franequer, declare that they owe 400 cargl. (caroli guilders) to Lolck Wilties, widow of the late Bauke Fransen at Spannum, at 4%;

the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Hennaarderadeel. Proclamation dated 7/21 March/11 April 1742. "Lolk Wiltjes, widow of the late Bauke Fransen at Oosterlittens buys $^{3}/_{4}$ parts of a certain fine vote-bearing farm and lands situated in the village of Oosterend, with the corresponding house, barn, hay-barn and appurtenances, in total according to name and repute 35 P.M., charged in total with 11 Floreen 21 stuivers in the general assessment for taxation, entitled as a whole to two votes in all matters arising, being at present inhabited and used by Laas Hendriks and his wife as tenants, who have in respect thereof the right of a 3 years' lease, to commence on 5 March and 12 May 1742, paying in all a yearly rent of 160 cargl. besides the floreen tax, both ordinary and extraordinary, which at St. Peter's day 1742 shall come to the benefit of the sellers; further just as Frans Baukes, in the name of his wife, sor[?] owns the remaining $^{1}/_{4}$ part throughout; further with the maintenance of road and cattle-drift etc. etc.; acquired by purchase from Doede Lieuwes, farmer at Sexbierum, for himself and as authorized agent of his wife Antje Hessels[3]/ for the half, and Eetske Uilties, wife of Jacob Teijes at Lankum, and Hittie Uilties, wife of Heerke Ruurds at Tzum, together for $^{1}/_{4}$ part, or in total for the $^{3}/_{4}$ parts, for the sum of 107 car.gl. 10 st. for each P.M."

This vote-bearing farm, N° 34(36[4]) of the Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of Oosterend, later came, as will appear hereafter, to the son Bauke from the marriage of Johannes Greydanus and Claaske Baukes Fopma, thus to a grandson of Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama. The Frans Baukes named in the deed, to whom $^{1}/_{4}$ of the farm belonged in the name of his wife, was the brother of Claaske Baukes Fopma: Frans Baukes Fopma, married to Geertje Hessels (Strikwerda).

From the deed it follows that Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama was still alive on 11 April 1742, and then no longer lived at Spannum, but at Oosterlittens. This agrees with the autobiography mentioned on page 265, which states that Lolckjen Wiltjes died 12 May 1744 "aged nearly ninety years". Since, according to the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Leeuwarderadeel, on 14 May 1662 Frans Sipkes (Fopma), merchant at Leeuwarden, was appointed curator over Lolckien (7 yrs.) and Sytske, children of the late Wiltie Hebbes Wolcama and Trijntje Sipkes (Fopma), Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama was born about 1655, which agrees with the quotation just given from the biography, that she died 12 May 1744 "aged nearly ninety years". Johannes Greydanus died already on 4 December 1738; the share of the inheritance of his mother-in-law therefore did not fall to him, but to his son Bauke.

2° YDTJE (YTJE, YTTIE, ITTIE) FOLCKERTS GERBRANDA (daughter of Folckert Gerrits Gerbranda and Trijntie Claesedr.), 14 February 1717 at Pingjum, as appears from the following entry in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Pingjum and Surich 1704—1746:

> "1717. On 31 January the marriage banns > of Johannes Greidanus and Ydtje Gerbranda > both at Pinjum were proclaimed for the 1st time and on > 14 February they were lawfully married."

[1] This will have to be Sipke Sipkes (Sasma), who was a stepbrother of Murkje and Hijlkjen Douwes Winia.

[2] Sipke Sipkes (Sasma) was the first husband of Lolckjen Wilties Wolcama. This appears from the old Church Book of Mantgum, in which in the year 1678 on 29 March the following are mentioned as members admitted: Sipke Sipkes († 11 March 1681) and Lolckien Wilties his wife, with the later addition: "departed with certificate". All this also agrees with the autobiography mentioned on page 265.

[3] Probably Antje Hessels Strikwerda.

[4] The farm was in total 35 P.M. in size, of which 25 P.M. fell under No. 34 and 10 P.M. under No. 36 of the Stemcohier.

That Ydtje Gerbranda was a daughter of Folckert Gerbranda already follows from the Stemcohieren (registers of voting farms). For in the Stemcohier of 1718 — thus drawn up after the above marriage — one finds mentioned as owner of the voting farm N° 8 at Kimswerd "Johannes Greidanus nom. uxoris tot Pinjum", and in 1708 and 1698 the owner of that same farm is given respectively as "Ytje Folckerts, tot Pinjum" and "Yttie Folckerts jongedochter tot Harlingen".

The mother of Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda was Trijntje Claesesdr., who, according to the Reformed marriage register of Kimswerd, married on 4 March 1660 Folckert Gerrijts (Gerbranda), then living at Ferwert.

Folckert Gerrits Gerbranda was presumably a landowner and farmer at Kimswerd; he died before his wife, who died at Kimswerd at the beginning of 1690 and then left possessions at: Almenum, Arum, Ferwerd, Groningerland, Hallum, Hogebeintum, Kimswerd and Wier, as appears from the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Wonseradeel, in which occurs an Inventory, made in the house of the deceased Trijntje Claases, widow of Folckert Gerrits at Kimswert, dated 17 February 1690. In this Inventory the following appear as interested parties:

> Jan Reins Heringa (evidently the signatory at Pingjum "Jan Reins" occurring on page 261), and Broer Jans, both as husbands and guardians of their respective wives Hiske and Neeltje Folckerts, together with the children: Jan (in his 20th year), Meike (in her 17th year), Syke (in her 15th year) and Ytje (in her 13th year) Folckerts.
> As guardians of these minor children acted Haije Haijes at Pinjum and Jacob Pieters (Hibma?) at Midlum, both Mennonites.
> To the Inventory belonged:
> $^1/_2$ house at Kimswert in the village, held in common with Jan Joostes (Jaringa?);
> $^2/_3$ farm at Kimswert, measuring $85^1/_4$ Pondemaat (land measure), which Trijntje Clases inherited from her parents, the remaining $^1/_3$ part belonging to Jacob Pieters;
> 9 Pondematen of pasture land at Arum;
> $10^1/_2$ Pondematen of pasture land at Kimswert;
> 4 Pondematen of pasture land at Kimswert;
> $3^1/_2$ Pondemaat of arable land in the Winckel by and at Kimswert;
> $7^1/_2$ Pondematen of hay land at Arum;
> 13 Pondematen of land at Arum;
> a farmstead of land at Kimswert, measuring $26^1/_2$ Pondematen, both pasture and arable land;
> $^1/_4$ of a farm and lands with house etc. at Hallum, measuring 57 Pondematen, of which $^2/_4$ part belongs to Dirk Gerryts (Gerbranda) and $^1/_4$ to Johannes Horatius Secrts at Hallum;
> 6 Pondematen of pasture land, $1^1/_2$ Pondematen of arable land, 5 Pondematen of pasture land at Ferwert;
> 2 Pondematen of land on the Hoge Beinten and $^2/_9$[?] part of a farm in Groningerland.
> All at Hallum, Ferwerd etc., inherited by the late Folckert Gerrits from his parents.
> $^1/_4$ part of a farm of land situated to the north of Harlingen under the village of Almenum, measuring 77 Pondematen, 1 einse, 4 roeden, 8 feet and 5 inches;
> 7 Pondematen of arable land at Wier;
> $^1/_2$ farm of land under Kimswert by the Hoge hout, measuring 37 Pondematen, held in common with Boijen Claasen, to whom the other $^1/_2$ belongs;
> 4 Pondematen of pasture land at Kimswert;
> and $^1/_3$ of 42 stuivers perpetual rent out of 10 Pondematen of pasture land at Kimswert.
> At the division dated [a brace encloses two lines, "25 April 1692" above "31 Oct. 1690"] there fell to Ytje the farm at Kimswert measuring $26^1/_2$ P.M., 2 P.M. of arable land in the Winckel by Kimswert, 6 P.M. of pasture land at Ferwert, 2 gold ducatons, a good and a defective Jacobus and a gold ring; Jan Folckerts received among other things 3 silver spoons received by Sijke, Ytje and Meike; besides this Ytje received a further 5 ducatons in compensation for certain silver ware received by her elder sister over and above her own share.
> Mention is also made of a Landschapsobligatie (provincial bond) at 4% dated 7 August 1673, of 300 carolus guilders, in favour of the late Claes Boijens, that is the father of Trijntie Clasesdr.
> Next is mentioned: Dirk Gerrits Gerbranda (the brother of Folckert Gerrits; the only time that the family name "Gerbranda" is mentioned), who owes 200 carolus guilders according to bond deed dated 11 June 1689.
> And finally also:

"The 4 youngest children Jan, Meike, Sijke and Ytie Folckerts have each been allowed to receive out of the common estate 75 carolus guilders on account of and to equalize what the two eldest received in clothing at their marriage, and 40 like guilders in compensation for the expenses incurred for their wedding and furnished during their bridal state, thus together	115 —	:—	2
Finally there is also due to Ytje Folckerts for her $^1/_6$ part of the inheritance	491 —	1 —	2
	606 —	1 —	8
deducted therefrom goods which she received according to the inventory at valuation	18 —	7 —	:
For the higher valuation of the lands allotted to her	73 —	3 —	:
And also for a silver cup	13 —	6 —	:
	104 —	16 —	8
There remains:	501 —	4 —	10

Draft: Fragment Genealogy of the non-noble family "Gerbranda". Belongs with page 269. [the link between the children's bar of Dirck Gerrits Gerbranda and Klaas Dircks Gerbranda is drawn as a dotted line "....." on the chart.] [the text of the third husband of Grietje Dirks Gerbranda stands at the extreme right of the sheet and is partly cut off by the edge of the scan.] - Dirck Gerrits Gerbranda — at Ferwerd; buys in 1606 ½ of the "Gerbranda" zathe (farmstead) at Almenum. - ⚭ Lysbet Claes - Gerrit Dircks Gerbranda — at Ferwerd. Born according to his gravestone in 1609. Had landed property at Hallum in 1640 and also owned ½ of the "Gerbranda"

zathe at Almenum. Made his will 3 Dec. 1677. - ⚭ I Hiske Folckerts — of Wier. m. before the Court of Leeuwarderadeel 24 Nov. 1632. - Dirk Gerrits Gerbranda — sells land at Wier in 1685. - ⚭ Fijke (Feike) Sjoerdsdr. — Member at Ferwerd 1689. † 1693. - Hiske Dirks Gerbranda - ⚭ Wibbe Luitiens - Sjoerd Dirks Gerbranda - ⚭ Hiltje Cuperus - Fijke Sjoerds Gerbranda — bapt. Ferwerd 1694. - Sjoerdtie Sjoerds Gerbranda - ⚭ Bronger Lieuwes Jansma — Member at Ferwerd 1719. - Klaas Dirks Gerbranda - ⚭ Tjitske Jentjes Blinsma - Fyke Klazes Gerbranda — bapt. Ferwerd 18 March 1694. - Dirkjen Klases Gerbranda — bapt. Marrum 1714. - ⚭ II Ydske Radbodus - Folckert Gerrits Gerbranda — of Ferwerd. b. ± 1641. † before 17 February 1690. - ⚭ Trijntie Clases — of Kimswerd. b. ± 1641, as dau. of Claes Boijens and Neeltie Joostes. m. Kimswerd 4 March 1660. † ± February 1690. - Hiske Folckerts Gerbranda — marriage banns Kimswerd autumn of 1681. † before 16 Nov. 1711. - ⚭ Jan Reins Heringa — Meyer (tenant) of farm N° 24 at Pingjum. Still living 1728. - Folckert Jans Heringa — Merchant at Leeuwarden. - ⚭ Rinske Arjens - Dr. Adrianus Heringa — Med. Doct. at Leeuwarden. - ⚭ Sjoukien Oldersma — marriage banns Leeuwarden 30 Nov. /7/14 Dec. 1749. - Hiske Heringa - ⚭ Ds. Klaas Tichelaar (Tigler) — Mennonite Minister at Leeuwarden. - Neeltje Folckerts Gerbranda — Survived her husband. Probably † before 2 Nov. 1729. - ⚭ Broer Jans — 1699/1700. Mr. Brewer at Harlingen. Still living 1717. † before 28 January 1727. - Jan Folckerts Gerbranda — b. ± 1670. In 1711 at Kimswerd. - ⚭ Ebbe Reyns — m. 23 Feb. 1704. - Folkert Jans Gerbranda — b. Kimswerd; burgher of Harlingen 3 Aug^{s} 1729. - ⚭ Janneke Annes - Anne Folkerts Gerbranda — 1766 at Landsmeer on the Oostzaner Overtoom. - Trijntie Folckerts Gerbranda — m. Leeuwarden 1754. - ⚭ Dirk Vermees — Mr. Coppersmith at Leeuwarden. - Ebbe Folkertsdr. Gerbranda — b. Harlingen May 1757. - ⚭ Hendrik Sybrandus Reitsma — at Harlingen. † ± 1764. - Reijn Folkerts Gerbranda — Baker and merchant at Harlingen. † Oct. 1782 - ⚭ I Antie Keimpes Feerdijk — m. Harlingen 7 March 1756. † before 1771. - ⚭ II Tetske Annes Bootsma — m. Harlingen 7/14/21 April 1771. † Feb. 1799. - Maartie Folkerts Gerbranda - Meike Folckerts Gerbranda — b. ± 1673. - ⚭ Pytter Gerlofs — merchant at Harlingen. † before 1740. - Syke Folckerts Gerbranda — b. ± 1675. Survived her husband. - ⚭ Jan Joosten Jaringa — Receiver at Kimswerd and Deputy of the Vijfdeelen Zeedijk. † before 1 June 1750. - Yttie Folckerts Gerbranda — b. in 1677 or 1678. m. Pingjum 14 February 1717. † between 28 April 1734 and 1738. - ⚭ II Johannes Greydanus — bapt. Achlum 12 Aug. 1683, son of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus and Aefke Olthoff. At first farmer, merchant, church warden at Pingjum, afterwards farmer at Kimswerd. † Kimswerd 4 December 1738. - ⚭ I Claaske Baukes Fopma - Trijntie Greydanus — m. Harlingen 19 Dec. 1750. - ⚭ Jacobus Dronrijp - Grietje? Gerbranda - ⚭ Ds. Lolke Posthumus — b. Workum 2 January 1656. Dutch Reformed Minister at Buitenpost, Ternaerd, Ferwerd and Leeuwarden. † Leeuwarden 27 or 28 Nov. 1730. - Hiske Gerrits Gerbranda - ⚭ Romcke Douwes Roula - Sjouck Gerrits Gerbranda - ⚭ Pier Foppes Tania — were still living in 1695 at Kloosterburen (Ferwerd). (See the draft: fragment genealogy "Grada"). - Lysbeth Gerrits Gerbranda - Radbodus Gerrits Gerbranda - Griet Dirx Gerbranda — † 18 May 1675. (her gravestone lies in the Church at Stiens). - ⚭ I Watse Franss Unia — † before 1617. - ⚭ II Sybe Wopkes Andringa — son of Wopcke Rienxz. Andringa and Tiam Sijbrensdr.. Married 1617. † 25 April 1633, aged 41 years. - Klaas Dircks Gerbranda — In 1640 ½ owner of the "Gerbranda" zathe at Almenum. - Dirck Clasen Gerbranda — 1700—1718. Owner of the sathe "de Flappe" at Ferwerd. - ⚭ I Seeske Reins Haitsma — of "Minderscha" (Minnertsga). m. before the court Leeuwarden 28 Oct. 1658. "Died at Ferwert 1671 the 22nd of October on a Sunday morning". - ⚭ II Saapke Watses Andringa — dau. of Watse Sybes Andringa, son of Sybe Wopkes Andringa and Griet Dirx Gerbranda (see this chart). Married couple at Stiens. - Claas Dirks Gerbranda — (of Dronrijp). - ⚭ Trijntje Lieuwes — (of Dronrijp) m. Stiens 21 May 1713. - Grietje Dirks Gerbranda — † before 1754. - ⚭ I Minne Bartels — (of Dockum) m. before 30 June 1704. - ⚭ II Jan Cornelis van der Meer — m. Stiens 26 Dec. 1717. - ⚭ III Johannes Gosiwinus Wigl[?] — of 't Nieuwland. m. St[?] 16 Dec. 1725. 1734 married couple at Stiens. - Sipke Clasen Gerbranda — 1687 Member of the Reformed Congregation at Ferwerd.

From this Inventory it further follows that Ydtie Folckerts Gerbranda must have been born in 1677 or 1678 and presumably at Kimswerd, where her parents will have been established, probably on the farm mentioned at the beginning of the Inventory, $85^{1}/_{4}$ Pondemaat in size, of which Trijntje Clases, who died there, inherited $^{2}/_{3}$ from her parents. At Kimswerd Ydtie's baptismal entry does not occur in the Reformed baptismal register. Presumably she was brought up as a Mennonite, as may be deduced from the fact that on 28 January 1714 she was baptized at Harlingen as an (adult) Mennonite.

The said farm at Kimswerd of $85^{1}/_{4}$ P.M. was N° 4 of the Stemcohier (register of voting farms). The farm at Kimswerd, $26^{1}/_{2}$ P.M. in size, allotted to Yttie Folckerts Gerbranda from her mother's estate, was N° 8 of the Stemcohier, which has already been mentioned on the preceding page. This vote-bearing farm came from the parents of Trijntje Clases, as appears from the printed Stemcohieren of 1640, on which Claes Boijens, who was the father of Trijntje Clases, is indicated as its owner[1].

The "$^{1}/_{4}$ part of a farm of land to the north of Harlingen under the village of Almenum" mentioned in the Inventory evidently belonged to the farm which bore the name of "Gerbranda" and occurs under N° 2 at Almenum in the Stemcohieren. For in 1640 the owners of that vote-bearing farm were: Gerryt and Klaas Dirks; the first was the father of Yttie Folckerts Gerbranda's father and the second a brother of the first, for which one may see the appended draft: fragment-genealogy of the non-noble family "Gerbranda". These two brothers were thus, each for one half, owner of the farm "Gerbranda" at Almenum. According to the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel, on 18 June 1606 their parents Dirck Gerrytz and Lysbeth Claesdr., married couple at Foswert, bought $^{1}/_{3}$ part of Gerbranda-zate, situated in Harlinger Noorder Wtbuyren, from Ruyerdt van Roorda (whose mother was a noble Gerbranda) for 1850 ggl.. Now there are two possibilities: either the two brothers really belonged to the family "Gerbranda", or they named themselves after the farm of that name when they acquired it in ownership. The first seems improbable, because the real "Gerbranda's" were of noble birth and these brothers and their descendants were not. The second possibility will surely be the correct one[2], because the deriving of a family name or surname from an acquired possession was not unusual at that time, since we have already met with it twice, namely in the case of the "Wimersmazathe" at Marssum and of the farm "tot Oerdum" near Franeker.

For the sake of completeness the heraldic description of the noble coat of arms "Gerbranda" follows here:

gold, with a double black eagle, the feet charged with a red rose, the tail with a six-pointed silver star.
Crest: three plumes or ostrich feathers silver — red — silver.
Wreath and Mantling: gold and black.

With this coat of arms a gravestone of Grietje Dirckx Garbranda, presumably a sister of Ydtie Folckerts Gerbranda's father (see the draft: fragment-genealogy "Gerbranda"), is adorned in the Church at Stiens. A copy of this gravestone is present in the Friesch Museum at Leeuwarden. But I would not dare to rely on this single fact in order to make it plausible thereby that the family of this Grietje Dirckx Garbranda would be related to the noble family "Gerbranda".

Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda, as follows from what has been communicated on page 262, died between 28 April 1734, the date of the deed registered on 6 December 1738 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Wonseradeel, and 1738, in which year on the Floreencohier (land-tax register) her name was replaced by that of her daughter. That she was still alive at the end of 1738 seems impossible; her husband had by then also already died, namely on 4 December of that year. She thus reached an age of between 55 and 60 years.

[1] From an orphans' account dated 8 July 1652 in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Wonseradeel it appears that Trijntie Clases must have been born about the year 1641, as daughter of Claes Boijens and Neeltie Joostes at Kimswerd.

[2] This is then the case referred to in the first Chapter on page 17. The adoption by the occupant or owner of the name of a farm bearing a noble name was not something unlawful. The owner had the right to bear the name, unless this right had been stipulated away at the sale, and the occupant came to it gradually, because his name was at first written as for instance "toe Gerbranda", while later this little word "toe" (= at) involuntarily dropped away.

CHILDREN:

From the first marriage:

Bauke Greidanus, who follows under number: 54.

From the second marriage:

Trijntie Greidanus, who follows under number: 55.

Children of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (N° 5) and Eelckien Steenkist

second marriage · 2 · 1[I]

15 YDTJE (YTTJE, YTTIE ITTJE) GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Tjardus 5[II] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

She was baptized at Achlum on 9 October 1687, as appears from the following entry in the Dutch Reformed baptismal register of Achlum and Hitsum:

> "(October[1]) 1687/
> On the 9th of the same month baptized at Achlum Ydtje, a daughter of Tjardus > Greydanus, minister, the father, and Eelckjen Ausonii Steenkist, the > mother."

On 1 November 1705 she became a member of the Dutch Reformed Church at Achlum, according to the following note made by her father in the register of church members:

> "1705. On 1 November, upon the confession of her faith, > she appeared for the first time at the > Lord's table:
> Ydtje Greydanus, young daughter."

On 19 March 1712 her father Ds. Tjardus Greydanus died, while her mother Eelckien Ausonii Steenkist had already entered eternal life earlier. On 19 April 1712 Mr. Suffridus (van) Westerhuis[2] was appointed guardian over her and her little brother Ausonius, in accordance with the testamentary disposition of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, as appears from the following entry, given in its main points, in the Franeker Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments):

> "19 April 1712. Pursuant to the testamentary disposition of the late D[nus] Tiardus Greidanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum and Hitsum, dated .... the guardianship over the children of the late petitioner, Ytie, aged 24, and Ausonius Greidanus, aged 10 years, has been conferred upon Mr. S. van Westerhuis".

After the death of both her parents Ydtje Greydanus appears to have gone to Franeker at the end of 1712; at any rate one finds there in the Dutch Reformed register of church members, noted by Ds. A. Saagmans:

> "Before the Holy Communion of 18 December > 1712 the following were received and admitted > to the fellowship of our Church > and the use of the Holy Communion:
> 14 Dec. 1712.
> with attestation
> Yttje Greidanus, young daughter of Achlum."

Before her name there has also been written in this book: "died 11 June 1713" (according to her epitaph 10 June 1713), so that Ydtje Greydanus died on 10 or 11 June 1713 at the age of 25 years. She is buried with her parents, her ancestress and her sister Aefke (N° 16) in the Dutch Reformed Church at Achlum (see page 206). With page 207 is included an illustration of the stone slab on the grave in which she lies buried with her ancestress and her sister Aefke. Her epitaph reads as follows:

[1] According to her epitaph given below this should be November.

[2] For him see pages 271, 272 and 273.

> "On 10 June 1713 there rested in the Lord
> the honourable young daughter > Ittje Grijdanus aged 25 years 7 > months and she lies buried here."

Her name is also mentioned in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Franeker in the deeds included on pages 272 and 207 of this genealogy, respectively dated 15 December 1712 and 16 December 1716, from which last-mentioned deed it appears that she appointed her brother Ausonius Greidanus (N° 18 of this genealogy) as her heir.

---

16 AEFKE GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Tjardus 5[II] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Achlum, 15 December 1689 · d. Achlum, 27 January 1693 · daughter of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (N° 5) and Eelckien Steenkist

Her baptismal entry in the Dutch Reformed baptismal register of Achlum and Hitzum reads as follows:

> "(1689.)
> On 15 December baptized at Achlum Aefke > a daughter of D. Tiardus Greydanus minister > the father, & Eelckjen Ausonii Steenkist, the mother."

She died at Achlum 27 January 1693 and is buried in the Dutch Reformed Church at Achlum (see page 206). According to the illustration included with page 207 of the stone slab on the grave in which she is buried with her ancestress and her sister Ydtje mentioned above, her grave inscription reads as follows:

> "On 27 January 1693 died Aefke > Greydanus aged 3 years and buried here."

---

17 AEFKE GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Tjardus 5[II] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Achlum, 1 February 1693 · daughter of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (N° 5) and Eelckien Steenkist

She was baptized 1 February 1693 at Achlum, according to the following entry in the Dutch Reformed baptismal register of Achlum and Hitzum:

> "(1693).
> On 1 February, being on a monthly > day of prayer, baptized at Achlum Aefke > a daughter of D. Tiardus Greydanus > minister, the father & Eelckjen Ausonii > Steenkist, the mother."

Nothing further could be found about her.

---

18 DS. AUSONIUS GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS, GREIJDANUS)[1]

Line of descent: Tjardus 5[II] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Achlum, 11 December 1701 · d. Pietersbierum, 23 October 1759 · son of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (N° 5) and Eelckien Steenkist · m. Janke Sipkes, 1725

He was baptized 11 December 1701 at Achlum, according to the following entry in the Dutch Reformed baptismal register of Achlum and Hitzum:

> "(December 1701)
> On the 11th ditto baptized at Achlum Ausonius a > little son of D. Tiardus Greydanus the father > and Eelckjen Ausonii Steenkist the mother."

When he was only 10 years old, both his parents had died, and, according to the testamentary disposition of his father, Suffridus (van) Westerhuis was appointed guardian over him, according to the following entry, rendered in its main content, in the Franeker Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship authorizations):

> "19 April 1712. Pursuant to the testamentary disposition of the late D[nus] Tiardus Greidanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum and Hitsum, dated the . . . . the guardianship over the children of the late requirant, Ytie aged 24 and Ausonius Greidanus aged 10 years, has been decreed to the Heer S. van Westerhuis."

This Suffridus Westerhuis must have been born at Leeuwarden; on 11 June 1684 he was enrolled as Jur. Stud. at the Franeker Academy. He married at Ried /marriage proclamation at Leeuwarden, where he then lived, 7/10/14 February 1686/ Titia Bogarda, born at Franeker December 1665 as daughter of Cornelis Pouwels Bogarda, owner of a brickworks outside the West of Franeker at Ried, and Maritie (Martjen) Engela. Suffridus Westerhuis was among other things Gecommitteerde (delegate) on behalf of Friesland in the Raad van Admiraliteit (Admiralty Board) at Amsterdam, Vroetsman (town councillor) and Burgomaster of Franeker, Rentmeester (steward) of the Domains of Friesland and Gecommitteerde on behalf of Friesland in the Generaliteits Rekenkamer (Generality Audit Office) at 's-Gravenhage. He lived at Franeker, but died in the last-mentioned office at 's-Gravenhage 22 October 1731.

[1] Named after his mother's father Ds. Ausonius Steenkist, who in turn was probably named after his mother's father, for Ds. Ausonius Steenkist's mother was called Eelck Auckes, and now one could have latinized Aucke into Ausonius, which is actually the latinized form of Ause.

Suffridus Westerhuis was a very wealthy man. Besides houses in Franeker and Harlingen, he had possessions in Dronrijp, Edens, Ferwerd, Firdgum, Holwerd, Oosterbierum, Pietersbierum, Ried, Sexbierum, Spannum, Tzum and Wijnaldum; according to N° 1404 of the Telting Archive, relating to the assessment of the wealth of the inhabitants of Franeker for the 100th penning (hundredth-penny tax) for the year 1689, his declaration amounted to 50000 and his assessment to 150000 gulden, with the note "finds himself aggrieved by the assessment" (for another year the assessment was fixed at 120000 gulden). His wife Titia Bogarda died at Franeker 14 March 1737; she left no children and bequeathed part of her fortune for the founding at Franeker of the so-called Westerhuis-Vrouwengasthuis. In her will dated 17 July 1732 the following is found concerning this:

> "Finally I, the lady testatrix, bequeath for a godly purpose my zathe (farmstead) with land at Tzum, occupied by Claas Pytters as tenant, the zathe with land there occupied by Foppe Jacobs, the zathe with land at Edens occupied by Foppe Tjallings, the zathe with land situated at Dronrijp acquired by purchase from Mr. Ruird Juckema van Burmania at Goutum, together with a further six thousand Caroli guilders in money in ready coin; appointing thereover as administrators and respectively trustees the deacons of the Reformed Congregation within Franequer, with the request that they may be pleased to take this upon themselves. Further I desire that the said administrators shall have eighteen chambers built in the purchased gardens on the east side of the garden, lying right behind the house I inhabited[1], which place I have designated for that purpose, those chambers to have their exit over the wood that is there, over which at present the exit also is; I desire that the ready monies remaining after the building of the chambers shall be put out at interest, and further that the administrators shall place in each chamber (after the same are completed) one person and so together eighteen godly widows or elderly spinsters enjoying no maintenance from others; however the administering deacons shall be obliged, in the granting of the chambers, to prefer at all times above others the relatives, should any come and desire it, and further such widows and elderly spinsters as have been with me during my lifetime; further the aforesaid administrators shall distribute the rents and interests, after deduction of necessary repairs to the chambers, yearly in equal portions among those widows and elderly spinsters, and if any of them should come to behave in a disorderly manner, then the administrators shall have power to make such disorderly person leave the chamber at once and to place another orderly person in her stead; further the deacons shall be obliged to render account of their receipts and expenditures every year into the hands of the Honourable Magistrate of the City of Franequer, ten gold gulden to be spent yearly at the auditing thereof. And should I, the lady testatrix, come to die before the farm at Dronrijp, bequeathed to this godly purpose, has been paid for, I nevertheless desire that the remaining purchase sum shall be paid by my instituted heir or heirs."[2]

A diagram of the nearest family of the couple Westerhuis × Bogarda is also appended.

No family relationship between the family "Greydanus" and the curator or his wife has been able to be found, so that one must think of the existence of a bond of friendship between Ds. Tjardus Greydanus and Suffridus Westerhuis, which bond, however, cannot have been formed in their student days, since Ds. Tjardus Greydanus already became minister at Achlum and Hitsum in 1678, while Suffridus Westerhuis only came to the Franeker Academy in 1684.

These friendly relations might further appear from the fact that Ausonius Greidanus, then minister at Pietersbierum, was one of the witnesses at the drawing up of the above-mentioned will dated 17 July 1732 of Titia Bogarda, as well as of a second codicil dated 22 July 1736, — and that he composed the Latin poem to be mentioned hereafter on the death of Suffridus Westerhuis.

As curator of Ausonius Greydanus, Suffridus Westerhuis is named in the following deeds:

Weesboek (orphans' register) of Franeker.

> Deed dated 15 December 1712. "There appeared before the presiding Br H. D. Lomers, appointed Comris in this matter, assisted by the Secrts. J. Scheltema, the parties, namely Mr. S Westerhuys, authorized curator over Ausonius Greidanus, together with Johannes[3] and Ytie Greidanus[4], both children of age and heirs of the late Dnus Tiardus Greidanus, in life minister at Achlum and Hitsum, as curator over Trijntie Jans[5], thus Requirants and Renderers on the one side; Against Johannes Greidanus[3], authorized curator over the said Trijntie Jans, in this matter Required and Rendered on the other side, concerning such receipts and expenditures as the late Dnus Tjardus Greidanus has had over the said Trijntie Jans from 14 September 1703 to the date hereof etc."

[1] She lived in the so-called Martena-Huys.

[2] A legacy was paid out, among others, of f 2000.— to Maijcke Steenkist at Franeker, a sister of Ausonius Greydanus' mother.

[3] No. 14 of this genealogy.

[4] No. 15 of this genealogy.

[5] Trijntie Jans Antonides (Boeckholt), No. 25 of this genealogy.

Diagram (in draft) of the immediate family of the couple Westerhuis × Bogarda. Belongs with page 272. - Pouwel (Paulus) Cornelis Bogarda — b. ± 1610. 1654 merchant at Franeker. † Franeker 10/11 March 1680, aged in his 71st year. - ⚭ Rijckien Piers Schotanus — † Franeker 21 December 1669, aged ± 68 years. - Cornelis Pouwels Bogarda — b. Franeker ± 1642. 28 February 1659 enrolled as a student at the Franeker University. Owner at Ried of a tile works outside 't West at Franeker, which works he sold in 1682. † 8 January 1689, aged in his 48th year. - ⚭ I Maritie (Martjen) Clases Engela — dau. of Claes H. Engela and Tjetske Seerps at Harlingen. M. Franeker 6 April 1662. † before 30 October 1669. - Poulus Bogarda - Tjetske (Titia) Bogarda — b. Franeker December 1665. Marriage proclamation Leeuwarden 7 (10) 14 February 1686, m. Ried February 1686. † Franeker 14 March 1737. - ⚭ Suffridus (Sjoerd) Sjoerds (van) Westerhuis (see below) - ⚭ II Trijntje Pieters — of Harlingen. M. Harlingen 30 October 1669. Still living 1698. - Lysbetje Pouwels Bogarda — Still living 1682 at Franeker. - ⚭ I Jacobus Johannes' Tiessema — son of Johannes Tiesses Tiessema and Sibbeltie Jacobsdr.. Merchant at Franeker. † before 26 October 1671. - Sibbeltje Tiessema — b. ±

1659. - Mayke Tiessema — b. ± 1661. - Tettie Tiessema — b. ± 1663. - Poulus Tiessema — b. 1668. - Rijckien Tiessema — b. 1670. - ⚭ II Focke Claeses Boncamp — Married Franeker 26 October 1671. Merchant at Franeker. Still living 1682. He was a Mennonite. - Maria Boncamp — b. Franeker. M. ± 1700. 10 June 1725 member at Franeker, coming from Amsterdam. † 1751. - ⚭ Dr. Willem van Ranouw — born Brielle. Member at Franeker 11 December 1709, coming from Winsum. At Franeker: 1704—1709 Inspector Bursæ, 1705 Vroedsman (town councillor) and 1707 Burgomaster, Receiver of the ecclesiastical properties. Muster commissioner. 6 June 1715 Med. Doct. Utrecht. † Amsterdam 24 December 1724. (See "De Vrije Fries" Part I, page 152 and following). - Elisabeth van Ranouw — m. 9 November 1732. - ⚭ Isaac Telting - Nicolaas Boncamp — Equipage master of the Admiralty at Harlingen. - Sioerdt Tiercx (Westerhuis) — † before 26 March 1661. - ⚭ Dieucke Hilledr. — † before 26 March 1661. - Tierck Sioerdts (Westerhuis) — 1661 cloth merchant, 1676—1678 Burgomaster of Leeuwarden. - ⚭ ..... - Syoerd Tier/c/x (Westerhuis) — 1685—1702 Master of Works, Schepen (alderman) and Governing Burgomaster of Leeuwarden. - ⚭ I Wemeltje (Wemeltie) Sjoerts Lubbema — of Kollum. Marriage proclamation Leeuwarden 18/25 December 1664/1 January 1665, solemnized 8 January 1665. - Suffridus (Sjoerd) Sjoerds (van) Westerhuis — According to page 149 of Part I of "De Vrije Fries" b. May 1668 at Leeuwarden, where his baptismal entry could not be found. Curator of AUSONIUS GREYDANUS. † 's-Gravenhage 22 October 1731. - ⚭ Tjetske (Titia) Bogarda (see above) - Tierck (Westerhuis) — bapt. Leeuwarden 25 January 1671. - Eelck (Westerhuis) — bapt. Leeuwarden 4 October 1672. - Dominicus (Westerhuis) — bapt. Leeuw. 19 July 1674. - Dieucke (Dieuwke) Westerhuis — bapt. Leeuwarden 7 December 1677. - ⚭ Johannes Wielinga — Postmaster of Friesland 1692—1709. † 1709. - Mr. Epéus Wielinga — Councillor in the Court of Friesland. - Wemelia Wielinga - ⚭ Ulrik Jan Huber - ⚭ II Sieuwke Kingma — of Franeker. M. in 1703.

Protocolboek (register of deeds) of Franeker. Deed dated 31 October 1715, included hereafter on page 305. Recesboek (court minute book) of Franeker. Deed dated 18 October 1715, relating to the sale referred to in the preceding deed dated 31 October 1715. Weesboek (orphans' register) of Franeker. Deed dated 16 December 1716 (see hereinbefore page 207).

From the deed dated 31 October 1715 it appears that Ausonius Greidanus on that date, thus when he was 13 years old, is called "a student at Franeker", by which will be meant that he attended the Latin School there.

Probably, after the death of both his parents in 1712, he was taken into the house of his aunts Hiske, Maayke and Jancke Steenkist, who kept a cloth shop at Franeker (see pages 219 and 220); at any rate we have the positive datum that during his student years he lived there, in the entry in the Franeker Reformed register of members already communicated on page 219:

"On 13 December 1720 were admitted on Confession of their faith
.....
Att. for Ex. on Ausonius Greydanus S.S. Th. Stud.
1 Aug. 1723 here With Maayke Steenkist."

It should be noted here that his eldest aunt Steenkist, "Hiske", had already died in 1719.

The good understanding of Ausonius Greydanus with his aunts Steenkist, which makes it plausible that he was indeed brought up by those aunts after the death of his parents, may follow from the following facts:

1°. in his will dated 10 March 1716, to be mentioned hereafter on page 288, Ausonius Greydanus appointed his "Aunts Hiske, Maijke & Jancke Steenkist" as his Universal heirs;

2°. Ausonius Greydanus became, as will appear hereafter, the sole heir of his aunt Maaycke Steenkist, who survived both her sisters Hiske and Jancke;

3°. at the time that Ausonius Greydanus lived with his aunts Steenkist, there was there a maidservant Jetske Douwes, who died after Ausonius Greydanus and who, as appears from the entry in the Collateraalboek (register of collateral inheritance duty) of Franeker 1716—1805 included hereafter on page 354, designated the children of Ausonius Greydanus as her heirs in her will.

In 1718 Ausonius Greydanus was enrolled as a student at the Franeker University, according to the following entries in the Album Studiosorum:

1°. Album in which the names of the students were entered by the Rector and which is kept in the State Archives at Leeuwarden:

> (Latin) "In the year 1718. Under Johanne Regio as Rector Magnificus, the following declared themselves citizens of this Academy:
> Ausonius Greijdanus"[1]

2°. Album in which the students themselves entered their names and which is now preserved in the Provincial Library at Leeuwarden:

> (Latin) "Under Johanne Regio as Rector Magnificus for the third time, the following declared themselves citizens of this Academy:
> CIↃDCCXVIII
> Ausonius Greydanus."

As has been communicated above, Ausonius Greydanus became on 13 December 1720, upon Confession of his Faith, a member of the Reformed Congregation at Franeker, and on attestation dated 1 August 1723 was admitted to the Ecclesiastical Examination there. On 6 September 1723 he was examined and "admitted to the Holy ministry by unanimous votes", which appears from the following deed in the Archives of the Classis of Franeker of the Dutch Reformed Church:

[1] Presumably this entry will have taken place at the beginning of the course, after the summer vacation, under the term of office of the Rector Magnificus Johannes Regius, whose name as such is mentioned at the head of the page. In any case the date of the entry can be approximated fairly accurately by the dates 30 May 1718 given on the previous page and 13 August 1718 on the following page.

> "6 September 1723. There appeared the student of Theology Frederik Hendrik Hertog, requesting that he, together with Ausonius Greidanus, might be examined on this occasion, which was granted to his Reverence after the presentation of sufficient (Latin) testimonials of life and of studies. Thereupon the two examinands were heard preaching, the one on I Cor. 2 : 7 and the other on I Joh. 4 : 8[1], in which the Reverend Classis found that they were both provided by God with very good gifts and abilities, and has therefore admitted them to the examination itself, in which > they both gave such satisfaction that they were admitted to the further examination in Holy Theology, in which, being tested on many and the principal parts of Holy Divinity, they gave complete satisfaction to all, so that they were admitted to the Holy ministry by unanimous votes."[2] Ausonius Greydanus was, as appears from the following document in my possession, called on 2 October 1723 as Reformed Minister at Pietersbierum, as successor to Ds. Wilhelmus Fredericus Faber, who had been called away to Menaldum:

[the quoted document is printed in two columns; the left column holds the Classis approbation printed beside the call letter, which is in the right column.]

The Reverend Classis of Franeker, having considered this call in the fear of the Lord, approves the same in conformity with the resolution of the Land, with the wish of the Lord's blessing;
(Latin) Done in our classical assembly on 4 October 1723
signed E: Hofsteede
at this time President of the Classis
F: van Slooten,
Minister of the Divine Word at Tzum at this time Scribe of the Classis.

"Jo^{r} Arent van Haarsolte Grietman (district magistrate) over Barradeel, together with his Assessors representing the Court of the said district, to the Reverend Classis presently assembled at Franeker, and to everyone whom it may concern, greetings.
Whereas through the calling away, and the dimission and approbation following thereupon by the respective Reverend Classes of Franeker and Leeúwarden, of the Reverend D: Willem Frederik Faber to the village of Menaldúm, the ministry and service of the village of Pietersbierúm has become vacant, and it is therefore highly necessary that another minister be chosen in his place, who may go out and in before the face of the congregation of Jesus Christ there, to proclaim the word of God to them, so that it may not long be as sheep that have no shepherd; therefore it is that we have caused the voting-entitled inhabitants, according to the summons of 27 September 1723, to assemble in the Gakerke of the same village, after previous house announcement and bell-ringing, on 2 October 1723, in order, in conformity with the Regulation issued by the Lords States of this Province concerning the calling of ministers, to proceed to the election of a competent and thereto qualified person; that the aforesaid voting-entitled inhabitants have by majority chosen thereto, as they hereby do, the Reverend Aúsonius Greijdanus, Candidate of the Holy Ministry, to preach God's word purely in the congregation of Jesus Christ there, to administer the Holy Sacraments, to visit the sick, and further generally to do as a faithful servant of Jesus Christ is bound to do; to which end having conferred upon his Reverence the free parsonage house and garden cum annexis with its profits and emolúments thereto belonging and appertaining, with the request to the Reverend Classis of Franeker to approve the aforesaid call in due form, whereby great service will be done to us and singular edification to the congregation. And whereas it was expedient that for the conveying of the aforesaid nomination and the request for approbation one or two brethren from the aforesaid congregation should be commissioned, therefore it is that they have nominated and commissioned thereto, doing so hereby, the honourable discreet men IJde Jans Dorprechter (village judge) and Sjoerd IJemes farmer there, for the purpose as related above, and all to be seen more fully from the proceedings of the voting accompanying this. In witness of the truth we have with our signature, done at Sexbierúm the 4th of October 1723
signed Arent van Haersolte
By order of the Geregte (court)
signed R. C. Backer."

[1] This text reads: "He that loveth not hath not known God, for God is love".

[2] According to a family note, the examiners were: Aeschinus Saagmans A.L.M. and Ph. Dr., Minister at Franeker, and Nicolaüs van der Leij, Minister at Dongjum.

Ausonius Greydanus was installed at Pietersbierum on 31 October 1723 by Ds. Gerardus Heins, minister at Oosterbierum, and Ds. Justus Ludinga, minister at Wijnaldum, and delivered his inaugural sermon on the text from 1 Cor. IX. 16[1].

According to the call letter, Ds. Ausonius Greydanus thus received for his use "the free parsonage house and garden with appurtenances, with the profits and emoluments belonging thereto", which also agrees with the printed Stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1640 and 1728, where on page 105, Part Westergo, for place N^{o} 2 at Pietersbierum one finds:

> 1640. 1728.
> "2. Owner: The Pastorye Corpus. Owner: The Pastorye Corpus here. Meyer (tenant farmer): D^{o} Greidanus."

As is noted in the margin of the call letter, the call was approved on 4 October 1723 by the Classis of Franeker. In the Archive of this Classis one finds the following concerning this:

> "4 October 1723. There appeared the delegates from the village of Pyttersbierum, presenting to the honourable Classis an instrument of call of a minister in the congregation there, which had fallen upon the person of the reverend D. Ausonius Greidanus, S.S. M. candidatus; which call the honourable Classis, having considered it in the fear of the Lord, approves, with the wish of the Lord's blessing, and as installers have been appointed D. Heins and D. Ludinga, and in case of their necessary absence D. Hesselius and D. Mol."

Ds. Ausonius Greydanus became a member of the Classis Franeker on 13 March 1724, as appears from the following act from the Archive of that Classis:

> "13 March 1724.... There appeared respectively D. C. Ludinga, at present minister at Welsrijp and Baijum, requesting a seat in this assembly, which request, upon the presentation of a praiseworthy testimonial of dismissal from the honourable Classis Sylvana, was granted.
> The same having been requested by D. Ausonius Greijdanus, the honourable Classis has granted it."

Ds. Ausonius Greydanus remained Dutch Reformed minister at Pietersbierum until his death on 24 October 1759, thus for 36 years; from 11 June to 29 September 1725, however, he was suspended from his office, because he had lived with his later wife Jancke Sipkes before he was married to her. He married on 4 February 1725 in haste, since Jancke Sipkes was then already in a highly advanced state of pregnancy by him, which comes to light through the birth of her daughter Johanna on 11 April following.

Concerning the suspension of ministers in Friesland for immorality, one finds in the first volume of "Kerkelijk leven der Hervormden in Friesland tijdens de republiek" by Dr. S. Cuperus, on page 191 and following, an extensive account, which I give here in its entirety, because it seemed interesting to me and provides a welcome change in the continual dry enumeration of facts and dates:

> "Not so frequently as drunkenness — though it was bad enough still — occurred fornication. Again, according to a fairly accurate calculation, we may assume that of all the serious disciplinary cases about $^{1}/_{4}$ part concerned immorality — this word taken in the narrower sense. Let it serve as proof that of the 26 ministers censured in the Woudster classis I counted 7 who were punished on that account, while in those of Leeuwarden, Sneek, Bolsward, Franeker and Dokkum the proportional figures were successively 27 : 6, 33 : 10, 17 : 6, 30 : 2, and 37 : 13[1]. At Oosterwierum[2] there have certainly been 2, in the beautiful Hemelum[3] no fewer than 3 ministers who stood trial for immorality.

That among these fornicators there were not a few who also belonged to the group of drunkards, we shall scarcely need to point out. Both sins often thrive best on the same soil; ministers such as Mancadan, Knoop, Boeder, Hanecroot and many others have consequently become notorious for the one sin as well as for the other. Of most of them held true what a scriba of the Woudster classis characteristically expressed concerning Mancadan: "he improves like the young wolves, becoming worse every day"[4].

[1] See page 297 sub 2°.

In its most innocent form the sin occurred as illicit intercourse of the unmarried village pastor with his maidservant. Without difficulty I could name a series of ministers who for such a "lapse" were suspended for a quarter or half a year[1]. Mostly they were young men who had moved into the parsonage as bachelors; now and then older ones, such as the Kollum minister A. Abrahami, who already had 30 years of service behind him when he had to marry his maid-housekeeper and will not have suspected that another 37 still awaited him.

Although in such cases the marriage was often postponed as long as possible, the ministers as a rule nevertheless had enough sense of responsibility to take the seduced girl as their wife. Yet I found it recorded of Ds. Rudolphi (Peasens) that he had provided his maidservant Aukje Eelkes, who was in a certain condition, with money and sent her to Holland, in order to undergo her confinement there, while after her return he was unwilling to marry her[2]; and Boeder of Surhuisterveen too, although he had given Tetsje Teakes the assurance of "fearing his Heavenly Father more than his earthly one" and a promise of marriage "on his soul and salvation", proved to make little earnest of those solemn declarations. To the honour of the church it can be said that it did not rest until it had brought the faithless to repentance, and, if this failed, deposed them without connivance[3]. It never let the offence go unpunished, so far as I know. Old Abrahami too, mentioned above, was — although he honestly and with much emotion confessed his guilt, adding "that the marriage had already been made known to his sons a year before, but had been postponed more because of the long illness of his wife than through any evil intention, and that he had fallen through pride, having always condemned such a crime in a minister with the highest contempt, and never believed that he would be subject to such temptations" — suspended for 6 months (Latin) from office and income[4]. If in such an offence the one classis considered that it, "though not wishing to break the bruised reed, must nevertheless show the world that it abhorred such a profanation of God's Name, also in its own members"[5], another judged this sin, which "defiled both soul and body", punishable above all in a servant of God's sanctuary, who "must strive to keep the linen coat pure"[6].

Had the violation of decency among the ministers been limited to such premature married life with housekeepers, we would be inclined not to impute the guilt to them too heavily. From of old, also under the law of celibacy, the clergy here had allowed themselves a great measure of freedom in this respect[7]. The moral level in general stood none too high and "moral" feeling was little developed. We need not think, as proof of this, of depictions of morals and literary products of Holland's great poets (Cats, Huygens, even Vondel)[8]. The church Acta themselves give abundant evidence of it. When we learn that for the debauched Nethenus, who, himself married, wanted to seduce several women to adultery, the "select band" of Hemelum's inhabitants (schoolmaster, notary and surgeon) stepped into the breach, that the daughters of the notary, with whom Nethenus had for years had "friendly conversation", declared among other things that "he could not well come to us witnesses fem. gen., nor we to him, but His Reverence had to give a little kiss of welcome and of parting, out of jest and seemly charm, not unbecoming to an honourable man"[9], then we get no high opinion of the sense of decency, at least of Hemelum's most respected citizenry. When we read that the sentence pronounced, of all things, by the Court of Friesland upon Ds. Tiberias de Baar of Witmarsum, in which his unchastities were related in full colour, had by decision of the classis to be publicly proclaimed from the pulpit and made known in "De Boekzaal"[10], then that decision too throws a clear light on a general lack of what among Christians ought tacitly to be reckoned as good morals. When finally we consider that the foulest shameful deeds of the ministers were recorded in the classical Acta scarcely ever in veiled terms and stood there for each one of them to read[11] — for the Actenboek, since each was scriba in his turn, came into everyone's hands — then we can, taking account of the temptations to which they were exposed, hardly impute a lapse such as that meant above to many young ministers as a mortal sin, however much we regret that, amid the general looseness of morals, they did not unanimously give an example of modesty and purity.

Worse things did happen, however. What stands described of a Hanecroot (Finkum), a Samplonius (Oosterhaule), a Nethenus, a Tib. de Baar and others, is so revolting, that on reading the statements of the witnesses in the church Actenboek one gets the impression of having an immoral novel before one; with this difference, that what here may have been fiction, was there sad reality. So dark in some periods is the picture which the honest chroniclers of the church drew of the moral life of their fellow brethren, that one is involuntarily reminded of depictions of morals such as those of Ps. 14 or Hos. 4 and imagines that they, who were to be a light in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, were themselves nothing other than the latter. The aforementioned Nethenus is, for his shameful crimes, suspended for only 9 months; a punishment so light that even the E. M. Ged. demanded the delivery of the sentence with the accompanying documents — the demand was, so it is said, "after consideration in the fear of the Lord graciously granted" — and after returning them reported "that they would this time let it rest with the sentence, but judged that Ds. N. had merited a heavier punishment, even deposition, and seriously charging the honourable classis that in future, should such abominations unexpectedly again come to the knowledge and judicature of the honourable classis, the matters be treated with more zeal, resoluteness and earnestness to the glory of God, lest they be compelled to take the matters and documents over to themselves and to dispose of them, which would perhaps not be agreeable to the honourable classis"[1]; an intervention of the Honourable Deputies which will not surprise us when we know that at this time members of the Sneek classis were such ministers as Mariënhof, van Woensel, Rauwerda and Frochet[2], the last of whom restored Nethenus to his office after his suspension — with a sermon on the fitting text John 5[14] — only to be suspended himself shortly afterwards for far-gone drunkenness[3].

[1] Cl. Z. Nov. 1714 (M. v. d. Vecht, Oldeboorn), 28 May 1749 (R. Braarda, Akkrum); cl. L. 9 Feb. 1711 (R. Bekius, Britsum); cl. S. 26 Jan. 1641 (P. Theodori, Nijland), 17 Jan. 1786 (W. Bekkering, Ysbrechtum); cl. B. W. 9 Feb.—4 Oct. 1624 (Mollius, Wommels); cl. F. 7 May 1725 (Greidanus, Pytersbierum,); cl. D. 4 Mar. 1678 (P. Nauta, Foudgum), 16 Feb.—9 Mar. 1711 (H. Boeder, Surhuisterveen), 10 Oct. 1712 (Rudolphi, Peasens), 6 Sept. 1719 (Joh. van Minnen, Gerkesklooster), 2 Sept. 1720 (J. H. Schrader, Ternaard), 1 July 1729 (Joach. Benthem, Morra), 19 May 1750 (A. Abrahami, Kollum). One sees: in the Dokkum classis the offence was for a time almost a custom.

[2] The same of Ds. Harp. Wibinga at Edens-Spannum (cl. F. 27 Apr. 1640—20 Dec. 1641).

[3] Cl. D. 24 Oct. 1712 (Rudolphi), ib. 6 July 1712 (H. Boeder).

[4] Cl. D. 19 May 1750.

[5] Cl. D. 1 July 1729.

[6] Cl. Z. 28 May 1749.

[7] J. Reitsma, Honderd jaren, pp. 4—5.

[8] It deserves notice that in Friesland's greatest poet Gysbert Japiks no obscene pericopes are to be pointed out.

[9] Cl. S. 4 Oct. 1718.

[10] Cl. B. W. 5 June 1770; in the report in "De Boekzaal", 1770 part I, pp. 692/693 the objectionable matter has been omitted.

[11] An exception is made e.g. by the scriba cl. L. 3 Aug. 1726, who introduced the verdict passed on Ds. Quir. Aedius (Oenkerk) for immoral acts with the words: .... has made himself guilty of shameful scandals, which are not even decent to be named among the heathen.

Probably the most perverse man who ever mounted a Frisian pulpit was François Bekius, for a time minister at Augustinusga-Surhuizum. If the "homo sum, humani nil a me alienum puto" of Terentius — (Latin) "I am a man, I consider nothing human foreign to me" — is meant in the bad sense, then it certainly applied to him. At first, as successor to J. Cuperus — who had certainly not become emeritus on account of his virtues, and in whom the congregation had at any rate lost little — he had made a great impression by his preaching and his helpfulness/!/. From all sides the inhabitants of the heath district streamed together to hear him; the number of elders even had to be increased on that account. Soon, however, his base qualities came to light, and on the 28th of July 1783 there was laid on the table in the classis a report, drawn up for this occasion by a competent jurist[4], which contained no fewer than 26 charges against this minister. Bekius[5] proved, not to speak of his negligence in the fulfilment of his official duties, his drunkenness, his frauds, his cursing, his sacrilegious talk in and outside the church, his unauthorized practice of medical, especially obstetric/!/ practices, to be a seducer of women and a paederast. What consternation he brought about by his shameful deeds, unknown even by name to many fellow villagers, and how the disposition towards him turned from admiration into contempt, appears from the telling saying of a simple woman — in her ignorance a poetess — who, when she (at first rather taken with the minister's coming) heard of his misdeeds (not even the worst of them), exclaimed: to me it was "as if the sun went down at midday"."

The suspension resolution concerning Ds. Ausonius Greydanus itself reads as follows:

"11 June 1725.
48.

The honourable Classis of Franeker, having ripely and in the fear of God considered the case of D^nus^ Ausonius Greidanus, Minister of the Holy Gospel at Pietersbierum, and everything belonging to his case, cannot without much sorrow and grief of heart declare, as it does declare hereby, that the said D^ne^ Greijdanus has made himself guilty in part of the sin of unchastity and shameful fornication, by keeping wholly untimely intercourse with his present wife, even without any preceding promise of marriage, to the great offence of God's Church, and moreover of a frivolous use of the Holy Supper at that same time; that it has, however, also with some gladness and satisfaction heard a frank confession of his misdeeds and seen signs of his sorrow and repentance over the same; wherefore the honourable Classis, having well considered everything, has judged that, although the said D^ne^ Greijdanus with regard to his misdeeds considered in themselves had indeed deserved a heavier censure, nevertheless, in view of his voluntary confession and signs of repentance, he shall only be suspended from his service, with loss of his salary, and from the use of the Holy Supper, from this time until the 29 September of this year; and that in the meantime his service shall be performed by the Brethren of the honourable Classis; and that the said D^ne^ Greijdanus, for the further showing of his repentance, shall diligently attend the holy service as it is performed by the honourable Brethren, and on the 30 September following shall have to deliver a penitential sermon before his congregation at Pietersbierum in the presence of D.D. Heins and Ludinga as Commissioners of the honourable Classis, of which report shall be made by them in the last classical meeting of this year; finally, that this sentence shall be read out to him, D. Greijdanus, word for word from the classical book and shall subsequently also be made known to the congregation from the pulpit at Pietersb. For the rest the honourable Classis wishes and prays from the heart that God, according to the riches of His mercy, may grant His grace to this fallen Brother, who testifies heartfelt regret, and may henceforth preserve him from such and similar sins and offences, so that the Congregation of God may be edified by him as may be expected of an honest Minister of the Holy Gospel, to the honour of God's great name and the joy of all the pious. Thus done and sentenced today, the 11 June 1725.
(Latin) Compared, it agrees.
(signed) Æ. Saagmans
Classis at this time Præses
(signed) J. Ludinga
Classis at this time scriba."

[1] Cl. S. 4 Apr.—30 May 1719.

[2] Mariënhof and van Woensel, both ministers at Sneek, drank, to the annoyance of many, a stiff dram (cl. S. 7 June, 3 July 1701); Rauwerda was a drunkard and immoral (ib. 1 Oct. 1720 ff., 24 Mar. 1733); for his own sake the one dared not punish the other.

[3] Cl. S. 5 Sept. 1719, 9 Apr./7 May 1720. Frochet's wife too was of reprehensible conduct; after her husband's death addicted to drink and little better than a harlot. (Cl. S. 9 May—3 Oct. 1730). — This period was indeed the darkest in the whole history of the Frisian Church.

[4] First J. van Vliet, later the "widely renowned" prof. Joh. Valckenaar, one of the most learned jurists of Friesland (cl. D. 6 Oct. 1783, 6 Dec. 1784). Also in the disputes over the church council elections at Hiaure, where the troublesome and insolent P. Cramer, who would soon depart for Balk, was then minister, advocates were employed: by Ds. P. Cramer and his party Dr. B. R. van Theeken, who played a dubious role in it, and by the classis Dr. Buma and Mr. M. A. van Sloterdijk at Leeuwarden (cl. D. 2 Jan.—3 Aug. 1778).

[5] Of his misdeeds let it here only be reported that in the presence of many, at the funeral of his deceased servant (one of the victims of his paederasty), he fell down upon the corpse, addressed it and kissed it; that he had brought to him the afterbirth of a young woman who had been delivered for the first time and of a son, which he sprinkled with salt and hung up in the chimney, under the pretence that he would use it in his medical practice as a remedy against epilepsy.

Concerning the suspension, the following is found in the Archive of the Classis Franeker:

> "7 May 1725. D^{o} Greidanus, minister at Pijtersbierum, appeared, complaining of his lapse, first in general terms, but afterwards in particular and with much emotion and tears, that they had gone astray in untimely intercourse, or fornication committed, with his present wife, willingly submitting himself to the deserved classical censure, with a humble plea for mercy. Whereupon, after deliberation, it was found good and resolved that the assembly should further inform itself as to the truth and the circumstances of the matter by commissioners, to which end D.D. Praeses Hesselius, Boekholt, van de Leij and Ludinga have been commissioned, the service at Pijtersbierum meanwhile being provisionally performed by a candidate.
> 11 June 1725. Concerning the matter of D^{ne} A. Greijdanus the commissioners appointed to make inquiry into it have reported that they had the church council of Pijtersbierum before them there in the church, but did not speak with them, and that they summoned before them D^{ne} A. Greijdanus, minister there, and put to him certain articles, which, together with his answer given to the same, they have submitted in writing to the honourable Classis, which articles the honourable Classis has approved; after which the honourable Classis, having once again heard D^{ne} A. Greydanus, having questioned the church council of Pietersbierum about his case and having weighed all that pertains thereto in the fear of the Lord, has with great sorrow and regret found that D^{ne} A. Greydanus, according to his own frank confession, which agrees with the information obtained, has made himself guilty of a shameful and actual fornication with his present wife and of a frivolous use of the Lord's Holy and Most Worthy Supper in the circumstances of time and of the matter, wherefore the honourable Classis, in order to remove the offence given, has passed sentence as follows:
> (here follows the suspension decision communicated on the previous page).
> The above sentence was read out word for word to D^{ne} Greijdanus by the Scriba (clerk).
> Further it has been resolved that this sentence shall be made known by D.D. Heijns and Ludinga to My Lord the Officer, with the request that His Honour may be pleased to be helpful in its very execution. It has also been resolved that for the ministry of Pietersbierum the usual order in supplying vacant places shall be observed, and that each Brother who preaches there shall receive 5 gulden.
> 2 July 1725. After invocation of the Lord's name by the Reverend President, the re-reading of the foregoing act was proceeded to, on which occasion the commissioned gentlemen D. D. G. Heins and I. Ludinga reported concerning their commission to the Right Honourable Mr. A. van Haarsholte, touching the suspension of A. Greijdanus, that His Honour would gladly see that the honourable Brethren performing the holy service at Pitersbierum should take their lodging at the house of the minister, whereupon the assembly once again commissioned, in addition to the aforenamed Brethren, N. van der Leij, to request in polite terms of the Lord Officer that His Right Honour might be pleased to acquiesce in the sentence passed and to maintain the same by his authority.
> 6 August 1725. . . . . The commissioned honourable Brethren D.D. N. van der Leij, G. Heins, I. Ludinga have reported to the honourable Classis concerning their commission to the Right Honourable Mr. A. van Harsholte, that His Right Honour entirely acquiesced in the sentence passed by the honourable Classis against D. Greidanus, although he would gladly have seen that the honourable gentlemen ministers who shall perform the service at Pijtersbierum might take their lodging at the house of him, D. Greidanus[1], whereupon the honourable Classis resolved that this should be left to each one's own liberty.
> 1 October 1725. 9. The honourable D. Greidanus, serving in the congregation at Pietersbierum, requested re-admission, since he had, also according to the report received, satisfied the honourable Classis' resolution and censure imposed upon him, and it was granted him.
> 11. Since D. Greidanus had been suspended ab Officio & Beneficio and was now again admitted ad suggestum, the honourable assembly disposed of those moneys, above what had been agreed for the services performed at Pietersbierum, to be received by the honourable Fiscus (treasurer) of the Classis and then, out of special consideration and without any consequence being drawn therefrom, to be bestowed therefrom upon the candidate Moda, and the remainder, after deduction of expenses, upon the poor of the Diaconate at Pietersbierum."

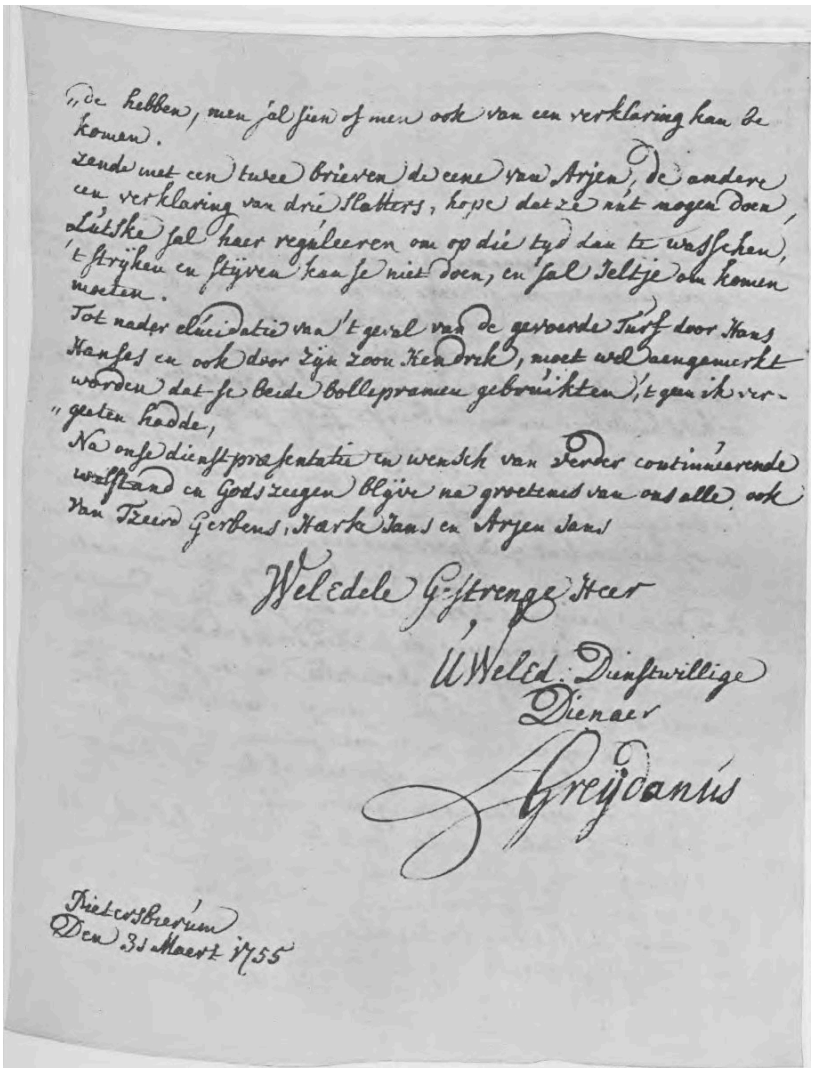
Apparently Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus was, fairly soon after his re-acceptance among the Classis brethren, again a man of influence and authority; at any rate the acts of 7 October 1726 are signed by him as "Praeses".

Once more afterwards the financial side of the suspension came up for discussion in the Classis, namely in the meeting of 7 July 1727. There it reads:

> "Under Particularia a question was put by D. Olthof Jr. as Fiscus Classi, how the moneys from the preaching service at Pietersbierum, which are still there after the payment of the brethren who performed the service there, shall be divided between the Candidatus Moda and the Diaconate of Pietersbierum. And it was resolved that D. Moda $^{2}/_{3}$ parts shall be given, but that D^{s} Luydinga senior and Wagens shall therewith provide him with that which is most needful for him."

In the following acts, especially of the year 1730 and subsequent years, Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus frequently appears as praeses or as scriba.

[1] In the deed the words are struck through: "provided he receives the five car. gulden which each minister was to receive for his service".



„de hebben, men sal sien of men ook van een verklaring kan be komen.
zende met een twee brieven de eene van Atjen, de andere een verklaring van drie Slabbers, hope dat ze nat mogen doen, Lutske sal haer regaleeren om op die tyd dan te wasschen,
't strijken en stijven kan se niet doen, en sal Teltje om komen moeten.
Tot nader elucidatie van 't geval van de gevoerde Turf door Hans Hanses en ook door Zijn Zoon Hendrick, moet wel aangemerkt worden dat se beide Bollepramen gebruikten, 't geen ik ver„geten hadde,
Na onse dienst presentatie en wensch van verder continuerende welstand en Gods zegen Blijve na groetenis van ons alle, ook van Tjeerd Gerbens, Harke Jans en Atjen Jans

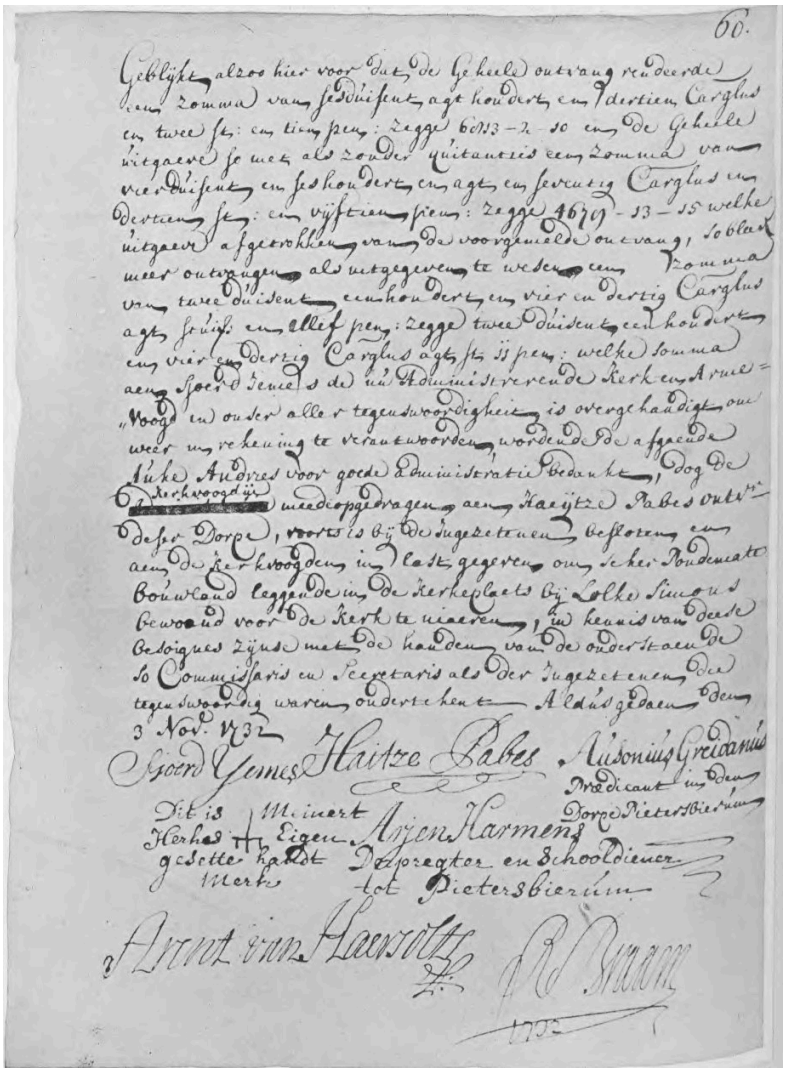
Weledele Gestrenge Heer,

UWeled: Dienstwillige
Dienaer
Greijdanus

Tietjerksteradeel
Den 31 Maert 1755

Page of a letter dated 31 March 1755 from Ds. Aüsoniüs Greijdanüs (actual size).



Folio from the Church Book of the Reformed Congregation of Pietersbierum, written in his own hand on 3 November 1732 by Ds. Aúsoniús Greidanús (slightly reduced).

Of Ds. Ausonius, of whose handwriting two reproductions have been appended, the following writings are known:

1°. A Latin poem composed in his student years, which is found at the back of the dissertation: "Dissertatio theologica inauguralis de libro vitae" Franequeræ 1720, with which Willem (Guilielmus) Muilman, of 's-Gravenhage [1], took his doctorate in Theology at the Franeker University on 10 October 1720.

At the back of this dissertation, a copy of which is preserved in the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden (see Catalogue 1862 page 262) one finds: on page 72 a Hebrew poem and on page 73 its translation into Latin, by "Adrianus Biman, Pauli Fil., Eccles. Schellinganus", on page 74 a Greek poem by: G. Andreæ Med. Doctr. & V.D.M., on pages 75 and 76 the Latin poem by Ausonius Greidanus, on page 77 a Latin poem, beneath which: "Non ut volui; sed ut potui" and on pages 78, 79 and 80: "Songs of praise on the learned and thoroughly wrought Disputation on the Book of Life, drawn up and defended by the sagacious and well-practised Sir Willem Muilman: When his Reverence was consecrated as Teacher of Sacred Theology: by: Abraham Oosterland SS. Th. St.".

The Latin poem by Ausonius Greidanus with the Dutch prose translation made by me follows below:

(Latin) "In honour of the most Excellent and most Accomplished Young man, GUILIELMI MUILMAN: when he publicly, for the Degree of Doctor in Sacred	In honour of the very Excellent and very Gifted Young man, WILLEM MUILMAN: when he publicly spoke, for the Doctoral Degree in Sacred Theology, concerning the Book of Life, with the highest praise.

Theology, discoursed
on the Book of life with the highest praise.
The cares, futile
in comparison with everlasting time, which press upon these days of a wretched life,
are often wont to make the quiet
state of minds
so much the more turbulent,
the more blessed joys of the mind
one conceives, being always occupied with searching out the awesome
ways of the Lord, and gathering them up with watchful care.
Since, laying open the mysteries of the supreme Godhead valiantly with unremitting labour, and bidding the flatteries of earth
to perish,
he lays all his cares upon the Lord.
This is the one goal of life, blessed Muilman, noble light of this age,
glory of your stock,
great in dignity,
shining ornament
of an illustrious Father.
You who, as the fruit of study obtained by labour,
a fruit of great weight and become a lofty thing, publish the Book of Life more worthily explained, to be approved
with every praise.
Who would not honour that keen intellect?

Who would not extol with praises him who deserves it? Who would not bestow worthy rewards? Who would not crown these temples with laurel? Let therefore the all too beautiful crowns deservedly encircle the head of the happy man, the learned head, and let the noble palm cover the skilled locks of the distinguished Young man; and let the kindly grace of the Holy Spirit abundantly fill that pure breast: flourishing long for the common good, a life longer in life than Nestor's. A. Greidanus.”
	The cares which, vain as they are in comparison with eternal life, press upon these days of wretched earthly existence, are often wont to trouble the peaceful state of the mind the more, the more blissful joys of the mind one conceives, being always busy with the tracing out of the awesome ways of the Lord and with the gathering of them together with watchful care, seeing that such a person, valiantly laying bare the mysteries of the highest Godhead with hard labour, bidding the flattering voices of the earth to perish, transfers all cares and all attention to the Lord. This is the only goal of life, blessed Muilman, noble point of light of this age, glory of your great family through your worthiness, splendid ornament of your renowned Father. You who, as the fruit of your study, a fruit which through labour has become heavy of weight and a lofty thing, publish the Book of Life explained in a worthier manner, so that it can be approved with every praise. Who shall not honour that sagacious intellect? Who shall not extol with praise him who deserves it? Who shall not bestow worthy rewards? Who shall not wreathe these temples with a laurel? Let then the graceful wreaths adorn the head of the happy man, who has only too well deserved them, and let the noble palm cover the skilled locks of the remarkable Young man; and let the gracious grace of the Holy Spirit abundantly fill that pure breast. Live a life longer than Nestor's in long vigour of life for the common good. A. Greidanus.

In the manuscript department of the Koninklijke Bibliotheek at 's-Gravenhage there is the Album amicorum dated 1719 of the aforesaid Guilielmus Muilman, at that time still a student at Franeker. On page 139 of this Album there occurs an inscription in Hebrew and in Latin by Ausonius Greydanus, then likewise still a student at Franeker. A reproduction of this page is included herewith. The inscription, rendered into English, reads as follows:

[1] Willem Muilman was a son of the well-known Hague minister Wigbold Muilman (1712—1736) and succeeded his father there, who among other things was minister at St. Anna Parochie from 1699 to 1708.

Proverbs[1]: IX : 10
Beginning of wisdom the fear of God.
The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.
In honour of and for the sake of the merits of the excellent and learned youth WILLEM MUILMAN
these few words were written as an everlasting token of his friendship
Franeker — Ausoniüs Greydanüs
13 October — S.S. Theol: Studios:”
1720.

2°. A Latin poem likewise composed during his student years, occurring in a volume of Lijkzangen (funeral songs) printed in quarto at Franeker in 1722, relating to the decease of Prof. Campegius Vitringa, Professor of Theology at the University of Franeker. This volume, of which a copy is present in the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden (see Catalogue, Second Supplement of 1871 on page 75) contains: on pages 1 and 2 a Latin poem by E. J. W., A. G., J. W., G. J. K. and T. B.; on pages 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 a Latin poem by Joannes Wolbers, J. U. Cand.; on pages 8 and 9 a Latin poem by Jacob Gerh. Hardtman, SS. LL. Stud. Vesal Cliv.; on pages 10, 11, 12 and 13 the Latin poem by A. Greidanus SS. Theol. Stud.; on page 14 a Latin poem by A. Paulo Keresztesi, Ungaro SS. Theol. Stud.; on pages 15 and 16 a Latin poem by M. V. Debrecino, Hungarus, Stud. Theol.; on the wrongly numbered pages 15, 16 and 17 a Latin poem by J. G. de Chaufepié; on pages 18 and 19 a Latin poem by Johannes de Reiger, SS. Th. Stud.; on pages 20, 21 and 22 a Dutch poem "Rouw-Galm etc."; on page 23 a Dutch epitaph by Jacobus Hunnius, Medioburgo Zeelandus, SS. Theol. Stud.; on pages 24 and 25 "Rouw-Klagt", a Dutch poem by G. J. Stelt, J. S., and on page 26 a French poem: "Sonnet sur la mort" by S. de la Doüespe, Etudiant en Theologie. The Latin poem by Ausonius Greijdanus with my prose translation of it follows below:

[the Latin poem and its Dutch prose translation are printed side by side in two columns; the left-hand Latin column is given first.]

ELEGIA
in Luctuosissimum Obitum Eruditissimi & Incomparabilis
viri
CAMPEGII VITRINGA, P.[2]
S.S. Theol. Doctoris ejusdemque & Hist. S. in Frisiorum Lyceo Professoris Ordinarii.
Pie denati prid. Cal. April. Anni cIↃ IↃ ccxxii.
TRistia quæ nostras post tempora læta camænas,
Eheu! infando, fata, dolore premunt?
Quæve procellarum, nostro damnosa Lyceo Incubat immenso pondere, turba, mali?
Quæ mihi mæroris speciem subjecit acerbi
Incumbens Patriæ plaga cruenta meæ?
Quæ mihi cantanti nuper lætissima, versus Scribere lugubres, mandat iniqua dies?
Non me bellorum pestis metuenda gementem
Impulit adversas sustinuisse vices;
Sed gravis erepti fatis absentia, movit
Numine, præclari, fata regente, viri.
Flebilis illa mihi mors, flebilis omnibus, ansam
FUNERAL POEM on the most Mournful Decease of the most Learned and Incomparable
lord
CAMPEGIUS VITRINGA, the F/ather/
Doctor of Sacred Theology and Ordinary Professor both in that subject and in Sacred History at the Frisian Lyceum.
Piously departed on 31 March 1722.
What sorrowful decrees of fate press down, alas, upon our Muses, after joyful times, with unspeakable grief? Or what throng of storms, full of damage for our Lyceum, settles upon her with an immeasurable weight of calamity? What bloody blow, striking my Fatherland, has placed before my eyes an image of bitter mourning? What day of misfortune imposes upon me, who so recently caused most cheerful strains of song to be heard[3], the writing of mourning verses? It was not the dreaded canker of wars that has driven me to endure, sighing, adverse turns of fortune; but it is the oppressive loss of an excellent

[1] Book of the Bible.

[2] Pater, the Father, in contrast with his son Campegius Vitringa F., Filius, the Son.

[3] By this Ausonius Greidanus will have meant his Latin poem, included above, on the doctoral graduation of Willem Muilman.

NAAMLYST
DER PREDIKANTEN Die zedert de Herforming gedient hebben in de CLASSIS VAN FRANEKER: MET EENE VOORREEDE,
Meldende de Edel-Mog. Heeren
COMMISSARIEN,
Welke uit het Collegie der Edel-Mog. Heeren Gedeputeerde Staten van Friesland tot de Provinciale Synoden van tyd tot tyd zyn afgevaardigt:
EN AANMERKINGEN
OVER DE
NAAMLYSTEN van andere CLASSEN.
Uit vele egte Stukken by-een-verzamelt door
AUSONIUS GREYDANUS;
In leven Predikant te PIETERSBIERUM.
En na deszelvs dood, met eenige Vermeerderingen en een volkomen Regiſter, in het licht gegeven door
J. H.
Te LEEUWARDEN,
By PIETER KOUMANS, Stads-Drukker en
Boekverkoper in de Peperſtraat, 1761.

Above: Page 139, with the inscription dated 13 October 1720 by the Theol. Stud. at Franeker Ausonius Greydanus, from the Album Amicorum dated 1719 of Guilielmus Muilman (somewhat reduced). Below: Title page of a booklet written by Ds. Ausonius Greydanus (somewhat reduced).

MANIBUS
SPECTATISSIMI, AMPLISSIMI, ILLUSTRISSIMI
VIRI,
D. SUFFRIDI WESTERHUSII.
DE PATRIA ET URBE FRANEQUERANA
INSIGNITER MERITI,
TACITE, SED SUBITO IPSO IN MUNERE DEFUNCTI
HAGÆ, A. D. XXII. OCTOBRIS MDCCXXXI.

Antane terrenam regit inconſtantia vitam?
Tantane mortali præſidet illa rei?
Nullane cedit iniqua Domo Patriæque cupitæ?
Ergo Peregrinos mors inopina petit?
Nullane conſuetas leges incondita ſervat?
Æqua nec in ſtantes in ſtatione Viros?
O Duræ ſubitæque vices queis ſubdita vita!
Quanta pericla manent! quanta minantur eam!
Non Patriæ ſervire foris, non munere fungi Abſenti tuto morte minante licet.
Nec WESTERHUSIO licet in ſtatione pepercit, Mittit in Abſentem mors ſua tela Virum,
Mors ferit improviſa Domo Patriaque remotum,
Inque ſolo Patrio non ſinit ipſa mori;
Vix WESTERHUSIUM bene continet Haga valentem,
Quin eadem Functum continet Haga ſtatim,
Sic procul a Notis moritur, nec cura Fidelis
Conjugis in mortis tangit agone Virum,
Quodve laboranti præſentia conjugis aptum
Solamen poſſet contribuiſſe Viro,
Hoc caret, & ſolus cum forti dimicat hoſte,
Nec niſi devictus victor abire poteſt,
Corpus lethifero contactum vulnere, præda
Hoſti cedit, Mens inviolata manet:
Sic WESTERHUSIUS moritur, ſubitoque recedit, Attamen a tacito vulnere tactus obit;
Sic abiit Patriæ, ſic inclytus occidit urbis
Rector, & Eximiæ Nobile ſtemma domus,
Qui ſtantis lætæque rei Promotor, & Author,
Qui penitus lapſæ certa medela fuit,
Ille Dei non ore Timens, ſed corde profundo,
Ille Dei cui lex regula fixa fuit,
Ille ſuis ſervire, ſuos aſſuetus amare,
Quem Patriæ tenuit cura, ſalutis amor,
Pacis amans extra, atque domi procul arcuit omnem
Litem, promiſſis fœderibusque ſtetit,
Solamen miſeris, orbatorumque Patronus,
Ignoſcens lapſis, juſtitiæque tenax,
Conſilio prudens meditata polita gerebat,
Nec feſtinanti voce loquela fuit,
Non tumidus falſa, nec honoribus immoderatus,
Non opibus pompam luxuriamque ſequens,
Impenſo ſacras veneratus honore camœnas
Intererat doctis ſæpius ille Choris,
Sumptibus & ſtudio profert quid terra remota
Collegit, cura fovit, & auxit ope.
Illene pro Patria, pro Civibus optima quæque Procurans noſtræ ceſſat adeſſe rei?
Illene pro patria, pro civibus in ſtatione
Viribus exhauſtis ſtans moriturus erat?
Ergone communi res eſt privata Patrono
Publica? nec tanto pervigilanda Viro?
Si meritis lachrymæ, gemitus ſi dotibus ulli
Sufficiant, Tanti bulla rigate viri;
Friſia lugubres habitus, lugubria corda
Induc, communem Friſia fleto Patrem;
Franica cum memori ſi ſint bene geſta colenda
Mente, memento Tui Tempus in omne Viri,
Non licet ad Tanti Capitis damnoſa ſiſtere
Fata, ſed in luctus ocyus ire pios,
Nulla Viri veſtram curabit cura ſalutem,
Reſtituet lapſam cura nec ulla viri;
Si tamen immemori tractetur mente, Bonorum
Non tamen ex animis excidet ille dolor.
Nec deerit ſpoliata ſuo ſervaſſe marito
Conjux triſtitiæ ſigna notasque ſuæ;
Conjugis ignota juſtæ de morte querelæ,
Mortis feralis nuncia charta fuit,
Orba Viro, quem longa fides ſibi junxerat arcte,
Sola ſenectutis ſcit tolerareque mala,
Non ſocia ſufferre manu triſtiſſima vitæ
Fata ſuo ſocio debilis orba valet,
Ultima ſi poſſet Conjux captaſſe mariti
Vota, Viri morti poſſet adeſſe ſui, Inſigni Conjux fulcro ſpoliata doloris
Nunquam ceſſabit ſigna dediſſe ſui,
Interno tamen ipſa magis contacta dolore
Semper imago Viri mente repoſita manet,
Unit amor verus, manet inter morte remotos,
Morte magis verus creſcit, & unit amor:
Nec juvat e meliore ſtatu revocare maritum,
Sed Tantis opibus ſemper adeſſe juvat
Spes hæc una tenet, ſunt Conjugis optima vota, Quæ tenuere prius, nunc tenuere magis.
Temperat inſigni ſpes hæc ſolamine luctus,
Si Functos maneant præmia certa Pios,
Si meliora gradu tali contingere Functo,
Si datur ad ſummum ſic penetrare Bonum,
Si rebus numerus ſit fixus certus in orbe,
Terra nec æternis gaudeat hæcce bonis.
Ergo ſuos habeat mutabilis orbis honores,
Non WESTERHUSIUM vita caduca juvat,
Invidia cæleſtis erit ſors ſemper ab omni
Libera, pro mixtis gaudia pura dabit.
Noſtra licet Tanto ſit res privata Patrono, Jacturaque gravi ſit miſeranda Viri,
Erigitur mediis in luctibus, atque doloris
Solamen capit ex conditione Viri;
Ceſſet in his terris noſtris prodeſſe Camœnis,
Fama tamen ſemper digna colenda modis,
Ceſſet in his quamvis terris, tamen Incola Cæli Semper honorandus, ſemper amandus erit.
Si ſua ſit numero ſemper ſors ſcripta beato,
Ergo ſuo valeat tempus in omne ſtatu.

A. GREIDANUS
Eccl. in Pietersbierum.

FRANEQUERAE,
Excudit MARTINUS VANDER VEEN Typographus. MDCCXXXI.

Printed Latin poem of the year 1731 by the Pietersbierum minister Ds. Ausonius Greidanus on the death of Suffridus Westerhuis (see pages 284 and 285) (reduced).

(Latin) That tearful death gave occasion for sudden mourning:
The tearful, unforeseen death of the illustrious Father bade the choice house bewail the decrees of fate;
The rightful Devotion that had to be shown to the man urged me to utter complaints, and to mourn the fate of the outstanding old man.
Alas! where is that excellent knowledge of so many things?
Alas! where is the astounding treasure of godly learning?
Alas! where is the venerable skill in the Divine tongue?
Alas! where is the sincere love of religion?
All lies laid low by a death-bringing thunderbolt.
Laid low lies that remarkable piety, by bloody slaughter, and the unblemished faith that shone before all others.
Fallen, alas! is the ornament and the only hope of our Lyceum, fallen is the first glory of the Aonian choir!
Mourn, you Pierian Fathers, beat your godly breasts in mourning, weep, grieve, bid the man a sad farewell.
Mourn, you Muses, assume sorrowful faces, grieve, sad members of the Castalian choir.
With weeping and groaning, you circle of youth that rejoiced in such a teacher, moisten his funeral pyre.
What grief has the black death of Campegius brought me?
What harmful losses, alas, has it dealt to my Muses?
Soon sad sighs rise up to the mourning mind, and the mind, overwhelmed by the utmost mass of woe, falls into frenzy.

Him, as he was handling his last[2] work, death — the final line of things[1], brandishing its weapons with a deadly thunderbolt, snatched away:
Rightly may this death be a cause of bitter grief to you, mournful Frisia, who will hardly ever have his equal.
O Father! O most famous glory of our age!
O ornament! O glittering star of our sky!
Whither do you flee? And do you leave the Muses wretched because of a sad death, a death to be recounted in the furthest regions of the world?
Why have the Fates so suddenly broken your thread of life?
And why have they deprived us of a most illustrious man?
O venerable old man! Frisia mourns you, taken from the Muses, and the Batavian Land sighs for you as for its Father.
O, the people that borders nearest upon our lands grieves that you are snatched away, and he who, eager for you, seeks our lecture-chairs.
O beloved old man! Your excellent Wife sighs for you with weeping, and, plunged in mourning, lacks her dear Husband.
Your son, O venerable one, in deepest sorrow mourns at your urn, and bears pious prayers to your grave-mound.
O excellent Father, your outstanding son, bereft of you by a sudden death, grieves for the Parent who gave him life, your Beloved daughter, saddened, most desirous of seeing you, mourns and laments over your ashes.
Are you then, Vitringa, seized by so sudden a death, forsaking, alas, the Muses, you love of the City and of the World?
Are your limbs then cold with so sudden a stiffening?
And do they lie there all at once laid low by a death-bringing slaughter?
Does your spirit then withdraw, freed from the frail body?
And does it enter the blessed roofs of the ethereal house?
Do you then shine, suffused with heavenly honour?
And do you leave us wretches to weep over your pyre?
Do you then attain the precious rewards of so great a labour?
Rewards worthy of your skilful toil.
Shall I speak out? Or shall I be silent? Shall I speak? But my voice sticks in my throat, and I am able to utter no words, since grief forbids it.
More worthy words will Schultens, than whom scarcely another is more eloquent, utter with eloquent mouth for your holy shade.
And he will pay the most deserved last honours to Campegius, and will give the renowned deeds of the old man to the world to be recounted.
Frisia, if you can, put off nevertheless your mournful features, and you, Muse, restrain your gloomy sighs.
One hope of our Campegius remains, one only,
Campegius, the sure remedy for the sudden misfortune.
Campegius, the living image of his father's virtue, is at hand as a sweet solace for the fierce grief.
He, treading the learned footsteps of his learned Father man, snatched away by the decrees of fate and by the Deity, who guides the decrees of fate, it is this loss which has worked upon me. A source of tears to me is this death, a source of tears to all; as a source of tears it has given occasion for sudden mourning. As a source of tears the death of the illustrious Father has constrained the choice house to bewail the decrees of fate. The rightful Devotion which had to be shown to that man aroused an urge to let complaints rise up and to mourn the passing of the outstanding old man. Alas! where is now that excellent knowledge of so many things? Alas! where is that astounding treasure of godly learning? Alas! where is the venerable skill in the Divine tongue? Alas! where is the sincere love of religion? Alas! where is now the interest in Latium, the interest in the Pelasgian (Greek) people? Everything lies laid low by a death-bringing thunderbolt. Laid low lies the remarkable piety, by a bloody slaughter, and also the unblemished faith which outshone all else. Fallen is, alas, the ornament and the only hope of our Lyceum, fallen the first glory of the Aonian choir. Mourn, you Fathers who serve the Muses, beat your godly breasts in mourning, weep and grieve and bid the man a sad farewell. Mourn, you too, Muses yourselves, assume sorrowful features and grieve, sad members of the choir that lives by the spring of poetry. And you, circle of youth, taught to your joy by such a teacher, moisten his funeral pyre with weeping and sighing. What grief has the black death of Campegius brought me? What disturbing damage has that death, alas, dealt to my Muses? Soon sad sighs rise up to the mourning spirit, and the spirit, overwhelmed by the utmost mass of calamity, falls into frenzy. While he had his last work in hand[3], he was snatched away by death, the final line of life, brandishing weapons with a fatal flash of lightning. Rightly may this death be a cause of bitter grief to You, O Frisia, who will not easily ever have his equal. O father! O most famous glory of our age! O ornament! O glittering star of our firmament. Whither do You flee? Do You leave the Muses behind, wretched because of a sad passing, which must be recounted in the furthest regions of the world? Why have the Fates so suddenly cut off Your thread of life? and why have They caused us to be deprived of a most illustrious man? O venerable old man! Over Your being taken from the Muses Frisia mourns, the Batavian Soil sighs for You as for its Father. Over Your being snatched away there mourns also the people which borders nearest upon our lands and which, eager for You, visits our lecture-chairs. O beloved old man! Your excellent Wife sighs over You with weeping and, plunged in mourning, feels the loss of her dear Husband. Your son, O venerable one, mourns in the deepest sorrow at Your urn and bears pious prayers to your grave-mound. O excellent Father, Your outstanding son, bereft of You by a sudden death, mourns the man who gave him life. Your Beloved daughter, saddened by seeing Your departure, Your daughter, who loved You very much, is in mourning and grieves, lamenting over Your ashes. Are You then, O Vitringa, seized by so sudden a death, and do You thus forsake, alas, the Muses, You love of the City and of the World? Are Your limbs then now cold through so sudden a stiffening? And do they lie there all at once laid low by a death-bringing slaughter? Does Your spirit then withdraw, this frail

[1] "(Latin) Mors ultima linea Rerum", that is: Death is the final line of things, motto (borrowed from Horatius) of the Sneek student Sixtus Wiersma (see page 190).

[2] (Latin) Our blessed one had begun to explain in public lectures Moses, about to depart from life, blessing Israel.

[3] Our famous man had begun to explain, in public lectures, Moses, on the point of departing from life, blessing Israel.

(Latin) He still lives as the flower and the ornament of his father's house. A. Greidanus, S.S. Theol. Stud."

body? And does it ascend in blessedness to the roof of the heavenly house built of thin air? Do you then shine, bathed in heavenly honour? And do you leave us wretched ones to bathe your funeral pyre with tears? Do you then attain the rewards for so heavy a labour? worthy of your keen work? Must I speak it out? Or must I keep silent? Must I speak? But no, my voice sticks in my throat; I am able to utter no words at all, since grief forbids it. More worthy words will be spoken by Schultens, who in eloquence is surpassed by almost no one, with eloquent mouth for your sacred shade. He will in the most fitting manner pay the last honours to Campegius and give to the world the glorious works of the old man for remembrance. Friesland, if it be possible, then brighten, in spite of everything, your sorrowful features. And you, Muse, restrain your gloomy sighs. The only hope of our Campegius has remained, Campegius (the younger), the sure healing for the sudden calamity. Campegius (junior), the living image of his father's virtue, is present as a sweet consolation for the fierce grief. He, Campegius, treading in the footsteps of his father, still lives as a flower and an ornament of his father's house.

A. Greidanus Student of sacred Theology.

3°. A Latin poem made while he was still a student, appearing in a collection of Funeral Songs printed in quarto at Franeker in 1723, on the occasion of the death of Prof. Campegius Vitringa, a son of Prof. Campegius Vitringa, to whom the poem mentioned under 2° relates and who, like him, was Professor of Theology at Franeker. This collection, of which a copy is to be found in the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden (see Catalogue of 1862 page 156), contains: on pages 1 and 2 a Latin poem by Joannes Wolbers J. U. Doctor, Raptissime dabam Groningæ A. D. 14 Jan. 1723[1]; on pages 3 and 4 a Latin poem by A. Paulo Keresztesi, S.S. Theol. Stud. Ungaro; on pages 5, 6 and 7 the Latin poem by A. Greydanus; on pages 8, 9 and 10 a Latin poem by Samuel De La Doüespe S.S. Theol. Stud.; on pages 11 and 12 a Latin poem with the signature "Hæce Præceptori suo de se studiisque suis optimè merito in æternæ memoriæ signum mœstissimi posuerunt I. D. Estor, D. M. de Pleinchamps S.S. Th. Studiosi"[2]; on page 13 a Latin poem by F. H. Hartog S.S. Th. Stud.; on pages 14 and 15 a Latin poem, signed: "Mœstus cecinit O. H. L. L. F. G."; on pages 16 and 17 a Dutch poem by P. W. Ramaker J. U. Candidatus; on pages 18 and 19 a Dutch poem by Jacobus Hunnius, Medioburgo-Zelandus, S.S. Theol. Stud.; on pages 20, 21 and 22 a Dutch poem by F. H. Hartog, practitioner in Theology; on pages 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27 two Dutch poems by T. Blankstein S.S. Theol. Stud.; on pages 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 a Dutch poem by G. W. Goltz S.S. Th. Stud. and M. Janssonius Th. Stud.; on pages 33, 34, 35 and 36 a Dutch poem by E. J. Wiardi, S.S. Th. St.; on pages 37 and 38 a Dutch poem by Petrus Steenhovius Posthma, Leov. Fris., S.S. Th. Stud.; and on pages 39 and 40 a Dutch poem by Stephanus Luzac L. & Ph. Stud.. The Latin poem of Ausonius Greijdanus, with my own Dutch prose translation of it, follows below:

(Latin) ELEGY	ELEGY
on	on the Most Sorrowful and Unexpected Death	the very Calamitous and Unexpected death of the Most Learned and Most Celebrated	of the very Knowledgeable and Renowned
Man	Gentleman
CAMPEGIUS VITRINGA, F.[3]	CAMPEGIUS VITRINGA, the S/on/

[1] I wrote it down in great haste at Groningen 14 January 1723.

[2] These lines were laid down for their teacher, who had made himself highly deserving of them and of their studies, in deep sorrow as a token of everlasting remembrance, by: I. D. Estor, D. M. de Pleinchamps, students of Theology.

[3] Filius, the Son, in contrast with his father Campegius Vitringa P, (Pater, the Father).

[the page is set in two columns: the Latin poem at the left, the Dutch translation at the right]

(Latin) Doctor of Sacred Theology and in that same science most deserving Ordinary Professor at the Lyceum of the Frisians, who by a premature death fell asleep in the Lord on the 3rd day before the Ides of January MDCCXXIII.

What does it avail to have dragged out an unstable life beneath the aether?
What, to have endured the frail vicissitudes of the world?
What will the fleeting glory of this shorter age give?
Since nothing stands and remains in a steadfast place.
The best things fail, they depart never to return, and they cherish the senses with an all too empty appearance;
and what pleased, and promised to please still more, quickly turned its back,
and hastens on and passes by in swift flight:
We do our work and swiftly run down one single road, but each man's span of days flies on to its destruction.
And he who but now was leading his life along a safe path, ready, spurred on by hope, to live the years of Nestor, he, Campegius, soon weary of running in this frail age, flees away, and driven from his post he falls.
He who but lately shone lovable over the whole world has set, and denies his rays before the time.
He has set, and by no brightness with which he shone in the world will he make the day, as before, free from darkness.
Just now he was here, but he has gone; just now he lived and flourished, but he has fallen, he dies, and will not return.
He lived, but having struggled with unstable fate he withdrew, he lived, but in the middle of the day he ceased to be.
His limbs lie slack, his blood stands congealed like ice-cold marble, and knows not how to go out into its accustomed courses;
his eyes fail, beset by thick darkness,
the eloquent mouth, colder than ice, is silent:
and the tongue, accustomed to run on with wondrous wit, sticks fast, and is silent, never in eternity to be loosed.
He fails, and wholly vanishes into the thin airs,
Campegius, given over as prey to dread death.
Does he then depart entirely, snatched away by a bitter fate?
Have the fates then granted Campegius to die?
Will the world then have Campegius no longer?
Does our Love then go away, never to return?
Shall thus a grim night, unforeseen, press upon the lands with Stygian darkness, a night born under an evil star of heaven?
Our Love, our one Hope, the Ornament, the Light, the Glory of the world has passed away, and has fled with swift step like a shadow.
O fatal day! O lamentable hour!
in which both the Praise and the Ornament of my Fatherland fell.
O heavy Affliction, repairable by no art!
O unexpected death, hostile to the sacred choir!
Did no reverence for that Learned head move you?
No dutiful devotion? nor any fame of the Man?
Why, O Libitina, did so wicked a lust stand in you,
to break the sacred threads of that most excellent Man?
Had not, O raging one, his Excellent Father just now by your wrath, alas the grief! been laid low by an ill-omened thunderbolt?
Must then our Love, our only Hope, the Son, by those same weapons of yours, alas, have fallen?
The son, alas, was for us, after the sad funeral of the Father,
the one ready cure for our ill,
he, like his Father, the splendid image of his Parent, was already soon calling back the sheep that were to be scattered, he, the Defender and Avenger of his Father's ashes, the Glory and the Praise and the Ornament of the Frisian soil, is torn from our Muses by an unexpected death!
And through his own fate he leaves the Choir without hope.
So it stood in the fates; so the excellent Son, bereft of his Father, follows his Father, and does not himself refuse to die.

Therefore no remedy for the grief remains over,
hope lies cast away, and perishes, never to return.
Do you then flee, O Venerable Man? And do you leave the Muses?
Are then the sacred rites deprived of your help?
Your beloved Wife seeks you; bereft of you, her Husband, she mourns, and dissolves into tears without measure;
Your Mother, so lately bereft of her excellent Husband, grieves for you,

Doctor of Sacred Theology and in this same science a most deserving Ordinary Professor at the Frisian Lyceum, who by an early death fell asleep in the Lord
on the 11th of January 1723.

What does it avail to have led an unstable life beneath the aether? What does it avail to have endured the frail changes of fortune of the earthly globe? What will the fleeting glory of the shorter span of time give? Since indeed nothing stands and remains in a steadfast place. The best falls short and departs never to return again; it cherishes the senses by an all too worthless appearance. And what pleased and promised to please still more has already quickly turned its back, and hastens forth and speeds past in swift flight. We do our work and swiftly run down one single road, but each man's span of life flies on to its destruction. And he who just now was still leading his life along a safe path, ready, under the spur of hope, to live the years of Nestor, he, Campegius, soon weary of running in this frail span of time, flees away, and driven from his post he falls down. He who had only just been shining lovably over the whole globe has set, and denies us his rays before the time. He has set, and never again, as formerly, will he, by the brilliance with which he shone in the round of the world, make the day free from darkness. Just now he was here, but he has departed; just now he lived and also flourished, but he has fallen, he perishes and will not return again. He has lived, but after having struggled against unstable fate he has withdrawn; he has lived, but in the middle of the day he has ceased to be. The limbs lie there slack, the blood stands congealed like ice-cold marble and could not speed along in its accustomed circuits. The eyes fail, beset by thick darkness. The eloquent mouth is silent, colder than ice. And the tongue, accustomed to hasten along with wondrous wit, now falters and is silent, never in all eternity to be loosed. He sinks away and vanishes wholly into the thin airs; Campegius sinks away and is given over as prey to the soul-terrifying death. Does he then depart entirely, robbed away by a bitter decree of fate? Have the decrees of fate then given death to Campegius? Will the round of the world then have Campegius no longer? Does our Love then depart never to return again? Will in that way a bleak night unexpectedly press upon the earth with a Stygian[1] thick darkness, a night born at an evil axis of heaven? Our Love, our only Hope, the Ornament, the Light and the Glory of the world has passed away and has fled with swift step like a shadow. O fatal day! O lamentable hour! in which the Glory and the Ornament of my Fatherland has fallen. O heavy Affliction, to be repaired by no art! O unexpected death, Hostile to the sacred choir! Did then no reverence at all for that Learned head work upon You? No dutiful devotion at all? not at all the fame of the Man? Why did there exist in You, O Gods of the dead, so criminal a passion to break the sacred threads of life of that excellent Man? Had not, O raging one, his Excellent Father just lately been laid low by Your wrath, O grief, with a fatal flash of lightning? Must then our Love, our only Hope, the son, alas, fall before those same weapons? The son, ah, was after the sad funeral of the Father for us the only ready cure for our sorrow. He, resembling his Father, the excellent image of his Father, called back the sheep that would soon be scattered. He, the Defender and Avenger of his Father's ashes, the Glory and the Praise and the Ornament of the Frisian soil, is torn away from our Muses by an unexpected death. And he

[1] of the underworld.

(Latin)
And she sighs at the ashes of her Husband, and at Yours.
Mourning Friesland sighs, overthrown by sudden ruins,
* and grieves for the Campegiuses, whose equals it will never possess.
Franeker lies prostrate, shaken by such great perils,
* and is deprived of the Campegiuses, and perishes as in a shipwreck, never hereafter to attract Foreign Youth,
* and never to be spoken of in the accustomed manner.
Mourn therefore the two equal Men, mourn the Vitringas,
* no end is granted to the tears, nor any respite.
Beat, mournful Muses, beat your breasts,
* your Apollo falls and your fame perishes.
But although the untimely fates of these men weigh upon us,
* and mourning Friesland weeps for her Campegiuses;
yet no such unexpected bloody death will befall those men,
* nor will it be a cause of sad grief;
each of them lives, serene, a blessed day without end,
* Campegius the Son lives, and the Father too:
each of them will live, removed from vexing cares,
* and enjoys the delights of Heaven for all time.
Rest therefore, pious shades, pleasing to God, fare well therefore, Pious Men, for all time.
* A. Greidanus,
* S.S. Theol. Stud."*

and by the destinies allotted to him he leaves the Choir of Muses behind without hope. So it stood written in the decrees of fate; thus the Son, bereft of his Father, follows that Father before long, and does not refuse to die himself. Now therefore no cure whatever for the grief remains; hope lies cast away and perishes never to return. Do you then flee, O Venerable Man? And do you leave the Muses? Are the sacred rites thus deprived of Your help? Your beloved Wife asks for You; missing her Husband, she mourns and dissolves in tears without measure. Your Mother, who so recently had to lose her excellent Husband, grieves over You and now sighs at the ashes of her Husband and Yours at once. Friesland, overthrown by sudden collapses, sighs in mourning and laments the Campegiuses, whose equals it will never have. Franeker lies stretched low, carried away by such great dangers; it feels the loss of the Campegiuses and perishes as by a shipwreck. It will now never again attract the Foreign Youth in the future, it will never again be mentioned in the old manner. Mourn therefore both these equal Men, mourn the Vitringas. To the tears now no end, no respite is granted. You Muses, beat yourselves full of mourning, beat your breasts. Your Apollo falls down and your fame perishes. But although the untimely fulfilments of fate of these men weigh upon us, and Friesland in sorrow weeps for her Campegiuses, yet that unexpected bloody death will not happen to those men themselves, nor ever become for them a cause of sad grief. Each of those two lives a blessed day of life without end, Campegius the Son lives and also Campegius the Father. Each of the two will live, separated from vexing cares, each of the two tastes the glories of the Vault of Heaven for ever. Rest therefore, you pious shades, pleasing to God; fare well therefore, you Pious Men, fare well for ever.

* A. Greidanus
* Student of sacred Theology.

4°. the Latin poem referred to on page 272 on the death of Suffridus Westerhuis. A copy of this poem, printed at Franeker in 1731 in plano, a reproduction of which is inserted at page 281, is to be found in the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden (see page 72 of the second supplement of 1871 to the Catalogue). Below follows my own prose translation of the poem:

To the shade of the highly esteemed, most distinguished, most renowned man,
The Honourable Suffridus Westerhuis, who rendered outstanding services to the fatherland and to the city of Franeker, who quietly, but suddenly, fell asleep in the midst of his official work at 's-Gravenhage, the 22 October 1731.

Is it such inconstancy that governs earthly life? Is it such that presides over mortal doings? Does it in its unfairness grant nothing to the beloved Home and Fatherland? Does an unexpected death thus lie in wait for those who are on a journey? Does it in its roughness in no way keep the usual laws? Is it not even fair towards the Men who stand at their post? O hard and sudden turns of fortune to which life is subject. Even to serve the Fatherland outside one's city, to fulfil one's official task after having left that city, is not permitted by threatening death. Nor did death spare Westerhuis, although he was at his post; at the man departed from Home it sends its darts. An unforeseen death strikes him far from Home and Fatherland and does not even allow him to die on the soil of his Fatherland. Scarcely had the Hague duly received Westerhuis in good health, when at once that same city the Hague received him as one deceased. Thus he dies far from his Acquaintances, and the care of his Faithful wife too does not stand by the Man in his death-struggle. And of the fitting comfort which the presence of his wife could have afforded the dying man he is deprived; alone he fights with the mighty enemy, and only after being completely defeated can he depart as victor. The body, struck by a murderous wound, becomes the enemy's booty and succumbs; the Spirit remains unharmed. Thus Westerhuis dies and suddenly he departs. And yet it is struck by a silent wound that he goes to his death. Thus he has departed, a famous administrator of fatherland and city, and as a noble crown of his Distinguished House, he who was the Promoter and Author of a sound and joyful condition and a sure healing for it when it had sunk deep. He, who feared God not with the mouth but with the depth of the heart, he for whom the law of God was the fixed rule, he who was accustomed to serve his own and to love his own, he who was possessed by care for the Fatherland and love for her welfare, he who as a lover of peace kept every strife far off both within and outside his house and who remained faithful to his promises and covenants, a comfort to the unfortunate, a Protector of widows and orphans, forgiving those who had committed a misstep and holding fast to Righteousness, who, cautious in deciding, carried polished deliberations with him and who knew no speaking with hasty voice, not swollen with arrogance, not extravagant in honours, not seeking display and luxury through riches. While he had honoured the sacred Muses with amply measured honour, he was not seldom present in the ranks of the learned. With expense and zeal he gathered together what the distant land brings forth, cherished it with care and made it flourish by his help. Can it be true that he, who always bore the best cares for fatherland and citizens, now ceases to stand by our cause? Did he have to die standing at his post, after he had exhausted his strength at his post for Fatherland and Citizens? Is the state thus deprived of its common Protector? And can it thus no longer be guarded by so great a man? If for anyone's merits tears, or for sorrows sighs, are ever sufficient, then sprinkle the funeral pyre of so great a Man. You, Friesland, put on mourning garments and a mourning heart; Friesland must weep for the common Father, and you, Franeker, if good deeds are to be held in honour with a mindful spirit, must think for ever of Your Man. At the calamitous downfall of so great a Head one may not be silent; no, faster than ever must the good betake themselves to mourning. No care of that Man will further provide for Your welfare, no care of his will raise You up when you have fallen. Even though perhaps he will no longer be remembered, yet from the souls of the good this sorrow will never disappear. The wife bereft of her wedded friend will not fail to bear continually the signs and tokens of her sorrow. How well founded was the lamenting of the wife over a death of which she had known nothing, over a gloomy sinking away, of which only a piece of paper came to bring the tidings; bereft of the Man to whom a long fidelity had intimately bound her, she bears and endures the ills of old age. The weak woman bereft of her Husband is not strong enough to bear with firm hand the most sorrowful destinies of life. If the wife had still been able to catch the last prayers of her Husband, if she had been permitted to be present at his dying.... Bereft as she now is of that important support, the wife will never cease to give the signs of her sorrow. Much stronger than this, however, is the inward sorrow by which she is stricken; always the image of her Husband remains kept in her mind; true love unites, it remains between those who have been parted by death; through death true love ever grows on and unites more than ever. Nor does it please her to call back her Husband from the better state; she rather wishes that he may always remain in possession of so great treasures; this is the only hope that holds her bound, these are the best wishes of the wife; what those wishes formerly comprised, they have now taken up in even greater measure. This hope tempers the mourning with a living comfort. If sure rewards await the Pious after their Decease, if it is granted to the Deceased with such a step, if he can thus penetrate to the highest Good, if on the earthly globe a fixed limit is measured out to all things and this earth does not rejoice in heavenly goods. Let therefore the changeable earthly globe have its own honours. WESTERHUIS is not attracted by the perishable life; the heavenly life must be free of all envy; instead of mingled joys it will grant pure rejoicings. Although our own existence is bereft of so great a Protector and this existence is pitiable through the heavy loss of this Man, it raises itself up in the midst of mourning and creates comfort for the sorrow out of the condition in which that Man finds himself. Though he cease in these earthly regions to be of profit to the Muses, yet his name is ever worthy to be held in honour in verses. However much he refrains from labour in these regions, yet as an Inhabitant of Heaven he will always be worthy of reverence and always of love. If now his lot has ever been assigned to the number of the blessed, then may he for ever be well in his own state.

A. GREIDANUS
Minister at Pietersbierum.

at Franeker,
Printed by the printer Maarten van der Veen 1731.

5°. A booklet printed in octavo, the title of which reads:

List of Names of the MINISTERS Who since the Reformation have served in the Classis of Franeker:
With a:
PREFACE,
Mentioning the Noble and Mighty Gentlemen Commissioners,
Who from the College of the Noble and Mighty Gentlemen Deputed States of Friesland to the Provincial Synods have from time to time been delegated:
and OBSERVATIONS
On the Lists of Names of other Classes Collected together from many genuine Documents by

AUSONIUS GREYDANUS:
In his lifetime Minister at Pietersbierum,
And after his death, with some Additions and a complete Index, published by
J. H.
At Leeuwarden,
By Pieter Koumans, City Printer and Bookseller in the Peperstraat, 1761.

The person "J. H.", who published the little book after the death of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, is, as will appear from the "dedication" given below, the minister Johannes Heringa at Marssum.

The little book, of which I possess a copy, has become rare, probably because only few copies of it were printed. For that reason a reproduction of the title page has been added by page 280.

Concerning the little book one finds the following advertisements in the Leeuwarder Courant:

"Leeuwarder Saturdagse Courant" N° 466 of 27 June 1761:

> "At Leeuwarden, at P. Koumans has been printed: List of names of the Ministers who since the Reformation have served in the Classis of Franeker, with a Preface, mentioning the Noble Mighty Lords Commissioners who from the College of the Noble Mighty Lords Deputed States of Friesland have from time to time been delegated to the Provincial Synods, and remarks on the Lists of names of other Classes; collected from many authentic documents by Ausonius Greydanus, (in his lifetime) Minister at Pietersbierum, and after his death published with some Additions and a complete Index by J. H. In Octavo at 14 Stuivers."

Leeuwarder Courant July 1780:

> "At G. Treslong, City Printer and Bookseller in the Peperstraat at Leeuwarden, is delivered for 30 Stuivers instead of 3 Guilders 10 Stuivers: List of names of the Ministers of all the Classes in the Province of Friesland, who since the time of the Reformation have performed the Holy Service of the Gospel, both within the Towns and in the countryside in the villages, with indication of their places of residence, the time of their ministries, removals, deaths, and further notes besides. As also which Commissioners from the College of the Noble Mighty Lords Deputed States of Friesland have from time to time been delegated to the Provincial Synods. Collected from many authentic documents by the Reverend Ministers Laurman, Columba, Reinalda, Greidanus, Grevenstein and Engelsma, VI parts in 8vo. This Work is very useful for the elucidation of Church History, interspersed with remarkable cases and events worth knowing. It is not sent out on commission, because of the small number."

The little book contains, excluding a "dedication", "preface" and "index", 182 pages. The "dedication" and "preface" follow below:

"Dedication to My Lord
the Most Noble Strict
Lord
EPEUS WIELINGA Ordinary Councillor in the Court of Friesland.

Allow me, Most Noble Strict Lord, respectfully to dedicate this Writing to Your illustrious Name, and with humble confidence to commend it to Your powerful protection.

It owes its origin to the Reverend and Very Learned Lord Ausonius Greydanus, who had the good fortune to be able to count himself among Your favourites, and who composed this excellent little Work on Friesland's Ecclesiastical Antiquities, long desired by many, not without great labour and praiseworthy accuracy, at the request, with the help, and to the satisfaction of Your Most Noble Strictness and some other very Distinguished Lords.

When an untimely Death disputed the publication of this Work with that knowledgeable Writer, and it was entrusted to my care by Your Most Noble Strictness, with the ready consent of the worthy Man's surviving Children, I have, as soon as opportunity offered, had it printed under my supervision, without altering the style, with some interposed Additions and a necessary Index.

The manifold occupations in which my approaching change of residence has involved me will, I hope, furnish me with a sufficient excuse that this matter could not be handled with greater care, so as to avoid Printing Errors.

I had intended, if it should please the God of my loving-kindness, to labour further at the compilation of a Naamlyst der Herformde Predikanten in de Classis van Zevenwouden, of which I formerly had the pleasure of being a member, and to let it follow this one in due time, but my departure for the Oldampt compels me to abandon this.

Now it is a just joy to me that the Very Reverend, Very Learned and God-fearing Father Jacobus Engelsma, at present the much beloved retired minister at de Gordyk, on account of his excellent abilities, which far surpass my praise, and his uncommon experience in ecclesiastical matters, having been kindly and with the fullest right requested thereto by Your Honour, has willingly declared himself ready to take this work in hand and, if the Lord grants him life and strength, which I fervently pray for His Reverence with every desirable blessing, to complete it.

Therefore, if the compiler of the Register der Classis van Dokkum likewise makes haste, we may before long expect a complete Lyst van Frieslands Leeraaren.

Let now this parentless paper child, brought back under my guidance before the gracious eye of Your Honour, be received with open arms of love, as I humbly trust, as a lawful heir of all those benefactions with which its Father, whose memory will long remain in blessing, was so generously favoured by Your Honour, and of which it has hitherto, for the furthering of its growth, been no unfortunate partaker.

I could wish no more agreeable reward for my labour than that this Dedication be regarded by Your Honour as an unfeigned public testimony of that heartfelt esteem with which I always desire duly to honour Your Honour because of your illustrious virtues, distinguished family and exalted office, and of that sincere gratitude with which I constantly remember and gladly boast of all the innumerable and wholly obliging favours which have been continually bestowed on me by Your Honour and by Madam your most precious Consort, together with their respective Families, to whom I owe my welfare in the greatest part, during my ministry to the beloved Congregations at Beesterzwaag, Beets and Olterterp, and at Marssum.

Meanwhile I may never neglect to implore from Heaven, with the most heartfelt affection of love, every abundance of temporal and eternal Blessings upon Your Honour, together with your own and all that is yours, and to show on every occasion that I, calmly relying on your unbroken favour, count it a great honour to be permitted to remain,

Most Noble and Honourable Sir,
my Lord,
Your humble and most obedient Servant,
JOH. HERINGA,
Minister called to Winschoten, still in service at Marssum 17 $^{6}/_{6}$ 61."

"PREFACE

TO THE

KIND

READER.

In our days too we must rejoice, as the Apostle does in Col. II 5, seeing the order and the steadfastness of the faith in the Lord Christ in our United Netherlands. In how confused and disordered a condition did the Church find itself, when by the spirit of seduction it had been stripped of its first beauty and disturbed by superstitions and corruptions, when the ignorance that had crept in undermined and loosened the steadfastness of the faith in the Lord Christ, and human inventions and institutions forced themselves in in its place, with the intention of bringing about the utter ruin of the Divine Doctrine of salvation, the foundation of our hope and of the Christian Religion: which went so far that the Church fell into a general corruption, which, upheld by the defence of a supposedly infallible visible Head on earth, and by the violence of banishment and of persecution with fire and sword, so increased that it could not be remedied and healed except by separating from this spiritual Babel and forming a separate spiritual Body according to the doctrine of God and according to the foundation of the Prophets and Apostles, of which Christ is the only corner-stone.

> God at last permitting so necessary and so long awaited a reformation to take place through Men raised up for it by his Spirit, our United Netherlands has also been one of the places where the Church was purified from superstition and corruption and gradually set upon the true grounds of the revealed word of God[5], and who despises the day of small things, Zech. IV. 10?
> The lowly instruments which God was pleased to use for the reformation and ordering of his Church, however unfit > they seemed, for accomplishing anything in so difficult a work! And yet, against all thought and expectation, their undertaking and labour was so blessed by the wonderful hand of God, that they overcame all opposition, and, also with the support given to the Church in this Land by vigilant Patrons of it, set it in such good order and regulation.

[signature mark "22" printed at the foot of the left column.]

> To such Men we owe, next to God, our blessed condition in the Church of this Land; their care, zeal, steadfastness and endurance against difficulties ought always to be held by us in blessing.
> The First of them, however, who had endured the greatest dangers, are almost unknown and forgotten, and hard to find all of them: this has been the experience, and still is, of those who have taken the trouble to trace them (a). And since in our Province a beginning has also been made with preserving these Men from total oblivion, so now too, through the encouragement of Distinguished Men, who, moved by regard and love for Antiquities also of the Church, had already laid foundations for this work, this Name-list of the Classis of Franeker at last sees the light; which, far from perfect, on account of the lack of necessary records, has nevertheless been judged, imperfect as it was, to be brought forward, so that thereby the desire for having a general Compilation of the Netherlands' Ministers may once be satisfied, and also that opportunity be given, that, as I have also done in other Name-lists, the imperfections of this one may likewise be removed by the observations of others; herewith acknowledging my obligation to the Distinguished Men for their help and assistance in drawing this up, and to other Compilers of other Name-lists, for the light which I have drawn from their Works.
> Since the old Synodal Acts were in the earliest times the only certain record, from which, for want of other sources, also of Classical Acts, I had to compile this Name-list in the
>
> > (a) Among these is E. F. HARKENROTH, who has contributed much to the preservation of the memory of the First Reformed Ministers in his Observations concerning the Reformed House- and Cross-churches in the Netherlands, and also particularly in Friesland, to be found in the Boekzaal of 1731. March p. 333 etc. May p. 569 etc. June p. 66 etc. October p. 454 etc.
>
> first place, I have therefore noted down many Ecclesiastical Commissions with the Years in which they were carried out, this serving as a sure proof that such persons stood in such a time and place; and I had continued this far into the later times, when I first obtained the Classical Acts (which begin only in the Year 1636 for the Classis of Franeker, the earlier ones being lost), although since that time it was not necessary to note such things, and I also do not think it good to concern myself with them; yet in this Name-list this has been kept up to the Year 1700 or thereabouts; whoever does not like to read this may skip it.
> Also, on the advice of those through whom I came to this, I have noted and inserted here,
> The Noble and Mighty Lords > COMMISSARIES,
> sent from the College of the Noble and Mighty Lords Deputy States to the Frisian Synods: from the time that the Synodal Acts mention them until the Year 1758.
> . . . . . .
> . . . . . .
> Further I thought that some observations on the already published Frisian Name-lists, which might serve to complete and elucidate them, could not unprofitably be added at the end of this Work.
> Finally, it serves as information that I have discovered in the old Synod. Acts of the Year 1595, how, on account of the scarcity of Ministers in the Sevenwolden, two Ministers from each Classis had to be sent there. In the Year 1596 the newly erected Schoter Classis was approved, and in 1597 the first Delegates from that Classis appeared at the Synod. In 1598 it was resolved that no Ministers should be allowed to appear at the Synods in place of Elders, which had previously been customary. In 1599 it was resolved that the Schoter Classis should be abolished again: but it was restored again in 1602, and in 1603 its Delegates again appeared at the Synod.
> With the wish for God's watchful Eye and almighty Protection over the Church of the Netherlands, I end and remain, > Kindly Reader,
> Your Servant in Christ
> A. GREYDANUS".

Of Ausonius Greydanus the following will dated 10 March 1716 is known[1], which was therefore drawn up by him when he was only 14 years old. That he made a will at such a youthful age is probably to be explained by the fact that he was already not without means at that time, since, according to the deed dated 16 December 1716 communicated on page 207, he had inherited from his parents a sum of about 4400 Car.gl..

"In the Name of God, Amen.
Since nothing is more certain than temporal death, and nothing more uncertain than the time and manner thereof, I, Ausonius Greidanus, residing at Franequer, considering this, have resolved, while I am in my right mind and sound of body, to dispose by this Testament of my temporal goods to be left behind; first then commending my Soul to God, and the Body to earthly burial according to Christian usage, I proceed further to the disposition of my goods, which I already through God's goodness have and possess, and which I might further obtain through the Blessing of the Almighty; in doing which I declare that I institute as universal heirs my aunts Hiske, Maijke & Jancke Steenkist[1], also living within Franequer, or those of them, or the one of them, who shall be alive at my death: further I bequeath to my brother Joannes Greidanus[2], farmer at Pinjum, one hundred silver ducatons, or three hundred and fifteen Carolus guilders; & I bequeath to my nephew Joannes Sixti Greidanus[3], surgeon's assistant, living at Amsterdam, one hundred like guilders, which legacy shall remain with my aunts & instituted heirs for such time and so long until he shall come to take the Proeff (qualifying examination), without any interest being paid thereon, & in case my nephew Joannes Sixti Greidanus should come to die before the stipulated time, the bequest shall accrue to my heirs. This then, thus briefly, being my last and final disposition, which I have had made and put in writing of my own free will and without anyone's advice, I will and desire that it shall in every way be strictly observed and complied with; And although it could not stand as a solemn written testament for lack of certain formalities, I nevertheless will that this shall have effect as a less solemn testament, or any other last will, in whatever manner it may best stand according to the law and custom of the land; And if anyone should not be satisfied with what is allotted to him herein, but should come to oppose it in words or deeds, directly or indirectly, he shall forfeit what is herein assigned to him, which shall accrue to the willing observer: In token of the truth I have confirmed this with my customary signature, & for the security thereof have requested as witnesses, each one in particular and all in general, to co-sign this my testamentary disposition, the honourable and pious men Wilhelmus de Wendt, J: U: Doctor & Advocate before the Court of Frieslant, living at Doccum, Jetse Tjercx, master baker, Cornelis Wijbes, merchant, Frans van Baccum, master baker, Thomas Wielandt, master silversmith, Henricus de Clercq, Garntweender[4], & Dr. Timeus Beilanus, likewise Advocate of the Court of Frieslant, living within Leeuw'den, whom I the Testator accept and promise, after only the beginning & end had been read to them, to guarantee and indemnify with regard to their signatures; that this was thus done in the presence of all of us, & in one context, without the one being separated from the other, after we had heard the Testator declare that the contents hereof, read to him word for word beforehand, were his last & free will, we the undersigned witnesses declare.
Done within Leeu'den this 10 March 1716.
[the signatures are printed in two columns; the left column is given first, then the right]
(signed) Willem de Wendt
This is Cornelis [hand mark symbol spanning the two lines] Wijbes' own set hand mark
(signed) Ausonius Greijdanus.
(signed) Yetse Tiercx
(signed) Frans van Backum
(signed) Thomas Wielandt
(signed) Hendricus de Clerq
(signed) T. Beilanus
1716."

[1] The original will is in the possession of Mr. T. Greidanus at Amsterdam (No. 455 of this genealogy).

Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus must have been a fairly wealthy man, since his parental inheritance was not inconsiderable and he inherited the whole estate of his aunt Maaycke Steenkist, who with her two sisters had run a well-patronised cloth business at Franeker, as appears from the following entry, already quoted on page 220, dated 20 March 1747 in the Franeker Collateraalboek (register of collateral succession duty):

> "Thus Auzonius Greidanus, minister of the Divine Word at Pieters-bierum, having become the sole heir of his late aunt Maycke Steenkist, in her lifetime a merchant woman, who died here in this town on 12 Januaryus 1747, declares for the Collateraal of the aforesaid inheritance, according to the personal assessment, standing on the cohier of the 100th and 1000th penning of the town of Franeker, assessed First West, with a sum of 8000 caroli guilders."

That he was wealthy[5] might further appear from the fact that he must have possessed a fine library, which was auctioned separately after his death, according to the following advertisement in the "Leeuwarder Saturdagse Courant" N° 478 of 19 September 1761 and subsequent numbers:

> "H. Strick, bookseller by the town hall, will on Tuesday 6 October etc. sell by auction: Three Collections of Fine and Excellent Books, left I. by Mr. Bavius van Greven, in his lifetime J. U. Doctor, Ammunition Master of the Generality Magazine, former Burgomaster at Leeuwarden &c. With which also other curiosities and fine things. II. By the Very Reverend and Learned Mr. Ausonius Greydanus, in his lifetime minister of the Divine Word at Pietersbierum, III. By Mr. N. N. J. L.: the Catalogue being obtainable in other towns from the booksellers, and here from H. Strick."

The Catalogue referred to in this advertisement I have not been able to find, but I can nevertheless state with fairly great accuracy which books of Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus must have been sold, since the publishers A. Ferwerda and G. Tresling at Leeuwarden issued a "Catalogus Universalis Librorum", in my possession, consisting of 24 small parts, containing the prices which the books fetched at various auctions, including that of the books of Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus.

[1] See the draft: fragment-genealogy "Steenkist" belonging to page 216.

[2] No. 14 of this genealogy.

[3] No. 22 of this genealogy.

[4] That is, yarn maker, probably — the word is not clearly legible — garntweernder.

[5] See note on page 363.

For amusement I shall let the enumeration of the books from the auction of Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus in the Catalogue of Ferwerda and Tresling be preceded by a notice to the user, which is to be found in that Catalogue:

> "To the > USER

of this LITTLE WORK.

That this collection of Books with Prices can be of much use to all gentlemen Booksellers, their Assistants, and to all who have any fondness whatever for Books, I do not think will be denied by anyone; at any rate I have spared no trouble, labour or searching to bring it forth in such an order as it now sees the light. This Catalogue has been Compiled, firstly, From the Notes of J. Hartig, Bookseller at Amsterdam, who has taken the trouble diligently to search out all Rare and Scarce Books occurring in the following Catalogues: namely from Almeloveniana, Arkeliana, Boendermakeriana, Bidloiana, Baldæana, Covyniana, Cuperana, Dumtariana, Franciana, Groenendyckiana, Goesiana, Longiana, Leydeckeriana, Looniana, Menarsiana, Meadiana, Nicolaiana, Oizeolana, Perisoniana, Petaviana, Schalbruchiana, Sevenhoviana, Surenhusiana, Sarraziana, Triglandiana, Verburgiana, Ucheliana, Uilenbroekiana, Wittiana, and Westerloiana. So that in all these Libraries there has been no rare, scarce, or any Book of importance, but that one will be able to find it with the Prices in Our Catalogue; for which Notes of Mr. Hartig there was paid at the Public Sale 27 gulden (guilders).

Secondly, there has been used for the compiling of this Catalogue the Notes of Mr. H. Strick, in his lifetime first Bookseller at Amsterdam, afterwards at Leeuwarden, and who was held by everyone to be indeed the most knowledgeable Bookseller of our time, which Notes of his were begun when in his youth he lived with the famous Bookseller Waasbergen, and which he continued up to this time; for which Notes more than once 300 gulden was offered him by Booksellers.

Thirdly, I have used for the further perfecting of this Name-Register the following Catalogues with the Prices, as they were publicly sold, all of which are in my keeping, so that I dare to assure that there will be no Book in these following Catalogues but that one will be able to find it in ours with the Prices; the Catalogues are those of [the whole following six-column table is printed in italics]

1702.	Aubert.	Luchtmans.	Eding.	Hannebuth.	1748.
Bentes.	1713.	1720.	1727.	Winsemius.	Reen.
1703.	Lombrail.	Nieuwentydt	Boreel.	1739.	1749.
Guthberleth.	Nenzenius.	Reichenbach	Veekens.	Torrenius.	Balk.
1706.	1714.	Dorislaar	1728.	Rudolphi.	Vitringa.
Hemmerik.	Boutestein.	Van Houten.	Rouse.	Acronius.	Boelens.
Trigland.	Van d. Heuvel.	Wyckel.	Wiegersma.	Sminia.	1750.[?]
1709.	1715.	Van Goor.	Elarts.	Samplonius.	Scheltinga.
Cau.	De Hondt.	Oosterwyck.	Roman.	Wiardi.	1751.
De Volder.	Nyloe.	Beman.	Ruisch.	Vermeersch.	Schellinger.
Haaring.	1716.	Koning.	1729.	Scheltinga.	Staak.
Meul.	Van Damme.	Bos.	Broersma.	1740.	1752.
Barin.	Verboom.	Visscher.	1730.	Salmasius.	Stellingwerf.
Van Lotten.	1717.	Boddens.	Van Burum.	1741.	1753.
1710.	Arminius.	D'Orville.	1732.	Sippama.	Balk.
Pontanus.	Mattheus.	Keller.	Goslinga.	Plantinus.	Reen.
Horreus.	Homoet.	Wetstein.	Radys.	1742.	1754.
Scheverstein.	Van der Veer.	Limborch.	Cambier.	Burman.	Lychlama.
Swalmius.	Van Braam.	Van Linde.	Nysten.	Vegelin.	1755.
Heins.	Du Bois.	Vorstius.	1733.	Hofsnyder.	Mul.
Leenderts.	Kieswetter.	Doesburg.	Coehoorn.	Van Laak.	Æstwarda.
Halma.	Valkenier.	Blydenstein.	l'Espierre.	1743.	Wophens.
Hogendorp.	Van Broucke.	1721.	1734.	Mortier.	1756.
Roger.	V. d. Waaijen.	Boom.	Bosma.	Heersma.	Buma.
De Hooghe.	Savois.	J. Knock.	Drogenham.	Van Dessel.	1757.
Marees.	Verbeek.	1722.	Putting.	Van Beem.	Ludinga.
Vivié.	Pagenstecher.	Bleck.	Bekius.	1744.	Viglius.
1711.	Hofhout.	1723.	Jorna.	V. d. Waaijen.	1758.
Uitenbogaart.	Jordan.	Uitwerf.	Aylva.	1745.	Stockman.
Goeree.	Van Lom.	1724.	1735.	Barbeirac.	Remkes.
Grevenstein.	Schoonwald.	Schoonenburg.	Bourboom.	1746.	Schick.
Stalpert.	Vaillant.	1725.	Munckerus.	Siccama.	Aylva.
Miljé.	Van Leeuwen.	Brouwer.	Grons.	Renaud.	Chamois.
Tirion.	Verheyde.	Du Bois.	Leelystra.	Boulet.	Van Arum.
Klumper.	1718.	Abbring.	1736.	Husson.	1759.
Muis.	Schouten.	1726.	Noordbeek.	Van Renesse.	Camerling.
Hoeke.	Costeri.	Domna.	Meekma.	1747.	Hoornstra.
Spandaw.	Blank.	De Wacker.	1737.	Siccama.	Thyssen.

Van der Putt.	1719.	Eversdyk.	Heems.	Leenegra.	Suringar.
Van Voorst.	Pilletier.	De Ruiter.	1738.	D'Aumale.	Lubeley.
1712.	Van Lee.	Phoenix.	Phelten.	Kempenaar.	Fenema.
Schelte.	Æmilius.	Collyn.	Rodenhuis.	Ormea.	Offringa.

Duif.	Andeles.	Faber.	De Baar.	Hofsteede, min-	sterdam.
1760.	1765.	Van der Veen.	Mantz.	ister at Fra-	Baron Perpon-
Hillenius.	Huidekoper.	Steenwyck.	1771.	neker.	cher, in The Hague.
1761.	Hamerster.	Koen.	Kempenaar, J.	Noordbeek, at	Voget, Profess.
Vriemoet.	Timmerman.	Van Trooijen.	U. Dr. in	Leeuwarden.	at Utrecht.
Greven	Haanekuik.	1768.	The Hague.	Harkenroth,	Schutz, Med.
Greidanus.	Anjema.	Colerus.	Strick, book-	minister at	Doct. at Leeu-
Pars.	Frieswyk.	Nieuwenhuis.	seller at	Harlingen.	warden.
1762.	Wesseling.	De Bruin.	Leeuwarden.	1772.	Winter, Prof.
Van Lingen.	1766.	Lolkema.	Van Lennep,	J. F.H....s,	at Franeker.
Romar.	Van der Sloot.	Swalue.	Professor at	at Leeuward.	Ds. Arnoldi at Haarsma.	Eitsma.	1769.	Franeker.	Alberthoma,	Leeuwarden.
1763.	Noordbeek.	De Gritti.	Faber, minis-	minister at	And a great
Burmania.	Meilsma.	Knock.	ter at Dronryp.	Groningen.	many more Ca-
Landsbach.	Oosterbaan.	Sminia.	Mr. Abr.	J. Iman. Cau,	talogi of which
1764.	Engelhard.	Schaaf.	Buis, in The Hague	in The Hague.	there are no
Lambergen.	1767.	1770.	Jorna, minis-	Noordkerk, Ad-	names.
Van Bolhuis.	Bucquoi.	Fontein.	ter at Welsryp.	vocate at Am-

From this one will be able to learn not to buy any book too dearly, since one can see what price it has cost.

Secondly, all the different editions of a work and which is the best.

Thirdly, all rare and seldom occurring books, in all faculties and sciences.

Fourthly, a bookseller who understands no Latin or French will be able to learn from this how to draw up a good and orderly Catalogue in alphabetical order.

Fifthly, one can find the prices of all occurring books, so as to be able to regulate oneself somewhat accordingly when holding a sale.

Sixthly, it can serve for the instruction of students and others who intend to assemble a library, because by this means they can learn the prices of all books, and from these can know approximately the value, so that from this it may very well be gathered of what usefulness these Catalogi with prices can be to every lover of books."

Below then follow the books included in the said Catalogue, sold in 1761 at the auction of Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, in which it is striking that only Latin books were auctioned, so that the heirs seem to have brought only those books into the sale:

"Latin Books in Folio:	Prices.
Deckberi Decisiones & Dissertationes Juris, Bruxelles 1677	0— 8—0
Divi Irenæi adversus Hæreses, Basileæ 1570	1—10—0
Gesneri Bibliotheca, in Epitomen redacta & locupletata p. J. Simlerum Tiguri 1574	2—17—8
Golii Lexicon Arabico Latinum, Leidæ 1643	29—10—0
Gomezii Opera Omnia, 2 Tom. 1 Vol., Lugd. 1661	1— 5—0
Hammodi & Clerici Adnotationes in Novem Testamentum, Amst. 1698	3—12—2
Maldonatus (J.) in Quatuor Euangelia, Paris 1751	4— 0—0
Marloratus Bibliotheca Expositionum Novi Test. 2 Vol. 1561	1— 4—0
Maynard Decisiones novæ Tholosanæ Francof. 1610	0— 8—0
Meyboomii (M.) XII. Psalmi Davidis & totidem Veteris Testam. integra Capita emendata, Amst. 1698	0—16—0
Mosaicarum & Romanorum Legum Collatio, & Alia ex Bibliotheca P. Pithoei cum ejusdem notis. Accedit Lex Dei Moralis, Ceremonialis, & Politica per T. Bezam, Heidelb. 1603	1— 1—0
Novum Testamentum Th. Bezæ, græco contextui respondent interpretationes duæ, Basileæ 1598	1— 0—0
Schardii Lexicon Juridicum, Coloniæ 1616	1— 6—0
Schmidii Concordantiæ Novi Test. Græci, Wittebergæ 1638	3—12—8
Schneidewinus ad Instituta, Argentorati 1612	0—15—0
Serarius in Libros Regum & Paralipomenon Mogunt. 1617	0—11—0

“Latin Books in Folio:	Prices.
Spanhemii (F.) Geographia, Chronologia & Historia Sacra & Ecclesiastica, Leidæ 1701	10—10—0
Surdi Decisiones, 1610. Et de Alimentis, Genev. 1645 together	3—12—8
Latin Books in Quarto.
Buddei (J. F.) Historia Eccleastica V. T. ab Orbe condito usque ad Christum natum 2 Tom., Halæ 1719—1721	6—12—8
Caepolla Tractatus de Servitutibus, Zutph. 1647	0—12—0
Clant De Labro Tabernaculi, ejusque rudo æreo, Gron. 1733	0— 8—0
Cluverii (Job.) Historiarum totius mundi Epitome, Leidæ 1645	0—11—0
Connanni Commentarius Juris Civilis in X Libr., Hanov. 1610	0—11—0
Corvini (A.) Codicis Justinianæi methodica Enarratio, Amstelred. 1675	0— 8—0
Deylingii (S.) Observationum Sacrarum Libri V. Editio tertia, cum fig. Lipsiæ 1735 6 Voll.	8—10—0
Disquisitiones Criticæ de variis Bibliorum Editionibus, item Castigationes Theologi cujusdam Parisiensis ad Opusc. Jo Vossii de Sibyllinis Oraculis, ejusdem Responsiones ad Objectiones Criticæ Sacræ, Lond. 1684	1— 5—0

Driebergen De Bonis Novi foederis, Amst. 1746 } together	0—10—0
——— De Prædestinat. & Gratia, Ib. 1744 }
Geographia Antiqua cum notis & emendationibus Jac. Gronovii, Leidæ, 1697	0—6—0
Giphanii Antinomiæ Juris Civilis & feudalis Francofurti 1666	0—17—0
Goris (L.) Adversaria Juris, 1635 } together	1—9—0
——— Ad Consuetudines Velaviæ, 1645 }
Hartenfelz (G. C. P. ab) Elephantographia curiosa, cum fig. æneis, Lipsiæ 1723	0—11—0
Hispaniæ Bibliotheca, seu de Academiis ac Bibliothecis, & clarissim. Hisp. Scriptoribus 1608	0—19—0
Hoornbeek (Joh.) Miscellanea Sacra, Traj. 1689	1—5—0
Ignatii & Barnabæ Epistolæ, Amst. 1646	0—4—0
Longi Pastoralia cum notis P. Moll. Franeq. 1660	1—19—0
Marckii (Job.) Sylloge Dissertation. Philolog. Theologicarum ad Selectos textus N. Test. Roterdami 1721	2—0—0
Mosheim (J. L.) Institutiones historiæ Christianæ, Helmst. 1739	1—16—0
Mosheim (J. L.) Historia Tatarorum Eccleastica, Helmst. 1731	1—16—0
Nemethi In Epistolam ad Hebræos, & in Epistolam Judæ, Fran. 1701	0—14—0
Nifanii S. Johannes Euangelium Commentario perpetuo illustratum, Francof: 1684	0—18—0
Olearii (G.) Synopsis Errorum Pontificiorum, 1684	0—3—0
Piscatoris (J.) In Novum Testamentum, Herb. 1621	1—10—0
Roëll (H. A.) In Catechesin, Ultraj. 1728	2—2—8
Schiere (N.) Doctrina testamentarum, Leov. 1718	0—6—0
Schulteti Ad Romanos, & ad Hebræos, 1619	0—6—0
Seldeni (J.) De Jure Naturali & Gentium juxta disciplinam Hebræorum, Arg. 1665	0—16—0
Seldenus (J.) De Synedriis & præfect. Hebræorum, Amst. 1679	2—0—0
Sibelii (C.) In Ecclesiastis Cap. XII, Amst. 1639	0—7—0
Spencerus (J.) De legibus Hebræorum ritualibus, Hag. 1686	1—1—0
Stocken (G. v.) Thuanus enucleatus, Helmstad. 1656	0—12—0
Turretini (J. A.) In Epistolæ ad Romanos Capita XII, Genevæ 1741	1—5—0
Turretini (Franc.) Institutio Theologiæ Elencticæ, 3 Tom, Genevæ 1680	1—0—0

LATIN BOOKS IN OCTAVA ET MINORI FORMA.

Celsus De Plantis S. Scripturæ, Amst. 1748, 2 Voll.	6—17—8
Clementis XI. Constitutio Unigenitus, 1714	0—4—0
Cypriani (E. S.) Selecta programmata, acc. Dissertatio de Regibus subditis, Coburg. 1708	0—4—0
Ecclesiarum Earundem, Amst. 1660	0—6—0
Epistolæ T. Hemsterhusii & Elogium, 1761	0—4—0
Epistolæ Heumanni ad Viros literatissimos, Halæ 1722—1724	1—1—0
Examen, Doctrinæ Calvinæ & Bezanæ de Cœna Domini per F. Claudium de Sainctes, Paris 1566	0—2—0
Hasæi (Th.) & F. A. Lampe Bibliotheca Historico Theologica Classes octo, unaquæque sex Fasciculos, Bremæ & Amst. 1717—1718 }	10—10—0

—— & N. Nonnen Musæum Historico Philologico Theologicum, 2 Voll. compl., Amst. 1728—1732 }
Hemingi Chartularum Wigoniensis Ecclesiæ &c., 1723, 2 Voll.	1—0—0
Hoheiselii (C. L.) Observationes Philologico Exegeticæ, 1729	0—11—0
Karoli Magni Regum Francorum Capitula, sive Leges Ecclesiasticæ & Civiles per P. Pithæum, Paris 1588	0—5—0
Lamberti (Fr.) Commentarius in Hoseam, Amosum, & Jonam, Argent. 1725	0—1—0
Langii (C. H.) Observationes Sacræ in Varia N. T. loca, Lubecæ 1737	0—11—0
Lansberge (P.) In Catechesin, Hanoniæ 1620	0—3—0
Lentuli Quid Consilii? sive CCCCX. Dubia 1671	1—8—0
Leusden (J.) Joel & Obadjas illustratus, Traj. 1692	0—11—0
Lucii Cecilii Liber de Mortibus persecutorum à Nic. le Nourry illustratus, Paris 1710	0—15—0
Mancinelli (A.) Versiologus cura J. Murmelli, Antv. 1538	0—5—0
Matthæi De Probationibus Liber, Lugd. 1679	0—15—0
Mercurii Brittanici Mundus alter & idem, 1620	0—19—0
Mersei seu Merssey (P.) Annales Electorum Episcoporum Coloniensium Mogunt. ac Trevirens, Colon. 1580	0—17—0
Michaëlis (J. G.) Observationes Sacræ, & Exercitatio de Sacrificio Cordis & Cerebri, Traject. 1738	0—19—0
Micrander (Jul.) De Auguriis, Holmiæ 1684	0—3—0
Mosheim. Dissertationes ad Historiam Ecclesiasticam, Alton. 1743, 2 Tom.	1—15—0
Musschenbroek (P. van) Institutiones Physicæ, Lugd. 1742, cum fig.	0—18—0
Mythologia Æsopica græce & latine, cum fig. 1610	0—2—0
Novum Testamentum Græcum, Coloniæ 1679	0—3—0
Novum Testamentum Latinum, T. Bezæ, Amst. 1631	0—6—0
Novus Synonimorum, &c., 1705	0—4—0
Olavi Celsii Hierobotanicon, sive de plantis sacræ Scripturæ, 2 Tom., Amst. 1748	6—17—8
Optati Milevitani Libri de Schismate Donatistarum, Paris 1569	0—3—0
Perizonii (J.) De Morte Judæ &c., Traject. 1702	0—2—0
Pfaffii (C. M.) Dissertatio Critica de Genuinis Librorum Novi Testamenti Lectionibus, Amst. 1709	0—4—0
——— Idem Liber, Ibid 1716	0—2—0
Pfeifferi Critica Sacra, Dresdæ 1680	0—11—0

> Pindari Olympia, cura Stephani, Genevæ 1626 0— 9—0
> Pitisci (S.) Catechesis Latina, & Orat., Zutph. 1679 0— 4—0
> Plauti (M. Accii) Comoediæ, 1595 0— 7—0
> Pritii (J. G.) Introducto in Novum Testamentum, cura Hofmanni, Lipsiæ 1737 1— 7—0
> Ψυχρολογια, Londini 1706 0— 6—0
> Raphelii (G.) Annotationes in Sacram Scripturam, 2 Tom., Lugd. 1747—1750 6— 5—0
> Salustii (C. C.) Opera, cum notis Ausonii Popmæ, Franeq. 1619 0—14—0
> Scholia in Plutarchum de Liberorum educatione, &c., 1684 0—12—0 > Schultens (A.) Animadversiones philologicæ & Criticæ ad Varia loca Veteris Testamenti, Amst. 1709 2— 2—8
> Smith (T. H.) Miscellanea, 2 Tom. Lond. 1686 0—19—0
> Spanhemii (F.) Historia Jobi, Lugd. 1672 0— 3—0
> Spethe (A.) Psalmi Davidis Metrohytmici, Heidelb. 1596 0— 5—0
> Stapferi (J. F.) Institutiones Theologico Polemicæ, Tiguri 1743—1747, 5 Tom. 5— 5—0
> Stockii (C.) Interpres Græcus N. T., Jenæ 1709 0— 6—0
> Szhatmari (J.) Metaphysica, Franeq. 1682 0— 2—0 > Vallesius (Fr.) De iis, quæ Physice scripta sunt in sacris Libris: L. Lemnius de Plantis sacris: Ev. Rues de Gemmis, præsertim quarum Joannes in Apocalypsi meminit, 1608 0—10—0 > Vetus Testamentum Græcum ex versione LXX. Interpretum juxta Exemplum Vaticanum Romæ, Londini 1653 1— 7—0
> Victoria (F. A.) Reflectiones Theologicæ, Lugd. 1578 0— 3—0
> Virgilii Maronis (Publ.) Opera, cum notis Minellii, Rott. 1666 0—11—0
> Virgilii Maronis (Publ.) Opera, cum notis Minellii, Amstelred. 1730 0—13—0
> Vitringa (Campeg.) Historia & Chronologia Sacra, Franeq. 1708 0— 8—0 > Whitakeri (G.) De Peccato Originali, Cantabr. 1600 0— 6—0
> Wokenii (F.) Pietas Critica, Helmst. 1718 1—17—0
> Xenophontis Opera omnia, ex interpretatione J. Leunclavii, ab Æm. Porto recognita, Francof. 1565 0—11—0 > Zepperius (W.) De Politia Ecclesiastica, Herb. 1607 0— 5—0”

In total these are 115 books, which brought in the sum of 178 car.gl. and 2 penn..

Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus died at Pietersbierum on 23 October (there are also accounts which state 24 October) 1759 at the age of nearly 58 years. He must have died rather suddenly, since on 21 October before that he still made a marriage proclamation at Pietersbierum, as appears from the following entry in the Trouwboek (marriage register) of that congregation:

> "Record of the marriage proclamations, since the death of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, in life minister here, died on 24 October 1759, kept by me Doytze Bottjes[1] Schoolmaster and Dorp[r] (village judge).

[the following register entry is printed in two columns joined by a brace]

In the year 1759 Albert Taekes of Dronrijp
and Antje Meinerts of Pietersbierum Antje being a daughter of Meinert Heerkes[2] in life farmer here Proclaimed 21 October by the late Ds. Greijdanus, on 4 November by Ds. Bernhardus van Gelder, pastor emeritus, on the 11th ditto by Ds. Petrus Moens, Minister at Kubaard and Waaxens, and departed from here with attestation to Dronrijp."

A deed dated 2 November 1759 in the Archive of the Classis Franeker records the decease of Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus in this manner:

> "2 November 1759. The death of our worthy fellow brother Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, V. D. M. at Pietersbierum, has been brought to notice, with the request of the relatives that the annus gratiæ might be observed by the honourable Classis, whereupon it was resolved that the Scriba Piekenbroek should write to the Schoolmaster of Pietersbierum to make proper notification to the reverend members of this assembly, and to begin with the youngest, the first turn to be taken on the 11th of this month."

Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus is buried with his wife and children in the burial vaults of Gerbranda- and Hottinga-Staten, which were situated under "the vierkant"[3] in the Reformed Church at Pietersbierum.

This is based on the following entry in the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens) Register N° 6 of 1770—1806, kept by the minister:

"27 July 1772 .... in the year 1769, on making a vaulting in our church, also a new pulpit and vierkant which because of their age we were obliged to make (in connection with complaints of ministers) .... it was resolved, instead of placing it against the south wall, to place it against a partition made to screen off the choir at the east of the church, whereby more warmth (was obtained) and the difficulties of the ministers relieved, — since now by the moving of the vierkant (the railed enclosure round the pulpit) it has been caused that the burial vaults of Gerbranda- and Hottinga Staten have become more or less covered, so, in order to cause no hindrance to the use of the same, such precautions have been taken that the boards on the ground of the vierkant have been fastened by cramps with wooden pegs driven through them, which, when taken up, there will apparently be room enough to get the bodies in; but should this, contrary to expectation, not be possible, we undertake in our capacity to have so much of the woodwork removed at the expense of the church that the coffins with the dead bodies can conveniently be placed in the vaults;
And in order that this may be evident at all times, this deed shall be registered and signed in the church book by the schoolmaster Dooitze Bottjes, and thereafter extracts of this, collated by the said schoolmaster as Dorprechter (village judge), shall be given to the heirs of Dominus Greidanús, who together with his wife and children have been placed therein, and to the Lord Epeús Wielinga as owner of the burial vault, which has always belonged to Hottinga State and was transferred by deed of donation from the Lord van Santen at 's-Gravenhage, as heir of Mevroú Feúgen, as is to be found more fully registered in the church book beginning with May 1723. In witness of our hands. Done at Pietersbierum, 27 July 1772.
signed E. Wielinga
Heerke Jans
D. Bottjes Schoolmaster."

[1] Family name Sakama or Sakema /see the draft: fragment genealogy "Grada" at page 297.

[2] Descendants of this Meinert Heerkes appear to have adopted the family name "Hibma".

[3] "The vierkant" is the space enclosed by a railing around the pulpit.

Now, however, in 1843 the Reformed church building at Pietersbierum was struck by lightning and burnt down, yet it seems fairly certain that the church was rebuilt on the same spot, no change being made in its ground plan, so that the new building will have been erected on the old foundations. Even the arrangement of the church seems to have remained unaltered; at any rate there still exists now — see the little sketch below — as a closing off of the South wall

North wall
P = Pulpit
V = Vierkant.
K = Church council pews.
(so-called: high pews.)

choir a wooden partition, against which the pulpit is placed; thus in the same manner as is stated in the deed of 27 July 1772 quoted above.

In all probability the burial vaults of Gerbranda- and Hottinga-Staten are still in the same places as formerly, that is to say, even now partly beneath the vierkant and in front of it (see the aforesaid deed of 27 July 1772). The fixed wooden floor which is now present, however, prevents this from being established. Whether everything has been preserved in its original condition may be doubted, because to the south-east of the church there lies, as a little bridge over a ditch, a finely worked gravestone with the arms "Wielinga" and "Scheltinga" and the following inscription: "The Well-born Lady Magdalena van Scheltinga, wife of the Lord Epeus Wielinga, Ordinary Councillor in the Court of Friesland, died at Leeuwarden in the 45th year of her age on the 18th, interred here on 27 July 1750". Presumably this stone will first have lain in the church, namely above the burial vault of Hottinga-state, for according to the deed mentioned above Epeus Wielinga was the owner of this burial vault. Therefore it is quite possible that with regard to the Gerbranda burial vault as well, in which then the mortal remains of Ds. Ausonius Greidanus and of his wife and children would have been laid, the graves have been disturbed. However, it has become known to me through oral tradition that the family of Ds. Ausonius Greidanus' grandson, the Harlingen Rector Petrus Greijdanus, visited Pietersbierum in order to descend there into a burial vault in the Reformed Church, and that this must probably have been about 1850, thus after the fire in 1843.

How did it come about then that Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus and his wife and children could be buried in the Gerbranda burial vault in the church at Pietersbierum?

The answer to this question lies in the following.

Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus had, from a former marriage of his wife Jancke Sipkes with Dirck Gerbens Grada, a stepdaughter Aefke Dircks Grada, to be mentioned hereafter.

For this Aefke Dircks Grada there was purchased in 1729 at Pietersbierum a "zathe (en landen)" (farmstead (and lands)) of 80 P.M., which earlier had probably been in the possession of someone of the noble family Gerbranda and presumably had thereby acquired the name of "Gerbranda-State". In any case the farm in question bore that name in the 18th century, and in 1812 even the then possessor of half of it, Pieter Steffens, derived his surname "Gerbranda" from it[1], while at present that farm is still known as "Gerbranda-State" (in the Friesche Naamlijst of Johan Winkler, at the back of the Friesch Woordenboek of Waling Dijkstra, a "Gerbranda-State" at Pietersbierum is mentioned on page 124).

To the possession of this farm there now seems to have been attached the right of burial in the Gerbranda vault in the Church at Pietersbierum. This right is expressly reserved at the sale in 1782, by a daughter of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, of half of the farm, to the above-mentioned Pieter Steffens.

Aefke Dircks Grada, who died in 1761, will thus have made use of her right of burial in the "Gerbranda vault" at the death: of her mother in 1748, of her stepsister Eelkje (N° 61 of this genealogy) in 1753, and of her stepfather in 1759.

The purchase of the "Gerbranda-State" at Pietersbierum for Aefke Dircks Grada in 1729, who at that time was still represented by 2 curators, is found proclaimed as follows in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel Q13:

> "9 (23) February/9 March 1729. Pieter Seerps and Sjoerd Yemes, farmers at Sexbierum and Pijtersbierum, in their capacity as curators of Aafke Dirks, a surviving daughter of the late Dirk Gerbens, in his lifetime likewise a farmer there under Pietersbierum, begotten in lawful marriage with Janke Sipkes, buy a certain fine farmstead and lands, except the hornleeger (farmyard plot), situated under the aforesaid village of Pietersbierum by the old Dijk, used by the aforesaid Sjoerd Yemes with his wife, in size by name and repute (including 5 P.M. of detached land) 80 P.M., both arable and pasture land, charged with 24 floreen and 14 stuivers in the general assessment of the taxation, and at Petry and May old style with a further 11 years of lease belonging to the aforesaid married couple as tenants, paying annually above all charges 300 car. gulden rent, with in addition a fresh salmon or a lopen of Bierum wheat, according to the tenor of the lease contract, and who at the commencement of the lease years in the year 1725 > gave a gift of 500 car. gulden, of which the reëel during the lease years falls to the charge of these buyers. Likewise charged with the valuation of the buildings etc., which may be paid with Landschap bearer bonds of these obligations, this farmstead having Mr. Suffridus Westerhuis at Franeker, the notary Wophke Buma and Auke Andries on the East, the convoy master Sijmon Sloterdijk on the West; the Pijtersbierum church lands and Mevrouw Wijkel on the West and the Zeedijk on the North, under conditions, among others, that the seller retains in ownership the whole Hornleeger, with the entitlement of the whole vote, and that the buyers in their aforesaid capacity shall have the said hornleger in lease annually for half a rijksdaalder of 25 stuivers, and continuing for the period of 10 years, and as long as the aforesaid rent shall be paid, so long shall the lady seller not be entitled to terminate the lease, and that the buyers, if they judge it expedient, may demolish the house and barn standing on the lady seller's hornleger and rebuild them on a piece of their own land, bought from Vrouw Jeth Maria van Grovestins, wife of Jr. Arent van Haersolte, Grietman (district magistrate) of Barradeel etc., residing at Kleyn Hermana at Minnertsga, for 91 ggl. per P.M."

According to these proclamations, the seller Mevr. van Haersolte née van Grovestins thus expressly stipulated the retention of the hornleger with the voting right attached to it. This is then also the reason why on the Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1738 the names of the curators of Aefke Dircks Grada do not appear.

On the Stemcohieren the farmstead in question appears under N° 16 of Pietersbierum with the further designation "Groot Marnstra".

In 1640 it was the property of Jr. Keimpo van Donia, presumably the same one who in the 7th generation of the genealogy "Harinxma-Donia" included in the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel is mentioned as "Sijds (later: Keympe) van Donia", stepson of Margaretha Tjepckesdr. van Gerbranda, who was married to his father Keympe van Donia. It will then probably be after this Margaretha Tjepckesdr. van Gerbranda that the zathe bore the name of Gerbranda-state.

---

[1] Besides the noble family "Gerbranda" we have thus probably already come to know two families who adopted that name, namely: 1°. presumably the descendants of the buyers of the "Gerbranda-State" at Almenum, to which belongs among others Yttje Folckerts Gerbranda, the 2nd wife of Johannes Greydanus (see page 269); 2°. the here mentioned Pieter Steffens (Gerbranda) and his descendants. Moreover, at Arum there resided the family "Gerbranda", presumably connected with the noble family, descended from Douwe Edes Gerbranda.

In the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of Barradeel the place does not appear under N° 16, but under N° 11 at Pietersbierum. From 1729 to 1747 the owner recorded in these registers is: Sjoerd Ymes in qlt. (in his capacity as curator). From 1751 to 1757 the owner entered is: Aefke Dirks Grada. From the year 1770 up to and including 1782 the place stands in the name of J. and M. Greidanus (Dr. Johannes and Maria Greijdanus). From Aefke Dircks Grada, who died 23 March 1761, the place passed by inheritance to her stepbrothers and stepsisters, the children of Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus: Tjeerd Greijdanus, Gualtherus Greydanus, Dr. Johannes Greijdanus and Maria Greydanus. That the Greydanuses were indeed heirs of Aefke Dircks Grada can be seen from the Collateraalboek (register of collateral inheritance duty) of Barradeel, in which it is stated under the date 22 April 1761 that Tjeerd Greidanus, apothecary at Harlingen, was co-heir of Aefke Grada, in her lifetime an unmarried woman of age at Pijttersbierum, but who died at Harlingen on 23 March 1761. Her estate amounted, according to the assessment in the Personeelcohier (personal tax register) of Pijttersbierum, to f 7000.—.

In 1782 Maria Greijdanus sold her half of the "Gerbranda-State" to Pieter Steffens, — who in 1812 probably derived his family name "Gerbranda" from this place —, according to the following proclamations in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel, in which the right to the Gerbranda grave vault in the Church of Pietersbierum was excluded from the sale:

> 4/18 Sept./23 Oct. 1782. Steffen Pieters, farmer, and Maayke Jakles, married couple at Oosterbierum, buy
> 1° the rightful half of a fine and excellent zathe and lands with a good dwelling house and two barns, together with garden and plantation (excepting the Hornleger), in all according to name and repute (with 5 P.M. of separate land included therein) 80 P.M., both arable and pasture lands, under the village of Pietersbierum, at present inhabited and used by Pier Michiels as tenant until Petry and May 1784 for 600 cargl. and a quarter barrel of best grass butter, charged with 24 floreen 14 st. in the general assessment of the tax; and the owners have the right to use the Hornleger together as a whole and thus each for one half, for a yearly rent of 25 st., making a new lease of it every ten years, in accordance with the contents of the old deed of sale relating thereto; the said rent for the hornleger being paid to the Grietman (district magistrate) Jr. Baron van Echten; having the Grietman Jr. Jan Baron van Echten nom. ux. (in the name of his wife) to the East, T. Sloterdijk to the South, Gerloff Freerks to the West and the Seedijk to the North;
> 2° the half of $2^{1}/_{2}$ P.M. of pasture land under Pietersbierum, likewise in use by Pier Michiels, charged with 23 st. 8 penn., having the public waterway to the East; the Grietman nom. ux. to the South and West, and the heirs of Pieter Sierks to the North.
> 3° the half of 2 P.M. of arable land under Pietersbierum, likewise in use by Pier Michiels, charged with 17 st. 8 penn., having the heirs of Br Claas Sjoerds to the East; the old Dijk to the South, Gerloff Freerks to the West and Jan Simons to the North;
> 4° the half of 4 P.M. of arable land under Pietersbierum, likewise in use by Pier Michiels, charged with 1 floreen, having the Pastorije (parsonage land) to the East, the Church to the South, the seller to the West and the Grietman nom. ux. to the North;
> 5° the half of 4 P.M. of arable land under Pietersbierum, likewise in use by Pier Michiels, charged with 1 floreen, having Dr Johannes Stinstra to the East, the Church to the South, the Pastorije to the West, and the Grietman nom. ux. to the North."
> Attached to the sale was, among others, the condition that "if any grave place or vault, whether in the Church or outside it in the churchyard, or any pew in the Church of Pietersbierum or elsewhere, should be known to belong to this zathe and lands, it shall nevertheless not be included in this sale, but shall remain the property of the seller and her co-owner."
> "Thus acquired by purchase from Maria Greydanus, wife of Mr. Tjalle Bosscha, likewise councillor in the Vroedschap (town council) and member of the Gesworen Gemeente (sworn community board) at Harlingen, and in this matter assisted by the same, my husband, for the sum of 8987 g.gl. 14 st."

In total, therefore, the half of $92^{1}/_{2}$ P.M. was sold, which $92^{1}/_{2}$ P.M. stands entered in the Reëelcohier of Barradeel of 1782 as the zathe N° 11 at Pietersbierum, in the name of the owners I. and M. Greidanus.

The other half of the "Gerbranda-State" remained in 1782 the property of Dr. Johannes Greydanus. Later (see page 452) we find as owner his son Petrus Greydanus. According to the Floreencohieren (land-tax registers) of 1818 and 1828 that half was then still owned by the Greidanus family, but before 1838 a sale seems to have taken place, for in that year Pieter Steffens Gerbranda is owner and user of the whole.

In the various biographical dictionaries one finds brief notes con-

Draft: Fragment Genealogy "GRADA". Belongs with page 297 - Dirc ..... - ⚭ ..... - Wytske Dircx - Lieuke Dircx - Aefke Dircx — † before 23 June 1697. - ⚭ Gerben Jans Grada (see below) - Jan Grada - ⚭ ..... - Gerben Jans Grada — † before 28 March 1690. - ⚭ Aefke Dircx (see above) - Jan Gerbens Grada I — b. 1659. Bapt. as an adult 26 Jan. 1694. m. Sexbierum 13 Aug. 1693. † Sexbierum 10 April 1711. - ⚭ Trijntie Clases Anema — b. 1670, dau. of Claes Sybrens Anema and Namck Auckes. Member of the congregation at Sexbierum 1693. † Sexbierum 6 January 1736. - Gerben Jans Grada I — bapt. Sexbierum 27 Dec. 1696. In 1712 meijer (tenant farmer) of the voting-entitled farm N° 21 at Pietersbierum. m. Sexbierum 28 August 1729. † in 1739. - ⚭ A Yttie (Ytske) Piers Tania — of Ferwert. b. ± 1696, dau. of Pier Foppes Tania and Sjouckje Gerrits Gerbranda (see the draft: fragment genealogy "Gerbranda"). † before 7 March 1779. - Sjouckje Gerbens Grada - ⚭ II Dooitse Bottjes Sakema — Schoolmaster and Dorprechter (village judge) at Pietersbierum. † 1786. - ⚭ B Tjitske Scheltes Hibma — Bapt. Sexbierum 7 July 1753, dau. of Schelte Jans Hibma and Antie Anis. m. Sexbierum 7 March 1779. - Claas Jans Grada — Bapt. Sexbierum 5 May 1700; probably † young. - ⚭ II Lolcke Folkerts (Fopma) — at Belcum, son of Folckert Gerrits and Geertje Tjalles Fopma. - Dirk Gerbens Grada A — In 1698 meijer (tenant farmer) of the voting-entitled farm N° 21 at Pietersbierum. † Pietersbierum 25 Nov. 1723. - ⚭ I Antie Clases Anema — bapt. Sexbierum 10 Oct. 1680, dau. of Claes Sybrens Anema and Namck Auckes. 3rd marriage procl. Sexbierum 7 Aug. 1712. † before 28 January 1720. - ⚭ II Jancke Sipkes — bapt. Welsrijp 24 Nov. 1695. m. to A Pietersbierum 28 January 1720. m. to B Pietersbierum 4 Febr. 1725. † Pietersbierum 13 January 1748. - Gerben Dirks Grada — bapt. Pietersbierum 29 March 1720. † young. - Aefke Dirks Grada — bapt. Pietersbierum 13 September 1722. † Pietersbierum 23 March 1761. - ⚭ B Ds. Ausonius Greidanus — bapt. Achlum 11 Dec. 1701. Dutch Reformed minister at Pietersbierum. † Pietersbierum 23 Oct. 1759. - Claes Gerbens Grada — b. ± 1673 or 1676. - Lieuke Gerbens Grada concerning Ds. Ausonius Greydanus. Furthermore, the following is communicated about him in printed writings:

1°. In the work of Prof. E. L. Vriemoet "Athenarum Frisiacarum", quoted several times, one finds in the LXIInd chapter on Prof. Johannes Greidanus: on page 480, at the mention that Prof. Greidanus was the son of Tjaard, a note already included on page 173, in which Aus. Greidanus is briefly mentioned, and on page 483, under Tjardus Greidanus, what has already been reproduced on page 175 concerning his son.

2°. In the "Naamlyst der Predikanten, die zedert de Herforming gedient hebben in de Classis van Franeker enz." mentioned above, published after Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus' death by Ds. Johannes Heringa, there appears under Pietersbierum on page 93:

> "1723. Ausonius Greydanus, son of Tiard, having become a Candidate in the honourable Classis of Franeker on 6 September 1723, was called on 2 October and approved on 4 October, and on the 31st of the same month delivered his inaugural sermon on 1 Cor. IX. 16: died 23 October 1759."

3°. Ds. T. A. Romein "Naamlijst der Predikanten, sedert de Herforming tot nu toe, in de Hervormde Gemeenten van Friesland", Leeuwarden 1886, page 209, under Pietersbierum:

> "1723. Ausonius Greydanus, son of Tjard at Achlum and born there, candidate, delivered his inaugural sermon on 31 October, and died on 23 October 1759."

MARRIED:

Janke (Jancke) Sipkes, widow of Dirk Gerbens Grada, 4 February 1725 at Pietersbierum, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed marriage register of Pietersbierum:

"1725.
Ausonius Greidanus minister at Pietersbierum
and Janke Sipkes widow of the late Dirk Gerbens Grada at Pietersbierum proclaimed
on 28 Jan. and,
with the consent of the Heer
Grietman (district magistrate) Haersolte, twice
on the 4 Febr., and in the afternoon
solemnized."

The 2nd and 3rd proclamation, as well as the solemnization, took place on the same Sunday with the consent of the Grietman, on account of the well-known fact — for which Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus was for a time suspended from his ministry — that Jancke Sipkes was already in a highly advanced state of pregnancy (the birth took place a good 2 months later, on 13 April 1725).

Jancke Sipkes married at Pietersbierum with Dirk Gerbens Grada on 28 January 1720 and had two children from this marriage: Gerben and Aafke. All this appears from the following records:

Reformed marriage register of Pietersbierum:

"1720.
Dirk Gerbens
and Janke Sipkes
both of Pietersbierum proclaimed
on the 14, 21, 28 Jan.
and on the same day
solemnized."

Reformed baptismal register of Pietersbierum:

"(1720) On 29 March[1] Dirk Gerbens brought his child for baptism and it is named Gerben."
the mother was called "(1722) Janke Sipkes On the 13th of September Dirk Gerbens brought his child to Holy Baptism, and it is named Aafke."

Dirk Gerbens Grada, of whose family a draft: fragment genealogy is included herewith, was a son of Gerben Jans Grada and Aefke Dircx, and had married earlier (3rd proclamation at Sexbierum 7 August 1712) with Antie Clases Anema, bapt. Sexbierum 10 October 1680 as daughter of Claes Sybrens Anema and Namck Auckes. At Pietersbierum he was: huysman[2], in 1716 Administreerend Kerkvoogd (administering church warden)[1], and, according to the printed Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1698, meyer[2] of the voting farm N° 21, of which the owner was the Grietman (district magistrate) of Idaarderadeel Tjalling Homme van Camstra. Dirk Gerbens Grada apparently died 25 November 1723 at Pietersbierum, since in the Lidmatenboek (register of church members) kept there by the minister it is noted that on that date "Durk Gerbens" died.

[1] That is therefore also 2 months after the marriage was solemnized.

[2] That is, farmer.

Of the two children from the marriage of Jancke Sipkes with Dirk Gerbens Grada, Gerben must have died young, while Aefke was initially brought up with her mother and her stepfather Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, who was also her curator ad hunc actum recipiendarum rationum, as appears from an account of Curators entered in December 1733 in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Barradeel.

For in that account Ds. A. Greidanus appears among others as creditor on 20 April 1726, 5 October 1727, 15 June 1728, 13 February 1730, 18 May 1732 and 19 May 1733, on account of the board money owed to him for Aefke Dirks, which amounted to 88.—.—. cargl. per year. If this amount is occasionally higher, it is caused by "some expenses" which the stepfather had advanced for his stepchild. On 15 June 1728 Ds. A. Greidanus was paid the school fees he had paid for Aafke Dirks over $^{3}/_{4}$ year, amounting to 18 strs.

From this account it further emerges that Dirk Gerbens Grada must have been well off, since the curators, as has already been stated on page 296, bought in 1729 for their ward the voting farm N° 16 "Groot Marnstra" at Pietersbierum for 10690 Cargl., of which farm Syoerd Yemes was the meyer[2]. This Syoerd Yemes was originally one of the curators over Aafke Dirks /the other curator was Pijtter Seerps, farmer and landholder under Sexbierum, married to Lieukjen Sijbrens (Anema), a daughter of Sybren Claeses (Anema), brother of the first wife of Dirk Gerbens Grada/, but, according to the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Barradeel, he requested that Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus be appointed as Curator. The relevant deed reads in the main as follows:

> "Dec. 1733. At the request of Syoerd Yemes, farmer under Pietersbierum, curator over Aafke Dirks, a surviving minor child of the late Dirk Gerbens cum uxore, formerly at Pietersbierum, with the consent and approval of Janke Sipkes, the said minor child's mother, now married to Ausonius Greijdanus, minister of the Divine Word at Pietersbierum, Ausonius Greijdanus is appointed to undertake the curatorship ad actum recipiendarum rationum of the administration which Syoerd Yemes and his late fellow curator Pieter Seerps have had up to the date hereof."

In the Boedelinventarissen (estate inventories) of Barradeel we further find the Inventory dated 9 September 1726 of the house of mourning of Dirk Gerbens, in his lifetime farmer under Pietersbierum. The inventory was drawn up at the request of Gerben Jansz., farmer under Sexbierum — a son of Dirk Gerbens' brother, Jan Gerbens — as testamentary curator over Aafke Dirks, surviving little daughter of Dirk Gerbens $(1^{1})_{4}$ year old/ versus Janke Sipkes, widow of the late Dirk Gerbens. In this inventory mention is made of marriage settlements between the deceased and his surviving wife. Further are named: "1 piece of gold, unknown, with a coat of arms on one side and a face on the other" and books: 6 in octavo, 4 in octavo held by Dominus Greidanus.

Aafke Dirks we later find at Franeker with Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus' aunt Maayke Steenkist, as appears from the entry in the Franeker Lidmatenboek: "18 June 1746 Aafke Dirks unmarried young woman with Maayke Steenkist."

After the death of Maayke Steenkist at Franeker on 12 January 1747, Aafke Dirks seems to have returned to Pietersbierum, for at her death on 23 March 1761 at Harlingen, perhaps at the house of her eldest stepbrother Tjeerd Greijdanus, Apothecary there, she was "of age, unmarried woman at Pietersbierum" (see page 296). In the Dutch Reformed Lidmatenboek of Pietersbierum the following note concerning her further occurs:

> "1750 Jan. Aefke Dirks Grada († 23 March 1761)."

[1] See Recesboek (court register) of Barradeel: 13 May 1716. Dirk Gerbens, farmer at Pijttersb., administering church warden there against Yppe, farmer at Tzummarum, for not paying any money on account of the purchase of cows to Gertie Jenties cum marito assisted, for satisfaction of the arrestant's 19—10—0 on account of land rent.

[2] That is, tenant.

From the entry in the Collateraalboek (collateral succession-duty register) of Harlingen, reproduced hereafter on page 364, it appears that, according to the testamentary disposition of Aafke Dirks Grada dated 9 January 1761, the eldest son of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus: Tjeerd Greydanus, Apothecary at Harlingen (N° 57 of this genealogy), was to receive a sum of 1000 caroliguldens out of the estate of his brother Gualtherus or Wolterus Greidanus (N° 59 of this genealogy).

Jancke Sipkes was a daughter of Sipke Abes and Antie Egberts (Eijberts), which couple lived first at Welsrijp, then at Pietersbierum and finally at Sexbierum. She was baptized 24 November 1695 at Welsrijp, as appears from the following entry in the church book of Welsrijp and Bajum kept by the minister:

> "24 Nov. 1695. Janzen, daughter of Sipke Abes and Antie Eijberts."

In the said church book one also finds the following marriage entry of Jancke Sipkes' parents:

> "5 Jan./3 Febr. 1695. Sipke Abes and Antie Eijberts, both of Welsrijp."

The father of Jancke Sipkes has been brought to light from the court records kept at the Rijksarchief at Leeuwarden, belonging to the Civil Sentences of the Court of Friesland, of 30 December 1725, N° 9 (Gerben Jansen Grada against Janke Sipkes) and 26 October 1726, N° 4 (Gerben Jansen Grada against Pieter Seerps and Sjoerd Ymes, as curators of Aafke Dirks Grada).

With the last-mentioned Sentence there is, namely, an account dated 12 March 1726 rendered by Gerben Jansen Grada to the new curators Pieter Seerps and Sjoerd Ymes, and in it, in the 14th place, the accountant Gerben Jansen Grada:

> "exhibits the marriage contract made and drawn up between Dirk Gerbens Grada as bridegroom and Janke Sipkes as bride, mentioned in the inventory as having as an appendix the consent of Sipke Abes, father of the bride."

The mother of Jancke Sipkes also appears in the Dutch Reformed baptismal and marriage register of Sexbierum, among the lists of members included therein, according to which on 1 August 1697 there came in at Sexbierum with attestation (presumably from Pietersbierum):

> "Sipke Abes and Antie Egberts, his wife"

In this church book one also finds the following baptismal entries of children of Sipke Abes and Antie Egberts, who, as will be stated below, had settled on the so-called place Halfweg:

> "(A° 1701)
> on the 25th ditto (September) baptized Sipke of Halwech's child: Abe
> (A° 1704)
> on the 21 September Sipke of Halfwegh's daughter baptized and named: Rientz
> (A° 1706)
> on the 31 (October) baptized Sipke of Halwech's child: Eelk."

The year of birth — 1695 — of Jancke Sipkes is further confirmed in a portfolio of the Court of Barradeel (marked A), containing "Documents relating to investigation in criminal cases". In this portfolio is found the following Information dated 10 November 1717, given by Jancke Sipkes, in a criminal case conducted against a group of "gipsies" or "vagrants". One of these persons, a certain Ariaantie Jans, had been at the house of Dirk Gerbens (Grada), and concerning this visit the following is related:

> "Janke Sipkes, servant maid of Dirk Gerbens, farmer at Pyttersbierum, aged in her 23rd year, summoned and sworn, said that the accused and confined woman, calling herself Ariaantie Jans, had come last Thursday the 4th of this month to the house of her employer Dirk Gerbens, that she had offered the witness some little roots[?] for sale, whose power she greatly praised, saying that they were very useful for curing the pain in the limbs, wishing to make her believe that she was often troubled with that, but as this found no belief with her, she would buy nothing of it, pretending that the price she asked for it, being 10 stuivers, was too high for her, and that she had not so much money, whereupon the said Ariaantie Jans said to her, she should just give her some butter, a piece of bread and some salted meat, but she replied to her that she was not allowed to give away the farmer's goods, whereupon the accused replied again that she should just take a small bottle, they would surely come to an agreement about the price, but this was refused by her, the witness, so that she finally said that she was not at all [1] inclined to buy any goods from her. The aforesaid Ariaantie, not letting herself be put off by this, asked whether they had no apples and said that she would very much like to have some, and pressed so hard for them that she, the witness, gave her 6 or 7 apples; in which she persisted and closed, and after it had been read aloud this mark [a drawn mark resembling -4-] was set by Janke Sipkes herself."

Sipke Abes was in 1705 a koemelcker (dairy farmer) at Halfweg under Sexbierum, where, according to the proclamations given below from the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel, he bought a house and yard cum annexis already occupied and used by him for 200 caroliguldens:

> "20/27 May/17 June 1705. Sipke Abes, koemelcker at Sexbierum, requests B.B.C. and induction concerning the purchase of a certain house and yard cum annexis, standing and situated there on the so-called place Halffwegen, being occupied and used by the buyer, free of floreen and ground rent, further with the rights, profits, charges, servitudes and entitlements belonging thereto, thus acquired by purchase from the children and heirs of the late Jan Clasen, in his time beach master in the said village, for the sum of two hundred cargln, each of XX stuivers, to be paid in the follow> ing instalments, namely one hundred carglns in cash and at May 1705 and 1706 each time fifty carglns until full payment, all in money free of cost and damage, as regards consent money, the 56th penny, proclamations, drawing up of the deed and otherwise, nothing excepted, as more fully set out in the deed of sale thereof; adjudication in due form."

According to the oldest Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of Barradeel, Sipke Abes was in 1711 owner and user of Sexbierum N° 304; rent: 8—.—. and tax (5th and 6th penny): 1—6—11, evidently the parcel Halfweg bought by him in 1705. In 1718 and 1727 this description had remained the same, with the difference that N° 304 had been changed to N° 298 and the pennings to be paid amounted to 1—12—., but in 1747 another owner and user had appeared. By then the number had shifted again to N° 294, the rent had been raised to 10—.—. and the tax /4 and $5^{1}/_{2}$ penny/ had risen to 2—10—., all in the name of Sybe Jelmers' widow (a small almshouse) as owner and Dirk Dirks as user.

Sipke Abes was therefore still alive in 1727, but will have died before 1747. His property was presumably inherited by the wife or widow of Sijbe Jelmers, which wife will have been a daughter of his. For, according to the church register of Sexbierum mentioned above, there were married at Sexbierum on 15 October 1730: Sijbe Jelmers, Mr. Smit (master smith), and Bents Sipkes, both of Sexbierum. That this Bents must indeed have been a child of Sipke Abes appears not only from the fact that she was his heiress, but can also be deduced from the correspondence of her name with that of her grandmother, mentioned below, who was called Bentie Jans.

In the baptism and marriage register of Sexbierum one finds that Sipke Abes was baptized there, for on 20 November 1670 and on 1 September 1672 there is recorded the baptism of Sipke, son of Abe Sipkes (the Sipke Abes baptized on 20 November 1670 therefore evidently died before 1 September 1672). According to the marriage entries contained in this church register, the marriage of Aabbe Sipkis and Bentie Jansdr., both of Sexbierum, was proclaimed at Sexbierum on 2 January 1670 and solemnized on 23 January following.

The father of this Aabbe Sipkis, married in 1670 to Bentie Jansdr., is undoubtedly Sipke Abes (senior), whose name is found in the list of members of Sexbierum dated 30 January 1653. Concerning this Sipke Abes (senior) the following proclamations have been unearthed in the Proclamatieboek of Barradeel, from which the name of his wife Hiltie Doues has also come to light:

> "26 February /19/27 March 1645. Sipcke Abesz at p.b. requests b.B. and C. concerning the purchase of a certain piece of land, in all three and a half pondemaat, being the rightful half of 7 pondemaat, situated in the aforesaid village, having Sioerd Joannis to the west, Pijter Rinces to the east, the common road to the south, teecke Pijters to the north as nearest neighbours, charged in all with 2 gulden 10 stuivers 8 penningen, further with the rights, servitudes and entitlements belonging thereto, the same thus acquired by purchase from Haring Jansz. at p.b., each pondemaat for the sum of 245 ggls, to be paid in instalments, all as more fully set out in the deed of sale.
>
> Claes Jacobs requests, by reason of proximity (adjoining owner), the right of redemption. Let consent be granted to the one exercising the right of redemption."
>
> "9/14/21 February 1649. Sipcke Aebes and Hiltie Douesdr., spouses at Pijtersbierum, request B. C. Durck concerning the purchase of a certain house site situated in the aforesaid village, having the parsonage lands to the east, Olferts to the south, the riding road to the west, the seller to the north as nearest neighbours, charged with six stuivers perpetual annual ground rent to the minister there, further with all rights, servitudes and entitlements belonging thereto, thus acquired by purchase from Doue Johansz [2] cum uxore in the aforesaid village, for 25 gglns of 28 stuivers each in cash, all as more fully set out in the deed of sale.
>
> (Latin) let it be adjudicated."

[1] This word does not occur in the document quoted above, but it does occur in the court records of the Hof van Friesland.

[2] Perhaps the father-in-law of Sipke Abes (senior)

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the family of Jancke Sipkes, the wife of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, Dutch Reformed Minister at Pietersbierum. Belongs with page 301. - Sipcke Aebes — before ± 30 January 1653 at Pietersbierum, afterwards at Sexbierum. Owner of some real property at Pietersbierum and Sexbierum. - ⚭ Hiltie Douesdr. — possibly dau. of Doue Johansz. - Aabbe Sipkis — at marriage of Sexbierum. - ⚭ Bentie Jansdr. — at marriage of Sexbierum. M. Sexbierum 23 January 1670. - Sipke Abes — bapt. Sexbierum 20 Nov. 1670. † before 1 Sept. 1672. - Sipke Abes — bapt. Sexbierum 1 Sept. 1672. Initially at Welsrijp, afterwards at Pietersbierum and finally at Sexbierum. Owner and user of a plot at Halfweg under Sexbierum. † between 1727 and 1747. - ⚭ Antie Egberts (Eijberts) — marriage procl. Welsrijp 5 Jan./3 Febr. 1695. - Jancke (Janzen) Sipkes — bapt. Welsrijp 24 November 1695. - ⚭ I Dirk Gerbens (Grada) — m. Pietersbierum 28 January 1720. - ⚭ II Ds. Ausonius Greydanus — Dutch Reformed Minister at Pietersbierum. M. Pietersbierum 4 February 1725. - Bents (Benskjen) Sipkes — b. ± 1697. M. to I Sexbierum 15 Oct. 1730. † after 1747. - ⚭ I Sijbe Jelmers — bapt. Sexbierum 9 January 1707, as son of Jelmer Sijbes, Mr. Smith at Sexbierum, and Antie Hayes. Mr. Smith at Sexbierum. In 1738 Mr. Woolcomber at Franeker. † before 10 Nov. 1742. - ⚭ II Hilbartus Suiringa — In 1747 Merchant and Mr. Tinsmith at Franeker. - Abe Sipkes — bapt. Sexbierum 25 Sept. 1701. - Rientz Sipkes — bapt. Sexbierum 21 Sept. 1704. - Eelk Sipkes — bapt. Sexbierum 31 Oct. 1706.

> "29 Oct./5/12 Nov. 1651. Sipcke Abes and Hiltie Douwes, spouses at Pietersbierum, sell to Wyger Heebles[1] and Andrijs Sijmens, living in the village of Sexbierum, for the sum of 575 ggl. a certain house, barn and garden standing and lying in the village of Pietersbierum, encumbered with 12 strs. ground rent, having Claes Jacobs to the east, Lieuwe Sioertsen to the west, the common street to the south, Gerben Gerbens' land to the north.
>
> Niaarnemer (claimant by right of pre-emption): ((Latin) by reason of proximity): Claes Jacobs."
>
> The same sellers sell to the same buyers for the sum of 275 ggl. a certain house and garden standing and lying at Pietersbierum, having the parsonage lands to the east, the common dike to the west, Dirck Olpherts' lands to the south, Claas Jacobs to the north, encumbered with 6 strs. ground rent.
>
> "3/10/24 March 1652. Haije Sioertsen, living at Sexbierum, buys a certain house etc. standing at Pietersbierum, having Sipcke Abes to the east, Sijbren Haytses to the west, thus acquired by purchase from Lieuwe Sioertsen for the sum of 137 ggl. 14 st."

From the above it may be inferred that Sipke Abes (senior) had a house built on the house site purchased at Pietersbierum in 1649, which he sold in 1651 together with the garden belonging to it. Likewise, that Sipke Abes (senior) in 1652 still owned land at Pietersbierum, which was still in his possession when soon afterwards he settled at Sexbierum, where on 30 January 1653 he was entered as a member of the Reformed congregation.

Appended hereto is also a draft: fragment genealogy of the family of Jancke Sipkes.

Concerning Jancke Sipkes herself, some particulars follow here, taken from the court records of the Court of Friesland, belonging to its Civil Sentence of 20 December 1725, N^{o} 9.

> The case concerned the will of Dirk Gerbens Grada, on the ground of which his cousin Gerben Jans Grada had been authorized as curator over his daughter Aafke Dirks Grada. Janke Sipkes contested the validity of the will and the appointment as curator based upon it, for which reason Gerben Jans Grada invoked the intervention of the Frisian Court. This request was on 7 January 1724 placed in the hands of the opposing party, to state her "opinion" upon it within 2 days, ordering in the meantime Janke Sipkes to let the Suppl^{t} (supplicant) quietly and peacefully perform his office as curator over the estate of Dirk Gerbens and of his daughter Aefke Dirx and to leave him undisturbed in the exercise thereof, on pain of forfeiting 25 gulden Frysse Rijders (Frisian rider coins) to the Lordship of these Provinces in case of contravention.
>
> In the "Positions and Art^{les} Reprobatory", served on 1 March 1725, the Posant (propounder) (Gerben Jans Grada) says that the Pos^{rde} (respondent) (Jancke Sipkes) since the death of her husband, and chiefly since some time past, has kept a rather slovenly and scandalous household and conduct; that the Pos^{rde}, to her great shame and disgrace, must confess that, against all honour and decency and even against the laws of this Land, she allowed herself to be made pregnant by the minister Greijdanus within the 9 months after the death of her husband Dirk Gerbens; that the Pos^{rde}'s first husband Dirk Gerbens died on 25 November 1723; that reckoned from then to 1 September 1724 amounts to 9 months; that from September 1724 to 1 June 1725 again makes up 9 months; that the Pos^{rde} has now herself admitted that at the latest in the coming month of April 1725 she must be delivered of a child by the aforesaid minister; that it thus follows of itself that the Pos^{rde} shamefully lapsed into fornication within the time laid down by the Law after her first husband's death; that consequently the Pos^{rde}, through this slovenly conduct, has also (Latin) by law itself forfeited not only her claimed lawful guardianship, but also everything that might ever have come to her by inheritance from her first husband Dirk Gerbens; that the Pos^{rde} likewise allowed herself to be made pregnant out of wedlock by her first husband, when she was living with him as a maidservant; that the Pos^{rde} gave that old man all sorts of improper opportunity for it; that the Pos^{rde} falsely pretends that this Posant is a man of bad conduct; that nevertheless the Pos^{rde} on 6 and 10 February 1725 had it proposed to the Posant through D^{r} Backer that she would let him perform the curatorship quietly and peacefully, if in the selling of the affcoop she might appoint someone alongside the Posant.
>
> The Pos^{rde} answered these accusations in writing, but in doing so generally feigned ignorance."

In another court document dated 21 March/3 April 1724 Gerben Jansen says among other things:

> that it is not a matter of the validity of the will, otherwise he would be very well able to show how greatly Janke Sipkes here proceeds contrary to the truth and how deviously she obtained the attestation of some simple farmers, whom she managed to mislead with fine words. — that Janke Sipkes is a person who has nothing (Latin) in goods and is altogether incapable of administering her daughter's property, having little understanding, and having for some time kept a slovenly household.

These accusations uttered by Gerben Jansen Grada must be regarded more or less as a "blackening" of Jancke Sipkes. In the first place the Court did not take too much notice of them, for it decided in favour of Jancke Sipkes and took the curatorship over Aafke Dirks Grada away from Gerben Jansen Grada, who by the Civil Sentence dated 26 October 1726 N^{o} 4 (page 300) in his rendered account and reckoning concerning the goods of Aafke Dirks Grada was corrected. This did indeed rest on a ground which actually lay outside Jancke Sipkes as a person, namely on a declaration that the will of Dirk Gerbens Grada was invalid, but besides this negative side the Court's ruling also had the positive one, which can be interpreted entirely in favour of Jancke Sipkes. In the second place, statements made by other persons do not sound unfavourable with regard to Jancke Sipkes, while on the other hand Gerben Jansen Grada is reproached with the fact that:

[1] Family name: Wiersma.

"he recently behaved thoroughly like a beast in the inn at Sexbierum, and was not ashamed to smash the wine glasses to pieces and to break the windows, and moreover challenged several persons to fight", which accusations likewise appear to have been exaggerated. Of more importance apparently were the statements made, according to Informations dated 23 February 1725, by the Secretary Regnerus Braam and the Grietman (district magistrate) J^{r} Arent van Haersolte, that Gerben Jansen Grada had admitted to them that, in order to induce Jancke Sipkes to sign a receipt, he had made use of a little lie or a "fib". He had namely wrongly claimed that the Grietman required her signature, and once he had in his possession the receipt obtained by signature in this unlawful way, he made use of it in law in order to have his appointment as curator upheld.

Concerning the not unfavourable statements made about Jancke Sipkes, some particulars follow here:

> The Grietman over Barradeel Arent van Haersolte declared among other things that Jancke Sipkes "being still young in years is not the shrewdest, yet she keeps good and orderly watch over her household, as far as he knew from hearing it from others, he being unable properly to judge whether she possesses as much competence as was required for the guardianship over her child and the administration of her late husband's estate, which, according to his judgement and estimate, would amount to over 20000 guldens, since he did not know her so closely", and that Jancke Sipkes "being overwhelmed by grief, had not opposed the inventory and respective description, as likewise she had not opposed the authorization of Gerben Jans Grada as curator over her child."
>
> "Ausonius Greydanus, Minister of the Divine Word at Pietersbierum, aged 23 years, declared that he could say nothing except that through the quarrels and dissensions of Gerben Jans Grada, Jancke Sipkes had thereby some trouble with her household and her servants, who were sometimes incited by Gerben Jans Grada, but he knew all this only from hearsay.

> Douwe Simonides (de Vries), schoolmaster at Pijttersbierum, declared among other things "that he could not properly judge of the competence of Jancke Sipkes, but did know that she is thrifty and attentive, and he (the witness) had not heard the least thing about any disorderliness in Jancke Sipkes' household, just as on the other hand he acknowledges Gerben Jans Grada to be a respectable and honest man, but he likewise could not judge whether the curatorship in question would be better entrusted to him than to Jancke Sipkes."

Jancke Sipkes died at Pietersbierum at the age of about 53 years on 13 January 1748, according to a family note, which is confirmed by the following entry in the Members' Register of the Reformed Congregation there:

> "1724. Janke Sipkes, lawful wife of Aus. Greidanus > († 13 January 1748)."

Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus thus survived his wife by a good 11 years.

CHILDREN:

1. Johanna Greijdanus, who follows under number: 56.
2. Tzeerd Greijdanus, who follows under number: 57.
3. Gualtherus Greijdanus, who follows under number: 58.
4. Gualtherus or Wolterus Greijdanus, who follows under number: 59.
5. Dr. Jan or Johannes Greijdanus, who follows under number: 60.
6. Eelkjen Greijdanus, who follows under number: 61.
7. Maria Greijdanus, who follows under number: 62.

CHILDREN FROM THE MARRIAGE OF DR. SIXTUS GREYDANUS (N° 6, COMING FROM THE NUMBERS: 2 AND 1[I]) AND KUNNEKE GERRITS

19 ITJE (YTJE) GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Sixtus 6 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Franeker, 18 February 1690 · daughter of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus (N° 6) and Cunneke Gerryts · m. Jacob Thuenis de Pree, 1715

Her baptismal entry in the Register of the Reformed at Franeker reads as follows:

> "/1690/. On the 18th of February was baptized here the child of Doctor Sixtus Greijdanus and Kunneke Gerrits and named Itje."

MARRIED:

Jacob Thuenis de Pree, 26 May 1715 in the Galileërkerk at Leeuwarden, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed marriage register there:

> "Jacob Thuenis de pree and Ytje Sictus Greidanus both in > this town had their marriage banns proclaimed for the first time > on 5 May 1715 and on 12 May the 2nd time and on the 19th of the same > the third time, and they were confirmed on the 26th of the same in the Galileërkerk in the afternoon."

Neither about Ytje Greijdanus nor about her husband Jacob Thuenis de Pree has anything been found. Ytje Greijdanus is not mentioned in the will dated 10 March 1716 of her cousin Ausonius Greijdanus, printed on pages 288/289. Since her brother Johannes Greydanus is indeed mentioned in that will, it could be possible that she died before 10 March 1716.

20 GERHARDUS GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Sixtus 6 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Franeker, 13 October 1691 · d. before 8 October 1695 · son of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus (N° 6) and Cunneke Gerryts

His baptismal entry is recorded as follows in the register of the Reformed at Franeker:

> "(1691) On the 13th of October D[r] Greijdanus conrector of the school has a child baptized named Gerhardus."

He must have died before 8 October 1695, when Dr. Sixtus Greijdanus again had a child baptized with the name "Gerardus" (N° 23 of this genealogy).

21 JANCKE GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Sixtus 6 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Franeker, 10 January 1693 · daughter of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus (N° 6) and Cunneke Gerryts

Her entry in the baptismal register of the Reformed congregation at Franeker reads as follows:

> "(1693) On the 10th of January Sixtus Greidanus doctor of medicine and conrector of the school here has a child baptized named Jancke."

Nothing has been found about her; she does not appear in the will dated 10 March 1716 of her cousin Ausonius Greidanus, printed on pages 288/289, in which her brother Johannes Greijdanus is indeed named. Presumably she died at a young age.

22 JO/H/ANNES GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Sixtus 6 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Franeker, 8 May 1694 · son of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus (N° 6) and Cunneke Gerryts

His baptism is entered as follows in the Reformed baptismal register at Franeker:

> "(1694) On the 8th of May D^r Greidanus has a child baptized named Johannes."

He must have gone to Amsterdam, where in 1716 he was a "surgeon's assistant" and "had to take the examination", as appears from the will dated 10 March 1716 of his cousin Ausonius Greijdanus, printed on pages 288/289.

Since the membership registers of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Amsterdam only begin in 1749, nothing can be found there about Johannes Greydanus. At Amsterdam an investigation in the archive of the surgeons' guild, the burgher books as well as other archival records has shed no light on him.

23 GERARDUS GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Sixtus 6 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Franeker, 8 October 1695 · d. before 18 May 1697 · son of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus (N° 6) and Cunneke Gerryts

In the Reformed baptismal register at Franeker his baptismal entry reads as follows:

> "(1695) (October) On the 8th of the same D^r Sixtus Greidanus has a child baptized named Gerardus."

He must have died before 18 May 1697, when Dr. Sixtus Greydanus again had a child baptized with the name "Gerardus" (N° 24 of this genealogy).

24 GERARDUS GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Sixtus 6 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Franeker, 18 May 1697 · son of Dr. Sixtus Greydanus (N° 6) and Cunneke Gerryts

In the baptismal register of the Reformed congregation at Franeker his entry reads as follows:

> "(1697) (May) On the 18th of the same Sixtus Greijdanus doctor of medicine & conrector here has a child baptized named Gerardus."

Nothing has been able to be found about him; probably he died young.

CHILDREN FROM THE 2nd MARRIAGE OF ELISABETH GREYDANUS (N° 7, DESCENDING FROM THE NUMBERS: 2 AND 1I) WITH JOHANNES ANTONII //VAN/ BOECKHOLT/

25 TRIJNTIE JANS (JOANNES ANTONIDES) //VAN/BOECKHOLT/

Line of descent: Elisabeth 7II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

She must have been born about 1694 at Pingjum, where the Reformed baptismal registers only begin 10 years later, as appears from the following entry in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Barradeel dated 20 September 1703:

> "Heard by the honourable Sjoucke Eelckes (Gerolsma), co-judge of Barradeel and in this matter as appointed Commissaris, at the request made to him by Jücke Feyckes and Lucas Reyners, both schoolmasters, residing at Tersool and Oosterwierum respectively, appointed uncles and respectively spokesmen for Trijntie Joannes Antonides, aged in her 10th year, a little daughter left behind by the late Elisabeth Greydanus and begotten in wedlock by the late Joannes Antonides, in his lifetime schoolmaster at Sexbierum, in that capacity requirants on the one side, against the Reverend, godly Ds. Theardus Greydanus, V: D: M: in the village of Achlum, uncle on the mother's side of the above-mentioned ward, requiree on the other side, in order to take up the curatorship and respectively the guardianship over the person and goods of the original requirant."

From this entry it also appears that after the death of her parents, who both died in the year 1703 and whose by no means inconsiderable estate is given on page 228, her mother's brother, Ds. Tjardus Greydanus, Dutch Reformed minister at Achlum and Hitsum, was appointed her curator. After the death of Ds. Tjardus Greydanus (N° 5 of this genealogy) his eldest son Johannes Greydanus, Huysman en Coopman (farmer and merchant) at Pingjum (N° 14 of this genealogy), was appointed curator in his place, concerning which one finds the following in the Authorisatieboek of Wonseradeel:

> "Trijntie Jans, aged in her 19th year, a daughter of Jan Anthonides, in his lifetime at Sexbierum, requirant, and Johannes Greydanus at Pingjum, requiree.
> The court, having heard the request of the requirant and the consent of the requiree, authorises the requiree as curator over the person and goods of the requirant, the requiree having taken the oath.... in the hands of the co-judge Tjerk Sioerds Hoytinga, whereupon the said curatorship was decreed in due form, done 4 June 1712."

Concerning the acceptance of this curatorship one finds in Part 14 of the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Franeker the following, which has already largely been communicated on page 262:

> "15 Dec. 1712. There appeared before the presiding Burgomaster H. D. Lomers, in this matter appointed Commissaris, assisted by the Secretary J. Scheltema, the gentleman S. van Westerhuis, authorised curator over Ausonius Greidanus, together with Johannes and Yttie Greidanus, both chil> dren of age and heirs of the late Dominus Tjardus Greidanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum and Hitsum, as curator over Trijntie Jans, thus requirants and accountants on the one side; > against Johannes Greidanus, authorised curator over the said Trijntie Jans, in this matter requiree and accountant on the other side, concerning such receipts and expenditures as the late Dominus Tjardus Greidanus has had over the said Trijntie Jans from 14 September 1703 until the date hereof; all in the presence of Lucas Reiners, schoolmaster at Oosterbierum, and Maria Antonides, wife of Mr. Joecke Feikes, schoolmaster at Tersool, in this matter strengthened with Baucke Fockes Agricola, as nearest relatives of the original requiree, all drawn up on sheets of XX stuivers each, as follows."

Of what then follows the main substance is:

> "A provincial bond, dated 14 September 1666 in the name of Professor Greidanus, to the sum of 400 cargl. (carolus gulden) capital;
> A bond charged as above, 100 cargl. capital;
> A bond charged as above, 80 cargl. capital;
> A bond on Gerben Willems cum uxore at Minderscha for 300 cargl. capital;
> A bond on Lucas Reiners, schoolmaster at Oosterbierum (should be Oosterwierum), on which 25 cargl. still remains;
> half of a reversal deed charged to Syberen Claasen at Franeker, on which the last instalment still remains at 53 cargl. 6 stuivers 10 penningen, thus the half 26—13—5;
> Half a house and garden on 't Nieuwwerck within Franeker, held in common with the heirs of Dominus Tjardus Greidanus."
> The orphans' account is approved, the curatorship being commended to Johannes Greijdanus, done 15 December 1712. There follow the signatures of Lucas Reinders, schoolmaster at Oosterwierum, Trintie Jans, S. Westerhuys, Johannes Greydanus, Maria Anthoni, Yttje Greydanus, Bauke Fokkes Agricola (as witness), besides the signatures of the presiding Burgomaster and the secretary v.n.d.

Concerning the curatorship of Johannes Greijdanus at Pingjum over his niece Trijntie Jans (Antonii) we find in the Judicial Archive of Wonseradeel, in the "Accounts of Curators, marked Q1", a request addressed to the honourable court of Wonseradeel by Feike Pytters, baker at Hylaard, as husband and guardian of Trijntje Johannes Antonides (see below), which according to an apostille of 2 Febr. 1715 is placed in the hands of the co-judge Adrianus Grons as commissaris, stating that:

> "at the death of Elisabeth Greydanus, widow of the late Johannes Anthonides, his wife's mother, who died at Sexbierum, over his wife and her goods left to her by her parents, there became her authorized curator became Dom. Theardus Greidanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum, and he administered her goods; upon the death of which curator his son Johannes Greidanus, at present farmer at Pingum, as co-heir in his father's place obtained the goods of the original supplicant under his charge and succeeded him in the said curatorship over the same, requesting that a commissioner be appointed, in whose presence Johannes Greidanus can render account and reckoning of his father's administration and of his own.

Upon this follows a summons of Johannes Greydanus to appear on 14 February 1715 at Bolswart in the Grietenij court chamber and then the "Account rendered by Joannes Greydanus at Pingjum as authorized curator over Trijntie Jans, who has married Feycke Pytters at Hylaard, since his authorization, following upon the account rendered by Mr. S. Westerhuys to the party accounted to on 15 Dec. 1712 before the Commissioner of the Court of the City of Franequer", after which this follows. It is furthermore mentioned that Joannes Greydanus was authorized as Curator by the Honourable Court in Wonseradeel on 4 June 1712.

Finally follows the actual account, in which the most important item is:

> "Half a house, standing in 't Nieuwe Werck at Franeker with the gardens, held in common with the heirs of the late Dominus Tjardus Greydanus, in his lifetime minister at Achlum and Hitsum."

This half house at Franeker is sold by Trijntie Jans, assisted by her husband Feicke Pijtters to be named below, for 312 ggl., as appears from the following entry in the Franeker Protocolboek (N.N. 8.) page 98:

> "31 October 1715. Trijntie Jans, wedded wife of Feicke Pieters, strengthened by the same, living at Hilaardt, sells to Mr. Suffridus van Westerhuis, Receiver General of this province and governing Burgomaster within Franequer etc., as curator over Ausonius Greidanus, student at present living within the aforesaid city, a certain half house and garden with appurtenances standing and lying in 't Nieuwhof here, of which the other half belongs to the buyer in the said capacity . . . ., being at present used by Mr. Wilhelmus Coetier as tenant, paying yearly for it, besides the chimney tax, 95 cargl.: thus sold and given for the sum of 312 ggl., etc."

MARRIED:

Feico (Feycke) Pijtters (Pieters), 14 May 1713 at Edens, as appears from the two following marriage entries:

Marriage register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Pingjum 1704—1746:

> "1713. On 19 March the banns of marriage of > Feicke Pytters at Spannum and Trijntje Jans at > Pinjum, Meinte Sierks at Pinj. and Antje Waabes > at Kimswert, were proclaimed for the 1st time: on 2 April > the attestation of the last-named was issued to marry on > 13 May, the attestation of the first-named issued."

Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Edens and Spannum 1693—1772 (1810).

> "1713. Feico Pijtters > at Span: and > Trijntie Jans
> of Pingium — had their first proclamation on the 26th of March and so on subsequently, and were confirmed in the married state by me[1] on 14 May in the Church of Edens."

At his marriage entry Feicke Pytters was thus from Spannum. His baptismal entry has not been found at Spannum, where however the Baptismal registers of the Dutch Reformed Congregation begin only with 2 July 1693.

The parents of Feicke Pytters cannot be given.

As mentioned in the request with apostille d.d. 2 February 1715 referred to on the preceding page, Feicke Pytters was then "baker at Hylaard". This is confirmed by the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Baarderadeel, from which it appears that, according to the following proclamation d.d. 20 November/4 December 1713/8 January 1714, he bought a bakery at Hylaard for 400 Cargl.:

> "Feyke Pijters with his wife at Spannum buy a certain house, bakery and garden with appurtenances standing and lying at Hylaard, at present inhabited and used, free of ground rent and lease, having the common neighbours to the East, the canal to the West, the house inhabited by Lieuwe Takes to the South and Douwe Ypes, master cooper, to the North, in the same manner as it was sold last May Day by Thomas Jacobs and his wife at Hylaard. Thus acquired by purchase from Rienk Pijters, bachelor at Sweins, for the sum of 400 cargl."

[1] D[s]. Petrus Nicolai, minister at Spannum.

According to the proclamation below, d.d. 23 March /6/20 April 1716, Feicke Pijtters however sold the bakery again for the same amount to the same person who had originally sold it:

> "Thomas Jacobs and his wife at Hylaard buy a certain house, bakery and garden with appurtenances, standing and situated in the said village of Hylaard, at present being used by the sellers named below themselves, charged with 2 strs and 4 penn. yearly ground rent (having the same adjoining neighbours as named above) in the same manner as it was sold at May Day 1714 by Rienk Pijters, bachelor at Sweins. Thus acquired by purchase from Feijke Pijters, master baker, and his wife in the said village of Hylaard for the sum of 400 cargl."

In the mortgage registers of Baarderadeel the following is found concerning Feycke Pijtters:

> On 26 April 1714 (registered 11 October 1715) Feijke Pijters, residing at Spannum, declares that he owes 300 cargl. to Epke Jacobs and Epke Epkes as church wardens of Spannum at 4%;
> On 15 June 1714 (registered 19 May 1716) Feyke Pijters, master baker and merchant at Hylaard, for himself and giving security for his wife Trijntie Jans, declares that he owes 50 and 100 cargl. to Lykle Obbes and Antie Piers, merchants at Spannum, at 4%.

At Hijlaard nothing more has come to light about Feycke Pijtters and Trijntie Jans //van/ Boeckholt/ after 1716, so that the supposition readily suggests itself that they moved about that year to another place, which however has not been possible to discover.

In the will d.d. 10 March 1716 of her cousin Ausonius Greijdanus, Trijntie Jans (van Boeckholt) does not appear.

Of the couple Feycke (Feico) Pijtters × Trijntie Jans //van/ Boeckholt/ only one child, baptized at Spannum, has been possible to find:

CHILD:

Jan Feickes, who follows under number: 63.

---

26 GERRIJT JANS (JOANNES ANTONIDES) //VAN/ BOECKHOLT/

Line of descent: Elisabeth 7[II] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Sexbierum, 31 May 1696 · son of Joannes Antonides and Elisabeth Greydanus (N° 7)

His baptismal entry in the church register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Sexbierum 1619—1772 reads as follows:

> "A° 1696
> on 31 May baptized the child of M[r] Antonides > Gerrijt."

Since he does not appear in the entry d.d. 20 October 1703 in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Barradeel given on page 304 — appointment of curators over the children left by Mr. Johannes Antonides — he must have died before 20 October 1703.

---

27 YTIE JANS (JOANNES ANTONIDES) //VAN/ BOEKHOLT/

Line of descent: Elisabeth 7[II] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Sexbierum, 28 May 1699 · d. before 11 September 1701 · daughter of Joannes Antonides and Elisabeth Greydanus (N° 7)

Her baptismal entry in the church register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Sexbierum 1619—1772 reads as follows:

> "A° 1699.
> on the 28th of the same (May) M[r] Antonides' child baptized > Ytie."

She must have died before 11 September 1701, when Mr. Antonides again had a little daughter baptized with the name Ytie. (N° 28 of this genealogy).

---

28 YTIE JANS (JOANNES ANTONIDES) //VAN/ BOEKHOLT/

Line of descent: Elisabeth 7[II] ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Sexbierum, 11 September 1701 · daughter of Joannes Antonides and Elisabeth Greydanus (N° 7)

Her baptismal entry in the church register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Sexbierum 1619—1772 reads as follows:

> "A° 1701
> On 11 September M^r Antonides' child bapt. Ytie."

Since she is not named in the entry d.d. 20 October 1703 in the Authorisatieboek of Barradeel given on page 304 — appointment of curators over the children left by Mr. Johannes Antonides — she must have died before 20 October 1703.

CHILDREN FROM THE MARRIAGE OF DS. PETRUS GREYDANUS (N° 8, DESCENDING FROM THE NUMBERS: 2 AND 1^I) AND BOTTIE IMPTES

29 JOHANNES GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1^I

b. Rijperkerk, 1 March 1696 · d. Rijperkerk, 12 March 1696 · son of Ds. Petrus Greydanus (N° 8) and Bottie Ymptes

He was baptized 1 March 1696 at Rijperkerk, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed church register of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp:

> "(1696). On the 1st of March a little son was baptized of Dng > Petrus Greijdanus the father and Bottie Imtes the mother, and he is > named Johannes."

He died 12 March 1696 at Rijperkerk and was buried there in (or beside) the Reformed Church, as appears from a collection of grave inscriptions in Portfolio I^a 6 in the Friesch Museum at Leeuwarden. The collection consists of grave inscriptions copied in 1833/34 by the local schoolmaster and contains the following inscription of a tombstone in (or beside) the Reformed Church at Rijperkerk:

> "On 8 August 1659 rested in the Lord > Nieske Doeckes Tasma, being 20 days > old, and she lies buried here > (Latin) Nisia, the first given to me, thus [?] > returned to heaven > [?] beneath the earth [?]
> [?]
> In 1696 on 12 March died Johannes > Greidanus, aged 13 days. In 1701 on 6 September > died Antie Greidanus, aged > 4 years, and they lie buried here."

The upper inscription will relate to a child of Ds. Doecke Sickes (Duco Sixti) Tasma, at that time minister at Rijperkerk. The Antie Greidanus named in the lower inscription is the little daughter (N° 30 of the genealogy) of Ds. Petrus Greydanus, baptized 1 Aug. 1697 at Rijperkerk. Apparently the said grave was therefore used temporarily by the (Latin) minister of the place.

30 ANTJE GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1^I

b. Rijperkerk, 1 August 1697 · d. Rijperkerk, 6 September 1701 · daughter of Ds. Petrus Greydanus (N° 8) and Bottie Ymptes

Her baptismal entry in the Reformed church register of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp reads as follows:

> "On the 1st of Aug. 1697 a Daughter was baptized of > Dng Petrus Greydanus the father and Bottje Imtes the > mother, and she is named Antje."

She died 6 September 1701 at Rijperkerk and was buried there in (or beside) the Reformed Church, as appears from the grave inscription mentioned above.

31 YDTJE GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1^I

b. Rijperkerk, 19 August 1698 · daughter of Ds. Petrus Greydanus (N° 8) and Bottie Ymptes

She was baptized at Rijperkerk, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed church register of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp:

> "On the 19 Aug.: 1698 a Daughter was baptized of > Dns. Petrus Greijdanus the father and Bottje Imtes the mother, > she is named IJdtje."

Concerning her nothing could be found.

32 JOHANNES GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Rijperkerk, 28 July 1700 · son of Ds. Petrus Greydanus (N° 8) and Bottie Ymptes

His baptismal entry in the Reformed church register of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp reads as follows:

> "On the 28th of July 1700 a son was baptized of Dng > Petrus Greijdanus the Father, and Bottje Imtes the mother, and > he is named Johannes."

In my article in the Monthly of the Genealogical-heraldic Society "De Nederlandsche Leeuw", mentioned in the Preface, it was stated that he was probably "cherger" (customs officer) at Oostmahorn in 1746. This is based on a "Quotisatie van de Haven Collecteurs en Chergers voor den Jare 1746" (we would now say a list of Receivers of indirect taxes, import duties and excises and of tax inspectors), on which under the heading "Collecteurs en Cherchers voor de soete waren" there occurs:

> "Oostmahorne — Tjeerdt Johannes Coll[e] and Cherger 1. 2. 3. 4. f 250 (behind which: 4 cancelled vertical strokes) > Johannes Greidanus . . . . . 1. 2. 3. 4. 200 idem ."

Further considerations have however led me to assume that by this "Johannes Greidanus" is not meant the present one, but his youngest brother Jacobus Greidanus (N° 35 of this genealogy), who was initially Overseer of the Provincial Peat and Firewood at Rijperkerk, but who on 5 January 1747 was permitted, at his own request "for reasons more fully alleged", to transfer his post to another. Now this request will presumably have been connected precisely with a detachment of him as cherger — a post similar to that of overseer of the Provincial Peat and Firewood — at Oostmahorn, where he seems to have been for a whole year, since, evidently as a sign of the quarterly payment of the annual salary, behind his name, as behind all the other names, the figures 1, 2, 3, 4 together with 4 cancelled vertical strokes have been placed.

Neither before nor after 1746 has anything been able to be found of a cherger Johannes Greidanus in particular, nor of a Johannes Greidanus in general, so that I hold it that the present Johannes Greidanus died at a young age.

33 IMTE GREIDANUS (GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

He was baptized at Rijperkerk 24 September 1702, as appears from the following entry in the Church register of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp:

> "On the 24th September 1702 was baptized a son of Dg > Petrus Greijdanus the father, and Bottje Imtes the mother and he was > named Imte."

Concerning him some data are found in a Church register of Rijperkerk kept by the minister, containing the proceedings of the Church Council of Rijperkerk from 28 February 1734—11 January 1788, among which occur membership lists of 1734 and 1770, together with deaconry accounts of 1721—1781.

In the deaconry accounts there occurs the expenditure item relating to the payment to Ds. P. J. Greydanus of the ground rent of the poorhouse. In the account for 1733 one finds however the item: "On 16 September 1733 paid to Ymte Greydanus the ground rent of Gaats and aunt Aalthe's house .... 1—8—:", so that Ymte, as eldest son, had collected the ground rent for his father who had meanwhile died.

On 12 February 1736 it is recorded that the Holy Supper of the Lord was held at Rijperkerk and that upon the confession of faith there were added to the congregation among others: Ymte Greidanus.

On 10 June following one finds for the first time the election of Ymte Greidanus as deacon, which his mother thus just lived to see. On 29 March 1744 and 26 May 1749 he was again chosen deacon of Rijperkerk and on the 6th of June 1756 followed his election as elder. As a remarkable fact it is noted at the last election that it took place on Whitsunday during the Rijperkerk turn "but on the occasion of the church building at Rijperkerk, now at Hardegarijp".

Whether Ymte Greydanus was possibly later once more called to ecclesiastical official service does not appear from this Church register.

On the list of members drawn up on 27 May 1770 he is mentioned as an ordinary member, without more. From this I infer that he remained unmarried; were it otherwise, then the customary mention "and his wife" would not have been lacking.

Ymte Greydanus lived from 1752 up to and including 1782 in a house rented by him at Rijperkerk. This appears from the tax registers — the so-called Reëelcohieren (registers of rental assessments) — of Tietjerksteradeel.

In these one finds in the year 1752, under N° 64 of the village of Rijperkerk, "a house cum annexis let for rent: the $5^1/_2$ penn. 10—.—. (rent), 1—16—16 (tax), of which the owner is Doede Romkes and the occupier: Ymte Greidanus". In the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of the following years one always finds this entry maintained up to and including the year 1782. In the next register, that of 1785, another occupier appears, so that we may assume that Ymte Greydanus died in the period from 1782 to 1785. He will therefore have reached the age of 80 years, and have remained unmarried.

Ymte Greydanus practised at Rijperkerk the trade of shoemaker. This is derived from the following records:

Quotisatiecohier (assessment register) of Tietjerksteradeel of the year 1749, in which one finds under the village of Rijperkerk:

> "Ymte Greidanus, a shoemaker, who can well earn his living, (the household consisting of) 2 persons above 12 years."
> The amount of the tax was: 18—1—.., with the addition: verh^{t} —6—12.

Deaconry accounts of Rijperkerk, in which under date of 24 March 1767 the following item of expenditure occurs:

> "Paid to Jemte Greidanus for a pair of slippers for Janke Wanders (apparently a person receiving poor relief). . . . . 1—:—:."

The following original document, dated 6 March 1756, on which the signature of, among others, Imte Greidanus appears, is in my possession:

> "Whereas the church at Ryperkerk is so dilapidated that it is in danger of collapsing, the Heer > Hendrikŭs Wiardŭs van Altena, Grietman (district magistrate) of Tietjerk-> steradeel, having, after previous house-to-house announcement, convened the inhabitants > of the village of Ryperkerk on 2 March 1756 in their > village school, in order to deliberate upon the ruinous > state of the aforesaid church, we the undersigned inhabitants > of the village of Ryperkerk are all unanimously of opinion > that the said church is too dilapidated to be able to be > repaired again, and that it must therefore be demolished and > a new church be built in its place; that > the contracting out of the one and the other, as regards both mate> rials and wages, ought to be done publicly to the lowest bidder, > all in accordance with the specification drawn up and made by the > master carpenters Sjoŭke Noteboom, Sytse Ydes and > Tjalling Jans, in consultation with the Bijsitter (assessor) Adrianŭs > Joŭwersma, the present church wardens Andrys Ben-> nes and Douwe Andrys, together with various other in> habitants; consequently we the undersigned > inhabitants instruct the said church wardens, on the aforesaid footing, to > contract out publicly to the lowest bidder, on the 18th > of this month, the pulling down and the rebuilding of the church, > to nominate one or more competent overseers, who with > proper attention shall investigate whether the work is made and completed > according to the contents of the specifi> cation, further, in consultation with some inhabitants living in the place, to > carry out everything that shall be found necessary for the complete completion of the > whole work, further with instructions > to borrow the moneys needed for this, if possible > at no higher interest than three caroli guilders per hundred > a year, promising to keep their hands, they practising in this all > possible thrift and rendering a proper > account of everything, free of cost and damage in everything; and in order to > repay the moneys to be borrowed and in time to > discharge them, we oblige ourselves annually, for so long as the capital > and interest shall not have been paid off, of all the properties belonging > under Ryperkerk, to pay for every caroli guilder T: 1: house > one stuiver, the houses being reckoned according to > what the properties actually let for, or as they are recorded in the Reële cohier, > and the first year thereof to be reckoned > as levied from 1 May 1756; of > which tax the tenants, in so far as the properties > are let, shall pay one third, and the owners > the remainder. The payment shall have to be promptly on the due date > to the church wardens and their successors made, and from those who are in default the collection shall be carried out by execution without the ordinary form of legal action. For the fulfilment of this we bind our goods and those of the aforesaid inhabitants, with submission of the same and of our persons to the Court of Friesland and to all courts of first instance. In witness whereof our usual signatures. Done the 6 March 1756.

(was signed) H. W. Altena.	Sybe Jacobs[2]
Yda Sipma.	Imte Greidanus
H. v. Glinstra	Sier . . . . .
. . . Vitringa	Douwe Roels

N: p: 1756.	Wijerd Pijtters
H. W. v. Plettenberg in his capacity as curator over Joachim van Plettenberg.	This is
W: R: V: Sippama.	Sybe ┼ Geerts
Poppe Geerts	own set mark
Andrijs Binnis	This is
Harke Sijbes[1]	Doije ┼ Jacobs
Thüenis Sybes	mark set by himself
Jurjen Jacobs	This is
Douwe Andries	Syne + Sybes
Tjeerd Sijbes	mark set by himself
Jan Sijbes
Aelle Hindriks

and some further signatures and marks, which have become detached from the document."

Ymte Greydanus is further found on 1 May 1741 as a witness to the following acknowledgement of debt:

> "I, the undersigned, acknowledge that I am truly indebted to Sjoerd Tjerks Hoitinga in the sum of 50 car.gl., on account of money advanced for our particular convenience; I undertake this under the same security as before, in witness my hand, together with Ymte Greidanus as witness. Arum the 1 May 1741 (signed) Imte Greidanus, Aat Klaasis."

This bond was written on the reverse side of an acknowledgement of debt dated 1 May 1727, registered on 6 March 1752 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franekeradeel, in which Claas Ymtes, huys- en hingsteman (householder and stallion keeper) at Achlum, declares that he owes 100 car.gl. to Tjerk Sjoerds Hoitinga at Arum.

The here-mentioned huys- en hingsteman at Achlum Claas Ymptes is evidently a brother of Bottie Ymptes, the mother of Ymte Greydanus (see the draft belonging to page 242: fragment-genealogy of the family of Bottie Ymptes). This Claas Ymptes was married to Ath Wybes, and the Aat Klaasis mentioned above is probably a daughter of this couple; Aat Klaasis would then be a cousin of Ymte Greydanus.

---

34 ANTJE (ANTIE) GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Rijperkerk, 24 June 1705 · daughter of Ds. Petrus Greydanus (N° 8) and Bottie Ymptes

Her baptismal entry in the Church Book of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp reads as follows:

> "On the 24 June 1705 a daughter was baptized, D: > Petrus Greijdanus the father and Bottje Imtes the mother, and she was named Antje."

Nothing could be found about her, so that she will have died at a young age.

---

35 JACOB (JACOBUS) GREIDANUS (GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Rijperkerk, 6 April 1708 · d. Mantgum, 12 February 1796 · son of Ds. Petrus Greydanus (N° 8) and Bottie Ymptes · m. Aukjen Sybes, 1746 · m. Trijntje Gerbens, 1820

He was baptized at Rijperkerk on 6 April 1708, according to the following entry in the Church Book of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp:

> "On the 6 April 1708 a son was baptized of > D: Petrus Greijdanus the father, and Bottje Imtes, the mother, and he was named Jacob."

In the Church Book of Rijperkerk kept by the minister, containing the proceedings of the Church Council of Rijperkerk from 28 February 1734 to 11 January 1788, among which appear membership lists of 1734 and 1770, as well as diaconal accounts of 1721—1781, it is recorded that Jacob Greidanus, like his brother Ymte, was added to the congregation on 12 February 1736 upon confession of faith. His name was later struck through with the addition: "abiit (departed) to Mantgum."

---

[1] A son of the Sybe Jacobs mentioned in the following note, which son is named on page 318.

[2] This Sybe Jacobs was probably the father-in-law of Jacob Greidanus, a brother of the signatory Imte Greidanus who follows Sybe Jacobs (see pages 317 and 318).

On 18 May 1739 he was chosen "deacon" of Rijperkerk.

On Thursday 8 October 1733 he was appointed "Overseer of the Peat and Firewood of this Province", as appears from the following entries in the Resolutieboek (book of resolutions) of the Gedeputeerde Staten (Deputed States) of Friesland: 1733, fol. 152:

> "Tuesday, 6 October 1733.
> "The etc. . . . . .
> is hereby placed at the disposal of the Heer Glinstra on the tour of minor military offices of Olde Compien[1].
> Likewise the post of Overseer of Peat and Firewood, fallen vacant through the death of Jacob Boomsma, for conferment by the aforesaid Heer Glinstra on the tour of minor political offices under 200 £."

and 1733 fol. 154:

> "Thursday, 8 October 1733.
> The Heer Glinstra, disposing of the office of overseer of Peat and Firewood[1], which had become vacant through the death of Jacob Boomsma and was placed at his Honour's conferment on the 6th of this month, has conferred the same upon the person of Jacobus Greidanus; which disposition, after inquiry had been made, being approved, shall thereafter be handed to J. Greidanus, after the taking of the proper oath, still during the session[2]. An extract of this is to be issued to serve as his commission."

As appears from the following resolution of 5 January 1747 of the Gedeputeerde Staten of Friesland (see the Resolutieboek of 1747, fol. 6vo), at the request of Jacobus Greidanus his office of Overseer of the Province's Peat and Firewood was transferred to Hans Caspers, which office he must evidently have exercised while living at Rijperkerk, because there on 12 February 1736 he became a member and on 18 May 1739 a deacon and, as we shall see below, on 31 March 1747 he came to Mantgum with a certificate from Rijperkerk:

> "Thursday, 5 January 1747.
> Finally there was also read the petition of Jacobus Greidanus, overseer of the Peat and Firewood of this Province, containing, for reasons more fully alleged, the humble request to be allowed to transfer his office to the person of Hans Caspers; whereupon, after deliberation and after the preliminary advice of both the Gentlemen Members serving on the minor political tour had been taken, it was found good and understood graciously to consent to the requested transfer, as is hereby done, and consequently to appoint Hans Caspers overseer of the Province's Peat and Firewood in the place of J. Greidanus, and that at the yearly salary and emoluments attached thereto, he taking the oath belonging thereto. And an extract of this shall be handed to him to serve as his commission."

Probably the request to transfer his office to another was more or less connected with the fact that in 1746 Jacobus Greidanus had been detached to Oostmahorn in a position similar to that of overseer of the Province's Peat and Firewood, namely as cherger (excise inspector) of the sweet goods (there were also chergers for the following categories: "cloths", "beers", "sweet wines", "tobacco", "harbour dues", "weigh-house dues", "salt", "coffee and tea"). As noted on page 308, that cherger at Oostmahorn is indeed mentioned in 1746 in a "Quotisatie van de Haven Collecteurs en Chergers voor den Jare 1746" that was found, but under the name "Johannes Greidanus"; this will, however, be a mistake and ought to be "Jacobus Greydanus". If this is so, then Jacobus Greydanus as cherger of the sweet wares would have resided at Oostmahorn for the whole year 1746 at a salary of f 200.—.

---

[1] The Deputies had the right to confer various offices in turn. Concerning this one reads on pages 242, 243 and 244 of the 1st part of Volume II of Foeke Sjoerds' "Algemene Beschryvinge van Oud en Nieuw Friesland", Leeuwarden 1767, the following: "The offices conferred by the Gentlemen Deputies according to turns are of two kinds: either such as yield two hundred gulden and more in yearly salary, belonging to the so-called great tour; or those which are below two hundred gulden, which belong to the small tour. Among the first are included —..... To the small tour belong: the bailiff of the Domains, the assayer of the Mint, the Province's land surveyor, the Overseer of peat and wood, the gauger of the Ships, the usher of the Military Court, the reckoner of the Oortjes moneys, the sluice-masters of the sluices at Makkum, Dokkum, Driesumerzyl, Oldwoldemer- and Munnikezyl; the Overseers of the Collonelsdiep, of the Beacon on Schiermonnikoog, of the Harlinger and Makkumer works, and near the Maklepolle. The gauge-master of the Brick and Lime works, the Overseer of Beer and Salt casks, the Province's gauger and the Overseer of the Salt sacks, and of Wine, Brandy and other casks of spirits. Formerly the appointment and distribution of the Harbour and other Chergers also belonged to this; but since the appointment of the Commissioners of the Province's revenues, all Chergers are appointed by the seven Commissioners, and the places of their residence are assigned to them. The officials appointed by the Gentlemen Deputies receive from the College the necessary instructions and letters of commission; which latter is also the case with many other offices, too many to be named here. Most officials must also take the oath in the hands of the Gentlemen Deputies, as the Gentlemen ....'....."..

[2] In the Eedboek (oath register), begun by the Gedeputeerde Staten of Friesland, the signature of Jacobus Greidanus appears as overseer of the Peat and Firewood, under date of 8 October 1733.

After this Jacob Greydanus became schoolmaster at Mantgum, as appears from the following entry in the Church Register of "the Reformed Congregation of Jesus Christ at Mantgum and Schillaerdt 1649—1826":

> "On 31 March 1747 there came over to us with an attestation from Rijperkerk:
> Jacob Greydanus, schoolmaster here."

Jacob Greydanus remained schoolmaster at Mantgum until his death — on 12 February 1796 —, which follows from the advertisement below in the "Friesche Courant" N^{o} 19 of Wednesday 4 May (16 Floreal) 1796, the second Year of Batavian Liberty, from which advertisement it appears that he was at the same time sexton, precentor and organist:

> "Whereas the office of sexton, schoolmaster, precentor and organist, in the village of Mantgum, has fallen vacant there through the death of Mr. GREIDANUS, notice is hereby given, with the foreknowledge of the court and the approbation of the inhabitants, to competent and trustworthy persons of the Reformed religion, who are inclined to it upon the favourable conditions and emoluments belonging thereto; they are to present themselves on Monday 9 May 1796, before 9 o'clock in the forenoon, in the church at Mantgum, for examination, election and approbation as prescribed above."

Concerning the office of schoolmaster in Friesland in those days, some digressions follow here, which are given also in view of the fact that not only Jacob Greydanus, but likewise 3 of his sons were schoolmasters in Friesland.

In the work of Foeke Sjoerds mentioned above, which appeared in 1767, and who was himself schoolmaster in the Frisian village of Nijkerk during a period that roughly coincides with the time in which Jacob Greydanus and his 3 sons held this office, one finds in the 2nd part of Volume II on pages 537—549 the following:

> "That the high government of this Province has taken, and still takes, much care for the education of the youth; and that one should not lay it to the charge of the government that so great a multitude of ignorant people, who can scarcely, or not at all, read or write, are to be found, is proved among other things by the great number of schools in this our blessed fatherland. Not one of the seven united Provinces of this State will be found in which, in proportion to its extent, so great a number of villages in the countryside is counted; and few among these are there in which no school is kept; to say nothing at present of the eleven towns of this Province, where an abundance of means of education is to be found. The first stone of the building of Netherlands liberty had barely been laid when the States of the Land, at a Diet held in March of the year 1580, took a resolution to apply the revenues, lands and rents, as well as the movable[?] goods of the convents and monasteries to the founding and maintenance of churches and schools. This resolution of the States was, shortly afterwards, followed by a Placard and Missive to the Grietmannen (district magistrates) and Magistrates of this Province, with the addition of the articles of the resolution of the States, containing the basis upon which the ecclesiastical goods were to be applied and arranged for the said end, in which, among other things, it was laid down that the profits and revenues of the said goods should be turned to the maintenance of honourable and worthy ministers, schoolmasters, and other needy persons; and that, in order to carry out the work of letting and dividing those goods, certain capable persons in each village, being good patriots and lovers of the Reformed religion, should be appointed by the congregations, who must be agreeable to the Grietmannen. Thereafter the Gentlemen Deputy States made some further arrangements concerning the maintenance of the ministers and schoolmasters, in which, with respect to the latter, it was laid down that the inhabitants of the countryside, (understand also of the towns) and everyone in their villages, must proceed to the election of good and capable Reformed schoolmasters; and that, for the first time, within six weeks, and thereafter within such times as had been customary of old; and that, if the congregations should be found negligent herein, they should be obliged to receive such schoolmasters as should be sent to them from higher authority. That accordingly each village, in choosing a capable schoolmaster, had to make the necessary arrangements in that respect concerning their salaries; unless the villages were so situated that two or more places together could conveniently maintain one schoolmaster. At a Diet held at Franeker in October of the year 1584, the ministers of the churches of this Province handed over to the States of the Land some articles in which, with regard to the schools, it was requested that the schoolmasters might, as far as possible, be allotted proper salaries, and that such persons be excluded as were not pious of life, nor willing to conform themselves to the nature of the Reformed religion, both in the instruction of the youth and in other ecclesiastical services. The said articles were then favourably received by the high government, and to the said request the Gentlemen Plenipotentiaries answered that henceforth the resolution of the States, taken in March 1580. On 25 March 1603 it was laid down by State resolution that all schoolmasters having too meagre a maintenance should be provided for out of the Costerye and other beneficial properties. From this, and from more other arrangements made in that regard, it can be gathered how much the high Government has concerned itself to have the lower schools flourish.

Yet since it was not so much the business of the States of the Land as that of the freeholding inhabitants and of the Grietsluiden (district magistrates) to make the necessary arrangements in that regard in their particular villages, and since the ecclesiastical properties designated for such uses are found in many places quite scarce, (such properties having in earlier times been too much alienated,) the state of the incomes for the lower schools in the countryside is generally very cramped, and in most places not sufficient to provide an honest livelihood. There are ordinary villages where the fixed yearly salary of the schoolmaster amounts to forty, fifty or sixty guilders; others can bring it to a hundred, and very few to a hundred and fifty guilders. A certain schoolmaster in one of the most populous villages of this Landschap told me that he had only fifty-six guilders fixed yearly salary. Besides their salaries the schoolmasters generally have a free dwelling, with which some have a kitchen garden and an orchard. In many places the schoolmasters have the administration of the inland collections of the Gemaal, Beestiaal, Turf and Brandhout; but this, depending on the pleasure of the Grietsluiden, is not everywhere and at all times secure. Many schoolmasters are at the same time Dorprechters (village judges); but this office is little able to improve their meagre incomes. All schoolmasters have from the teaching of the children some money above their yearly salary, which in some places amounts to six stuivers, in others to a zestehalf for each quarter of a year for each child, which school-pennies in large villages can yield a fair sum; but in most places must be reckoned of little consequence: taking all the advantages together, there are few masters who can make two hundred guilders of income, and very many have only half as much, more or less.

It is easy to understand that the scarcity of a livelihood must bring very bad consequences with it in respect of the proper teaching of the youth. Many such martyr-offices cannot be bestowed except on such persons as have little ability; and these, once appointed, find themselves compelled to find their scanty bread by other labour and occupations which have little in common with their offices, a natural cause that few able schoolmasters are found who are in a position to implant the first principles of the most necessary sciences in the youth. Many can only read somewhat defectively, are poor writers, and still much poorer knowers of the Dutch language, spelling, the joining together of words, and what more belongs thereto, to say nothing now of their knowledge of the first truths of Christianity, of arithmetic and other necessary requirements. One can therefore easily judge how weak and defective the teaching of such must be; which is then also one of the reasons that the pupils, as little as their masters, are for the most part not able, (though they can indeed form good letters) to set down a few words in a fitting order on paper, and that in most letters and writings, whether drawn up by schoolmasters or by others, one meets with more spelling and language errors than words.

Another harmful consequence of such small incomes is that the school office, by reason of its impoverished condition, is exposed to a general contempt: for since by far the most orders of men live more amply and have a better livelihood than those to whom the teaching of the children is entrusted, and since these are generally placed in one rank with the very meanest folk, they also have the same esteem and dignity as these; they are for that reason commonly low of spirit and mind, have little frankness in properly correcting and governing the children; and there are few who scruple to maltreat the poor schoolmaster in their turn, whenever they imagine that their children are being treated too harshly. This hinders the wretched school-governor a thousand times in the proper performance of his duties; and the children, perceiving the contempt of the parents towards the master, are for that very reason the more refractory and disobedient. We need not say what disadvantages, in respect of the teaching of the youth, are born from this; daily experience shows it sufficiently, and all sensible people are fully convinced of it.

Indeed, when one attends to what the extensive duties of the weighty school office bring with them, one must above all things be convinced that those who are properly to discharge this office, which has so much influence upon human society, ought not only to be able and practised men, but that they ought also to be provided with a moderate income, proportionate to their station; so that on the one hand they may be able to devote themselves sufficiently to their office, without occupying themselves with other burdensome work; and that on the other hand they may be able to uphold the dignity of their office, without seeing themselves exposed to the disesteem of the common people.

They must above all things implant in tender minds the first grounds of religion; and to that end first know these thoroughly themselves.

They must always keep their little flock under their eye, which is so much inclined to frivolity and wantonness, so that it needs a continual supervision.

They must be busy with an untiring diligence to impress the first principles of all knowledge upon the youth, so that the children may not, wasting many years therein uselessly, either acquire an aversion to learning, or indeed let their time of life, which is already fit for higher exercises, pass by pitiably.

> They must mingle the sternness of the masterly countenance with a friendly gentleness, and, according to the diversity of dispositions, always prefer the easier way of drawing out diligence to the harder one, encouraging the most sedate by praise and small distributions of prizes, and setting them as an example to the others: and ruling the unruly rather by words of admonition and reproof than by blows; yet when all has been tried in vain, they may never neglect the sharper exercises of discipline.
>
> They must especially practise no respect of persons, nor set the children of the rich and the notable, in order to obtain the favours and gifts of the parents, above those who are more worthy of it. Also they ought not, by the unjust complaints or threats of the parents, who often allow their children too much, to be deterred from the just discipline which must be exercised towards the lazy and wanton children.

> Finally, the schoolmasters are for a great part charged with paying attention to the conduct and morals of the young people, and with preparing them for a good upbringing. Now this does not properly and solely consist in the teaching of certain postures, bows and inclinations of the body, but chiefly in the careful forming of young minds to a becoming Christian and civil morality and courteous living. To this belongs, among other things, the prescribing of rules for the practice of sincere love of God and of one's neighbour; of beneficence, openheartedness, friendliness without sullenness, humility, faithfulness, zeal and diligence, alertness, moderation, meekness, honesty, sincerity, gratitude for benefits received, showing of respect towards parents and authorities, and many other duties which are required for a praiseworthy, Christian and respectable civil conduct and way of life. Such rules being held before the young people and impressed upon them according to their capacity, they are gradually prepared to become, in due time, useful members of society; and the parents meanwhile cooperating to this end, the youth are imperceptibly spurred on to a dignified courteousness.
>
> All this is the work of right-minded schoolmasters; but to obtain such men is very difficult, so long as the small incomes of that office cannot possibly suffice for an honest living: for, for want of sufficient means, one must generally make use of the meanest sort of people, who are often low of spirit, servile of nature, of a poor upbringing and of little knowledge: even those who at first are of better principles become, for want of an honest living, from time to time worse, less confident and lower of spirit, in proportion as they find themselves compelled to take up things which draw them away from their office and have no connection with the nature of their service.
>
> The schoolmasters in the towns are appointed by the Magistrates, and in the countryside by the inhabitants entitled to vote; but Papists or any other sects outside the Reformed church may not vote in this, because the school office is in part ecclesiastical, both on account of the instruction of the youth in the first truths of the faith and on account of their ecclesiastical services of singing, reading and serving the church council. For which reasons also no one may serve the office of schoolmaster except he who makes profession of the Reformed religion; indeed no one being twenty years of age may be taken on as schoolmaster unless he is a member of the Reformed congregation. Sometimes men are called who are not yet members; but they are obliged to put themselves speedily in a position to make their profession. A school office having become vacant by death or departure, the Grietman (district magistrate) is requested by the inhabitants entitled to vote to issue a summons to a vote; which having been done, the announcement or house-notice is given, six days before the appointed voting day, by a Dorprechter (village judge) to the owners or Meyers (tenant farmers) of the properties carrying voting rights, and on the day of voting the eigenerfden (freeholders) vote, either in person or by written proxies, for such a person as they have commonly already promised the office beforehand. The voting being completed, the letter of call or commission is drawn up from the proceedings of the vote, signed by those entitled to vote or by their agents, and handed to the person called; who thereupon, if he lives elsewhere, is fetched at the expense of the church of the place and installed in the dwelling appointed for that purpose, with which he makes a beginning of his service; of which also he cannot be deprived by anyone without lawful reasons of incompetence or misconduct. Being appointed, he is bound, at the requirement of the Classis, to sign the formularies of unity and the rules of the Synod of Dort (so far as concerns doctrine), and thereby to declare that he holds the doctrine of the Reformed Church to be the only rule of faith and life, agreeing with God's word and leading to salvation. A schoolmaster thus called obtains thereby the right of permanent residence in the place of his service, by virtue of which the village or the town is bound to support him and his family in case of poverty and want, for which otherwise a residence of five years is required.
>
> The schoolmasters must not only diligently instruct the youth in reading, writing, arithmetic, psalm-singing etc., which ought indeed to be done the whole year through, but which in many places is entirely omitted in summer, but they must also catechize them at least once a week upon the fundamental truths of the Christian religion, and further employ every means to lead the young people to a fitting knowledge of God and His service. They may not use in the schools any unorthodox books, or writings which contain any false doctrines. Also the schoolmasters are, as far as is possible and as their opportunity allows, obliged to be the first and foremost who are questioned in the public catechizings; in order thereby to be made the more competent to instruct the youth in the fundamental truths of Christianity. A schoolmaster who behaves in an unedifying manner, and indulges in drunkenness or other irregularities; who does not conduct himself properly in the instruction of the youth; as also he who refuses to sign the confession of the Church and the formularies of unity; likewise he who is not a member or will not become one, may for such and other lawful causes be barred, or be deposed from his service; and the Classes are bound to see to this according to the usual way appointed thereto. Those who, on account of their scandalous life, have been excommunicated and for that reason deposed from their service, may not be readmitted to the school service, except after due repentance and reconciliation with the congregation. With regard to the arrangements of the school service, the times and hours thereof, and other circumstances belonging thereto, such order may be laid down by the freeholders in the countryside, and by the Magistrates in the towns, as best agrees with the welfare of the schools; but a schoolmaster who does not conduct himself according to the prescribed or customary order stands in that respect under the supervision of the Kerkvoogden (church wardens) of the villages, who can lay their complaints about it before the Grietman, and upon which justice can be done there; but so far as the ecclesiastical services are concerned, the schoolmasters stand under the jurisdiction of the church council and the Classis to which they belong; which is also, with some alteration, applicable to those of the towns."

The schoolmasters therefore had to serve on Sundays as precentor in the church. Singing was, at least in Friesland, for a long time regarded as a principal part of the teacher's competence. The candidates who competed for a post had to sing one or more psalm verses in the church. The "examinatoren" then often went and stood on the church path or in the churchyard, in order, while the church doors stood open, to ascertain who was best able to keep to the notes was and above all whose voice could be heard the farthest. These two factors often decided the appointment.

Jacob Greidanus was at Mantgum, besides schoolmaster, coster, precentor and organist, also Dorprechter (village judge), as appears from the following declaration written in his own hand, dated 29 December 1772, occurring in the judicial marriage proclamation register of Hennaarderadeel, to the effect that the marriage banns of a bridegroom from Cubaard and a bride from Mantgum had been announced at Mantgum; a reproduction of this declaration follows hereafter:

"The marriage proclamations of Aŭke Sieŭkes of Cubaard, and Lijs Harmens of Mantgŭm were on the 29th December 1772 here at Mantgŭm duly announced to us in lawful manner in order to be proclaimed in our church on the next coming (Sunday), for which reason we issue this as an attestation and declaration to serve as is fitting, dated as mentioned above.
J: P: GREIDANŬS Coster and Dorpr at Mantgŭm."

His signature also appears beneath a Kerkvoogdij (church wardens') account of Mantgum of 1763 and beneath a similar account of Schillaard dated 17 December 1783, as: J. P. Greijdanus, Dorprechter.

In the aforementioned book by Foeke Sjoerds one finds on pages 407—411 of the 1st part of Volume II the following concerning Dorprechters:

> "Among the persons belonging to the Court in the countryside must also, in certain respects, be counted the Dorprechters. They are, just as has been said of the Byzitters (assessors), chosen by the Grietman (district magistrate) from a list of three persons put forward by those entitled to vote. Every village commonly has one such judge; though sometimes two or three villages, joined together, may have a Dorprechter between them. In many places in this Province the schoolmasters are chosen to this office; sometimes also farmers or other inhabitants, from among the most suitable and sensible persons of the place. Anyone chosen as Dorprechter is bound to serve that office for at least one year, unless he can bring forward lawful reasons for exemption, to the satisfaction of the Court: but commonly a person once chosen continues to serve this office for all his life. When someone has been chosen, he is sworn in by the Court, and thereby obtains power and authority to perform all the parts of this office.
>
> A Dorprechter has power, and is bound by virtue of his office, as far as is possible, to keep and enjoin peace between quarrelling parties; and to detain those who break the peace, if need be, or to bind them over to the Grietman by surety. He must, in the presence of two or three of his fellow villagers, inspect all wounds inflicted by striking, throwing or stabbing, or other injuries, as likewise all damage to fields and the like, and, where required, assess them; he must deal between parties concerning money debts, field damage and other minor matters, and settle them amicably with one another; but if in the one case or the other any fines are incurred, he must leave matters of that nature to the Grietman. All kinds of punishable crimes and unlawful acts occurring in the village or its jurisdiction must be made known by the Dorprechter to the Grietman or the Court on the next court day; unless the matter should require greater haste. The judges of the villages must, (just as has been said of the Byzitters and Secretaries,) lend the Grietmannen a hand in the pursuit of manslayers and other evildoers, and at the latest every fortnight (unless for weighty reasons greater speed should be made) report to the Grietman and the Court what offences or crimes have been committed in their villages, or what criminals are staying there. The Dorprechters are charged, in the absence of court officers, to detain all vagabonds, housebreakers and thieves found in the act; and that they, having been captured, must be delivered the next day into the hands of the Grietman or the Court of the grietenij, in order to be sent on afterwards to Leeuwarden to the demolished blockhouse. And the inhabitants, when requested by the Dorprechters, must lend the Dorprechter a helping hand in this. All writs of citation, arrest, denunciation and the like, whether occurring before the Court or before the lower judge, may be served by the Dorprechter, so far as his jurisdiction extends, and he may not refuse anything of that kind. At all elections, whether of Delegates to the Diet, Grietmannen, Byzitters, Secretaries, Ministers, Church wardens, Dike courts etc., house-announcement must be made by the Dorprechters at the appointed times before the polling day: and on the day of the election the bell must be tolled three times. At the election the Dorprechter may take the votes; and at all elections he must be present, pay careful attention to everything, and, if anything unlawful is done, or committed against the regulations of voting, give notice thereof to the Grietman: also he must, if required, keep proper copies of all elections, in order to be able to serve everyone who has an interest therein; as likewise all election minutes must be signed as witness by the Dorprechters in the churches. Further it is the office of the Dorprechter to comply with the orders of the higher authority and of the Court, so far as his office concerns, to carry out all house-announcements that have to be made by high order, to be present at all judicial appearances in the village churches, and in particular at the renewal of the Stem-, floreen-, real and personal

De Echtelijks Proklamatien Van Hauke Sioukes Van Cubaard, en Lysharment Van Mantgúm Sijn op
Den 29ste Desembi: 1772 bij ons hier te Mantgúm op een Wettige Wijse aan-gegeven Om op De Eerst komende Sondag onse Kerke, gepreklameert te Worden Weshalven Wij Desen passeren Voor een Attestatie en Verklaring om te strekken na behoren Datum als boven genoemt is

J: Greidanús
Coster en Dorpr te Mantgúm

Handwritten declaration d.d. 29 December 1772 of the Coster of the Dutch Reformed congregation and Dorprechter (village judge) Jacob Petrús' Greidanús at Mantgum, from the judicial marriage proclamation register of Hennaarderadeel (see page overleaf) (approximately actual size).

> cohieren (registers), to give the Court all the necessary information concerning his village; also to attend the annual recording of the Speciën (a personal tax), formerly done by the tax farmer from house to house, but now done by the Court in the churches, to take note of false declarations, and in all things to be at the service of the Court and to inform it of what is necessary.
> The Dorpregters (village judges) enjoy, as far as I know, nowhere in this Province any fixed annual salary. The ordinance of the Province assigns them only all profits and benefits according to old custom, and whatever is further allowed them by the Grietman (district magistrate), without any regulation being found anywhere, to my knowledge. When in the year 1750. a settlement was made in the grietenijen concerning the estimate and the application of the district expenses, it was also proposed here and there to arrange some annual salary or other income for the benefit of the Dorpregters, for their manifold services; but it went no further than that, notwithstanding that everyone must have been convinced of the fairness of that proposal. They enjoy, or at any rate they ought, according to the law of the Province, to enjoy one gulden a day for sessions held by order of and in the service of their community or grietenij: but this too has fallen out of use, and the Dorpregters perform their services, as far as the grietenij is concerned, for nothing. Only three gulden a year is allowed them, according to the list of the impositions, for their services in respect of the recording of the Speciën. They receive for each summons, attachment, intimation, denunciation, insinuation and similar writs, four stuivers, together with the drawing up of the return. For each proclamation of purchases of real property, with the return, twelve stuivers. For inspecting wounds, field damage, impounding of cattle etc., fourteen stuivers. From which it is easy to conclude that the office of Dorpregter in this Province is not so much profitable as respectable."

In 1753 Jacob Greidanus must have been an elder at Mantgum, since in the Church book of "de Gereformeerde Gemeente Jesu Christi te Mantgum ende Schillaerdt 1649—1826" the following is found recorded:

> "Proceedings of the honourable Church Council held on 9 December 1753.
>
> Art. 2. This document having been read out, one began to examine the verifications thereof which were at hand: To that end first the Elder M[r] J. Greidanus was asked whether in the papers of that Report, in which reference was made to his person, anything occurred which conflicted with the truth of what had taken place? to which he answered, no, but that such was the truth."

In contrast to his father, the Rijperkerk minister Ds. Petrus Greydanus, Jacob Greidanus must have been in comfortable circumstances, since, as appears from the two deeds below from the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Tietjerksteradeel, he lent to others the not unimportant sums of 200 and 1000 Caroli gulden:

The Twenty-first Hypotheecq Boek of Tietjerksteradeel:

> The obligation described below presented for registration on 13 June 1755 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon:
> "I, Johannis Bouwes[1] / Schuytevoerder (bargeman), residing at Bergum, acknowledge by this deed to be honestly and duly indebted to Jacob Greidanus, residing at Rijperkerk, a sum of two hundred car. glds, the gulden being twenty strs.: on account of money advanced, received by me in good current coin at the signing hereof, therefore renouncing the exception of money not counted, I undertake and promise to repay the aforesaid sum of two hundred car. glds upon demand in ringing coin and not in Provincial Obligations, with four such guldens per hundred a year as interest, without deduction of the reële penning; for the fulfilment whereof I pledge as security all my non-exempt goods, submitting the same, together with my person, to the Court of Friesland and all courts. In witness whereof my usual signature and that of the Notary Romke Sylstra as witness. Done at Leeuwaarden 9 February 1747. was signed, this is Johannes [drawn merk] Bouwes' own affixed mark; R. Sylstra, Not. pub. merkae*
>
> Collated, agrees with the original Obligation.
> In witness of us the undersigned, done as above.
> (signed) A. Ypey (signed) F. W. van der Meer."
>
> The Obligation described below presented for registration on 13 June 1755 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon:
> "The Right Honourable Lord Samuel de Lannoy and Madam Anna Catarina van Doys, married couple at Leeuwaarden, declare hereby to be duly indebted to Jacobus Greidanus, residing at Rijperkerk, the sum of nine hundred and ninety-nine caroli guldens and nineteen strs fourteen penningen, on account of ready money advanced, received to our satisfaction before the passing hereof, wherefore we renounce the exception of money not counted, and undertake to repay that Capital of 999 £ 19 strs 19 penn. upon demand in good silver gds, without Provincial or other obligations passing for money, with the interest thereon at three Car. glds five strs per hundred a year, above the reële deduction, to run from the date hereof until full payment. But the creditor shall, in case of calling in the aforesaid Capital, be obliged to give us lawful notice three months beforehand to that end, as we likewise promise to do in case of repayment; thus under forfeiture of goods, with submission of the same, together with our persons, to the Court of Friesland and all courts: In witness our hands. Done at Leeuwaarden 19 February 1747. was signed: L. de Lannoy. A. C. de Lannoy born Dois. (Latin) in my presence: A. Wiarda with a stroke.
> Collated, agrees with the original Obligation. In witness of us the undersigned, done as before > (signed) A. Ypey. (signed) F. W. van der Meer."

In the Personeelcohieren (personal-tax registers) of Baarderadeel there appear from 1768 (the oldest cohier) up to and including 1772 at Mantgum: the children of Marten Teekes, whose curator is Mr. J. P. Greidanus (see below) c.s. for an amount of 400.—; as well as Mr. J. P. Greidanus himself for a capital of 600.—. In 1772 the first-mentioned entry is replaced by: Taeke Martens at Bolsward, and in 1774 M^{r}. J. P. Greidanus himself is raised to f 1000.—, at which amount he continues to be listed right up to the last cohier in 1794.

[1] Family name: Boomsma (later settled at Franeker).

Jacob Greidanus could still be traced in the following documents:

> 1^{o} a deed dated 23 April 1754 in the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Baarderadeel, according to which M^{r} Jacobus Greidanus and Sipke Feykes, both living under Mantgum, were appointed curators by virtue of the testamentary disposition dated 25 October 1752 of the late Anne Symons, recently deceased at Schillaard, over the minor children of Marten Teekes, with regard to the goods which they inherited from their late uncle Anne Sijmons,[1]
>
> 2^{o} the deed dated 2 May 1753, registered on 27 May 1755 in the 21st Hypotheecq Boek (mortgage register) of Tietjerksteradeel, in which Lady Anna Catharina van Doys, Dowager de Lannoy declares that she owes 5000 Car. guilders to Ds. Henricus Wilhelmus Couttis, minister of the Divine Word at Mantgum, and in which the following appears as witness: J. P. Greidanus;
>
> 3^{o} in the accounts of Ulbe Douwes, farmer under the village of Bozum, as administrator of the estate of the late Eibert Douwes at Schillaard, occurring in the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Baarderadeel, the following items of expenditure appear:
>
> "20 Dec. 1787 to M^{r} J. Gredanus at Mantgum for impost . . . . . 6—11— 4
>
> 30 Dec. 1789 M^{r} J. Greidanus at Mantgum for impost . . . . . 23—17— 2
>
> 26 Dec. 1790 M^{r} J. Greidanus at Mantgum for impost on a bull and a young pig 5—12— 8
>
> 10 Dec. 1791 to M^{r}. J. Greidanus for impost . . . . . 9—16— 4
>
> 28 Nov. 1792 to M^{r}. J. Greidanus at Mantgum for impost . . . . . 5—..—..
>
> 6 Dec. 1793 to M^{r}. J. Greidanus at Mantgum for impost . . . . . 9—16—14"
>
> 4^{o} the deed dated 12 July 1773 in the Collateraalboek (register of collateral inheritance duty) of Baarderadeel, in which Mr. J. Greijdanus is named as administrator of the legacy bequeathed by the late Ruird Jantjes, farmer at Mantgum, who died 16 April 1773, pursuant to his will of 29 July 1772, to Jantje Douwes, bachelor at Warrega, to the amount of 50 car. guilders, and to the children of Bokjen Douwes together to the amount of 250 car. guilders, as well as on account of the following legacies: Tjitske Foppes, married to Sytze Iakles at Hallum, to the amount of 150 car. guilders; Pijtter Foppes to the amount of 100 car. guilders and to Ietske Cornelis at Mantgum to the amount of 100 car. guilders.

Jacob Greidanus died at Mantgum 12 February 1796. This is found in the "Copy from the original register of members of the Dutch Reformed congregation of Mantgum etc., beginning with May 1772", kept by the minister, in which, in the "List of the Names of the Members who in the year 1778 were found in the congregation at Mantgum and Schillaard, when D^{os} N. Pluim was minister there", one finds:

> "N^{o} 41. Jacob Greidanus, died 12 Febr. 1796."

In the church register of Mantgum and Schillaard his signature still appears beneath the deaconry account closed on 1 January 1796.

Jacob Greidanus thus reached the great age of about 88 years; he was for more than 13 years overseer of the Provincial Peat and Firewood at Rijperkerk and for nearly 50 years Schoolmaster and Dorprechter (village judge) at Mantgum.

He is, with his 4 sons out of his 7 children, the progenitor of by far the most extensive branch of the family "Greydanus".

MARRIED:

AUKJEN SYBES (SIEBES, ZIJBES), 8 May 1746 at Rijperkerk, of which marriage the entry in the Reformed church register of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp reads as follows:

> "(1746) On 24 April the marriage banns of Jacob Greidanus with Aukjen Zijbes, both of Rijperkerk, were proclaimed for the first time at Ryperkerk: on 1 Majus at Hardegarijp for the second time; and on the 8th ditto at Rijperkerk for the third time; without any impediment: wherefore they were that afternoon joined in marriage there."

Aukjen Sybes was a daughter of Sijbe Jacobs and Dieuwke Harkes and was baptized 1 March 1722 in the village of Bergum, situated near Rijperkerk, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed baptismal, marriage and membership register 1705—1772 of Bergum, in which one also finds the marriage of Sibe Jacobs and Dieuwke Harkes, both of Bergum, on 10 May 1716.

> "1722
> On 1 March, Sybe Jacobs a child, Aukjen."

Sijbe Jacobs was in 1718 the occupier of the voting farm N° 12 at Bergum, of which [1] This deed agrees with the deed of 5 June 1754 in the Collateraalboek of Baarderadeel, in which Mr. J. Greidanus and Sipke Feikes at Mantgum and Schillaard act as curators over the children of Marten Teekes at Duirswolde and on behalf of Ymkjen Johannes, likewise at Schillaard, as heir by will of the late Anne Sijmons, married to Aaltje Everts, whose children by her first husband are her heirs. The estate amounted to 700 guilders.

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the family of AUKJEN SIJBES, the wife of the Mantgum Schoolmaster and Dorprechter (village judge) JACOB GREIDANUS, of which family a few members have adorned themselves with the surname "GREYDANUS". Belongs with page 318. - Sybe Jacobs — of Bergum. First at Bergum: meijer (tenant farmer) and "diacon" (deacon), before ± 1729. Later at Rijperkerk: meijer, after ± 1729. - ⚭ Dieuwke Harkes — of Bergum. M. Bergum 10 May 1716. Members at Bergum on confession of faith 22 Sept. 1726. - Jacob Sijbes - ⚭ Syke (Zyke) Dirks (Durks) — of Wanswerd. M. Rijperkerk 30 June 1754. † Hardegarijp. (Possibly dau. of Dirk Jans, church warden of Jeslum, and his 2nd wife Seyke Rienks). - Sijbe Jacobs Greidanus — bapt. Rijperkerk 11 May 1755, aged 4 weeks. Labourer at St. Anna Parochie. † St. Anna Parochie 20 Sept. 1823. - ⚭ I Lysbet Dirks Lep — † Sept./Oct. 1788. - Dirk Sijbes Greidanus — b. Vrouwen Parochie 17 June 1784. Bapt. Vrouwen Parochie 11 July 1784. - Zyke Sijbes Greidanus — b. Vrouwen Parochie 29 April 1786. Bapt. Vrouwen Parochie 28 May 1786. - Lysbet Sijbes Greidanus — b. Vrouwen Parochie 20 Sept. 1788. Bapt. St. Anna Parochie 19 Oct. 1788. M. 't Bildt 5 Oct. 1817. † St. Anna Parochie 31 May 1819. - ⚭ Pieter Berends Stroosma — Labourer at St. Anna Parochie - ⚭ II Dieuwke Pieters — m. St. Anna Parochie 26 April 1789. † St. Anna Parochie. - ⚭ III Trijntje Gerbens — b. Pietersbierum 21 Nov. 1756, dau. of Gerben Andries and Ettje Clases; widow first of Kornelis Jaspers and then of Andries Aukes. M. St. Anna Parochie 22 Aug. 1820. - Durk Jacobs — bapt. Rijperkerk 24 April 1757. - Janke Jacobs — bapt. Rijperkerk 24 April 1757. - Aukjen Sijbes — bapt. Bergum 1 March 1722. M. Rijperkerk 8 May 1746. - ⚭ Jacob Greidanus — bapt. Rijperkerk 6 April 1708. First at Rijperkerk Overseer of the Provincial Peat and Firewood, later Schoolmaster and Dorprechter at Mantgum. † Mantgum 12 February 1796. - Harke Sijbes — bapt. Bergum 8 May 1724. - ⚭ Trijntje Pieters - Sybe Harkes — bapt. Rijperkerk 20 May 1753. - Sieuke Harkes — bapt. Rijperkerk 21 Sept. 1755. - Dieuke Harkes — bapt. Rijperkerk 4 Febr. 1759. - Aaltje Harkes — bapt. Rijperkerk 13 Sept. 1761.

owner was the Grietman (district magistrate) Willem van Glinstra. According to the printed Stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of 1728 he was in that year meyer of the vote-bearing holding N° 50 at Bergum, belonging to the Grietman Arent van Haarsma, at Augustynsga, and on the stemcohier of 1718 he also appears as meyer of that holding.

The membership lists of Bergum show that the couple Sijbe Jacobs × Dieuwke Harkes lived under Noordermeer. The couple still appears on the membership lists of 22 February 1726 and of 1729. On this last list Sijbe Jacobs is mentioned as "Diacon". Apparently Sybe Jacobs and Dieuwke Harkes left Bergum for Rijperkerk soon afterwards, for behind their names is written "certificate to Rijperkerk".

In the Stemcohier of Rijperkerk of 1738 Sijbe Jacobs is recorded as user of the vote-bearing farm with dwelling N° 5, measuring 128 P.M., of which Mons. Rein Sipma Wed[e] was Owner [1]. In 1748 Sijbe Jacobs appears, besides as user of N° 5, also as user of N° 10, a farmstead of land with house and barn measuring 74 P.M., of which the Grietman Joan Vegelyn van Claerbergen was Owner. N° 10 remained in the family for a considerable time, for according to the cohier of 1758 Sybe Jacobs' Widow was then the user of it, while in 1768 Harke Sijbes is given as meyer of this holding, who was their son baptized at Bergum on 8 May 1724. As appears from his signature mentioned above on page 310, Sybe Jacobs was still alive on 6 March 1756.

From these data a certain prosperity of Sijbe Jacobs may seem to be inferred. Even though he himself may perhaps not have owned any land, he evidently had sufficient working capital to use ± 200 P.M. of land. The fact too that he does not appear as a debtor in the mortgage books may also serve as evidence. Nevertheless it seems doubtful whether the fortune of Jacob Greydanus was the result of the prosperity of his wife Aukjen Sijbes, since on the oldest Personeelcohier (personal tax register) of Tietjerksteradeel of 1768 neither the name of Sijbe Jacobs occurs, nor that of his widow or of anyone who might be regarded as his heir.

The date of death of Aukjen Sijbes is not known. In the membership list of Mantgum of 1778 mentioned on the preceding page she stands under Jacob Greidanus as "N° 42 Aukje Siebes, deceased". After the death of her husband she moved to Jorwerd, where her son Ymte (N° 67 of this genealogy) was schoolmaster. This appears from her proclaimed purchase, at a public auction, of a chamber at Jorwerd.

The public auction is announced as follows in an advertisement in the "Friesche Courant" of Saturday 29 July 1797 N° 90:

> "W. van Jelgerhuis, Secretary of Baarderadeel, will on Monday 7 August 1797, in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the house of Jelle Hettes innkeeper at Jorwerd, publicly present for Sale at the final knock-down:
> I. .....

> .....
> XII. A ditto (at Jorwerd) Chamber, inhabited by the Widow Greidanus. Bid 70 gold guilders 14 stuivers.
> The Conditions may meanwhile be seen at the Secretariat of Baarderadeel at Jorwerd."

The purchase was proclaimed on 18 September (2) 16 October 1797 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Baarderadeel P. 14, page 37, in which it is recorded: that by Aukjen Sijbes Widow of J. P. Greijdanus, residing at Jorwert, there was purchased a certain chamber with all that is fixed there by earth, band, wall, spikes and nails, standing in the so-called Klooster at Jorwert, being at present inhabited by the purchaser until 12 May 1797, acquired by purchase from W. van Jelgerhuis and Hendrik Collee as Church wardens of Jorwert for the sum of 99 carolus guilders 1 stuiver.

As the accompanying draft: fragment genealogy of the family of Aukjen Sijbes shows, some members of this family have adorned themselves with the surname "Greydanus". These persons are descended neither from a male nor from a female member of the family "Greydanus", but from a brother of Aukjen Sijbes, the wife of Jacob Greidanus. Of this brother, the son and the latter's descendants used the surname "Greydanus". These pseudo-Greidanuses are therefore not Greydanuses at all; they will be dealt with briefly below under the numbers: 35*a*, 35*b*, etc.

[1] This holding bore of old the name "Sipma-state" and was charged with only 4½ floreen.

CHILDREN:

1. Petrus Greidanus, who follows under number: 64.
2. Botje Greidanus, who follows under number: 65.
3. Siebe Greidanus, who follows under number: 66.
4. Ymte Greidanus, who follows under number: 67.
5. Johannes Greidanus, who follows under number: 68.
6. Dieuwke Greidanus, who follows under number: 69.
7. Antje Greidanus, who follows under number: 70.

PSEUDO-GREYDANUSES, DESCENDED FROM A BROTHER OF AUKJEN SIJBES, THE WIFE OF JACOB GREIDANUS, N° 35 OF THIS GENEALOGY

35ª SIJBE JACOBS (GREIDANUS)

He was a son of Aukjen Sijbes' brother Jacob Sijbes, who married on 30 June 1754 Syke /Zyke/Dirks/Durks/ of Wanswerd, and he apparently derived the surname "Greydanus" from his uncle by marriage Jacob Greidanus, the Mantgum schoolmaster and Dorprechter (village judge).

Sijbe Jacobs Greidanus was baptized at Rijperkerk 11 May 1755, aged 4 weeks, so that he first saw the light of day in the middle of April 1755. He lived first at Vrouwen-Parochie and later at St. Anna Parochie, where he was a workman, as appears from his death certificate. He died at St. Anna Parochie 20 September 1823.

MARRIED:

1° LYSBET DIRKS LEP, as appears from:

> the Reformed baptismal register of Vrouwen Parochie, in which occurs the baptismal entry of:
> Dirk, son of Sybe Jacobs and Lysbet Dirks Lep, on 11 July 1784 (born at Vrouwen Parochie 17 June 1784); > and Zyke, daughter of Sybe Jacobs and Lysbet Dirks Lep, on 28 May 1786 (born at Vrouwen Parochie 29 April 1786).
> the Reformed baptismal register of St. Anna Parochie, in which it is noted that on 19 October 1788 there was baptized: Lysbet, daughter of Sybe Jacobs and Lysbet Dirks Lep, with the note "having lived at Vrouwen Parochie before the death of the wife."

From this it seems to follow that Sijbe Jacobs (Greidanus) first lived at Vrouwen Parochie and that in 1788, when his wife Lysbet Dirks Lep had died at the birth of a little daughter, he exchanged that place for St. Anna Parochie.

2° DIEUWKE PIETERS, 26 April 1789 at St. Anna Parochie, at which marriage entry Sijbe Jacobs is still recorded without the surname "Greidanus"; this surname is first used at the marriage mentioned hereafter on 5 October 1817 of his daughter Lysbet, so that presumably Sijbe Jacobs first applied the surname "Greidanus" in 1812, when he had to adopt a surname.

3° TRIJNTJE GERBENS, 22 August 1820 in Het Bildt (at St. Anna Parochie), first widow of Kornelis Jaspers and afterwards of Andries Aukes.

In the Civil Registry of Het Bildt one finds concerning this the following marriage certificate dated 22 August 1820:

> "Sijbe Jacobs Greidanus, aged 65 years, workman, born at Rijperkerk in the Grietenij of Tietjerksteradeel, living at St. Anna Parochie, adult son of Jacob Sijbes, deceased at Rijperkerk, and Sijke Dirks, deceased at Hardegarijp according to certificate, widower of Dieuwke Pieters, deceased at St. Anna Parochie — and — Trijntje Gerbens, aged 63 years, workwoman, born at Pietersbierum in the Grietenij Barradeel, living at St. Anna Parochie, adult daughter of Gerben Andries and Ettje > Willems, both deceased at Pietersbierum according to deed, widow of Andries Aukes, deceased at Sint Anna Parochie (The deed was signed among others by) S. J. Grydanes."

Trijntie Gerbens was baptized at Pietersbierum in the Dutch Reformed congregation on 21 November 1756 as dau. of Gerben Andries, who at Pietersbierum on 2 Dec. 1753 had married Ettje Klazes, so that the name Ettje Willems given in the deed just mentioned of 22 August 1820 is probably not correct.

CHILDREN:

From the first marriage

1. Dirk Sijbes (Greidanus) who follows under number: 35[b].
2. Zijke Sijbes (Greidanus) who follows under number: 35[c].
3. Lysbet Sijbes (Greidanus), who follows under number: 35[d].

CHILDREN OF SIJBE JACOBS (GREIDANUS), N° 35[a] OF THIS GENEALOGY, AND LYSBET DIRKS LEP

35[b] DIRK SIJBES (GREIDANUS)

He was born at Vrouwen Parochie 17 June 1784 and baptized there in the Dutch Reformed congregation 11 July 1784.

Nothing could be found about him.

35[c] ZYKE SIJBES (GREIDANUS)

She was born at Vrouwen Parochie 29 April 1786 and baptized there in the Dutch Reformed congregation 28 May 1786.

Nothing could be found about her.

35[d] LYSBET SIJBES (GREIDANUS)

She was born 20 Sept. 1788 at Vrouwen Parochie and baptized in the Dutch Reformed congregation at St. Anna Parochie on 19 October following.

She died at St. Anna Parochie 31 May 1819 in childbed, concerning which in the police court archives of Het Bildt a report of 12 June 1819 is found, containing a complaint against a surgeon established at St. Anna Parochie, who had refused to give obstetrical aid to Lijsbet Sijbes Greidanus, the wife of Pieter Berends Stroosma, labourer at St. Anna Parochie, as a result of which that wife had died in childbirth on 31 May 1819 at 8 o'clock in the evening.

MARRIED:

PIETER BERENDS STROOSMA, 5 October 1817 in Het Bildt (at St. Anna Parochie).

Pieter Berends Stroosma was presumably a son of Berent Doekes (Stroosma) and Anna Lyske Jelles.

He was a labourer at St. Anna Parochie.

Children of Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9) and Geert Fransen

first marriage · 3 · 1[II]

36 MEINS GEERTS

Line of descent: Trijntie 9[I] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 15 March 1683 · d. before 24 April 1684 · daughter of Geert Fransen and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9)

Her baptismal entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker 1650—1687 reads as follows:

> "(Anno 1683)
> On the 15th ditto (March) > Geert Fransen, dopjes weaver, has a > child baptized named Meins"

She will have died before 24 April 1684, when Geert Fransen had another child, Meynske (N° 37 of this genealogy), baptized.

37 MEYNSKE (MEINSKJE, MEINSKJEN) GEERTS

Line of descent: Trijntie 9[I] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 24 April 1684 · daughter of Geert Fransen and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9) · m. Gerrit Jans, 1732

In the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker her baptism was entered as follows:

> "(1684) On the 24th of the same (April) > Geert Fransen has a child baptized > named Meynske."

On 10/12 December 1706 she was admitted, together with her mother Trijntie Benedictus, who was then married to her 2nd husband Nijs Adolphs, on confession of her faith by Ds. D. Saagmans as a member of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Franeker, as appears from the following entry in the register of members of that congregation kept by the minister:

"(1706) On 10/12 December there were admitted by D. Saagmans on confession of their faith
Trijntie Benedix, wife of Nys Adolphs
Meins Geerts, her daughter."

In the following membership lists in the said register of members she is entered immediately after her mother:

"Register of the Members of this congregation made after the visitation of the last preceding Communion of 16 June 1709.
On the Noordermolenstraat
Trijntje Nyssen [1]
Meinsk Geerts",

and:

"Membership list of 16 June 1720
In the Molensteeg
(Latin) died April 1729 Trijntje Benedictus
Meinsk Geerts, unmarried daughter."

After the death of her mother in April 1729 she continued to live in the Molensteeg at Franeker, as follows from the Franeker register of members:

"Register of the members of the Reformed congregation of this town of Franeker drawn up at the visitation made before the Holy Communion held on 24 September 1730:
. . . . . .
Grietje Wybes, wife } in the Molensteeg" attestation to Dongjum Meinskje Geerts }
on 30 April 1732"

According to the note placed there, she was granted attestation on 30 April 1732 to Dongjum, where just before that date she married Gerrit Jans, which marriage does not occur in the Reformed marriage register, on account of a gap therein for the years 1714 to 1751, but which marriage does however follow from the list of members of Dongjum, which runs fairly regularly from 1694 onwards and in which one finds entered under the date of 30 April 1732:

> "With attestation from Franequer > Meynskjen Geerts, wife (of Gerrit Jans) etc."

From the following entries in the Reformed register of members of Franeker it appears that the couple Gerrit Jans × Meinskje Geerts settled again at Franeker in 1738, namely in the Molensteeg, where Meinskje Geerts died in February 1761 — thus almost 77 years old:

> "Admitted with attestation 19 Sept. 1738 > Gerrit Jans and } married couple from Donjum in > Meinskjen Geerts } the Molensteeg",

and:

"List of 23 Sept. 1742
In the Molensteeg.
(Latin) died 1 July 1754 Gerrit Jans and (Latin) died Febr. 1761 Meynskjen Geerts."

[1] By which is meant: Trijntje Benedictus, wife of Nijs Adolphs.

MARRIED:

Gerrit Jans (as appears from the above) probably in April 1732 at Dongjum; he lived first there and later in the Molensteeg at Franeker, where he died 1 July 1754.

Gerrit Jans and Berber (probably his first wife) were admitted as members at Dongjum 6 May 1728.

38 ANTJE GEERTS

Line of descent: Trijntie 9[I] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 6 March 1688 · d. 4 January 1698 · daughter of Geert Fransen and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9)

Below follows her baptismal entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register 1688—1732 of Franeker:

> "(1688) On the 6th ditto (March) > Geert Fransen has a child > baptized named Antje."

She will have died young, because from the later marriage of Trijntje Benedictus with Nijs Adolphs an Antje was likewise baptized, namely on 4 January 1698 (N° 40 of this genealogy).

Children of Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9) and Nijs Adolphs (Snellert Or Snellius?)

second marriage · 3 · 1[II]

39 SIJTSKE NIJSSES

Line of descent: Trijntie 9[II] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 3 November 1695 · daughter of Nijs Adolphs and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9)

Her baptismal entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Franeker reads as follows:

> "(1695)
> On this date (the 3rd of November) Nijs Adolfs > has a child baptized named Sijtske."

Nothing could be found about her, other than that on 27 March 1728 a "Sijtske Nijsses" became a member of the Reformed Congregation at Franeker.

40 ANTJE NIJSSES

Line of descent: Trijntie 9[II] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 4 January 1698 · daughter of Nijs Adolphs and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9)

In the Reformed Baptismal Register of Franeker her baptism is entered as follows:

> "1698. On the 4th of January Nijs Adolfs > has a child baptized named Antje".

Probably she was still living in 1777 at Franeker, since, according to the Franeker Boelgoedboek (register of estate auctions), an Antie Nijsses bought a piece of cloth at an auction held 13 October 1777 in the Claar Campster Weeshuis for the account of Rense Nijsses, Binnenvader (resident warden) of that orphanage, probably deriving from his deceased wife Grietje Nijsses (see the following number of this genealogy), a sister of Antie Nijsses. At the back of this same Boelgoedboek the name Antie Nijsses is mentioned once more, as buyer of glassware at an auction of Prof. Cannegieter. In that case, however, Antie Nijsses must have reached a very great age.

41 GRIJTJE (GRIETJE) NIJSSES

Line of descent: Trijntie 9[II] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 26 November 1700 · daughter of Nijs Adolphs and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9) · m. Rense Nijsses Snellius, 1730

She was baptized at Franeker 26 November 1700, as appears from the following note in the Reformed Baptismal Register there:

> "1700. On the 26th of November Nys Adolfs has a > child baptized named Grijttje.
> on 28 October 1732 the baptismal certificate was taken out."

MARRIED:

RENSE (RINSE) NIJSSES SNELLIUS, 14 May 1730 at Franeker, according to the following record in the Reformed Marriage Register of that congregation:

> "1730
> On the 30th of April > Rinse Nijsten Snellius, Ferver (dyer) and Glazier
> and > Grijttje Nijstens unmarried woman, both at Franeker, > married here on the 14th of May."

His entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Franeker reads as follows:

> "(1708) On the 12th ditto (April) > Nijs Tjallings has a child baptized named Rinse."

He was a son of: Nijs (Dionisius) Tjallings Snellius, Burgher and Treckschipper (tow-barge skipper) from Franeker to Leeuwarden and vice versa, at Franeker, and Aaltje Rinses Jusma (see the diagram belonging to page 249 accompanying schema). This surname "Jusma" is mentioned in the marriage entry at Franeker of this couple dated 7 April 1701, when Nijs Tjallingii Snellius, as a student of theology, married Aaltje Rinses Jusma, both living near 't Noord. That Nijs Tjallings Snellius at first studied at Franeker is confirmed by the Academisch Album van Franeker, in which on 10 June 1693 Dionysius Snellius Fris. was entered as Ling. Stud.. On 12 June 1698 he became a member of the church at Franeker as a student, and he appears never to have completed his studies. That Nijs Tjallings Snellius was Burger (burgher) and Treckschipper (barge skipper) from Franeker to Leeuwarden, at Franeker, appears among other things from the following entries in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (mortgage register):

> "16 May 1716/2 June 1716/. Nijs Tjallings Snellius, Burger en Treckschipper at Franequer, owes 400 car.gl. to Attie Wopkes, widow of the late Edonius Broersma, in such debt as Goycke Gerrijts cum uxore at Franeker had to receive from me and which Goycke Gerrijts cum uxore in turn owed to Grijttie Jarigs, widow of the late Jacob Pieters, for her and in that capacity, pledging as security all his (no goods exempt) household goods and furniture included, especially his half trekschip in service cum annexis; ..... I, Goycke Gerrijts, burgher and trekschipper at Franeker, acknowledge and declare that I constitute myself true surety for the debtor."
>
> "6 February 1722 (7 February 1722). Aaltje Rinses, widow of the late Nijs Tjallings in his lifetime Treckschipper from Franequer to Leeuwaarden, for myself and as mother and lawful guardian of my children begotten in wedlock by my said late husband, heirs of the same, residing at Franequer, owes 35 car.gl. at 4% to Aucke Pieters, last widow of the late Haitse Heerres, and Harmen Tjommes, cloth merchants in the last-named town, as the remainder of a larger sum, arising from shop goods delivered during my late husband's life, received and enjoyed to our satisfaction."
>
> "11 May 1722 (12 May 1722). Aaltje Rinses, widow of the late Nijs Snellius, in his lifetime Treckschipper from Franequer to Leeuwarden et vice versa, for myself and on behalf of my four minor children begotten in wedlock by my said husband, owes 220 car.gl. at 4% to Albartus van der Ley, likewise Pr. Postulant at Franequer, for money advanced, as well as for earned fees and expenses; pledging therefor as mortgage and security: "all my non-exempt goods, shop and shop goods, generally and specially, my own and in the said capacity, two houses and garden cum annexis, standing and situated on 't Noord."

From these last two entries it may further be inferred that the wife of Nijs Tjallings Snellius kept a cloth shop at Franeker and after his death owned 2 houses there on 't Noord.

Rense Nijsses Snellius was at first master glazier and Schildenaar (painter) at Franeker, as appears for instance from the following entry in the Franeker Protocolboek (register of conveyances):

> "9 October 1737 (page 9). Doeittie Tomas Verhagen, adult unmarried daughter at Franequer, sells to Rinse Nijsses, master glazier and painter and Griettie Nijsses, married couple, likewise here, a certain house of mine cum annexis standing and situated here in the town, hitherto inhabited and used by myself and others, being charged with 14 stuivers in the general assessment as ground rent, belonging to the widow of the merchant Joucke Monses de Backer, having Hendrick Lieuwes to the east, with whom it has a common alley to the south; the Vroedsman (town councillor) Tyepke Hillema to the west, the merchant Sierck Hayes Haytsma to the south and the street and the canal to the north, for 300 cargl.". From the Franeker Hypotheekboek (R.R. 28) dated 9 Nov. /Oct. 1737/29 May 1747 (page 125) it appears that Rense Nijsses and Grijtje Nijssen remained indebted to Doetje Thomas Verhagen for the purchase price of 300 car.gl.

The house bought by Rense Nijsses according to the above entry stood in the Noordermolenstraat, for in 1757 this Rense Nijsses bought the adjoining property, and in that purchase, as may be seen from the following deed from the Franeker Protocolboek, its situation in the Noordermolenstraat is mentioned:

> "2 November 1757. Catharina Haselaar, widow of the late Burgomaster T. Hillema, residing at Harlingen, as heir ex Testamento of her said late husband and in that capacity, sells to Rinse Nijssen, master glazier at Franeker, a certain fine house cum annexis on the Noordermolenstraat, hitherto inhabited by three different families, charged with 1 cargl. 8 stuivers annual ground rent, having as naestleegers (adjoining neighbours) the buyer to the east, Hotse van der Meulen to the south; the Nauwe Steeg to the west and the street to the north, for the sum of 350 cargl. and 15 gls for the loose goods belonging to this house."

From the description: the Nauwe Steeg to the west and the street to the north, it may be inferred that in this case the Noordermolenstraat was situated in the eastern extension[1] of "de Greyde" at Franeker, and that the two houses of Rinse Nijssen on the Noordermolenstraat were: the corner house at the Nauwe Steeg and the property adjoining it.

Besides these two adjoining properties on the Noordermolenstraat, Rense Nijsses also bought at Franeker: in 1753 a house in the Noordermolensteeg for 83 ggl. and in 1769 a house together with a room near the Leeuwarder Pyp (stone bridge) for 160 ggl.. The relevant entries in the Franeker Protocolboek follow here:

[1] See also the note on the following page.

> "6 Dec. 1753 (page 222). Grietje Wijbis, widow of the late Abraham Pieters and Pietje Abrahams, wife of Freerk Wijngaarden, assisted by her said husband, all at Franeker, sell each for one half and thus together for the whole to Rinse Nijsses, Master Painter and Glazier with his wife at Franeker, a certain house of ours with rear yard and appurtenances in the Noordermoolensteeg, having the buyers to the North; Hans Wijtema to the West, the Mennonite poor to the South and the Molensteeg to the East, for the sum of 83 goldguilders."
>
> "14 July 1769. Taco Sloterdijk at Harlingen sells to Rense Nijsen, Master Dyer and Glazier, residing at Franeker, a certain house with appurtenances, together with a chamber, both standing within Franeker near the Leuwaarder Pijp, the one inhabited by Sybout Sijmons, the other by Leuwke Joekes, together for 23 guilders, having as adjoining neighbours the house inhabited by Hendrik Tjepkes to the East; Auke Lieuwes to the West, to the South this chamber and the street to the North, for the sum of 160 goldguilders."

In the deed of 6 Dec. 1753 it is stated that the parcel purchased in the Noordermoolensteeg /by which will be meant the Molen- or Molenaarssteeg, which must be sought on the other side of "de Greyde"[1] bordered on the north side on a property that was already in the possession of Renze Nijsses and his wife.

This house on the Molensteeg, already in his possession in 1753, must be the house of his father-in-law Nijs Adolphs, who purchased it in 1683 (see page 250) and left behind at his death in 1717, because the dwelling acquired in 1753 appears in the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of those years under N° 72, and in a similar cohier of 1718 the parcel standing in the name of Nijs Adolphs' Widow (pauper) is described as "Eerste Noord N° 73".

All this agrees with the registration of the parcel "Eerste Noord N° 73" in the later Franeker Reëelcohieren. For in the cohier of 1728, which is present in the Municipal Archive of Franeker, one still finds as owner "Nijs Adolphs Wede"; in the cohier of 1731, likewise kept in the Franeker Municipal Archive, — that is after the death in 1729 of Nijs Adolphs' Widow: Trijntie Benedictus —, the owner of the parcel is stated to be "Nijs Adolphs Weduwe Erven", which registration remains until the year 1758, while in the following cohier of 1761 Rense Nijsses is named as owner and Durk Pieters as user.

The parcel Eerste Noord N° 73 in the Molensteegh at Franeker, purchased in 1683 by Nijs Adolphs, thus passed into the ownership first of his widow, then of his children and finally of his daughter Grietje Nijsses, married to Renze Nijsses Snellius.

Renze Nijsses Snellius must have lived at Franeker in the Noorder Quartier, but in which of his houses in the Molensteeg or the Noordermolenstraat cannot be determined with certainty.

When he and his wife became members of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker on 26 September 1734, this was noted in the Members' Book as:

> "Admitted 26 Sept. 1734
> Renze Nijssen
> Grietje Nijssen } married couple on de Greyde".

In the list of members of 23 Sept. 1742 they are recorded as:

> "In the Molensteeg.
> Rense Nijssen
> Grietje Nijssen."

In the Register of families of the year 1744, concerning the offered capitals in connection with the abolition of the import duties, "Rinse Nissens" is mentioned with a household of 4 persons and an offer of 10 capitals under Franeker 1st Noord, and in a similar cohier of 1748, in which a levy was imposed on the inhabitants of Franeker in connection with the abolition of the leases, one finds "Rinse Nissens" Master Dyer and Glazier with an assessment of 27—3—., the household being given as 3 above 12 years and 1 below 12 years, likewise under the town quarter 1st Noord.

In 1760 Rense Nijsses Snellius and Grietje Nijsses were appointed as house-father and -mother of the Klaarkampster Weeshuis, an orphanage already founded at Franeker in 1597 by the Town Council and the two Boards of Poor- and Orphan-Guardians, named after the last convent stewards of the Cistercian abbey Klaarkamp near Rinsumageest, in chronological order respectively the former prior, Gerardus Agricola, and after him the former abbot, Gerardus Jacobi, who morally, through their love for the parentless child, and financially, through their rich donations, promoted and secured the rise of the orphanage.

[1] The "Molensteeg" or "Noordermolensteeg" was the alley which connected the Noordermolenstraat eastwards with the bulwark. Apparently the name Noordermolenstraat was gradually applied to both sides of the canal; the Greide too falls under this name; presumably the name Noordermolenstraat has passed into the present name het Noord (see also pages 15 and 40).

This appointment is mentioned in the recently published work by A. Hallema, "Het Klaarkampster Weeshuis te Franeker van 1597 tot 1897", in which on pages 107 and 108 the following is included concerning the Klaarkampster Weeshuis:

> "This appointment of an in-house father and mother clearly shows with how little ceremony those chosen were introduced to their duties. Only in the 19th century did that installation take place somewhat more solemnly: the guardians, by the mouth of the president, delivered a short address to the father and mother, pointed out to them their duties and rights, expressed the hope of a pleasant cooperation and finally presented them to the inmates, after which the day ended with a convivial "welcome party". In the 17th and 18th centuries, on the other hand, the appointee was merely summoned to the orphanage and "having appeared, gratefully accepted the same". Then followed, stereotypically, that he or she accepted and promised to conduct himself or herself in all things as befitted a good and faithful orphan father or mother, and with that the ceremony belonged to the past! Rather too sober for our feelings. The succession in this post during the 18th century further shows that elderly people were preferably considered for it, so that many functionaries died in the orphanage, old and full of days, or for that reason asked for discharge at an advanced age. To demonstrate this with a few examples, we recall how in 1702 Reiner Watzes and Tjeerdtje Tjeerds Wigersma were appointed orphan father and mother. The latter died in 1712 and in her place was then appointed Eeco, — elsewhere called Eke —, Clases, widow of Bocco Feddes, provisionally for one year, while the orphan father Reiner Watzes was also prolonged for one year. He died in 1720 and Eke shortly before that, so that now once again a married couple could be chosen and Tjerk Eeltjes and Maaike Martens enjoyed the honour of being appointed thereto "by plurality of votes and unanimously". In 1740 Maaike had already been dead some years and the then acting orphan mother Jeltje Simons died as well, so that Jetske Pieters was appointed provisionally for one year alongside the orphan father Tjerk Eeltjes. Jetske resigned in 1748 and Tjerk Eeltjes happened to die, so that the newly appointed, Taeke Foeckema and Hiltje Klazes, could take up their post provisionally for one year. In 1753 they had already been > replaced by Louw Alberts and Eke Douwes, of whom the latter went the way of all flesh in March 1759 and old Hotske Jans of Tzummarum filled the vacant place. Louw Alberts was maintained in his function, as we have already related above, and even received an increase of yearly salary, a unique case in the 18th century. But in 1760 they both thought it enough and gave a chance to Rentje, Rintje or Rense Nijssen and Grietje Nijssen, who held out until 1777, because in that year Grietje died and Rense then voluntarily asked for discharge. Those chosen in their place, Claas Joostes and Jaeike Rinnerts, "gratefully" accepted their post."

According to page 100 of the said book, the salary of in-house father and mother during the 17th and 18th centuries was almost stationary at f 50.— per person per year, with a gratuity occasionally raised to f 60.—.

In 1776 Rense Nijsses Snellius, together with his son Nijs Rinses Snellius and his son-in-law Thomas Claasen Wigersma (see the schedule mentioned above at page 249), bought a house on 't Noord at Franeker for 248 ggl.. In the Franeker proclamatieboek (register of property sales) one finds concerning this:

> "31 December 1776. Mayke Sipkes, wife of Epke van der Thuyn, merchant and Master Baker at Franeker, sells to Rense Nijsses, orphan father, Thomas Clases, merchant and Master Baker, and Nijs Renses, Master Painter and Glazier, all at Franeker, each for $^1/_3$, a certain house with appurtenances on 't Noord, inhabited by Sipke Tjebbes and associates as tenants, having H. ten Brug to the east, Claas Regnerus to the west, the boundary ditch to the north and the street to the south, for 248 ggl."

In the Franeker Reformed membership register one finds in a list of members of 1766 among others:

> "In the Klaarcampster Weeshuis and further across Godsacker > Renze Nijssen and > Grietje Nijssen."

According to the above-quoted passage from A. Hallema's book, Grietje Nijsses died in 1777, while her husband Rense Nijsses Snellius must have died about the year 1781, since he still appears in the Franeker Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of 1781, but in that of the following year "Rense Nijsses Erven" has taken his place.

Apparently the goods of Grietje Nijsses were sold at public auction on 13 October 1777 by Rense Nijsses Snellius, since, according to the Franeker auction register, on that date was held "Auction in the Claar Campster Weeshuis at Franeker for account of Rense Nijsses, binnenvader in the said Weeshuys". The names of the buyers that interest us are:

> Antie Nijsses, presumably Grietje Nijsses' sister, who bought a piece of cloth;
> Pieter de Groot W^z, who was married to Rense Nijsses' sister Feykjen Nijsses; he bought: 2 shirts, an apron, a jacket and 2 pointed caps;
> Nijs Renses, who was the eldest son of the couple: Rense Nijsses Snellius × Grietje Nijsses; he bought a cloth.

Concerning the estate of Rense Nijsses Snellius and Grietje Nijsses we are informed by the Boedelinventarissen (estate inventories) of Franeker, in which is found an > "Inventory dated 15 February 1782, drawn up at the request of Mr. Aggaeus Eidsma, Co-Governing Burgomaster of this City, and Nijs Snellius, Master Painter and Glazier at Franeker, in their capacity as authorized curators and administrators over the goods of Grietie, Claas, Claaske and Rense Thomas Wijgersma, children of Thomas Claases Wijgersma, Co-Vroedschap (town council member) of this City, begotten in marriage by his late first wife Aaltje Rinses, petitioners on the one side against the aforesaid Nijs Renses Snellius, respondent on the other side, of the goods, both movable and immovable, left behind by the late Rense Nijsses and Grijtie Nijsses, in their time spouses at Franeker, and the subsequent division and partition of the said estate in accordance with the testamentary disposition of the said Rense Nijsses cum uxore dated 24 April 1777, for the furtherance of which there has also appeared the said Vroetsman (town councillor) Thomas Claases Wijgersma, as father on behalf of his children.

> Firstly, according to the Testament, there is allotted to Nijs Snellius a house cum annexis, standing and situated within Franeker, inhabited and used by him; and secondly a house and coach-house cum annexis, standing and situated within Franeker in the Molenaarsteeg, inhabited and used by him and Heertie Jans.
> Against which, in accordance with the same testament, there is allotted to the petitioners in the aforesaid capacity a house and bakery cum annexis, standing and situated within Franeker on the Noord, inhabited and used by Vroedsman Thomas Claases Wijgersma; secondly a house cum annexis, standing and situated within Franeker in the Molenaarsteeg, inhabited by Sikke Aukes cum soc. as tenants.
> Further held in common: two dwellings consisting in one house, standing and situated within this City near the Leuwaarder Waaterpoort, being inhabited by Sijbout Sijmens cum soc.
> A provincial T. D. bond of 300 car.gl. (Res. of 23 February 1706, N^o 354), falling due on 3 March, the interest paid up to 3 March 1781.
> A bond, chargeable to Johannes Molenaar, merchant at Franeker, dated 10 September 1778, of 300 cargl. at 3%, the interest paid up to 10 September 1781.
> A note chargeable to Marcus Coopman at Franeker, dated 20 January 1780, of 50 cargl.
> In accordance with the aforesaid testament, Nijs Snellius owes the common estate a sum of 800 cargl. on account of the household goods and furnishings etc. received by him, but has to deduct from this, according to the same testament, on account of the goods thereof sold at the estate sale, the sum of 493 car.gl. 13 st. 8 pen., thus there remains 306—6—8.
> Nijs Snellius further debit to the common Estate, on account of monies advanced, 190 car.gl., but from this there must still be deducted, on account of goods sold privately, 45 car.gl., making f 451—6—8.
> Cash monies, in various coin, the sum of 543—4—10.
> Liabilities. The funeral and other debts, so far as known, amount according to a note thereof to the sum of 99—4—0.
> Nijs Snellius credit on account of board money of his late father the sum of 20 cargl."

The houses at Franeker named in this Inventory correspond with those which, according to the foregoing, belonged to the couple Rense Nijsses Snellius × Grietje Nijsses, namely 2 houses adjoining one another on the Noordermolenstraat, 2 houses adjoining one another on the Molen- or Molenaarssteeg and 2 dwellings near the Leeuwarder Brug or Waterpoort. Nijs Snellius and the joint children of his sister Aaltje Renzes Snellius, married to Thomas Claases Wijgersma, were each allotted a house on the Noordermolenstraat and one likewise on the Molensteeg, while the two dwellings at the Leeuwarder Waterpoort remained in common.

From the Inventory one might further infer that the couple Rense Nijsses Snellius × Grietje Nijsses was not without means.

It further deserves remark that, according to the foregoing, Rense Nijsses Snellius appeared with the surname Snellius only at his marriage registration at Franeker, but that both his father Nijs Tjallings and his son Nijs used that surname repeatedly.

CHILDREN:

1.	Trijntie Rensesdr. Snellius,	who follows under number: 71.
2.	Nijs Renses Snellius,	who follows under number: 72.
3.	Aaltje Rensesdr. Snellius,	who follows under number: 73.
4.	Adolph Renses Snellius,	who follows under number: 74.

---

42 BENEDICTUS (BENEDIX) (PSEUDO-) GREIDANUS (GREIJDANUS, GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Trijntie 9[II] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 6 March 1703 · d. Groningen, about June 1775 · son of Nijs Adolphs and Trijntie Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 9) · m. Pietertje Jacobs Westbroeck, 1729

His baptismal entry in the Franeker Reformed baptismal register reads as follows:

> "(1703) On the 6th of the same (March) Nijs Adolfs > child named Benedix."

The earliest occasion on which he could be traced is at his marriage registration at Groningen on 8 October 1729, where he appears from the outset with the surname "Greidanus"; after that he occurs exclusively under that name.

He must have derived the surname "Greidanus" from Benedictus Tyaerds, the father of his mother Trijntie Benedictus, thus from his maternal grandfather, which Benedictus Tyaerds was a stepbrother of Prof. Johannes Greydanus. Since it was not his father Nijs Adolphs, but his mother Trijntie Benedictus who was actually a "Greidanus", he must be designated a "pseudo"-Greidanus.

In Chapter III (see page 36 and following) precisely the bearing of the surname "Greidanus" has been regarded as one of the indications that the Benedictus Tyaerds just mentioned was indeed a stepbrother of Prof. Greydanus, for which direct proof could not be adduced.

Benedictus Greydanus is first found at Groningen as a bookseller in a deed dated 1 May 1752 (Judicial Archives of the city of Groningen, Inventory N° III x 140 fol. 112^{verso}, in the State Archives at Groningen), in which the "bookseller Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertje Wesbroek, married couple, heirs and holding the right of the co-heirs of Pieter Pieters Westbroek" cede the still outstanding remainder of 800 car.gld. of the purchase sum of a house. There he was, besides bookseller, also a book printer. The following booklets and short writings printed by him are known to me:

> "Verzameling van geestelyke gezangen vertoonende den vorst des levens in zyne geboorte, lyden en heerlykheit; en hen die met Hem zyn, de uitverkorenen, geroepenen, geloovigen, werkzaam in liefde, lof en dankbaarheit tot zaligheit. Derde druk. Groningen, B. Greydanus, 1758". 12°.
>
> A copy of this booklet appeared in the sale catalogue of Fred. Muller & C° at Amsterdam: Nederlandsche letterkunde c. 1895 N° 1425. The booklet was sold and it is unknown in whose possession it now is.
>
> "Lyk-klagten ter gedachtenisse van den Wel-Eerwaarden zeer Geleerden en Godtvrugtigen Heere den Heere Albertus Alberthoma, in leven Bedienaar des H. Euangeliums in de Gemeente van Groningen. Te Groningen, by Benedictus Greydanus, Drukker en Boekverkoper in de Oude Kyk-in 't Jat-straat, 1758". 4°.
>
> Of this little volume of 17 pages containing "lyk-klagten" a copy is in my possession. A reproduction of the title page of the volume is added alongside.
>
> "Bedenkingen over de verbeteringe van de rympsalmen. Te Groningen, by Benedictus Greydanus, Drukker en boekverkoper in den Kyk-in't-Jatstraat in den Zaad-zaijer 1762". small 8°.
>
> A copy of this booklet was at one time present in the Collection of Mr. J. W. Enschedé at Amsterdam. Where it went after the death of Mr. Enschedé is unknown to me; it did not occur among the books sold from the estate of Mr. Enschedé by Van Stockum's Antiquariaat (J. B. J. Kerling) at 's-Gravenhage.
>
> The two short writings referred to in the following advertisement, included in the "Leeuwarder Saturdagsche Courant" N° 868 of 11 March 1769:
> "At Groningen, printed by B. Greydanus and obtainable at Leeuwarden from G. Tresling: Brief aan een Richter in de Ommelanden. In Octavo, price 7 stuivers.
> Also obtainable from the above-mentioned: Brief van H. Tideman, Med. Doctor aan de Wel-Eerwaarde Heer N. Havinga, Predikant te Hellum, Beantwoordende het verzoek, wat men best doen zoude, tot verhoedinge en verzagtinge van de ziekte van t Rund-Vee, en voor derzelver Galziekten: Met aanwyzinge van Middelen, daar toe nuttig, welke voor een matige prys te bekomen zyn. Waar by koomt een Byvoegsel van de noodzakelykheid van 't gebruik der Rhabarber in de Galziekte. In 8vo, price 4 stuiv."

From the booklets mentioned in the 2nd and 3rd place it appears that the printer and bookseller Benedictus Greydanus lived in the Kyk-in't-Jatstraat, and that his bookshop there apparently had a signboard or bore the inscription: "In den Zaad-zaijer".

The house in the Kyk-in't-Jatstraat was purchased on 3 September 1761 by Benedictus Greydanus and his wife Pietertjen Jacobs Westbroek for 1000 car.gl. from Miss Geertruida Dinkgreve, widow of the late pastor W. Hoffman, and Miss Anna Fabritius, widow of the late Dr. J. Dinkgreve, on the strength of the deed below, Judicial Archives Groningen, Inventory N^{o} III x 148 fol. 212 (State Archives Groningen):

LYK-KLAGTEN

TER GEDACHTENISSE

VAN DEN WEL-EERWAARDEN ZEER GELEERDEN
EN GODTVRUGTIGEN HEERE

DEN HEERE

ALBERTUS ALBERTHOMA,

In leven Bedienaar des H. Euangeliums in de Gemeente van GRONINGEN,

Ontslapen den 11. May, des ugtens ontrent 9. uur:

in de Ouderdom van 70. Jaaren en ruim 4 Maanden.

Te GRONINGEN,

By BENEDICTUS GREYDANUS, Drukker en Boekverkoper in de Oude Kyk-in't Jat-Straat, 1758.

328

1764 on 29 October the original of this was shown here with receipts on the back marking payment, reading as follows:
on this capital written within five hundred guilders paid.
Groningen 1 November 1761.
J. Dinkgreve widow Hoffman.
The remaining capital written within is 500 gl. with the rents thereof up to 1 May 1763 amounting to ten guilders, has been fully paid and settled to us by Monsieur B. Greidanus and wife, for which reason we hereby absolutely discharge him and place him in full ownership and possession of the house mentioned within, Gron. 20 May 1763.
(below stood)
A. Fabritius widow Dinkgreve.
G. Dinkgreve widow Hoffman agrees with the original.
"To the same effect, that there personally appeared before us the lady Geertruida Dinkgreve, widow of the late pastor W. Hoffman, together with the lady Anna Fabritius, widow of the late Dr. J. Dinkgreve, as lawful guardian of her children, authorized hereto pursuant to the council's apostil of 5 August 1761, seen and read by us, who declared for themselves and their heirs to have sold to the honourable Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertjen Jacobs Westbroek, spouses / who likewise appeared and accepted this/, a dwelling standing and situated on the east side of the Kijk in 't Jatstraat, on free own ground, as at present inhabited by the tailor Mulder, having as nearest neighbours to the north and east the sellers, to the south Dr. Eijssonius and to the west the said street. Further with the rights and entitlements, servitudes, charges and burdens thereof, in every respect as can be defended with old deeds, and in the same manner as the sellers' deceased father Dr. H. G. Dinckgreven possessed it, to be taken over on 1 November 1761, provided that the tenants shall continue in their lease as long as they have a right thereto, and the rent shall run from the day of taking over to the profit of the buyers. Thus sold for the sum of one thousand car.gl., of which upon taking over on 1 November 1761 five hundred guilders shall be paid and the remaining purchase money of five hundred gld. shall remain standing on the property sold, of which the buyers promise to pay annually four like guilders rent for every hundred in place of interest, the first falling due on 1 November 1763 and so on annually, provided that the same shall each year, upon notice given half a year before 1 November, be free and redeemable, but nevertheless that the property sold shall remain the sellers' own and unalienated property until the said purchase money and promised rents shall have been paid, the sellers binding themselves for the free delivery of the property sold and the buyers for the promised purchase money and rents, as security, each jointly and severally, all their present and future goods, none excepted, under submission to all high and low courts and jurisdictions, together with immediate real execution, with renunciation of the exceptions ordinis divisionis et discuss., and moreover the appearing women renouncing the female benefits S.C.i vell.[1] et auth. si qua mulier, to the effect that a woman cannot bind herself for another nor a married woman for her husband. The costs falling due hereon, both the provincial contingent and otherwise, shall be borne half and half by both sides. Without fraud or deceit, etc., 3 September 1761, then to the same effect see fol. 85."

The description and situation of the printing house and bookshop of Benedictus Greydanus appears further from an agreement to be mentioned hereafter, dated 12 October 1775, concluded between his widow and his children concerning his estate. In this agreement there is mention of the "dwelling to the east in the Kijk in 't Jatstraat with the printing house and its appurtenances, shop and materials, standing opposite the Visschersstraat". The Oude Kijk in 't Jatstraat is meant.

Benedictus Greydanus and his wife Pietertje Westbroek had the following will drawn up before the Groningen Magistrate on 19 July 1774, which is to be found in the State Archives at Groningen: Judicial Archives, Groningen, Inventory N° III ij 61:

> "We burgomasters and council in Groningen testify herewith on a sealed deed, that there personally appeared before us Monsieur Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertje Westbroek, spouses, living in Groningen, both walking and standing and in full possession of their understanding and memory, who acknowledged and declared that, out of consideration of the certainty of death and its uncertain hour and time, they would not willingly depart from this world before having made the following voluntary testamentary disposition concerning their temporal goods to be left behind. First of all commending their precious souls into the merciful hands of God for the merits of Jesus Christ, and their bodies to the earth for honourable burial, further proceeding to the disposition of their temporal goods to be left behind, thus the testator and testatrix will and desire that after the death of the longest living, their son Denijs Greidanus shall retain upon division the house in the Oude Kijk int Jatstraat, inhabited by the testators themselves, with the printing house and its appurtenances, shop and materials, with all that belongs thereto, for the sum of f 2000 car. gld., and must bring those moneys into the estate in order then to divide the whole estate equally with his sister Trijntje Greidanus, wife of Hindrik Klinkhamer, without distinction of sexes, the testators willing and desiring that in case their aforesaid daughter or her husband should oppose this disposition, the equality of division shall then not take place, but the son shall take with two hands according to the law. With which concluding this their last will, they will and desire that the same shall be held as a testament, codicil, donatio mortis causa or otherwise, such as may and can stand according to the best and most favourable laws, for such was their deliberate pleasure. Without deceit, etc. etc.
> Thus declared before me in Groningen, 19 July 1774.
> (signed) P. Alstorphius."

[1] See the explanation of this legal term given on page 47: "benefitium Senatus Consulti velleiani".

After the drawing up of this will, Benedictus Greydanus seems to have kept on his bookshop, which after his death passed to his only surviving son Nijs Greydanus, but to have sold his printing works. This may be inferred from the following agreement d.d. 12 October 1775 [1] between his Widow and his surviving children, and from the division of the estate given below d.d. 15 March 1776 [2] concerning the estate of the couple Benedictus Greydanus × Pietertje Jacobs Westbroek.

> "We burgomasters and council in Groningen etc., that there personally appeared and came before us, mistress Pietertje Jacobs Westerbroek, widow of the late Benedictus Greijdanus, together with her daughter Trijntje Greijdanus and her husband master Hindrik Klinkhamer, schoolmaster at Leermens, who acknowledged and declared how that by the first appearer, together with her aforesaid late husband, on the date 19 July 1774 a testamentary disposition (concerning her dwelling house on the east side in the Kijk in 't Jatstraat with the printing works and its appurtenances, shop and materials, standing opposite the Visscherstraat) had been made in favour of the first appearer's son, and the second appearer's brother Denijs Greijdanus, and had been confirmed with the town seal, so that after the decease of both parents he might take the same out of the estate for the sum of two thousand guilders. But since the printing works with its appurtenances had been sold by the late father during his lifetime to a third party, and the will thus being to that extent set aside, the first appearers, together with her daughter and her husband, declared that they leave the aforesaid will with regard to the house in full force and value, that the same aforesaid house with appurtenances, after the death of the mother, shall be allotted to Denijs Greijdanus for the sum of one thousand car. guilders, which he shall then have to bring into the estate, so as to be divided, with the remaining goods of the estate, such as may then be found, between him and his sister or her children, should there be any, into two equal portions; to which end the appearers, for greater security, came to grant him from now on the use of this dwelling house, provided that he satisfy the mother therefor during her lifetime. And there also appeared before us Denijs Greijdanus, declaring that he accepts the aforesaid conditions, to which end the said will shall herewith be preserved and be held as ratified, with which agreement both contracting parties are fully content and satisfied. All without fraud or guile etc., the 12 October 1775, doe ad idem. vide fol. 2."
>
> "Ad idem, that there personally appeared d'Nijs Greidanus and Trientje Greidanus, assisted by her husband Hindrik Klinkhamer, who declared that, after a statement and inventory of their parental estate had been drawn up, they had amicably made a division and partition among themselves, in such manner that to the first appearer there fell by allotment a house in the Kijk in 't Jatstraat, such as was inhabited by the appearers' parents during their lifetime, for the sum of one thousand guilders; 2nd the bookshop, after valuation to the satisfaction of both parties, for nine hundred and eighty-one guilders; 3rd a room behind the rampart near the Papenpoortje [3] for ninety-four guilders, with the rent fallen due at May 1776, to the sum of four guilders & four stuivers; in cash two thousand five hundred and nine guilders & thirteen stuivers, amounting together to a sum of four thousand six hundred and thirty-eight guilders and seventeen stuivers, thus 4638=17=. [4] To the second appearer 1st a verzegeling (sealed mortgage bond) on a voerwerk (carrier's yard) in the Slemenderstraat to the sum of two thousand and fifty guilders, with one year's rent in place of interest at May 1776 to the sum of sixty-one guilders and 10 stuivers; 2nd a house in the Visscherstraat to the sum of five hundred and fifteen guilders, with the rent at May 1776, to the sum of forty guilders; 3rd a sealed remaining purchase money on the house of Hindrik Arents and his wife in the Slemendersstraat, to the sum of five hundred guilders, with the year's rent at May 1776 to the sum of twenty guilders, and in cash fourteen hundred and fifty-two guilders and 7 stuivers, together thus a sum of four thousand six hundred and thirty-eight guilders 17 stuivers; with which division both appearers being on both sides content and satisfied, they place one another in the undisturbed and actual possession and ownership of what has been allotted, without reserving anything thereupon. Further the appearers declared that they had divided and settled the movables among themselves, and they promise that if, contrary to expectation, any debts on the parental estate should come to light, and likewise if any further profitable assets should be discovered, they shall bear the same jointly, both loss and gain, equally, to which they bind themselves on both sides as by law. Without fraud or guile etc., the 15 March 1776, doe ad idem vide fol. 11 verso."

From the foregoing it follows that Benedictus Greydanus was a bookseller at Groningen from 1752 until his death in 1775, and at the same time a printer until about 1774.

In the 2nd edition of J. Oomkens Jz. "Bouwstoffen tot eene geschiedenis van de boekkunst en den boekhandel in de stad en provincie Groningen", published in 1864 by the booksellers' College at Groningen, it is stated that Benedictus Greydanus was a bookseller and printer at Groningen from 1743—1753, that he lived in the Oude Kijk in 't Jatstraat in the Zaadzaaijer 1743, and that he was not a member of the booksellers' College at Groningen.

In the works of A. M. Ledeboer: "De boekdrukkers, boekverkopers en uitgevers in N. Nederland. Deventer. A. ter Gunne 1872 (see there p. 184), "Alfabetische lijst der boekverkoopers en uitgevers in Noord-Nederland sedert de uitvinding van de boekdrukkunst tot den aanvang der negentiende eeuw. Utrecht, J. L. Beijers 1876 (see there p. 66)" and "Chronologisch Register" belonging to the list mentioned above. Utrecht. J. L. Beijers 1877 (see there p. 50), one finds that Benedictus Greydanus was a bookseller and book printer at Groningen from 1743—1758, and that he lived in the Oude Kijk in 't Jatstraat in a house with the signboard "In de Zaad-zaaijer 1743".

[1] See Rijksarchief Groningen: Rechterlijke Archieven Groningen, Inventory N° III x 170 fol. 105.

[2] See Rijksarchief Groningen: Rechterlijke Archieven Groningen, Inventory N° III x 171 fol 32^{v}.

[3] This room "standing to the north against the town rampart, between the Driemolen drift and the Jonkerenstraat", was sold 23 March 1756 by the "merchant Hindrik van Lingen, warranting ratification for his co-constituents, together wardens over the Roman Catholic poor" at Groningen, to Benedictus Greijdanus for "ninety-four guilders."

[4] The specified sums added together give 50 guilders too little, so that the cash probably amounted to two thousand five hundred and fifty-nine guilders & thirteen stuivers.

The statements in Oomkens and Ledeboer concerning the year 1753 and 1758, up to which Benedictus Greydanus is supposed to have been active as a bookseller and printer, are therefore incorrect. The year 1743 given as the year in which Benedictus Greydanus is supposed to have begun as a bookseller and printer, is presumably derived from the signboard with the inscription "In den Zaad-zaijer 1743". If we assume, which seems probable, that Benedictus Greydanus did indeed become a bookseller and printer at Groningen in 1743, then it is still unknown what he was at Groningen between 1729, when he married there, and 1743.

According to the baptismal entries of his children in the Reformed baptismal register at Groningen, Benedictus Greydanus lived there: in 1730 in the Pelserstraat, in 1732 in the Reitemakersrijge, in 1734 on the Zuiderdiep and already on 1 March 1739 in the Oude Kijk in 't Jatstraat, where on 3 September 1761 he bought the house on the east side opposite the Visschersstraat. In June 1751 he became a member of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Groningen.

He does not seem to have been without means, since he had a bookshop and printing house of his own, valued at f 2000.—, and together with his wife left 9 to 10 thousand gulden.

Evidently Benedictus Greydanus bought and sold real property at Groningen fairly often. This is drawn from the Judicial Archives of Groningen at the State Archives at Groningen, in which, besides those already given, the following deeds have been found:

> 12 February 1754 (Inventory N° III x 140 fol. 112^{verso}), by which Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertjen Westbroeks buy for two hundred and twenty car. gulden from Jan Jans Huisjemaaker and Cornellisjen Jacobs, married couple, a "chamber, standing on the north side of the Zuiderdiep between the School and Munnekeholm bridges", having "as nearest boundaries on the north the Torenstraat, on the east Roelef Vorenkamp, on the south the quay of the canal and on the west the sellers";
>
> 26 April 1754 (Inventory N° III x 140, fol. 226), by which Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertje Westbroek buy for 531 gulden from Lolle Seijlinga and Hindriktjen Jans, married couple, a "dwelling, standing and situated on the east side of the Martinikerkhof, on free own ground, having as nearest boundaries on the north and on the south the merchant A. Maathuis, on the east the street Agter de Muire and on the west the churchyard, with a well and a rainwater tank and a free exit behind the wall";
>
> 22 October 1762 (Inventory N° III x 149 fol. 212^{verso}), by which Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertjen Jacobs Westbroek sell for 350 car. gulden to Albert Christiaans and Albertijn Alberts, married couple, the chamber on the Zuiderdiep bought by the said deed of 12 February 1754, now having "as nearest boundaries on the north the Toornstraat, on the east the widow Voornkamp's, on the south the Zuiderdiep and on the west Willem van den Bosch";
>
> 30 October 1762 (Inventory N° III x 149 fol. 226), by which Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertje Westbroek sell for 537 car. gulden and 10 stuivers to Pieters Bransma and Swaantje Geerts, married couple, the house "on the east side of the Martinikerkhof" bought by the deed mentioned of 26 April 1754.

Benedictus Greydanus died at Groningen at the age of 72 years, about June 1775, which may be inferred from the following entry in the Register of bodies buried after half past eleven at Groningen:

> "7 June 1775
> Benedictus Greidanus husband of Pietertjen Westbroek
> O. Jatstraat."

In this register the names were entered some days after the burial.

MARRIED:

PIETERTJE /PIETERTJEN, PIETERTIEN, PIETERTIJN, PETERTJE// JACOBS WESTBROECK[1], 27 October 1729 at Groningen, daughter of Jacob Pieters Westbroek and Hilligjen Jans Tooren.

The entry of this marriage in the Groningen Register of proclamations and marriages reads as follows:

[1] This surname "Westbroek" is found corrupted in all kinds of ways.

Draft: Fragment-Genealogy of the WESTBROECK family, originating from UTRECHT. Belongs with page 331. - Pieter or Peter Westbroeck — at Utrecht. - Jan Peters Westbroeck — b. Utrecht. Solliciteur (military agent) and Grootschipper (master mariner) at Groningen. Acquires 16 Dec. 1706 the Great and Small Burghership of Groningen. In 1711 Olderman (guild master) of the Grootschippers' guild at Groningen. m. Groningen 17 October 1706. † before 28 Dec. 1715. - ⚭ I Catharina Gesina Schadinck — (Schainck, Schaanck) of Groningen, dau. of Captain Schadinck. - Anna Jans Westbroeck — bapt. Groningen 8 January 1708. -

Peter Jan Jans Westbroeck — bapt. Groningen 1 January 1711. - ⚭ II Tiaart Bolt — of Bierum. Solliciteur. Marriage banns Groningen 28 Dec. 1715. m. at Aduard (Groningen). - Jacob Pieters (Peters) Westbroeck — b. Utrecht. Grootschipper at Groningen. In 1711 "olste heuveling" (senior warden) of the Grootschippers' guild at Groningen. † before 27 October 1729. - ⚭ Hillichjen Jans Tooren — dau. of Jan Engelberts Tooren and Geesjen Jans. m. Groningen 29 Febr. 1700. - Peter Jacobs Westbroeck — bapt. Groningen 10 Augs. 1702. - Petertje (Pietertje) Jacobs Westbroeck — bapt. Groningen 19 September 1706. m. Groningen 27 October 1729. † Groningen December 1775. - ⚭ Benedictus Greydanus — bapt. Franeker 6 March 1703, son of Nijs Adolphs and Trijntje Benedictus (Greydanus). Bookseller and printer "In de Zaadzaayer 1743" at Groningen. † Groningen June 1775. - Geesjen Jacobs Westbroeck — bapt. Groningen 18 March 1711. Still living 17 April 1777, presumably at Groningen. - Marrichjen Jacobs Westbroeck — bapt. Groningen 19 March 1713. - Jan Jacobs Westbroeck — bapt. Groningen 8 Sept. 1714. - Evert Jacobs Westbroeck - Jacob Everts Westbroeck - ⚭ Saartje Jacobs - Pieter Pieters Westbroeck — 27 October 1729 witness at the marriage at Groningen of Benedictus Greydanus with Petertje Jacobs Westbroeck. † before 1 May 1752, when among others the "bookseller Benedictus Greidanus and Pietertje Wesbroek, married couple" were among his heirs (see page 327).

> "Saturday 8 October 1729
> Benedictus Greidanus of Franeker, present, and Pietertjen Jacobs Westbroek of Groningen, for whom Pieter Pieters Westbroek as uncle.
> On 27 October 1729 by Ds. Albarthoma N.K."[1]

In the register of baptisms kept by the Dutch Reformed congregation at Groningen her baptism was entered as follows:

> "Sunday 19 September 1706. A. K.[2]
> Petertje, dau. of Jacob Peters and Hillege Jans bij der A.

The surname of the mother — Hilligjen Jans — of Pietertje Jacobs Westbroeck was "Tooren", as appears from her marriage entry at Groningen:

> "Saturday 10 February 1700.
> Jacob Piters of Uitrecht, present, and Hilligjen Jansen of Gron., > for whom Jan Engelberts Tooren as father.
> Married by Dn^{s} Abbringh on 29 February 1700. A. K."[2]

Jacob Pieters Westbroeck, who was thus born at Utrecht, practised at Groningen the trade of grootschipper (master mariner). This has been brought to light from the Gildeboek (guild book) of the grootschippers of Groningen, in which one finds:

> "1700. On 19 February Jacob Pieters joined the guild > and paid . . . . . 7—10—.
> On 9 June Jan Pieters, brother, joined the guild
> and paid . . . . . 7—10—."

By "Jan Pieters, brother" will be meant the brother of Jacob Pieters, thus of Jacob Pieters Westbroeck, which agrees with the entry in the register of the burgher-right of the city of Groningen (Reg. Feith ms. in folio N^{o} 194, present in the Municipal Archives at Groningen):

> "On 16 December 1706 Jan Peters Westbroek, born at Uitrecht, was granted the great and small burgher-right."

In the said guild book one still finds the following:

> "1710 (When) the honourable Fredrik Hindriks Bult was Olderman (guild master), the honourable Jan Pieters senior, and the honourable Jacob Pieters Westbroeck junior heuvelingen (guild assessors), the following joined the guild:
> . . . . . .
> . . . . . } here follow the names of those who under their > . . . . . } administration acquired membership of the guild."

and:

> "1711 (When) the honourable Jan Pieters was Olderman and the (honourable) Jacob Pieters Westbroeck senior and the honourable Schelte Albers junior heuvelingen, these same following persons joined the guild:
> . . . . . .
> . . . . . .
> . . . . . } as above."

Jacob Pieters Westbroeck, the father of Pietertje Jacobs Westbroeck, was thus in 1710 "junior" and in 1711 "senior heuveling" of the grootschippers' guild at Groningen.

Pietertje Jacobs Westbroeck became in September 1749, as "Pietertje Westbroek in O. Jadstraat", a member of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Groningen and died there about December 1775, as appears from the following entry in the register of the corpses buried after half past eleven at Groningen:

> "8 December 1775.
> Pietertijn Westerwijk widow of Benedictus Greidanus > O. Jat. str.",

in which register the names were recorded some days after the burial.

Pietertje Jacobs Westbroeck thus reached the age of 69 years.

A draft fragment-genealogy of this Westbroeck family is also appended herewith.

[1] This means Nieuwe Kerk, also called Noorder Kerk.

[2] This means the Kerk bij der A.

CHILDREN: 1. Matthies Greidanus, who follows under number: 75. 2. Trijntje Greidanus, who follows under number: 76. 3. Pietertjen Greidanus, who follows under number: 77. 4. Nijsz Greidanus, who follows under number: 78. 5. Hillegien Greidanus, who follows under number: 79. 6. Nijs Greidanus, who follows under number: 80.

Children of Tiaard Benedictus (Tierd Bindixt) (N° 10) and Lysbet Cornelis

3 · 1[II]

43 TRIJNTJE TJEERDS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Tiaard 10 ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Franeker, 15 November 1688 · daughter of Tiaard Benedictus (N° 10) and Lysbet Cornelis

Her baptismal entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Franeker reads as follows:

> "(1688). The 15th of the same (November)
> Tjeerd Bindixt has a child baptized,
> named Trijntje."

Nothing further could be found about her, so she probably died at a young age.

44 CORNELIS TJEERDS (TJEERTS) GREIDANUS, GORDANUS/

Line of descent: Tiaard 10 ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

b. Leeuwarden, 17 November 1689 · son of Tiaard Benedictus (N° 10) and Lysbet Cornelis · m. Geijske Jelles, 1716

In the Dutch Reformed Baptismal Register at Leeuwarden his baptismal entry appears as follows:

> "(Baptized:) The 17th of the same (November 1689)
> Cornelis a son of > Tierd Benedictus."

Cornelis Tjeerds was "soldier in the guards" at Leeuwarden. This is based on the entry at Leeuwarden of both his marriages and on a deed in the Klein-consentboek (minor consents register) of that town.

In the entry of his first marriage on 14 Meij 1716 with Geijske Jelles he is called "soldier in the company of major Meyers", in that of his second marriage on 15 August 1734 with Wickjen Cornelis "Soldier in the guards", and in the deed to be mentioned hereafter, dated 29 June 1736, in the Klein-consentboek "soldier in the guards of His Princely Highness the Lord Prince of Orange and Nassau etc. etc. etc."

Cornelis Tjeerds initially lived at Leeuwarden on "de Nieuwe Buiren". This appears from two burial entries at Leeuwarden "Oldehoof and Galilaeer Church". The one burial entry, dated 9 January 1733, concerns a child and the other, dated 10 February 1734, the first wife of Cornelis Tjeerds. In the burial entry of his child, Cornelis Tjeerds is recorded with the surname "Gordanus", which is a fairly frequent miswriting of the name "Greidanus". With the surname "Greidanus" he appears in the death certificate dated 3 June 1819 of his son Taeke Greidanus, in which certificate it is indeed stated that Tæke Greidanus was a "son of Cornelis Greidanus and Wikje (the family name of the mother being unknown)".

The two burial entries referred to read as follows:

> "Oldehoof and Galilaeer Church
> (Buried on) 9 the same (January 1733)
> A child of Cornelis Gordanus on de Nieuwe Buiren."

and:

> "(Buried on) 10 the same (February 1734)
> Oldehoof and Galilaeer Church
> The wife of Cornelis Tjeerts on de Nieuwe-Buiren."

According to the following entry dated 29 June 1736 in the Leeuwarden Klein-consentboek, Cornelis Tjeerds and Wickjen Cornelis bought a "house site" at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof there:

> "Rinske Brucks widow of Cornelis Sakes, at present within Leeuwarden, acknowledge and declare that I, by power of attorney of 4 Maert 1736 executed by me at Meppel and in the presence of the advocate H.H. Werning and Jan Baadema as witnesses, upon the person of Sybrandus Willems, Master Carpenter within > Leeuwarden, and which mandate I, Rinske Cornelis, hereby still approve and ratify, just as I also hereby approve what my mandatary has done concerning the aforesaid purchase as mentioned herein, have sold a certain plot or house site in Leeuwarden on or by the Oldehoofster Kerkhof (and that upon appraisal made by Alexander Cup, Master Carpenter, and Douwe Piers, mason's journeyman) to Cornelis Tjeerds, soldier in the guard of His Princely Highness the Lord Prince of Orange and Nassauw etc. etc. etc. and Wickie Cornelis, spouses in the aforesaid city, for 30 cargl.; with the obligation, among other things, to repair a part of the wall towards the West of the house at present inhabited by the seller herself."
>

The "Rinske Brucks" named in this deed was Rinske Jurjens Brinck, married to Cornelis Sakes, which couple were the parents of Wickjen Cornelis, the 2nd wife of Cornelis Tjeerds.

Cornelis Tjeerds must have lived at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof in Leeuwarden until his death, which may be inferred from the following deeds:

> 28 November 1738 (registered 20 December 1738), Klein-consentboek (register of minor consents) of Leeuwarden: "Renicus Acama, Pr. Postulant and Fiscaal (public prosecutor) of Ferwerderadeel, living in Leeuwarden, as curator over the abandoned estate of Rinske Jurjens Brink, widow of Cornelis Sakes, during her life resident in Leeuwarden, sells a house in the Grote Kerkstraet near the Oudehoofster Kerkhof in the aforementioned city, ... at present being inhabited by the buyers as tenants, for 24 ggl. a year, having the heirs of Jan Posthumus to the East, Sake Cornelis with his purchased chamber to the West, Cornelis Tjeerds to the South and the street to the North, for the sum of 346 ggl."
> the same dates, the same book. "The same seller; and Sake Cornelis, Turfmeter (peat measurer) and Roggedrager (rye carrier) [1] and Trijntie Freerks, spouses in Leeuwarden, buyers: of a chamber at the Oude Hoofster Kerkhof in the said city, ... having Benjamin Wilkes with his wife to the East, the churchyard to the West, Cornelis Tjeerds to the South, the street to the North, for the sum of 106 ggl."
> 11 August 1771, Burial registers of the city of Leeuwarden: "Cornelis Tjeerds at the Oldehoofster Kerkhoff".

From this last deed it thus appears that "Cornelis Tjeerds at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof" was buried at Leeuwarden on 11 August 1771, so that he reached an age of 81 years.

That Cornelis Tjeerds continued to live until his death in the house at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof which he had bought in 1738 from his mother-in-law Rinske Jurjens Brinck, is confirmed by the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of Leeuwarden for 1770 and the following years. For in the register of 1770 one finds recorded as owner of the houses N^{os} 106 and 106*a* of the North-Oldehoofster Espel: Cornelis Tjeerds, with for N^{o} 106 as occupier: sergeant J. F. Kraft, and for N^{o} 106*a* as occupier: Cornelis Tjeerds himself. Cornelis Tjeerds continues unchanged to appear in the registers of 1771, 1772 and 1773. In 1774 he remains recorded with the same occupier under N^{o} 106, but for the other number there appears in his place as owner and occupier: Jacob Augustinus. In 1777 his son Taeke Cornelis appears as owner of N^{o} 106 and he remains owner up to and including the year 1804, the last year of the Reëelcohieren of Leeuwarden. From this one may therefore infer that Taeke Cornelis Greidanus was the heir of Cornelis Tjeerds. The only strange thing is that the property at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof remained recorded in his name so long after the death of Cornelis Tjeerds in August 1771, but this seems to have occurred more often in former times, and is therefore no decisive objection.

MARRIED:

1^{0} GEIJSKE JELLES, 10 May 1716 in the Galileërkerk at Leeuwarden, daughter of Jelle Markus and Trijntie Pieters, which marriage was registered as follows in the marriage registers of the Dutch Reformed Church of Leeuwarden:

> "Cornelis Tjeerts, soldier in the company of major Meyers, and > Geijske Jellen in this city, their marriage banns were published for the first > time on 26 April 1716 and on 3 May for the second time and on 10 > May for the 3rd time, and they were joined in marriage on the 14th of the same > month in the galijleer church."

Geijske Jelles was baptized at Leeuwarden on 7 November 1694 as daughter of Jelle Markus, who lived there on the Eewal, after on 18 January 1691 a child with the same name had been baptized from the same father, which probably died young. Jelle Markus was Master Tailor at Leeuwarden and married to Trijntie Pieters, which appears from the Reformed marriage registers of Leeuwarden, according to which on 1, 8 and 15 November 1685 the marriage was proclaimed and on 15 November 1685 solemnized between Jelle Markus, Master Tailor, and Trijntie Pieters, both living in Leeuwarden.

[1] This Sake Cornelis, Turfmeter and Roggedrager at Leeuwarden, who thus lived at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof next to Cornelis Tjeerds, was apparently a brother of Wickjen Cornelis. For Wickjen Cornelis' father, Cornelis Sakes, had a son Sake baptized at Leeuwarden on 17 May 1716 for the third time.

The baptismal record of Geijske Jelles in the Baptismal Registers of the Dutch Reformed Church of Leeuwarden reads as follows:

> "/Baptized/ On the 7th ditto (November 1694) > Geijske a daughter of Jelle Markús."

Geijske Jelles died at Leeuwarden about February 1734, when, as has already been reported on pages 41 and 332, "the wife of Cornelis Tjeerds on de Nieuwe-Buiren" was buried "at Oldehoof and Galilaeer Kerk".

2° WICKIEN (WICKJE, WICKJEN) CORNELIS, 15 August 1734 in the Galileërkerk at Leeuwarden, daughter of Cornelis Sakes and Rinske Juriens Brinck, of which marriage the entry in the Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Church of Leeuwarden 1732—1742 f. 63^{r} reads as follows:

> "Cornelis Tjeerds soldier in the Guard, and Wickjen Cornelis both in this city, had their banns proclaimed for the first time on 1 August 1734 and on the 8th ditto the second time and on the 15th ditto the third time and were married on the same ditto in the afternoon in the Galileer Kerk."

This marriage of Wickjen Cornelis to Cornelis Tjeerds was evidently already her 2nd marriage, since according to the following record in the Leeuwarden Reformed Marriage Register 1721—1731 f. 68^{r}, Isack Jelles, leather dresser at Leeuwarden, married a Wickje Cornelis:

> "Isack Jelles leather dresser and Wickje Cornelis both in this city had their banns proclaimed for the first time on 13 February 1724 and on the 20th ditto the second time and on the 27th ditto the third time and were married on the same ditto in the evening in the Grote Kerk."

This Isack Jelles was, like the aforementioned Geyske Jelles, a child of Jelle Markus on de Eewal at Leeuwarden, so that Cornelis Tjeerds married for the 2nd time the widow of a brother of his first wife, thus a sister-in-law of his first wife.

From this first marriage of Wickjen Cornelis to Isack Jelles the following children were baptized at Leeuwarden:

30 July 1724: Jelle;

29 Dec. 1726: Cornelis;

8 Dec. 1728: Cristina and Hiltje;

and 10 April 1730: Pyter.

The baptismal record of Wickjen Cornelis on f. 35^{v} in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Leeuwarden 1699—1715 reads as follows:

> "/Baptized/ On the 11th ditto (December 1701) > Wickien a daughter of Cornelis Sakes."

The mother of Wickjen Cornelis was called Rinske Juriens brinck, which may be deduced from the marriage entry at Leeuwarden of Cornelis Sakes, stating that the marriage of Cornelis Saeckes, soldier in the Company of Captain Aernt Heidenrijck, and Rinske Juriens Brinck was proclaimed there on 12, 19 January and 9 February 1690, and solemnized on 9 February 1690.

The father of Wickjen Cornelis was therefore at his marriage "soldier in the Company of Captain Aernt Heidenrijck" and thus had the same occupation as Cornelis Tjeerds himself.

According to a note in the Reformed Leeuwarden Baptismal Register, Cornelis Sakes lived there on the Breestraat. From the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of 1716 and 1721 it can be established that in 1716 he was the tenant of a room (N^{o} 252) in the Blockhuistersteegh (Keimpema-Espel) and that already in 1721 he was recorded as Owner and Occupier of the premises (rooms N^{os} 103 and 104) at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof (Noord-Oldehoofster-Espel) with the remark "Pauper". He must have died before 29 June 1736, when, as we have seen on pages 332/3, his widow Rinske Jurjens Brinck sold the house adjoining her dwelling at the Oldehoofster Kerkhof — by which houses the said parcels are evidently meant — to Cornelis Tjeerds and Wickjen Cornelis.

Concerning Rinske Jurjens Brinck the following has further been found in:

> the Authorisatieboek (authorisation register) of Leeuwarden, 5 Sept. 1688. "The notary Adrianus Visscheri, curator ad actum recipiendarum rationum (Latin: curator for the taking of accounts) together with Dirck Jacobs, over Rinske Jurjens Brinck, aged 16 years, assisted in this by her sister Hiltie Brinck" and 13 Sept. 1688. "In place of Durck Jacobs the citizen Jaandrich[?] Joannes Faber becomes curator over Rinske Jurriens (17 years), daughter of Jurrien Brinck and Japke Obbis, in their time married couple in Leeuwarden";
> the Annotatieboek van het Collateraal (register of the collateral succession duty) at Leeuwarden, according to which on 16 April 1717 it was declared before the magistrate of this city that the children of Rinske Jurjens Brinck, — among whom therefore Wickjen Cornelis belonged, — had become heirs (Latin) under the will[1] of Hiltie Jurjens Brinck, according to the foregoing a sister of Rinske Jurjens Brinck.

Rinske Jurjens Brinck must have fallen on hard times after her husband's death, since (see page 333) on 28 November 1738 there was sold out of her abandoned estate[2] by the curator a house in the Groote Kerkstraat near the Oude Hoofster Kerkhof, and to her son Sake Cornelis, Turfmeter (peat measurer) and Roggedrager (rye carrier), and Trijntie Freerks, married couple in Leeuwarden, a camer (one-room dwelling) at the Oude Hoofster Kerkhof. Her estate had already been abandoned on 13 October 1738, for on that date it is stated in the Authorisatieboek of Leeuwarden that Elias Wiersma, merchant in Leeuwarden, was a creditor of the abandoned estate of Rinske Jurjens Brink, widow of Cornelis Sakes, in her life in Leeuwarden.

It is not known when Wickjen Cornelis died. Apparently she had already died in the year 1777, when her son Taeke Cornelis appeared as owner of parcel N^{o} 106 of the Noord Oldehoofster Espel.

CHILDREN:

From the 1st marriage:

1. Jeltje Cornelisdochter (Greidanus), who follows under number: 81.
2. Tjeerd Corneliszoon (Greidanus), who follows under number: 82.
3. Lysbet Cornelisdochter (Greidanus), who follows under number: 83.
4. Trijntje Cornelisdochter (Greidanus), who follows under number: 84.
5. Jan Corneliszoon (Greidanus), who follows under number: 85.

From the 2nd marriage:

1. Tjertje Cornelisdochter (Greidanus), who follows under number: 86.
2. Tjeerd Corneliszoon (Greidanus), who follows under number: 87.
3. Taeke Corneliszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 88.

---

45 BENEDICTUS TJEERDS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Tiaard 10 ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1^{II}

His baptismal entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Leeuwarden is as follows:

"/Baptized:/ The 27th ditto (January 1692) Benedictus a son
of Tierd Benedictus
near the Brol."

Nothing could be found about him; he probably died at a young age.

Child of Johannes Benedictus (Greidanus) (N° 11) and Trijntje Hessels Harda

first marriage · 3 · 1[II]

46 AELTIE (AALTIE) JOHANNESDR. (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 11[I] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

She will have been born at Pingjum about 1695, presumably from the first marriage, solemnized 16 October 1692, between Johannes Benedictus and Trijntje Hessels Harda, whose mother was also called Aaltie, namely Aaltie Jans. Her baptismal entry at Pingjum cannot, however, be supplied, since the Baptismal Registers of the Reformed Congregation there only begin on 17 February 1704.

[1] This is deduced from the declaration by the testamentary administrator.

[2] Rinske Jurjens Brinck died on 29 September 1738 at the age of about 72 years, since in the Register of Life Annuities dated 28 April 1730 R I c/53, present in the Archive of the Provincial Executive of Friesland, Rekenkamer (audit office) section, under N° 672 (Resolution of the Rekenkamer dated 22 March and 2 October 1675) there occurs: Rinske Jurjens Brinck, aged 64 years at Leeuwarden 28—.—., with the years 1730 up to and including 1738 and with the addition: "died on 29 September 1738."

Her existence appears from the following deed dated 28 January/11/25 February 1728 in the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel for the years 1701—1733 (Inventory of the Judicial Archive of Barradeel Q. 13):

> "Pieter Ceijmpes[1] , burgher and master shipwright residing at Harlingen, buys a certain piece of arable land, measuring by name and fathom 3 pondemaat, situated on the Oudedijck under the village of Sexbierum near the farm of the merchant Jan Symons Olyslaeger, having the heirs of the late Lady Widow de Vries to the East and North; the Honourable Mr. Grietman (district magistrate) Haersolte to the West, the aforesaid Oude Dijk to the South, being at present held in lease by one Jacob Alberts, who is entitled to 2 more years' lease thereof from St. Peter 1728 for 21 caroli gulden a year, charged with 1 floreen 7 stuiver in the general assessment, as also with 3 caroli gulden of perpetual rent to the Honourable Mr. Grietman Burmania; thus bought and acquired from Johannes Benedix, burgher and master wagonmaker at Harlingen, as authorized agent of his daughter Aeltie Johannis, wife of Tjerk Claesen potter at Delft, for the sum of 85 goudgulden 21 stuiver per pondemaat and thus in all 257 goudgulden 7 stuiver."

The particulars concerning this landholding at Sexbierum have already been given under Johannes Benedictus (Greidanus) (see pages 254 and 255 above).

As appears from the foregoing deed, Aeltie Johannesdr. Greydanus was settled with her husband at Delft, where she has been found twice with the surname "Greydanus", namely on 13 May 1731 at the baptism, to be mentioned below, of her son Benedicktus, and on 13 March 1738 at the baptism, to be given hereafter, of her daughter Anna. Soon after the baptism of this daughter Anna she was, according to the entries below, buried free of charge in the morning of 1 April 1738 in the Churchyard by the Nieuwe Kerk at Delft, so that she reached an age in the forties:

Burial Register of Delft, Oude and Nieuwe Kerk (No 139 of the Municipal Archive):
"(Nieuwe Kerk)
1738.
1 April
Aaltje de Vries, wife of Tjerk de Vries on the Vlamingstraat, 7 minor children, in the Churchyard, in the morning."
Register of receipt of the tax on marrying and burying, the so-called Gaarders archive (No 116, now kept in the General State Archive at 's-Gravenhage):
"2 April 1738
Aaltje de Vries P.D."

SHE MARRIED:

TIERCK CLASEN DE VRIES, 24 April 1718 in the Groote Kerk at Harlingen, son of: Claas Hessels and Doedtie Tieercks, concerning which marriage the following entry is found in the Marriage Register of the Groote Kerk of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Harlingen 1697—1735:

"(1718)
Tierck Clasen and Aeltie Johannes, both at Harlingen, they were proclaimed on the 10th, 17th and 24th of April and then also married."

Tierck Clasen (de Vries) was baptized 13 May 1697 in the Groote Kerk at Harlingen, according to the following entry in the Baptismal Register of that Church of the Dutch Reformed Congregation (1656—1697):

"The 13 mayus 1697
Claas Hessels the father, and Doedtie Tieercks the mother
the child Tieerck baptized."

Claas Hessels was a burgher and Gleibakker (potter) at Harlingen, which is derived from the following deeds:

> Proclamatieboek of Harlingen:
> 18/25 January/1 February 1728/24/31 January/7 February 1728. Claes Hessels, potter within Harlingen, buys $^3/_4$ of a certain house with appurtenances standing within the aforesaid town, on the North side in the Hoogstraet, the buyer being owner of the remaining $^1/_4$ part; having Hessel Jacobs to the East, Claes Douwes Falkens to the West and North, the Hoogstraet to the South; acquired by purchase from Johannes Hijlkes, widewater skipper and burgher within the aforesaid town, for $^1/_4$; Hendrik Dirks, master surgeon at Witmaersum for $^1/_4$ and Jacob Dirks, master baker in the aforesaid place for $^1/_4$, for a sum of 180 goudgulden.

[1] Family name: de Jong.

Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Harlingen:

> 4 May 1707 (registered 21 December 1707) Acknowledgement of debt by Claas Hessels, Burger and journeyman glazed-pottery baker within Harlingen, according to which he owes 64 cargl. to his brother Ype Hessels, barge skipper and fellow burgher at Harlingen, at an interest of 4%.

From the deed of 28 January /11/25 February 1728 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Barradeel, reproduced on the previous page, Tierck Clasen has already appeared as a potter at Delft, so that he practised the same trade as his father at Harlingen. At Delft he used the surname "De Vries"; he probably adopted that name there because he was a Frisian. In, for instance, the burial entries of his wife already given, he is designated by the name "De Vries".

The couple Tierck Clasen (de Vries) × Aeltie Jans has also been found at Delft as witnesses at a baptism, which is recorded as follows in the Baptismal Register of the Oude Kerk at Delft, present in the Municipal Archive there:

> "1734.
>
> October

date	Children	Fathers	Mothers	Witnesses
19	Aaltje	Frans van der Wan	Marytje Ceroe	Tierck Claase Aaltje Jans"

Tierck Clasen de Vries remarried 8 May 1740 "pro deo" in the Gasthuiskerk at Delft to Johanna van der Schel, living there in the "Vlamestraat" and widow of Leendert van den Hoek. This is drawn from the following entry in Register N° 63 of the Municipal Archive of Delft: Ledger of the Marriage Matters within Delft begun 1 January 1732:

Pro deo married in the Gasthuyskerk on the 8th of May 1740 —
"The 16th of April 1740
Tjerk de Vries widower in the St Urselstraat with Johanna van der Schel widow of Leendert van den Hoek in the Vlamestraat"

He was buried on the morning of 10 June 1752 "pro deo" in the churchyard of the Nieuwe Kerk at Delft, according to the following entries, in which in the first entry "Claas Tjerk de Vries" must be "Tjerk Claas de Vries":

Register at Delft of the dead begun 4 November 1747, ending Ultimo December 1763. (Present in the Municipal Archive):

"(Nieuwe Kerk) (1752) / June/10 do
Claas Tjerk de Vries in 't Agterom N.Z. in the Churchyard in the morning, 4 of age and 3 minor children."

Register of receipt of the impost on marrying and burying, the so-called Gaarders archive (N° 117, now kept in the Algemeen Rijksarchief at 's-Gravenhage):

> " (June 1752)
> 8th
> Tjerk Claasse de Vries P.D."

Tierck Clasen de Vries, who thus reached the age of 55, lived at Delft in 1738 in the Vlamingstraat, as appears from the burial entry of his first wife; in 1740 in the St. Urselstraat, according to the marriage entry with his second wife, and in 1752 in 't Agterom, as follows from his own burial entry. He must have been in needy circumstances, since he and Aeltie Johannesdr. Greijdanus were buried at Delft "pro deo" and he married there for the 2nd time "pro deo".

Children:

Of the couple Tierck Clasen de Vries × Aeltie Johannesdochter Greydanus the following children have been found in the Reformed Baptismal Registers of Harlingen (Groote Kerk) and Delft:

1. Trijntie Tiercksdochter de Vries, bapt. at Harlingen 20 November 1718.
2. Claes Tierckszoon de Vries, bapt. at Harlingen 12 March 1720.
3. Trijntie Tiercksdochter de Vries, bapt. at Harlingen 21 July 1722.
4. Hessel Tierckszoon de Vries, bapt. at Harlingen 23 January 1724.

5. Sofija Tiercksdochter de Vries, bapt. at Delft 5 September 1728.
6. Benedicktus Tierckszoon de Vries, bapt. at Delft 13 May 1731.
7. Cornelis Tierckszoon de Vries, bapt. at Delft 19 July 1735.
8. Anna Tiercksdochter de Vries, bapt. at Delft 13 March 1738.

The relevant baptismal entries follow below:

Baptismal register of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Harlingen (Groote Kerk 1697—1735):

"(1718)
the 20th of November Tierck Clases, the father, and Aeltie Johannes the mother, the child Trijntie baptized."
"(1720)
the 12th ditto (March) Tierck Clases the father and Aeltie Johannes the mother, the child Claes baptized."
"(1722)
/the 21st ditto /July//
Tierck Clases the father and Aeltie Johannes the mother, the child Trijntie baptized"
"(1724)
/the 23rd ditto /January//
Tierck Clases the father and Aeltie Johannes the mother, the child Hessel baptized."

N° 21. Reformed baptismal register of the Nieuwe Kerk of the town of Delft, begun Anno 1711, ended Ultimo 1742:

"1728

	Children	Fathers	Mothers	Witnesses
September 5	Sofija	Dirck [1] / Clase de Vries	Aaltie Johannis	Isabel Heijse."

"1731

	Children	Fathers	Mothers	Witnesses
Meij 13	benedicktus	tierck Klasen de Vries	Aaltie Johannes Grijdanes	"

N° 8. Baptismal register of the Oude Kerk (Delft) of the Reformed from 1 January 1735—31 December 1756:

"(July).

1735	dat.	Children	Fathers	Mothers	Witnesses
	19	Cornelis	Tierck Clasen de Vries	Aaltje Johannis de Vries	Maria Zaroe."

N° 21. Reformed baptismal register of the Nieuwe Kerk of the town of Delft, begun Anno 1711, ended Ultimo 1742:

"year 1738	day	Children	Fathers	Mothers	Witnesses
March	13 —	Anna	Tjerk de Vries	Aaltje Gredanis	Kaatje van der Haar."

Besides these 8 children found in the baptismal registers of Harlingen and Delft, the couple Tierck Clasen de Vries × Aeltie Johannesdochter Greydanus must have had yet another child:

9. Johannis Tierckszoon de Vries.

The existence of this child already follows from the wording of the burial entry of Tierck Clasen de Vries. For therein it is stated that he left behind 4 children of age and 3 minor children, whereas of the children found in the baptismal registers of Harlingen and Delft only 3 could have been of age on 10 June 1752 (which was then 25 years), namely Claes, baptized at Harlingen 12 March 1720; Trijntie, baptized at Harlingen 21 July 1722 and Hessel, baptized at Harlingen 23 January 1724. Between 23 January 1724 and 10 June 1727 another child must therefore have been born, presumably not at Harlingen or at Delft, but in another place where the couple Tierck Clasen de Vries × Aeltie Johannesdochter Greydanus was then residing. Also on the ground that in the Delft marriage and baptismal registers a Johannis Tjerks (de Vries) is found, at whose children's baptisms Tjerck de Vries, his 2nd wife Johanna van der Schel and his children

Trijntje, Claes and Sofija appear as witnesses, and which Johannis Tjerks (de Vries) himself, with his wife, appears as baptismal witness at children of Claes Tierckszoon de Vries, — this child must have been named Johannis, after the father of Aeltie Johannesdochter Greydanus.

[1] At Delft, where that Frisian name was probably less well known at the time, Tierck was simply turned into "Dirck".

From the 2nd marriage of Tierck Clasen de Vries with Johanna van der Schel a daughter Clasina was still baptized 15 January 1741, as appears from the following entry in Register N° 8 of the Municipal Archives of Delft, Reformed Baptismal Register of the Oude Kerk of the Reformed from 1 January 1735—31 December 1756:

> "(January)

1741	date	Children	Fathers	Mothers	Witnesses
	15	Clasina	Tierck de Vries	Johanna van der Schel.	"

Here follow a few more particulars concerning the descendants of the couple Tierck Clasen de Vries × Aeltie Johannesdochter Greydanus.

CLAES (NICOLAAS) TIERCKSZOON DE VRIES

He married "pro deo" in the Nieuwe Kerk at Delft, as Nicolaas Tjerks, bachelor in the Vlamestraat, on 25 May 1744 (banns 9 May preceding) to Cornelia van der Horst, spinster in the Harman Cocxlaan.

From this marriage were baptized at Delft:

15 May 1746 Nieuwe Kerk: Tjerck, at which the father is recorded as "de Vries" and as witnesses appear: Tjerk de Vries and Johanna van der Schel;

1 December 1748 Nieuwe Kerk: Lijsje, at which the witnesses are Jacobus van der Horst and Lijsje Schonk, evidently the parents of Cornelia van der Horst;

27 May 1751 Nieuwe Kerk: Aaltje, at which as witnesses occur: Johannis Tjerks and Christina Tibout, that is Johannis Tierckszoon de Vries and his wife;

19 November 1752 Oude Kerk: Wullem, at which as witnesses are recorded: Johannis Tjerks (Johannis Tierckszoon de Vries) and Elisabeth van der Horst;

18 June 1755 Oude Kerk: Hessel, at which as witnesses are entered: Hessel Tjerks and Josijntje Verné, by whom will be meant Hessel Tierckszoon de Vries and his wife; and 27 August 1758 Nieuwe Kerk: Sophia, at which as witness is given Sophie Tjerks, that will be Sofija Tiercksdochter de Vries.

Of these children, the Lijsje baptized 1 December 1748 presumably married as "Elisabet Tjerk, spinster in the Van der Mastenstraat" on 27 October 1776 in the Oude Kerk at Delft to "Jan de Vries, bachelor in the Oude Doelstraat", from which marriage a son Willem was baptized 4 June 1781 in the Nieuwe Kerk at Delft, whose descendants have remained at Delft and are still established there at present. This is therefore a family "de Vries", but a different one from that of the Delft potter Tierck Claesen de Vries.

That this "Elisabet Tjerk, spinster in the Van der Mastenstraat" would be the Lijsje baptized 1 December 1748, daughter of "Claes Tjerk", rests further on this, that as witnesses at the baptism of her children appear: 6 December 1778 at the baptism of a daughter "Corneliea":

Nicolaas Tjerk and Cornelia van der Horst, and on 16 December 1784 at the baptism of a daughter "Clasiena": Nicolaas Tjerk.

Claes Tierckszoon de Vries also appears as a witness at the baptism of a child of his presumed brother Johannis on 24 August 1755, as is indicated below among the data concerning that brother.

TRIJNTJE TIERCKSDOCHTER DE VRIES

She was probably still living on 11 September 1768, when at the baptism at Delft of a son of her presumed brother Johannis there appeared as witness, among others, "Catrina Tjerk", who was presumably unmarried.

HESSEL TIERCKSZOON DE VRIES

He married in the Nieuwe Kerk at Delft, as Hessel Tjerks, young man in the Harman Coxlaan, on 19 August 1753 (betrothal 4 August before) to Josina Vernée, young woman likewise there.

On 12 March 1761 his daughter Alida was baptized in the Nieuwe Kerk at Delft.

He and his wife have also been found under the names "Hessel Tjerks" and "Josijntje Verné" as witnesses at the baptism on 18 June 1755 in the Oude Kerk at Delft of a son Hessel of his brother Nicolaas.

JOHANNIS TIERCKSZOON DE VRIES

He married in the Gasthuiskerk at Delft, as Johannis Tjerks, young man on the Vlamingstraat, on 1 June 1749 (betrothal 17 May before) to Christijntje Tibout, young woman on the Voorstraat.

From this marriage there were baptized in the Nieuwe Kerk at Delft:

5 October 1749: Tjerk, where the father is recorded as "de Vries" and as witnesses appear: Tjerk de Vries and Johanna van der Schel;

9 December 1751: Philippus, where as witnesses appear: Philippus and Johanna Tiebout, evidently a brother and a sister of the mother;

24 August 1755: Tjerk, where as witnesses occur: Nicolaas and Fijtje (Sofija) Tjerk;

23 June 1757: Barbara, where the father is recorded as "de Vries" and as witnesses are entered Philippus and Alida Tibout, presumably a brother and a sister of the mother;

25 September 1760: Alida, where the father is entered as "de Vries" and as witness appears, among others, Sevia (Sofija) Tjerk de Vries;

5 May 1763: Johanna, where the father is given as "de Vries" and as witness appears: Johanna Tiebout, probably a sister of the mother;

6 January 1765: Carel, where as witness appears Johanna Tiebout, evidently a sister of the mother;

24 August 1766: Hendrik with as witness Fijtje (Sofija) Tjerk; and 11 September 1786: Johannes, where as witness is recorded, among others, Catrina (possibly Trijntje) Tjerk.

Of these children Barbara married on 25 June 1780 at Delft to Pieter de Wilde.

SOFIJA TIERCKSDOCHTER DE VRIES

As has been stated above, she appears as baptismal witness:

24 August	1755	at the baptism of	Tjerk	a son	of Johannis Tierckszoon de Vries,
27 August	1758	" " " "	Sophia	" daughter "	Claes Tierckszoon de Vries,
25 September	1760	" " " "	Alida	" " "	Johannis Tierckszoon de Vries, and 24 August	1766	" " " "	Hendrik	" son "	" " " "

Evidently she was not married.

Children of Johannes Benedictus (Greidanus) (N^{o} 11) and Trijntje Hanses Meertsma (Mertsma, Martsma)

second marriage · 3 · 1^{II}

47 ANTJE JOHANNES (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 11^{II} ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1^{II}

b. Pingjum, about 1696/1697 · daughter of Johannes Benedictus (Greydanus) (N^{o} 11) and Trijntje Hanses Meertsma (Mertsma, Martsma) · m. Corneles Sijmons de Leeuw, 1723

She must have been born about 1696/1697 at Pingjum, where her baptismal entry cannot be produced, since the Reformed baptismal registers of Pingjum only begin on 17 February 1704.

As a daughter of Johannes Benedictus, wagenmaecker (wagon-maker) until ± 1697 at Pingjum and afterwards at Harlingen, and Trijntje Hanses, her existence follows from the Harlingen Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments), in which under date of 5 November 1746 is recorded: the appointment of Sijmon Sloterdijk [1], receiver of the Convoijen en Licenten (customs duties) within Harlingen, as curator over the hereinafter named Grietje Cornelis de Leeuw, pursuant to the testamentary disposition, dated 30 September 1727, of her grandparents, the late Johannes Benedictus, M^{r} Waegenmaeker (master wagon-maker), and Trijntje Hanses, formerly spouses within Harlingen, in which they institute as their co-heir: their grandchild Grietje Cornelis de Leeuw, surviving daughter of Cornelis Sijmons de Leeuw and Antje Johannes (Greidanus).

MARRIED:

CORNELES (CORNELIS) SIJMONS DE LEEUW, 18 April 1723 at Harlingen; the relevant marriage entry in the baptismal and marriage register of the Dutch Reformed congregation (Groote Kerk) of Harlingen 1697—1735 follows below:

"1723
Corneles Sijmons and Antie Johannes both in Harlingen were proclaimed on the 4—11 and 18 April and then also married."

At Harlingen the baptismal entry of Cornelis Sijmons de Leeuw could not be found. Cornelis Symons de Leeuw will, however, have been a son of "Sijmon Jansen de Leeuw, merchant, and Gryttie Cornelis, spouses within Harlingen", who, according to the Harlingen Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) dated 22/29 Oct./5 Nov. 1702/ 28 Oct. (4) 25 Nov. 1702, bought: "a certain house cum annexis, consisting of a fine front room, fitted out for shop trade, further a passage and beside it a chamber, as well as a back chamber and yard, provided with well and cistern, standing and lying within the aforesaid town on the Zuivelmarckt, having the merchant Seerp Doedes Backer to the east, together with the alley also belonging to this plot, the heirs of the late Burgomaster Ziricus Nauta to the south and west, and the Zuivelmerckt and canal to the north; this thus acquired by purchase from Tettie Abeles, widow of the late Hans Jouckes, shopkeeper within Harlingen, for herself and as mother and lawful guardian of her daughter Sijdske Hanses, begotten in wedlock by her aforesaid late husband, in this matter assisted by Jouke Haeijtses, Mr. Korvem^r (master basket-maker) there, her father-in-law and grandfather of her aforesaid daughter, for the sum of 2300 car.gl".

That these were indeed the parents of Cornelis Sijmons de Leeuw may already be established on the ground of the agreement with the name of his daughter Grijtie and of his mother Gryttie Cornelis. Nevertheless a further proof can be added to this. In the oldest Reëelcohier (register of house taxes) of Harlingen of the year 1716 there appears as owner and occupant of N^o 7 of the 5th town quarter: Simon de Leeuw's house (rental value 60.—.—., tax 12—.—.). In 1722 this house stood in the name of Simon de Leeuw's heirs, but in 1725 Claes Jansen was the possessor. The Harlingen Proclamatieboek gives the solution to this, for according to the proclamation of 30 Aug^s (6) 13 Septb. 1722 /5/12/19 Sept. 1722, there sold: Aeltie Sijmens, wife of Gycke Thomas Gortmaker (groats miller), assisted by him, for herself and standing in for her absent brother Cornelis Sijmens, in her capacity, to Claes Jansen Pot, Wijdschipper (skipper of an inland vessel), cum uxore, a certain house cum annexis, standing here in this town on the Suypmerkt, having Seerp Doedes' widow to the east, the Hon. Burgomaster Laquart cum uxore to the west and south, and the Suypmerk or public street to the north, for the sum of 1500 car.gl.

Apparently, then, Sijmon (Jansen) de Leeuw left two children, namely Aeltie and Cornelis, of whom the latter, who was thus married to Antje Johannes (Greidanus), may possibly have been a seaman, since in 1722, at the sale of the house, he was "absent".

According to the aforementioned testamentary disposition dated 30 Sept. 1727 of Antje Johannes (Greidanus)' parents, Cornelis Sijmons de Leeuw [1] and his wife must already have died before that date.

[1] The progenitor Willem Simons of the family "Sloterdijck", included in the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel, was married to Aecht Tjaert Hansesdr. van Heeg, presumably of the same family "Meertsma" as that to which the 2nd wife of Johannes Benedictus belonged: Trijntje Hanses Meertsma, a daughter of the Dorprechter (village judge) and church warden at Heegh Hans Broers Meertsma (see the schedule "Meertsma en Oerdum" attached at page 257). This would provide an explanation of the appointment of a "Sloterdijck" as curator over descendants of Johannes Benedictus.

CHILDREN:

1. Grytie Cornelisdochter de Leeuw, who follows under number: 89.
2. Symon Corneliszoon de Leeuw, who follows under number: 90.

48 HANS JOHANNES (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 11^II ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1^II

His baptismal entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register (Groote Kerk) of Harlingen reads as follows:

"(The 29th of January 1699)
Johannes Benedictus the father and Trijntie Hanses the mother, the child
Hans baptized."

Like his father Johannes Benedictus, he was Mr. Wagenmaecker (master wagon-maker) at Harlingen. This occupation, as well as his death at Harlingen on 29 April 1771, appears from the following deed in the Collateraalboek (register of collateral succession duty) of Harlingen, the register of the succession duty on fidei-commissary inheritances:

> "On the 2nd of July 1771 the Notary H. Pesma declared at the Secretary's office that on the 29th of April last there died: Hans Johannes, in life M^r Waegenmaeker within this town, leaving behind his Wed^e Hiltje Dirks as heir by testament, on whose behalf the appearer undertakes to deliver a proper statement and Inventory in order thereafter to pay the collateral succession duty to the Country. On the 3rd of July a statement and Inventory submitted upon oath as Mennonite, the estate amounting to f 963—17—. On the 14th of July 1771 this last item, as well as the statement and Inventory, sent to the Chamber of Accounts".

Hans Johannes evidently lived at Harlingen in the house near the Lommertspijp bought by his parents in 1698/1699, since this house formed part of the goods left by his widow Hiltje Dirks, who remarried Wieger Fredriks, at her death on 29 December 1782, while, as appeared from the entry in the Collateraalboek, Hans Johannes left no children.

The inventory of the estate of Hans Johannes' wife Hiltje Dirks has been found in the archive of the Chamber of Accounts of Friesland and follows below:

> "26/28 April 1783. Statement and Inventory of the estate and inheritance of Hiltje Dirks, died at Harlingen 29 December 1782, formerly married to one Hans Johannes, master Waegenmaker in the aforesaid town and having become the Fiduciary Heir of the same, but afterwards remarried to Wieger Fredriks Bierdrager (beer carrier) within the said town, made and drawn up by Mr. Jacob Roorda at Harlingen as authorized administrator over the goods which the fidei-commissary Heirs of Hans Johannes, by name Tjeerd Piebes, Hiltje and Sijdske Claases together with Froukje Lieuwes, all living at Harlingen [2] , have inherited through the death of the above-mentioned Fiduciary Heir; together with by Wieger Fredricks aforesaid for himself as Heir by testament of his late wife Hiltje Dirks aforementioned, in order after this statement to pay the collateral succession duty to the Country both of the one and of the other.

It should first be noted that although Mr. I. Roorda in his capacity and Wieger Fredricks for himself have each separately made declaration at the Secretary's office, each undertaking to deliver a proper Inventory for himself, this could nevertheless not be done separately, for the reason that the whole estate left by Hiltje Dirks and as she possessed it in community with her last husband and heir Wieger Fredriks is still undivided and also could not possibly yet have been divided; therefore, in order to satisfy the Country, the makers of the Inventory have jointly made one Inventory of the whole common estate.

Profitable: in foreign and non-current money according to the valuation made	66	5	.
in ready current coin	2018	6	8
A house in the Hoogstraat within Harlingen, entered in the cohier at 7—5—6 reëel a year and thus, according to the Country's placard, worth	726	17	8
A house in the Karremanstraat, within Harlingen [3] , of which the yearly Reëel amounts to 5—1—12 and thus worth	508	15	.
In rents due up to the day of death of the testatrix	7	16	.

From the register it further appears that presumably also children of Sijmon Jansen de Leeuw were:
1719 7/8 Aeltie, dau. of Symon de Leeuw and Aafke Symmons, dau. of Symon de Leeuw, baptized 8 July 1719.

[1] Sijmon Jansen de Leeuw died at Harlingen 19 May 1721, which is recorded in the Lidmatenregister (members' register) of 1694—1728 of the Mennonite Congregation at Harlingen, in which he appears with the year 1699.\

[2] Tjeerd Piebes was a child of Piebe Tjeerds and Sjoertje Lieuwes, who in turn was a child of Hans Johannes' sister Sydske Johannes, married to Lieuwe Tjerks. Hiltje and Sydske Claasses were children of Claas Pieters and Trijntje Lieuwes, who, like Frouckje Lieuwes, was also a child of the said Sydske Johannes. Frouckje Lieuwes was thus a child, and Tjeerd Piebes, Hiltje and Sydske Claases were grandchildren, of a sister of Hans Johannes.

[3] According to the Harlingen Proclamatie of 15/22/29 Jan. 1775 /21/28 Jan./4 Febr. 1775, a "stately house with appurtenances in the Karremanstraat" was bought for 57 g.gl. by Wieger Frederiks, town Bierdrager, and Hiltje Dirks, spouses at Harlingen.

According to a note there still appears to be a little rent due to the amount of 16—11—. for various years, but this will in all likelihood prove uncollectable.
N.N. owes according to a written bond in capital and interest 100—10— .
in annuities received up to the death of the testatrix 24— .— .
The public sale held of household goods yielded net 1366— 7— .
in wrought gold and silver according to appraisal 150—11—10 in ditto sold according to appraisal 280—13— 4
And in furniture sold at appraisal 214— 9— 4
5464—11— 2
Detrimental. Legacies to the Reformed deaconry, to the general town poor, and to the Town and Mennonite Orphanage at Harlingen, together 250 — .— .
The remaining known debts, both already paid and still unpaid, amount according to the best calculation to 1224— 7— .
thus wholly detrimental 1474— 7— .
Ergo net profitable 3990— 4— 2 of which the Collateraal amounts to 99—15—."

By the "house in the Hoogstraat" mentioned in this Inventory, valued at 726—17—8, must now be meant the house by the Lommertspijp purchased in 1698/1699 by the parents of Hans Johannes for 700 g.gl., which comes clearly to light at its sale by the authorized administrator Jacob Roorda, since in the relevant sale proclamations dated 27 April /4/11 May 1783 /3/10/17 May 1783, of which the essential content is given below, mention is made of a certain "house and stable with appurtenances in the Hoogstraat near the Lombartspijp":

"Jacob Sijbrens Brouwer and Sjouwkje Johannes Westerwijck, spouses at Harlingen, buy a certain house and stable with appurtenances standing in the Hoogstraat near the Lombartspijp within the aforesaid town, being at present inhabited by Wieger Fredriks and which may be taken possession of by the buyers on 12 November 1783 or as much sooner as the said occupant shall vacate the same, having Lourens Clasen Coster, together with the public street and Soutsloot to the East, the Hoogstraat to the South, Pieter Jeltes to the West and North; thus obtained in purchase from Mr. Jacob Roorda at Harlingen as authorized Administrator over the goods which have devolved upon the fideicommissary Heirs of Hans Johannes, in his lifetime master wagon-maker within the aforesaid town, through the death of his widow and fiduciary Heiress Hiltje Jans (meaning no doubt Hiltie Dirks), and thus in that capacity with the knowledge and approbation of the aforesaid Heirs and therefore in that capacity for the sum of 120 1g.gl. and 14 st."

The appointment of Jacob Roorda as administrator as referred to above took place, according to the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Harlingen dated 19 February 1783, upon the Request of Jacob Roorda, merchant at Harlingen, therein setting forth that he, according to a codicil dated 29 March 1771 left by the late Hans Johannes and Hiltje Dirks, at that time spouses at Harlingen, had together with Mr. Tako Sloterdijk (already deceased) been appointed administrator over the goods which the codicillants should come to leave behind, but since Hiltje Dirks, after the death of her first husband Hans Johannes, having remarried to Wieger Fredriks, had instituted this her second husband as Heir, — the Petitioner alone had been requested by the Heirs of the late Hans Johannes to take upon himself the aforementioned administration with regard to the same.

The house further mentioned in the Inventory "in the Karremanstraat within Harlingen", assessed at 508—15—., was, according to a proclamation of May 1783 (not further dated), sold for 200 g.gl. to Wijbe Claases, master shipwright at Harlingen.

Hans Johannes is found in the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of Harlingen for the years 1746—1759 as the user of a piece of land, rental value 50 g.gl., in the Buitenbuirt N° 7, of which the owner was Lieuwe Piers' widow. As has been reported on page 254, his father Johannes Benedictus was also a tenant of two pieces of land in the Buiten Buyren of Harlingen. Possibly the piece of land rented by Hans Johannes is one of the pieces which his father had in use.

From the foregoing it might be inferred that the wagon-maker Hans Johannes, who died at Harlingen on 29 April 1771 at the age of 72 years, was not without means.

MARRIED:

Hiltje Dirks (Durks), 23 June 1754 at Harlingen.

Hiltje Dirks was, as may appear from the declaration for the Collateraal made by Notary H. Pesma reported on the previous page, a Mennonite, which may already be surmised from her bequest of a sum to the Mennonite Orphanage at Harlingen.

She remarried on 11 September 1774 at Harlingen to Wieger Fredriks, Town Beer-carrier there.

The two marriage entries of Hiltje Dirks in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation (Great Church) of Harlingen are as follows:

> Register 1735—1764: "(1754) Hans Johannes and Hiltje Dirks both of > Harlingen Proclaimed on the 8th—16th and Married > on 23 June W.K."
> Register 1772—1811: "(1774)
> September 11 Wijger Fredriks and Hiltje Durks, both > of Harlingen, last proclaimed on > this date."

According to the Inventory dated 28 April 1783 of her estate, Hiltje Dirks died on 29 December 1782 at Harlingen, while her 2nd husband Wieger Fredriks exchanged time for eternity there on 29 January 1794, as appears from the following entry in the Harlingen Collateraalboek (register of collateral succession duty):

> "20 March 1794. Appeared at the Secretariat the Procurator Wijma, notifying that on the 29th of January last there died within this town Wieger Fredriks, in his lifetime Bierdrager (beer carrier) here, leaving as heirs by testament: Hans Eeltjes, Mr. Wagenmaker at Ried for $^1/_2$, Johannes Wopkes, Mr. baker at Harlingen for $^1/_4$; and Aaltje Jans at Oostzaandam for $^1/_4$ etc."

In the death register of Harlingen it is recorded that Wieger Fredriks was 68 years old at his death.

CHILDREN:

None.

---

49 BENEDICTUS JOHANNES (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 11II ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1II

b. Harlingen, 2 April 1702 · son of Johannes Benedictus (Greydanus) (N° 11) and Trijntje Hanses Meertsma (Mertsma, Martsma) · m. Lijsbet Wijbes, 1726

His baptismal entry in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation (Groote Kerk) at Harlingen 1697—1735 reads as follows:

> "(1702) On 2 April
> Johannes Benedictus the father and > Trijntie Hanses the mother the Child
> Benedictus baptized."

MARRIED:

Lijsbet Wijbes, 17 March 1726 at Harlingen, as appears from the following entry in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation (Groote Kerk) of Harlingen 1697—1735:

> "(1726) Benedictus Johannes and Lijsbet Wijbes both in > Harlin were proclaimed on the 3rd—10th and 17th > of March and then also married."

Benedictus Johannes was Mr. Ysersmidt (master blacksmith) at Almenum (near Harlingen), which has been found in the entries below in the Sententieboeken (books of judgments) of Harlingen:

> 18 December 1728. Suit between Benedictus Johannes, M^r Ysersmidt at Almenum, plaintiff, against Cornelis Taekes, Snikschipper (barge skipper) from Harlingen to Worcum. Judgment given on the facts in due form.
>
> 11 November 1734. Plea between Lijsbert Wijbes, assisted by her husband Benedictus Johannes, master blacksmith at Almenum, plaintiff and respondent to the exception, against Aeltie Hansen, assisted by her husband Enne Minnes, wine merchant in Harlingen, defendant and exceptant.
>
> The Court, admitting the exception proposed, declares the defendant and exceptant not obliged for the present to answer peremptorily to the plaintiff's and respondent's libel, to contest the suit with her or to proceed further, and condemns the plaintiff and respondent in the costs of the plea, to be taxed by the Court.
>
> 26 January 1735. Declaration of costs, fees and expenses, delivered to the Court of the town of Harlingen by and on behalf of Aeltie Hanses, wife of Enne Minnes, wine merchant in Harlingen, and assisted by the said her husband, against Lijsbert Wijbes, wife of Benedictus Johannes, Mr. Ysersmid at Almenum, likewise assisted by her said husband.

> The Court has taxed and moderated the aforesaid specification, although drawn up higher, at 30 car.gl. 7 st. 8 penn., exclusive of the costs of execution, if needed.

Also in the Recesboeken (court minute books) of Barradeel (B. 7 and 8) the Mr. Ysersmid at Almenum Benedictus Johannes is met with several times in the period 1728—1733 [1], while in those books of Harlingen a description is found of the suit just mentioned between Lysbet Wijbes and Aeltje Hanses. For in the Recesboek of Harlingen the following is entered under date of 11 September 1734:

> "Aeltje Hanses, wife of Enne Minnes, burgher and wine merchant here in town, and in this matter assisted by her said husband, having been summoned to appear in court as defendant, at the instance of Lijsbet Wijbes, lawful wife of Benedictus Johannes, M[r] Ysersmid within the jurisdiction of the village of Almenum east of Harlingen, and in this matter assisted by him, as plaintiff, for retraction, together with fine and penalties to the sum of 96 ggl. or as much more or less as the Honourable Court, from the presentation of the matters, shall deem be proper, on account of actual verbal injuries inflicted upon the plaintiff by this defendant on 20 July of this year 1734, in the evening at 8 or 9 o'clock, at her house, since the defendant did not then scruple to say to the plaintiff: you beast, you shall give me back the little cask of brandy and pay for it or a pledge for it, further raving and ranting, abusing the plaintiff as a scoundrel and a beast and saying further: if you were not in such a condition, and seizing and pinching the plaintiff by the sleeve, I would kick you, and bursting out with more vicious words in a very wrathful temper against this plaintiff, choosing, in case of opposition, the same domicilium citandi at the house of the procurator Marnstra, whereupon the declaration of the procurator Tuininga is requested.
> The defendant, through Tuininga her procurator, declares that she opposes the citation issued as above and the respective claim, for reasons to be set out later, with a request for a libel and qualification in due form, security pro litium expensis and otherwise as required in law."

[1] 8/22 Sept. 1728; 20 June, 19 Dec. 1731, 24 Dec. 1732, 17 June and 7 Oct. 1733.

CHILDREN:

1. Johannes Benedictuszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 91.
2. Johannes Benedictuszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 92.

---

50 CORNELIS JOHANNES (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 11[II] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

In the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation (Groote Kerk) at Harlingen 1697—1735 his baptism is recorded as follows:

> "(1705) The 8th ditto (February)
> Johannes Benedictus the father
> Trijntie Hanses the mother and > the child Corneljs baptized."

Nothing has been able to be found about him, so that he probably died at a young age.

---

51 SIJDSKE JOHANNES (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 11[II] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

Her baptismal entry in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation (Groote Kerk) at Harlingen 1697—1735 is as follows:

> "(1711) The 19th April
> Johannes Benedictus the father and > Trijntie Hanses the mother and > the child Sijdske baptized."

MARRIED:

Lieuwe Tjerks, 8 November 1739 at Harlingen, as appears from the following entry in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation (Groote Kerk) of Harlingen 1735—1764:

> "Lieuwe Tjerks and Sijtske Johannes both of > Harlingen were proclaimed the 21st October > and the 1st—8th November 1739 and then also married."

In the Register of marriage notices at the court of Harlingen 1733—1782 the marriage is entered as follows:

> "(1739) (the 24th ditto) (October) (Com[srs] Burgomaster Buma) > Lieuwe Tjerks and Sijtske Johannes both > of Harlingen, appearing for the bride her > brother Hans Johannes."

Lieuwe Tjerks was "aschkarreman" (ash-cart man) at Harlingen. This is stated in a deed entered in the Mortgage Register of Harlingen, reading as follows:

> "8 July 1765 (11 July 1765). Taxation and valuation of goods, household effects and furnishings belonging to Lieuwe Tjerks, aschkarreman, at Harlingen, made at his house by Janneke Sierks, sworn second-hand dealer there. (the specified inventory follows, with a total amount of f 116-5-:). Further I, Lieuwe Tjerks, declare to have sold and transferred all the aforesaid appraised goods to the merchant Allard Schellinga at Harlingen, and since the above-mentioned taxation, or the amount of the purchase sum, to 116 car. gulden and 5 stuivers has been credited to me, in reduction of the debt which the said Mr. Scheltinga has of me by bond, and since I have furthermore sold to the same Mr. Scheltinga my horse and ash-cart with appurtenances for the sum of 140 car. gulden of 20 stuivers apiece, which purchase sum has likewise been settled with me on liquidation, being applied also in reduction of what I am in arrears to the buyer according to the aforesaid bond, so I declare to have no further ownership in all the aforesaid goods, but hereby to place the buyer in the legal possession, with power to take those goods to himself as his own, promising to keep the same free from all claim and to warrant against eviction as is proper in law. And although the owner is of such kindness as to leave these appraised and sold goods with me, out of consideration and compassion, for my necessary use and subsistence, I declare to possess them in no other way than by favour and precariously from the owner, who therefore has the liberty to take these goods back to himself at any moment when it may please him. I further promise and undertake to be responsible for the good keeping thereof and to restore the goods which come to deteriorate, wear out or diminish, or to make good the amount thereof in ringing coin, all with the interest and damages thereof, under pledge of my person and my goods to the Court of Friesland and all courts etc."

According to the Reëelcohieren (tax registers of real property) of Harlingen, Lieuwe Tjerks lived from 1741—1757 in the 2nd City Quarter N° 100, rental value 53 gl., of which the owner was Tjeerd J. Sandstra. From 1762—1774 we find him again as tenant — rental value 40 gl. — of the 4th City Quarter N° 44, of which the owner was Paulus Dirks.

CHILDREN:

1. Sjoertje Lieuwesdochter, who follows under number: 93.
2. Antje Lieuwesdochter, who follows under number: 94.
3. Johannes Lieuweszoon, who follows under number: 95.
4. Trijntje Lieuwesdochter, who follows under number: 96.
5. Froukje Lieuwesdochter, who follows under number: 97.

---

52 FROUKJEN JOHANNES (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 11[II] ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

Her baptismal record in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Harlingen 1697—1735 reads as follows:

> "(1714) the 3 June
> Johannes Benedictus the father > and Trijntje Johannes the mother and > the child Froukjen baptized."

Nothing more is known of her.

CHILD FROM THE MARRIAGE OF JAN BENEDICTUS (GREIDANUS) (N° 13, DESCENDING FROM THE NUMBERS: 3 AND 1[II]) AND PYTTJE MEINDERTS.

---

53 GEERTJE JANS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Jan 13 ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1[II]

Nothing is known of her other than the following baptismal record in the Church Register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at St. Anna Parochie:

> "1730 November
> 19 Geertje — Jan Benedictus's daughter, presented > by the father-in-law Meindert Jillis."

---

1. Not counted here are the candidates who came under censure for fornication. ↩
2. Mancadan (cl. L. 7 June 1675) and B. Snoek (cl. S. 19 Spt. 1786). ↩
3. Joh. Pibonis (cl. S. 23 May 1626), Nethenus (cl. S. 2 Aug. 1718) and Mirotitz (cl. S. 2—23 May 1752). ↩
4. cl. Z. July—Oct. 1682 (Mancadan, formerly deposed at Oosterwierum, was now at Tsjerkgaast and was accused of manifold misdeeds; whoredom, drunkenness, embezzlement of money etc.; on him: S. D. van Veen, Voor twee honderd jaren, Utrecht 1886, p. 57 ff.). ↩
5. Gillius Faber, otherwise Bouma, also preached at Jelsum, before Luther, the word of God purified from the leaven of the Papacy, according to a Letter of the Dutch Ministers of 1580 written to the Patres-Concordiæ, afterwards at Norden in East Friesland, and finally at Emden, where he died on 2 June 1564. His Son was Petrus Gillius de Bouma; on both see the Dedication to the Catechism by Gillius de Bouma. ↩

FIFTH GENERATION (N^{os} 54 UP TO AND INCLUDING 97)

1710—1850

/1712 peace at Utrecht with Louis the Fourteenth; 1738 death of Herman Boerhaave; 2nd half of the 18th century the "Periwig Period"; 1785—1787 civil strife between the Patriots or Keezen and the Orange men, Orange supporters or Prince's party; 1795 the Batavian Republic; 1806 Louis Napoleon King of Holland; 1811 introduction of conscription or compulsory military service; 1815 battle of Waterloo; 1815—1840 King William the First; 1831 separation of the Netherlands and Belgium, Ten Days' Campaign; 1839 the railway from Haarlem to Amsterdam opened; 1840—1849 King William the Second; 1853 the draining of the Haarlemmermeer completed/.

Child of Johannes Greydanus (N^{o} 14) and Claaske Baukes Fopma

first marriage · 5^{I} · 2 · 1^{I}

54 BAUKE GREIDANUS (GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Johannes 14^{I} ← Tjardus 5^{I} ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1^{I}

His baptismal record in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of Edens and Spannum reads as follows:

> "(1709)
> On the 14 July was baptized by D^{o} Theod. van Thuinen
> S.S.Th. Doctor and V.D.M. at Dronrijp, later at Dokkum, the child of > Johannes Greidanus, and it is named > Bauke, the father witness."

Bauke Greidanus, also called Bauke Johannes, was owner and user of various farmsteads.

According to the Floreencohier (land-tax register) of Baarderadeel of 1738, he was then, as Bauke Johannes, user of farm N^{o} 26 at Winsum; he also appears under the same number in the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of that Grietenij for the years 1741 and 1744, in which latter year he is also mentioned as head of a household at Winsum in the Register of heads of households anno 1744. Furthermore he is found in a proclamation of Baarderadeel dated 20 Nov./18 Dec. 1741/8 January 1742 concerning:

> an exchange by Pijtter Clasen, resident landowner at Winsum (for slightly more than $^{5}/_{6}$/ and Sipke Sipkes at Franeker (for slightly less than $^{1}/_{6}$/, together owners of the farmstead and lands, 29 pondemaat of pasture land in size, in the register N^{o} 26 at Winsum, now used by Bauke Johannes, of a small parcel of ground with Pijter Sjoerds, farmer at Winsum, owner of the farmstead and lands, in the register N^{o} 25 at Winsum.

Finally, the following obligation dated 16 June 1744, relating among others to Bauke Greidanus, was recorded on 23 February 1745 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Hennaarderadeel:

> "Laas Hendriksz and Rinske Sierks, spouses at Spannum, declare that they owe: 1^{o} to Lybet Baukis, widow of the late Dnum Noordbeek at Minnertsga 112 car.gl. 10 st.; 2^{o} to Bauke Gerdanus (which is a mistake for "Greidanus") at Winsum 112 cargl. 10 st.; 3^{o} to Trijntje Baukis, wife of Pijter Klaaszen at Winsum 75 car.gl., on account of moneys advanced at $3^{1}/_{2}$%."

The "Lybet Baukis" and "Trijntje Baukis" mentioned in this obligation will be Lysbet Baukes Fopma and Trijntje Baukes Fopma, sisters of Bauke Greidanus' mother Claaske Baukes Fopma (see the draft fragment-genealogy "Fopma" belonging with page 264).

About the year 1745 — in the Reëelcohier of Baarderadeel for 1746 he is no longer found — he became co-owner of the vote-bearing farms N^{os} 34 and 36 at Oosterend. These farms were, according to the proclamations dated 7/21 March/11 April 1742 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Hennaarderadeel, purchased for $^{3}/_{4}$ part by his grandmother on his mother's side Lolk Wiltjes Wolcama, widow of Bauke Fransen Fopma, and passed into his ownership. The contents of these proclamations have already been included on page 267.

In the Reëelcohieren of Hennaarderadeel for the years 1746 up to and including 1749 (the earlier register relates to 1736) there now appears as owner and user of the farm N^{o} 6 at Oosterend, 35 pondemaat in size, Bauke Johannes for $^{7}/_{8}$ and Pyter Hessels for $^{1}/_{8}$. This agrees with the Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of Hennaarderadeel of 1748, in which under Oosterend one finds:

N^{o} 34 (25 P.M. of land and dwelling)		Bauke Greidanus
N^{o} 36 (10 P.M. of land)	Owner:	for $^{7}/_{8}$ and Pyter	Tenant: Bauke Greydanus
		Hessels for $^{1}/_{8}$

Bauke Greidanus must therefore have inherited this farm at Oosterend from his grandmother on his mother's side, and will, unless the Laas Hendriks[1] mentioned in the proclamations, who had the right to rent the farm until 1745, left the farm earlier, have appeared as its occupant for the first time in 1745.

In 1742 Bauke Greidanus' grandmother bought only $^{3}(_{4}$ of the farms, and $^{1})_{4}$ then belonged to Frans Baukes, apparently Frans Baukes Fopma, a brother of Bauke Greidanus' mother Claaske Baukes Fopma, and married to Geertje Hessels (Strikwerda). Between 1742 and 1746, therefore, $^{1}(_{8}$ of the farm must have passed from Frans Baukes to Bauke Greidanus and the remaining $^{1})_{8}$ part have come to Pyter Hessels. This remaining $^{1}/_{8}$ part was bought by Bauke Greidanus from Pyter Hessels on 17 Febr. 1751 for 432 cargl., as appears from the following proclamations dated 3/31 March/28 April 1751 in the Proclamatieboek of Hennaarderadeel:

> "Bauke Greidanus, farmer under Oosterend, buys $^{1}(_{8}$ part of a farmstead and lands under the said village, in total 35 pondemaat in size by name and repute, charged with $11^{3})_{4}$ floreen of assessment and entitled to 2 votes, further with the dwelling, hay barn and garden with the appurtenant rights belonging thereto, nothing excepted and sufficiently known to the buyer, to whom the remaining $^{7}/_{8}$ parts belong and which are inhabited and used by him, thus bought from Pyter Hesselsz., merchant at Oosterlittens, for 432 cargl., more fully according to the deed of sale of 17 February 1751."

In the Reëelcohieren of Hennaarderadeel for the years 1751 and 1755 one accordingly finds Bauke Greidanus as owner and user of the farm N° 6 at Oosterend. As stated in the proclamations of 7/21 March/11 April 1742, this farm had 2 votes, was 35 P.M. in size and also comprised a "house, hay barn and garden".

---

[1] He will be the Laas Hendriks, married to Rinske Sierks, mentioned in the obligation dated 16 June 1744 given above, which will indeed relate to arrears of rent.

According to the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) for the year 1757, Renke Jacobs[1] occupied the farm Oosterend N° 6 as Bruiker (tenant occupier); in that year Bauke Greidanus appears as Bruiker of the farm N° 6 at Hennaard, named "Sassinga", 77 P.M. in size, which was the property of the gentlemen Colonels Humalda, each for $^{1}/_{2}$. Renke Jacobs does not appear to have been a tenant for long; at any rate, for the years 1763, 1764, 1765 the Reëelcohieren show Bauke Greidanus not only as Owner, but also as Bruiker of the above-mentioned farm Oosterend N° 6; so at that time Bauke Greidanus had in use both the leased farm Hennaard N° 6 and his own farm Oosterend N^{os} 34 and 36. In 1768 his son Klaas farmed the place at Oosterend as tenant. While his own farm at Oosterend was rated at a rental value of 177 £, for the farm at Hennaard he had to pay a rent of 464 £.

The farm N° 6 at Oosterend according to the Reëelcohier (N^{os} 34 and 36 of the Stemcohier (register of voting farms)) was sold by Bauke Greidanus for 4208 ggl. 21 strs to J^{r} Binnert Philip Aebinga van Humalda, Grietman (district magistrate) of Hennaarderadeel, as appears from the following proclamations of 25 Nov./23 Dec. 1778/13 January 1779 in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Hennaarderadeel:

> "The High Well-born gentleman and J^{r} Binnert Philip Aebinga van Humalda, Grietman of Hennaarderadeel etc. etc., buys from Bauke Greidanus, farmer at Hennaard, for 120 cargl. 7 strs per P.M. or in total for 4208 g.gl. 21 strs, a vote-bearing farmstead and lands, with the house and hay barn belonging thereto, in size according to name and repute 35 P.M., charged with $11^{3}/_{4}$[?] floreen, entitled to one living and one sleeping vote, according to the stemcohier of Oosterend N^{os} 34 and 36, encumbered with 2 years' lease until St. Petri and May 1781 belonging to Claas Baukes (who was the son of Bauke Greidanus) with his wife, at 220 car.gls a year in clear money above all charges, and in case of repairs food, drink, wages, and the fetching and bringing of the materials, situated and lying under the village of Oosterend, having as adjoining neighbours: to the East the farm pasture of the village of Hennaardt, to the North the purchasing gentleman, to the South Tjepke Sjoerds Mollema[2] with his wife, to the West the Guesthouse of Bolsward."

Bauke Greidanus must have had the leased farm N° 6 at Hennaard in use until his death, on the strength of the following advertisement, appearing in N° 1248 of 3 April 1781 and following numbers of the "Leeuwarder Woensdagse Courant":

> "Secretary J. van der Kolk offers for sale by public auction on Wednesday 18 April 1781, in the morning precisely at 9 o'clock, at the house of the Widow of Bauke Greidanus at Hennaard, 33-20 milk cows, barren cows as well as yearlings, fattened and unfattened, horses, sheep and lambs, hay, cheese kettle, copper buckets and copper vessels, and further farm implements."

Bauke Greidanus was, besides of the vote-bearing farms at Oosterend, also owner of land at Welsrijp, likewise coming from his grandmother Lolkjen Wiltjes Wolcama, who, as has been stated on page 266, was owner for $^{2}/_{3}$ of a vote-bearing farm there. Whereas in 1749, according to the relevant Reëelcohieren, $^{2}/_{3}$ of the farmstead N° 7 at Welsrijp was still registered in the name of Lolkjen Wiltjes, in 1751 her holding had diminished by 10 P.M., which had become the property of Bauke Greidanus. In 1755 these 10 P.M. had passed to the co-owner of the farmstead Markus Hendriks (Goffinga), and in 1757 a parcel of $13^{1}/_{3}$ P.M. was again entered in the name of Bauke Greidanus, being the $^{1}/_{3}$ share of the inheritance of Lolkjen Wiltjes. Like the 10 P.M., these $13^{1}/_{3}$ P.M. too were sold by Bauke Greidanus to the said Markus Hendriks (Goffinga). The proclamations of Hennaarderadeel relating to these sales, of 31 Oct./14 Nov./12 Dec. 1753 and 19 Dec. 1759/16 Jan./13 Febr. 1760, read as follows:

> "Marcus Hendriks Goffinga[3] at Welsrijp buys from Bauke Greidanus, farmer at Oosterend, for 1200 car.gl. besides 2 silver ducatons as a premium: certain 10 pondematen of land in a farmstead and lands, with the house and barn with appurtenances, under the village of Welsrijp, being inhabited and used by the buyer, who is for a large part co-owner of the same, the proportional share of the house and barn with appurtenances being merged into the purchase of these lands";
>
> "Markus Hendriks, farmer at Welsrijp, buys certain 13 P.M. of land and 4 einsen lying over high and low ground in the farmstead under Welsrijp, being inhabited and used by the buyer as co-owner, having as adjoining neighbours: to the East Bote Cornelis[4] with associates, the gentleman L. van

Burmania to the West, the buyer to the South

[1] Married to Tjetske Sijdses Wierda, dau. of Sytse Hylkes Wierda, Old Bysitter (former assessor) of Doniawerstal, and Jeltje Wijbes Adema.

[2] His descendants later, in 1812, took the name Ypma.

[3] Marcus Hendriks Goffinga, evidently named after the farmstead "Goffinga", no. 6 of the Stemkohier of Welsrijp, was married to Elisabet Sybema, probably a daughter of Sybe Tjerks, and granddaughter of Tjerk Baukes (Romeda) (see the chart "Fopma" with page 264).

[4] His descendants later called themselves "Galama".

and the Hr C. van Haarsma to the north, sold in its entirety by Bauke Greidanus, residing at Hennaard, for a sum of 1350 car. gl., with the stipulation that in the 13 P.M. 4 einsen (old land measure) of land the proportional share in the house and barn is also included."

Bauke Greidanus seems to have farmed very badly; at first he was owner of a farm of 35 P.M. at Oosterend and of over 23 P.M. of land in a sathe at Welsrijp, while for a time he was the user both of that farm at Oosterend and of a 77 P.M. farm at Hennaard. First he sold his land at Welsrijp, then his farm at Oosterend, and finally he could no longer pay the rent of the farm he had leased at Hennaard and fell deeply into debt with his landlord Jr. Binnert Philip Aebinga van Humalda, Grietman (district magistrate) of Hennaarderadeel. At his death he did still leave behind some goods and cattle, but his landlord protested by writ against his widow's leaving the farm he had rented free of obligations.

In figures the decline in his means may further be seen from the Personeelcohier (personal-tax register) of Hennaarderadeel. In the oldest surviving cohier, of 1748, he appears with a capital of 6000.—. In the next cohier, of 1768, this capital of Bauke (Johs) Greydanus, then living at Hennaard, had already shrunk to 4700.—; which ten years later, in 1778, was reduced by the assessed party under oath to 2000.—. In the cohier of 1781 there is noted beside the name of Bauke Greidanus at Hennaard: "has died", with the addition: "and heirs: Claas Baukes at Oosterend and Dirk D. Posthumus nom. ux. at Hylaardt, and it has been declared under oath that their father's estate amounted to no more than 600 £, thus each for 300 £."

Through the lack of data concerning his character and conduct, it cannot be determined to what it must be ascribed that Bauke Greidanus declined so far. It is remarkable, however, that this decline in social circumstances continued among his descendants — that is to say, the descendants of the eldest son of the minister of Achlum and Hitsum, Ds. Tjardus Greydanus — so that these came more and more to grief.

Bauke Greidanus repeatedly had to borrow money, as appears from the following entries in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Hennaarderadeel, among which there is also one relating to a debt to his landlord Jr. Binnert Philip Aebinga van Humalda, on account of more than 3 years of arrears of rent over the years 1771/1774:

> "9 May 1752 (registered 15 Aug. 1752). Bauke Greidanus, farmer under Oosterend, acknowledge that I owe 700 car.gl. to Lubbert Gerbrantsz., merchant at Sneek, and 300 car.gl. less one penning to Geertje Lubberts, his daughter, at $3^1/_4$ % interest (as special security his living cattle and goods are pledged)".
> This debt was "cancelled 11 June 1779".
> "19 Oct. 1756 (registered 7 March 1773). Bauke Greidanus, farmer at Oosterend, declare that I owe 225 car.gl. to Gertie Lubberts, unmarried adult daughter at Sneek, at an interest of 10 strs per 100 per month."
> This debt was "cancelled 11 June 1779".
> "25 April 1766 (registered 23 Dec. 1776). Bauke Greidanus, farmer residing under the village of Hennaard, declare that I owe 700 car.gl. to Abelus Wiarda, Secretary of Baarderadeel, at Oosterlittens, at an interest of $4^1/_4$%, under deduction of one for Reël (real-estate tax)".
> This debt was "cancelled 11 June 1779".
> "31 July 1767 (registered 23 Dec. 1776). Bauke Greidanus, farmer at Hennaard, declare that I owe 500 car.gl. to Abelus Wiarda, Secretary and Receiver-General of Baarderadeel, at an interest of $4^1/_4$%, under deduction of one for Reële."
> "13 Aug. 1767 (registered 23 Dec. 1776). Bauke Greidanus, farmer under Hennaard, declare that I owe 700 car.gl. to Abelus Wiarda, Secretary and Receiver-General of Baarderadeel, at Oosterlittens, at an interest of $4^1/_4$%, under deduction of one for Reël."
> This debt was "cancelled 11 June 1779".
> "2 May 1775 (registered 2 May 1775). Bauke Greidanus, farmer under Oosterend, acknowledge that I owe 1354 car.gl. 11 strs to Jr. Binnert Philip Aebinga van Humalda, Grietman of Hennaarderadeel, residing at de Riep, on account of arrears of rent money of the sathe and lands under Hennaard inhabited by me, being a remainder of the rent due at Martini 1771 of 217 car.gl. 17 st. 12 penn. and 12 gls. for butter, and the whole rent due at Martini 1772, 1773 and 1774, being 455 car.gl. 5 st. per year with a further 12 gls. for butter, making together 1607 cargl. 12 st. 12 p., from which 3 years of Reël, 1772, 1773 and 1774, at 253 cargl. 1 st. 12 penn. (this tax had been paid in advance by the tenant on behalf of the landowner), at an interest of 4%, under deduction of 1% for reëel, provided the interest be paid on the due date."
> This debt was "cancelled 11 June 1779".[1]

[1] The cancellation on 11 June 1779 of all these debts will surely have been connected with the proceeds of the sale in 1778/79 of the sathe and lands at Oosterend, Nos 34 and 36.

The protest of the landlord against the leaving of the farm free of encumbrances by the widow of Bauke Greidanus is found in the Recesboek (register of court proceedings) of Hennaarderadeel dated 29 November 1780, as follows:

> "The High and Well-born lord and Jr Binnert Philip Aebinga van Humalda, Grietman (district magistrate) of this district, for himself and in the name of his children, party issuing the interdict, protests through Fiscaal Odolphi as to the effect of the interdict against Dettie Jacobs, widow of the late Bauke Greidanus, for herself and as administratrix of the estate of her aforesaid husband Bauke Greidanus at Hennaard, against whom the interdict is issued, concerning the leaving free of encumbrances on 5 March and 12 May 1781 of the sathe of land with dwelling, barn, garden and > appurtenances which she has in use, the writ having been served in person upon the party interdicted by executor Diepenbos according to the report presented in court."

Bauke Greidanus had therefore already died by 29 November 1780; according to the proclamations dated 25 Nov./23 Dec. 1778/13 January 1779 he sold his farm at Oosterend, so that he must have died in 1779 or 1780.

At Hennaard Bauke Greidanus was also Kerkvoogd (church warden). This appears from two proclamations in the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Hennaarderadeel; the one dated 30 August/20 Sept./11 Oct. 1769, page 46 verso; the other dated 15 Dec. 1773/19 Jan. 1774/9 March 1774. The first proclamation concerns an exchange of a small piece of ground belonging to the Church at Hennaard; the other relates to the sale of two dwellings at Oosterend by Jan Schotanus, as far as necessary in this matter assisted by Bauke Greidanus in his capacity as church warden of Hennaard, Jacobus Schotanus, master cooper at Oosterend, and Hendrik Schotanus, master baker at Britsert.

From a collection of documents, present in the Archive of the Provincial Executive of Friesland (G.g^2), concerning the nomination drawn up in the year 1767 by the enfranchised inhabitants of Hennaarderadeel for the appointment of a Grietman in the said Grietenij (vacancy of Tjalling Aido van Sminia), it follows that at that time a vote was cast by Bauke Greidanus as Owner of Oosterend N^o 34, and that the record of Oosterend was also signed by Klaas Baukes (presumably the son of Bauke Greidanus/. The record of Hennaard was co-signed by Bauke Greidanus himself, and he was moreover appointed with Abdias Noordbeek as proxy of this village, in order to convey the result of the voting to the Noble and Mighty Lords Commissioners of the Provincial Executive of Friesland on Wednesday 14 Oct. 1767 at 11 o'clock precisely in the morning at Wommels in the court chamber of the Grietenij.

MARRIED:

DEDTIE JACOBS, 31 July 1735 at Spannum, according to the following entry in the Baptismal and Marriage Register of Edens and Spannum:

> "1735
> Bauke Greydanus, were on 31 July at Spannum > and Dedtie Jakobs confirmed in the state > both of Spannum of matrimony."

Although Dedtie Jacobs was therefore "of Spannum" at her marriage entry, her baptismal entry does not appear in the Baptismal Register of the Reformed Congregation there. Presumably she was a daughter of Jacob Hotses and Martsen Jans at Spannum, because in all probability Dedtie Jacobs was a sister of Hotse Jacobs and the latter a son of Jacob Hotses, married to Martsen Jans.

That Dedtie Jacobs will have been a sister of Hotse Jacobs is based on a deed appearing in the Collateraalboek (register of collateral succession duty) of Wonseradeel dated 13 August 1762 concerning a:

> "Statement & Inventory made of the goods left by the late Abe Haytses, in his lifetime residing at Makkum, who died there 18 April 1762, drawn up by Fokke Piebes, master carpenter at Mackum and Acke Gerbens, unmarried daughter on the Island of Vlieland, together summoned as heirs ex testamento of the late Abe Haytses, on the one part, And > Claas Jurriens at Heeg, Doede Romkes, master carpenter at Lollum, Trijntje Romkes, Gerritje Romkes and Pijter Harings, all three at and under Franequer, Hotse Jacobs at Spannum and Saak Jacobs there, Bauke Greydanus at Hennaard, Hendrik Harmens at the aforesaid Spannum, together with Trijntje Yedes, wife of Age Annes at the said Mackum, together in equal shares heirs of the late Jederdje Harmens, the former wife of the said late Abe Haytses; all according to testamentary disposition of the same drawn up on 12 Sept. 1753 and confirmed by death, on the other side and thus together for the whole estate."
>
>
> Then follows the Inventory, which is signed by: Haije Egges in his capacity for Akke Gerbens for $^1/_4$; the same in his capacity for Trijntie Yedes and Claas Jurriens, each for $^1/_{20}$; Fokke Piebes for $^1/_4$; Bauke Greydanus, Doede
>
> Romkes also on behalf of his sisters: Trijntie and Gerritje Romkes; Pijtter Harings; Hendrik Harmens; Hotse Jacobs (with his mark), also on behalf of his sister Saak.

On the assumption that in this Inventory Bauke Greydanus is acting on behalf of his wife Dedtie Jacobs, I am inclined to accept that Dedtie Jacobs was a sister of Hotse and Saak Jacobs of Spannum.

That Hotse Jacobs at Spannum was a son of Jacob Hotses there is based on the following:

In the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of Hennaarderadeel one finds for the year 1746 the names of Hotse Jacobs and Hendrik Jans, Owners of house N^o 25, consisting of 2 rooms, one of which is in use by Hotse Jacobs himself, who is maintained as a "pauper", and the other is let for 12 £.

Going back, one finds for the years 1733—1736 as Owners of the above-mentioned N^o 25: Jacob Hotses Widow and Harmen Hendriks, themselves users, with the description: "a house, of which the Owner is maintained as a 'pauper', and the other is let for 12 £ 6 p.".

From 1728—1731 one meets as Owners Jacob Hotses (himself Bruiker (occupier)) and Harmen Hendriks (Bruiker: Jan Folkerts), and the oldest cohier of 1711, as well as those of 1718 and of 1722, states: Jacob Hotses and Oege Jans, together Owners and Bruikers of a house, "but both without means, being maintained by the Church of Spannum (pauper)".

The marriage of Jacob Hotses, the presumed father of Hotse Jacobs, who succeeded as owner of N° 25 at Spannum, is, like that of his sister Dedtie Jacobs, found in the Church Marriage Register of Spannum dated 31 Jan./14 Febr. 1697; namely: Jacob Hotses and Martsen Jans (both of Spannum). In this Marriage Register, besides the marriage of Dedtie Jacobs with Bauke Greydanus, the following marriages are also found of her presumed brother and sisters:

4 July 1734: Hotse Jacobs (of Spannum) and Lijsbet Eijberts (of Tzummarum);

3 June 1735: Saakjen Jacobs (of Edens) and Jentje Tjeerds (of Tzum);

14 Febr. 1740: Hotse Jacobs and Janke Gerbens (both of Spannum);

6 May 1742: Gerrijtje Jacobs and Hendrik Harmens (both of Spannum).

According to the advertisement from the "Leeuwarder Woensdagse Courant" quoted on page 348 above, Dedtie Jacobs was still alive on 3 April 1781.

CHILDREN:

1. Klaas Baukeszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 98.
2. Lolkien Baukesdochter Greidanus, who follows under number: 99.

Child of Johannes Greydanus (N° 14) and Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda second marriage · $5^{I} \cdot 2 \cdot 1^{I}$

55 TRIJNTIE (TRIJNTJE) GREIDANUS

Line of descent: Johannes 14^{II} ← Tjardus 5^{I} ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1^{I}

b. Pingjum, about 1725 · daughter of Johannes Greydanus (N° 14) and Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda · m. Jacobus Dronrijp Junior, 1750

Trijntie Greidanus, who will have first seen the light of day at Pingjum about 1725, must have been Mennonite, since her baptismal entry is not found in the Reformed baptismal registers that come into consideration, and since, as we supposed on page 269, her mother Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda adhered to the Mennonite religion. This gains further probability from the contents of a deed found in the Authorisatieboek (authorization register) of Wonseradeel, from which it appears that Trijntje Greidanus by testamentary disposition appointed a Mennonite Minister as one of the "administrators over the goods of her only child and universal Heiress: Catarina Dronrijp". Moreover, her marriage was proclaimed only before the court and not in the Marriage Register of the Reformed Church at Harlingen.

The deed in question in the Authorisatieboek of Wonseradeel is dated 11 December 1760 and reads in essence as follows:

> "Before the Court of Wonseradeel appeared the honourable Adrianus Heeringa, Doctor of Medicine, and Claas Tigler, minister among the Mennonites, both at Leeuwarden[1], who exhibited a certain testamentary disposition drawn up by the late Trijntje Greijdanus, the former wife of Jacobus Dronrijp Junior at Kemswerd, dated 15 July 1760 and confirmed by death, as the same has today been approved by Jacobus Dronrijp, from which it appeared that she had nominated and appointed the aforementioned persons as administrators over the goods of her only child and universal heiress: Catarina Dronrijp. — The Court, having then seen the aforesaid testamentary disposition, together with the approval thereof by Jacobus Dronrijp, deeming the same to have been passed before us today, authorizes the said persons etc."

Trijntje Greidanus was owner of the voting farm N° 8 at Kimswerd, originally $26^{1}/_{2}$ pondemaat in size, which she inherited from her mother Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda. According to the stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1718 (see page 268), the owner of this farm was: "Johannes Greidanus nom. uxoris at Pinjum", while in the floreencohier (land-tax register) of 1738, in which year Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda died, it is entered before that (see page 262) as: "Johannes Greidanus nom. filiæ", that is to say Trijntje Greidanus. In the stemcohier of 1748 of the municipality of Wonseradeel the farm in question stands in the name of Trijntje Greidanus at Harlingen, without a house, with 30 pondemaat of land (which, however, according to the floreencohier of that year should be exactly $28^{1})_{2}$ pondemaat/; in the stemcohier of 1758 in the name of: Jacobus Dronrijp nom. ux.; in that of 1768 in the name of: Jacobus Dronrijp nom. fil. curators; and in that of 1778 in the name of: Catharina Dronrijp cum. mar. J. Overbeeck, Mennonite.

In the stemcohier of 1748, therefore, "Harlingen" is given as the place of residence of Trijntje Greidanus, where we meet her in the fourth city quarter, namely in the Register of the year 1744, concerning the capital sums voluntarily offered to the State in connection with the abolition of the harbour leases (import duties). In this Register she is recorded as "well-to-do". In the reëelcohieren (property-tax registers) of Harlingen for the years 1743 and 1746 she is not found, because she probably lived with (her aunt) the widow of Pieter Gerlofs.[2]

From the above-mentioned deed dated 11 December 1760 in the authorisatieboek (register of guardianships) of Wonseradeel it may be concluded that Trijntje Greidanus died between 15 July and 11 December 1760.

MARRIED:

JACOBUS DRONRIJP JUNIOR, widower of Margrieta Heins, according to the following notice of marriage dated 19 December 1750 before the Court of Harlingen:

"On the 19th of December 1750, Commissioner as above (Wassenaer) Jacobus Dronrijp and Trijntie Johannes Greidae-nus both of Harlingen, the notice having been given by the notary Pesma with sufficient exhibition in writing to this end.
with one proclamation during the week."

The notice of the marriage of Jacobus Dronrijp with Margrieta Heins before the Harlingen Court took place on 9 September 1747 and reads as follows:

> "9 Sept. 1747: Jacobus Dronrijp and Margrieta Heins, both of Harlingen."

Jacobus Dronrijp Junior was a son of Jacobus Dronrijp Senior and Catharina Elisabeth Jurdaen (Jordan, Jordaen, Jordanin) and was baptized at Harlingen on 23 January 1724, as appears from the following entry in the baptismal and marriage register of the Dutch Reformed congregation (Groote Kerk) at Harlingen:

"/1724/ | /the 23rd ditto /January//
the Harbourmaster Jacobus Dronrijp the father and Catrijna Elisabeth Jurdaen the mother, the child Jacobus baptized
W. K.[3]/"

Jacobus Dronrijp Senior was at first "sugar baker to Her Highness the Princess dowager of Nassau" at Leeuwarden, which is taken from the Leeuwarden church marriage register, in which one finds, dated 29 May/5/12 June 1712, the marriage of "Jacob Dronrijp sugar baker to Her Highness the Princess Dowager of Nassau, and Catharina Elysabet Jordan, both at Leeuwarden". Furthermore, in the Leeuwarden membership register of the Reformed Church there was entered as a member on 28 May 1710: Juffr. Katarina Elisabet Jordanin, coming with a certificate from Kassel, the place of origin of "Marijke meuy", Princess Maria Louisa of Hessen-Kassel, from 1711 widow of Jan Willem Friso, and, during the minority of the succeeding Stadholder, Regent of Friesland. These connections will no doubt also have had something to do with the fact that Jacobus Dronrijp Senior exchanged his trade of sugar baker at the Frisian Court for the office of Havenmeester (harbour master) at Harlingen, where we already find him as such in a deed dated 5 May 1720, which was entered on 30 April 1723 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Harlingen and in which Jacobus Dronrijp Havenmeester at Harlingen and Catharina Elisabeth Jordaen, spouses present at Leeuwarden, are the debtors. In the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of Harlingen for 1755 there appears in the 8th quarter under N° 45: Havenmeester Dronrijp /user T. Blok), N° 46 "his house" (user: Jacobus Dronrijp). In 1765 the houses appear to have passed into the ownership of the Admiralty, with the users T. Blok and Jacobus Dronrijp respectively. And in 1775 N° 46 stands in the name of Johs. Dronrijp Wed[e] as owner and user (house and warehouses), while N° 45 is entered as Admiralty house with Theunis Blok Wed[e] as user. So that in any case Jacobus Dronrijp Senior was Havenmeester at Harlingen for more than 35 years. Besides being Havenmeester, he was also Borger Faandrick (burgher ensign) at Harlingen, as appears from the Civiele Sententieboeken (civil judgment books) of that town, in which several judgments are found for the year 1734 concerning offences established by Jacobus Dronrijp, Havenmeester and Borger Faandrick at Harlingen, in his first-mentioned capacity.

[1] According to the draft fragment-genealogy of the non-noble family "Gerbranda" belonging with page 269, Dr. Adrianus Heeringa and Hiske Heringa, the wife of Ds. Claas Tigler (Tichelaar), were grandchildren of Jan Reins Heringa, whose wife Hiske Folckerts Gerbranda was a sister of Trijntje Greidanus' mother: Ydtje Folckerts Gerbranda.

[2] namely Meike Folkerts Gerbranda (see draft: diagram with page 269).

[3] Wester Kerk.

Jacobus Dronrijp Junior and Trijntie Greidanus must have lived at Kimswerd, as appears from the following proclamation dated 9 March 1754 (page 147) in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Wonseradeel:

> "Trijntje Greidænus, wife of Mr. J. Dronrijp, in so far as necessary assisted by her said husband, at Kimswert, buys $^{2}/_{3}$ of a fine house, with all appurtenances, standing and lying in the village of Kemswerd, of which the buying wife is entitled to $^{1}/_{3}$, being at present inhabited and used by Abe Jacobs and others until May 1753 for £ 12 rent a year, having the heirs of Gerbranda to the south and north, (held in common with the other parcel to the west), bought from Folkert Jans Heeringa, merchant at Lieuwaarden for $^{1}/_{3}$; Folkert Pijtters Schellingwouw, merchant at Harlingen for $^{1}/_{6}$ and both of them in their capacity as guardians over a Trijntje Gerloffs Schellingwouw for $^{1}/_{6}$, for the sum of 14 g.gl. —18—12."

On page 148 of the above-mentioned Proclamatieboek one finds practically the same proclamation, with this difference, that instead of what has been placed between brackets above, there is entered "held in common with the other parcel to the east and the common street to the west", and that the purchase sum has been raised to 40 g.gl..

Apparently Jacobus Dronrijp Junior was a land user at Kimswerd. According to what has been stated on the preceding page concerning the registration in name of place N° 8 at Kimswerd, he must have died between 1768 and 1778, probably, according to the Reëelcohieren, in 1774 or 1775.

There exists a coat of arms of a Frisian family "Dronrijp". Since, however, it is not known whether Jacobus Dronrijp Junior belonged to the family in question, the heraldic description of this coat of arms does follow below, but no illustration:

party per pale: 1. the Frisian eagle

2. per fess: a. red with a green wreath.

b. silver with a sword in natural colour with a golden hilt, placed palewise, accompanied by 2 red roses.

CHILD:

Catharina Dronrijp, who follows under number: 100.

CHILDREN FROM THE MARRIAGE OF DS. AUSONIUS GREIJDANUS (N° 18, COMING FROM THE NUMBERS: 5II, 2 AND 1I) AND JANCKE SIPKES.

56 JOHANNA GREIJDANUS

Line of descent: Ausonius 18 ← Tjardus 5II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Pietersbierum, 13 April 1725 · d. Pietersbierum, 27 April 1725 · daughter of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus (N° 18) and Janke Sipkes

She was born at Pietersbierum 13 April and baptized 22 April, and died there 27 April 1725.

This rests on the following entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Pietersbierum:

> "(1725) On the 22nd of the same month (April) > D: A. Greidanus baptized his daughter and she was named Johanna", to which has been added: "being born on the 13th of the same month, and died on the 27th of the same."

57 TZEERD (TJEERD, TJARDUS) GREIJDANUS (GREYDANUS, GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Ausonius 18 ← Tjardus 5II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Pietersbierum, 6 August 1726 · son of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus (N° 18) and Janke Sipkes · m. Foekje Nauta, 1764

Tjeerd Greijdanus was born at Pietersbierum 6 and baptized there 18 August 1726.

His baptismal entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Pietersbierum reads as follows:

> "(1726) On the 18th of the same month (Aug.) D. A. Greidanus baptized his son and he was named Tzeerd."

to which has been added "being born on the 6th of the same month."

He was therefore baptized by his own father Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, who was minister at Pietersbierum.

Tjeerd Greijdanus, who became an apothecary at Harlingen, appears to have been trained for that at Amsterdam, from where he returned in 1755 to the parental home at Pietersbierum. About 1756 he left there for Harlingen. This appears from the following note in the Lidmatenboek (members' register) of Pietersbierum, which is kept by the minister:

> "1755. Tzeerd Greijdanus, son of D. A. Greydanus, came over to us with attestation from Amsterdam, departed 12 Jan. 1757 with attestation to Harlingen."

and from the following entry in the "Burgerboeck (citizens' register) of the Town of Harlingen, begun 1 April 1683":

> "23 June 1756
> Tjeerd Greidanús, born at Pietersbierúm, has acquired the Borgerrecht (right of citizenship) of this Town, having taken the proper citizen's oath in the hands of Mr. Presiding Burgomaster Roosen, and paid 10"10".".

At or soon after his settling at Harlingen he must have become an apothecary there, since we already find him as "Apothecarius at Harlingen" on 4 July 1757, namely in the following entry in the Collateraalboek (register of collateral succession duty) of Franeker 1716—1805:

> "There appeared at the Secretary's office of the town of Franeker Burgomaster Haaring Buveritius as authorized agent of Tjeerd Greydanus, Apothecarius at Harlingen, Gualtherus Greydanus, merchant at Franeker, Johannes Greydanus Med. Stud. and Marijke Greydanus at Pietersbierum, together heirs by testament of the late Jetske Douwes, widow of the late Durk Alberts, who died within Franeker 1 June 1757, and declares the Collateraal on the aforesaid estate, in order to deliver thereof as soon as possible a sworn account[1] and inventory, after which the Collateraal will be paid to the Province. Done 4 July 1757."

As has already been stated on page 273, the Jetske Douwes named in this entry was at that time a maidservant with the Steenkist sisters, who kept a cloth shop at Franeker. The persons named in the entry are now the children of Ds. Ausonius Greidanus, who in his youth had lived in the house of the Steenkist sisters, who were sisters of his mother Eelckien Steenkist. Probably Ausonius Greidanus, when he was living in his aunts' house, became a good friend of their maidservant Jetske Douwes, who at her death wished to remember this friendship in his children.

Tjeerd Greijdanus established his apothecary's shop at Harlingen on the Voorstraat, in a property which he purchased in 1763 for the then considerable sum of 3350 car.gl., as appears from the Harlingen Proclamatieboek (register of property sales), in which under date of 15 May /5/12 June and 21 May /11/18/ June 1763 occurs the purchase by Tjeerd Greijdanus, apothecary at Harlingen, of a certain stately house with appurtenances, standing on the south side of the Voorstraat and inhabited by the purchaser himself. The house was bought from Jan Klazen, Master Mason at Harlingen.

[1] This account is found in the Inventories of the Collateral Estates (Judicial Archive of Franeker T.T. 11) under the date of 29 August 1757. Here again the same parties appeared, with the difference that Gualtherus — who lived at Franeker — acted alone, being authorized thereto by his brothers and sister. The profitable account amounted (including the proceeds of the sale of goods) to 976 cargl. 1 st.; the detrimental account (the expenses), consisting mainly of the costs of the illness, and of the death and burial, in total 158—3—8; so that the balance, on which Collateraal had to be paid, represented an amount of 817—17—8.

The indication given in that Proclamatieboek (register of property sales), that the purchased house stood on the South side of the Voorstraat, must rest on an error, since it was situated on the North side of that street. According to the Reëelcohier of 1765 the rental value of the property (7e quarter N° 105) amounted to 70 g.l. and in 1775 to 60 g.l.. The Reëelcohieren for the years 1785, 1795 and 1804 (after that they no longer exist) show that the house in the 7e quarter N° 110 (old N° 105), formerly standing in the name of Tjeerd Greidanus, was in the said years respectively the property of Tjeerd Greidanus Wede, Gerrijt de Jong and Matthijs Ouwendag.

These data are confirmed by the Proclamatieboek of Harlingen, which runs on until 1811.

According to the proclamations occurring therein, given below, dated 16/23/30 November/22/29 November/6 December 1788, the house on the North side of the Voorstraat, inhabited by the widow of Tjeerd Greijdanus (Foeckjen Nauta), was sold by her two surviving children, each for one half, for 1605 g.gls to Gerrijt Sipkes de Jong:

> "Gerrijt Sipkes de Jong, merchant, and Antje Douwes Lam, married couple at Leeuwarden, buy a certain fine and well-situated house for trade, cum annexis (Latin: with appurtenances), on the North side of the Voorstraat in Harlingen, at present inhabited by our, the sellers', mother Foeckjen Nauta, but it may be taken possession of by the buyers on 1 December 1788; it has as adjoining neighbours: Gerrijt Stuurman to the East; the Voorstraat to the South, a through-passage alley to the West, and a back room of Pieter Tijssen to the North, who has the right of joint use of the well, provided he also maintains it for a $^{1}/_{3}$ part. — Also the buyers must, on taking possession, receive and take over all movable goods present in and belonging to this house that has been raised in price, at the valuation of two knowledgeable and impartial persons, from which valuation, however, remains excluded the shop with all loose and fixed shelves in the front house, belonging to our mother, who may remove all of it and take it with her; obtained in purchase from Dnis Ausonius Greidanus, Minister of the Divine Word at Oudwoude and Westergeest, for the one half, and Petronella Greidanus, assisted by her husband Jan Willems Houtsma, merchant at Harlingen, for the other half, and so together for the whole for a sum of 1605 g.gls."

The house must have been bought at a public sale, since the following advertisements have been found:

In the "Leeuwarder Saturdagse Courant" of 11 October 1788 N° 1889 and following numbers:

> "The attorney S. Rienstra at Harlingen will there, at the house of H. Winter, in the Heeren Logement, sell by Strykgeld (auction premium):
>
> Imo. A fine and well-situated house for trade, cum annexis, on the North side of the Voorstraat in Harlingen, at present inhabited by the Wed. T. Greidanus, and it may be taken possession of by the buyer on 1mo December 1788.
>
> IIdo. A good house cum annexis, standing on the North side on the Soutsloot in Harlingen, inhabited as tenant by Johannes Daniels, Master Sculptor cum uxore (Latin: with his wife), for 50 Car. Gls. a year, and it may be taken possession of by the buyer at Old May 1789.
>
> IIItio. A good house cum annexis, standing in the Agterstraat, near Nauta's tile works, inhabited as tenants by Claas Beerends cum uxore, for 26 Guldens a year, until Old May 1789, and then free of lease.
>
> Whoever is interested, let him come on Wednesday 15 October 1788 for the inscription, on the 22nd Ditto for the raising of bids, and on the 29th Ditto for the provisional Palmslag (striking of the bargain), each time from five to six o'clock in the evening, at the aforesaid house."

In the "Leeuwarder Woensdagse Courant" of 29 October 1788 N° 1642:

> "The attorney S. Rienstra at Harlingen will there, at the house of H. Winter, on Wednesday 29 October 1788 at the provisional, and on 5 November at the final Palmslag, sell: each time from five to six o'clock in the evening.
>
> Imo. A fine and well-situated house for trade, on the North side of the Voorstraat in Harlingen, at present inhabited by the Wed. T. Greidanus. For which has been bid 1505 g.gls. 21 strs.
>
> IIdo. A good house, standing on the North side on the Soutsloot in Harlingen, in lease and use by Johannes Daniels cum uxore. For which has been bid 205 g.gls.
>
> IIItio. A house, in the Agterstraat, near Nauta's tile works, in Harlingen, inhabited by Claes Beerends. For which has been bid 40 g.gls. 21 strs."

The transfer of the house formerly inhabited by Tjeerd Greijdanus on the North side of the Voorstraat at Harlingen from Gerrijt Sipkes de Jong to Mathijs Ouwendag took place by the following proclamations dated 27 Sept. /4/11 Oct. 1795/3/10/17 Oct. 1795:

> "Matthijs Tjeerds Ouwendag and Aafke Harmanus Broos, married couple living at Sneek, buy a house cum annexis, standing on the North side of the Voorstraat at Harlingen, being at present empty, but encumbered with 5 lease years and 5 keurjaren (option years), Pieter Durk Kingma, now living at Sneek, being entitled thereto belonging to him for 66 car.gld. a year, commencing 12 May 1796, the loose goods being included in the purchase: — adjoining neighbours: Gerryt Stuurman to the East, the Voorstraat to the South; a through Alley to the West and a back room of Pieter Thijssen to the North; (the use of the Well as in the previous proclamation), purchased from Gerryt Sipkes de Jong, merchant, and Antje Douwes Lam, spouses living at Leeuwarden, for a sum of 1900 car.gl."

The house sold in 1788 by the children of Tjeerd Greijdanus, and in 1795 by Gerryt Sipkes de Jong to Matthijs Tjeerds Ouwendag and Aafke Harmanus Broos, spouses at Sneek, is the present property N° 13 in the Voorstraat at Harlingen, a shop for ladies' needlework belonging to Miss Sluik-Fortuin.

To judge by a photograph of the present front façade which is in my possession, and on which the "through Alley to the West" still appears, nothing remains of the 18th-century façade of the pharmacy of Tjeerd Greijdanus.

Matthijs Tjeerds Ouwendag seems to have settled in the house on the north side of the Voorstraat at Harlingen soon after purchasing it, since his daughter Doedje was born at Harlingen 19 April 1799 and his son Hermanus 2 August 1802. According to the Reëelcohier of 1804, the house then stood in the name of Matthijs Ouwendag. Apparently the said son Harmanus Matthijs Ouwendag obtained the house by inheritance before 1830, since at the establishment of the Land Registry around 1830: Harmanus Matthijs Ouendag, hatter at Harlingen, was owner of the property registered in the Land Registry, municipality of Harlingen, Section A, N^{o} 588, being house and yard (Ward C N^{o} 35) of size 01.56; rental value f 75.—, later raised to f 200.—. That we are here indeed dealing with a son of the couple formerly living at Sneek may be argued from the marriage concluded there on 17 July 1825 of Grietje Jetzes Bakker, aged 23, at Sneek, with Hermanus Ouendag, aged 22, hatter, resident at Harlingen, son of Mathijs Ouendag, hatter at Harlingen, and Aafke Broos, deceased. And that the property now occupied by Miss Sluik-Fortuin really is the same as the premises sold in 1788 and 1795 is proved by the "through" alley still present today on the west side of the house, which connects the Voorstraat with the Noorderhaven.

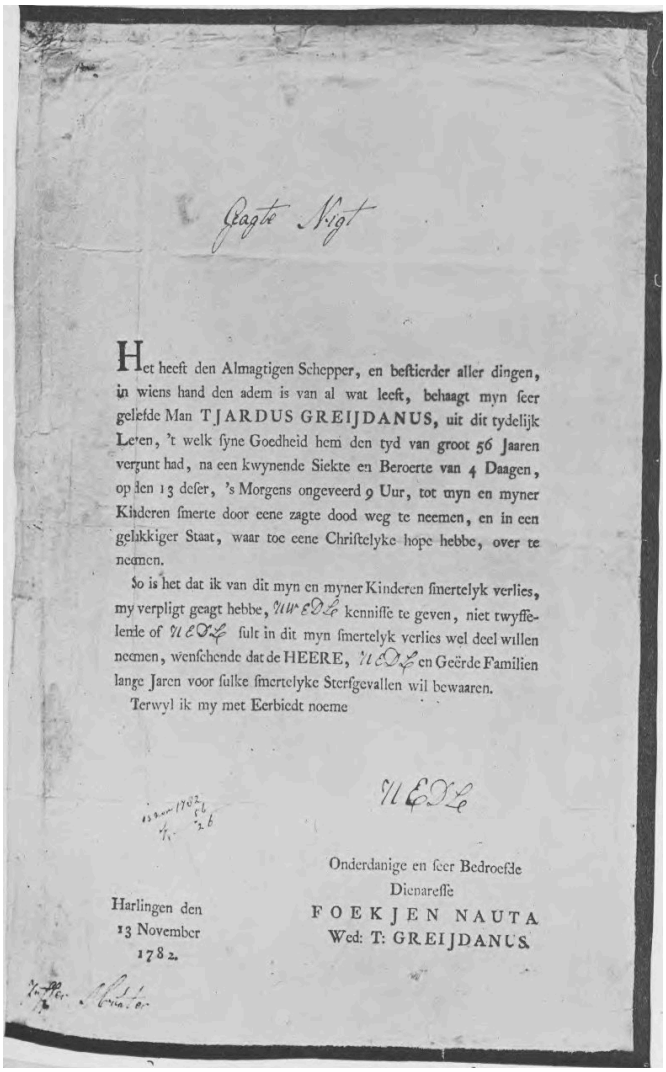
At the sale in 1788 the pharmacy shop with all the loose and fixed shelving in the front room remained the property of Tjeerd Greijdanus' widow Foeckjen Nauta. Probably that shop with its appurtenances had been let by Tjeerd Greijdanus shortly before his death on 13 November 1782 to Anne Jelles Tadema, who according to the Resolution below of 6 May 1782 in the Resolution Book 1780—1785 of the Harlingen Magistrate was "qualified" for "the taking over and practising of the pharmacy of Tjeerd Greidanus":

"Monday, 6 May 1782.

Deliberation was held on the Petition of Anne Jelles Tadema containing the request that, on the grounds alleged by him, and particularly because he was a burgher's son, and the number of inhabitants had notably increased over the past two or three years, he might obtain leave for the taking over and practising of the pharmacy of Tjeerd Greidanus and thus be dispensed from the Resolution taken by Their Honours on 27 December 1779 upon the Petition of the assembled apothecaries, and the well-weighed preliminary advice of the Gentlemen Physicians of this town, whereby the number of pharmacies should henceforth remain determined at four, etc.: Now however much Their Honours at that time commended the weight of the arguments brought forward by the Gentlemen Physicians, and especially the zeal employed by the late Mr. S. Stinstra in bringing the content of the aforesaid Resolution into effect, which arrangement Their Honours can still acknowledge only as tending to those same ends for which it was framed, they have nevertheless, in order to forestall the numerous solicitations of those who consider themselves aggrieved by this arrangement and thus deprived of their long-since conceived purpose, seen fit and resolved, as is seen fit and resolved by this, to set the aforesaid Resolution of 27 December 1779 provisionally out of effect and thus to qualify the person of Anne J. Tadema, together with anyone who shall be pleased to undertake such an enterprise, for the taking over and practising of the pharmacy of Tjeerd Greidanus, Their Honours nevertheless reserving to themselves the right to make in future such Dispositions on this matter as they shall deem proper. And an Extract hereof shall be issued to the Gentlemen Physicians, apothecaries and to the said A. J. Tadema.

- (signed) B. van der Meulen. (signed) Jan Oosterhout.*
- " J. D. Toussaint.*
- " S. Feddema abs^{t} Secr."*

Anne J/elles/ Tadema, whom we find as "apothecary" and married to Antje Willems in, for example, the Harlingen Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of 20 May /10/17 June 1798/26 May /16/23 June 1798,



Zeagte Nigt

Het heeft den Almagtigen Schepper, en beſtierder aller dingen, in wiens hand den adem is van al wat leeft, behaagt myn ſeer geliefde Man TJARDUS GREIJDANUS, uit dit tydelijk Leven, 't welk ſyne Goedheid hem den tyd van groot 56 Jaaren vergunt had, na een kwynende Siekte en Beroerte van 4 Daagen, op den 13 deſer, 's Morgens ongeveerd 9 Uur, tot myn en myner Kinderen ſmerte door eene zagte dood weg te neemen, en in een gelukkiger Staat, waar toe eene Chriſtelyke hope hebbe, over te neemen.

So is het dat ik van dit myn en myner Kinderen ſmertelyk verlies, my verpligt geagt hebbe, UwEdle kenniſſe te geven, niet twyffelende of UEdle ſult in dit myn ſmertelyk verlies wel deel willen neemen, wenſchende dat de HEERE, UEdle en Geërde Familien lange Jaren voor ſulke ſmertelyke Sterfgevallen wil bewaaren.

Terwyl ik my met Eerbiedt noeme

UEdle

Onderdanige en ſeer Bedroefde Dienareſſe
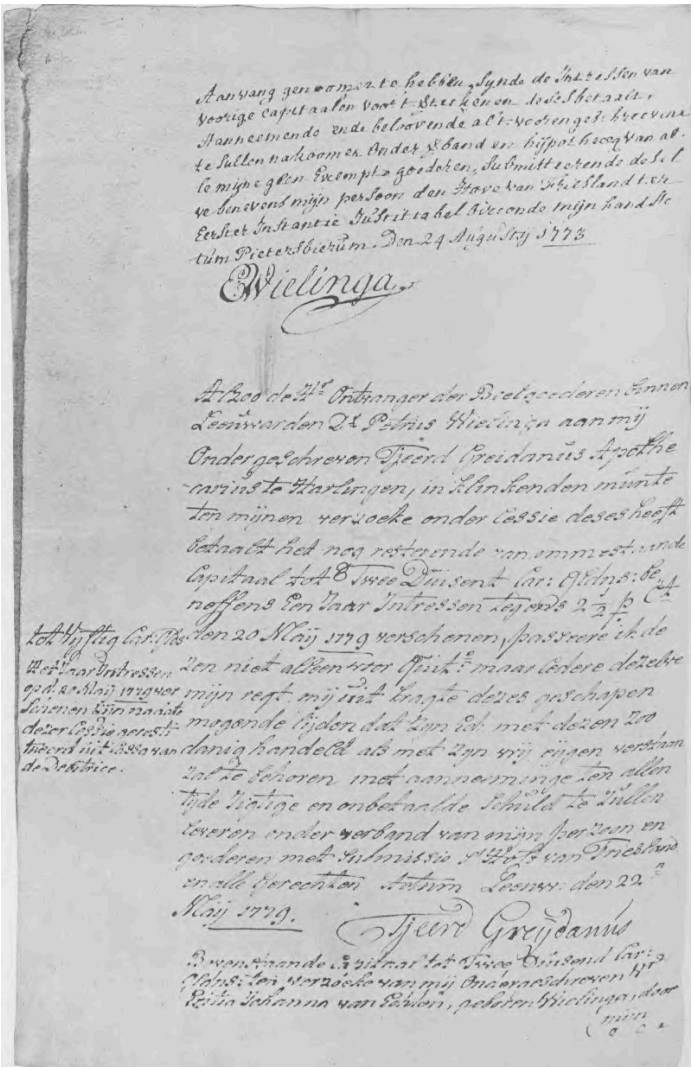
FOEKJEN NAUTA
Wed: T: GREIJDANUS.

Harlingen den
13 November
1782.

Printed communication of the death on 13 November 1782 of Tjardus (Tjeerd) Greijdanus (see page 358) (reduced).



Page of a bond dated 24 August 1773 from the Raadsheer (justice of the court) in the Court of Friesland Epeüs Wielinga to Tjeerd Greidanus (slightly reduced).

when he purchased the house on the Appelmerkt which he had been renting, appears to have established his apothecary's shop elsewhere soon after taking over the pharmacy of Tjeerd Greijdanus, for in the Reëelcohieren (property-tax registers) of 1783—1786 he appears as occupier of a house in the 2nd city quarter N° 192, while the house of Tjeerd Greydanus is entered as N° 110 in the 7th city quarter.

As may already be inferred from the purchase in 1763 of the house on the Voorstraat at Harlingen for a sum of 3350 car. guilders, Tjeerd Greijdanus must have belonged to the well-to-do citizens of that town. This appears to be confirmed by an original bond in my possession, from which it appears that he repeatedly lent considerable sums, up to 3200 car. guilders, to Epeus Wielinga, Raad-ordinaris (ordinary councillor) in the Court of Friesland[1]. A copy of this bond follows below:

[the copied document is printed in two columns; the left column contains the marginal annotations, the right column the text of the bond.]

"The first year's interest, due 20 May 1774,
was paid with eighty car.: guilders on the 1st of June 1774.
On 5 Nov. 1774, in reduction, at the request of the creditor, two hundred car.
guilders were paid on the capital and two car. guilders
ten stuivers for half a year's interest to 20 November 1774, so reckoned for the sake of evenness.
The capital thus remaining 3000—.— 1775 paid
1776 paid
1777 paid
In reduction of this capital, now being 3000 £, there has
at the request of the creditor been paid
three hundred car. guilders and twenty-five stuivers interest from 20 May to 20 July 1777 and thus for 2 months.
Done at Leeuwarden
the 19 July 1777
The capital now remaining still 2700 £.
1778 paid.
In reduction of this capital there has again
at the request of the creditor been paid
seven hundred car.
guilders, besides

four car. guilders seven stuivers eight penningen for three months' interest reckoned from 20 May to 20 Aug: 1778.
Done at Leeuw: the 29 Aug: 1778.
Epeús Wielinga, Raad ordinaris in the Court of Friesland, declare by this that I am honestly and duly indebted to Mr. Tjeerd Greidanus, aforementioned Apothecary at Harlingen, in the sum of one thousand six hundred car. guilders, on account of the splitting of the remaining capital of 8 May 1763, of the sum of three thousand car. guilders advanced to me by his honour cum soc., and on which I had paid one thousand car. guilders in reduction, and now on this date I have also passed a bond of 1000 guilders to his brother Jan Greidanús, Doctor of Medicine at Bolswart, wherefore I have withdrawn the above bond, since the same is satisfied by this with the 1000 guilders in the 1st part; and the abovementioned had its origin in six hundred car. guilders which on 3 June 1762[2] were advanced to me by the creditor's half-sister Aafke Dirks Grada[3]
And so he had received these 600 guilders by reason of a legacy from that estate, and after the passing of a bond at my charge returned the original to me, and so this advance is in a 2nd part; and since the said creditor still holds at my charge a bond of one thousand eight hundred car. guilders dated the November 1769, on which however two hundred car. guilders have been paid in reduction, and thus there remains thereon one thousand six hundred car. guilders; and since his honour has preferred to let me keep the said moneys, with the enjoyment of the same interest, rather than have them paid up, so I declare hereby to take up the said 1600 guilders also in a third and last part, making together in one sum three thousand two hundred car. guilders, renouncing therefore, after restitution of the abovementioned bonds, all exceptions of miscalculation, of moneys or bonds not received, this being done for convenience' sake, so that hereby I anew undertake to repay the said 3200 guilders in ringing coin and by no means with any provincial bonds, with two guilders ten stuivers yearly interest on every hundred, with a proper schedule of the whole or a part of the sum owed, on which I shall have the liberty to repay the sum in amounts of 500 guilders; and should the said capital happen to remain outstanding longer than a year, the said interest shall run in proportion to the time, and shall be reckoned to have begun on the whole capital from 20 May 1773, the interest on previous capitals having been paid before the signing hereof;
undertaking and promising to fulfil all the aforewritten and under pledge and mortgage of all my goods, none exempted, submitting the same together with my person to the Court of Friesland in the first instance. Justiciable; in witness my hand. Done done at Pietersbierum, 24 August 1773.
(signed) E. Wielinga.

[1] He was a son of Johannes Wielinga, Postmaster of Friesland 1692—1709, and Dieucke Westerhuis, and appears on the genealogical chart belonging to page 272.

[2] This is not correctly stated, since Aafke Dirks Grada already died on 23 March 1761 (see page 298).

[3] See page 297 and following.

Whereas the Ontvanger der Boelgoederen (receiver of estate-sale goods) at Leeüwarden, Dr Petrus Wielinga, has paid to me, the undersigned Tjeerd Greidanüs, Apothecary at Harlingen, in hard coin, at my request and under cession of this deed,
the still remaining part of the capital stated overleaf, amounting to Two Thousand Car: gldns:, together with one year's interest at $2^1/_2$ p Ct, fallen due on 20 May 1779, I pass this not only as a receipt but also cede thereby my right, arising to me by virtue of this, being content that His Honour may deal herewith in such manner as he shall think fit with his own free property, undertaking at all times to deliver a legally acknowledged[1] and unpaid debt, under pledge of my person and goods, with submission to the Court of Friesland and all courts. Done at Leeuw:, the 22nd of May 1779.
(signed) Tjeerd Greijdanus."
[note printed in the left margin of the preceding quotation:] amounting to fifty Car: Glds.
The year's interest fallen due on 20 May 1779 was, after the date of this cession, refunded out of the cash of the debtrix.

From the document, one page of which has been reproduced facing the preceding page, it further appears that the bond of 2000 Car.gls had passed to the daughter of the Councillor Epeüs Wielinga: Lady Eritia van Echten, née Wielinga. She became indebted for the said sum to her cousin, the Leeuwarden receiver of estate-sale goods Dr. Petrus Wielinga, who paid off the debt to Tjeerd Greydanus and to whom accordingly the 2000 Car.gls was repaid on 1 March 1783.

On 27 July 1763 Tjeerd Greijdanus has further been found as "Deacon" of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Harlingen.

Tjeerd Greydanus died at Harlingen 13 November 1782 in the morning at about 9 o'clock, as appears from a printed announcement by his wife to "Miss the Lady Henderina Múnter in the Meermans hofke, Leiden". This announcement, which is in the possession of Dr. H. Th. van Wimersma Greidanus at Utrecht (N° 457 of this genealogy), is reproduced herewith.

The relationship between Foekjen Nauta and Hendrina Munter appears from the following scheme:

none [the right-hand entry is printed on two lines, "Hendrikje Munter" and "Hendrina Munter", with one date; it is transcribed here as printed.] - Antje Alefs — m. Harlingen 13 Dec. 1705 - ⚭ Michiel (Eiberts) (van) Munter - Petronella Munter — m. Harl. 22 May 1735 - ⚭ Sipke Sjoerds Nauta - Foekjen Nauta - ⚭ Tjeerd Greijdanus - Eibert Munter — † ± 1743 - ⚭ Anna Oosterhuys — in 1743 at Leiden - Pieternella Munter — b. ± 1721 - Jepke Munter — b. ± 1730 - Hendrikje Munter — Hendrina Munter, b. ± 1732.

MARRIED:

FOEKJE (FOEKJEN, FOECKJEN) NAUTA, 22 April 1764 at Harlingen, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed Baptismal and Marriage Register (Great Church) of Harlingen:

"1764. Tjeerd Greidanus and Foekje Nauta both of harlingen Proclaimed the 15—17 And married the 22 April."

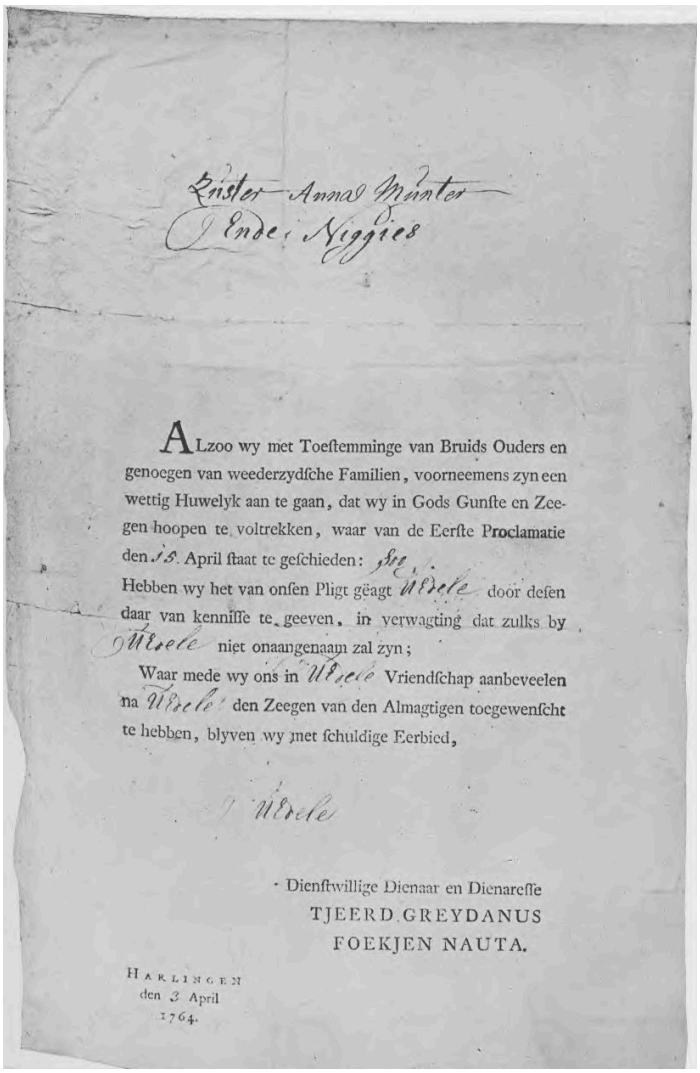
In the possession of Dr. H. Th. van Wimersma Greidanus at Utrecht (N° 457 of this genealogy) is the printed letter of announcement reproduced herewith, by which Tjeerd Greidanus and Foekjen Nauta gave notice of their intended marriage to Foekjen Nauta's aunt: "Mistress the Lady Anna Oosterhúis, widow of Eibert Múnter, on the Oúde Vest in the little courtyard at Leiden", who appears in the above scheme.

[1] Or "gigtige", that is, acknowledged in law.



Zuster Anna Munter
t Ende, Niggies

ALzoo wy met Toeſtemminge van Bruids Ouders en genoegen van weederzydſche Familien, voorneemens zyn een wettig Huwelyk aan te gaan, dat wy in Gods Gunſte en Zeegen hoopen te voltrekken, waar van de Eerſte Proclamatie den 18. April ſtaat te geſchieden: Hebben wy het van onſen Pligt geägt Uwele door deſen daar van kenniſſe te geeven, in verwagting dat zulks by Uwele niet onaangenaam zal zyn;

Waar mede wy ons in Uwele Vriendſchap aanbeveelen na Uwele den Zeegen van den Almagtigen toegewenſcht te hebben, blyven wy met ſchuldige Eerbied,

Uwele

Dienſtwillige Dienaar en Dienareſſe
TJEERD GREYDANUS FOEKJEN NAUTA.

HARLINGEN
den 3 April 1764.

Printed communication of the marriage (on 22 April 1764) of Tjeerd Greydanus and Foekjen Nauta (reduced).

Foekje Nauta must have been born ± September 1740, since she died 30 December 1800 at the age of 60 years and 3 months.

Her baptismal record in the Reformed Baptismal and Marriage Register (Groote Kerk) of Harlingen reads as follows:

> "1741 On 5 November Sipke Nauta the father > and Petronella Munter the mother and the child > Foekje baptized W. K.[1]"

Foekje Nauta was a daughter of Sipke Sjoerds Nauta and Petronella Munter, who married at Harlingen on 22 May 1735. The marriage was proclaimed in church at Harlingen on 8, 15 and 22 May 1735 and before the court on 7 May 1735, with "the Burgem/eeste/r June Munter" appearing for the bride.

Sipke Sjoerds Nauta was Borger Hopman (citizens' militia captain) of the 4th Quarter at Harlingen. We find him mentioned in the Harlingen proclamatieboek (register of property sales), dated 17 Dec. 1752/14/21 Jan. 1753 and 23 Dec. 1752/20/27 Jan. 1753, when as "Borger Hopman within Harlingen, for one half together with Hilbrand Dirks, precentor in the Westerkerk, for the other half, he bought for 225 car.gl. the house with all movable and immovable goods on the east side of the Nieuwe Haeven near the Zuiderbrugge". In the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of 1755 he appears in the 4th quarter, under N° 231 as "Bruiker" (tenant), and in the 7th quarter, under N° 78 as "Eigenaar" (owner), which last entry had already lapsed by 1765. In the register of 1780 his widow is entered as tenant of 4th quarter N° 238 (formerly N° 231). As Hopman of the 4th quarter he was "discharged" on 29 September 1777 on account of his "weak bodily condition", as appears from the following resolution in the Resolution Book 1769—1780 of the Harlingen Magistracy:

"Monday, 29 Septemb. 1777.
The Magistracy being assembled, it has been thought good and resolved, in the place of the Hopman of the 4th quarter Sipke Nauta, discharged at his own request on account of his weak bodily condition, to appoint again the Ensign H. Mollema as Hopman in the same quarter, and in the place of this promoted Ensign Mollema the person of Michiel Nauta[2] as Ensign in the above-mentioned 4th quarter. Done as above.
In witness of me
Secretary
(signed) A. I. Conradi"

Besides as Hopman, Sipke Sjoerds Nauta has also been found at Harlingen as Burgomaster and, in connection with the Admiralty of Friesland, as "ship keeper" and as "beachmaster".

The death of Foekje Nauta at Harlingen on 30 December 1800 at the age of 60 comes to light through the following family announcement, placed in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Saturday the 3rd of January A°. 1801. N° 2527. The Seventh Year of Batavian Liberty, and following numbers.

 Today died of the consequences of consumption our dear Mother Foekje Nauta, Widow of the late T. Greidanus, at the age of 60 Years and 3 Months; of which we give notice to Relatives and Acquaintances in this customary way[3].
Harlingen Jan Willem Douwes.
the 30th of December Petronella Greidanus.
1800. Also in the name of our Brother Dom. A. Greidanus."

If there is one family name in Friesland on which it is difficult to get a fix, and which is borne by various families who appear to be entirely unrelated to one another and thus seem to have no ties of blood, then it is surely the name Nauta. It is the same with it as with the name Faber; both are Latinized occupational names, the one from skipper and the other from smith. The inland shipping of the Frisian water country, but still more the seafaring proceeding from the Frisian port towns, has given rise to a motley mixture of Nautas, whose mutual family connection does not appear to be demonstrable.

[1] Wester Kerk.

[2] A son of Sipke Sjoerds Nauta, baptized at Harlingen on 14 December 1738.

[3] The placing of family announcements came into fashion in Friesland around 1795.

The Harlingen family to which Foekje Nauta belonged bore a family coat of arms, a depiction of which is given here and the heraldic description of which is as follows:

party per pale: 1. the Frisian eagle. 2. per fess: a. blue, with a man's head in natural colour, covered by a red pointed cap. b. ship in natural colour on a green sea against a silver sky.

"Nauta"

A Leeuwarden family Nauta appears to have borne the following family coat of arms:

silver, with a green tree on a grassy ground, accompanied by 2 (red?) goats climbing against the trunk. All in natural colour. Crest: issuant (red?) goat. Torse and mantling: silver and green.

CHILDREN:

1.	Ds. Ausonius Greidanus,	who follows under number: 101.
2.	Petronella Greidanus,	who follows under number: 102.
3.	Sipke Greidanus,	who follows under number: 103.
4.	Janke Greidanus,	who follows under number: 104.

58 GUALTHERUS GREIJDANUS

Line of descent: Ausonius 18 ← Tjardus 5II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Pietersbierum, 19 April 1729 · son of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus (N° 18) and Janke Sipkes

He was born at Pietersbierum on 19 April, baptized on 1 May by his father Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, minister there, and died 8 May 1729.

This follows from the entry below in the Reformed baptismal register of Pietersbierum:

> "On 1 May (1729) D: A. Greidanus > had his son baptized and he was named Gualtherus"

to which has been added: "having been born on 19 April, died on 8 May."

59 GUALTHERUS (GUALTERUS, WOLTERUS) GREYDANUS (GREIDANUS)

Line of descent: Ausonius 18 ← Tjardus 5II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Pietersbierum, 15 July 1730 · son of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus (N° 18) and Janke Sipkes · m. Antje Haitsma, 1758

The given name Gualtherus is derived from the Steenkist family. Thus the grandfather of Eelckien Steenkist, the grandmother of Gualtherus Greydanus, was called Gualtherus Steenkist. The name Gualtherus now appears to be identical with the name Wolterus. The said Gualtherus Steenkist for instance, that is the later minister of Wynaldum Ds. Gualtherus Johannes à Steenkist, is entered in the Album studiosorum of the Franeker Academy under the date of 2 April 1610 as Wolterus Johannis à Steenkist, Franeq. Ph. Studiosus (Latin: of Franeker, student of philosophy). The grandfather of this minister was again called Gualtherus, Wolterus or Wouter Steenkist /see the draft belonging to page 216: fragment genealogy Steenkist (à Steenkist, Van Steenkist). Our Gualtherus Greydanus has also once been found with the given name "Wolterus" (see page 364).

Gualtherus Greydanus was born at Pietersbierum on 15 and baptized there on 23 July 1730 by his father, the Pietersbierum minister Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Pietersbierum:

> "(1730). On 23 July D. A. Greidanus
> had his son baptized and he was named Gualtherus"

to which has been added: "having been born on the 15th of the same".

Gualtherus Greydanus became a burgher of Franeker on 13 Nov. 1749, as appears from the entry below in the Burgher book of that town. :

> "Gualterus Greidanus, born at Pytt.bierum 13 Nov. 1749."

He was a cloth merchant there and evidently continued the cloth trade which the 3 sisters Steenkist, sisters of his grandmother Eelckien Steenkist, had carried on before him on the Voorstraat at Franeker.

On page 289 it has been related that the father of Gualtherus Greydanus, Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus at Pietersbierum, was the sole heir of the last survivor of those 3 Steenkist sisters, Maycke Steenkist, who died at Franeker on 12 January 1747. Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus thus also became owner of the house with the cloth shop on the Voorstraat at Franeker, which the 3 Steenkist sisters had purchased in 1716 for 2000 car.gl., according to the following entry dated 17 October 1716 (page 110) in the Franeker Protocolboek (register of deeds):

> "Hiske, Maycke and Jancke Steenkist, unmarried women at Franeker, purchase for 2000 car.gl. from Elisabeth Hania, widow of De Gavere at Bolswart, a house with appurtenances with a garden behind it, standing and situated on the Voorstraat opposite the Valck, inhabited by the purchasers themselves, having Jouck Jacobs, butcher, to the East and the heirs of Teecke Metwerda to the West."

The house with cloth shop which he had inherited, Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus appears to have given over during his lifetime for the use of his son Gualtherus, since in the Reëelcohieren (real-estate tax registers) of Franeker Maycke Steenkist is still mentioned for 1747 as owner of the property 1^{e} West N^{o} 5, rental value 122, assessment 22—3—10, but for the years 1748 up to and including 1759 D^{ns} Greydanus is named as Owner and his son G. Greydanus as user. For 1760 the Owner changes to D^{ns} Greijdanus Erven — Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus died in 1759 —, which entry remains so up to and including the year 1763, in which year the user Gualtherus Greidanus has given place to D^{ns} Lemke Wed.. The rental value and the tax have meanwhile also undergone alteration, for in 1763 a sum of 150—:—: is given as rent, and the assessment has risen to 27—5—6. The register of 1765 shows that a division and partition has taken place among the heirs of Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, for there the general designation "D^{ns} Greydanus Erven" is explained by: "That is, Dr. J. Greydanus and Maria Greydanus" (the two youngest children of Ds. Ausonius Greydanus). Thus the situation remains up to and including the year 1772, in which year this property too passed out of the "Greydanus" family, since it was then sold for 3000 car.gl. to the Ladies Lemke, according to the following entry dated 8 November 1772 (page 216 verso) in the Franeker Protocolboek:

> "Johannes Greydanus, Doctor of Medicine at Bolswart, and Marijke Greydanus, assisted by her husband Tjalle Boscha, member of the Vroedschap (town council) at Harlingen, sell together and each for the lawful half to the Misses Dorothea Lemke, widow of Higt, and Johanna Aletta Lemke, both at Franeq^{r}, a substantial house, containing five rooms with a small kitchen, together with a garden with appurtenances, standing at Franequer on the Voorstraat, further encumbered with 10 years' lease, belonging thereto to Mr. Clerk M. Hulshuis, to commence at May 1773 for 110 car.gl. a year, having as neighbours I. Fennema to the East, Mr. van Rees to the West, the common watercourse to the South and the Public Street to the North, for three thousand car.gl.. Done at Bolswart, 8 November 1772.
> (signed): J. Greydanus, Maria Greydanus, T. S. Boscha, A^{b} Wiaerda, actuary and witness."

Just before this the house had been offered for private sale by Dr. Johannes Greydanus at Bolsward in the following advertisement, appearing in the "Leeuwarder Woensdagse Courant" N^{o} 796 of 5 August 1772 and following numbers, from which advertisement it appears that at that time the house, in which a cloth shop was still established, was let to the present purchasers, the Misses Lemke, who at that moment still carried on the cloth shop:

> "A house for private sale, standing at Franeker on the side opposite the Valk, inhabited by the Misses Lemke as tenants, in which for many years there has been a cloth shop, and which is still carried on with much success. Enquire of Doctor Greidanus at Bolsward."

In the year 1773 D^{ns} Lemke Wed^{e} cum soc. is then mentioned in the Franeker Reëelcohier as owner, and the rental value has been reduced to 125—.—. and the assessment to 22—14—8, with the note "appraised by order of the Honourable Court by the Town's Master Carpenter and Master Mason".

The house on the South side of the Voorstraat at Franeker, in which first the Steenkist sisters and later Gualtherus Greydanus had a cloth shop, was registered, as mentioned above, as N^{o} 5 in the town district "Eerste West".

From the Repertoire of the Franeker notaries I. Telting and Stinstra it appears that by deed dated 20 March / 3 April 1826 “the shop premises, house and yard cum annexis” on the Voorstraat at Franeker, quarter Eerst-West N° 5, were sold for 2023 gl. to the Franeker apothecary Cornelis van Rees, whose property in 1830, at the establishment of the Kadaster (land registry), was numbered 708.

This former cadastral number is now numbered A N° 995. It is the fourth house, counting from the Diaconie-Weeshuis (Bothnia-Huis) standing on the corner of the Voorstraat and the Breede Plaats, and is numbered Voorstraat 91. It has recently been converted into the cinema theatre “Amicitia”, whereby, according to a photograph of the front façade in my possession, practically nothing remains of the former gentleman's house with cloth shop.

Concerning Gualtherus Greydanus as a cloth merchant from 1748 to 1762 on the Voorstraat at Franeker, we are still somewhat informed by the following documents:

In the “Register of families and persons of the town of Franeker and its outlying districts, together with the assessment of the same taken according to consumption and for the payment of the State's levy to the sum of 900,000 gl. lost upon the abolition of the leases”, kept in the Municipal Archive of Franeker, one finds: ”12 March 1749 1st West: G. Greidanus, being a cloth merchant, well-to-do, 3 persons above 12 years, no child, assessment 50 gl.”

In the “Banga-Archief”, preserved in the Municipal Archive at Franeker, there occurs under I8a an account of Baucke and Pytter Eysma, children and heirs (their mother was Batie Altena). Under the heading: Private expenditure for Arrien Eisma at Harlingen, surviving son of the late Batie Altena and Bauwcke Eisma, one finds among the “Expenditures” of this account: ”On 23 September 1752 paid to the merchant G. Greidanus 25 car.gl. 7 strs for cloth merchant's shop wares delivered, receipt and quittance marked N° 26 . . . . . 25—7—:”

In the Informatieboek (book of examinations) of Franeker (D 2) one finds concerning a theft to the detriment of Gualtherus Greydanus, dated 17 November 1760, the following:

> Gualterus Greijdanus, merchant, here, in his 31st year, declares that the accused Antje Wijbis lived with him (the witness) as a maidservant from the month of January until 12 November 1760, and that the accused confessed to him, the witness, and to his wife, the co-witness, that she had taken from the witness's shop 1¼ ell of striped flannel, a hoop of whalebone[1] and a piece of Bolsward work, but that of the other goods she knew nothing else than that the seamstress also had, on the account of the accused, 1½ ell of cadullie grosgrain, a piece of chamois leather and 1 ell of braid ribbon, but where those goods came from the witness cannot determine, and that the said goods were all found with the co-witness Akke Heerts[2] in order to make clothes from them for the accused, and that there was also found there a piece of red and blue English checked cloth, which the accused said she had bought from Jan[3] Cramer,[4] which piece, together with a baize skirt, the accused confessed that she had bought those goods with money which she, the accused, had stolen from him, the witness, and his wife, which confession the accused made on the 13th of this month at the witness's house, and after that she asked to be allowed to go out to the back, which he (the witness) granted, but the accused did not return, and made off at the back over the palings and, as is said, through the house of the merchant Johannes Sannes; the witness further declaring that in the spring a piece of black English cloth had also gone missing from the counter in the front room, which he, the witness, also put to the accused, who likewise admitted having stolen it and that she had brought the same to Vroedsman (town councillor) Claas Tiensma[5] to be sold, whereupon the witness asked how much she had received for it, to which the accused answered that Vroedsman C. Tiensma had said “with the money we shall settle it” and that she had as yet received no payment for it.
>
> Antje Haitsma, wife of the aforesaid merchant G. Greijdanus, in her 32nd year, declares that the accused . . . much the same follows as above . . . she (the witness) not having been in the room the whole time that her husband G. Greijdanus was speaking with the accused about it, and therefore not having heard specifically named everything that she had indeed stolen; the accused having also confessed that she had bought a pair of stockings with money that she had stolen from the witnesses, and that she, the accused, had on several occasions stolen money from the witness's husband's jacket.
>
> Further declarations are made by: Yttje Migchiels, maidservant with the merchant G. Greijdanus, in her 22nd year, Akke Heerts, wool seamstress at Franeker, in her 24th year, and Claas Tiensma, member of the town council of the town of Franeker, in his 58th year.

[1] (for a skirt)

[2] (seamstress)

[3] (Aukes)

[4] (with money that she had stolen from the witness)

[5] (he denies this)

And in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Franeker the following acknowledgements of debt are recorded:

> “18 Nov. 1762 (registered 18 Nov. 1762). Gualterus Greijdanus, merchant at Franeker, owing 334 car.gl. 14 st. to Johan van der Zouw, prominent merchant in English manufactures at Amsteldam at 3%”; > “20 Nov. 1762 (registered 20 Nov. 1762). G. Greidanus, merchant at Frenaker owing 28 car.gl. 16 st. to Jan ten Brinck, linen merchant in the County of Lingen at Mettingen, on account of 18 ells of cambric”, with 18 st. interest per year“;
> “6 Dec. 1762 (registered 6 Dec. 1762). Gualtherus Greidanus, merchant at Franeker owing 48 car. gl. to Lieuwe Pieters Stoeltje, Mede Vroetschap (town councillor) at Bolswart, for shop goods supplied, no interest to be paid on these sums during the 10 weeks”.

So in 1763 Gualtherus Greydanus was no longer the occupant of the house with the cloth shop on the Voorstraat at Franeker. The cloth shop itself seems to have been allotted to him at the death of his father, for, as appears from the following advertisement, placed in the

"Leeuwarder Woensdagse Courant" N° 291 of 1 December 1762 and in the "Leeuwarder Saturdagse Courant" N° 541 of 4 December 1762, he offered it for private sale at the end of 1762, together with the shop goods:

> "Offered for private sale: A fine and modern Shop, well stocked with all sorts of English Manufactures, on reasonable terms as regards the instalments of payment. Whoever is interested should apply before 6 December at the house of the Merchant G. Greidanus at Franeker."

After 1762, in which year his wife was buried on 5 March, while his only child had already died in 1760, we find him, apparently as a lodger, in 1st West N° 20, and in 1767 he moved to Harlingen.

All this has come to light from the Franeker Speciecohier (poll-tax register), in which for 1762 he is still recorded under 1st West N° 5 (that was the property on the Voorstraat), assessed at $2^1/_2$ haardsteden (hearths), 2 heads, assessment 15—:—:; for the following years he appears, apparently as a lodger, under 1st West N° 20, assessed at 1 head with 3—:—: (his dwelling N° 5 had been taken over by Dns Lémke Wede from 1st North N° 4, assessed at $1^1)_2$ haardsteden, 3 heads, with the note "one hearth closed"/, and, according to the register of 1767, he had moved to Harlingen.

At the back of the Franeker Personeelcohier (personal-tax register) of 1760 there is entered as "come in": Gualterus Greidanus $^1/_4$ from Dns Greidanus of Pietersbierum 2750—.—.[1] (assessment 30—5—0); in 1761 he is mentioned with the same figures under "Eerste West", while in the years 1766 to 1772 the amounts have been altered to 1000—:—: (assessment 11—:—:). In 1773 he no longer appears.

From his moving into a much less considerable dwelling after 1762, the decrease of his tax assessments, and the acknowledgements of debt already mentioned, including even one of barely 28 car.gl. for "cambric" supplied to him, it may be inferred that Gualtherus Greydanus gradually fell on hard times.

This is confirmed by the following entries as well in the Franeker Hypotheekboek, from which it appears that he borrowed considerable sums from his nearest relatives, such as his two brothers Tjeerd and Jan Greydanus, his sister Marijke Greydanus and his father-in-law Johannes Haijes Haitsma, former Burgomaster of Franeker, and that at the death of his wife he had "consumed" "during the marriage" more than 2600 car.gl. of the capital of over 4200 car.gl. brought in by her at their marriage, "through misfortune in business":

> "17 May 1759/11 April 1762 (registered 30 Sept. 1762). Gualtherus Greijdanus and Antje Haitsma, spouses at Franeker, owing 800 car.gl. to Hyke Fedder."
> "14 Augs 1761/12 March 1762 (registered 11 Septemb. 1762). Gualterus Greydanus and Antje Haitsma spouses at Franeker, owing 2000 car.gl. to Tjeerd, Jan and Marijke Greijdanus".
> "1 Nov. 1761 (as above). Gualterus Greydanus (at Franeker) owing 387 car.gl. 2 strs to Tjeerd Greijdanus, Apothecary at Harlingen."
> "12 March 1762 (as above). Gualtherus Greydanus, merchant at Franeker owing 2213 car.gl. 12 strs $6^1/_2$ penn. to Jan Greijdanus, arising from purchased and appraised shop goods and household furnishings, appraised to me and my late wife at the contracting of our marriage."

[1] From this it follows that Ds. Ausonius Greidanus at Pietersbierum left an estate of 4 × *f*2750.— = *f*11000.—.

> "12 March 1762 (as above). Gualterus Greydanus, merchant at Franeker, owes 999 car.gl. 19 st. to Johannes Haitsma, former Burgomaster of the town of Franeker, on account of that which of the capital of my late wife Antje Haitsma has remained with me, the debtor, according to the agreement made thereon dated 12 March 1762".
> "12 March 1762 (entered 12 September — October is meant — 1762). Johannes Haijes Haitsma, former Burgomaster of Franeker, for himself and as father and lawful guardian of his children Teatske, Trijntje, Attje, Poulus, Titia, Aggaeus V.D.M. at Midlum and Haye Haitsma, Erfgeseten (landed proprietor) at Tjerkwert, in their capacity as heirs ab intestato of his late daughter and sister Antje Haitsma, in life the wife of Gualterus Greydanus, merchant at Franeker.
> At the marriage Antje brought in an amount of 4213 car.gl. 12 st.; consumed during the marriage through misfortune in trade, fixed at f 1600.—, of which each of the Parties had to bear the half; further there was still to be paid 2213—12 st., besides the above-described bond of 999 car.gl. 19 sts; further Gualtherus Greydanus had to hand over to his wife's family drapery wares from the shop to the value of 200 gl., besides the clothing, silver and gold of his deceased wife."

On 5 February 1759 Gualtherus Greydanus, living at Franeker, together with his brother Jan became a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Pietersbierum, where his father was then still minister, as appears from the following entry in the Members' register of that Congregation:

> "1759. on 5 February
> Gualterus Greydanus }
> Jan Greydanus } son of D. A. Greydanus" > living at Franeker }

Gualtherus Greydanus is further found at Franeker in the "Brugboek" (bridge book) present in the Archive of that Municipality, in which one finds the following:

> "To the Buijrewal near de Valk Jan Schrader and G. Greijdanus have been appointed on 3 October 1757. The contributors to the said Buijrewal are as follows: The St. Martinikerk 3 houses, further reckoned the house formerly inhabited by the late F. Hoitsma up to the house of Mrs. J. Mulder, both inclusive (and the house of the late F. Hoitsma up to the house of G. Greydanus, both inclusive etc.).
> The Commissioners hereto are the merchant G. Greijdanus and the Apothecary Jan Schrader, according to commission dated 17 October 1757.
> On 28 March 1763 in place of G. Greijdanus the merchant Jelle Fennema.

> Note of the contributors to the dredging of the boundary ditch, running from the Voorstraat into the ditch of 't Nieuwhof, $11^{1}(_{2}$ Roede (rods) long and, for the determination of each one's quota, divided into $26^{1})_{2}$ Roede, for which payment is made as follows, among others the merchant G. Greijdanus for 1 R f 1—5—:.
> 12 May 1767. Commissioners of the dredging of the boundary ditch, running from the house of (the merchant Greijdanus, inhabited by the widow of D^{ns} Lemke) * to the deep behind the Waag near 't Eylandtje."
> * the words placed between the brackets have been struck through and altered to: the Vroedsman (town councillor) Johannes Claases Mulder.

Whether the decline of Gualtherus Greydanus must be attributed solely to "misfortune in trade" has not become apparent. The foregoing has indeed brought to light that he seemed to live on a grand scale, witness the keeping of two servants and the purchase of "house ornaments" at his marriage, and that he was robbed by his staff. As has already been stated, in 1767 — his wife and only child had already died in 1762 and 1760 respectively — he left for Harlingen, where he seems to have enlisted on a Dutch warship; at any rate the following entry occurs in the Collateraalboek (register of collateral succession duty) of Harlingen dated 21 April 1780:

> "There appeared at the Secretary's office Tjeerd Greydanus, Apothecary here, who declared that he declared for taxation such 1000 car.gls as have fallen to his share through the decease of his brother Wolterus Greidanus, deceased on the Nation's Warship de Eendragt in the Mediterranean Sea on 7 November 1779 (of which however the appearer had obtained legal knowledge a good couple of months after that date), by virtue of the fideicommissary disposition of the late Aafke Dirks Grada at Harlingen dated 9 January 1761, undertaking to deliver an Inventory thereof in due time and to make payment of the Collateraal."

According to the said entry, Gualtherus Greydanus died on 7 November 1779 at the age of 49 on "the Nation's Warship de Eendragt" in the Mediterranean Sea.

MARRIED:

ANTJE HAITSMA, 22 October 1758 at Pietersbierum.

The records relating to this marriage read as follows:

in the Reformed marriage register of Franeker:

> "(1758) On 15 Oct: Gualtherus Greijdanus merchant and > 22 Antje Haitsma young unmarried woman, both here
> 27½ On the 18th ditto one Binnenbot; on 22 October > 1758 attestation issued."

and in the Reformed marriage register of Pietersbierum:

"(1758) Gualtherus Greijdanus
and Antje Haitsma
at Franeker
with attestation from Franeker, on 22 October in the afternoon confirmed."

Gualtherus Greydanus and Antje Haitsma were thus evidently married by Gualtherus' father Ds. Ausonius Greydanus, who was then minister at Pietersbierum.

Antje Haitsma was a daughter of Johannes Hayes Haitsma and Anna Marike Ennema; she was born at Franeker 24 October 1729 and baptised there on 1 November following.

Her baptismal entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Franeker follows below:

"(1729) On 1 November the merchant
Johannes Hayes has a child baptised named Antje was born 24 October; the mother's name is Anna Marike Ennema"

According to this entry Johannes Haijes Haitsma was thus a "coopman" (merchant), and indeed, as appears from the following entry in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Hennaarderadeel, a tanner:

> "23 June 1735 (registered 20 July 1736). Watse Tietes, master shoemaker at Welsrijp, owes 100 car.gl. to Johannes Haijes Haytsma, also Vroedschap (member of the town council) and tanner, and Anna Maria Ennema, spouses at Franeker."

In the deed of 12 March 1762 in the Franeker Hypotheekboek (see preceding page) he is called "Old Burgemeester of Franeker". From the following baptismal entries of his children, Attje and Paulus, it appears that in 1736 he was Vroetsman (town councillor) (see also the foregoing entry in the Hypotheekboek of Hennaarderadeel) and in 1740 Burgomaster at Franeker:

"(1736) On the 25th ditto (October) the Vroets[m] Johannes Hajtsma has a child baptised named Attje"
"(1740) On the 5th April the Burg[m] J. Haytsma has a child baptised named Paulus Extract taken out on 30 March 1811 by the baptised person."

Antje Haitsma was buried at Franeker on 5 March 1762, so that she reached an age of only 32 years, as appears from the following entry in a Franeker register kept in the State Archives at Leeuwarden, "When they were buried" 1 Jan. 1735—21 Aug. 1768:

> "(1762) (On the) 5th ditto (March) (was buried) the wife > of G. Greydanus Antje Haitsma."

There are various families bearing the name Haitsma. First of all there is the distinguished, presumably noble family of that name, which originally had its seat at Makkum and bore a coat of arms of which the heraldic description reads:

party per pale: 1. the Frisian eagle
2. blue, with a silver rose in the chief and a golden trefoil in the base
Crest: a pair of wings, dexter silver, sinister blue.
Wreath and mantling: silver and blue.

That the name "Haitsma" has a noble lustre appears for example from the Civil Sentence Book of the Court of Friesland, of 20 Dec. 1527, in which Bonne Haythjeme litigates against Sijbrandt Bonge, his brother, and in which Doethje Boenge is called their father. And the Bonga family were of noble birth. Moreover, "Bonne Haeytzema's children" appear on the list of the Noblemen in Wonseradeel of the year 1505 (see Chronicle of Winsemius, fol. 403). Later this family had its seat in Barradeel (Minnertsga). A member of this family, Seeske Reins Haitsma of Minderscha, married Dirck Clasen Gerbranda, farmer at Ferwert (see the draft of a fragmentary genealogy of the non-noble Gerbranda family belonging with page 269).

It seems to me that the Franeker merchant and Burgomaster Johannes Haijes may well have made the name Haitsma out of his patronymic, as was rather more customary in those days. Without further proof I would not yet wish to apply the noble Haitsma arms straight away to Antje Haitsma, the wife of Gualtherus Greydanus, which is why an illustration of these arms has been omitted here.

CHILD:

Anna Marija Greydanus, who follows under number: 105.

---

60 DR. JAN (JOHANNES, JOHANNIS, JOANNES) GREIDANUS (GREIJDANUS, GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Ausonius 18 ← Tjardus 5II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

He was born at Pietersbierum on 14 and baptized there by his father, the Pietersbierum minister Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, on 20 June 1734, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Pietersbierum:

(Latin) "(1734)
On 20 June Dng A. Greidanus had his son, born on the 14th of the same month, baptized, and he was named Jan."

In 1752 he was enrolled as a student at the University of Franeker.

The entries read as follows:

in the Album Academiæ Franekeranæ kept in the State Archives of Friesland, in which the names of the students were entered by the Rector:

(Latin) "In the year MDCCLII, under Rector M. Wilhelmo Ouwens, the following declared their names:
Johannes Greidanus"
(Latin) "In the year MDCCLIII, under the same Rector (Emone Lucio Vriemoet) publicly enrolled:
Johannes Greidanus"
(Latin) "In the year 1756.
Under Rector Magnificus Hermanno Cannegieter, the following declared their names and were publicly enrolled:
Joannes Greydanus"
(Latin) "For the third time, under Rector L. C. Valkenaer in the year 1759 enrolled were Joannes Greidanus" (Latin) "Under Rector B. Voorda in the year 1761, enrolled were Johannes Greidanus".

in the Album der Franeker Academie present in the Provincial Library of Friesland, in which the names were written by the students themselves:

> (Latin) "Under Rector > Guillelmo Ouwens
> they declared their names:
> In the year CIↃIↃCCLII:
> .....
> Johannes Greidanus . . . . . 3—3—:"

A reproduction of page 219, on which this last entry occurs, follows hereafter.

Furthermore, in this last album he is found entered in 1754 as (Latin) "student of History, Philosophy and Mathematics" and in 1755 and 1756 as (Latin) "student of medicine", while, according to the following entry occurring in that album, he was a candidate in medicine in 1760:

> (Latin) "Under Rector Aegidio Gillissen from the Kalends of October > in the year CIↃIↃCCLX they declared their names:
> Joh. Greijdanus a Frisian, Candidate in Medicine."

He took his doctorate in medicine at Franeker on 22 June 1762, as appears from the doctoral diploma in my possession, on parchment with the Academy seal hanging from a ribbon. The Latin text of the doctoral diploma, with my own translation into Dutch beside it, follows below:

(Latin) "THE RECTOR MAGNIFICUS AND THE PROFESSORS OF THE BOUNTIFUL ACADEMY OF THE FRISIANS, WHICH IS AT FRANEKER, GREETINGS TO THE READER.	THE RECTOR MAGNIFICUS AND THE PROFESSORS OF THE BOUNTIFUL ACADEMY OF THE FRISIANS, WHICH IS AT FRANEKER, GREETINGS TO THE READER.
Not lately nor in this recent age was that praiseworthy institution born, that those who to a faculty, an art or	Not only lately or in this century was that praiseworthy in-

Page from the Album Studiosorum of the Franeker Academy with the autograph entry Anno CIↃIↃCCLII of Johannes Greidanus (actual size).

[the Latin text and its Dutch translation are printed side by side in two columns; the Latin column is given first.]

(Latin) some science had wholly devoted themselves, having completed the course of their studies, being at last about to betake themselves to the common use of ordinary life, submit themselves to the judgement and examination of some Illustrious Academy, in order that from it they may obtain the honours due to virtue and learning: Following this praiseworthy custom, the Excellent and most Learned Mr. JOANNES GREYDANUS of PIETERSBIERUM, a Frisian, since he trusted that he had made such progress in the Faculty and Art of Medicine to which he had devoted himself that he could swim without corks, sought the judgement of our Academy; We however, having by virtue of our office embraced his most reasonable and most honourable request, after a preliminary trial, and after it had become abundantly clear to us concerning his most honourable and praiseworthy life, had him examined in the whole of Medicine, and heard him treat Aphorism XI on Pleurisy: peripneumonia is a bad sign, Hippocrates sect. VII, and Aphorism XII: after peripneumonia phrenitis is a bad sign, and answer fittingly to the arguments put forward. Since in all these things he had sufficiently proved his learning and skill joined with integrity of life, we gladly granted him the title of Doctor which he sought. Wherefore, by the Power of the Illustrious and High Mighty Estates of Friesland, by the Authority of the Rector Magnificus, and with the consent of the whole Most Distinguished Academic Senate, with the concurrence of the Medical Faculty, we have, after the preceding Hippocratic oath, through the most Renowned, most Experienced and most Learned Man, Mr. FEYO UDO WINTER, Doctor of Medicine, with us Ordinary Professor of Medicine and Chemistry, proclaimed, promoted and declared the aforesaid Mr. I. GREIJDANUS Doctor of Medicine, and have conferred upon him the Doctoral insignia, just as by these presents we proclaim, promote and declare him Doctor of Medicine, and we have given and do give him the power to ascend the Doctoral Chair, to teach from it, to interpret, to dispute, to give counsel, in short to perform all[1] acts belonging to the office of a Doctor of Medicine, conferring upon him the pre-eminences, privileges and dignities granted by law or by custom to the order of Doctors. In witness whereof we have caused this Diploma to be given to him, signed by the hand of the Rector Magnificus, of the aforesaid Mr. Promotor, of the Professors of the Medical Faculty and of the Secretary, and secured with the greater seal of our Academy appended. Done in the Senate Hall of our Academy. On the 22nd day of the month of June of the year 1762.

* (signed) Bavius Voorda Rector at this time
* W. Ouwens
* F. U. Winter
* Promotor
* C. E. de Lille
* P. R. Brouwer
* Secretary of the Academy of the Frisians"*

stitution arisen, that those who had devoted themselves entirely to a Faculty, to some art or science, when they have completed the course of their studies, and are at last to betake themselves to the common use of common life, submit themselves to the judgement and examination of some Illustrious Academy, in order that they may obtain from it the honorary titles due to virtue and learning. The Excellent and most Learned Gentleman JOANNES GREYDANUS, a Frisian from PIETERSBIERUM, following this Praiseworthy custom, when he trusted that he had made such progress in the Faculty and the Medical Art, to which he had devoted himself, that he could swim without corks, has desired the judgement of our Academy. We now have officially accepted his most reasonable and most honourable desire, and, after a previously instituted examination, and after it had been abundantly established for us concerning a most honourable and praiseworthy life of his, we have had him examined on the whole of Medical science. And we have heard him discuss Aphorism XI from Pleuritis Peripneumonia the disease of Hippocrates, Sect. VII, and Aphorism XII from Peripneumonia, the disease of Insanity; and heard him answer fittingly to the arguments brought forward. When he had sufficiently proved in all those things his learning and skill, joined with uprightness of life, we have gladly granted him the title of Doctor, which he desired. Wherefore we, by virtue of the Power of the Illustrious and High Mighty Estates of Friesland, the Authority of the Rector Magnificus, and the consent of the whole Glorious Academic Senate, with the approval of the Medical Faculty, have proclaimed, promoted and declared the aforesaid Mr. J. GREIJDANUS, after the (Hippocratic) doctor's oath had preceded, through the most Renowned, most Experienced and most Learned Man, Mr. FEYO UDO WINTER, Doctor of Medicine, with us ordinary Professor of Medicine and Chemistry, Doctor of Medicine, and we have handed over to him the Doctoral tokens, just as we, being now present, proclaim, promote and declare him Doctor of Medicine, and we have given him and do give him the competence to ascend the Doctoral Chair, to teach from it, to interpret, to dispute, to give counsel, in short to exercise all actions belonging to the office of the Doctor of Medicine, while we confer upon him the excellences, privileges, dignities granted by law or by custom to the estate of the Doctors. In assurance thereof we have had this Diploma given to him, signed by the hand of the Rector Magnificus, of the Professors of the Medical Faculty and of the Secretary, and confirmed by the appending of the great seal of our Academy. Done in the Senate Hall of our Academy, the 22nd of the month of June of the year 1762.

(signed) Bavius Voorda for the present time
* Rector
* W. Ouwens
* F. U. Winter
* Promotor
* C. E. de Lille.
* P. R. Brouwer.
* Secretary of the Frisian Academy.*

A few months after taking his doctorate he had himself enrolled as a student of law at the University of Leiden, as appears from the following entry on page 1075 of the "Album Studiosorum Academia Lugduno Batavæ", published by Nijhoff in 1875:

[1] should be "omnes".

> (Latin) "Under the Rectorate of Hieronymus David Gaubius II 1762.
> 12 Sept. Joannes Greidanus — Frisian. M. Dr. /and J."

At the Leiden Academy, however, he does not seem to have stayed long, for in the Pietersbierum members' register it is noted: "1763. On 7 August the Heer Jan Greydanus*, Doctor of Medicine, requested a certificate for Bolswart"*. For on 5 February 1759, although he was then living at Franeker, he had, together with his brother Gualtherus, become a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Pietersbierum, where his father Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus was still minister at that time (see page 364).

About August 1763 Johannes Greydanus must therefore have established himself as a medical doctor at Bolsward, where, as appears from the following entry in the Burgerboek (citizens' register), he acquired the citizenship on 21 September following:

> "On 21 September 1763 Johannis Gredanus of Pietersbierum admitted as a burgher of this city and paid the fee due for it, amounting to . . . . . 12—12—0."

According to the Bolsward proclamatieboek (register of property sales), he and his wife bought there on 21 October 1766 a sixth part of a "house and site, timber and sawmill" built by him together with others, standing outside the Sint Jansport on the Leeuwarden barge canal, for the sum of 1350 car.gl. The relevant proclamation follows below:

> "Johannis Greijdanus, Doctor of Medicine, and Johanna de Gavere, married couple at Bolsward, buy a certain sixth part of a certain house and site, timber and sawmill with appurtenances, lately erected by them in partnership with Eke Idses Blisma and associates, standing and lying outside the Sint Janspoort of the said city on the Leeuwaerder barge canal, with all the movable and immovable goods belonging and appertaining thereto, bur> dened as a whole with 7 car.gl. annual ground rent or one floreen tax for the site on which the mill stands etc.; secondly with 4 car.gl. annual rent for the enlargement of the Molenpolle, and thirdly with 8 car.gl. annual rent for the Kolk with appurtenances by the said mill, thus together burdened with 19 car.gl. 5 st. yearly to be paid to the Beneficialen (ecclesiastical benefice funds) of the city of Bolswart, and entitled in return to a free passage over the land belonging in ownership to the Beneficialen, in front of and behind the aforesaid house and mill — the married sellers still retaining in the said mill with all its appurtenances likewise a $^{1}/_{8}$ part; this sold property having the Beneficialen to the east and south, Burgomaster A. Agema to the north, and the canal to the west; thus acquired by purchase from Cornelis Durks Molenaar and Pijttie Jurres Reitsma, married couple under the city of Bolswart, for a sum of 1350 car.gl."

As appears from the following proclamation in the proclamatieboek of Bolsward, by which J. Eelcoma, who later remarried the widow of Johannes Greydanus, likewise bought with others a $^{1}/_{6}$ part of the said mill etc., Johannes Greydanus was still a co-owner of it on 1 April 1778:

> "1 April 1778. The Heer J. Eelcoma, Rector of the Latin Schools within Bolswardt, and Miss Idsarda Murrai, buy the rightful half of a $^{1}/_{8}$ part of the jointly owned house, site, timber and bark mill with appurtenances, held jointly with Secretary Petrus de Kok and associates, standing and lying outside the St. Janspoort of the aforesaid city on the towpath towards Leeuwaerden, being used by us, the married sellers, and associates, with all the movable and immovable goods belonging and appertaining thereto and having appertained thereto of old, except the sledge with its accessories, praam and scow and whatever else there is besides, which the buyers must pay to the sellers above the purchase sum according to the appraisal made, which is in the keeping of the co-owner Dr. Greidanus, the sold property being as a whole burdened with 7 car.gl. 5 st. ground rent or 1 floreen tax for the mill and the Polle, and for that also entitled to a free passage over the land of the Beneficialen to and from the mill, and likewise 4 car.gl. for the enlargement of that Polle and 8 car.gl. for the Kolk with appurtenances, together 19 car.gl. 5 st. yearly to be paid to the Beneficialen, acquired by purchase from Eeuwe Johannis and Aaltie Jans, married couple under Bolswart, for the sum of 675 car.gl."

On 8 November 1772 Johannes Greydanus sold the house on the Voorstraat at Franeker which he held in joint possession with his sister Marijke Greydanus; particulars concerning this sale have been given on page 361.

According to the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of Bolsward of the year 1774, Dr. Greydanus is entered as tenant (meijer) of parcel N^{o} 92 of the city quarter "van de Merk" (rent 65—.—., tax 11—16—6). As owners of this parcel are named Prof. Verschuir and B^{r} Elgersma.

In the Personeelcohieren (personal tax registers) of Bolsward Dr. Greijdanus appears with a capital of 6250.—, first in the city district "de Dijk", and in 1770 in the city district "de Merk". On the register of the year 1780 his name has been altered to Dr. Greijdanus Wed^{e}. Dr. Johannes Greijdanus must therefore have died at Bolsward in 1779 or 1780. On a part of a document in my possession his signature appears with the date "8 May 1779". In the members' book of the Reformed Congregation at Bolsward one finds under the heading "Record of the Members who since May of the year 1772 have come over to this congregation or joined it":

> "On the market
> . . . . . .
> D. . . . Greidanus (Latin) died 1780.
> . . . . . de Gavere (Latin) wife."

In the Minute Book of the Church Council of the said Congregation a meeting is recorded on 22 May 1779, in which the name of Doctor Greidanus is mentioned as elder. At an election of members of the Church Council on 13 May 1780 the name of Doctor Greidanus does not occur. The date of death of Dr. Johannes Greijdanus must therefore lie in 1780 before 13 May.

In the Library of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden there is a dissertation by Wildrik Wildrik of Coevorden, on which he took the degree of doctor of medicine at the Franeker Academy in the year 1761. The subject of the thesis, which appeared in 1761 at the press of Gulielmus Coulon Illustr. Frisiæ Ord. at Franeker, was the "Fabrica Pulmonum". To this thesis a few congratulations in verse were added, among them also one from the hand of Johannes Greydanus. The page on which the congratulation occurs in the dissertation is reproduced hereafter.

MARRIED:

JOHANNA DE GAVERE, 17 August 1766 at Oosterend.

Concerning this marriage the following entries exist:

Register of marriage notices at the Court of Bolsward:

> "On the 2nd of August 1766 Mr. Johannis Greijdanus Doctor of > Medicine at Bolswardt and Miss Johanna de Gavere at Oosterend.
> By declaration of the bridegroom and Lammert de Gavere as > brother of the bride on her behalf, with verbal consent > of D^{ns} de Gavere and his wife as parents of the bride."

Marriage register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Bolsward:

> "(1766) Mr. Johannes Greydanus Doctor of Medicine > at Bolsward And Miss Johanna de Gavere > of Oosterend. 1st Procl.: the 3rd of Aug. 2nd Procl.: the 10th ditto 3rd

> Procl.: the 17th ditto. On the 17th ditto married at Oosterend with attestation".

Marriage register of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Oosterend:

> "(Anno 1776) J. Greydanus med. Doct. of Bolswaerd the and 10th of August > Johanna de Gavere of Oosterend m."

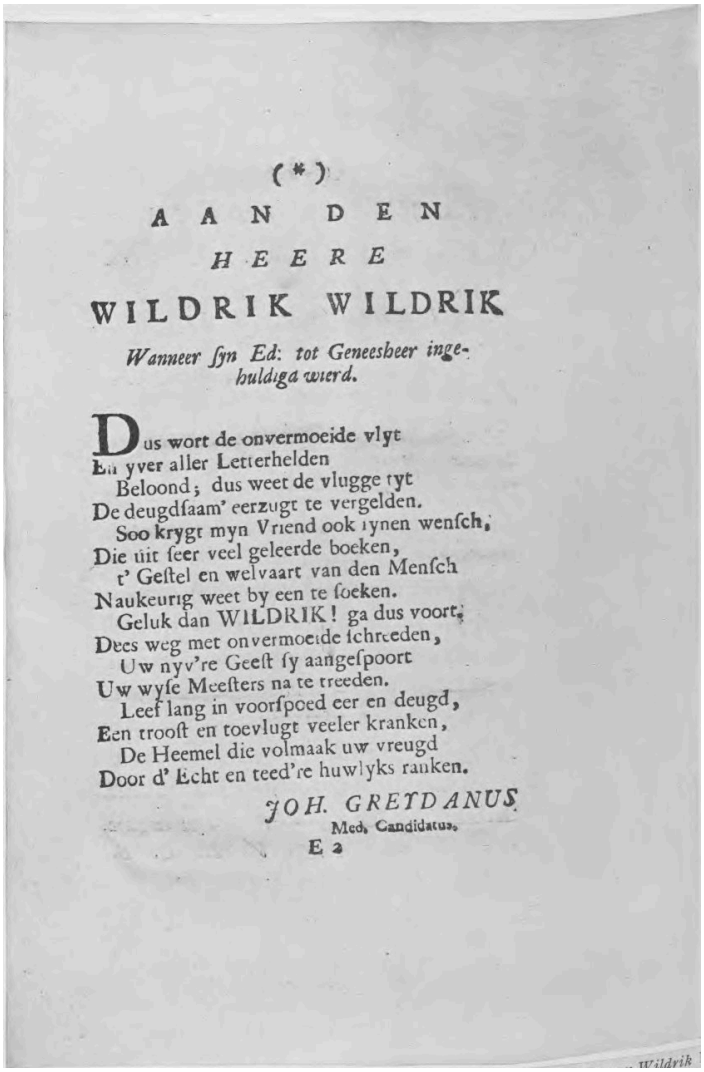
The date of 10 August 1766 mentioned in this last entry for the solemnization of the marriage will, in view of the detailed previous entry, have to be 17 August.

There still exists a marriage letter of this marriage, which is present in the Collection of Marriage and Mourning Letters of the Friesch Museum at Leeuwarden, and the contents of which run as follows:

"Most Noble Ladies,
We intend, awaiting the Lord's precious blessing, with the full consent of our parents and the approval of the relatives on both sides, to enter into a lawful marriage, expecting the first proclamation thereof on Sunday the 3rd of August.
We have judged that our duty required us to give Your Honours notice of this our closest union, not doubting that Your Honours will wish to take some part in our joy. Having now most sincerely commended us both to Your Honours' esteemed friendship, we take the honour to sign ourselves, Most Noble Ladies, Your Honours' most obedient servant and servant-woman.
Johannes Greidanus
Johanna de Gavere
The Misses Sminia



(*)

AAN DEN

HEERE

WILDRIK WILDRIK

Wanneer ſyn Ed: tot Geneesheer inge-huldiga wierd.

Dus wort de onvermoeide vlyt
En yver aller Letterhelden
Beloond; dus weet de vlugge tyt
De deugdſaam' eerzugt te vergelden.
Soo krygt myn Vriend ook synen wenſch,
Die uit ſeer veel geleerde boeken,
t' Geſtel en welvaart van den Menſch Naukeurig weet by een te ſoeken.
Geluk dan WILDRIK! ga dus voort,
Dees weg met onvermoeide ſchreeden,
Uw nyv're Geeſt ſy aangeſpoort
Uw wyſe Meeſters na te treeden.
Leef lang in voorſpoed eer en deugd,
Een trooſt en toevlugt veeler kranken,
De Heemel die volmaak uw vreugd
Door d' Echt en teed're huwlyks ranken.

JOH. GRETDANUS
Med. Candidatus.

E 2

Wildrik

Page with some verses by Johannes Greydanus, from the dissertation of the year 1761 of Wildrik Wildrik at Coevorden (see the page overleaf) (nearly actual size).

(Address on the reverse): Most Noble Wellborn Lady Mejuffer T. van Sminia At Wommels."

Johanna de Gavere was a daughter of the Dutch Reformed minister at Oosterend Ds. Petrus de Gavere and of Anna Horreus (not Herreus, as is written in the baptismal record following below).

She was born 5 September 1741 at Oosterend and baptized there 10 September following.

Her baptismal record in the Dutch Reformed Baptismal Register of Oosterend reads as follows:

> "On 10 September 1741 the child of Ds. P. de Gavere was baptized, mother Anna Herreus, being a daughter named Johanna, born on 5 September."

Ds. Petrus (Pijtter) de Gavere was born 24 October 1713 at Bolsward as son of the Raadtsman (councillor) Lambart de Gavere; he was first Dutch Reformed minister at Wons and Engwier and thereafter at Oosterend. He died at Bolsward 6 November 1803 at the age of 90 years. His wife Anna Horreus, whom he married at Cubaard 13 October 1737, was a daughter of the Dutch Reformed minister Petrus Jacobus Horreus and Johanna Algra. Anna Horreus was baptized 19 June 1713 at Cubaard and died at Oosterend 12 February 1793.

Johanna de Gavere remarried at Oosterend 3 June 1783 Jarichius (Jarig) Gerrits Eelcoma, Rector of the Latin Schools at Bolsward, as appears from the following record in the Dutch Reformed Marriage Register of Bolsward:

> "1783

The Honourable Jarichius Eelcoma, Rector of the Latin School at Bolswert, and Mistress Johanna de Gavere, likewise there;	1st Procl. on 25 May; 2nd Procl. on 29 May, with the consent of their Worships a single-day banns. 3rd Procl. on 1 June. Married at Oosterend 3 June according to attestation from there."

Jarichius or Jarig Gerrits Eelcoma was a son of Gerrit Eelkes Eelcoma and Jetske Jarigs (see the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship authorizations) of Wonseradeel dated 25 April 1777), which Jetske Jarigs, according to an entry in the Recesboek (court record book) of Barradeel dated 5 May 1762, was then living as a widow at Pingjum and had let a house with baker's equipment at Almenum to Casper de Bruin for 56 car.gl. a year.

He married, according to the Arum Marriage Register, in August 1754 (proclamations dated 27 July and 18 August 1754), as Praeceptor of the Latin Schools at Harlingen, Idsarda (Idserda) van Murray (van Murrai, Murrai) (see Stamboek van den Friesschen Adel Part I, page 274), from which marriage, as appears from the Harlingen Baptismal Register, Eka Anna was baptized at Harlingen 10 December 1765.

In the Harlingen Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) there occur the proclamations dated 5/12/19 Oct./ 11/18/25 October 1766, whereby Jarichius Eelcoma, Praeceptor of the Latin Schools at Harlingen and married to Idzarda Murray, buys: a certain house with appurtenances standing on the Heilige weg at Harlingen, for 1500 g.gl., from the Executors of the estate and inheritance of the late Harmen Agema, former Burgher Captain, and Janke Tjeerds van der Form, in their time spouses within the aforesaid town, and the proclamations dated 9/16/23 Nov. 1766/15/22/29 Nov. 1766, whereby:

> Jarichius Eelcoma, Praeceptor of the Latin Schools, and Bartle Tuininga, Pr. Postulant, both at Harlingen, buy a fine house with appurtenances on the East side of the Brouwersgragt within Harlingen from Yfke Tjeerds, widow of the late Vroetsman (town councillor) Dirk D. Siderius at Harlingen, for a sum of 701 g.gl..

According to an entry in the Harlingen Authorisatieboek of 26 July 1773, Jarig Eelcoma was then already Rector of the Latin Schools at Bolsward, where on 15 June 1774 (see the Bolsward Proclamatieboek) the Honourable I. Eelcoma, Rector of the Latin Schools, and his wife Mistress Idserda van Murray purchased:

> "a certain stately house and garden with appurtenances standing and situated on the Nieuwe Merk, extending in front from the street to the Harbour at the back, provided with many convenient lower and upper rooms, a rainwater tank and further conveniences, being at present inhabited by the purchasing spouses for a yearly rent of 60 car.gl., having Jorrijt Jans to the East, Frans Beerns cum soc. to the West, the public street to the South and the Harbour to the North, acquired by purchase from Klaas Halma, Pr. Fiscaal of the Town of Bolswardt in his capacity as elected and authorized curator bonorum over the abandoned and transferred estate of Cornelis > Bolmer and Alida Clumper, at the time married couple there, and thus for the benefit of their lawful creditors, for a sum of 583 g.gl."
>

On page 368 the purchase has already been reported by the couple Eelcoma × Murrai of a $^1/_6$ part of the timber sawmill etc. outside the Sint Janspoort at Bolsward, of which Dr. Johannes Greydanus was already co-owner, and in the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Hennaarderadeel one finds, dated 6/20 Nov./4 December 1807, the sale by the Heer I. Eelcoma for 1000 car.gl. of: 4 P.M. 11$^1/_2$ einsen in a sathe and lands with the proportionate share in the house, barn, watermill etc., situated at Wommels W. 52, in all 88 Pond^n.

Jarichius Eelcoma died at Bolsward 29 October 1812 at the age of fully 88 years, according to the following family announcement, placed in the "Dagblad van het Departement Vriesland"[1] of Saturday 31 October 1812 N^o 305:

[the advertisement is printed in two columns, the French version at left, the Dutch version at right]

(French) "⋆ This morning at two o'clock died my beloved husband Jarichius Eelcoma, former rector of the Latin school in this town, aged 88 years and after 28 years of marriage: this serves as an announcement to relatives and friends.
Bolsward, JOHANNA DE GAVERE
29 October 1812. widow of J. Eelcoma

⋆ This morning, at two o'clock, my dear husband JARICHIUS EELCOMA, former rector of the Latin school here, died, at the age of fully 88 years and after a marriage of 28 years[2]: this serves as notification to friends and acquaintances.
Bolsward, JOHANNA DE GAVERE
29 October 1812. wid. J. Eelcoma."

According to the advertisements below, placed in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Friday 14 June 1816 N° 72, there was sold on 1 July 1816 the "fine collection of Books, in various Sciences and Languages, among which are many notable Works, for the greatest part in good condition" left by Jarichius Eelcoma; at the same time the house on the Nieuwe Merkt at Bolsward, purchased by him and his wife on 26 July 1773 and still inhabited by Johanna de Gavere, was to be sold publicly:

> "The Griffier (clerk of the court) Mr. P. de Kok will on Monday 1 July 1816, in the morning at nine o'clock, at the house of Miss J. de Gavere, widow of the late Heer J. Eelcoma, at Bolsward, offer for sale by auction:
> A fine collection of Books, in various Sciences and Languages, among which are many notable Works, for the greatest part in good condition, left by the late Heer J. Eelcoma, in his lifetime Rector of the Latin School at Bolsward.
> On Friday 28 June everything may be viewed."
> "Shortly, the time and place to be determined later, there will be publicly offered for sale:
> A neatly panelled House, provided with a Front and Back room, Cellar, 2 Upper rooms, Kitchen, Well and Cistern and further conveniences, standing on the Nieuwe Merkt within the town of Bolsward, marked letter C, N° 284, at present inhabited by Miss J. de Gavere, widow of the late Heer J. Eelcoma, as owner.
> Anyone meanwhile inclined to buy the said House privately may apply concerning this to Mr. Petrus de Kok, clerk of the Justice of the Peace court of the Canton Bolsward."

Johanna de Gavere died 10 December 1821 at Harlingen at the age of 80 years, according to the following family announcement, appearing in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Tuesday 11 December 1821, N° 99:

> "⋆ Today, in the afternoon at one o'clock, our dearest mother JOANNA DE GAVERE, last widow of the late Heer J. Eelcoma, in his lifetime Rector at Bolsward, died in the 81st year of her age, from decline of strength and the consequences of a fainting fit > Harlingen, PETRUS GREYDANUS,
> 10 December CATHARINA GREYDANUS,
> 1821. born Vellinga."

An illustration of the arms of the family "de Gavere", together with the heraldic description of them, follows below:

gold, with a red lion crowned, armed and langued blue; with a broadly scalloped black border. Crest: a red tournament hat with an ermine turn-up, topped with a black pair of wings. Torse and Mantling: gold and red.

"De Gavere"

[1] This Dagblad replaced the "Leeuwarder Courant" during the French domination, in connection with which the advertisement is also included in French.

[2] should be 29 years.

CHILDREN: 1. Janke Greidanus, who follows under number: 106. 2. Petrus Greidanus, who follows under number: 107. 3. Janke Greidanus, who follows under number: 108.

61 EELKJEN GREYDANUS

Line of descent: Ausonius 18 ← Tjardus 5II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

According to the following entry in the Reformed baptismal register of Pietersbierum she was born at Pietersbierum 20 December 1736, baptized there by her father, the Pietersbierum minister Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, on 25 December following, while she died, apparently at Pietersbierum, 13 July 1753, aged 16 years:

> "(1736) On the 25th of the same (December) D. A. Greidanus baptized his daughter, born on the 20th of the same, and she was named Eelkjen" to which has been added: "died on 13 July 1753 in the morning at about nine o'clock."

62 MARIA (MARYA, MARYKE) GREIDANUS (GREIJDANUS)

Line of descent: Ausonius 18 ← Tjardus 5II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

She was born at Pietersbierum on 9 and baptized by her father Ds. Ausonius Greijdanus, minister at Pietersbierum, on 12 April 1739.

Below follows her baptismal record from the Reformed baptismal register at Pietersbierum:

> "(1739) On 12 April D. A. Greidanus baptized his daughter > born on 9 April and she was named Maria."

On 26 June 1764 there became a member of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Harlingen upon confession of faith: Maryke Greidanus, unmarried woman on the Voorstraat. Since her eldest brother, the apothecary Tjeerd Greijdanus, also lived on the Voorstraat at Harlingen, she was presumably taken into that brother's house after the death of her father in 1759. Later on — possibly in connection with the marriage on 22 April 1764 of Tjeerd Greijdanus — she seems to have gone to Bolsward, where she probably took up residence with her youngest brother Dr. Jan Greydanus, for when she married on 28 April 1765 she was "of Bolsward".

Maria Bosscha—Greidanus was from 1772 to 1775 Regentess of the General Orphanage at Harlingen, in which capacity her coat of arms appears on the painted armorial board of the Regents, which hangs in the Regents' room of this orphanage (see page 20).

She died at Harlingen 13 March 1809 at the age of 68 years, according to the following entry in the register of deceased persons 1806—1811 of Harlingen:

Time of death	Names	Age	Place of residence	Married	Number of children or further descendants	without children	Number of children from one or more previous marriages	unmarried
1809 13 of Lentemaand	Maria Greidanus	68 years	near the small lock	—	a few nieces and nephews	—	—	unmarried

At the end of her life Marijke Greidanus was, on account of insanity, placed under the guardianship of her fellow townsman Sjoerd Piebes Wyarda. Concerning this we are informed by, for example, the Criminal Sentence Book of the Court of Friesland, in which there appears under date of 20 January 1808 a sentence against:

> "Rinske E/n/gberts Bouwsma, aged 16 years, at Harlingen, on the ground that she sold a golden ear-iron, which the prisoner (Rinske) had obtained from a certain Marijke Greidanus, widow of Bosscha at Harlingen, who on account of extravagant behaviour and insanity has been placed under guardianship, in order (as the prisoner pretends) to sell the same so that the said Marijke Greidanus might obtain strong drink for the money. The prisoner was condemned to be confined on bread and water for the period of 8 days."

To the sentence belong various court documents, in which one reads among other things the following:

> "6 October 1807. Lucretia Coops, widow of Cornelis Gabbes at Harlingen, aged 74 years, declared that she lives with and takes care of Marijke Greidanus, widow of Tjalling Bosscha here, since this Marijke Greidanus is largely not in her right mind and therefore unfit for the management of her goods, on which account she has been placed under the care of Sjoerd Piebes Wyarda; that this M. Greidanus nevertheless has for at least a considerable time had in her possession the key of the cabinet and of the drawers of the same, in which she keeps her gold and silver; that according to her own statement the golden ear-iron, marked A.D.G.[1], which on 27 September last had lain with her on the table together with a little silver pocket-knife, was on the 1st of October following found was found then to be missing from there, without her having stored it in the drawer or cabinet in the meantime, just as upon examination it was found not to have been placed therein etc."

[1] Presumably Aafke Dirks Grada, the stepdaughter of Marijke Greidanus' father (see pages 298 and 299).

MARRIED:

Tjalle (Tjalling) (Sjoerds) Bosscha (Boscha), 28 April 1765 at Bolsward:

The entries relating to this marriage follow below:

Register of marriage notices to the court at Harlingen 1733—1782:

> "On the 13th of April 1765 coram Præside the Mr Burgomaster Osinga.
> Tjalling Bosscha of Harlingen and Maria Greidanus > of Bolsward, being notified by the Attorney B. Tuininga > with one banns during the week."

Register of marriage notices to the court at Bolsward 1727—1770:

> "The 19 April 1765
> Tjalle Boscha at Harlingen And > Marija Greijdanus at Bolsward > Through notification by the messenger S. v. d. Hout on behalf of > bridegroom and bride"

Dutch Reformed marriage register of Bolsward 1735—1766:

> "(1765) Tjalle Boscha at Harlingen and > Marija Greijdanus at Bolswart > 1st proclamation the 21 April, with consent > of the Honourable Magistrate: the 2nd proclamation the > 25 ditto; 3rd proclamation the 28 ditto > with attestation married at Bolswaart."

Tjalle Bosscha was a son of Sjoerd Bouwes Bosscha and Sipkjen Tjalles Fopma and was baptized 23 August 1739 in the Westerkerk at Harlingen, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed baptismal register 1735—1764 (Groote Kerk) of Harlingen:

> "The 23 ditto (August) 1739
> Sjoerd Bouwes the father And Sipkjen Tjalles (the mother)
> And the child Tjalle baptized. W.K.[1]"

Sjoerd Bouwes (Bosscha) was Mr. Gortmaeker (master groats miller) at Harlingen; he was a native of Lippenhuizen (in Opsterland) and became a burgher of Harlingen on 28 December 1733, as appears from the entry below in the Harlingen Burgher Book:

> "28 Dec. 1733. Sjoerd Bouwes, Mr. Gortmaeker, native of Lippenhuizen"

In the Harlingen Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) for the year 1755 he appears under N° 101 of the 8th City Quarter as: "Sjoerd Boscha house and groats mill User himself".

In the Harlingen Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of 7/14/21, 13/20/27 March 1756 Sjoerd Bosscha is mentioned as co-Ruling Burgomaster and Merchant at Harlingen, who then bought for 220 g.gl. from the Heirs ex testamento of Jarig Sibouts Adema a house cum annexis between the Vijver and the Brede plaats, behind the Groothuis bought from Beert Brouwer, being inhabited by Hendrik Arjens cum soc. as tenants. In the Harlingen Reëelcohier of 1765 he is mentioned as owner of N° 94 of the 8th City Quarter with the title "Burgomaster".

The family name "Fopma" (see also the draft fragment-genealogy "Fopma" belonging with page 264) of his wife: Sipkjen Tjalles appears from the following baptismal entry, in the Reformed baptismal register 1735—1764 (Groote Kerk) of Harlingen, of his daughter Grietje.

"(1741) The 8 ditto (January)
Sjoerd Bouwens the father And Sipkjen Tjalles Fopma the mother W.K.[1]
the child Grietje baptized"

The couple Tjalle Bosscha × Maria Greydanus lived at Harlingen at first on the "Breede plaatz", possibly in the house of Sjoerd Bouwes Bosscha, who, as mentioned above, had bought a house there in 1756. The place of residence appears from a note in the Reformed members' register of Harlingen, according to which on 26 January 1769 there was added to the congregation on confession of faith: Tjalle Bosscha "married man on the Breede plaatz". Soon afterwards the said couple bought at Harlingen a house and garden c.a. on the north side of the Kleine Sluis from Ds. Fokko Heidcamp, V.D.M. at Deinum and Tjetske Heidcamp, adult spinster at Harlingen, for the sum of 1500 car.gl., which property according to the description was a spacious house.

[1] Wester Kerk.

This house, situated on the north side of the Kleine Sluis, or rather on the south side of the Roosegracht at Harlingen, was publicly sold after the death of Maria Greydanus by the heirs ex testamento. The sale was announced with the following advertisement in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Tuesday the 30th of May A° 1809 N° 2716:

> "The Advocate JACOB HANEKUYK at Harlingen will, on Wednesdays the 14th, 21st and 28th of Zomermaand (June) 1809, at the entering, the raising and the final striking of the bargain, each time in the evening from 5 to 6 o'clock, at the house of the innkeeper H. Winter, in the Heeren Logement there, publicly offer for sale by earnest-money:
> A sound and well-built HOUSE, with its large GARDEN and appurtenances, standing on the south side of the Rozegragt within Harlingen in District H N° 71; just as it was last inhabited and recently vacated by death, by Miss M. Greydanus, widow of the late Mr. T. S. Bosscha, to be taken into possession on the 1st of Hooimaand (July) 1809 free of tenancy; further according to the bills."

The sale took place according to the following proclamation in the Harlingen proclamatieboek (register of property sales):

> "3/10/17 September 1809 /9/16/23 September 1809. Petrus Anneus Amelander at Harlingen buys a certain house and garden with appurtenances on the south side of the Roosegragt within Harlingen in District H, N° 71, to be taken into possession free of tenancy; all just as it was last inhabited and recently vacated by death by Miss Maria Greidanus, widow of the late Mr. Tjalle Bosscha aforesaid; — the adjoining owners are: Mr. I. Wildschut to the east; Mr. S. Feenstra to the west; the Rosegragt to the north and a public street to the south; acquired by purchase from Grietje Bosscha, widow of the late Michiel Sipkes Nauta at Hijlaard for $^1/_2$, Petrus Greidanus, corrector, for $^1/_4$, Petronella Greidanus, wife of J. W. Houtsma, assisted by her husband, for $^1/_8$, residing at Harlingen; and Ausonius Greidanus, minister of the Word of God at de Zuidzijp in North Holland for the remaining $^1/_8$ part, in their capacity as heirs ex testamento of the late Mr. Tjalle Bosscha and Miss Maria Greidanus, in life spouses at Harlingen, for a sum of 1327 car.gl., apart from the valuation of the movable goods"[1].

Possibly Tjalle Bosscha was, like his father, a groats miller at Harlingen, where from 1771 onwards he was Co-Councillor and member of the Vroedschap (town council), and from 1779 onwards Gemeensman (commoner-councillor). This has been found in a Register present in the Municipal Archives of Harlingen with the Lists of Office-holding persons of Harlingen 1717—1802[2], in which one finds:

"Government of the City of Harlingen
A° 1779.
Burgomasters
. . . . . .
Sworn Commonalty
Lammert Haúkema
. . . . . .
Tjalle Bosscha
. . . . . .
Town councillors
Lammert Haúkema 1733
. . . . . .
Tjalle Bosscha 1771
. . . . . ."

In the Stemcohieren (registers of voting farms) of Opsterland for the years 1768 and 1778 he appears, and in the name of his wife Michiel Nauta (who was married to his sister Grietje Bosscha — see note 1 on this page), as co-owner of the farm Langeswaag N° 14. The farm had a house with 25 P.M. of land and appears to have come from the Bosscha family, since the father of Tjalle and Grietje Bosscha: Sjoerd Bouwes Bosscha was a native of the neighbouring Lippenhuizen.

[1] This joint property of Tjalle Bosscha and Maria Greijdanus, who died childless, was thus inherited for the one half by the nearest family of Tjalle Bosscha and for the other half by the nearest family of Maria Greijdanus. The nearest family of Tjalle Bosscha was his sister Grietje Bosscha, whose baptismal record is given on the preceding page, and who was married to Michiel Sipkes Nauta, a brother, baptized at Harlingen 14 December 1738, of Foekje Sipkes Nauta, the wife of Tjeerd Greijdanus; Grietje Bosscha now acquired the half. The nearest family of Maria Greijdanus consisted of her brothers: the apothecary Tjeerd Greijdanus at Harlingen and the physician Dr. Johannes Greydanus at Bolsward, who thus each acquired $^1/_4$. Both brothers had however died; for Tjeerd Greijdanus his children took his place: Ds. Ausonius Greidanus and Petronella Greidanus, who thus each received $^1/_8$, and the $^1/_4$ portion intended for Dr. Johannes Greydanus passed to his only child, the Corrector Petrus Greidanus.

[2] And is confirmed by the entries in the so-called "Heerenboekjes", that is the yearbooks with the particulars of the officials, thus the predecessors of the present State Almanacs.

Tjalle Sjoerds Bosscha died at Harlingen 26 July 1783, as appears from the inventory of his estate drawn up by his widow, which is found in the Archive of the Chamber of Accounts of Friesland and reads in the main as follows:

> "Pro Patria.
> 25 November 1783. Statement and Inventory of the estate of the late Mr. Tjalle Sjoerds Bosscha, in his lifetime also Councillor in the Vroedschap (town council) and Gemeensman (commoners' representative) of the town of Harlingen, who died there on the 26 July of this year 1783, drawn up by his surviving widow Maria Greijdanus, heir ex testamento of her said late husband, in order hereafter to pay to the Province the collateral succession duty, at the 40th Penning, in so far as this estate of her said late husband derives in some respects wholly and in some respects for the half.
> Profitable estate.
> A House standing and situated by the Kleijne Sluijs within Harlingen, purchased by the inventorying widow and her said late husband during their marriage, entered in the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) at a rent of f 60—.—, on which the Reëel amounts to f 10—18—2 and therefore reckoned accordingly worth f 1090—12—8, of which the half amounts to . . . . . 545— 6— 4
> A House and Hornleger (homestead site) under the village of Lippenhuijsen, having belonged to the inventorying widow's late husband alone, entered in the Reëelcohier at a rent of f 85—.—., on which the Reëel amounts to 15—9—. and therefore the value reckoned accordingly . . 1545—.—.
> the half of a life annuity bond charged to the Town of Harlingen, the whole of which yields interest at 7% 35 gls., being for the half 17—10, constituted upon a life between 40 and 50 years of age, makes . . . . . 210— .— .
> the half interest on a life annuity bond upon the life of Maria Greijdanus at 280 car.gl. a year, being for the period from the 1 June to the 26 June 1783 . . . . . 21— 7— 8 > the half interest on a life annuity bond upon the life of Tjalle Bosscha at 140 car.gls a year, being for the period from the 1 June to the 26 July 1783 . . . . . 10—13—12 > and likewise the half interest of a recipis charged to this Province, amounting to f 2000—.—. at 3%, of which the first year began on the 1 May 1783, thus from the 1 May to the 26 July 1783 . . . . . 7— 9— .
> the half of a Horse, valued as a whole at f 55.— . . . . . 27—10— .
> the half of a chaise, valued as a whole at f 100.— . . . . . 50— .— .
> the half of the cash money . . . . . 65— .— .
> a gold Watch, having belonged to the deceased . . . . . 80— .— .
> in wrought gold and silver according to valuation . . . . . 110— .— .
> 2672— 6— 8
> Liabilities.
> the death debts amount to . . . . . 228— .—.
> the half of the book debts amount to . . . . . 51—10—.
> 279—10—.
> thus the profitable estate amounts, net, to . . . . . 2392—16— 8 > of which sum the collateral duty at the 40th penning amounts to . . . . . 59—16— 8 > Done at Harlingen the 25 Nov. 1783.
> (signed) Marijke Greydanus, the Widow Bosscha
> (Latin) witnessed by me > (signed) E. F. Harkenroth.
> (Latin) collated, it agrees > in witness whereof I, Sworn Clerk > (signed) Y. Feddema."

Below follows the arms of a family "Bosscha", coming from Wolvega (see Nederland's Patriciaat 6th year 1915 page 65). It is not known whether Tjalle Bosscha belonged to this family and bore these arms; his family did, however, come from Langeswaag and Lippenhuizen (see the preceding page), places which in the "Zevenwolden" are not situated so very far from the neighbourhood of Wolvega.

The heraldic description of these arms "Bosscha" is as follows:

party per pale: 1. silver, with four green poplars side by side on a grassy ground.

2. per fess: a. blue, with a half silver eagle, issuing from the dividing line.

b. as 1.

Crest: a poplar from the shield, between a black pair of wings.

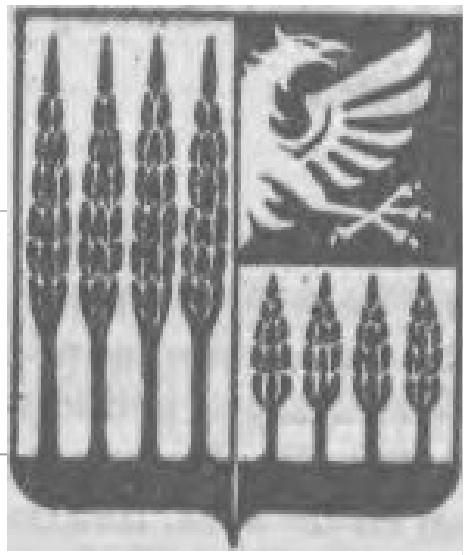
Wreath and Mantling: silver and black.

CHILDREN:

None.



"Bosscha"

CHILD FROM THE MARRIAGE OF TRIJNTIE JANS (ANTONIDES) (BOECKHOLT) (N° 25, DESCENDING FROM THE NUMBERS: 7II, 2 AND 1I) AND FEICKO PIJTTERS.

63 JAN FEICKES

Line of descent: Trijntie 25 ← Elisabeth 7II ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Spannum, 2 May 1714 · son of Feico Pijtters and Trijntie Jans (van) Boec/k/holt (N° 25)

Of him, the last descendant of the daughter of Prof. Johannes Greydanus, nothing is known other than the following baptismal record in the Reformed Baptismal and Marriage Register of Edens and Spannum 1693—1772 (1810):

> "1714
> On 2 May I1 baptized the child of Feico > Pijtters and it is named Jan, the father > witness."

CHILDREN FROM THE MARRIAGE OF JACOBUS GREIDANUS (N° 35, DESCENDING FROM THE NUMBERS: 8, 2 AND 1I) AND AUKJEN (AKKE) SYBES.

64 PETRUS (JACOBUS') GREIDANUS (GREYDANUS)

Line of descent: Jacob 35 ← Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Rijperkerk, 12 January 1747 · son of Jacob (Jacobus) Greidanus (Greydanus) (N° 35) and Aukjen Sybes · m. Trijntje (Terentia) Harmens Faber, 1771 · m. Gertje (Geertje) Jelles Tasma, 1785 · m. Grietje Klazes de Boer, 1798

His baptismal record in the church register of Rijperkerk and Hardegarijp reads as follows:

> "(1747)
> On 29 Jan: there was baptized at Rijperkerk a little son, born > on 12 Jan:, of Jacob Greidang, future Church and > School servant at Mantgum, the father and Akke Zijbes > the mother; it is named Petrus; the father himself being witness."

On 6 January 1769 Petrus Jacobus Greidanus was established at Heerenveen (Schoterland), as may be concluded from a deed of that date, registered on 17 April 1797 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Schoterland, in which deed he appears as a witness. Although his place of residence is not mentioned in this deed, it will nevertheless have been Heerenveen (Schoterland), because he lived there later and the deed, as appears from the note "Actum Heerenveen", was executed at Heerenveen (Schoterland).

According to the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Schoterland: 18 Dec. 1771 (22 January) 19 February 1772 Petrus Greidanus and Eite Jansen (who was married to a sister of Petrus Greidanus' first wife) both living at 't Heerenveen, bought a certain house and gortmakerij (groats mill) cum annexis standing at 't Heerenveen, being burdened with 6 car.gl. 14 st. yearly perpetual and irredeemable erfpacht (ground rent), to be paid to the Gentlemen Compagnions of 't Heerenveen, of which said rent a daalder is paid yearly to the house of Arend Brekerveldt, and in addition to which the buyers are obliged at their own cost to apply for and receive new leasehold deeds and to pay a double annual rent for consent, having to the east Arend Breekerveld, to the west Jelle Wiegers, to the south the two Gemeene Roeden and to the north Albert Nieuwendam; further with such ownership of alleys, exits, burdens, profits, actions, servitudes and rights as belong thereto and have belonged from of old, the buyers being obliged to receive the gortmakerij, tools and annexes at the valuation of impartial men and to pay for them above the promised purchase sums, though the buyers have the choice whether they wish to receive the horse of the gortmakerij at valuation or not. Acquired by purchase from Lammert Luitjens, Mr. Gortmaker (master groats miller) at 't Heerenveen, for the sum of 971 g.gl.

In the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of Schoterland for the year 1772 the purchased parcel is entered as Heerenveen, Noordkant, N° 40, of which P. Greidanus and Eit Jans were jointly owners and users and for which rent had to be paid to Krak's heirs, evidently the successors in title of the Gentlemen Compagnions. In all probability Petrus Greidanus moved about the year 1779 from Heerenveen (Schoterland) to Heerenveen (Aengwirden), since in the Reëelcohier of that year another user, namely Jacob Pletting, of the said parcel is mentioned, and on 26 September 1779 as well as on 19 October 1783 children of Petrus Greidanus were baptized at Heerenveen (Aengwirden). The fact that the house and the "gortmakerie" at Heerenveen (Aengwirden) were no longer used is presumably connected with the death of Eit Jans, who must have died before 8 May 1782, since his widow and Petrus Greidanus, as appears from the following proclamation dated 8/29 May/12 June 1782 in the Proclamatieboek of Schoterland, sold the house and a part of the groats mill:

> "Jelle Harmens Prins, living at 't Heerenveen, buys a certain stately house well situated for trade cum annexis with the part of the gortmakerij lying behind it, standing and situated by the Sluijs at 't Heerenveen, at present used by Dr. H. van Weerden as tenant, extending from the two gemeene

[1] Ds. Petrus Nicolai, V.D.M. at Spannum and Edens.

> Roeden to the South, up to the property of Albert Nieuwendam to the North, this house being burdened with 4 car.gl. 14 st. perpetual and irredeemable erfpacht (ground rent) to the Heeren Compagnons according to the first institution of, entitled to the free passage through the jointly owned alley to the West, further with its actions, servitudes and rights, such as have belonged to it from of old, having to the East Breekeveld, to the West the widow of Jelle Wijgers. And the part of the groats house lying behind the dwelling shall have its boundary on the east in line with the side wall on the east of the dwelling; further the sellers retain for themselves all groats-makers' tools and the iest (drying kiln); acquired by purchase from Petrus Greidanus, merchant at 's Heerenveen and Pietje Harmens widow of Eit Jans likewise there, for a sum of 520 g.gl."

Petrus Greidanus thus retained a part of the gortmakerij (groats mill) at Heerenveen (Schoterland) with all the groats-makers' tools and the iest. He is always mentioned as "coopman". From the entries below in the Recesboek (court register) of Aengwirden it appears that his trade did not comprise the article groats only, but also others, e.g.: tobacco, oil, soap and salt. He even seems to have kept a gin-tap house. He probably ran a composite business.

> "12 February 1782. Jan Zeeper, merchant at Leeuwarden, against Petrus Greijdanus, merchant at 's Heerenveen, for payment of 263 car.gl. 15 st. arising from delivered oil and soap, according to book and account."
> "13 September 1785. T. Cootstra, merchant at Leeuwarden, against Petrus Greydanus, merchant at 't Heerenfeen, for 71—5—8 as remainder of a larger sum, on account of delivered tobacco, according to book and account."
> "4 Nov. 1788. The widow of B. van der Meulen at Harlingen, electing domicile for citation at the house of Dirk Elzinga, innkeeper at Terbandsterschans, against Petrus Jacobus Greijdanus, merchant at 's Heerenveen (under Aengwirden), for payment of 68 car.gl. on account of delivered salt according to book and account."
> "18 November 1794. B. Aldering, merchant at Sneek, against P. Greijdanus, merchant at 't Heerenveen, for payment of 24 g.gl. on account of delivered oil with the barrel according to book and account."
> "20 November 1798. The same Fiscal (of the District of Aengwerden) Rat. off. against Petrus Greijdanus, merchant residing under Terband, for a fine of 6 car.gl. on account of not reporting a Ruisie[1] at his house, which occurred during the gin-tap on 10 November 1798, or as much more or less as upon investigation of the matter shall be deemed proper."
> "20 October 1801. K. P. Meedendorp, merchant, residing at Leeuwarden, but electing domicile for citation at the house of the innkeeper I. Riemersma at 't Heerenveen in Aengwerden, against Petrus Greydanus, Merchant likewise residing there, for payment of 71—10—.. on account of delivered shop goods in the years 1800 and 1801 according to book and account thereto attached."

In 1802 Petrus Greidanus became organist of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Heerenveen (Schoterland), as successor of the schoolmaster-sexton G. Reitsma, at first for half a year "provisionally" and thereafter definitively until 1806, when his son Jelle took up the post of organist. Together with his brothers Ymte Greydanus at Jorwerd (from 1799 onward) and Johannes Greidanus at Terband (from 1780 onward) he appears as organist in the old Provincial Almanacs.

Like his brothers, besides the organist's post he also held the office of sexton and gravedigger, which combination of offices occurs very frequently in this period.

Concerning these church services performed by Petrus Greidanus a few entries follow here:

> Church wardens' account book of the Dutch Reformed Congregation of Heerenveen (Schoterland)[2].
> "23 Decb. 1802. Accounted with P. Greidanus and to him refunded and paid ½ year's salary as provisional organist due 1 Novb. 25.— > on account of the cleaning of the church and oil for the clock[3] 6—4 st.
> for the raising and relaying of the stones on various graves in the church 8—> "31 Decb. 1808. P. Greydanus for the collecting[4] of the women's chairs for one year 6.—; for the collecting[4] of the enclosed pews 2.—"
> "13 May 1815. Paid to the widow of P. Greydanus for the cleaning of the church and for soap and scouring material 6 gld. 16 st. 4 penn."
> Towards the last all church duties of P. Greydanus lapsed, except that he had to provide a small coal fire in the pulpit, for which 3 gld a year was paid. After a few years this too ceased.
> Church wardens' account book of the Dutch Reformed Congregation (Oudeschoot)[2].
> "7 Jan. 1805 paid to P. Greidanus, Sexton at H.veen, on account of bell-ringing for Rintske Ekker."
> "14 Dec. 1805 paid to P. Greidanus 1 g.l. 12 strs on account of a verrotting[5] and bell-ringing for the child of Jan Koek."

According to the old Provincial Almanacs, Petrus Greidanus was from 1804 onward a Member of the Municipal Government of Aengwirden. In the Register of family names of the Municipality of Tjalleberd (Aengwirden) various deeds were entered by him in his own hand in that capacity, e.g.

[1] gutter.

[2] In the keeping of the minister.

[3] He did not do this work himself, but he did have to look after the clock and grease it.

[4] Namely of the rent.

[5] paupers' grave.

the deeds dated 23 and 25 November 1811, concerning Tomas Rinkes de Jong and Roelof Gerbens Hartkamp, appearing on page 13 verso and 14 of this Register, which is kept at the State Archives at Leeuwarden. A reproduction of the deed dated 25 November 1811 is appended hereafter. This deed, like the other deeds appearing in the same Register for the period from 29 October 1811 up to and including 23 December following, was signed by him as "Member of the Municipal Government of Angwirden, provisionally performing the function of Maire of the Municipality of Tjalleberd, Canton and Arrondissement Heerenveen, Department Vriesland".

His membership of the Municipal Government of Aengwirden also appears from the following documents:

> Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Aengwirden:
> "8 September 1805. Extraordinary, yet voluntary appearance, on this day 8 September 1805 before us Petrus Greijdanus, fellow Member of the Municipal Government of Aengwirden, in this matter appointed Commissioner, and Abel Cromkamp, Secretary (there follows an appointment of guardians) (signed) (among others): P. Greydanus."
> "19 September 1805. On this day the 19th of September 1805 there appeared before us Roel Wiebes Offringa and Petrus Greidanus, both members of the Court of Aengwirden, the first-named acting in this matter as commissioner and the last-named as Secretary, etc. (signed) (among others) P. Greijdanus Loco Secret^{s}."
> "25 January 1806. On Saturday, the 25th of January 1806 there appeared before us Petrus Greijdanus, Member of the Court of Aengwirden, associated with the Secretary R. Oostenb^{k} Nauta, etc. Done at the Secretariat of Aengwirden on 25 January 1806. (signed) P. Greijdanus; (signed) R. Oostenb^{k} Nauta."
> Authorisatieboek (register of authorizations) of Schoterland:
> "Deed dated 23 June 1807, by which Petrus Greidanus, fellow Member of the Municipal Government of Aengwirden, living at 't Heerenveen, was appointed curator ad litis, having been requested to do so by Elisabeth Vos, against Jelle Sieses, farmer in the Orangewoud, in the matter of a separation from bed and board";

the marriage certificate of his son Harmen, included on page 458.

In 1805 Petrus Greidanus acted as deputy Secretary of Aengwirden; as such he is also mentioned in two documents of the municipal government of Aengwirden, present in the so-called Sminia Archive kept at the State Archives at Leeuwarden (N^{o} 90 F 126).

On the basis of the foregoing one might say that Petrus Greidanus must have been a remarkable man; he was at home in every field. Besides the groats-milling business he carried on, he was a merchant (grocer), but alongside that he evidently had the aptitude and ability for all sorts of public and church offices, such as member of the Municipal Government, sexton and organist.

He also appears as one of the witnesses in various deeds appearing in the Hypotheekboeken (mortgage registers) and Proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales) of Schoterland, executed before his son the Royal/Imperial Notary Jelle Petrus Jacobus Greijdanus (N^{o} 115 of this genealogy).

Concerning him one finds in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Saturday the 10th of March A^{o} 1798, N^{o} 2380, The Fourth Year of Batavian Liberty, the following advertisement:

> "N.B. An excellent Clavicembel of four full octaves for sale, without any defects, made by Couchet at Antwerp; to be enquired after at Petrus Greidanus at 's Heerenveen."

As we have seen, Petrus Greidanus moved about 1779 from Heerenveen (Schoterland) to Heerenveen (Aengwirden). In the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of Aengwirden for the year 1784 he appears as tenant of half of the property Terband (a house) N^{o} 15, which half belonged to the mother of his first wife, namely to Binkjen Pyters, widow of Harmen Jans Faber; the other half was the property of and in use by Roel Eeuwes. According to the said cohier of the year 1798, Petrus Greidanus was then still the user of the said half property (then N^{o} 29), while the owners of it were then the Heirs of Binkjen Pyters: Jan Hiddinga in the name of his wife, the widow of Eyt Jans and Petrus Greydanus in the name of his daughter.

8 July /2/16 September 1800 Petrus Jacobus Greijdanus, merchant at het Heerenveen, bought, according to the Proclamatieboek of Aengwirden: "a certain splendid garden, provided with fine fruit trees, situated at het Heerenveen under Aengwerden, as last used by Geert Rimmerts as owner, which can be taken possession of at once; having to the East the canal, to the West the common alley, to the South the former Secretary M. Zijlstra with his associates and to the North the Heirs of Klaas Hesling, thus publicly in > sale for a sum of 280 g.gl. and 21 st. from the testamentary Executors of the estate and inheritance of the late merchant Geert Rimmerts, recently deceased at Herenveen."

Deed written in his own hand on 25 November 1811 by Petrus Jacobus' Greydanus, from the Register of family names of the Municipality of Tjalleberd (Aengwirden) (see the preceding page) (slightly reduced).

According to the civil registry of Schoterland, Petrus Greydanus died at Heerenveen N° 31 on 25 December 1814, aged 67 years, 11 months, 1 week and 3 days, leaving his wife Grietje Klazes de Boer, as well as 2 children of full age. According to the baptismal record given for him, he was born 12 January 1747, thus died at the age of 67 years, 11 months, 1 week and 6 days. It is remarkable that he died at Heerenveen (Schoterland) and not at Heerenveen (Aengwirden); perhaps this is connected with the fact that his son Jelle acted as Notary at Heerenveen (Schoterland).

Petrus Greidanus has further been found in the following books:

Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Aengwirden.

> "25 November 1798. At the request of Petrus Jacobus Greijdanus, merchant residing at 's Heerenveen, as father of his minor children begotten in wedlock by his late wife Trijntje Harmens, and of Pietertje Harmens, widow of the late Eijtje Jans, likewise there, together as heirs of Lammertje Harmens, in her lifetime wife of Jan Hiddinga, deceased on the Heerewal, — the Council of the municipality of Aengwirden authorizes: Pieter Bootsman, Notarius Publicus, also residing at 's Heerenveen, as administrator of the estate and inheritance of the late Lammertje Harmens, in order to divide and settle the same with Jan Hiddinga; to that end to request the unsealing at the house of the deceased, and further, in the place of the late deceased administrators formerly made and appointed by the late Binkje Pieters, widow of Harmen Jans Faber, and the aforesaid Lammertje Harmens, according to their testamentary dispositions dated 13 September 1784 and 1 March 1786, also to administer and settle those estates, all for the term of one year."
>
> In an orphans' account of 10 Aug. 1796, preceded by the relevant appointment of guardians dated 14 May 1796, relating to the orphan children Rindert (in his 19th year) and Tjitske (in her 17th year), children of Hendrik Jacobus, deceased at Tjalbert, the following item of expenditure occurs: "22 March 1796. Paid to Petrus Greydanus for money advanced to Rindert Hendriks as jacket money, according to receipt N° 24 7—.—."
>
> In an orphans' account dated 19 June 1800, rendered by Anne Jans Keijkes in his capacity as authorized curator of Andries, son of Johannes Peterson and Elizabeth Frederiks Kok, spouses, deceased at 's Heerenveen (under Aengwirden), there occurs among the expenditures, dated 11 Oct. 1796, an item: Paid to Petrus Greijdanus for 4 weeks' board money, according to receipt N° 67 11—10—:.

Recesboeken (registers of court proceedings) of Aengwirden.

[the following notes are printed in the left margin beside the two Recesboeken entries of 1786]

* /Mr. Smit[1]
23 June 1786/
† as curators appointed by the testamentary disposition of the late Binkje Pijters, widow of Harmen Jans,
over the children of Trijntje Harmens begotten in wedlock by Petrus Greidanus
(23 June 1786)

17 January 1786. Petrus Greidanus, merchant at 's Herenveen (under Aengwerden), as father and lawful guardian of his minor children begotten in wedlock by his late wife Trijntje Harmens: against Pijtertje Harmens, widow of the late Eijtje Jans, and Lammertje Harmens, unmarried woman of full age, both likewise residing there, to vacate free of encumbrance on 12 May 1786 the house cum annexis inhabited by them, in so far as it belongs to the first-named in the aforesaid capacity.

and Pytertje Harmens, widow of the late Eijtje Jans, Lammertje Harmens, daughter of full age, both residing at 's Herenveen under Æengwerden, together with Rijk Jans * at de Joure †, against Petrus Greidanus, merchant there, to vacate the house cum annexis inhabited by him free of encumbrance on 12 May 1786."

/5 June/11 Sept. 1787. P. Bootsman, Notarius Publicus at 's Heerenveen, against Petrus Greidanus at 's Heerenveen under Aengwirden, for acknowledgement or denial of his signature appearing under a certain bond dated 6 March 1786, and further for payment thereof to the sum of 65 car.gl. with interest since 6 March 1786 (and further to clear himself of the first accusation)."

"13 February 1798. Roel Eeuwes, residing at 't Heerenveen, against Petrus Greijdanus there, in his capacity as user of the house cum annexis coming from Binkjen Pieters, to fulfil, with regard to what has remained held in common as to the use, the contract made between the said Binkjen Pieters and the first-named."

Married:

1° TRIJNTJE (TERENTIA) HARMENS FABER, according to the following marriage entry in the marriage register of the Dutch Reformed congregation of Heerenveen (Schoterland) 1765—1772:

"(1771) Petrus Jacobus from 't Heerenveen and Trijntje Harmens from Aengwirden
On 19 May the 1st,
On the 26th ditto the 2nd, } proclamations.
On 2 June the 3rd,
And certificate issued."

On the same dates the marriage of Trijntje Harmens' sister Pietertje Harmens to Eit Jans from 't Heerenveen was also proclaimed, to whom likewise a certificate was issued. In all probability Petrus Greidanus and Eit Jans were married on the same day in the Church of Terband (Aengwirden)[1] to two sisters. But they were not only married on one and the same day, they also had their firstborn baptized on the same day; on 15 March 1772 both Harmen, the child of Petrus Jacobus born on 2 March of that year, and Geeske, the child of Eit Jans born on 3 March of that year, were baptized.

[1] Moreover Rijk Jans (Ram) was Bijsitter (assessor) of Haskerland.

Trijntje Harmens Faber was a daughter of Harmen Jans Faber and Binkjen Pyters. Her baptismal entry in the church register of the Dutch Reformed congregation of Terband and adjoining villages (1738—1772), kept by the minister at Heerenveen (Aengwirden), reads as follows:

"1743
On 1 January a little daughter of Harmen Jans and Binkje Pijtters baptized at Terbant, named Trijntie."

Harmen Jans Faber was Mr. Smid (master smith) at 't Heerenfeen in Aengwirden; at any rate, in the Proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Aengwirden dated 16 Sept./14 Oct./9 Dec. 1738, page 148, the seller of a house near the Nieuwe Kerk at Heerenveen (Aengwirden) is named as: Harmen Jans Mr. Smid at 't Heerenfeen in Aengwirden. In the church register of Terband and adjoining villages (1738—1772), kept by the minister at Heerenveen (Aengwirden), he appears as deacon (under the deacons' accounts of 1746 and 1747 his signature "harmen yans faaber" is found). According to the Reëelcohieren (property-tax registers) of Aengwirden he must already have died in the year 1752.

In the Weesboek (orphans' register) of Aengwirden there occurs: first, dated 13 April 1787, the appointment of Rijk Jans (Ram), living at de Joure, pursuant to the testamentary disposition of Binkjen Pijtters, as administrator over the goods which the children of her daughter Trijntje Harmens, begotten in wedlock by Petrus Greidanus, inherited from her; — which appointment is followed, dated 23 January 1788, by a Statement and Inventory of the goods left by the late Binkjen Pijtters, widow of Harmen Jans Faber, who died at 's Heerenveen under Aengwerden, and found in the house of the deceased, made by Lammertje Harmens, assisted by her husband Jan Hiddinga, Pietertje Harmens, widow of Eijt Jans, and Rijk Jans Ram as authorized administrator over the children of the late Trijntje Harmens, begotten in wedlock by Petrus Greijdanus.

According to this inventory there were the following possessions (given in brief):
1. House c.a. at 's Heerenveen (Aengw.) vacated by the late Binkjen Pieters at her death; but now used by Jan Hiddinga (according to the Reëelcohier of Aengwirden of 1784 this was the house N° 12 at Terband);

2. house c.a. there, now used by Petrus Greijdanus /according to the foregoing this was the half of the parcel Terband (house) N° 15, later N° 29 — see page 378/;

3. a plot of land on the east side of de Jouwer, $1^{1}/_{2}$ morgen (measure of land) in size, used by Rijk Jans Ram;

4. house c.a. at de Jouwer on the east side, with the half alley, used by Jacob Douwes;

5. house with its site and the half alley there, used by the widow of Jan Harmens;

6. house c.a. at de Jouwer on the Streek on the north side, used by Harmen Beerents;

7. small plot of land behind the previous house, used by the widow of Jan Harmens;

8. perpetual ground rent from the house of Rijk Jans Ram at the east end of de Joure, amounting to 4 car.gl.

Letters and Instruments.

1. Promissory note charged to Eijt Jans and Pietertje Harmens dated 12 Mrt 1776 f 2000—.—., of which 700—.— on account of paternal property, remainder 1300—.—.

Interest at 3% 468—.—.

2. Bond charged to P. Greydanus dated 1 May 1772: 800—.—., of which as above, remainder. 100—.—.

Interest at 3% 48—.—.

3. The same debtor according to the closing of account dated 11 Aug^{s} 1785 299—8—.

4. Bond charged to the heirs of Mr. N. van Heloma, on which there still remains as capital 574—.—.

Interest at 3% 36—10—.

5. Bond charged to Eyt Jans and Pietertje Harmens in favour of the advocate Petrus Eekma, which has been paid off by the heirs of Binkjen Pieters as surety 800—.—.

Interest at $3^{1}/_{2}$% 168—10—.

6. Bond charged to the buitenvoogdie (outer trusteeship) of Aengwerden, on which there remains 191—10—.

Interest 4—16—8

the furniture and household goods, together with silver and gold, linen and woollens, appraised. 547—18—.

cash found in the house of the deceased 16—18—.

4554—2—8

January 1788. Account, Proof & Balance rendered by Lammertje Harmens as holder of the estate of her late mother Binkjen Pijters, widow of Harmen Jans Faber, of the receipts and expenditures which she has had since the death of the said Binkjen Pijters, to the joint heirs of the late Binkjen Pijters mentioned above.

Received from the heirs of the late Mr. N. van Heeloma in satisfaction of a bond 1500—.—., from which was paid to Petrus Eekma the bond charged to Eyt Jans and Pietertje Harmens, for which our mother had become surety, 800 capital, interest 126, remainder 574—.—.

Interest at 3% 36—10—.

---

[1] There are no marriage registers of Terband (Ængwirden) for the year 1771.

From Grietman E. A. van Idema in satisfaction of an obligation charged to the Buitenvoogdie Aengwerden, capital and interest . . . . . 195—10—.

House rent from Harmen Beerents 21—16; from Jan Harmens' widow (2 years) 13—14 13—14' from the same, land rent (2 years) 23—.—. 23—.—.; ground rent from Rijk Jans (3 years) 12—.—.; from the same, land rent (3 years) 126—.—.; house rent Jochum Jochums' widow 19—.—.; house rent at Joure from Harmen Beerents, Jan Harmens' widow; Jacob Douwes, after deduction of what was paid to the Nieuwedijk and Reëel 51—10—8; land rent Jan Harmens' widow 23—.—.; appraised furniture etc. 547—16—8, cash present 16—18—.. [the amounts 13—14 and 23—.—. are each printed twice, stacked in two lines]

The whole receipt amounts to 1719—5—8. The whole expenditure amounts to 1221—6—10, including first of all, on account of the paternal property as was also received by Trijntje and Pijtertje, 700, with a further 17 years' interest at 3% from her coming of age 357—.—. More has been received than spent 497—18—14, from which a sum of 75—.—. has still been deducted, "further paid pursuant to the disposition of our late mother Binkje Pijters yearly 25 car.gl. to Pietertje Harmens for 1786, 1787 and 1788", so there remains 422—18—14.

Short statement of the estate.

The real property as above (see inventory 23 January 1788) Lammertje Harmens owes the estate according to the above . . . . . 422—18—14

Pietertje Harmens widow of Eyt Jansz owes the estate according to obligation 1300—.—., interest 168—.—., further the obligation paid to Petrus Eekma 800—.—., interest 468—.—. . . . . 2736— .—.

Petrus Greijdanus' children owe the estate according to obligation, capital 100—.—., interest 48—.—., pursuant to the closing of account of 11 August 1785: 299—8—.. 477— 8—.

So together: . . . 3606— 6—14

Concerning Binkjen Pyters, widow of Harmen Jans Faber, the following is further found noted in the Recesboeken (court registers) of Aengwirden:

"18 January 1763. Binkjen Pijters, widow of Harmen Jans, living at 't Heerenveen, against 1° Andries Linses, likewise there; to vacate unencumbered on 12 May 1763 the house he occupies, bleaching-field cum annexis, and 2° Eiikjen, to vacate unencumbered on 12 May 1763 the room she uses."

"17 January 1775. Binkjen Pijters, widow of Harmen Jans, against D^{r} C. I. Cheugenius at het Heerenfeen in Aengwirden. The latter protests the effect of the notice, to vacate unencumbered on 12 May 1775 such proportional part of the house cum annexis as he has in lease and use from her."

"26 October 1779. Binkjen Pytters, widow of the late Harmen Jans, at 's Heerenfeen against Roel Wijbes[1] likewise there; to restore her wall on the east side of his house to its former condition, further to refrain from any breaking of it, and to make good the costs and damages caused thereby."

From the foregoing it follows that the parents of Trijntje Harmens Faber, who according to a family note was also called Terentia, were in comfortable circumstances. Besides Trijntje, the couple Harmen Jans Faber × Binkjen Pytters also had as children: Pietertje (Pyttje) Harmens Faber, who married Eyt Jans, Mr. gortmaker (groats miller) at Heerenveen, and Lammertjen (Mertjen) Harmens Faber, who, according to the Trouwboek (marriage register) of Aengwirden, married in the year 1787 Jan Tjerks Hiddinga of Heerenveen (Aengwirden). Brothers of Harmen Jans Faber were Sibert Jans, Mr. Smit (master smith), living at de Heerenwal, and Jacob Jans, while a sister of his was: Gettie Jans, married to Jan Idses Schipper. Sibert Jans also adopted the surname Faber.

Trijntje Harmens Faber must have died before 14 August 1784, when the first proclamation took place of Petrus Greidanus' 2nd marriage.

2° GERTJE (GEERTJE) JELLES TASMA, 28 August 1785 at Tjalleberd, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed marriage register of Aengwirden:

> "(1785) Petrus Jakobus Greidanus and Geertje Jelles > both of 't Herenveen in Aengwirden were proclaimed here on the 14th, > 21st and 28th of August and were married on 28 August at Tjalbird."

Geertje Jelles Tasma was a daughter of Jelle Ulbes Tasma and Johanna Douwes. Her baptismal entry in the baptismal register of the Dutch Reformed congregation of Grouw 1753—1772 reads as follows:

> "(Anno 1759). on the 21st of October Jelle Ulbes' child was baptized > and named Gertje"

Her surname "Tasma" appears, for instance, in the death record at the Registry of Civil Status of her son Jelle Petrus Jacobus Greydanus, therein mentioned as son of Petrus Jacobus Greydanus and Geertje Jelles Tasma. The name of her mother appears from the following marriage entry in the Trouwboek of the Dutch Reformed Congregation of Grouw 1653—1752:

---

[1] Perhaps the same as Roel Wiebes Offringa, mentioned on page 378.

> "/Anno 1746/ The marriage banns of Jelle Ulbes and Johanna douwes both of Grou have gone over our Church 3 times without hindrance, the last of which was on 2 October, and they were married on the same date."

Jelle Ulbes appears in the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of Idaarderadeel for the year 1764 as tenant of the house N° 121 in the village of Grouw; his great-grandfather Rienk Jelles Tasma is found in the Stemcohier (register of voting farms) of 1640 as tenant of the Kerkplaats N° 24 at Grouw.

A brother of Geertje Jelles Tasma was the well-known Grouw clockmaker Douwe Jelles Tasma, who was baptized at Grouw on 11 August 1754, and about whom data can be found on pages 255 and 256 of the 27th Volume of "De Vrije Fries", a journal published by the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde, in the article "De uurwerkmakerskunst in Friesland" by Nanne Ottema.

Geertje Jelles Tasma must have died before 16 September 1798, when the first proclamation of Petrus Greidanus' 3rd marriage took place in Aengwirden.

3° GRIETJE KLAASSES (KLAZES) DE BOER, 7 October 1798 at Heerenveen, as appears from the following marriage entries:

Reformed Trouwboek of Aengwirden:

> "(1798) Petrus Jakobus Greidanus & Grietje Klaasses both of 's Heerenveen under Aengwirden, banns published on 16, 23, 30 Sept., on 7 Oct. attestation passed to 's Heerenveen and married there on that date according to declaration of the 7th."

Reformed Trouwboek of Heerenveen (Schoterland):

> "(1798) Petrus Jakobus Greidanus and Grietje Klazes of 't Heerenveen under Aengwirden were married here on 7 October upon produced attestation of lawful proclamations at Aengwirden."

The baptismal record of Grietje Klazes de Boer could not be found. According to the Civil Registry of Aengwirden, there died at Heerenveen on 24 August 1827 Grietje Klazes de Boer, aged 61 years, living at Heerenveen (Aengwirden), widow of the late Petrus Jacobus Greydanus.

CHILDREN:

From the first marriage:

1. Harmen Petruszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 109.
2. Aukjen Petrusdochter Greidanus, who follows under number: 110.
3. Jacob Petruszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 111.
4. Jacob Petruszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 112.
5. Harmen Petruszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 113.
6. Harmen Petruszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 114.

From the second marriage:

1. Jelle Petruszoon Greidanus, who follows under number: 115.
2. Geertje Petrusdochter Greidanus, who follows under number: 116.

---

65 BOTJE (BOTTIE) GREIDANUS

Line of descent: Jacob 35 ← Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Mantgum, 20 February 1750 · daughter of Jacob (Jacobus) Greidanus (Greydanus) (N° 35) and Aukjen Sybes · m. George Ulberg, 1775

She was born at Mantgum on 20 February 1750 and baptized there on 1 March following, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed church register of Mantgum:

> "1750 On 1 March baptized the child of M[r] Jacob Greidanus > & * Aukjen Siebes named Botje born on 20 Febr."*

MARRIED:

GEORGE ULBERG (ULBERGH), 20 August 1775 at Mantgum.

The entries relating to this marriage follow here:

Reformed marriage register of Leeuwarden, 1772—1781 page 73:

> "Georg Ulberg and Bottie Greidanus, both of this place, had their marriage banns proclaimed the first time on 30 July 1775, the second time on 6 August following, the third time on the 13th of the same, from here a declaration was issued to Mantgum on the 18th of the same.
> And according to a further declaration presented, they were confirmed in their marriage there on the 20th of the same."

Reformed marriage register of Mantgum:

> "Georg Ulbergh & Botje Greidanus, the above-mentioned persons, after presentation of a certificate of the banns performed at Leeuwarden, were confirmed in marriage on 20 August 1775."

Georg Ulbergh was a son of the Stadsmajoor (town major) of Bolsward Hans Jurjens Ulbergh and of Aeltie (Aaltje) Jans; he was born at Bolsward 29 December 1752 and baptized there 21 January 1753. His baptismal record in the Reformed baptismal register of Bolsward reads as follows:

> "/1753/ On 21 January was baptized the child of the town major H. J. Ulberg, born 29 December 1752, named Georg."

In the reëelcohieren (property-tax registers) of Bolsward, Major Ulberg appears up to and including the year 1757 as tenant of N° 480, situated in the quarter of the Noord-Haitsebaan; in the following year 1758 is recorded: Major Ulberg's widow, which continues up to and including the year 1772.

In the "Leeuwarder Woensdagse Courant" N° 20 of 28 September 1757 and following numbers the following advertisement is found, in which the "town major H. J. Ulberg" is mentioned:

> "Doctors B. van Greven and Joh. H. Voorda will, on Saturday 8 October 1757 at precisely one o'clock in the afternoon, at the first session, in the Nieuwe Hopzak in Leeuwarden, sell by striking-money: A splendid, excellent vote-bearing farm and lands, under the village of Witmarsum, altogether 61 pondematen, both arable and pasture land; used by Sipke Bouwes as tenant, who pays yearly in free money as rent 250 Carolus guilders etc., at Petri and May 1758, free of lease years: further specified in the notices. The conditions and articles may be seen at the above-mentioned doctors in Leeuwarden, as also at Bolsward with the town major H. J. Ulberg, and at Franeker with Professor B. Voorda."

In the inventory register of Bolsward one finds, dated 5 December 1780, the inventory of the estate of the late Aeltie Jans, widow of the late Hans Jurjans Ulberg, recently deceased there, which estate had been surrendered by her children to the creditors, according to a deed: of repudiation dated 21 November last relating thereto, and published on the roll and inserted in the recesboek (register of court orders), in order that the description be made in the presence of Jan Boltjes, auction clerk there, in his capacity as authorized curator bonorum over the aforesaid abandoned estate. The subscription of the inventory reads as follows: "Ready money 202 Carolus guilders 13 stuivers, out of which the town tolls for the months of September and October last must be paid to the receiver, and after deduction of the deceased's salary as commissioner of the tolls from Bolswardt to Leeuwarden and back."

The above-mentioned deed of repudiation, recorded in the recesboek of Bolsward, has the following content:

> "Court day of 29 November 1780.
> We, the undersigned Jan, George and Sophia Ulberg, assisted by my husband; and the widow of Johannis Ulberg, as mother on behalf of her children, of the late Hans Jurjan Ulberg and Aalttie Jans, in life a married couple at Bolsward, declare hereby that we wholly renounce the inheritance of our aforesaid late mother and entirely leave her estate for the benefit of her creditors, claiming to be in no way, directly or indirectly, heir of our late mother. And in order that this our earnest intention may be evident to the creditors, we desire that this deed be communicated and handed over to them and at the same time be registered in the recesboek of the town of Bolswardt. In witness whereof our hands, at Bolsward 19 November 1780 and at Leeuwarden 21 November; was signed Sofia Ulberg; Jan Ulberg, Georg Ulberg, Mayke van der Werff; this name of Sovia Ulberg in witness of me as her husband Klaas Ramkema".

The occupation of Georg Ulberg could not be found. According to the marriage certificate dated 13 November 1814 of his daughter Aukje, he died in the year 1795 at Doornspijck. His widow Bottje Greidanus lived in 1807 at Leeuwarden, where, according to the following entry dated 4 February 1807/6 March 1807 in the groot-consentboek (register of conveyances) of Leeuwarden, she bought a house:

> "Coenraad Westenberg, master mason, and Antje Westerman, married couple within Leeuwarden, hereby acknowledge that they have sold to Bottje I. G. Greidanus [1], widow of Ulberg, likewise residing in the aforesaid city, a house with appurtenances standing in the Burmaniastraat at Leeuwarden, numbered with letter F N° 53, being free of ground rent and to be taken possession of free on 1 April 1807, having as adjoining neighbours to the east Jan Everling, to the south Hendk Trompetter, to the west the same, and to the north the Burmaniastraat, for the sum of 700 car. gulden."

According to the Civil Registry of Leeuwarden, Bottje Greidanus died there as a domestic servant on 4 September 1823.

Accompanying this is a further draft: fragment genealogy of the family "Ulberg", which perhaps originates from East Friesland, since, according to the Burgerboek (register of citizens) of Harlingen, on 1 September 1690 there became a citizen of Harlingen: "Hans Jurjens Ulbergh, born in East Friesland, come from Leeuwarden". According to a deed dated 22 August 1698, registered 1 February 1699 in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Harlingen, this "Hans Jurriens Ulbergh", married to Griette Hettes, was merchants' messenger from Harlingen to Amsterdam, citizen and "innkeeper in the house Bentum within Harlingen".

CHILDREN:

1. Johannes Ulbergh, who follows under number: 117.
2. Aukje Ulbergh, who follows under number: 118.
3. Jacobus Ulbergh, who follows under number: 119.
4. Petrus Ulbergh, who follows under number: 120.

---

66 SIEBE (SYBE) (JACOBUS') GREIDANUS (GREIJDANUS)

Line of descent: Jacob 35 ← Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

He was born at Mantgum 17 April and baptized 23 April 1752, according to the following entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Mantgum:

> "(1752) On 23 April was baptized the child of Mr Jacob Greidanus & Aukjen Siebes named Siebe, born on 17 April."

Sybe Greijdanus became a member of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Mantgum on 22 June 1778, on the basis of the following entry in the Original Members' Register of the Congregation of Mantgum and adjacent villages, beginning with May 1772, p. 4.

> "(1778) On the 22nd of June 1778 there was, upon confession of faith and after preceding examination, accepted as a member of the congregation Siebe Greidanus."

On 1 November 1778 he was appointed as "successor" of C. A. Frederici [2] to be Schoolmaster and Dorprechter (village judge) at Spannum, where he arrived with a certificate from Mantgum dated 6 November 1778. All this rests on the following entries:

Original Members' Register of the Congregation of Mantgum and adjacent villages, beginning with May 1772:

> p. 6. "On the 6th of November 1778 there > departed with a certificate to Spannum > Siebe Greidanus"

Members' Register of the Schoolmaster at Spannum, in accordance with the Resolution of the Honourable Mighty Lords States of Friesland of 28 February 1772:

> "(1778) I, S. J. Greidanŭs, followed as of the first of November > as successor of the aforesaid C: A: Frederici.
> On the 8th of November there came over here with > a certificate of the 6th of November from Mantgum > the aforesaid S. J. Greidanŭs, schoolmaster of this village."

New Members' register at Edens and Spannum, begun by me, Gentius Hesselius, minister there, according to the Regulation of the Honourable Mighty Lords, States of Friesland, of 28 February 1772:

> "(1778) On 8 November
> Sijbe Greidanŭs, schoolmaster > and village judge at Spannum > with a certificate from Mantgum > of the 6th of this month"

[1] This must be Bottje J. P. Greidanus.

[2] He (Cornelis Alberts Frederici) was married to a daughter of Douwe Bernardus Schotanus, surgeon at Wommels, whose daughter Seerpje Douwes Schotanus was married to Bauke Fransen Fopma, father-in-law of Dieuke Greydanus (N° 69 of this genealogy) (see also the draft: fragment genealogy "Fopma" belonging with page 264).

Draft: Fragment Genealogy "ULBERGH (OLBERG, UILBERG)". Belongs with page 384. - Jurjen Johannes (Ulbergh) — Master wheelwright at Oenkerk. - ⚭ I ..... - Hans Jurjens Ulbergh — First at Oenkerk, later Stadsmajoor (town major) at Bolsward. † Bolsward in 1757 or 1758. - ⚭ Aaltje Jans — m. Oenkerk 15 Nov. 1739. † Bolsward in 1780. - Johannes (also called Hans) Ulbergh — bapt. Oenkerk 12 June 1740. - ⚭ Mayke Melles van der Werff — m. Bolsward 21 Nov. 1762. - Hans (also called Johannes) Jurjen Ulbergh — b. Bolsward 27 Aug. 1765. Tailor at Leeuwarden. † Leeuwarden 9 February 1838. - ⚭ I Antje Spat — m. Bolsward 2 Mrt. 1787. - Maijke Ulbergh — b. Bolsward 6 May 1787. - Trijntje Ulbergh — b. Bolsward 27 June 1788. - ⚭ II Aafke Jans Ferwerda — † Leeuwarden 28 July 1833. - Aukje Ulbergh — bapt. Leeuw. 1801. M. Leeuwarderadeel 29 May 1834. - ⚭ Fokke Geerts van der Meer — b. Bergum ± 1810. At marriage settled at Goutum. - Cornelis Ulbergh — bapt. Leeuw. 1804. - Melle Ulbergh — bapt. Leeuw. 1812. † Amsterdam 9 Dec. 1836 as a fusilier. - Aukje Ulbergh — b. Bolsward 18 April 1768. - Jan (Hanses) Ulbergh — bapt. Oenkerk 22 Aug. 1744. Gentleman's servant at Bolsward. † Bolsward 2 Nov. 1825. - ⚭ I Akke Ytkes (Acke Ittes) — m. Bolsward ± 1772. - Hans (also called Johannes) Jurrian Ulbergh — b. Bolsward 1773. Gentleman's servant at Leeuwarden. † Leeuwarden 25 Febr. 1821. - ⚭ Claaske (Coenraads) Swertel (Swartel) — m. Leeuwarden 10 May 1804. 21 June 1828 matron in the Town Almshouse of Harlingen, where she was still living as a widow in 1837. - Ytjen (Yte, Yetje, Yetzen) Ulbergh — b. Bolsward ± 1804. Shoemaker at Oosterbierum. - ⚭ I Beitske Sipkes Visser — b. Tietjerk ± 1807. † Oosterbierum 30 Dec. 1836. - Akke Ulbergh — b. Barradeel 14 Dec. 1836. † Barradeel 5 April 1837. - Klaaske Ulbergh — b. Barradeel 17 January 1831. † Barradeel 29 Aug. 1837. - ⚭ II Akke Piebes Posthumus — b. Oosterbierum ± 1815. M. Barradeel 30 Nov. 1837. - Akke (Johannes) Ulbergh — b. ± 1809. Spinner. † Harlingen 5 Aug. 1825. - ⚭ II Hiltje Everts Dikkerboom — b. Bolsward 6 January 1811. - Sophia Ulbergh — bapt. Oenkerk 31 Mrt. 1747. † Franeker ? 1791. - ⚭ I Klaas Ramkema — † Leeuwarden 10 Oct. 1809. - ⚭ II Ybeltje Piave Bangma - Georg Ulbergh — b. Bolsward 29 Dec. 1752. Bapt. Bolsward 21 January 1753. † Doornspijk 1795. - ⚭ Bottie Greidanus — b. Mantgum 20 February 1750. Bapt. Mantgum 1 March 1750, dau. of Jacobus Greidanus, Schoolmaster at Mantgum, and Aukjen Siebes. M. Mantgum 20 Aug. 1775. † Leeuwarden 4 Sept. 1823. - Johannes Ulbergh — bapt. Mantgum 27 Aug. 1775. - Aukje Ulbergh — bapt. Leeuwarden 24 Febr. 1778. M. Leeuwarden 13 Nov. 1814. † Leeuwarden 28 Febr. 1832. - ⚭ Stephanus Bru/i/neman — b. Schiedam ± 1782, son of Hermanus Mathias Bruneman and Clare Jufferman. Manservant at Leeuwarden. - Jacobus Ulbergh — bapt. Leeuwarden 15 Dec. 1780. † Leeuwarden 31 Aug. 1810. Buried at Jorwerd. - Petrus Ulbergh — bapt. Leeuwarden 12 Mrt. 1784. † Leeuwarden 14 Nov. 1837. - ⚭ II Trijntje Rubens — m. Oenkerk 17 May 1733.

Sybe Greydanus remained Schoolmeester (schoolmaster) at Spannum, where he also fulfilled the functions of Organist, Koster (sexton) and Klokkenist (bell-ringer) until 1 November 1822, when he voluntarily resigned from that position, having thus held it for 44 years. Concerning this, the following advertisement is found in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Tuesday the 24 September 1822, N^{o} 77:

> "The public SCHOOL at Spannum having become vacant through the voluntary resignation of S. J. Greidanus, applicants for it are invited to apply in writing, before or on 30 October 1822, to the Grietman (district magistrate) of Hennaarderadeel at Wommels, and at the same time to send in, before that same day, their certificates of at least the 3rd rank, and testimonials of good, irreproachable civil and moral conduct; as well as of good practical teaching from the School Inspector of their district, to the School Inspector of the 9th district in Friesland at Franeker.
> The fixed salary is, besides a free Dwelling and Garden (which are excellent), 225 Guldens, together with the School fees of about 40 Pupils, each of whom pays 30 Cents per quarter of a Year, with in addition 50 Cents per quarter of a Year for instruction in Arithmetic; — the post of Teacher being combined with those of Organist, Koster and Klokkenist."

Of the Schoolmeester at Spannum Sybe Greidanus the following advertisement in the "Leeuwarder Saturdagse Courant" N^{o} 1587 of 28 December 1782 also bears witness:

> "Should anyone be inclined to buy one or two cabinets, in the Dutch fashion, of which one is inlaid with Olive Wood, very smooth and handsome, he may apply to Reints Piers Salverda[1] at Dronrijp, or to Sybe Greidanus Schoolmaster at Spannum."

As Dorprechter (village judge) he has been found:

in the Recesboek of Hennaarderadeel, in which under the date of 13 January 1780/22 December 1779 mention is made of the Dorprechter Greidanus, through whom D^{us} Gentius Hesselius, church teacher at Edens, had served a writ on Sjerp Wiensens, farmer under Spannum, for payment of rent of the farmstead he had in use; in a declaration occurring in the Portfolio, marked G, of the Judicial Archive of Hennaarderadeel, dated 15 November 1806, of Jentje Sjoerds at Spannum, that he will pay to the Heirs of his deceased wife's first husband, in accordance with the will, 420 car. gulden, which declaration was written and signed by order by the dorprechter S. J. Greijdanus.

It appears that Sybe Greydanus must, besides the office of Schoolmeester, organist, koster, klokkenist and dorprechter, also have kept a shop (see also page 386), since in the Orphans' account books of Hennaarderadeel, in two accounts of 22 January 1798, the one of Jan Jansen, farmer at Oosterend, as curator over the minor children of Jan Minnes (Fellinga) and Mayke Tjesses, supported by the co-curator Oepke Minnes (Fellinga), and the other of the last-named curator, the following items of expenditure respectively occur:

> the 26 ditto (June 1791) to Greidanus for clothing delivered to the wards 45—"—2;
> the 25 June (1788) and 12 ditto (August 1789) to Greidanus for clothing delivered to the wards respectively 36—1—. and 28—4—.;
> the 25 Aug^{t} (1790) to Greidanus for shop goods, delivered to the wards 21—.—.;
> the 29 July 1792, 29 October 1793, 7 July 1795 and 19 November 1797 to Siebe Greidanus for clothing delivered respectively 39—2—4, 16—17—8, 10—1—4 and 2—1—..

Moreover, Sybe Greydanus will also have been a deacon, since the accounts of the deaconry of Edens and Spannum from 1780 to 1816 (with the exception of that of 1813) and afterwards also that of 1820 are co-signed by S. J. Greydanus. The first signature is dated January 1781, the last 10 February 1821.

According to the Civil Registry of Hennaarderadeel, Sybe Greydanus died 11 January 1833 at the age of 80 years. At his funeral a deaconry pall seems to have been used for the coffin, since in the Deaconry account of the Dutch Reformed Congregation at Edens and Spannum for the year 1833 the following item of receipt is found:

> "for the coffin pall > of S. Grydanus f —.60".

[1] He was married to Mayke Hesselius, a sister of the wife of Sybe Greydanus.

MARRIED:

WILLEMKE HESSELIUS, 9 April 1780 at Spannum, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed Marriage Register of Edens and Spannum:

"(1780) Sybe Greijdanus, Schoolm^r and	were on 19 and 26 March
Dorprechter (village judge) at Spannum and my	and on 2 April at Spannum and third and youngest daughter Willemke	Edens proclaimed without hindrance,
Hesselius of Edens	and on the 9th ditto at Spannum
Frans Baukess Fopma and	confirmed in the married
Dieuke Greijdanus both of	state."
Spannum

The marriage was thus solemnized by Willemke Hesselius' father Ds. Gentius Hesselius, Minister at Edens and Spannum, and performed at the same time as the marriage of Sybe Greijdanus' sister Dieuke Greijdanus, as also follows from the entry below in the "Register [1] of Married Persons Recorded by the Schoolmaster at Spannum according to the Resolution of the Honourable Mighty States of Friesland of 28 February 1772 — C. A. Frederici" [2].

"(1780)

Sijbe Jacobŭs Grijdanus	were on the 19th, 26th of March and on the 2nd
Schoolm. of Spannŭm and	of April at Spannum and Eedens pro-
Willemke Hesselius of Eedens	claimed without hindrance. And on
Frans Baukes Fopma and	9 April 1780 both couples in the
Dieuke Jacobŭs Greydanŭs	afternoon confirmed in the married
	State (at Spannŭm)."

Willemke Hesselius was a daughter of Ds. Gentius Hesselius and Tjitske Smeding. She was born 19 August 1760 at Edens and baptized there on 7 September following by her father, as appears from the following note in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Edens and Spannum:

"(1760) On 7 September was baptized at Edens my little daughter Willemke (born on 19 August) I myself and my wife Tjitske Smeding /added: died on 30
Dec. 1773/ (father and mother) Witnesses."

She became a member of the Reformed congregation at Edens and Spannum on 18 February 1781 and died 13 April 1798, aged 37 years. Concerning this the following records exist:

New Members' register at Edens and Spannum, begun by me Gentius Hesselius, Minister there, according to the Regulation of the Honourable Mighty Lords, States of Friesland of 28 February 1772:
"(1781)
On 18 February
my youngest daughter Willemke Hesselius, wife of M^r Sybe Greijdanus at Spannum."
Members' register of the Schoolmaster at Spannum pursuant to the Resolution of the Honourable Mighty Lords States of Friesland of 28 February 1772:
"(1781) On the 18th of Febrŭ † [3] Willemke Hesseliŭs Wife of me Sybe J. Greydanŭs."
Renewed Register of the Members of this Congregation (i.e. the congregation at Edens and Spannum) in the Year 1792:
. . . . . .
. . . . . .
Sybe Greijdanus ⎫ E.L. (married couple)
Willemke Hesselius ⎭ . . . . (Latin) died on 13 April 1798."

After the death of his wife Sybe Greydanus seems to have sold part of the household effects and evidently of the shop business (see page 385) by Boelgoed (public auction of goods); at any rate one finds in the "Bataafsche Leeuwarder Courant" of Tuesday 29 May 1798 N^o 5 and following numbers the advertisement below:

> "The Secretary W. ODOLPHI will, on Monday 4 June 1798, at 9 o'clock in the morning, at the house of Sybe Greidanus, Schoolmaster at Spannum, sell by Boelgoed and for ready money: A quantity of BONTEN (cotton-linen cloths), Greinen (grograms), Linens, Zavius, Furniture and Household goods, Beds and Bedclothes and whatever more shall be brought forward."

[1] This register is kept by the Minister of the Dutch Reformed congregation at Spannum and Edens.

[2] See note 2 on page 384.

[3] This sign was added later by another hand and is meant to indicate "obiit" /(Latin) he/she died/.

Ds. Gentius Hesselius was born 12 June 1708 at Tjummarum as the son of Ds. Bernardus Hesselius and Anna Hogeveen. He was called to Edens and Spannum on 18 October 1733 and died 21 June 1782. His father Ds. Bernardus Hesselius was born at Franeker as the son of Hessel Hendriks, shoemaker there. Ds. Bernardus Hesselius was Reformed minister from 1687 to 1693 at Dongjum and from 1693 to 1733 at Tjummarum; he died in 1738.

The coat of arms of Ds. Gentius Hesselius appears, as has already been reported on page 265, on a gable stone built into the church tower of Spannum. This family coat of arms, of which the heraldic description (the colours are not known) as well as an illustration follow below, is therefore also to be regarded as that of his daughter Willemke:

quartered: 1. the Frisian eagle. 2. two clover leaves side by side. 3. a rose and an acorn side by side. 4. a lily.

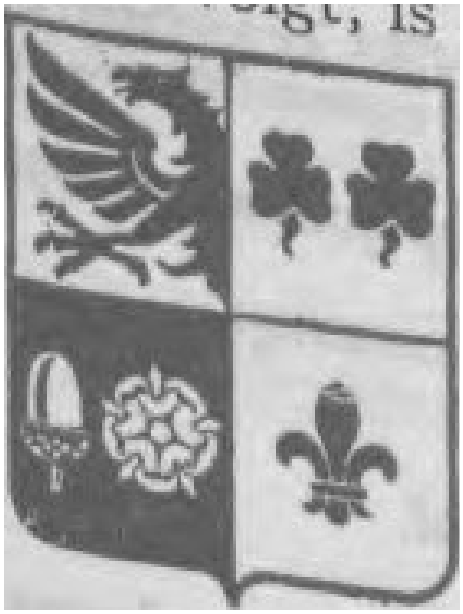
There exists yet another coat of arms "Hesselius", of which the heraldic description reads as follows:

silver with a black fess. Crest: a flight, e.g. dexter silver, sinister black. Torse and mantling: silver and black.



"Hesselius"

CHILDREN:

1.	Jacob Sybeszoon Greidanus,
2.	Jentje Sybeszoon Greidanus,	who follows under number: 121.
3.	Taeke Sybeszoon Greidanus,	who follows under number: 122.
4.	Aukjen Sybesdochter Greidanus,	who follows under number: 123.
5.	Tjitske Sybesdochter Greidanus,	who follows under number: 124.
6.	Petrus Sybeszoon Greidanus,	who follows under number: 125.
7.	Johannes Sybeszoon Greidanus,	who follows under number: 126.
8.	Anna Sybesdochter Greidanus,	who follows under number: 127.
9.	Jentje Sybeszoon Greidanus,	who follows under number: 128.
10.	Ymte Sybeszoon Greidanus,	who follows under number: 129.
		who follows under number: 130.

67 YMTE (JACOBUS') GREIDANUS (GREIJDANUS)

Line of descent: Ymte 67 ← Jacob 35 ← Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Mantgum, 8 September 1754 · d. Jorwerd, 25 January 1827 · son of Jacob (Jacobus) Greidanus (Greydanus) (N° 35) and Aukjen Sybes · m. Wikjen Jans Strikwerda, 1783 · m. Maryke Cornelis Strikwerda, 1788

His baptismal entry in the Reformed church book of Mantgum reads as follows:

> "1754. On 15 September baptized the child of M[r] Jacob > Greidanus & Auckjen Siebes, named Ymte, > born 8 September."

From this it thus appears that Ymte Greijdanus was born 8 September 1754.

According to the following entry in the Original Members' Book of the Reformed Congregation at Mantgum and associated villages, he was admitted there as a member on 19 February 1781 and departed on 20 November of that year with a certificate from Mantgum to Jorwerd, where about the end of that year he was appointed Schoolmaster, as successor to the deceased Schoolmaster Eltje Kist:

> "On 19 February 1781, upon confession > of faith, after preceding exami> nation and instruction, was admitted > as a member of this congregation > Ymte Greidanus, but he departed > with a certificate to > Jorwert on the 20th of November 1781."

His appointment as Schoolmaster at Jorwerd about the end of 1781 and a few more further details concerning him are taken from a diary of L. A. A. Sluijterman, at that time gentleman farmer at Jorwerd, which diary is included on page 174 and following of Part 21 of "de Vrije Fries", the journal of the Friesch Genootschap van Geschied-, Oudheid- en Taalkunde at Leeuwarden.

An extract from this diary follows below:

> "1780.
> Thursday 28 Dec. Our schoolmaster Eltje Kist died and Imte Greijdanus applied for the school.
> Friday 29 Dec. Ate Durks applied here for the school and also the schoolmaster of Deersum.
> Saturday 30 Dec. Wrote to Uncle Scheltinga about a schoolmaster and recommended Ymte Greijdanus to him. Uncle Boelens promised me his votes, as did also the Heer Auditeur Wiersma and Mevr. Sloterdijk.

> 1781.
> Friday 5 Jan. Our deceased Schoolmaster Eltje Kist laid in the earth, we assisted at the same.
> Wednesday 5 April. Secretaris Wiarda and Bijsitter (assessor) Idsardy were here in the afternoon and spoke about the voting for the schoolmaster.
> Wednesday 25 July. I to Franeker, Meester Ymte Greydanus rode with me, the whip was won by Teade of Harlingen with the pony of Menaam.
> Monday 3 Dec. Requested a writ from the Heer Grietman (district magistrate) E. F. van Aylva for the voting for a Schoolmaster here, and after some disputes it was granted me.
> 1783.
> Saturday 3 May. I in the evening at our schoolmaster's and the bride's, entertained with bridal tears.
> Tuesday 20[1] May. Our schoolmaster married."

Besides Schoolmaster, Ymte Greydanus was also Dorprechter (village judge) at Jorwerd; according to the Provincial Almanacs he was from 1799 also organist there, in which function he seems to have remained until his death in 1827.

As village judge he is mentioned in the Recesboek of Baarderadeel dated 26 November 1792 "having been cited hereto through Dorp[r] Greidanus at Jorwert" and in the acknowledgement of debt to be mentioned hereafter dated 28 July 1790, recorded in the Hypotheekboek (mortgage register) of Baarderadeel dated 23 February 1795.

He remained Schoolmaster at Jorwerd until his death — 25 January 1827 — thus for 45 years, which appears from the following advertisement in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Tuesday 1 May 1827 N° 35:

> "The post of Teacher in the public School at Jorwerd having become vacant through the death of Y. J. Greijdanus, applicants for the same, of not less than the third rank, are hereby invited to present themselves before or on 15 May 1827, with carriage-free transmission of their certificates of good moral and civil conduct and of practical teaching, to the Heer Grietman of Baarderadeel at Weidum, and at the same time to give notice of this application by carriage-free Letters to the Heer School Inspector in the ninth district in Vriesland at Franeker.
> The advantages attached to this Post are a yearly Salary of f 300:00 from the purse of the Kerkvoogdij (church wardens), a free Dwelling with a large Garden, and the school pennies of about fifty pupils, of whom in the first class 20 cents, in the second 30 cents and in the third 60 cents are paid each quarter of a year.
> To the aforesaid Teacher's post are attached those of Organist, Sexton, Precentor etc.
> The comparative Examination will be held on Wednesday 6 June 1827, at nine o'clock in the morning in the Grietenijhuis at Weidum."

From this advertisement it appears that Ymte Greydanus, as was often the case in this period, also held the functions of organist, sexton, precentor etc.

In the same newspaper, of Tuesday 10 April 1810 N° 2761, there appears in the Supplement of Friday 13 April 1810 N° 3011 the following advertisement concerning him:

> "Whereas the CHURCH WARDENS of Jorwerd intend to make a new REGISTER of the GRAVES, both in the Church and in the Churchyard there; — the Owners of such Graves are hereby warned to send in their proofs of ownership thereof, before the 1st of Bloeimaand 1810, to Ymte Greidanus, School-teacher at Jorwerd; failing which, the Graves shall be forfeited to the Church."

This same advertisement is found in the "Vriesche Courant" of Friday 6th of Grasmaand 1810 N° 39 and following numbers, in which the name is correctly given, namely as Ymte Greidanus.

Ymte Greydanus must have been in comfortable circumstances with his second wife Marike Cornelis Strikwerda, to be mentioned hereafter, since these spouses lent out sums of 1000 Caroli guldens to third parties, as appears from the following entries in the 24e Hypotheecq-Boek (mortgage register) of Baarderadeel 1787—1800:

[1] According to the marriage deed included on page 390 the marriage was solemnized on 18 May, which was a Sunday.

Folio 87 verso.

"Mr. Y. Greidanus creditor versus Uilkjen Reinders wid of Jouw Gerlofs at Oosterwierum debtor.
Uilkjen Reinders widow of the merchant Jouw Gerlofs at Oosterwierum acknowledges by this deed to owe truly and lawfully to Ymte Greidanus, schoolmaster, and Marike Strikwerda, married couple at Jorwert, a sum of One Thousand Caroli Guldens, counted out to me to my satisfaction before the passing of this deed, wherefore I renounce the exception of money not counted out, but promise to repay the above-mentioned One thousand Caroli gld. of Twenty stuivers each at the first demand in current money, and not with provincial or other bonds passing as money, and promise to pay yearly as interest three car. gld: five stuivers for every Hundred, which takes its beginning at the signing of this deed and shall run until full payment, and for the fulfilment of this I pledge as security all my goods generally, submitting them together with my Person to the Court of Friesland and all Courts, liable in the first instance, in witness whereof my hand and that of I. Idsardi as requested Witness. 26 June 1790.
(was signed) Uilkjen Reinders Vogelsang: I Idsardi Agrees after comparison with the original signed as above.
Done 19 May 1791 at Two o'clock in the afternoon.
In witness of us co-judge and secretary
(signed) I. S. Cloosterman, I. Verschuir."

The deed has been struck through with a cross, so that apparently the mortgage was later redeemed. Folio 153.

[the following note is printed in the left margin beside this deed:]
Upon production of the bond with receipt, this one is hereby cancelled 22 November 1802.
In witness of me sworn Clerk (signed) J. v. Eyck sworn clerk
"Ymte Greidanus cum ux̆. (Latin: with his wife) creditor versus
Iacob Verschuir Debtor
Jacob Verschuir Secretary of Baarderadeel declare by this deed to owe to Ymte Greidanus, Schoolmaster and Dorpregter (village judge) of the Village of Jorwert, and Marike Cornelis, married couple, the sum of one thousand Caroli gls of 20 strs each on account of ready money advanced, which I have received to my satisfaction, wherefore I renounce the exception of money not counted out and promise to repay that Capital of 1000 £ as soon as it is demanded in ringing silver coin and no provincial bonds, and the interest thereof at three per cent without the least deduction, to run from the date of this deed until the full payment thereof, for which I pledge all my goods without exception, with submission of my person to the Court of Friesland and all Courts. In witness whereof my hand. Done at Jorwert 28 July 1790.
(was signed) I. Verschuir.
In the margin stood:
the interest fell due and was paid 28 July 1791; 1792; 1793; 1794:
Agrees after comparison with the original signed as above.
Done 23 Febry 1795 at nine o'clock in the forenoon. In witness of us Commissioner sworn Clerk of the municipality in Baarderadeel
(signed) Dirk Swart (signed) W. Hettema."

Ymte Greydanus died at Jorwerd 25 January 1827, thus at the age of 72 years, and was buried there. Concerning this I possess a small leaf, probably coming from a family bible, with some manuscript notes, among which the following:

> "1827 On 6 Janŭarij in the Evening at seven o'clock died Marike Kornelis Strikwerda aged 56 Years > 1827. On 25 Janŭarij at Noon at twelve o'clock died Ymte Jacobs Greidanus aged 73 years. Both living at Jorwert and lie buried there."

MARRIED 1°: Wikjen Jans Strikwerda, 18 May 1783 at Jorwerd, as appears from the following marriage entries:

Dutch Reformed marriage register of Winsum:

"1783 — On the 27th of April, the 4th and 11th of May were pro-55 — claimed Ymte Jacobus Greidanus school-(no.) — master at Jorwert and Wikjen Jans Strikwerda at Winsum, who have departed with a certificate to Jorwert in order to be confirmed there in the married state, of which they have requested a counter-certificate."

Dutch Reformed marriage register of Jorwerd:

"(1783)
Imte Jacobus Greidanus schoolmaster at Jorwert and Wikjen Jans Strikwerda of Winsum have had without hindrance their first proclamation on 27 April 1783, the second on 4 May, the third on the 11th of the same, and were married here on the 18th of the same with a certificate from Winsum."

Wikjen Jans Strikwerda was a daughter of Jan Durks (Strikwerda) and Trijntje Lammerts and was baptized at Winsum 19 October 1760, aged about 11 days, on the basis of the following entry in the Dutch Reformed marriage register of Winsum and Baard kept in the State Archives at Leeuwarden.

"(1760)
Winsum. On the 19th of the same (October) Jan Durks /upon the promise that he with his wife would at the first opportunity make profession of faith/, had his little child sprinkled with the baptismal water, being a little daughter named Wikjen the mother has been Trijntje Lammerts at baptism one day to 10 or 12 old."

In the register kept by the minister: "Authentic copy from the baptismal, marriage and communion book of the villages of Winsum, Baard and Huins" one finds concerning this membership of Jan Durks (Strikwerda) and his wife the two following entries:

> "on 12 Aug. 1764 Jan Durks, having already > for some time together with his wife received instruction for > membership, had his child baptized: Lammert".

Line of descent: de vrouw: obiit in 1772.

> "On 15 Febry 1765 the preparatory sermon was held with us, and > there were received as members upon profession of faith > Jan Dirks, and Trijntie Lammerts, married couple, and > Albert Dirks and Idske Lammerts likewise married couple.
> And thereupon on the 17th of the same the Holy Communion was held with > prayer for and awaiting of the LORD's blessing."

Jan Durks (Dirks) Strikwerda was at his marriage at Winsum on 10 June 1759 from Winsum, and his bride Trijntie Lammerts was then from Spannum and baptized there 7 August 1735 as daughter of Lammert Jansz. and Jeltie Jakobs. Immediately beneath the marriage entry of Jan Dirks with Trijntie Lammerts one finds the marriage dated 26 August 1759 of Albert Dirks (of Winsum) and Jitske Lammerts (of Spannum), which couple, according to the foregoing, was received as member at Winsum at the same time as the couple Jan Dirks × Trijntje Lammerts. Probably Trijntie Lammerts and Jitske Lammerts, both from Spannum, are sisters; that Jan Durks (Strikwerda) and Albert Dirks (of Winsum) would be brothers has not been found.

A brother of Wikjen Jans (Strikwerda) was Lammert Jans (Strikwerda), farmer at Winsum, married to Aaltje Sjoerds (see the accompanying draft: fragment genealogy “Strikwerda”).

Jan Durks (Strikwerda) was a son of the couple Durk Jacobs (Strikwerda) × Iesk Pijters, and a brother of Jacob Durks (Strikwerda). This Jacob Durks (Strikwerda) married twice, first to Marike Cornelis and afterwards to Grietje Douwes. From the first marriage were born among others: 1° Cornelis Jacobs (Strikwerda), the father of the 2nd wife — Marike Cornelis Strikwerda — of Ymte Greydanus, and 2° Tjitske Jacobs (Strikwerda), who married Pijter Jans.

Draft: Fragment Genealogy “STRIKWERDA”. Belongs with page 390. - Dirc or Durk (Strikwerda) - Pijtter Dircx (Strikwerda) — at Oosterlittens. † before 1680. - ⚭ Antie Piery (Stellingwerff) — dau. of Ds. Pierius Johs. Stellingwerff, V.D.M. at Oosterlittens, and Rinske Piersdr. - Rixtie Pytters (Strikwerda) — b. ± 1654. † 5 December 1700. - ⚭ Hessel Jansen — at Oosterlittens. † 24 September 1718 at Ooslittens. - Geertie Hessels Strikwerda - ⚭ Bauke Fransen Fopma — at Spannum (see the draft: scheme “Fopma” with page 264.) - Maaike Hessels - Jan Hessels - Pieter Hessels — 1755 merchant at Oosterlittens and curator over the heirs of the late Bijsitter (assessor) Johannes Piers Strikwerda. - ⚭ Grijtie Minnes — m. 1711. - Pier Pijtters (Strikwerda) — A b. ± 1655. (Obtained in 1680 veniam aetatis (Latin: legal majority) from the Court of Friesland). 1691 at Dronrijp. † 2 December 1700 at Oosterlittens. - ⚭ I Jancke Aernts — m. 1678. - ⚭ II Hiske Mevis — † 1690. - Pieter Piers Strikwerda — b. ± 1687. - Bregtie Piers Strikwerda — b. 1695. m. 1717. - ⚭ Lammert Taekes (Salverda) — Ontvanger (tax collector) at Tzum. - ⚭ III Aethje Brongers — m. 1694 to A. m. 1705 to B. † 1714. - ⚭ B Pyer Pijtters — of Menaem. - Johannes Piers Strikwerda — b. ± 1698. Bijsitter of Baarderadeel. † 4 Aug^{s} 1745. - ⚭ Reinskje Sijmens — † 27 Dec. 1742. - Pier Johannes Strikwerda — bapt. Oosterlittens 2 June 1737. † 28 July 1800. - ⚭ Durkjen Aedes (Eedes) — b. ± 1733. † Oosterlittens 21 June 1807. - Gelske Johannes Strikwerda — bapt. Oosterlittens 22 May 1740. - Sijmen Johannes Strikwerda — bapt. Oosterlittens 31 Dec. 1741. † at Gibraltar, as Lieutenant at Sea, in 1773. - Dirck Pijtters (Strikwerda) — b. ± 1660. At Oosterend or skipper at Oosterlittens? - ⚭ ? - Pijter Dircks (Strikwerda) — b. 1711 at Oosterlittens. - Tyetske Dircks (Strikwerda) — b. 1715 at Oosterlittens. - Antie Dircks (Strikwerda) — b. 1717 at Oosterlittens. - Joannes Pijtters (Strikwerda) — b. ± 1662. 1691 cloth merchant at Oosterlittens. † 31 Oct. 1700 at Oosterlittens. - ⚭ Rixt Jans — † Jan. 1708. - Pier Johannes (Strikwerda) — at Oosterlittens (1714). - Rinske (Renske) Pijtters (Strikwerda) — b. ± 1664. - ⚭ Dirck Gerrijts — Ontvanger at Hijlaard. † before 1701. - Antie (Antje) Pijtters (Strikwerda) — b. ± 1666. † after 1728. - ⚭ Taecke Alberts — at Winsum. † before 1728. - Baatie Pijtters (Strikwerda) — b. ± 1669. - ⚭ Allert Heixan — Mr. Chirurgijn (master surgeon) at Dronrijp. - Aefcke Pijtrtes (Strikwerda) — b. ± 1672. - ⚭ I Johannes Jans — Mr. Cuyper (master cooper) at Oosterlittens. - ⚭ II Claas Ulbes — at Winsum. - Jacob Durks (Strikwerda) — Farmer and Elder at Winsum. † 1716. - ⚭ Frouck Feddes Buma — probably a daughter, not mentioned in the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel, of Fedde Wijbes Buma and Dirckje Hopperusdr. Reynalda at Sneek. - Durk Jacobs (Strikwerda) — First farmer at Winsum, then at Oosterlittens and later again at Winsum. † in 1746. - ⚭ Iesk Pyters — m. Winsum 27 Sept. 1711. † December 1765. Buried at Oosterlittens 3 January 1766. - Pyter Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Winsum 30 Oct. 1713; the widow was still living in 1778. - ⚭ ? - Jan Pijters Strikwerda — bapt. Winsum 25 Nov. 1742. - Feike Pijters (Strikwerda) — bapt. Winsum 29 Aug^{s} 1745. d. young. - Froukjen Pijters (Strikwerda) — bapt. Winsum 11 June 1747. - Dirk Pijters (Strikwerda) — bapt. Winsum 8 June 1749. † before 22 Dec. 1754. the same bapt. Winsum 22 Dec. 1754. - Wikjen Pijters (Strikwerda) — bapt. Winsum 10 June 1753. d. young. - Jacob Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Winsum 6 Feb. 1715. First farmer at Spannum, later at Lollum. † probably before 29 April 1773. - ⚭ I Marike Cornelis — † before 1759. - Cornelis Jacobs (Strikwerda) — † before 29 April 1773. - ⚭ I Richtje Johannes — † between 1778 and 1783. - ⚭ II Dirk Rienks — farmer at Wommels. m. Wommels 22 Aug^{s}. 1773. He remarried 11/18/25 May 1783 to Akke Sjirks Bouta of Wommels. - Marike Cornelis Strikwerda — bapt. Wommels 29 April 1770. - ⚭ II Ymte Jacobsz. Greijdanus — Schoolmaster at Jorwerd. - ⚭ II Grietje Douwes — of Hijlaard. m. Spannum 1759. Survived her husband. - Tjitske Jacobs (Strikwerda) - ⚭ Pijter Jans - Dirk Jacobs (Strikwerda) — bapt. Spannum 1 May 1757. - Iskjen Jacobs (Strikwerda) — bapt. Spannum Aug^{s} 1765. - Doedtie Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Winsum 29 March 1716. m. in 1752. - ⚭ Hobbe Alberts - Vrouck Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Oosterlittens 8 January 1719. - Wickie Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Oosterlittens 19 Apr. 1722. † before 17 Dec. 1724. - Jan Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Oosterlittens 19 Sept. 1723. † before 7 Nov. 1728. - Wickie Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Oosterlittens 17 Dec. 1724. - Jan Durks (Strikwerda) — bapt. Oosterlittens 7 Nov. 1728. Farmer at Winsum. Was still living 30 May 1790. - ⚭ Trijntie Lammerts — bapt. Spannum 7 Aug^{s} 1735. m. Winsum 10 June 1759. † 1772. - Wikjen Jans Strikwerda — bapt. Winsum 19 Oct. 1760. - ⚭ I Ymte Jacobsz. Greijdanus — Schoolmaster at Jorwerd. - Lammert Jans Strikwerda — bapt. Winsum 12 Aug^{s} 1764. † before 23 January 1768. - Durk Jans Strikwerda — bapt. Winsum 1 Dec. 1765. - Lammert Jans Strikwerda — bapt. Winsum 23 January 1768. - ⚭ Aaltje Sjoerds

Some of the persons mentioned above appear in the two following deeds from the Recesboek (register of judicial decrees) of Hennaarderadeel:

> “15 December 1800. Hanso Godhofridus Gongrip, Deputy Secretary of the Navy at Harling; Godhofridus Cornelis Gongrip, advocate at Leeuwaarden and Hermannus Cannegieter, former Professor Juris Naturie at Franeker, in the name of his wife, together owners and lessors of the farm at Cubaard used by Pieter Jans and his wife as tenants, creditors on account of arrears of rent, and Ymke Greidanus, Schoolmaster at Jorwert, in the name of his wife Marijke Cornelis[1] and in his capacity as father and guardian of his son Jacob Greidanus and in his capacity as authorized representative of Lammert Jans, farmer at Winsum, thus together on account of a registered bond debt of the aforesaid Pieter Jans and his wife, approve and accept the abandonment of goods made by Pieter Jans for himself and warranting for his wife, and the public sale declared by them, in so far as they, the creditors, obtain from the sale to be held their lawful claims with interest, reserving their right in respect of what remains unpaid against Pieter Jans and his wife, especially against that portion of the inheritance which, after the death of the widow of Jacob Durks, in his lifetime farmer at Spannum, is to devolve, be inherited and acquired by the wife and descendants of the aforesaid Pieter Jans, with special protest that in that respect their rights remain intact, since Pieter Jans and his wife, by his conduct in diminishing from time to time the security upon his goods and otherwise, have given their creditors well-founded reason to fear that he will diminish, conceal and squander his goods.”
>
> “31 March 1802. Ynte Greidanus, Schoolmaster at Jorwert, both for himself and in his capacity as father and guardian of his minor son begotten in wedlock by Wieptie Jans, and also in his capacity as authorized representative of Lammert Jans, farmer at Winsum, together with Hendrik Cannegieter in his capacity as ... (there follow the names of the owners mentioned in the previous deed), all arresters, protest through Mesdag as to the effect of the arrest, together with notification, against the heirs of Grietie Douwes, widow of Jacob Durks, and Grietie Douwes, the parties arrested; and Tjeske Jacobs, wife of Pieter Jans, assisted by her said husband in her capacity as heir for $^{1}/_{3}$ of her late father Jacob Durks, at Lollum, the > party notified, that the said share and inheritance be not paid out to the party notified or to anyone on her behalf, nor caused to be paid out, before and until the aforesaid arresters shall have received, 1° 566 £ 15 st. on account of a bond and 299 £ on account of outstanding rent monies."

Jacob Durks was a farmer at Spannum, as appears from the following proclamations in the Proclamatieboeken (registers of property sales) of Hennaarderadeel and Baarderadeel:

> 24 May/21 June/19 July 1752, whereby Jacob Dirksz, farmer near Spannum, and Maria Kornelis, spouses, buy the half of $3^1/_2$ pondemaat of freehold land, of which the other half likewise belongs to the buyers, situated near Kubaard by the Rijdweg, charged with 20 stuivers of tax over the whole, purchased from Dirk Andriesz (probably Dirk Andriesz Namminga), farmer at Oosterlittens, for 142 carolus guilders 10 stuivers.
>
> 4/25 April/9 May 1757, whereby Jacob Dirx, farmer near Spannum, buys $3^1/_2$ pondemaat of pasture freehold land near Winsum, charged with $1^1/_2$ floreen, leased by Pytter Dirx at 17 carolus guilders a year free of charges, having on the South, West and North Mr. U. A. van Burmania and on the East Jelle Taedes, purchased from Trijntje, widow of the Bijsitter H. D. Sjonstra, near Oosterend, for 71 gold guilders 7 stuivers per pondemaat.
>
> 15 April/6/27 May 1761, whereby Jacob Durks, farmer at Spannum, buys $3^1/_2$ pondemaat of freehold land near the village of Cubaardt, (of which the other half belongs in ownership to Tjeerdt Reinders in the name of his wife), from Haitse Atses, master baker at Tjum, for 150 carolus guilders.
>
> Further a proclamation dated 2/30 April/28 May 1766, concerning a purchase by Jacob Durks, farmer at Spannum, of $5^1/_2$ pondemaat of pasture lands situated near the village of Welsrijp, from Johannes Gerlofsma, former Secretary of Barradeel, for 95 gold guilders per pondemaat.
>
> Next a proclamation of 11 July/1 August/15 August 1770, whereby Jacob Dirx, farmer, and Grietie Douwes, spouses at Spannum, buy a house, yard and appurtenances, standing at Spannum by the Noorderbrugge on the Algemeene Vaart and the neighbourhood there, from Yttie Jeltes as heir of the late Trientie Jeltes, widow of Tjeert Dirks, and Trijntie Jacobs, widow of Haije Jans, and Antie Jacobs, wife of Floris Eedes, master carpenter at Harlingen, together heirs of the late Tjeert Dirks, for a sum of 101 gold guilders 7 stuivers.
>
> And finally a proclamation of 3 May/14 June/12 July 1775, whereby Grietie Douwes, widow of Jacob Durks, buys a house, yard and appurtenances standing at Spannum by the Noorderbrugge on the Algemeene Vaart and the neighbourhood, from Gerrit Jans, farmer near Tjum, for 140 carolus guilders.

Wikjen Jans Strikwerda died between 17 August 1784, when her son Jacob was born, and 1 June 1788, the first proclamation of the 2nd marriage of Ymte Greijdanus.

2° Maryke (Marike, Maryken) Cornelis Strikwerda, 29 June 1788 at Jorwerd, as appears from the following marriage entries:

Reformed marriage register of Spannum:

> "/1788/ The marriage banns of Ymte Jacobus Greijdanus > Schoolmaster at Jorwert, and Marijke Cornelis Strikwerda > of Spannum having been proclaimed on three successive Sundays without hindrance in our church, of which the > last was on 15 June, the said persons have requested > a certificate in order to be confirmed in the state of matrimony > at Jorwert."

[1] This is the second wife of Ymte Greydanus; what must be meant is his first wife: Wikjen Jans (Strikwerda), the mother of Jacob Ymtes Greydanus.

Reformed Marriage Register of Jorwerd:

"(1788) Ymte Jacobus Greidanus	were proclaimed here on the 1st, 8th
School Master at Jorwerd,	and 15 June and on the 29th ditto, after Marijke Cornelis Strikwerda	an attestation was received from Spannum, of Spannum	joined here in marriage."

Marijke Cornelis Strikwerda was a daughter of Cornelis Jacobs (Strikwerda) and Richtje Johannes[1] and was born 17 April 1770. Her baptismal entry in the Baptismal Register of the Dutch Reformed congregation of Wommels and Hijdaard (1734—1772) reads as follows:

> "(1770) On 29 April was baptized the child of Cornelus > Jacobs, whose mother is Richtje Johannes > and it is named, born on 17 April > Marijke."

This date of birth agrees with the family note mentioned on page 389, that she died in 1827 at the age of 56 years, and with a corresponding record of the Registry of Births, Deaths and Marriages of Baarderadeel, in which it further states that she died at Jorwerd in the house N° 43, as well as with an entry in the Informatieboek (register of examinations) of that municipality dated 5/13/18 March 1806, concerning an examination of Marijke Strikwerda, aged in her 35th year, wife of Y. Greydanus, School Master at Jorwerd, in the matter of a theft of lace caps by third parties.

Marike Cornelis Strikwerda thus married already at the age of 18 the 33-year-old Ymte Jacobs Greidanus. Her early marriage is explained by the following. When Marike Cornelis Strikwerda was only a few years old, she lost her father, for, according to the Marriage Register of Wommels, her mother Richtsje (Richtje) Johannes remarried on 22 August 1773 to Dirk Rienks (Rients), both at Wommels. Of this couple the following children were baptized at Wommels: Rients (14 August 1774), Johannes (26 May 1776) and Klaas (19 April 1778). Apparently Dirk Rienks (Rients) was also a widower at his marriage contracted in 1773, for on 13 May 1792 one finds at Wommels the baptism of Tyttje, an adult daughter of Dirk Rientses and Tzietske Jacobs, born at Weidum 7 March 1770.

Richt/s/je Johannes seems to have died between the years 1778 and 1783, for according to the Marriage Register of Wommels Dirk Rientzes /re/married on 11/18/25 May 1783 to Akke Sjirks Bouta, both of Wommels.

Already on 29 April 1773, according to the Authorisatieboek (register of guardianship appointments) of Hennaarderadeel, guardians were appointed over Marike Cornelis Strikwerda. On this date, according to the relevant deed, at the request of Ritskie Johannes, widow of the late Cornelis Jacobs, (since she was about to enter into a 2nd marriage with Durk Rienses, farmer under Wommels), the following were appointed curators over her minor daughter Marijke, aged 3 years, begotten in marriage by her late husband Cornelis Jacobs: Jan Durks, farmer under Winsum, and Thiemen Floris, farmer under Hartwert.

The curator Jan Durks (Strikwerda) was a brother of Marike Cornelis Strikwerda's grandfather Jacob Durks (Strikwerda), so that the latter was probably no longer among the living on 29 April 1773. The other curator Thiemen Floris was apparently an uncle by marriage of Marike Cornelis Strikwerda, for, according to the Marriage Register of Parrega, there were married on 6 April 1749 Tijmen Floris, bachelor of Parrega, and Gatske Johannis, young daughter of Folsgara, and, according to the Baptismal and Marriage Register of Burgwerd, Hichtum and Hartwerd, there was baptized on 12 October 1760: Gatse, son of Timen Floris and Gadske Johannes, living in the Buuren of Burgwerd.

Marike Cornelis Strikwerda, who thus retained no memory of her father, lost her mother already as a child, and also had no actual brothers or sisters, will presumably have left the parental home already at a youthful age and therefore already at the age of 18 entered into marriage with Ymte Jacobs Greijdanus, the School Master of Jorwerd.

---

[1] She was a daughter of a cousin of Ymte Greidanus' first wife (see the draft scheme "Strikwerda").

As has been reported on page 389, Marike Cornelis Strikwerda died three weeks before her husband on 6 January 1827 at Jorwerd, where she was also buried.

Concerning the estate of Ymte Greydanus and Maryke Cornelis Strikwerda one finds the following two advertisements in the "Leeuwarder Courant":

In the Supplement of Friday 16 February 1827 N° 14:

> "The Clerk P. Gosliga, at Jorwerd, will on Thursday 22 February of this year, in the morning at 9 o'clock, at the house of the deceased Ymte Greijdanus and Marijke Cornelis Strikwerda, during their lives spouses at Jorwerd, against cash payment, sell by public auction:
> Furniture and household goods, among which a cabinet, four tables, a clock, a tea chest, two mirrors, three beds with their accessories, a cupboard, a chest, chairs, etc., bacon, smoked meat, porcelain, copper, tin and ironwork, as well as 1 harpsichord, and furthermore everything that shall be put up for sale on the aforesaid day."

In N° 84 of Friday 19 October 1827:

> "FINAL AWARD. The Notary J. Kamminga Boltjes, at Jorwerd, appointed hereto by the Court of First Instance at Sneek, will, in the presence of the Justice of the Peace of the Canton Rauwerd, on Monday 5 November 1827, in the afternoon at two o'clock, at the house of M. Oosterhof, innkeeper on the Rijddijk at Weidum, finally sell:
> 1. About 3 hectares 67 sq. rods and 50 sq. ells of most excellent GREIDLAND, under the village of Jorwerd, bordering on the lands situated under Weidum, in use by Johannes Piers Swierstra until St. Peter 1828, on which per $36^{3}/_{4}$ Netherlands rods f 322:50 has been bid.
> 2. The half of a LIVING ROOM, with its SHED and YARD, in the so-called Klooster at Jorwerd, marked with no. 44, in use by the widow of T. G. Bakker until 12 May 1828, on which f 128:24 has been bid.
> Both parcels left by the late Ymte Greijdanus and Marijke Strikwerda, during their lives spouses at Jorwerd."

The above-mentioned greidland was purchased in 1797 by Ymte Greidanus and Marijke Cornelis Strikwerda for 830 goudguldens according to the following proclamation in the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Baarderadeel:

> 17 July/18 Sept./2 Oct. 1797. Ymte Greidanus and Marijke Cornelis, spouses residing at Jorwerd, purchase 10 pondemaat of greidland under Jorwerd, burdened with 3 floreen, leased by Pier I. Gosliga with his wife, yearly for 120 car.gl. free land, obtained by purchase from Ds. Iillardus Penninga, Minister at Jorwerd, for a sum of 830 goudguldens.

The above-mentioned "living room" in the so-called Klooster at Jorwerd was purchased in 1797 by Ymte Greydanus' mother: Aukjen Sijbes, for 99 car.gl. 1 st. (see page 318).

This estate seems to confirm the supposition that Ymte Greydanus and Marike Cornelis Strikwerda belonged to the well-to-do citizens.

CHILDREN:

From the 1st marriage:

Jacob Ymteszoon Greijdanus, who follows under number: 131.

From the 2nd marriage:

1. Cornelis Ymteszoon Greijdanus, who follows under number: 132.
2. Jan Ymteszoon Greijdanus, who follows under number: 133.
3. Jan Ymteszoon Greijdanus, who follows under number: 134.
4. Petrus Ymteszoon Greijdanus, who follows under number: 135.
5. Rigtsje Ymtesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 136.

6. Aukjen Ymtesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 137.
7. Wikjen Ymtesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 138.
8. Antje Ymtesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 139.

Moreover one finds in the Register of deceased persons in Hennaarderadeel 1806—1811, present in the State Archives at Leeuwarden:

> "N° 145, 146 and 147. Three newborn children of Y. Greijdanus at Jorwerd and Maryke Strikwerda 19 December (1807)."

---

68 JOHANNES (JACOBUS') GREIDANUS (GREIJDANUS)

Line of descent: Jacob 35 ← Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1I

b. Mantgum, 20 November 1756 · son of Jacob (Jacobus) Greidanus (Greydanus) (N° 35) and Aukjen Sybes · m. Trijntje Piers Swierstra (Zwierstra), 1780 · m. Tjitske Jacobus Jager, 1880

He was born at Mantgum 20 November 1756 and baptized 5 December following, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed Church book of Mantgum:

> "/1756/ On 5 December baptized the child of Mr. Jacob > Greidanus & Auckjen Siebes, named > Johannes born on 20 November."

According to a "Friesch Comptoir en Gedenkalmanak op het schrikkel-jaar onzes Heeren en Zaligmakers Jesus Christus, 1784" in my possession, Johannes Greidanus was organist at Terband from 1780 onwards.

On 19 January 1790, 19 January 1796 and 20 December 1796 he appears in the Recesboek (register of court decisions) of Aengwirden as administrator of the Parsonage or Ecclesiastical properties in Aengwirden in the matter of the termination of the lease of parsonage land. In this capacity Johannes Greijdanus, schoolmaster at Tjalbert, is sued at law in that same book on 19 December 1797; on 16 January 1798 he appears once more as Mr. Johs Greydanus in qlt and on 17 July 1798 as Johannis Greydanus in qlt..

In an orphans' account in the Weesboeken (orphans' registers) of Aengwirden dated 10 August 1796, concerning the orphans Rindert and Tjitske, children of Hendrik Jacobus at Tjalbert, the following entries occur:

> "6 June 1795. Received from the same (Secr. M. Zijlstra) in order to pay Mr. J. Greydanus the Reele and Specien of May 1795, 39—13—14; > 1796. Received from the same as above (Secr. M. Zijlstra) for payment to I. Greijdanus on account of dredging etc. in the 11 Mad (N° 28 Tjalbert) 12—16—8."
>

These payments to Johannes Greidanus were made by virtue of his office of Ontvanger der onbeschreven middelen (receiver of the indirect excise taxes) over Tjalbert, Gersloot, Luinjebert and Terbant. This function appears namely from two deeds of the Heerenveen Notary Jelle Petrus Jacobus Greydanus, a son of Johannes Greidanus' brother Petrus (Jacobus') Greidanus (N° 64 of this genealogy).

According to the one deed, of 6 March 1810, N° 13, Jacob Gerrits Broers at Tjalleberd stood surety to an amount of 600 cargl. for Johannes Jacobus Greydanus, living at Tjallebert, as Ontvanger der onbeschrevene middelen over Tjalbert, Gersloot, Luinjebert and Terbant, on behalf of and as security for the Kingdom of Holland, — and according to the other deed, of 13 April 1810, N° 35, Tjitske Jacobus, (2nd) wife of Johannes Jacobus Greijdanus, at Tjalbert, assisted by him, stood surety for her husband as receiver of the taxes just mentioned.

In both deeds Johannes Greidanus' brother appears as witness: Petrus (Jacobus') Greidanus (N° 64 of this genealogy).

Johannes Greidanus will have become Schoolmaster, Organist and Precentor at Tjalleberd at the end of 1796, because, according to the advertisement below in the "Friesche Courant" of Saturday 3 September (17 Fructidor) A° 1796, the second Year of Batavian Liberty, these posts then fell vacant:

> "Since the office of ORGANIST, SCHOOLMASTER and PRECENTOR of the Village of Tjalbert cum annexis is falling vacant, the Court of Aengwirden hereby gives notice to all right-thinking, patriotic Citizens who have the required Ability and are inclined to fill that Post, at a very Favourable Salary of 225 Car. guldens, besides free Lodging and further Emoluments, to present themselves before 17 October 1796, in order to let their Gifts of Ability be seen and heard, on Sundays at 9 o'clock in the morning, in the Churches of Aengwirden. — Likewise that those who are inclined and have the necessary Ability to serve as Winter SCHOOLMASTER in the Village of Gersloot, at a Favourable Salary of 40 Car. Guldens besides further Emoluments, are requested to display their Gifts there within that time."

Concerning him the following advertisement is found in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of Friday 28 July 1826, N° 60:

> "The Church Wardens of the Reformed Congregation of Ængwirden, the drawing up of a Register of the owners of the Graves in the various Churchyards belonging to the Congregation, hereby call upon all owners of Graves in the Churchyards of Terband, Luinjebert, Tjallebert, and Gersloot, to submit before 1 September 1826 a statement and proof of this their ownership, as regards Terband, to P. Elzinga at Terbandsterschans, and as regards the three other Churchyards to J. J. Greidanus at Tjallebert. In default of which that ownership will be regarded as forfeited."

In a later advertisement placed on 11 August 1826, N° 64, the words "het opmaken van" (the drawing up of) occurring in the first line have been corrected to "gedenken" (intend).

Besides as "Administrator of the Parsonage or Ecclesiastical properties in Aengwirden", Receiv-

Draft: Fragment Genealogy "Swierstra (Zwierstra)". Belongs with page 395. - Tierck Piers - ⚭ I Rinske Clases — m. Mantgum 20 March 1687. - ⚭ II Grietie Gerbens — m. Mantgum 4 June 1702. - Pier Tjerks (Swierstra) — bapt. Mantgum 30 Aug^{s} 1711. At Mantgum. Church member Mantgum 9 April 1751. † 10 September 1766. - ⚭ Aafke Nannes — of Mantgum. m. Mantgum 31 March 1747. Church member Mantgum 9 April 1751. - Tjerk Piers (Swierstra) — b. ± 1746. Bapt. Mantgum 9 April 1751. Ontvanger (receiver of taxes) of Mantgum. - ⚭ Reinu Gosses Fopma — of Bozum, dau. of Gosse Pieters Fopma, a descendant of the Oosterlittens family "Fopma", which does not appear to be related to the families mentioned on the "Fopma" chart (with page 264). m. in 1775. - Grietje Piers (Swierstra) — b. ± 1749. Bapt. Mantgum 9 April 1751. - Nanne Piers (Swierstra) — b. ± 1750. Bapt. Mantgum 9 April 1751. † Baarderadeel 30 January 1826. - ⚭ Beitske Aukes — of Mantgum. m. Mantgum 5 April 1778. † Mantgum 13 Oct. 1807. - Pierkjen Nannes (Swierstra) — † Hylaard 7 Dec. 1853. - ⚭ Tjeerd Jans Bosma - Klaas Piers (Swierstra) — bapt. Mantgum 27 Febr. 1752. At marriage of Jorwerd. - ⚭ Trijntje Beerns — of Mantgum. m. in 1780. - Aafke Klazes Swierstra — bapt. 6 October 1782. - ⚭ Jan Lazes Heemstra - Grietje - Ayse Piers (Swierstra) — bapt. Mantgum 28 Oct. 1753. Ontvanger (receiver of taxes) of Mantgum. - ⚭ Rixtje Douwes — of Weidum. m. in 1787. - Gerben Piers (Swierstra) — bapt. Mantgum 16 Dec. 1759. - Trijntje Piers Swierstra — bapt. Mantgum 16 Dec. 1759. m. Mantgum 29 Oct. 1780. † Tjalleberd between 1791 and 1800. - ⚭ I Johannes Jacobusz. Greijdanus — b. Mantgum 20 Nov. 1756. Bapt. Mantgum 5 Dec. 1756. Schoolmaster and organist at Tjalleberd. † Tjalleberd 25 Oct. 1850. - ⚭ II Tjitske Jacobus Jager - Johannes Piers (Swierstra) — bapt. Mantgum 13 June 1762. In 1827 farmer under Jorwerd (see pages 393 and 399). - Geertje Piers (Swierstra) — bapt. Mantgum 18 Nov. 1764. † Baarderadeel 29 Oct. 1832. - Gertie Tjerks (Swierstra) — bapt. Mantgum 30 Aug^{s} 1711. m. Mantgum 2 February 1727. - ⚭ Age Claases — of Mantgum. Drowned 1 Nov. 1762.

ger of the unassessed taxes for Tjalbert, Gersloot, Luinjebert and Terbant; Schoolmaster, Organist and Precentor, Johannes Greidanus has also been found as a "veenbaas" (peat works owner). At any rate, in a deed dated 30 June 1842 of the Heerenveen Notary A. R. van Voorst there occurs the name of Johannes Greijdanus, veenbaas at Tjalleberd. This name had been taken over from a deed of purchase and sale of 8/24 February 1817, N^{o} 25, executed before Notary Jelle Petrus Jacobus Greijdanus (N^{o} 115 of the genealogy). Thereby there had been finally awarded about 12 mad (measure of land) of the best klijnland (peat land) in 9 parcels situated in the 10th stelle of the village of Tjalleberd, outside the dike. The sixth parcel of klijnland, about $1^{3}/_{8}$ mad in size, on which Johannes Kelderhuis, Veenbaas at Tjalleberd, had provisionally bid f 2025.75, was finally awarded to Johannes Kelderhuis and Johannes Greijdanus, both veenbazen at Tjalleberd, and Jan Goedkoop, skipper at Zwartsluis, for the same sum of f 2025.75. Besides by Kelderhuis this purchase was signed by "J. J. Greidanus for myself and for Jan Goedkoop".

According to the Reëelcohier (real-estate tax register) of Aengwirden of 1784, Johannes Greidanus lived at Tjalbert in a Vicariehuis (vicarage house) (N^{o} 7).

His signature is found under the marriage certificates of his son Jacobus (Beetsterzwaag-Opsterland — dated 19 December 1816) and of his daughter Tjitske (Aengwirden 23 December 1820). Moreover his handwriting is found in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Aengwirden, which was kept by him in his own hand, after the decease of Ds. M. N. Menkema, from 24 June up to and including 16 September 1792.

According to the Civil Registry of Aengwirden, "Johannes Jacobus Greijdanus, former teacher of the young" died at the age of 93 years "on the 25th of the month of October 1850 late in the evening at half past eleven o'clock at Tjalleberd in the dwelling number 110."

Married:

I^{o} Trijntje Piers Swierstra (Zwierstra), 29 October 1780 at Mantgum.

The relevant marriage entry in the Reformed Marriage Register of Mantgum reads as follows:

> "Johannes Jacobus Greidanus & Trijntje Piers, > both of Mantgum, had their first > marriage proclamation on 15 Octob: 1870, on the 22nd of the same month their second > and on the 29th of the same month their third without any impediment, > and on the last-named day, namely the > 29th Oct: 1780, were married here at Mantgum."

Trijntje Piers Swierstra was a daughter of Pier Tjerks (Swierstra) and Aafke Nannes and was, as appears from the entry given below in the Reformed Church Register of Mantgum and adjacent villages, baptized there on 16 December 1759:

> "/1759/ On 16 December baptized the child of > Pier Tjerks and Aafke Nannes named
> Trijntje."

Trijntje Piers Swierstra died between 6 January 1791 — the birth of her last child — and 29 June 1800, the first proclamation of the intended 2nd marriage of Johannes Greijdanus with Tjitske Jacobusdr. Jager.

Trijntje Piers bore, as appears from the death certificate mentioned hereafter, the family name "Swierstra" ("Zwierstra"). According to the List of Names by Johan Winkler at the back of the Friesch Woordenboek of Waling Dijkstra, this name is a shortening of the originally complete form of the name Hoxwierstra, derived from the name of the state Hoxwier at Mantgum.

In the death certificate of the Civil Registry of Johannes Jacobus Greijdanus dated 25 Oct. 1850 it is stated that he left, among others, 3 children from a first marriage with "Trijntje Piers Zwierstra" (in the Civil Registry certificates concerning her children this name has been corrupted into "Wurstra" and "Wiersma").

On the accompanying draft chart the nearest family of Trijntje Piers is indicated. Her brother Nanne and her sister Geertje are mentioned in the death register of the Municipality of Baarderadeel with the family name "Swierstra", while in the birth registers of that municipality her brothers: Nanne, Klaas, Ayse and Johannes are also found with that surname. A daughter of her brother Klaas, who was married to Trijntje Beerns, was Aafke Klazes, who married Jan Lazes, which couple, at the birth of their daughter Grietje, was registered with the names Jan Lazes Heemstra and Aafke Klazes Swierstra.

2º TJITSKE JACOBUS JAGER, 20 July 1800 in Aengwirden, according to the following entry in the Dutch Reformed marriage register of Aengwirden:

> "(1800) Johannes Jacobus Greidanus of Tjallebird > and Tjitske Jacobus of Terbandt, banns published > on 29 June, 6 & 13 July, and on the 20th of the same month > married at Tjallebird."

Tjitske Jacobus Jager was a daughter of Jacobus Hendriks and Tjietske Hendriks. Her baptismal entry in the church register of the Dutch Reformed congregation of Terband c.a. (1738—1772), kept by the minister at Heerenveen (Aengwirden), reads as follows:

> "1756. On 25 April at Tjalbert a daughter baptized > of Jacobus Hendriks and Tjietske Hendriks, named Tjietske."

Tjitske Jacobus was a sister of Durk Jacobus and Hendrik Jacobus. Durk Jacobus had baptized at Aengwirden in 1784 and in 1788 a daughter Tjitske from a marriage with Pyttje Sakes, and on 24 August 1806, from a 2nd marriage with Egbertje Andries, a son Jacobus, who is entered in the death register of the civil registry of Aengwirden as Jacobus Durks Jager. According to the weesboek (orphans' register) of Aengwirden, Hendrik Jacobus had a daughter Tjitske, over whom on 20 May 1794 Fedde and Claas Claases were appointed guardians.

Tjitske Jacobusdr. Jager was the widow of Jan (Jeen) Engberts, whom she married 28 Maay 1775 at Heerenveen (Aengwirden) (at their marriage both were from Luinjeberd), and from which marriage were baptized, at Tjalbert and at Terband respectively: Janke on 21 April 1783 and Sijte on 18 March 1787.

Among the church council proceedings of Terband one finds the church censure of Tjitske Jacobus (Jager) in the year 1787. She had a quarrel with her first husband Jeen Engberts, who is found as deacon from 1781 to 1784, which ran so high that, in order to have herself separated from him, she called in the intervention of the Dorprechter (village judge), but later she reconciled with her husband and expressed to the church council her regret for the "scandal" she had caused. She was then barred from the Holy Communion for a year.

According to the death register of the civil registry of Aengwirden she died on 13 December 1819 at Tjalleberd at the age of 63 years, leaving 3 children. In the death certificate of her husband Johannes Jacobuszoon Greijdanus she is mentioned with the surname "Jager".

CHILDREN:

from the 1st marriage:

1. Aafke Johannesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 140.
2. Aukjen Johannesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 141.
3. Klaaske Johannesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 142.
4. Jacob Johanneszoon Greijdanus, who follows under number: 143.
5. Trijntje Johannesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 144.

from the 2nd marriage:

Tjitske Johannesdochter Greijdanus, who follows under number: 145.

---

69 DIEUWKE (DIEUKE) GREIDANUS (GREIJDANUS)

Line of descent: Jacob 35 ← Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

She was born at Mantgum 2 and baptized 13 May 1759, according to the following record in the Dutch Reformed church register of Mantgum:

> "(1759)
> On the 13th of May baptized the child of M[r] Jacob Greidanus & Auckjen Siebes, named Dieuwke > born the 2nd of May."

According to the Civil Registry of Harlingen, she died there in the house Wijk G N[O] 69 at 4 o'clock in the morning of the 27th of May 1828.

MARRIED:

Frans Baukeszoon Fopma, 9 April 1780 at Spannum, according to the following entry in the Dutch Reformed marriage register of Spannum:

> "(1780) Frans Baukess Fopma and Dieuke > Greijdanus, both of Spannum > were on the 19th and 26th of March and on the 2nd > of April proclaimed at Spannum and Edens without hindrance, > and on the 9th of the same confirmed at Spannum in the > state of matrimony."

As has been stated on page 386, Dieuwke Greydanus married at Spannum on the same day as her brother Sybe. She had probably moved to Spannum to keep house for her brother, when he had been appointed schoolmaster there on 1 November 1778, and there she will also have come to know her husband Frans Baukeszoon Fopma.

Frans Baukeszoon Fopma appears on the draft fragment-genealogy "Fopma" belonging with page 264, from which it appears that Claaske Baukes Fopma, the first wife of Johannes Greydanus (N° 14 of this genealogy), was a sister of his grandfather.

He was born at Spannum on 16 and baptized on 28 November 1756 as son of: Bauke Fransen Fopma and Seerpjen Douwes Schotanus, which appears from the following entry in the Dutch Reformed baptismal and marriage register of Edens and Spannum:

> "(1756)
> On the 28th of November was baptized at Spannum Frans > (born the 16th of the same) a little son of > Bauke Fransen Fopma and Seerpjen Douwes Schotanus, married couple at Spannum /The > father witness/."

Frans Baukeszoon Fopma became a burgher of Harlingen on 10 May 1792, according to the following record in the "Burgerboek der Stede Harlingen, Aengelecht den 1 April 1683" (burgher book), in which it is stated that he was a native of Bolsward, which however must rest on a mistake, since this ought to be Spannum:

> "the 10th of May 1792
> To Frans Baukes Fopma, native of Bolsward, > the right of burghership was granted, and for that > purpose he took the oath of allegiance into the hands > of the Presiding Burgomaster Harkenroth > and paid the fees f 10—10—."

At Harlingen he was Castelein (innkeeper) in the inn "'t Hof van Friesland", which was situated by the Kerkpoort. This follows from the advertisements below:

"Leeuwarder Saturdagse Courant" N° 2081 of the 16th of June A° 1792:

> "With permission of the Honourable Court of the City of Harlingen, the Castelein Frans B. Fopma intends, in > the inn 't Hof van Vriesland by the Kerkpoort in the aforesaid City, to have played for at kolf, on Wednesday the 20th of June 1792: A pair of > extra fine silver shoe buckles and a pair of ditto breeches buckles as a prize; he commends himself to everyone's favour."

"Leeuwarder Woensdagse Courant", N° 2017, of the 6th of January 1796, The second Year of Batavian Liberty:

> "A person of the Reformed Religion offers himself as coachman or valet, and is master of 3 > languages, namely Dutch, French, Italian; further information may be obtained from the Cas-> telein Frans B. Fopma, in het Hof van Friesland at Harlingen."

"Het Hof van Friesland" with house, garden, summer house and stabling was the property of Frans Baukes Fopma and his wife, as appears from the following advertisements, in which the public sale was announced of the inn cum annexis inhabited by Frans Baukes Fopma cum uxore as owners:

"Leeuwarder Courant" of Saturday 5 January 1799, N° 2423, The fifth Year of Batavian Liberty:

> "Dr. W. J. HANEKUYK will on Wednesdays 16, 23 and 30 January 1799, each time in the evening from 5 to 6 o'clock, at the inscription, raising and final knock-down, at the house of the Castelein (innkeeper) H. Winter in het Heeren Logement at Harlingen, sell:
> I. A very profitable House and Inn cum annexis (Latin: with appurtenances), Het Hof van Friesland by name, with its Garden, Summer house, and Stabling, standing near the Kerkpoort within Harlingen, inhabited by Frans Baukes Fopma cum uxore as owners, free to be entered upon 12 May 1799.
> II. A House standing on the west side of the Brouwersgragt within Harlingen, inhabited by the Sergeant Philip Felker cum soc.
> III. A House and Smithy in the Nieuwstraat within Harlingen, used by Johannes Haantjes in his lifetime."

"Leeuwarder Courant" of Saturday 21 June 1800, N° 2499, The Sixth Year of Batavian Liberty:

> "Dr. W. J. HANEKUYK and the Procureur Fiscaal (public prosecutor) T. STEPHANY at Harlingen intend to sell publicly to the highest bidder with strykgeld (bidding premium):
> A fine House, Inn with covered Kolf court and Garden (Het Hof van Friesland by name) cum omnibus annexis, standing and situated near the Kerkpoort within the said City, such as is now inhabited and used by Frans Baukes Fopma cum uxore as owners, free to be entered upon 12 August 1800.
> Whoever is interested, let him come on Wednesdays 2, 9 and 23 July 1800, at the inscription, raising and final knock-down, at the house of Tjitze Smith, Castelein in de Gouden Leeuw at Harlingen, each time in the evening from 5 to 6 o'clock, and buy on conditions to be read out then, which in the meantime may be learned from the above-mentioned Actuaries."

That the husband of Dieuwke Jacobs Greidanus was indeed Castelein in the inn "'t Hof van Friesland", standing by the Kerkpoort at Harlingen, is further confirmed by the Civil Sentence Books of Harlingen, in which one finds under 13 May 1796 lawsuits between:

1. Frans Baukes Fopma, innkeeper in het Hof van Friesland, standing by the Kerkpoort at Harlingen;
2. Dieuwke Jacobs Greidanus, wife of Frans Baukes Fopma, innkeeper in the inn named 't Hoff van Friesland, standing by the Kerkpoort at Harlingen, against Pietje Pieters, wife of Johannes Haantjes (also called Johannes Panneboeter) there.

Judgment given (Latin) on the facts in due form.

According to the Civil Registry of Harlingen, there died there on 28 August 1826, at 9 o'clock in the evening, Frans Fopma, without occupation, aged 70 years (he was only 69 years old), in the same house Wijk G, N^{o} 69, where Dieuwke Greidanus died.

Frans Baukes Fopma's father: Bauke Franssen Fopma was Kerkvoogd (church warden) at Spannum, as appears from his marriage entry given below in the Reformed marriage register of Edens and Spannum 1693—1810.

> "(1749) Bauke Franssen Fopma Kerkvoogd at Spannum > and Seerpjen Douwes Schotanus also of Spannum were on > 31 August confirmed in the married state at Spannum."

The family coat of arms "Fopma" has already been given on page 265/66.

CHILDREN:

1. Bauke Franses Fopma, who follows under number: 146.
2. Jacob Franses Fopma, who follows under number: 147.
3. Sjerpje Franses Fopma, who follows under number: 148.

---

70 ANTJE GREYDANUS (GREIJDANUS)

Line of descent: Jacob 35 ← Petrus 8 ← Johannes 2 ← Tjaerd 1[I]

b. Mantgum, 24 December 1761 · daughter of Jacob (Jacobus) Greidanus (Greydanus) (N^{o} 35) and Aukjen Sybes · m. Jetze Hommes Kalma, 1793

She was born at Mantgum on 24 December 1761 and baptized there on 3 January 1762, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed church register of Mantgum:

> "(1762) On the 3 Jaÿ was baptized the child of M^{r} Jacob Greidanus & Aukjen Siebes, named Antje b. 24 December 1761."

MARRIED:

JETZE (JETSE) HOMMESZOON KALMA, 29 September 1793 at Mantgum, to which marriage the entries given below relate:

Dutch Reformed marriage register of Jorwerd:

> "Jetze Hommes Kalma of Jorwert and Antje Jacobus Greydanus of Mantgum were proclaimed here on 8, 15 and 22 Sept. 1793 and on the 28th of the same a certificate was given for them to be confirmed in the married state at Mantgum."

Dutch Reformed marriage register of Mantgum:

> "Jetse Hommes Kalma of Jorwert and Antje Jacobs Greijdanus of Mantgum had on Sunday the 8th of Septemb: 1793 > their first marriage proclamation, on Sunday the 15th > of the same their second, and on Sunday the 22nd of the same their third or > last, without any impediment. And, after production > of a sufficient certificate from Jorwert, they were confirmed in their marriage on the 29th of Septemb.
> 1793 at Mantgum."

The baptismal entry of Jetse Hommeszoon Kalma, as son of Homme Dirks Kalma and Hiltje Jacobs, in the Dutch Reformed church register of Boxum and Blessum reads as follows:

> "the 23rd of April baptized at Boxum Jetse > 1758 little son of Homme Dirks and Hiltje > Jacobs."

Jetse Hommeszoon Kalma was a well-to-do farmer at Jorwerd. As appears from the following purchases proclaimed in the proclamatieboek (register of property sales) of Baarderadeel, he was owner of various parcels of pasture land at Jorwerd and Mantgum and of ⅓ part of a farmstead and lands with the proportional share of the house, barn, garden, trees and plantation, cum annexis, situated on the Vennen under Jorwert:

> 24 April/8/22 May 1797. Jetze Hommes and Antje Jacobus Greidanus, spouses under Jorwert, purchase: a. 8 P.M. of pasture land, charged with 3½ floreen, under Mantgum; b. 5 P.M. of pasture land with 2½ floreen, under Mantgum; c. 8 P.M. of pasture land with 3½ floreen, likewise there, the two first parcels being used by Job. Harmens and the last by Johannes Piers[1], acquired by purchase from Nicolaas Pluim, minister at Mantgum[2], for the sum of 1862 goudgl..

> 9/23 Sept./7 Oct. 1805. Jetze Hommes Kalma and Antje Jacobus Greijdanus purchase 9½ P.M. of pasture land, situated under Jorwert, bought from Aukjen Sjoerds, Casteleinsche (innkeeper) at Jorwert, for 2850 car.gl..
> 1/15 May/12 June 1809. Jetze Hommes Kalma and Antje Jacobus Greijdanus purchase ⅙ part of a farmstead and lands with the proportional share of the house, barn, garden, trees and plantation cum annexis, standing and situated on the Vennen under Jorwert, in all 73 P.M. in size, bought from Sijtze Thomas Dotinga, farmer at Rauwert, for a sum of 2400 car.gl..
> 20 November/4/18 December 1809. Purchase as above of a further ⅙ part for 2400 car.gl..

In the Recesboek of Baarderadeel the following has been found concerning Jetze Hommeszoon Kalma:

> 17 September 1792. The merchants de Haan and Gongrijp and company, residing at Sneek, lodge a protest concerning the effect of the attachment against Jetse Hommes, farmer under Jorwert, served by the Executeur (bailiff) of this district in person upon his maidservant named Trijntje Jans, that no monies be paid out to the notified party Pijtter Jentjes, residing at Oosterwierum, or to anyone else on his behalf, on account of work contracted for on the house and barn cum annexis of the party attached by way of repairs, before and until the attaching parties and company shall have been satisfied and paid a sum of 423 car.gl. 10 st. on account of timber delivered.

Further, one finds in the Informatieboek of Baarderadeel dated 16 January 1805: the record of the examination of Antje Jacobus Greijdanus*, wife of* Jetze Hommes*, farmers, residing under Jorwert, aged in her 44th year, in the matter of the failure to report the death of two children of Oebele Gosses, her nearest neighbours. This Oebele Gosses lived in a house belonging to* Jetse Hommes and was his nearest neighbour. They did not live in good harmony with each other, which may perhaps have had to do with the circumstances of the tenants. These will not have paid much rent, for Antje Jacobus Greijdanus declared that when she, with the help of the strong arm of the Dorprechter (village judge) and his assistant, inspected the dwelling, the floor of the room, passage and outhouse had for the greater part been torn out and the family presented a sad sight. To her question where, besides the four who were present, the other two children were, she at last received the answer from the mother: that they were dead and were lying in the drawers of the cabinet; the one child was said to have died already at All Saints, the other at the beginning of the month of December. As reasons for their deeds the parents gave that they were financially not in a position to have the children buried; the man "possessed (too) great obstinacy (to) ask for what was needed", and when in the spring he was earning again by searching for lapwing eggs, the burial could take place. Through the intervention of the poor-law overseers, the children were placed out with others and the parents were taken into custody.

Antje Jacobusdr. Greydanus died at Jorwerd 8/9 October 1826 and her husband Jetze Hommeszoon Kalma there on 5 September 1836.

Concerning their deaths one finds the following family announcements in the "Leeuwarder Courant" of:

---

[1] Possibly Johannes Piers Swierstra, a brother of the first wife of Antje Greydanus' brother Johannes Greydanus (see the scheme "Swierstra" belonging with page 395 and page 393).

[2] See pages 437 and 438.

Friday 13 October 1826 N° 82:

> " ⋆ It has pleased Almighty God, in the past night at 12 o'clock, to tear my beloved wife ANTJE JACOBUS GREYDANUS, at the age of nearly 65 years, from my arms and those of my children, as a result of the bilious disease now prevailing and the dropsy that accompanied it.
> This serves as notice to family and acquaintances.
> Jorwerd JETZE HOMMES KALMA."
> 9 October 1826.

Friday 9 September 1836 N° 73:

> "⋆ This evening at seven o'clock there died, from a slow decline of strength, at the age of seventy-eight years and a good five months, our worthy Father JETZE HOMMES KALMA, in life Farmer at Jorwerd. His industrious life was devoted to the happiness of his children. His loss is heartily mourned by us, and his memory will always be dear to us.
> Boxum, 5 September 1836 — K. J. KALMA, in the name of all.
> This serves as notice to Family and Acquaintances."

The father of Jetze Hommes Kalma, Homme Dirks (Kalma), was a farmer at Boxum.

Of the family "Kalma", with which the family "Greydanus" later formed still further alliances, a draft: fragment-genealogy is included herewith.

CHILDREN:

1. Homme Jetzeszoon Kalma, who follows under number: 149.
2. Jacob Jetzeszoon Kalma, who follows under number: 150.
3. Bouwe Jetzeszoon Kalma, who follows under number: 151.
4. Karsje Jetzeszoon Kalma, who follows under number: 152.
5. Petrus Jetzeszoon Kalma, who follows under number: 153.
6. Durk Jetzeszoon Kalma, who follows under number: 154.

———

The Mantgum Schoolmaster, Dorprechter (village judge), Organist and Sexton Jacobus Petruszoon Greijdanus (N° 35 of this genealogy), married to Aukjen Sybes of Bergum, thus had 4 sons: Petrus, Sybe, Ymte and Johannes, of whom the three last-named were exactly the same as their father, namely schoolmaster, dorprechter (only of Johannes it has not been found that he was dorprechter), organist and sexton, while Petrus too held the offices of organist and sexton. Among their descendants, who by far make up the greatest part of the family “Greijdanus”, a few teachers, organists and sextons are also found; thus Petrus' son Jelle was, besides notary, also organist and sexton, and Ymte's son Petrus was, like his grandfather, schoolmaster and sexton at Mantgum. One may therefore say that the foundation of the largest branch of the family “Greydanus” was laid by a family of schoolmasters, dorprechters, organists and sextons.

———

Children of Grijttje Nijsses (N° 41) and Rense Nijsses Snellius

9II · 3 · 1II

71 TRIJNTJE RENSESDR. (RINSESDR.) SNELLIUS

Line of descent: Grijttje 41 ← Trijntie 9II ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1II

Her baptismal record in the Reformed Baptismal Register of Franeker reads as follows:

> “(1731 the 1st of February)
> Rinse Nijsses has a child baptized named Trijntje.”

She had the following brothers and sister:

> Nijs, baptized at Franeker 15 March 1732; > Aaltje, “ “ “ 8 February 1739;
> and Adolph, “ “ “ 26 September 1744.

Draft: Fragment Genealogy “Kalma”. Belongs with page 400. - Dirk Karsten (Kalma) — First master carpenter at de Wal in Oostermeer, then master carpenter, huisman (farmer), deacon and elder at Irnsum, and finally elder at Boxum. † between 1746 and 1748. - ⚭ Akke Jetzes Wobma — b. ± 1692, dau. of Jetse Jans Wobma and Hiltie Hommes. Was still living at Boxum 1764/1765. - Karsten Dirks (Kalma) — bapt. Oostermeer 16 November 1721. Huisman, deacon and elder at Rauwerd. † Rauwerd 19 September 1792. - ⚭ Reinŭ Jorrits (Wiarda) — bapt. Rauwerd 5 April 1724, dau. of Jorrijt Hijlkes Wiarda and Hendrikje Jacobs. m. (banns proclaimed at Boxum) 12 October 1743. (She is genealogically connected with Pybe Jorrits Wiarda, mentioned in the 7th generation of the noble family Wiarda, included in the Stamboek van den Frieschen Adel). - Homme Dirks (Kalma) — bapt. Rauwerd 2 April 1724. Huisman, deacon and presumably elder at Boxum. † Boxum 17 January 1814. - ⚭ Hiltje Jacobs — dau. of Jacob Sjerps and Tietje Wopkes. m. Boxum 29 July 1752. † Boxum 28 May 1813, aged 85 years. - Dirk Hommes Kalma — bapt. Boxum 7 July 1753. 1783 deacon at Boxum; in 1784 moved to Marssum. † Menaldumadeel 4 June 1814. - ⚭ Yda (Ytie) Arriens Faber — m. Boxum 4/25 April 1784. - Homme Dirks Kalma — at Boxum. [a printed ? stands on the line joining him to this marriage] - Jacob Hommes Kalma — bapt. Boxum 29 September 1754. First farmer and deacon at Boxum, then farmer at Hijlaard. † Hijlaard 12 September 1807. - ⚭ I Jeltje Gjolts (Tadema) — b. ± 1772, dau. of Gjalt Everts Tadema, farmer at Weidum, and Tettje Durks. m. Boxum 11/25 May/6/9 June 1794. † Hijlaard 5 March 1825, aged 53 years. - ⚭ II Jentje Jobs Faber — bapt. Baard 1791, son of Job Jentjes Faber and Antje Sikkes Lantinga. m. Hijlaard 11 June 1809. At Hijlaard. - Hiltje Jacobs Kalma — b. Boxum 12 March 1795. Bapt. Boxum 5 April 1795. † before 16 May 1796. - Hiltje Jacobs Kalma — b. Boxum 30 April 1796. Bapt. Boxum 16 May 1796. m. Baarderadeel (Weidum) 17 May 1817. † Boxum 28 July 1880. - ⚭ Jan Greydanus (N° 134) — son of Ymte Greydanus and Maryke Cornelis Strikwerda. B. Jorwerd 28 July 1793. Bapt. Jorwerd 4 August 1793. Farmer and carpenter at Boxum. † Boxum 5 June 1867. - Tettie (Tetje) Jacobs Kalma — b. Boxum 20 April 1798. Bapt. Boxum 6 May 1798. m. Baarderadeel 17 February 1821. - ⚭ Klaas Hanses de Groot — b. Oosterwierum 16 April 1793, son of Hans Gerbens de Groot and Sjouckjen Dirks (Rollema), farmers there. - Homme Jacobs Kalma — b. Boxum 16 February 1800. Merchant at Boxum. - ⚭ Grietje Hanses de Groot — b. Oosterwierum 13 February 1802, dau. of Hans Gerbens de Groot and Sjouckjen Dirks (Rollema), farmers there. m. Baarderadeel 17 February 1821. - Jeltje Hommes Kalma — b. Boxum 25 Augs 1821. - Akke Jacobs Kalma — b. Boxum 10 June 1802. Bapt. Boxum 4 July 1802. - Gjalt (Jolt) Jacobs Kalma — b. Hijlaard 2 Augs 1803. Bapt. Hijlaard 21 Augs 1803. Farmer at Hijlaard. - ⚭ Tjipkjen Jans de Boer — b. Tersool in the year 1796, dau. of Jan Harmens de Boer, carpenter's journeyman at Poppingawier, and Elske Oepts. m. Baarderadeel 1 July 1826. - Jacob Gjalts Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 19 February 1827. - Elske Gjalts Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 30 May 1828. - Jan Gjalts Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 8 January 1830. - Jeltje Gjalts Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 12 December 1831. - Job Gjalts Kalma — b. Luthewierum 10 June 1834. - Bouwe Gjalts Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 7 November 1840. - Bouwe Jacobs Kalma — b. Hijlaard 22 November 1805. Bapt. Hijlaard 8 December 1805. Farmer at Boxum. - ⚭ Antje Pieters de Jong — b. at Jellum ± 1809, dau. of Pieter Wiltjes de Jong and Maaike Jorrits. m. Menaldumadeel 16 May 1832. - Maike Bouwes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 17 June 1834. - Hiltje Bouwes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 24 January 1837. - Jetze Hommes Kalma — bapt. Boxum 23 April 1758. Farmer at Jorwerd. † Jorwerd 5 September 1836. - ⚭ Antje Greydanus (N° 70) — b. Mantgum 24 December 1761. Bapt. Mantgum 3 January 1762, dau. of Jacob/us/ Greydanus and Aukjen Siebes. m. Mantgum 29 September 1793. † Jorwerd 9 October 1826. - Homme Jetzes Kalma — b. Jorwerd 24 August 1794. Bapt. Jorwerd 14 September 1794. Farmer successively at Boxum, Wons and Jellum. † Jellum 10 May 1835. - ⚭ Jeltje Wybes Rispens — b. ± 1794 at Lutkewierum, dau. of Wiebe Reinders Rispens, schoolmaster at Mantgum, and Hiltje Johannes Bootsma. m. Marssum 17 September 1814. † Jellum 22 January 1839. - Jetze Hommes Kalma — b. Menaldumadeel 22 June 1815. - Jacobus Hommes Kalma — b. Jellum 31 January 1820. Farmer at Mantgum. † Mantgum 16 November 1896. - ⚭ Wikjen Greydanus (N° 243) — b. Mantgum 4 June 1832, dau. of Petrus Greydanus and Ruurdtje Wiersma. m. Weidum 18 May 1853. † Bolsward 20 October 1922. - Antje Hommes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 3 February 1827. - Wijbe Hommes Kalma — † Baarderadeel in 1834. - Hiltje Hommes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 6 June 1830. - Jacob Jetzes Kalma — b. Jorwerd 19 June 1796. Bapt. Jorwerd 10 July 1796. At marriage huisman at Marssum. - ⚭ Fetje Sipkes Feijkema — b. ± 1796 at Jorwerd, dau. of Sipke Annes Feijkema, huisman at Jorwerd, and Martzen Heerkes Goslinga. m. Menaldumadeel 31 May 1818. - Jetze Jacobs Kalma — b. Menaldumadeel 27 June 1819. - Martzen Jacobs Kalma — b. Menaldumadeel 27 January 1822. - Bouwe Jetzes Kalma — b. Jorwerd 26 April 1798. Bapt. Jorwerd 17 May 1798. At marriage huisman at Boxum. - ⚭ Tjitske Nannes Kuperus — b. ± 1795 at Marssum, dau. of Nanne Sjoerds Kuperus, huisman at Marssum, and Hinke Sijbes. m. Menaldumadeel 31 May 1818. - Rindertje Bouwes Kalma — b. 3 July 1821. - Pietje Bouwes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 30 Augs 1823. - Jetze Bouwes Kalma — b. Jellum 8 September 1825. † Jellum 16 September 1825. - Nanne Bouwes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 13 November 1829. - Tjeerdje Bouwes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 28 November 1832. - Karsjen Bouwes Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 25 February 1837. - Karsje Jetzes Kalma — b. Jorwerd 10 January 1801. Bapt. Jorwerd 1 February 1801. At marriage huisman at Boxum. - ⚭ Tjeerdtje Sijbes Sevenster — b. Stiens 11 Augs 1800, dau. of Sijbe Jans Sevenster, huisman at Stiens, and Ymkje Jans Osinga. m. Leeuwarderadeel 15 May 1823. - Petrus Jetzes Kalma — b. Jorwerd 4 July 1802. Bapt. Jorwerd 18 July 1802. Huisman in Baarderadeel. † Jorwerd 20 May 1846. - ⚭ Gelske Douwes Kingma — b. Weidum 6 May 1802, dau. of Douwe Ymkes Kingma, farmer at Weidum, and Akke Pieters Schaafsma. m. Baarderadeel 7 May 1825. † Jorwerd September 1872. - Antje Petrus Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 5 March 1826. - Akke Petrus Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 27 April 1828. - Jetske Petrus Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 9 December 1830. - Douwe Petrus' Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 28 Augs 1833. - Jetze Petrus' Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 1 February 1839. - Ymkjen Petrus Kalma — b. Jorwerd 4 Augs. 1843. - Durk Jetzes Kalma — b. Jorwerd 30 April 1804. Bapt. Jorwerd 21 May 1804. Huisman in Baarderadeel. - ⚭ I Petronella Catharina Sijbrens Hoogenbrug — b. Jorwerd 11 September 1811, dau. of Sijbren Oenes Hoogenbrug, huisman at Jorwerd, and Attje Tjommes (Kingma). m. Baarderadeel 14 February 1829. † Baarderadeel 18 January 1830. - Petronella Catharina Durks Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 6 January 1830. - ⚭ II Hesseltje Sijbrens Hoogenbrug — b. Jorwerd 12 November 1813, dau. of Sijbren Oenes Hoogenbrug, huisman at Jorwerd, and Attje Tjommes (Kingma). m. Baarderadeel 20 November 1830. - Antje Durks Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 13 April 1831. - Atje Durks Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 27 February 1833. - Jetse Durks Kalma — b. Baarderadeel 24 January 1839. - Sjerp (Seerp) Hommes Kalma — bapt. Boxum 2nd day of Whitsun 1764. † Menaldumadeel 15 December 1819. - Karstjen Hommes Kalma — bapt. Boxum 11 March 1770. At Boxum. - ⚭ Eelkjen Jacobus de Vries — m. Boxum 15/22/29 April/6 May 1803. - Homme Karsjens Kalma — b. Boxum 8 July 1806. Bapt. Boxum 24 July 1806. - Jacobus Karsjens Kalma — b. Boxum 20 May 1810. Bapt. Boxum 3 June 1810. At marriage farmer at Boxum. - ⚭ Pietje Feikes Zijlstra — b. ± 1809 at Hallum, dau. of Feike Wijnsens Zijlstra, stoker at Hallum, and Froukje Sjoukes Poelstra. m. Menaldumadeel 20 March 1833. - Eelkjen Jacobus Kalma — b. Menaldumadeel 12 June 1842. † 25 Augs. 1842. - Sjerp Karsjens Kalma — b. Boxum 14 January 1813. At marriage without occupation, at Boxum. - ⚭ Joukje Tjeerds Bosma — b. ± 1816 at Jorwerd, dau. of Tjeerd Jans Bosma and Pierkjen Nannes Swierstra. m. Menaldumadeel 17 May 1837. - Eelkjen Sjerps Kalma — b. Menaldumadeel 22 September 1837. - Pierkje Sjerps Kalma — b. Menaldumadeel 21 January 1840. - Catharina Harmana Kalma — b. Boxum 29 December 1815. - Hiltje Karsjens Kalma — b. Boxum 17 August 1818. - Dirkje Karsjens Kalma — b. Boxum 17 March 1820. - Anna Karsjens Kalma. — b. Boxum 17 March 1820 - Foekje Dirks (Kalma) — bapt. Rauwerd 6 October 1726. † before 28 January 1731. - Bouwe Dirks (Kalma) — bapt. Rauwerd 3 July 1729. † before 14 April 1732. - Foekje Dirks Kalma — bapt. Rauwerd 28 January 1731. - Bouwe Dirks (Kalma) — bapt. Rauwerd 14 April 1732. † before 15 November 1733. - Bouwe Dirks (Kalma) — bapt. Rauwerd 15 November 1733. † before 27 February 1735. - Bouwe Dirks (Kalma) — bapt. Rauwerd 27 February 1735. Huisman at Boxum.

Now in the Municipal Archives of Franeker there is, for the year 1748, a cohier (register) in which a levy was imposed upon the inhabitants of Franeker in connection with the abolition of the tax leases, and in which at the same time the size of the household was recorded, distinguishing between persons above and below 12 years. Under the town quarter: 1e Noord, there appears in this cohier: Rinse Nissens, Master Painter and Glazier, with an assessment of 27—3—.., the household being given as 3 above and 1 below 12 years. By the 3 persons above 12 years must be meant: Rense Nijsses Snellius and his wife Grietje Nijsses, as well as their son Nijs Rinses Snellius, baptized on 15 March 1732, since the latter died only on 10 May 1813. By the person under 12 years one must then have had in mind the daughter Aaltje, since she married in 1768, so that Trijntje and Adolph must have died before 1748. Apparently Trijntje and Adolph Renses had even died before or in 1744, because in the register of the year 1744 concerning the capitals offered, in connection with the abolition of the import duties, under 1e Noord Franeker, Rinse Nissens is found with a household of 4 persons, offering 10 capitals.

---

72 NIJS RENSESZOON SNELLIUS

Line of descent: Grijttje 41 ← Trijntie 9II ← Benedictus 3 ← Tjaerd 1II

b. Franeker, 15 March 1732 · d. Franeker, 10 May 1813 · son of Rense Nijsses Snellius and Grijttje Nijsses (N° 41)

He was baptized at Franeker on 15 March 1732, as appears from the following entry in the Reformed Baptismal Register 1688—1732 of Franeker:

> "1732, the 15th of March > Rinse Nijsses has a child baptized named Nijs".

